8.5. They implicitly waive sovereign immunity and agree to be sued in the courts within the extraterritorial jurisdiction they are illegally operating under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. Chapter 97. Sovereign immunity is ONLY available as a defense against DE JURE government activity in the PUBLIC interest that applies EQUALLY to any and every citizen.

8.6. They may not enforce federal civil law against the party in the foreign jurisdiction that they are illegally enforcing the franchise in.

8.7. If the foreign jurisdiction they are illegally enforcing the franchise within is subject to the constraint that the members of said community MUST be treated equally under the requirements of their constitution, then the franchise cannot make them UNEQUAL in ANY respect. This would be discrimination and violate the fundamental law.

Consistent with the above, below is how the U.S. Supreme Court describes attempts to enforce income taxes against NONRESIDENT parties domiciled in a legislatively foreign state, such as either a state of the Union or a foreign country:

“The power of taxation, indispensable to the existence of every civilized government, is exercised upon the assumption of an equivalent rendered to the taxpayer in the protection of his person and property, in adding to the value of such property, or in the creation and maintenance of public conveniences in which he shares -- such, for instance, as roads, bridges, sidewalks, pavements, and schools for the education of his children. If the taxing power be in no position to render these services, or otherwise to benefit the person or property taxed, and such property be wholly within the taxing power of another state, to which it may be said to owe allegiance, and to which it looks for protection, the taxation of such property within the domicil of the owner partakes rather of the nature of an extortion than a tax, and has been repeatedly held by this Court to be beyond the power of the legislature, and a taking of property without due process of law. Railroad Company v. Jackson, 7 Wall. 262; State Tax on Foreign-Held Bonds, 15 Wall. 300; Tappan v. Merchants' National Bank, 19 Wall. 490, 499; Delaware &c. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 198 U.S. 341, 358. In Chicago &c. R. Co. v. Chicago, 166 U.S. 226, it was held, after full consideration, that the taking of private property [199 U.S. 203] without compensation was a denial of due process within the Fourteenth Amendment. See also Davidson v. New Orleans, 96 U.S. 97, 102; Missouri Pacific Railway v. Nebraska, 164 U.S. 403, 417; Mt. Hope Cemetery v. Boston, 158 Mass. 509, 519.”

[Union Refrigerator Transit Company v. Kentucky, 199 U.S. 194 (1905)]

An example of how the government cannot assign the statutory status of “taxpayer” upon you per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) is found in 28 U.S.C. §2201(a), which reads:

United States Code
TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
CHAPTER 151 - DECLARATORY JUDGMENTS
Sec. 2201. Creation of remedy
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

(a) In a case of actual controversy within its jurisdiction, EXCEPT with respect to Federal taxes other than actions brought under section 7428 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986, a proceeding under section 505 or 1146 of title 11, or in any civil action involving an antidumping or countervailing duty proceeding regarding a class or kind of merchandise of a free trade area country (as defined in section 516A(f)(10) of the Tariff Act of 1930), as determined by the administering authority, any court of the United States, upon the filing of an appropriate pleading, may declare the rights and other legal relations of any interested party seeking such declaration, whether or not further relief is or could be sought. Any such declaration shall have the force and effect of a final judgment or decree and shall be reviewable as such.

Consistent with the federal Declaratory Judgments Act, federal courts who have been petitioned to declare a litigant to be a “taxpayer” have declined to do so and have cited the above act as authority:

Specifically, Rowen seeks a declaratory judgment against the United States of America with respect to “whether or not the plaintiff is a taxpayer pursuant to, and/or under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14).” (See Compl. at 2.) This Court lacks jurisdiction to issue a declaratory judgment “with respect to Federal taxes other than actions brought under section 7428 of the Internal Revenue Code of 1986,” a code section that is not at issue in the instant action. See 28 U.S.C. §2201; see also Hughes v. United States, 953 F.2d. 531, 536-537 (9th Cir. 1991) (affirming dismissal of claim for declaratory relief under § 2201 where claim concerned question of tax liability). Accordingly, defendant’s motion to dismiss is hereby GRANTED, and the instant action is hereby DISMISSED. [Rowen v. U.S., 05-3766MMC, (N.D.Cal. 11/02/2005)]

The implications of the above are that:

1. The federal courts have no lawful delegated authority to determine or declare whether you are a “taxpayer”.
2. If federal courts cannot directly declare you a “taxpayer”, then they also cannot do it indirectly by, for instance:
   2.1. Presuming that you are a “taxpayer”. This is a violation of due process of law that renders a void judgment. Presumptions are not evidence and may not serve as a SUBSTITUTE for evidence.
   2.2. Calling you a “taxpayer” before you have called yourself one.
   2.3. Arguing with or penalizing you if you rebut others from calling you a “taxpayer”.
   2.4. Quoting case law as authority relating to “taxpayers” against a “nontaxpayer”. That’s FRAUD and it also violates Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).
   2.5. Quoting case law from a franchise court in the Executive rather than Legislative branch such as the U.S. Tax Court against those who are not franchisees called “taxpayers”.
   2.6. Treating you as a “taxpayer” if you provide evidence to the contrary by enforcing any provision of the I.R.C., Subtitle A “taxpayer” franchise agreement against you as a “nontaxpayer”.

“Revenue Laws relate to taxpayers [instrumentalities, officers, employees, and elected officials of the national Government] and not to non-taxpayers [state nationals domiciled within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union and not subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the national Government]. The latter are without their scope. No procedures are prescribed for non-taxpayers and no attempt is made to annul any of their Rights or Remedies in due course of law.” [Economy Plumbing & Heating v. U.S., 470 F.2d. 585 (1972)]

Authorities supporting the above include the following:

“It is almost unnecessary to say, that what the legislature cannot do directly, it cannot do indirectly. The stream can mount no higher than its source. The legislature cannot create corporations with illegal powers, nor grant unconstitutional powers to those already granted.” [Gelpcke v. City of Dubuque, 68 U.S. 175, 1863 WL 6638 (1863)]

“In essence, the district court used attorney’s fees in this case as an alternative to, or substitute for, punitive damages (which were not available). The district court cannot do indirectly what it is prohibited from doing directly.” [Simpson v. Sheahan, 104 F.3d. 998, C.A.7 (Ill.) (1997)]

“It is axiomatic that the government cannot do indirectly (i.e. through funding decisions) what it cannot do directly.” [Com. of Mass. v. Secretary of Health and Human Services, 899 F.2d. 53, C.A.1 (Mass.) (1990)]
“Almost half a century ago, this Court made clear that the government “may not enact a regulation providing that no Republican ... shall be appointed to federal office.” Public Workers v. Mitchell, 330 U.S. 75, 100, 67 S.Ct. 556, 560, 91 L.Ed. 754 (1947). What the *78 First Amendment precludes the government2739 from commanding directly, it also precludes the government from accomplishing indirectly. See Perry, 408 U.S., at 597, 92 S.Ct., at 2697 (citing Speiser v. Randall, 357 U.S. 513, 526, 78 S.Ct. 1332, 1342, 2 L.Ed.2d. 1460 (1958)); see supra, at 2735.”

“Similarly, numerous cases have held that governmental entities cannot do indirectly that which they cannot do directly. See *841 Board of County Comm’rs v. Umbehr, 518 U.S. 668, 674, 116 S.Ct. 2342, 235 L.Ed.2d. 843 (1996) (holding that the First Amendment protects an independent contractor from termination or prevention of the automatic renewal of his at-will government contract in retaliation for exercising his freedom of speech); El Dia, Inc. v. Rosello, 165 F.3d. 106, 109 (1st Cir. 1999) (holding that a newspaper could not withdraw advertising from a newspaper which published articles critical of that administration because it violated clearly established First Amendment law prohibiting retaliation for exercising of freedom of speech); North Mississippi Communications v. Jones, 792 F.2d. 1330, 1337 (5th Cir.1986) (same). The defendants violated clearly established Due Process and First Amendment law by boycotting the plaintiffs’ business in an effort to get them removed from the college.”

If you would like further evidence proving that it is a violation of your constitutional rights for the government to associate any civil status against you without your consent, see:

5.4.8.11.18 Jesus refused a domicile, refused to participate in all human franchises, benefits, and privileges, and refused the “civil status” that made them possible

Jesus definitely participated in God’s franchise, being a member of the Holy Trinity. However, he refused to participate in human franchises. It may interest the reader to learn that Jesus had NO civil status under man’s law and refused to participate in any government “benefit”, franchise, or privilege:

The Humbled and Exalted Christ

“Let this mind be in you which was also in Christ Jesus, who, being in the form of God, did not consider it robbery to be equal with God, but made Himself of no reputation, taking the form of a bondservant, and coming in the likeness of men. And being found in appearance as a man, He humbled Himself and became obedient to the point of death, even the death of the cross. Therefore God also has highly exalted Him and given Him the name which is above every name, that at the name of Jesus every knee should bow, of those in heaven, and of those on earth, and of those under the earth, and that every tongue should confess that Jesus Christ is Lord, to the glory of God the Father.”

[Phil 2:5-11, Bible, NKJV]

Below is a famous Bible commentary on the above passage:

“Think of yourselves the way Christ Jesus thought of himself. He had equal status with God but didn’t think so much of himself that he had to cling to the advantages of that status no matter what. Not at all. When the time came, he set aside the privileges of deity and took on the status of a slave, become human! Having become human, he stayed human. It was an incredibly humbling process. He didn’t claim special privileges. Instead, he lived a selfless, obedient life and then died a selfless, obedient death—and the worst kind of death at that—a crucifixion.”

“Because of that obedience, God lifted him high and honored him far beyond anyone or anything, ever, so that all created beings in heaven and on earth—even those long ago dead and buried—will bow in worship before this Jesus Christ, and call out in praise that he is the Master of all, to the glorious honor of God the Father.”

Below is a summary of lessons learned from the above amplified version of the same passage, put into the context of privileges, civil status, and franchises:

1. Jesus forsook having a civil status and the privileges and franchises of the Kingdom of Heaven franchise that made that status possible.
2. He instead chose a civil status lower for Himself than other mere humans below him in status.
3. BECAUSE He forsook the “benefits”, privileges, and franchises associated with the civil status of “God” while here on earth, he was blessed beyond all measure by God.

Moral of the Story: We can only be blessed by God if we do not seek to use benefits, privileges, and franchises to elevate self above anyone else or to pursue a civil status above others.

One cannot be “unspotted from the world” without surrendering and not pursuing any and all HUMAN civil statuses, franchises, or benefits. Those who are Christians, however, cannot avoid the privileged status and office of “Christian” under God’s laws.

The OPPOSITE of being “unspotted from the world” is the following. The pursuit of government “benefits” or the civil status that makes them possible is synonymous with the phrase “your desire for pleasure” in the following passage.

“I’ve had it with you! You’re hopeless, you religion scholars, you Pharisees! Frauds! Your lives are roadblocks to God’s kingdom. You refuse to enter, and won’t let anyone else in either.

“You’re hopeless, you religion scholars and Pharisees! Frauds! You go halfway around the world to make a convert, but once you get him you make him into a replica of yourselves, double-dammed.

“You’re hopeless! What arrogant stupidity! You say, ‘If someone makes a promise with his fingers crossed, that’s nothing; but if he swears with his hand on the Bible, that’s serious.’ What ignorance! Does the leather on the Bible carry more weight than the skin on your hands? And what about this piece of trivia: ‘If you shake hands on a promise, that’s nothing; but if you raise your hand that God is your witness, that’s serious?’ What ridiculous hairsplitting! What difference does it make whether you shake hands or raise hands? A promise is a promise. What difference does it make if you make your promise inside or outside a house of worship? A promise is a promise. God is present, watching and holding you to account regardless.

“You’re hopeless, you religion scholars and Pharisees! Frauds! You keep meticulous account books, tithing on every nickel and dime you get, but on the meat of God’s Law, things like fairness and compassion and commitment—the absolute basics!—you carelessly take it or leave it. Careful bookkeeping is commendable, but the basics are required. Do you have any idea how silly you look, writing a life story that’s wrong from start to finish, nitpicking over commas and semicolons?
"You're hopeless, you religion scholars and Pharisees! Frauds! You burnish the surface of your cups and bowls so they sparkle in the sun, while the insides are maggoty with your greed and gluttony. Stupid Pharisee! Scour the insides, and then the gleaming surface will mean something.

"You're hopeless, you religion scholars and Pharisees! Frauds! You're like manicured grave plots, grass clipped and the flowers bright, but six feet down it's all rotting bones and worm-eaten flesh. People look at you and think you're saints, but beneath the skin you're total frauds.

"You're hopeless, you religion scholars and Pharisees! Frauds! You build granite tombs for your prophets and marble monuments for your saints. And you say that if you had lived in the days of your ancestors, no blood would have been on your hands. You protest too much! You're cut from the same cloth as those murderers, and daily add to the death count.

"Snakes! Reptilian sneaks! Do you think you can worm your way out of this? Never have to pay the piper? It's on account of people like you that I send prophets and wise guides and scholars generation after generation—and generation after generation you treat them like dirt, greeting them with lynching mobs, hounding them with abuse.

"You can't squirm out of this: Every drop of righteous blood ever spilled on this earth, beginning with the blood of that good man Abel right down to the blood of Zechariah, Barachiah's son, whom you murdered at his prayers, is on your head. All this, I'm telling you, is coming down on you, on your generation.

"Jerusalem! Jerusalem! Murderer of prophets! Killer of the ones who brought you God's news! How often I've ached to embrace your children, the way a hen gathers her chicks under her wings, and you wouldn't let me. And now you're so desolate, nothing but a ghost town. What is there left to say? Only this: I'm out of here soon. The next time you see me you'll say, 'Oh, God has blessed him! He's come, bringing God's rule!'"

Keep in mind that the term “hypocrite” is defined in the following passages as “trusting in privileges”, meaning franchises: Jer 7:4; Mt 3:9.

It is also VERY interesting that when Satan wanted to tempt Jesus, He took him up to a high mountain above everyone else and tempted him with a civil status ABOVE everyone else but BELOW Satan, thus making Satan an object of idolatry and worship in violation of the First Commandment within the Ten Commandments.

"Again, the devil took Him [Jesus] up on an exceedingly high [civil/legal status above all other humans] mountain, and showed Him all the kingdoms of the world and their glory. And he said to Him, "All these things ["BENEFITS"] I will give You if You will fall down [BELOW Satan but ABOVE other humans] and worship [serve as a PUBLIC OFFICER] me,"

Then Jesus said to him, "Away with you, Satan! For it is written, 'You shall worship the LORD your God, and Him only you shall serve.'"

[Matt. 4:8-11, Bible, NKJV]

As we described earlier in Section 5.4.8.10.1 through 5.4.8.10.2 the “mountain” mentioned above is symbolic of a political kingdom in competition with God’s kingdom. The preposition “exceedingly high” indicates that Satan wanted his political kingdom to be ABOVE everyone else. The preposition “fall down” indicates that Satan wanted Christ to “worship” and “serve” His political kingdom and to place the importance of God’s kingdom BELOW Satan in his priority list. This would cause Christ to commit idolatry. Idolatry, after all, is nothing more than disordered priorities that knock God out of first place. That is why the Bible often refers to God as “The Most High”:

"You shall have no other gods before Me.

"You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; you shall not bow down to them nor serve them. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commandments."

The phrase “bow down” indicates that you cannot place anything other than God higher than yourself, meaning that God is ALWAYS your first priority as a human being. This, in turn, forbids any civil ruler to be above you and forbids any civil ruler from having superior or supernatural powers in relation to any human beings. Jesus was keenly aware that God and Government are ALWAYS in competition with each other for the affection, obedience, allegiance, and sponsorship of the people. Instead, God’s design for government is to serve from below rather than to rule from above. Below is Jesus’ most important command on the subject of government:

“You know that the rulers of the Gentiles [unbelievers] lord it over them [govern from ABOVE as pagan idols], and those who are great exercise authority over them [supernatural powers that are the object of idol worship]. Yet it shall not be so among you; but whoever desires to become great among you, let him be your servant [serve the sovereign people from BELOW rather than rule from above]. And whoever desires to be first among you, let him be your slave—just as the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many.”

[Matt. 20:25-28, Bible, NKJV]

Jesus kept Himself unsotted from the world by not choosing a domicile there. The phrase “nowhere to lay His head” in the following passage is synonymous with a legal home or domicile.

The Cost of Discipleship

And when Jesus saw great multitudes about Him, He gave a command to depart to the other side. Then a certain scribe came and said to Him, “Teacher, I will follow You wherever You go.”

And Jesus said to him, “Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head.”

[Matt. 8:18-20, Bible, NKJV]

“If you were of the world, the world would love its own. Yet because you are not of [domiciled within] the world, but I [Jesus] chose you [believers] out of the world, therefore the world hates you. Remember the word that I said to you, ‘A [public] servant is not greater than his [Sovereign] master.’ If they persecuted Me, they will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also [as trustees of the public trust]. But all these things they will do to you for My name’s sake, because they do not know Him [God] who sent Me.”

[Jesus in John 15:19-21, Bible, NKJV]

It is perhaps because of the content of this section that Jesus was widely regarded as an “anarchist”. See:

Jesus Is an Anarchist, James Redford

5.4.8.11.19 Satan’s greatest sin was abusing “privileges” and “franchises” to make himself equal to or above God

In the previous section, we showed how Christ refused privileges, benefits, and franchises and insisted on equality towards every other human. In this chapter, we compare that approach to Satan’s approach. It should interest the Christian reader to know that Satan’s greatest sin in the Bible was to abuse the “privileges” and therefore franchises bestowed by God to try to elevate himself to an equal or superior relation to God. By doing so, he insisted on being above every other creation of God, including humans. He did this out of pride, vanity, conceit, and covetousness.

Satan abused the “benefits” of the Bible franchise to try to become superior rather than remain equal to all other humans or believers. Below is what one commentary amazingly says on the subject:

WHAT WAS SATAN’S SIN?

Satan’s sin was done from a privileged position. He was not a deprived creature who had not drunk deeply of the blessings of God before he sinned. Indeed, Ezekiel 28:11–15 declares some astounding things about the privileged position in which he sinned. That this passage has Satan in view seems most likely if one eliminates the idea that it is a mythical tale of heathen origin and if one takes the language at all plainly and not merely as filled with Oriental exaggerations. Ezekiel “saw the work and activity of Satan, whom the king of Tyre was emulating in so many ways.” Satan’s privileges included (1) full measure of wisdom (v. 12), (2) perfection in beauty (v. 12), (3) dazzling appearance (v. 13), (4) a place of special prominence as the anointed cherub that covered God’s throne (v. 14). Verse 15 (ASV) says all that the Bible says about the origin of sin—“till unrighteousness was found in thee.” It is clear, however, that Satan was not created as an evil being, for the verse clearly declares he was perfect when created. Furthermore, God did not make him sin; he sinned of his own volition and assumed full responsibility for that sin; and because of his great privileges, it is obvious that Satan sinned with full knowledge.

Satan’s sin was pride (1 Ti 3:6). The specific details of how that pride erupted are given in Isaiah 14:13–14 and are summarized in the assertion, “I will be like the most High” (v. 14). [Ryrie, C. C. (1972). A survey of Bible doctrine. Chicago: Moody Press]

Christ’s greatest glory, on the other hand, was to do the OPPOSITE of Satan in this regard:

1. Jesus made his own desires and flesh “invisible” and became an agent and fiduciary of God 24 hours a day, 7 days a week:

   “‘Whoever receives this little child in My name receives Me; and whoever receives Me receives Him who sent Me. For he who is least among you all will be great.’”

   “Father, if it is Your will, take this cup away from Me; nevertheless not My will, but Yours, be done.”

   “And the Father Himself, who sent Me, has testified of Me. You have neither heard His voice at any time, nor seen His form.”
   [John 5:37, Bible, NKJV]

   “For I have come down from heaven, not to do My own will, but the will of Him who sent Me.”
   [John 6:38, Bible, NKJV]

   “Then Jesus cried out and said, ‘He who believes in Me, believes not in Me but in Him who sent Me.’”
   [John 12:44, Bible, NKJV]

2. Jesus did NOT abuse the “privileges”, “franchises”, or “benefits” of God to elevate himself in importance or “rights” either above any other human or above God:

   “Think of yourselves the way Christ Jesus thought of himself. He had equal status with God but didn’t think so much of himself that he had to cling to the advantages of that status no matter what. Not at all. When the time came, he set aside the privileges of deity and took on the status of a slave, became human! Having become human, he stayed human. It was an incredibly humbling process. He didn’t claim special privileges. Instead, he lived a selfless, obedient life and then died a selfless, obedient death—and the worst kind of death at that—a crucifixion.”

   “Because of that obedience, God lifted him high and honored him far beyond anyone or anything, ever, so that all created beings in heaven and on earth—even those long ago dead and buried—will bow in worship before this Jesus Christ, and call out in praise that he is the Master of all, to the glorious honor of God the Father.”

Basically, Jesus had a servant’s heart and required the same heart of all those who intend to lead others in government:

   “But you, do not be called ‘Rabbi’; for One is your Teacher, the Christ, and you are all brethren. Do not call anyone on earth your father; for One is your Father, He who is in heaven. And do not be called teachers; for One is your Teacher, the Christ. But he who is greatest among you shall be your servant. And whoever exalts himself will be humbled, and he who humbles himself will be exalted.”
   [Jesus in Matt. 23:8–12, Bible, NKJV]

But Jesus called them to Himself and said to them, “You know that those who are considered rulers over the Gentiles lord it over them, and their great ones exercise authority over them. Yet it shall not be so among you; but whoever desires to become great among you shall be your servant. And whoever of you desires to be first shall be slave of all. For even the Son of Man did not come to be served, but to serve, and to give His life a ransom for many.”
   [Mark 10:42–45, Bible, NKJV. See also Matt. 20:25–28]
Those in government who follow the above admonition in fact are implementing what the U.S. Supreme Court called “a society of law and not men” in Marbury v. Madison. The law is the will of the people in written form. Those who put that law above their own self-interest and execute it faithfully are:

1. Agents and/or officers of We the People.
2. “Trustees” and managers over God’s property. The entire Earth belongs to the Lord, according to the Bible.134
3. Acting in a fiduciary duty towards those who have entrusted them with power.

“As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer.135 Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trusts.136 That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the public entity on whose behalf he or she serves,137 and owes a fiduciary duty to the public.138 It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual.139 Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual [PRIVATE] rights is against public policy.140

[63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]

4. Implementing a “covenant” or “contract” or “social compact” between them and the people. All civil and common law is based on compact.141
5. “Creatures [CREATIONS] of the law” as the U.S. Supreme Court calls them,142
6. Violating their oath and/or covenant if they use the property or rights they are managing or protecting for any aspect of private gain. In fact, 18 U.S.C. §208 makes it a crime to preside over a matter that you have a financial conflict of interest in.

All of the people in the Bible that God got most excited about were doing the above. There are many verses like those below:

1. Lev. 25:42:

“For they are My servants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt; they shall not be sold as slaves.”

2. Lev. 25:55:

“For the children of Israel are servants to Me; they are My servants whom I brought out of the land of Egypt: I am the LORD your God.”

141 "A body politic," as aptly defined in the preamble of the Constitution of Massachusetts, "is a social compact by which the whole people creatures with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good.” [United States v. Winstar Corp., 518 U.S. 839 (1996)]
142 “No man in this country is so high that he is above the law. No officer of the law may set that law at defiance with impunity. All the officers of the government, from the highest to the lowest, are creatures of the law, and are bound to obey it.” [United States v. Lee, 106 U.S., at 220]

3. Numbers 14:24:

“But My servant Caleb, because he has a different spirit in him and has followed Me fully, I will bring into the land where he went, and his descendants shall inherit it.”

4. Joshua 1:2-5:

“Moses My servant is dead. Now therefore, arise, go over this Jordan, you and all this people, to the land which I am giving to them—the children of Israel. Every place that the sole of your foot will tread upon I have given you, as I said to Moses. From the wilderness and this Lebanon as far as the great river, the River Euphrates, all the land of the Hittites, and to the Great Sea toward the going down of the sun, shall be your territory. No man shall be able to stand before you all the days of your life; as I was with Moses, so I will be with you. I will not leave you nor forsake you.”

5. 2 Sam. 3:18:

“Now then, do it! For the LORD has spoken of David, saying, ‘By the hand of My servant David, I will save My people Israel from the hand of the Philistines and the hand of all their enemies.’”

6. 2 Sam. 7:8-9:

“Now therefore, thus shall you say to My servant David, ‘Thus says the LORD of hosts: ‘I took you from the sheepfold, from following the sheep, to be ruler over My people, over Israel. And I have been with you wherever you have gone, and have cut off all your enemies from before you, and have made you a great name, like the name of the great men who are on the earth.’”

God also said that you shall NOT abuse your power or commerce generally to enslave or coerce anyone:

‘If one of your brethren becomes poor [desperate], and falls into poverty among you, then you shall help him, like a stranger or a sojourner, that he may live with you.

Take no usury or interest from him; but fear your God, that your brother may live with you.

You shall not lend him your money for usury, nor lend him your food at a profit.

I am the LORD your God, who brought you out of the land of Egypt, to give you the land of Canaan and to be your God.

And if one of your brethren who dwells by you becomes poor, and sells himself to you, you shall not compel him to serve as a slave.

As a hired servant and a sojourner he shall be with you, and shall serve you until the Year of Jubilee.

And then he shall depart from you—he and his children with him—and shall return to his own family. He shall return to the possession of his fathers.

For they are My servants, whom I brought out of the land of Egypt; they shall not be sold as slaves.

You shall not rule over him with rigor, but you shall fear your God.

[Lev. 25:35-43, Bible, NKJV]

Note above that it says that people who are poor or desperate should be treated not as slaves, but as “sojourners”, which today means “nonresidents” and “transient foreigners”. This is exactly the condition that our members are required to have.

The most famous example in the Bible of the violation of the above prohibition against usury was how Pharaoh used a famine to enslave his entire country, including the Israelites. See Gen. 47:13-26:

Joseph Deals with the Famine

11 Now there was no bread in all the land; for the famine was very severe, so that the land of Egypt and the land of Canaan languished because of the famine. 14 And Joseph gathered up all the money that was found in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan, for the grain which they bought; and Joseph brought the money into Pharaoh’s house.

15 So when the money failed in the land of Egypt and in the land of Canaan, all the Egyptians came to Joseph and said, “Give us bread, for why should we die in your presence? For the money has failed.”

16 Then Joseph said, “Give your livestock, and I will give you bread for your livestock, if the money is gone.” 17 So they brought their livestock to Joseph, and Joseph gave them bread in exchange for the horses, the flocks, the cattle of the herds, and for the donkeys. Thus he fed them with bread in exchange for all their livestock that year.

18 When that year had ended, they came to him the next year and said to him, “We will not hide from my lord that our money is gone; my lord also has our herds of livestock. There is nothing left in the sight of my lord but our bodies and our lands. 19 Why should we die before your eyes, both we and our land? Buy as we and our land for bread, and we and our land will be servants of Pharaoh; give us seed, that we may live and not die, that the land may not be desolate.”

20 Then Joseph bought all the land of Egypt for Pharaoh; for every man of the Egyptians sold his field, because the famine was severe upon them. So the land became Pharaoh’s. 21 And as for the people, he moved them into the cities, from one end of the borders of Egypt to the other end. 22 Only the land of the priests he did not buy; for the priests had rations allotted to them by Pharaoh, and they ate their rations which Pharaoh gave them; therefore they did not sell their lands.

23 Then Joseph said to the people, “Indeed I have bought you and your land this day for Pharaoh. Look, here is seed for you, and you shall sow the land. 24 And it shall come to pass in the harvest that you shall give one-fifth to Pharaoh. Four-fifths shall be your own, as seed for the field and for your food, for those of your households and as food for your little ones.”

25 So they said, “You have saved our lives; let us find favor in the sight of my lord, and we will be Pharaoh’s servants.” 26 And Joseph made it a law over the land of Egypt to this day, that Pharaoh should have one-fifth, except for the land of the priests only, which did not become Pharaoh’s.

Eventually, God liberated the Israelites in the famous story of Moses’ exodus out of Egypt, but not before he brought a series of curses on Pharaoh for his usury in Exodus 4. Another similar source of usury was the Canaanites in the Bible, if you wish to investigate further. We talk about this subject in Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030, Section 22.4. It is very interesting that the above history of usury occurred in the land of Canaan for that very reason.

It is interesting to note that the main political objection that most Muslim countries have to the United States is related to usury created by the abuse of commerce. The Koran forbids lending money at interest. Libya and Iraq both became the target of war and intervention because they wanted to abandon the Federal Reserve fiat currency system and implement gold instead of paper money. Muslims refer to this usury as “imperialism” and literally hate it. Iran’s own leader calls for “death to America” and usury is the main reason he does so. There is no question that the abuse of commerce to create inequality, servitude, and usury is satanic because the Bible says this was the essence of Satan’s greatest sin. The Muslims are correct to PEACEFULLY protest it and oppose it.

“...You were the seal of perfection,
Full of wisdom and perfect in beauty...
...You were in Eden, the garden of God;
Every precious stone was your covering:
The sardius, topaz, and diamond,
Beryl, onyx, and jasper,
Sapphire, turquoise, and emerald with gold.
The workmanship of your timbrels and pipes
Was prepared for you on the day you were created.

14 “You were the anointed cherub who covers;
I established you;
You were on the holy mountain of God;
You walked back and forth in the midst of fiery stones.
15 You were perfect in your ways from the day you were created,
Till iniquity was found in you.

16 “By the abundance of your trading
You became filled with violence within,
And you sinned;
Therefore I cast you as a profane thing
Out of the mountain of God;
And I destroyed you, O covering cherub,
From the midst of the fiery stones.
"Your heart was lifted up because of your beauty;
You corrupted your wisdom for the sake of your splendor;
I cast you to the ground,
I laid you before kings,
That they might gaze at you.

"You defiled your sanctuaries
By the multitude of your iniquities.
By the iniquity of your trading,
Therefore I brought fire from your midst;
It devoured you,
And I turned you to ashes upon the earth
In the sight of all who saw you.
10 All who knew you among the peoples are astonished at you;
You have become a horror,
And shall be no more forever,"
[Ezekiel 28:13-19, Bible, NKJV]

That is not to say that we condone the use of violence or terrorism to oppose usury, however. More peaceful means are available, and especially that of withdrawing our domicile and sponsorship of usurious governments and becoming non-resident non-persons. We talk about this approach in:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

We conclude in the above document that the only way that changing domicile and thereby removing funding and civil jurisdiction from the government can result in violence is if the government actively interferes with you receiving the “benefits” of doing so. When they do that, violence, revolution, anarchy, and even war is inevitable eventually.

We refer to the systematic implementation of usury as the greatest sin of our present government because it was Satan’s greatest sin. The Federal Reserve counterfeiting franchise is its foundation. We describe the government as an economic terrorist, the District of Columbia as the District of Criminals, and politicians as criminals because of it. It’s all based on “the love of money”:

'For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil, for which some have strayed from the faith in their greediness,
[1 Tim. 6:10, Bible, NKJV]

It is our sincere belief that if we as a country had stuck to the requirements of Lev. 25:35-43 earlier in our external relations, the problems we have with terrorism from foreign nations could be significantly reduced. The United States commits usury and economic terrorism against foreign countries, so they reciprocate with violent terrorism, but both types of terrorism are equally evil. The economic interventionism and the coercion that the usury leads to is a direct violation of the requirements of justice itself. “Justice” is legally defined as the right to be left alone. If we want to be “left alone” by the terrorists and treated with respect, then we have to quit meddling in their affairs, invading and bombing their countries mainly for economic reasons, or using our economic might to coerce them with sanctions. You will always reap what you sow.

The United States as a country sows economic violence so we reap physical violence. This is the inevitable consequence of the fact that we are all equal and any attempt to make us unequal inevitably produces wars, violence, anarchy, and political instability:

"Therefore, whatever you want men to do to you, do also to them, for this is the Law and the Prophets."
[Matt. 7:12, Bible, NKJV]

The U.S. Supreme Court stated the above slightly differently, when they declared the first income tax unconstitutional, which was implemented as a franchise tax that discriminated against one class of people at the expense of another and therefore, produced INEQUALITY:

'The income tax law under consideration is marked by discriminating features which affect the whole law. It discriminates between those who receive an income of four thousand dollars and those who do not. It thus vitiates, in my judgment, by this arbitrary discrimination, the whole legislation. Hamilton says in one of his papers, (the Continentalist,) "the genius of liberty reprobrates everything arbitrary or discretionary in taxation. It exacts that every man, by a definite and general rule, should know what proportion of his property the State...

9. APPROACH TOWARDS “HATE SPEECH” AND HATE CRIME

This website does not engage in, condone, or support hate speech or hate crimes, violent thoughts, deeds or actions against any particular person(s), group, entity, government, mob, paramilitary force, intelligence agency, overpaid politician, head of state, queen, dignitary, ambassador, spy, spook, soldier, bowl cook, security flunky, contractor, dog, cat or mouse, Wal-Mart employee, amphibian, reptile, and or deceased entity without a PB (Physical Body). By “hate speech” and “hate crime”, we mean in the context of religious members of this site trying to practice their faith:

1. Compelling members to violate any aspect of the Laws of the Bible, Form #13.001. This includes commanding them to do things God forbids or preventing or punishing them from doing God commands.

2. Persecution or “selective enforcement” directed against those whose religious beliefs forbid them from contracting with, doing business with, or acquiring any civil status in relation to any and all governments. These people must be “left alone” by law and are protected in doing so by the First Amendment and the right to NOT contract protected by the Constitution. The group they refuse to associate with is civil statutory “persons”. We call these people “non-resident non-persons” on this site as described in Form #05.020. See Proof That There Is a “Straw Man”, Form #05.042 for a description of the civil “person” scam.

3. Engaging in legal “injustice” (Form #05.050). By “justice” we mean absolutely owned private property (Form #10.002), and equality of TREATMENT and OPPORTUNITY (Form #05.031) under REAL LAW (Form #05.048). “Justice” is defined here as God defines it in Form #05.020.
4. Any attempt to treat anyone unequally under REAL "law". This includes punishing or preventing actions by members to enforce against governments under their own franchise (Form #06.027) the same way governments enforce against them. See What is "law", Form #05.049.

5. Offering, implementing, or enforcing any civil franchise (Form #05.030). This enforces superior powers on the part of the government as a form of inequality, results in religious idolatry, and violates the First Commandment of the Ten Commandments (Exodus 20). This includes:

5.1 Making justice (Form #05.050) into a civil public privilege

5.2 Turning CONSTITUTIONAL PRIVATE citizens into STATUTORY PUBLIC citizens engaged in a public office and a franchise.

5.3 Any attempt to impose equality of OUTCOME by law, such as by abusing taxing powers to redistribute wealth. See Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302.

Franchises are the main method of introducing UNEQUAL treatment by the government. See Why You Are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006.

6. Any attempt to outlaw or refuse to recognize or enforce absolutely owned private property (Form #12.025). This makes everyone into slaves of the government, which then ultimately owns ALL property and can place unlimited conditions upon the use of their property. It also violates the last six commandments of the Ten Commandments, which are the main religious laws that protect PRIVATE property and prevent it from being shared with any government. This includes:

6.1 Refusing to provide civil statuses on government forms that recognize those who are exclusively private and their right to be left alone.

6.2 Refusing to provide government forms that recognize those who are exclusively private such as "nontaxpayers" or "non-resident non-persons" and their right to be left alone.

The result of the above forms of omission are hate, discrimination, and selective enforcement against those who refuse to become customers or franchisees (Form #05.030) of government. See Avoiding Traps in Government Forms, Form #12.023.

7. Any attempt by government to use judicial process or administrative enforcement to enforce any civil obligation derived from any source OTHER than express written consent or to an injury against the equal rights of others demonstrated with court admissible evidence. See Lawfully Avoiding Government Obligations Course, Form #12.040.

There is no practical difference between discriminating against or targeting people because of the groups they claim membership in and punishing them for refusing to consent to join a group subject to legal disability, such as those participating in government franchises. Members of such DISABILITY groups include civil statutory "persons", "taxpayers", "individually" (under the tax code), "drivers" (under the vehicle code), "spouses" (under the family code). Both approaches lead to the same result: discrimination and selective enforcement. The government claims an exemption from being a statutory "person", and since it is a government of delegated powers, the people who gave it that power must ALSO be similarly exempt:

"The sovereignty of a state does not reside in the persons who fill the different departments of its government, but in the People, from whom the government emanated; and they may change it at their discretion. Sovereignty, then in this country, abides with the constituency, and not with the agent; and this remark is true, both in reference to the federal and state government."

[Spooner v. McConnell, 22 F. 939 @ 943]

"In common usage, the term 'person' does not include the sovereign, and statutes employing the word are ordinarily construed to exclude it."

[Wilson v. Omaha Indian Tribe 442 U.S. 653, 667 (1979)]

"Since in common usage the term 'person' does not include the sovereign, statutes employing that term are ordinarily construed to exclude it."

[U.S. v. Cooper, 312 U.S. 600,604, 61 S.Ct. 742 (1941)]

"In common usage, the term 'person' does not include the sovereign and statutes employing it will ordinarily not be construed to do so."

[U.S. v. Cooper, 312 U.S. 600,604, 61 S.Ct. 742 (1941)]
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren't Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

[Juliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884)]

The foundation of the religious beliefs and practices underlying this website is a refusal to contract with or engage in commerce with any and every government. Black’s Law Dictionary defines “commerce” as “intercourse”.

“Commerce ... intercourse by way of trade and traffic [money instead of semen] between different peoples or states and the citizens or inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it is carried on...”

Hence this website advocates a religious refusal to engage in sex or intercourse or commerce with any government. In fact, the Bible even describes people who VIOLATE this prohibition as “playing the harlot” (Ezekiel 16:41) and personifies that harlot as “Babylon the Great Harlot” (Rev. 17:5), which is fornicating with the Beast, which it defines as governments (Rev. 19:19).

I [God] brought you up from Egypt [slavery] and brought you to the land of which I swore to your fathers; and I said, ‘I will never break My covenant with you. And you shall make no covenant [contract or franchise or agreement of ANY kind] with the inhabitants of this [corrupt pagan] land; you shall tear down their [man/government worshipping socialist] altars. But you have not obeyed Me. Why have you done this?

“Therefore I also said, ‘I will not drive them out before you; but they will become as thorns [terrorists and persecutors] in your side and their gods will be a snare [slavery!] to you.’”

So it was, when the Angel of the LORD spoke these words to all the children of Israel, that the people lifted up their voices and wept.
[Judges 2:1-4, Bible, NKJV]

[James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

[Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

[James 1:27, Bible, NKJV]

[Exodus 20:3, Bible, NKJV]

“Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel [the priest in a Theocracy] at Ramah, and said to him, ‘Look, you [the priest within a theocracy] are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Now make us a king [or political ruler] to judge us like all the nations [and be OVER them]’.

of the people in all that they say to you: for they have rejected Me [God], that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day—\(\text{with which they have forsaken Me [God as their ONLY King, Lawgiver, and Judge] and served other gods—so they are doing to you also [government or political rulers becoming the object of idolatry].}\)

[1 Sam. 8:4-5, Bible, NKJV]

[Execkiel 20:10-20, Bible, NKJV]

Where is “separation of church and state” when you REALLY need it, keeping in mind that Christians AS INDIVIDUALS are “the church” and secular society is the “state” as legally defined? The John Birch Society agrees with us on the subject of not contracting with anyone in the following video:

Trading Away Your Freedom by Foreign Entanglements, John Birch Society

Pastor David Jeremiah of Turning Point Ministries also agrees with us on this subject:

President Obama also said that it is the right of EVERYONE to economically AND politically disassociate with the government so why don’t the agencies of the government recognize this fact on EVERY form you use to interact with them?.

We wrote an entire book on how to economically and politically disassociate in fulfillment of Obama’s promise above, and yet the government hypocritically actively interferes with economically and politically disassociating, in defiance of President Obama’s assurances and promises. HYPOCRITES!

Government’s tendency to compel everyone into a commercial or civil legal relationship (Form #05.002) with them is defined by the Bible as the ESSENCE of Satan himself! The personification of that evil is dramatized in the following video:

Devil’s Advocate: Lawyers
http://sedm.org/what-we-are-up-against/

Therefore, the religious practice and sexual orientation of avoiding commerce and civil legal relationships (Form #05.002) with governments is the essence of our religious faith:

“I [God] brought you up from Egypt [government slavery] and brought you to the land of which I swore to your fathers; and I said, ‘I will never break My covenant [Bible contract] with you. And you shall make no covenant [contract, franchise, ‘social compact’, or agreement of ANY kind] with the inhabitants of this [corrupt pagan] land; you shall tear down their [man/government worshipping socialist] altars.’ But you have not obeyed Me. Why have you done this?

“Therefore I also said, ‘I will not drive them out before you; but they will become as thorns [terrorists and persecutors] in your side and their gods will be a snare [slavery!] to you.’”

So it was, when the Angel of the LORD spoke these words to all the children of Israel, that the people lift up their voices and wept.

[Judges 2:1-4, Bible, NKJV]
“By the abundance of your [Satan’s] trading You became filled with violence within, And you sinned; Therefore I cast you as a profane thing Out of the mountain of God; And I destroyed you, O covering cherub, From the midst of the fiery stones.”

[Emkial 28:16, Bible, NKJV]

1. Nothing is more offensive to God than deceit in commerce. A false balance is here put for all manner of unjust and fraudulent practices [of our public dis-servants] in dealing with any person [within the public], which are all an abomination to the Lord, and render those abominable [hated] to him that allow themselves in the use of such accursed arts of thriving. It is an affront to justice, which God is the patron of, as well as a wrong to our neighbour, whom God is the protector of. Men [in government] make light of such frauds, and think there is no sin in that which there is money to be got by, and, while it passes undiscovered, they cannot blame themselves for it; a blot is no blot till it is hit, Hos. 12:7, 8. But they are not the less an abomination to God, who will be the avenger of those that are defrauded by their brethren.

2. Nothing is more pleasing to God than fair and honest dealing, nor more necessary to make us and our devotions acceptable to him: A just weight is his delight. He himself goes by a just weight, and holds the scale of judgment with an even hand, and therefore is pleased with those that are herein followers of him.

A [false] balance, [whether it be in the federal courtroom or in the government or in the marketplace,] cheats, under pretence of doing right most exactly, and therefore is the greater abomination to God.”

[Matthew Henry’s Commentary on the Whole Bible; Henry, M., 1996, c1991, under Prov. 11:1]

Any individual, group, or especially government worker that makes us the target of discrimination, violence, “selective enforcement”, or hate because of this form of religious practice or “sexual orientation” or abstinence is practicing HATE SPEECH based BOTH on our religious beliefs AND our sexual orientation as legally defined. Furthermore, all readers and governments are given reasonable timely notice that the terms of use for the information and services available through this website mandate that any attempt to compel us into a commercial or tax relationship with any government shall constitute:

2. A waiver of official, judicial, and sovereign immunity.
3. A commercial invasion within the meaning of Article 4, section 4 of the United States Constitution.
4. A cognizable as a Fifth Amendment taking without compensation.
5. A criminal attempt at identity theft by wrongfully associating us with a civil status of “citizen”, “resident”, “taxpayer”, etc.
6. Duress as legally defined, See Affidavit of Duress: Illegal Tax Enforcement by De Facto Officers, Form #02.005.
7. Express consent to the terms of this disclaimer.

The result of the waivers of immunity above is to restore EQUALITY under REAL LAW between members and corrupt governments intent on destroying that equality by offering or enforcing civil franchises. All freedom derives from equality between you and the government in the eyes of REAL law in court. See Requirement for Equal Protection and Equal Treatment, Form #05.033.

The GOVERNMENT crimes documented on this website fall within the ambit of 18 U.S.C. §2381: Treason. The penalty mandated by law for these crimes is DEATH. We demand that actors in the Department of Justice for both the states and the federal government responsible for prosecuting these crimes of Treason do so as required by law. A FAILURE to do so is ALSO an act of Treason punishable by death. Since murder is not only a crime, but a violent crime, pursuant to 18 U.S.C. §1111, then the government itself can also be classified as terrorist. It is also ludicrous to call people who demand the enforcement of the death penalty for the crimes documented as terrorists. If that were true, every jurist who sat on a murder trial in which the death penalty applied would also have to be classified as and prosecuted as a terrorist. Hypocrites.

For those members seeking to prosecute government actors practicing hate speech or hate crime against them, see the following resource:

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The moral of the story is that the main difference between Christ and Satan was how they handled “privileges” and “franchises” and whether they tried to use them as a means to create inequality or usury or slavery or servitude between them and others while they were on the earth.

As we say repeatedly throughout this document, franchises are the main method used to destroy and undermine equality of all under the law. Any attempt to implement them in any governmental system is SATANIC and emulates Satan’s greatest sin. Those in government who institute or enforce franchises will therefore get the same punishment as Satan did for exactly the same reasons.

5.4.8.12 People with either no domicile or a domicile outside the government at the place they live

5.4.8.12.1 Divorcing the “state”: Persons with no domicile, who create their own “state”, or a domicile in the Kingdom of Heaven

If we divorce the society where we were born, do not abandon our nationality and allegiance to the state of our birth, but then choose a domicile in a place other than where we physically live and which is outside of any government that might have jurisdiction in the place where we live, then we become "transient foreigners" and "de facto stateless persons" in relation to the government of the place we occupy.

"Transient foreigner. One who visits the country, without the intention of remaining."

A "de facto stateless person" is anyone who is not entitled to claim the protection or aid of the government in the place where they live:

Social Security Program Operations Manual System (POMS)
RS 02640.040 Stateless Persons

A. DEFINITIONS

DE FACTO—Persons who have left the country of which they were nationals and no longer enjoy its protection and assistance. They are usually political refugees. They are legally citizens of a country because its laws do not permit denaturalization or only permit it with the country’s approval.

2. De Facto Status

Assume an individual is de facto stateless if he/she:

a. says he/she is stateless but cannot establish he/she is de jure stateless; and

b. establishes that:

• he/she has taken up residence [chosen a legal domicile] outside the country of his/her nationality;

• there has been an event which is hostile to him/her, such as a sudden or radical change in the government, in the country of nationality; and

NOTE: In determining whether an event was hostile to the individual, it is sufficient to show the individual had reason to believe it would be hostile to him/her.

• he/she renounces, in a sworn statement, the protection and assistance of the government of the country of which he/she is a national and declares he/she is stateless. The statement must be sworn to before an individual legally authorized to administer oaths and the original statement must be submitted to SSA.
De facto [stateless] status stays in effect only as long as the conditions in b. continue to exist. If, for example, the individual returns [changes their domicile back] to his/her country of nationality, de facto statelessness ends.

"Stateless Persons"

Notice the key attribute of a "de facto stateless person" is that they have abandoned the protection of their government because they believe it is hostile to him or her and is not only not protective, but is even injurious. Below is how the Supreme Court describes such persons:

The writers upon the law of nations distinguish between a temporary residence in a foreign country for a special purpose and a residence accompanied with an intention to make it a permanent place of abode. The latter is styled by Vattel [in his book The Law of Nations as] "domicile," which he defines to be "a habitation fixed in any place, with an intention of always staying there." Such a person, says this author, becomes a member of the new society at least as a permanent inhabitant, and is a kind of citizen of the inferior order from the native citizens, but is, nevertheless, united and subject to the society, without participating in all its advantages. This right of domicile, he continues, is not established unless the person makes sufficiently known his intention of fixing there, either tacitly or by an express declaration. Vatt. Law Nat. pp. 92, 93. Grotius nowhere uses the word "domicile," but he also distinguishes between those who stay in a foreign country by the necessity of their affairs, or from any other temporary cause, and those who reside there from a permanent cause. The former he denotes "strangers," and the latter, "subjects." The rule is thus laid down by Sir Robert Phillimore:

"There is a class of persons which cannot be, strictly speaking, included in either of these denominations of naturalized or native citizens, namely, the class of those who have ceased to reside [maintain a domicile] in their native country, and have taken up a permanent abode in another. These are domiciled inhabitants. They have not put on a new citizenship through some formal mode enjoined by the law or the new country. They are de facto, though not de jure, citizens of the country of their [new chosen] domicile."

[Fong Yue Ting v. United States, 149 U.S. 698 (1893)]

We must remember that in America, the People, and not our public servants, are the Sovereigns. We The People, who are the Sovereigns, choose our associations and govern ourselves through our elected representatives.

"The words 'people of the United States' and 'citizens,' are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who hold the power and conduct the government through their representatives. They are what we familiarly call the 'sovereign people,' and every citizen is one of this people, and a constituent member of this sovereignty."

[Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 143 U.S. 135 (1892)]

When those representatives cease to have our best interests or protection in mind, then we have not only a moral right, but a duty, according to our Declaration of Independence, 1776, to alter our form of self-government by whatever means necessary to guarantee our future security.

"But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce thern under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security."

[Declaration of Independence]

The lawful and most peaceful means of altering that form of government is simply to do one of the following:

1. Form our own self-government based on the de jure constitution and change our domicile to it. See:

   Self Government Federation: Articles of Confederation, Form #13.002
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. Choose an existing government or country that is already available elsewhere on the planet as our protector.

3. Choose a domicile in a place that doesn’t have a government. For instance, choose a domicile somewhere you have been in the past that doesn’t have a government. For example, if you have legal evidence that you took a cruise, then choose your domicile in the middle of the ocean somewhere where the ship went.

4. Use God’s laws as the basis for your own self-government and protection, as suggested in this book.

By doing one of the above, we are “firing” our local servants in government because they are not doing their job of protection adequately, and when we do this, we cease to have any obligation to pay for their services through taxation and they cease to have any obligation to provide any services. If we choose God and His laws as our form of government, then we choose Heaven as our domicile and our place of primary allegiance and protection. We then become:

1. “citizens of Heaven”.

2. “nationals but not citizens” of the country in which we live.

3. Transient foreigners.

4. Ambassadors and ministers of a foreign state called Heaven.

Below is how one early state court described the absolute right to "divorce the state" by choosing a domicile in a place other than where we physically are at the time:

"When a change of government takes place, from a monarchial to a republican government, the old form is dissolved. Those who lived under it, and did not choose to become members of the new, had a right to refuse their allegiance to it, and to retire elsewhere. By being a part of the society subject to the old government, they had not entered into any engagement to become subject to any new form the majority might think proper to adopt. That the majority shall prevail is a rule posterior to the formation of government, and results from it. It is not a rule upon mankind in their natural state. There, every man is independent of all laws, except those prescribed by nature. He is not bound by any institutions formed by his fellowmen without his consent”

[Cruden v. Neale, 2 N.C., 2 S.E. 70 (1796)]

How do we officially and formally notify the “state” that we have made a conscious decision to legally divorce it by moving our domicile outside its jurisdiction? That process is documented in the references below:

1. Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Step 3.13 entitled: Correct Government Records documenting your citizenship status. Available free at:

2. Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005, Section 4.5.3.13. Same as the above item. Available free at:

3. By sending in the Legal Notice of Change in Citizenship/Domicile Records and Divorce from the United States. See:
   Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States, Form #10.001

4. After accomplishing either of the above items, which are the same, making sure that all future government forms we fill out properly and accurately describe both our domicile and our citizenship status, in accordance with section 5.4.8.13.1 later.

5. By making sure that at all times, we use the proper words to describe our status so that we don’t create false presumptions that might cause the government to believe we are “residents” with a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory):

5.1. Do not describe ourselves with the following words:
   5.1.1. “individual” as defined in 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(2) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
   5.1.5. “alien”

5.2. Describe ourselves with the following words and phrases:
   5.2.1. “nontaxpayer” not subject to the Internal Revenue Code. See:
      5.2.1.1. “Taxpayer” v. “Nontaxpayer”, Which One Are You?:
         http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/TaxpayerVNontaxpayer.htm
      5.2.1.2. Your Rights as a “nontaxpayer”, item 5.8
         http://sedm.org/LibertyU/LibertyU.htm
   5.2.2. “nonresident alien” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) IF AND ONLY IF you are engaged in a public office. Otherwise you are a “non-resident non-person” or “transient foreigner”.
   5.2.3. The type of “nonresident alien” defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(1)(i) ONLY IF YOU ARE ENGAGED IN A PUBLIC OFFICE. Otherwise, there is no regulation that describes your status.
   5.2.4. “national” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21), but not “citizen” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401. This person is also described in 8 U.S.C. §1452 if they were born in a U.S. possession.
   5.2.5. Not engaged in a “trade or business” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).
   5.2.6. Have not made any “elections” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B), 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) or (h), or 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(a).
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

“In order to be a citizen of a State within the meaning of the diversity statute, a natural person must both be a citizen of the United States and be domiciled within the State. See Robertson v. Cease, 97 U.S. 646, 648 (1878); Brown v. Keene, 8 Pet. 112, 115 (1834). The problem in this case is that Bettison, although a United States citizen, has no domicile in any State. He is therefore “stateless” for purposes of § 1332(a)(2), which confers jurisdiction in the District Court when a citizen of a State sues aliens only, also could not be satisfied because Bettison is a United States citizen. [490 U.S. 829]”

We emphasize that it isn’t one’s citizenship but one’s choice of legal “domicile” that makes one sovereign and a “nontaxpayer”. The way we describe our citizenship status is affected by and a result of our choice of legal “domicile”, but changing one’s citizenship status is not the nexus for becoming either a “sovereign” or a “nontaxpayer”.

The only legal requirement for changing our domicile is that we must reside on the territory of the sovereign to whom we claim allegiance, and must intend to make membership in the community established by the sovereign permanent. In this context, the Bible reminds us that the Earth was created by and owned by our Sovereign, who is God, and that those vain politicians who claim to “own” or control it are simply “stewards” over what actually belongs to God alone. To wit:

The heavens are Yours [God’s], the earth also is Yours;
The world and all its fullness, You have founded them.
The north and the south, You have created them;
Tabor and Hermon rejoice in Your name.
You have a mighty arm;
Strong is Your hand, and high is Your right hand.”
[Psalm 89:11-13, Bible, NKJV]

“I have made the earth,
And created man on it.
I—My hands—stretched out the heavens,
And all their host I have commanded.”
[Isaiah 45:12, Bible, NKJV]

[Deuteronomy 10:14, Bible, NKJV]

Some misguided Christians will try to quote Jesus, when He said of taxes the following in relation to “domicile”:

“Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.”
[Matt. 22:15-22, Bible, NKJV]

However, based on the scriptures above, which identify God as the owner of the Earth and the Heavens, we must ask ourself:

“What is left that belongs to Caesar if EVERYTHING belongs to God?”

The answer is NOTHING, except that which he STEALS from the Sovereign people and which they don’t force him to return. Jesus knew this, but he gave a very indirect answer to keep Himself out of trouble when asked about taxes in the passage above. Therefore, when we elect or consent to change our domicile to the Kingdom of Heaven, we are acknowledging the Truth and the Authority of the Scripture and Holy Law above and the sovereignty of the Lord in the practical affairs of our daily lives. We are acknowledging our stewardship over what ultimately and permanently belongs ONLY to Him, and not to any man. Governments and civilizations come and go, but God’s immutable laws are eternal. To NOT do this as a Christian amounts to mutiny against God. Either we honor the first four commandments of the Ten Commandments by doing this, or we will be dethroned as His Sovereigns and Stewards on earth.

[1 Kings 11:9-13, Bible, NKJV]

By legally and civilly divorcing the “state” in changing our domicile to the Kingdom of Heaven or to someplace on earth where there is not man-made government, we must consent to be governed exclusively by God’s laws and express our unfailing allegiance to Him as the source of everything we have and everything that we are. In doing so we:

1. Are following God’s mandate not to serve foreign gods, laws, or civil rulers.

   [Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

2. Escape the constraints of earthly civil statutory law. This type of law is law exclusively for government and public officers, so in a sense we are abandoning civil government, any duties under it, and any privileges, public rights, or “benefits” that it conveys based on our civil “status” under it. See:

   Why Civil Statutory Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. Cease to be a statutory “citizen”, “resident”, or “inhabitant”. Instead we become transient foreigners and nonresidents under the civil statutory law.

4. Retain the protections of the Constitution and the common law for our natural rights.

5. Retain the protections of the criminal law. These laws are enforced whether we consent or not.

6. Are not “lawless” or an anarchist in a legal sense, because we are still subject to God’s law, the common law, and the criminal law.

7. Protect and retain our equality, sovereignty, and dignity in relation to every other person under the civil law. The Declaration of Independence calls this our “separate and equal station”.

The above is the nirvana described by the Apostle Paul when he very insightfully said of this process of submission to God the following:

   “But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law [man’s law].”

   [Gal. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

The tendency of early Christians to do the above was precisely the reason why the Romans persecuted the Christians when Christianity was in its infancy: It lead to anarchy because Christians, like the Israelites, refused to be governed by anything but God’s laws:

   “Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, “There is a certain people [the Jews, who today are the equivalent of Christians] scattered and dispersed among the people in all the provinces of your kingdom; their laws are different from all other people’s [because they are God’s laws!], and they do not keep the king’s [unjust] laws. Therefore it is not fitting for the king to let them remain. If it pleases the king, let a decree be written that they be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of those who do the work, to bring it into the king’s treasuries.”

   [Esther 3:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

Christians who are doing and following the will of God are “anarchists”. An anarchist is simply anyone who refuses to have an earthly ruler and who instead insists on either self-governance or a Theocracy in which God, whichever God you believe in, is our only King, Ruler, Lawgiver and Judge:

   Main Entry: an·ar·chy
   Function: noun
   Etymology: Medieval Latin anarchia, from Greek, from anarkos having no [earthly] ruler.
   [Source: Merriam Webster Dictionary]

   [Isaiah 33:22, Bible, NKJV]

For a fascinating read on this subject, see:

   Jesus Is an Anarchist, James Redford
   http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Spirituality/ChurchvState/JesusAnarchist.htm
Christians who are doing the will of God by changing their domicile to Heaven and divorcing the “state” are likely to be persecuted by the government and privileged 501(c )(3) corporate churches just as Jesus was because of their anarchistic tendencies because they render organized government irrelevant and unnecessary:

“If the world hates you, you know that it hated Me before it hated you. If you were of the world, the world would love its own. Yet because you are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the world hates you. Remember the word that I said to you, ‘A servant is not greater than his master,’ If they persecuted Me, they will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also. But all these things they will do to you for My name’s sake, because they do not know Him who sent Me. If I had not come and spoken to them, they would have no sin; but now they have no excuse for their sin. He who hates me hates My father also. If I had not done among them the works which no one else did, they would have no sin; but now they have seen and also hated both Me and My Father. But this happened that the word might be fulfilled which is written in their law, ‘They hated Me without a cause.’”
[John 15:18-25, Bible, NKJV]

Being “chosen out of the world” simply means, in legal terms, that we do not have a domicile here and are “transient foreigners”.

Those who do choose God as their sole source of law and civil (not criminal) government:

1. Become a “foreign government” in respect to the United States government and all other governments.
2. Are committing themselves to the ultimate First Amendment protected religious practice, which is that of adopting God and His sovereign laws as their only form of self-government.
3. Are taking the ultimate step in personal responsibility, by assuming responsibility for every aspect of their lives by divorcing the state and abandoning all government franchises:

   Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

4. Effectively become their own self-government and fire the government where they live in the context of all civil matters.
6. Are protected by the Minimum Contacts Doctrine and therefore exempt from the jurisdiction of federal and state courts except as they satisfy the provisions of the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act or the “Longarm Statute” passed by the state where they temporarily inhabit.
8. Are on an equal footing with any other nation and may therefore assert sovereign immunity in any proceeding against the government. This implies that:
   8.1. Any attempt to drag you into court by a government must be accompanied by proof that you consented in writing to the jurisdiction of the government attempting to sue you. Such consent becomes the basis for satisfying the criteria within the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. Part IV, Chapt. 97.
   8.2. You may use the same defense as the government in proving a valid contractual obligation, by showing the government the delegation of authority order constraining your delegated authority as God’s “public officer”. Anything another government alleges you consented in writing to must be consistent with the delegation of authority order or else none of the rights accrued to them are defensible in court. In this sense, you are using the same lame excuse they use for getting out of any obligations that you consented to, but were not authorized to engage in by the Holy Bible. This is explained in the document below:

   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

10. May not simultaneously act as “public officers” for any other foreign government, which would represent a conflict of interest.

   “No one can serve two masters [two employers, for instance]: for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”
   [Matt. 6:24, Bible, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]

12. May file IRS Form W-8EXP as a “non-resident non-person” and exempt all of their earnings from federal and state income taxation.
13. May use IRS Publication 515 to control their withholding as “nonresident aliens” if engaged in a public office, or must modify all existing forms if not engaged in a public office.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The other very interesting consequences of the above status which makes it especially appealing are the following:

1. Nowhere in the Internal Revenue Code are any of the following terms defined:
   1.1. “foreign”.
   1.2. “foreign government”.
   1.3. “government”.

Therefore, it would be impossible for the IRS to prove that you aren’t a “foreign government”.

2. The most important goal of the Constitutional Convention, and the reasons for the adoption of the Ninth and Tenth Amendment to the United States Constitution was to preserve as much self-government to the people and the states as possible. Any attempt to compel anyone to become a “subject” or accept more government than they need therefore violates the legislative intent of the United States Constitution.

The determination of the Framers Convention and the ratifying conventions to preserve complete and unimpaired state self-government in all matters not committed to the general government is one of the plainest facts which emerges from the history of their deliberations. And adherence to that determination is incumbent equally upon the federal government and the states. State powers can neither be appropriated on the one hand nor abdicated on the other. As this court said in Texas v. White, 7 Wall. 700, 725, “The preservation of the States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the design and care of the Constitution as the preservation of the Union and the maintenance of the National government. The Constitution, in all its provisions, looks to an indestructible Union, composed of indestructible States.’ Every journey to a forbidden end begins with the first step; and the danger of such a step by the federal government in the direction of taking over the powers of the states is that the end of the journey may find the states so despoiled of their powers, or what may amount to the same thing so [298 U.S. 238, 296] relieved of the responsibilities which possession of the powers necessarily enjoins, as to reduce them to little more than geographical subdivisions of the national domain. It is safe to say that if, when the Constitution was under consideration, it had been thought that any such danger lurked behind its plain words, it would never have been ratified.

And the Constitution itself is in every real sense a law-the lawmakers being the people themselves, in whom under our system all political power and sovereignty primarily resides, and through whom such power and sovereignty primarily speaks. It is by that law, and not otherwise, that the legislative, executive, and judicial agencies which it created exercise such political authority as they have been permitted to possess. The Constitution speaks for itself in terms so plain that to misunderstand their import is not rationally possible. ‘We the People of the United States,’ it says, ‘do ordain and establish this Constitution.’ Ordain and establish! These are definite words of enactment, and without more would stamp what follows with the dignity and character of law. The framers of the Constitution, however, were not content to let the matter rest here, but provided explicitly ‘This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; ... shall be the supreme Law of the Land.’ (Const. art. 6, cl. 2.) The supremacy of the Constitution as law is thus declared without qualification. That supremacy is absolute; the supremacy of a statute enacted by Congress is not absolute but conditioned upon its being made in pursuance of the Constitution. And a judicial tribunal, clothed by that instrument with complete judicial power, and, therefore, by the very nature of the power, required to ascertain and apply the law to the facts in every case or proceeding properly brought for adjudication, must apply the supreme law and reject the inferior stat. [298 U.S. 238, 297] uite whenever the two conflict. In the discharge of that duty, the opinion of the lawmakers that a statute passed by them is valid must be given great weight, Adkins v. Children’s Hospital, 261 U.S. 352, 354, 43 S.Ct. 394, 24 A.L.R. 1238; but their opinion, or the court’s opinion, that the statute will prove greatly or generally beneficial is wholly irrelevant to the inquiry. Schechter Poultry Corp. v. United States, 295 U.S. 495, 549, 55 S.Ct. 837, 97 A.L.R. 947. [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238 (1936)]

3. If another government attempts to interfere with the affairs of your own foreign self-government, then they:
   3.1. Are violating your First Amendment right to practice your religion by living under the laws of your God. This tort is cognizable under the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. Chapter 21B and constitutes a tort against the foreign invader.
   3.2. Are hypocrites, because they are depriving others equal right to the same authority that they themselves have. No legitimate government can claim to be operating lawfully which interferes with the equal right of others to self-government.
   3.3. Are in a sense attempting to outlaw the ultimate form of personal responsibility, which is entirely governing your own life and supporting yourself. The outlawing of personal responsibility and replacing or displacing it with collective responsibility of the “state” can never be in the public interest, especially considering how badly our present government mismanages and bankrupts nearly everything it puts its hands on.

5.4.8.12.2 How do “transient foreigners” and “nonresidents” protect themselves in state court?

Now that we understand the differences between those who have contracted to be protected, called “citizens”, “residents”, and “inhabitants”, and those who have not, called “transient foreigners” or “nonresidents”, the next issue we must deal with is to determine how those who are “nonresidents” or “transient foreigners” in relation to a specific state government can achieve a remedy for the protection of their rights in state court. It will interest the reader to learn that “transient foreigners” have the same constitutional protections for their rights as citizens or residents. Here is what the U.S. Supreme Court said on this subject. Those who are “transient foreigners” are STATUTORY “non-resident non-persons” in respect to the governments identified in the cite below. The “aliens” they are talking about are foreign nationals born in foreign countries.

“There are literally millions of aliens within the jurisdiction of the United States[]. The Fifth Amendment, as well as the Fourteenth Amendment, protects every one of these persons from deprivation of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. Wong Yang Sung v. McGrath, 339 U.S. 33, 48-51, 70 S.Ct. 445, 453-455, 94 L.Ed. 616, 627-628; Wong Wing v. United States, 163 U.S. 228, 228, 16 S.Ct. 977, 981, 41 L.Ed. 140, 143; see Russian Fleet v. United States, 282 U.S. 481, 489, 51 S.Ct. 229, 234, 75 L.Ed. 473, 476, Even one whose presence in this country is unlawful, involuntary, or transitory is entitled to that constitutional protection. Wong Yang Sung, supra; Wong Wing, supra.

The fact that all persons, aliens and citizens alike, are protected by the Due Process Clause does not lead to the further conclusion that all aliens are entitled to enjoy all the advantages of citizenship or, indeed, to the conclusion that all aliens must be placed in a single homogeneous legal classification. For a host of constitutional and statutory provisions rest on the premise that a legitimate distinction between citizens and aliens may justify attributes and benefits for one class not accorded to the other; 12 and the class of aliens is itself a heterogeneous multitude of persons with a wide-ranging variety of ties to this country.13” [Mathews v. Diaz, 426 U.S. 67 (1970)]

In order to get to the point where we can identify how remedies for constitutional rights violations are achieved, we must first describe the TWO types of jurisdictions that the state courts exercise, because it is mainly state courts where such rights violations would be vindicated. We don’t have space here to cover all the nuances of this subject, but we will summarize these differences and point you to more information if you want to look into it. There are two types of jurisdictions within each state government:

1. The de jure republic under the Articles of Confederation called the “Republic of ____”. This jurisdiction controls everything that happens on land protected by the Constitution. It protects EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property using ONLY the Common law and NOT civil law.

2. The federal corporation under the United States Constitution called the “State of ____”. This jurisdiction handles everything that deals with government agency, office, employment, "benefits", "public rights", and territory and it's legislation is limited to those domiciled on federal territory or contracting with either the state or federal governments. Collectively, the subject of legislation aimed at this jurisdiction is the "public domain" or what the courts call "publici juris".

The differences between the two jurisdictions above are exhaustively described in the following fascinating document:

In the above document, a table is provided comparing the two types of jurisdictions which we repeat here, extracted from section 14.7. Understanding this table is important in determining how we achieve a remedy in a state court for an injury to our constitutional PRIVATE rights.

When we say that we are a “transient foreigner” or “nonresident” within a court pleading or within this document, we must be careful to define WHICH of the TWO jurisdictions above that status relates to in order to avoid ambiguity and avoid being called “frivolous” by the courts. Within this document and elsewhere, the term “transient foreigner” or “nonresident” relates to the jurisdiction in the right column above but NOT to the column on the left. You can be a “nonresident” of the Corporate state on the right and yet at the same time ALSO be a “citizen” or “resident” of the Republic/De Jure State on the left above. This distinction is critical. If you are at all confused by this distinction, we strongly suggest reading the Corporatization and Privatization of the Government document referenced above so that the distinctions are clear.

The Corporate state on the right above enacts statutes that can and do only relate to those who are public entities (called “publici juris”) that are government instrumentalities, employees, officers, and franchisees of the government called “corporations”, all of whom are consensually associated with the government by virtue of exercising their right to contract with the government. Technically speaking, all such statutes are franchises implemented using the civil law. This is explained further in the following:
The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate private conduct is repugnant to the Constitution. Consequently, the government cannot enact statutes or law of any kind that would regulate the conduct of private parties. Therefore, nearly all civil statutes passed by any state or municipal government, and especially those relating to licensed activities, can and do only relate to public and not private parties that are all officers of the government and not human beings. This is exhaustively analyzed and proven in the following:

We will now spend the rest of this section applying these concepts to how one might pursue a remedy for an injury to so-called “right” within a state court by invoking the jurisdiction of the Republic/De Jure state on the left and avoiding the jurisdiction of the Corporate state on the right.

Civil law attaches to one's voluntary choice of domicile/residence. Criminal law does not. De jure criminal law depends only on physical presence on the territory of the sovereign and the commission of an injurious act against a fellow sovereign on that territory. Laws like the vehicle code do have criminal provisions, but they are not de jure criminal law, but rather civil law that attaches to the domicile/residence of the party within a franchise agreement, which is the “driver license” and all the rights it confers to the government to regulate your actions as a "driver" domiciled in the Corporate state.

Within the forms and publications on this website there are two possible statuses that one may declare as a sovereign:

1. You are a transient foreigner and a citizen of ONLY the Kingdom of Heaven on earth. “My state” in this context means the Holy Bible.
2. You are a state national with a domicile in the Republic/De Jure state but not the Corporate state. "My state" in this context means the de jure state and excludes just about everything passed by the corporate state government, including all franchises such as marriage licenses, income taxes, etc. Franchises cannot lawfully be implemented in the De Jure State but can only occur in the Corporate State.

Both of the above statuses have in common that those who declare themselves to be either cannot invoke the statutory law of the Corporate State, but must invoke only the common law and the Constitution in their defense. There is tons of reference material on the common law in the following:

The following book even has sample pleadings for the main common law actions:

Transient foreigners may not have a domicile or be subject to the civil laws in relation only to the place they have that status, but they don't need the civil laws to be protected. The Constitution attaches to the land, and not the status of the persons on that land.

[Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)]

The Constitution and the common law are the only thing one needs to protect oneself as a PRIVATE and not PUBLIC entity. That is why we place so much emphasis on the common law on this website. Englishman John Harris explains why in the following wonderful video:
Those who are believers AND transient foreigners but not “citizens”, “residents” or “inhabitants” of either the Republic/De Jure State or the Corporate State DO in fact STILL have a state, which is the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth. That state has all the elements necessary to be legitimate: territory, people, and laws. The territory is the Earth, which the Bible says belongs to the Lord and not Caesar. It has people, which are your fellow believers. The laws are itemized in the Holy Bible and enumerated below:

Laws of the Bible, Form #13.001
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

In conclusion, those who are “transient foreigners” or “Nonresidents” in relation to the Corporate state can use the state court for protection, but they must:

1. Be careful to define which of the two possible jurisdictions they are operating within using the documents referenced in this section.
2. Avoid federal court. All federal circuit and district courts are Article IV territorial courts in the executive and not judicial branch of the government that may only officiate over franchises. They are not Article III constitutional courts that may deal with rights protected by the constitution. This is exhaustively proven with thousands of pages of evidence in:
   What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012
   http://sedm.org/ItemInfo/Ebooks/WhatHappJustice/WhatHappJustice.htm
3. Properly declare their status consistent with this document in their complaint. See the following forms as an example how to do this:

   Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status Options, Form #10.003

5. Invoke the common law and not statutory law to be protected.
6. Be careful to educate the judge and the jury to prevent common injurious presumptions that would undermine their status. See:
   Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
7. Follow the rules of pleading and practice for the common law.
8. Ensure that those who sit on the jury have the same status as them by ensuring that those who are statutory “U.S. citizens” or franchise participants are excluded as having a financial conflict of interest.

5.4.8.12.3 Serving civil legal process on nonresidents is the crime of “simulating legal process”

Some freedom lovers try to form their own private courts or grand juries to try or indict offenses against their rights by actors within the de facto government. Such private courts are sometimes called:

2. Ecclesiastical courts in the case of churches.
3. Franchise courts for the regulation of specific activities such as “driving”. This would include family courts, traffic courts, and social security administrative courts.

Those who convene such courts must be careful how they describe their activities to those outside the group, or the participants could be indicted for simulating legal process. Legal process served by these groups can be called by a number of different names, such as the following:

1. Non-statutory abatement.
2. Private Administrative Process (PAP).
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Below is a definition of “simulating legal process”:

“A person commits the offense of simulating legal process if he or she “recklessly causes to be delivered to another any document that simulates a summons, complaint, judgment, or other court process with the intent to . . . cause another to submit to the putative authority of the document; or take any action or refrain from taking any action in response to the document, in compliance with the document, or on the basis of the document.”

[Texas Penal Code Annotated, § 32.48(a)(2)]

Therefore, those forming common law courts or ecclesiastical courts may not use the words “complaint”, “judgment”, “summons” when issuing documents to parties OUTSIDE the group of people who expressly consented to their jurisdiction.

In other words, those who are not in the group or who are not “citizens” within whatever community they have formed, may not receive documents that are connected with any existing state or municipal court or which could be confused with such courts.

Below is one ruling by a Texas court relating to a “simulating legal process” charge against an ecclesiastical court:

Free Exercise of Religion

Government action may burden the free exercise of religion, in violation of the First Amendment, in two quite different ways: by interfering with a believer’s ability to observe the commands or practices of his faith and by encroaching on the ability of a church to manage its internal affairs. Westbrook v. Penley, 231 S.W.3d. 389, 395 (Tex. 2007). In appellant’s pro se motions, he refers to the “exercise of one’s faith.” More specifically, he raised the issue of ecclesiastical abstention in the trial court and cites to cases concerning this doctrine on appeal.

His arguments are directed at the trial court’s jurisdiction over this matter, not the constitutionality of section 32.48. So, it appears the judiciary’s exercise of jurisdiction over the matter, rather than the Legislature’s enactment of section 32.48, is the target of his challenge. We, then, will address that aspect of the constitutional issue he now presents on appeal; we will determine whether the trial court’s exercise of jurisdiction violated appellant’s right to free exercise of religion by encroaching on the ability of his church to manage its internal affairs.

The Constitution forbids the government from interfering with the right of hierarchical religious bodies to establish their own internal rules and regulations and to create tribunals for adjudicating disputes over religious matters. See Serbian E. Orthodox Diocese v. Milivojevich, 426 U.S. 696, 708–09, 724–25, 96 S.Ct. 2372, 49 L.Ed.2d. 151 (1976). Based on this constitutionally-mandated abstention, secular courts may not intrude into the church’s governance of “religious” or “ecclesiastical” matters, such as theological controversy, church discipline, ecclesiastical government, or the conformity of members to standards of morality. See In re Godwin, 293 S.W.3d. 742, 748 (Tex.App.—San Antonio 2009, orig. proceeding).

The record shows that Coleman, to whom the “Abatement” was delivered, was not a member of appellant’s church. That being so, the church’s position on the custody matter is not a purely ecclesiastical matter over which the trial court should have abstained from exercising its jurisdiction. This is not an internal affairs issue because the record conclusively establishes that the recipient is not a member of the church. The ecclesiastical abstention doctrine does not operate to prevent the trial court from exercising its jurisdiction over this matter. We overrule appellant’s final issue.

Therefore, if you form a common law or ecclesiastical court you should be careful to:

1. Draft a good membership or citizenship agreement.
2. Require all members to sign the membership or citizenship agreement.
3. Keep careful records that are safe from tampering.
4. NOT serve “legal process” of any kind against those who are NOT consenting members or citizens.

We take the same position in protecting OUR members from secular courts as the secular courts take toward private courts. The First Amendment requires that you have a right to either NOT associate or to associate with any group you choose INCLUDING, but not limited to the “state” having general jurisdiction where you live. That means you have a RIGHT to NOT be:

1. A “citizen” or “resident” in the area where you physically are.
2. A “driver” under the vehicle code.
3. A “spouse” under the family code.
4. A “taxpayer” under the tax code.

The dividing line between who are “members” and who are NOT members is who has a domicile in that specific jurisdiction.

The subject of domicile is extensively covered in the following insightful document:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

We allege that secular franchise courts such as tax court, traffic court, family court, social security administrative court, and even civil court in your area are equally culpable for the SAME crime of “simulating legal process” if they serve legal process upon anyone who is NOT a “member” of their “state” and who has notified them of that fact. As such, any at least CIVIL process served upon them by secular courts of the de facto government is ALSO a criminal simulation of legal process because instituted against non-consenting parties who are non-residents and “non-members”, just as in the above case. Membership has to be consensual.

The record shows that Coleman, to whom the “Abatement” was delivered, was not a member of appellant’s church. That being so, the church’s position on the custody matter is not a purely ecclesiastical matter over which the trial court should have abstained from exercising its jurisdiction. This is not an internal affairs issue because the record conclusively establishes that the recipient is not a member of the church. The ecclesiastical abstention doctrine does not operate to prevent the trial court from exercising its jurisdiction over this matter.

We overrule appellant’s final issue.

We also argue that just like the above ruling, the secular government in fact and in deed is ALSO a church, as described in the following exhaustive proof of that fact:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

In support of the above, Black’s Law Dictionary defines “franchise courts” such as traffic court and family court as PRIVATE courts:

“Franchise court. Hist. A privately held court that (usu.) exists by virtue of a royal grant [privilege], with jurisdiction over a variety of matters, depending on the grant and whatever powers the court acquires over time. In 1274, Edward I abolished many of these feudal courts by forcing the nobility to demonstrate by what authority (quo warranto) they held court. If a lord could not produce a charter reflecting the franchise, the court was abolished. - Also termed courts of the franchise.

Dispensing justice was profitable. Much revenue could come from the fees and fines and amencements. This explains the growth of the second class of feudal courts, the Franchise Courts. They too were private courts held by feudal lords. Sometimes their claim to jurisdiction was based on old pre-Conquest grants ... But many of them were, in reality, only wrongful usurpations of private jurisdiction by powerful lords. These were put down after the famous Quo Warranto enquiry in the reign of Edward I.” W.J.V. Windeyer, Lectures on Legal History 56-57 (2d ed. 1949).”

As a BARE minimum, we think that if you get summoned into any franchise court for violations of the franchise, such as tax court, traffic court, and family court, then the government as moving party who summoned you should at LEAST have the burden of proving that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED in writing to become a “member” of the group that created the court, such as “taxpayer”, “driver”, “spouse”, etc. and that if they CANNOT satisfy that burden of proof, then:

1. All charges should be dismissed.
2. The franchise judge and government prosecutor should BOTH be indicted and civilly sued for simulating legal process under the common law and not statutory civil law.

5.4.8.13 How the corrupt government kidnaps your identity and your domicile and moves it to the federal zone or interferes with your choice of domicile
Based on the foregoing discussion, it ought to be obvious that the government doesn't want you to know any of the following facts:

1. That all civil jurisdiction originates from your choice of domicile.
2. That all income taxation is a civil liability that originates from your choice of domicile.
3. That domicile requires your consent and is the equivalent of your consent to be civilly governed as required by the Declaration of Independence.
4. That because they need your consent to choose a domicile, they can't tax or even govern you civilly without your consent.
5. That domicile is based on the coincidence of physical presence and intent/consent to permanently remain in a place.
6. That unless you choose a domicile within the jurisdiction of the government that has general jurisdiction where you live, they have no authority to institute income taxation upon you.
7. That no one can determine your domicile except you.
8. That if you don't want the protection of government, you can fire them and handle your own protection, by changing your domicile to a different place or group or government or choosing no domicile at all. This then relieves you of an obligation to pay income taxes to support the protection that you no longer want or need.

Therefore, governments have a vested interest in hiding the relationship of “domicile” to income taxation by removing it or at least obfuscating it in their “codes”. We call this “The hide the presumption and hide the consent game.”

There are many ways that corrupt governments will use to make you LOOK like someone who consented to their jurisdiction or to a civil domicile within their civil jurisdiction. The SEDM sister site has written the following forms that deal with this subject:

1. Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
2. Avoiding Traps in Government Forms, Form #12.023
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

The following subsections deal with the subset of ways that corrupt and covetous governments will use to try to change your domicile without your consent and often without your knowledge.

5.4.8.13.1 Inevitable effects of government interference with your choice of domicile: Anarchy and violence

A very important subject we need to study is:

“What are the legal and political effects when a specific government or actor within that government deliberately or maliciously INTERFERES with or coerces your choice of civil domicile or prohibits specific choices of domicile, such as the Kingdom of Heaven?”

We will answer that question in this section.

First of all, we know that the purpose of the entire separation of powers between various components of government is to protect your PRIVATE or natural rights recognized in the Declaration of Independence.

“We start with first principles. The Constitution creates a Federal Government of enumerated powers. See U.S. Const., Art. I, 8. As James Madison wrote, "[t]he powers delegated by the proposed Constitution to the federal government are few and defined. Those which are to remain in the State governments are numerous and indefinite." The Federalist No. 45, pp. 292-293 (C. Rossiter ed. 1961). This constitutionally mandated division of authority "was adopted by the Framers to ensure protection of our fundamental liberties." Gregory v. Ashcroft, 501 U.S. 452, 458 (1991) (internal quotation marks omitted). "Just as the separation and independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serves to prevent the accumulation of excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front." Ibid.” [U.S. v. Lopez, 514 U.S. 549 (1995)]
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The separation of powers BEGINS with the separation between YOU and GOVERNMENT. Separation between YOU and GOVERNMENT in a legal sense means separation between PRIVATE rights and PUBLIC rights respectively. That separation is exhaustively described in:

Separation Between Public and Private, Form #12.025
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

When there is no separation between YOU and GOVERNMENT, or between PRIVATE and PUBLIC respectively, you become a public officer and government statutory “employee” 24 hours a day, 7 days a week and need permission and DEMONSTRATED legal authority from U.S. Inc. federal corporation to do ANYTHING and EVERYTHING. In that scenario, you are a SLAVE and a vassal and have no “rights”, choice, autonomy, or discretion to speak of. That condition of NO separation between PRIVATE and PUBLIC, by the way, was famously described by U.S. Supreme Court Justice Antonin Scalia as his rendition of hell in its most literal sense from a legal perspective:

“In heaven there will be no law and the Lion will lay down with the lamb. And in hell, there will be nothing BUT law, and due process will be RIGOROUSLY OBSERVED.”

SOURCE: http://famguardian1.org/Mirror/SEDM/Exhibits/EX03.005.wmv]

The above quote by Scalia is an indirect reference to a more famous quote on the same subject. This quote implies that since hell is the MOST corrupt place, it will have INFINITELY many laws.

“The more corrupt the state, the more numerous the laws.”

[Tacitus, Roman historian 55-117 A.D.;
SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/taxfreedom/CitesByTopic/law.htm]

The Thirteenth Amendment outlaws all forms of involuntary servitude, and hence, outlaws any method to compel you to:

1. Surrender any aspect of your PRIVATE status or private rights.
2. Become a compelled PUBLIC officer. This includes a statutory “person”, “citizen”, or “resident”.
3. Accept the duties of a public officer or public agent without your consent.
4. Become surety for public debt. This is called “peonage”. Income taxes, for instance, pay off public debt and “taxpayers” are surety for that debt.144

When anyone in government forces a specific domicile upon you that you don’t want, they are not only engaging in a criminal violation of the Thirteenth Amendment and 18 U.S.C. Chapter 77, but they are also engaging in the legal equivalent of criminal identity theft and human trafficking. The nature of how that identity theft and human trafficking is accomplished is described in:

1. Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046.

144 Below are a few authorities on this subject:

“That it does not conflict with the Thirteenth Amendment, which abolished slavery and involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, is too clear for argument. Slavery implies involuntary servitude—a state of bondage; the ownership of mankind as a chattel, or at least the control of the labor and services of one man for the benefit of another, and the absence of a legal right to the disposal of his own person, property, and services [in their entirety]. This amendment was said in the Slaughter House Cases, 16 Wall, 36, to have been intended primarily to abolish slavery, as it had been previously known in this country, and that it equally forbade Mexican peonage or the Chinese coolie trade, when they amounted to slavery or involuntary servitude and that the use of the word ‘servitude’ was intended to prohibit the use of all forms of involuntary slavery, of whatever class or name.”

peonage I a: the use of laborers bound in servitude because of debt b: a system of convict labor by which convicts are leased to contractors 2: the condition of a peon.

peon 3 a: a person held in compulsory servitude to a master for the working out of an indebtedness b: DRUDGE, MENIAL

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The inevitable result of the government slavery, identity theft, and human trafficking described above will inevitably be anarchy and violence. Why? Because withdrawing or withholding one’s domicile and funding to the government is the only way to peacefully and lawfully seek a PEACEFUL remedy for government abuse:

“If money is wanted by Rulers who have in any manner oppressed the People, [the People] may retain [their money] until their grievances are redressed, and thus peaceably procure relief, without trusting to despised petitions or disturbing the public tranquility.”

[Journals of the Continental Congress, Wednesday, October 26, 1774; SOURCE: http://memory.loc.gov/cgi-bin/query/r?ammem/hlaw:@field(DOCID+@lit(jc00142))]}

The above mechanism is the SAME mechanism and the ONLY peaceful mechanism mentioned in the Declaration of Independence of procuring relief WITHOUT violence:

“But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.”

The “guards for their future security” described are SELF-GOVERNMENT and the privatization of government services so that the tyrannical government is no longer funded to perform them. These privatized government services are paid for with the money removed from the tyrant government and diverted to a better government. Since domicile is the means used to justify the need to pay for the services, then we just shift our domicile from the TYRANT government to the competitor that we want. The Declaration of Independence even makes it our DUTY to do that. Any judge or politician who interferes with us doing that, in fact is committing TREASON punishable by death. 18 U.S.C. §2381: Treason.

There are those who would say that the Declaration of Independence is not “law” that can be used to obligate anyone. However, they are simply WRONG. The Declaration of Independence was enacted into law by the first official act of the brand new Congress of the United States. You can find that enactment on the FIRST page of the Statutes At Large, in fact. Anyone who says it ISN’T law is therefore LYING. Judge Andrew Napolitano, in fact, says the Declaration of Independence is the most violated law ever enacted!

Judge Andrew Napolitano says the Declaration of Independence is LAW enacted by Congress. SEDM Exhibit #03.006 http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm

An inability to lawfully stop participating in or subsidizing an abusive government guarantees that no peaceful remedy, including a remedy in court, is rationally possible. The only thing left when all peaceful remedies are destroyed is violence and political revolution. The violent American Revolution was made inevitable and certain precisely because of this exact problem. The anarchy that ensues FROM that violence and revolution will therefore ALSO be inevitable. That, folks, is exactly what we are headed for because the same problem repeats itself again today.

History is repeating itself and another revolution is inevitable. Look at the reasons given in the Declaration of Independence for the separation from Great Britain:

> He has erected a multitude of New Offices [PUBLIC offices and franchises], and sent hither swarms of Officers to harrass our people, and eat out their substance.

> He has combined with others to subject us to a jurisdiction foreign to our constitution, and unacknowledged by our laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation:

> [ . . . ]

> For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent:

> [ . . . ]

> He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us.

1. The offices they are talking about include public offices created through franchises. The purpose of all civil franchises is to raise revenue, not to protect or help people who do not want to be helped. See: Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. The “jurisdiction foreign” they are talking about is the laws of what Mark Twain calls “the District of Criminals”.

“All men’s life, liberty, or property are safe while the legislature is in session.”
[Mark Twain]

“Suppose you were an idiot. And suppose you were a member of Congress. But I repeat myself.”
[Mark Twain]

“There is no distinctly native American criminal class save congress.”
[Mark Twain]

“Behold, I will make My words in your mouth fire, And this people wood, And it shall devour them.
Behold, I will bring a [foreign] nation [in the District of Columbia, Washington D.C.] against you from afar, O house of Israel,” says the LORD.
“IT is a mighty nation, It is an ancient nation, A nation whose language [legalese] you do not know, Nor can you understand what they say [in their deceitful laws].
Their quiver is like an open tomb; They are all mighty [deceitful] men.
And they [and the IRS, their henchmen] shall eat up your harvest and your bread, Which your sons and daughters should eat.
They shall eat up your flocks and your herds;
They shall eat up your vines and your fig trees;
They shall destroy your fortified cities [and businesses and families], In which you trust, with the sword.
[Jeremiah 5:14-17, Bible, NKJV]
3. “imposing Taxes on us without our Consent” refers to the current income tax system, which you aren’t allowed to exit by removing your civil domicile, even though there is voluminous precedent authorizing this fact.

4. The “declaring us out of his Protection” above refers to the fact that the ONLY thing government protects is itself, and the law is an excuse to persecute anyone who doesn’t want to participate or wishes to remain a “non-resident non-person”.
Those people are supposed to be protected by the common law and Constitution, and by refusing to enforce either against government actors, they are withdrawing PRIVATE people from the protection of the government FROM the government. Governments that only protect themselves and use the law as an excuse to persecute political enemies or dissidents are called a de facto government. That government is described below:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Below are the reasons WHY the Declaration of Independence had to be signed, penned at the first meeting of the Continental Congress two years before the Declaration of Independence was signed:

“Whereas, since the close of the last war, the British parliament, claiming a power, of right, to bind the people of America by statutes in all cases whatsoever, hath, in some acts, expressly imposed taxes on them, and in others, under various presences, but in fact for the purpose of raising a revenue, hath imposed rates and duties payable in these colonies, established a board of commissioners, with unconstitutional powers, and extended the jurisdiction of courts of admiralty, not only for collecting the said duties, but for the trial of causes merely arising within the bounds of a country:”
[Declaration and Resolves of the First Continental Congress, October 14, 1774
SOURCE: http://avalon.law.yale.edu/18th_century/resolves.asp

Note the key language below:

“British parliament, claiming a power, of right, to bind the people of America by statutes in all cases whatsoever”

The “statutes” they are talking about are the CIVIL STATUTORY LAW or what we call “the protection franchise” and the FORCED civil status and domicile of those who it is enforced against. “In all cases whatsoever” refers to the fact that ANYTHING and EVERYTHING is made a subject of legislation. The result is SLAVERY described in the Declaration of Independence:

“But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism [SLAVERY]”
[Declaration of Independence]

This is EXACTLY the problem we have now. Obamacare alleges an unconstitutional right to FORCE “taxpayers” to buy health insurance, and the way the FORCE EVERYONE to buy health insurance, is to FORCE people to fraudulently elect a domicile on federal territory and claim an office in the government called “taxpayer”. That public office was illegally created in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912 and they are punished with commercial penalties they are not subject to for abandoning the illegally created public office. That public office is called a “trade or business” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). This illegally and criminally compelled public office is described in:

The “Trade or Business” Scam, Form #05.001
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Yes, ladies and gentlemen. We are headed for a revolution, violence, and anarchy, because all peaceful means of remedy to correct the problems caused by the inability to withdraw domicile and the sponsorship that goes with it have been removed or interfered with by a malicious, covetous band of thieving lawyers using trickery, words of art, criminal identity theft, and criminal human trafficking. Here’s how the Bible describes this kidnapping and human trafficking:

“For the upright will dwell in [ON] the land,
And the blameless will remain in it;
But the wicked will be cut off from the earth [and the common law and constitution that protects the earth],
And the unfaithful will be uprooted [using franchises and privileges] from it.”
[Prov. 2:21-22, Bible, NKJV]

Anyone who protects the present de facto system of usury we have now, which is also described in the Declaration of Independence is committing TREASON punishable by death. THEY are the real “terrorists” and anarchists.
5.4.8.13.2 Compelled domicile generally

A number of irreconcilable conflicts of law are created by COMPELLING EVERYONE to have either a specific domicile or an earthly domicile. For instance:

1. If the First Amendment gives us a right to freely associate and also implies a right to DISASSOCIATE, how can we be compelled to associate with a “state” or the people in the locality where we live without violating the First Amendment? It may not be presumed that we moved to a place because we wanted to associate with the people there.

2. Domicile creates a duty of allegiance, according to the cite above. All allegiance MUST be voluntary. How can the state compel allegiance by compelling a person to have or to choose an earthly domicile? What gives them the right to insist that the only legitimate type of domicile is associated with a government? Why can’t it be a church, a religious group, or simply an association of people who want to have their own police force or protection service separated from the state? Since the only product that government delivers is “protection”, why can’t people have the right to fire the government and provide their own protection with the tax money they would have paid the government?

3. When one chooses a domicile, they create a legal or contractual obligation to support a specific government, based on the above. By compelling everyone to choose an earthly domicile whose object is a specific government or state, isn’t the state interfering with our right to contract by compelling us to contract with a specific government for our protection? The Constitution, Article 1, Section 10 says no state shall make any law impairing the obligation of contracts. Implicit in this right to contract is the right NOT to contract. Every right implies the opposite right. Therefore, how can everyone be compelled to have a domicile without violating their right to contract?

4. The U.S. Supreme Court also said that income taxation based on domicile is “quasi-contractual” in nature.

"Even if the judgment is deemed to be colored by the nature of the obligation whose validity it establishes, and we are free to re-examine it, and, if we find it to be based on an obligation penal in character, to refuse to enforce it outside the state where rendered, see Wisconsin v. Pelican Insurance Co., 127 U.S. 265, 292, et seq. 8 S.Ct. 1370, compare Fauntleroy v. Lum, 210 U.S. 230, 28 S.Ct. 641, still the obligation to pay taxes is not penal. It is a statutory liability, quasi contractual in nature, enforceable, if there is no exclusive statutory remedy, in the civil courts by the common-law action of debt or indebitatus assumpsit. United States v. Chamberlin, 219 U.S. 250, 31 S.Ct. 155; Price v. United States, 269 U.S. 492, 46 S.Ct. 180; Dollar Savings Bank v. United States, 19 Wall. 227; and see Stockwell v. United States, 13 Wall. 531, 542; Meredith v. United States, 13 Pet. 486, 493. This was the rule established in the English courts before the Declaration of Independence. Attorney General v. Weeks, Bunbury's Exch. Rep. 223; Attorney General v. Jewers and Batty, Bunbury's Exch. Rep. 225; Attorney General v. Hatton, Bunbury's Exch. Rep. [296 U.S. 268, 272] 262; Attorney General v. ____, 2 Ans.Rep. 558; see Conyn's Digest (Title 'Det.', A. 9); 1 Chitty on Pleading, 123; cf. Attorney General v. Sewell, 4 M.&W. 77. "

The “quasi-contract” they are referring to above is your voluntary choice of “domicile”, no doubt. How can they compel such a contract if the person who is the object of the compulsion refuses to “do business” with the state and also refuses to avail themselves of any of the benefits of membership in said state? Wouldn’t that amount to slavery, involuntary servitude, and violate the Thirteenth Amendment prohibition against involuntary servitude?

Do you see how subtle this domicile thing is? It’s a very sneaky way to draw you into the world system and force you to adopt and comply with earthly laws and a government that are hostile towards and foreign to God’s laws. All of the above deceptions and ruses are designed to keep you enslaved and entrapped to support a government that does nothing for you and which you may even want to abandon or disassociate with.

The New Man

This I say, therefore, and testify in the Lord, that you should no longer walk as the rest of the Gentiles walk, in the futility of their mind, having their [legal] understanding darkened, being alienated from the life of God, because of the ignorance that is in them, because of the blindness of their heart; who, being past feeling, have given themselves over to lewdness, to work all uncleanness with greediness.

But you have not so learned Christ, if indeed you have heard Him and have been taught by Him, as the truth is in Jesus: that you put off, concerning your former conduct, the old man which grows corrupt according to the deceitful lusts, and be renewed in the spirit of your mind, and that you put on the new man which was created according to God, in true righteousness and holiness.
We allege that whenever anyone from a state or federal government, or acting as an agent of same such as a “withholding agent”, compels you to either have a specific domicile in a specific place or PRESUMES you have a domicile without producing evidence of consent on the record to that specific domicile then they are:

1. "purposefully availing themselves" of commerce within OUR jurisdiction.
2. STEALING, where the thing being STOLEN are the public rights associated with the statutory civil "status" they are presuming we have but never expressly consented to have. You ought to specify in advance the PRICE or COST of the things stolen as being TWICE what they want to collect from you. This is Biblical. See Exodus 22:7.
3. Engaging in criminal identity theft, because the civil status is associated with a domicile in a place we are not physically in and do not consent to a civil domicile in.
4. Waiving official, judicial, and sovereign immunity.
5. Acting in a private and personal capacity beyond the statutory jurisdiction of their government employer.
6. Compelling us to contract with the state under the civil statutory "social compact".
7. Interfering with our First Amendment right to freely and civilly DISASSOCIATE with the state.
8. Engaged in a constitutional tort.

You should insist on the above terms on any form you fill out and submit to the government that has a block for “residence”, “permanent address”, or “domicile”.

5.4.8.13.3 Domicile on government forms

You should view every opportunity to complete a government form or any form that indicates a “domicile”, “residence”, or “permanent address” as:

2. A change in status from "foreign" to "domestic" in relation to the government that created the form.
3. An agreement to become a “customer” of government protection called a “citizen”, “resident”, and/or “inhabitant” within a specific jurisdiction.
4. The conveyance of “consent to be governed” as the Declaration of Independence indicates.
5. An attempt to nominate a protector and delegate to them the authority to supervise and even penalize your activities under the authority of the civil law.
6. An agreement to pay for the protection of the specific government you have nominated to protect you.
7. A voluntary attempt on your part to surrender rights recognized in the Constitution in exchange for privileges and “benefits” under a franchise agreement and to change your status from a “transient foreigner” to a “person” subject to federal statutes. The most privileged status you can be in is to be a resident alien participating in federal franchises. The Declaration of Independence says that rights protected by the Constitution are “unalienable”, meaning that they CAN’T be sold, transferred, or bargained away in relation to any government by any commercial process, including a government franchise or application. Therefore, you are recognizing that the grantor of the benefit is not a government, but a private corporation.
8. An attempt to destroy equal protection mandated by the Constitution and make a specific government your "parens patriae", or government parent.

In short, anyone who asks you to fill out a government form or indicate a “domicile”, “residence”, or “permanent address” on their own private form is asking you the following question:

“Who’s your daddy and where does he live? We want to notify him that you have selected him as your protector and agreed to become liable to subsidize his protection racket and his supervision of your otherwise private affairs. We don’t trust you so we want you to agree to sign this protection contract, nominate a protector, and agree to become his privileged employee or officer so he will ensure you won’t become a burden, bother, or injury to us. ”

There are several ways that you are often deceived into inadvertently declaring a domicile on federal territory on government forms.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. By declaring that you maintain a domicile or live in the “United States”, which is defined as federal territory and excludes states of the Union pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10). This is done by filling out anything in the block labeled “permanent address” or “residence” and indicating anything in that block other than the de jure republic you were born within or the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth.

2. By filling out a government form and indicating that you are a statutory “U.S. citizen” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or “resident” or “permanent resident” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B). All such persons have a legal domicile on federal territory. Collectively, these people are called “U.S. persons” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30).

3. By filling out a form that presumes you are a “U.S. person”, such as IRS Form 1040. That form is ONLY for use by “U.S. persons” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) who have a legal domicile on federal territory. If you are not domiciled on federal territory, the only correct form to use is the IRS Form 1040NR. Even the 1040NR is a statutory “taxpayer” form and therefore needs either modification or an attachment to clarify that it is being submitted by a NONTAXPAYER.

4. By requesting or using a Social Security Number on any government form. Social Security Numbers can only lawfully be issued to persons with a legal domicile on federal territory. 20 C.F.R. §422.104 says the number can only be issued to statutory “U.S. citizens” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or statutory “permanent residents”, both of whom have in common a domicile on federal territory.

   26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(g)

   (g) Special rules for taxpayer identifying numbers issued to foreign persons—

   (1) General rule—

   (i) Social security number.

   A social security number is generally identified in the records and database of the Internal Revenue Service as a number belonging to a U.S. citizen or resident alien individual. A person may establish a different status for the number by providing proof of foreign status with the Internal Revenue Service under such procedures as the Internal Revenue Service shall prescribe, including the use of a form as the Internal Revenue Service may specify. Upon accepting an individual as a nonresident alien individual, the Internal Revenue Service will assign this status to the individual’s social security number.
We will now spend the rest of the section talking about how to avoid the problem described in item 1 above. There are many occasions on government forms, and especially tax forms, where we will be asked if we are ”residents” and what our effective domicile is and we must be very careful what we put on these forms. If a ”residence” must be established on a government form for any reason, the safest way to handle this situation as a Christian is as follows:

”resident alien” as described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) domiciled on federal territory. The only people who need them are “taxpayers” who are engaged in a “trade or business”/”public office” in the District of Columbia and therefore partaking of federal franchises. All such persons have an effective domicile in the District of Columbia because they are representing a federal corporation, the “United States” pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) and are officers of that corporation. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39), 26 U.S.C. §7408(d), and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) all place their effective domicile in the District of Columbia and not within the place they physically occupy by virtue of the fact that they are acting in a representative capacity as a “public officer”.

A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the periods not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

We can assign you a social security number or an account number for use in connection with a public office” in the District of Columbia and therefore partaking of federal franchises.

We will now spend the rest of the section talking about how to avoid the problem described in item 1 above. There are many occasions on government forms, and especially tax forms, where we will be asked if we are “residents” and what our “residence” is and we must be very careful what we put on these forms. If a “residence” must be established on a government form for any reason, the safest way to handle this situation as a Christian is as follows:

1. Line out the word “residence” and replace it with “domicile”.
2. In the block declaring “residence” or “permanent address”, put one of the following:
   2.1. “Kingdom of Heaven on Earth (not within any man made government)”.
   2.2. A geographical place that has no owner and no government, such as the middle of the ocean.
3. At the end of the address line put in parenthesis: “Not a domicile or residence.”
4. If they ask you if you are a “resident”, simply say “NO”.
5. Put a note at the bottom saying:
“See and rebut the following web address for details, if you disagree:

http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Emancipation/ChangeOfAddressAttachment.htm”

A person who does all the above is what we call “civilly dead”. The status of being “civilly dead” is the only proper status for a devout Christian, and it is thoroughly described in:

Delegation of Authority Order from God to Christians, Form #13.007, Section 4.3
DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/13-SelfFamilyChurchGovnce/DelOfAuthority.pdf
FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Any location of “residence” other than “Kingdom of Heaven on Earth” or a place not within the jurisdiction of any man-made government, however, will prejudice your rights, violate the Bible, and result in idolatry towards man/government. In fact, we believe the word “residence” and “resident” were invented by the legal profession as a way to separate intent from the word “domicile” so that people would no longer have a choice of their legal home. Christians should be very wary of this devious legal trap and avoid it as indicated above.

[Eph. 5:11, Bible]

There are also BIG advantages to declaring our domicile as being outside of federal jurisdiction in either the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth or a state of the Union, which is legislatively but not Constitutionally “foreign” with respect to the federal government. For instance, one’s domicile determines the rules of decision of every court in which a person is sued. Below is an excerpt from the Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) which proves this:

IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant; Capacity

(b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:
(1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual’s domicile;
(2) for a corporation[the “United States”, in this case, or its officers on official duty representing the corporation], by the law under which it was organized; and
(3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:
(A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state’s law may sue or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution or laws; and
(B) 28 U.S.C. §§ 754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue or be sued in a United States court.

The above may not seem like a big deal, until you consider that if a person declares “heaven” as their domicile, then the court has to use God’s laws in the Holy Bible as the only rules of decision! They cannot quote ANY federal statute or even court ruling as authority for what they are doing. The only thing they can apply is God’s law and the rulings of ecclesiastical courts on the subject. We would LOVE to see this in a tax trial. The government would get CREAMED! This tactic is what we affectionately call “courtroom evangelism”. In the case of Christians, the Common Law is the nearest equivalent of God’s law and that is the ONLY thing we can allow ourselves to be protected by as a devout Christian. Statutory law, on the other hand, is only law for GOVERNMENT actors and not private persons:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Below is an example of how to fill this out for the state of California to remove any presumptions about “residence”. If you don’t do this, the state will essentially legally “presume” that you are an “alien”, a “resident”, and a “taxpayer”, and this will grossly prejudice your Constitutional rights:

http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Emancipation/ChangeOfAddressAttachment.htm

A number of legal factors are used in determining one’s domicile. The following facts and circumstances, although not necessarily conclusive, have probative value to support a claim of domicile within a particular state:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t LIABLE to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. Continuous presence in the state.
2. Payment of ad valorem (property) taxes.
3. Payment of personal income taxes.
4. Reliance upon state sources for financial support.
5. Domicile in the state of family, or other relatives, or persons legally responsible for the person.
6. Former domicile in the state and maintenance of significant connections therein while absent.
7. Ownership of a home or real property.
8. Admission to a licensed practicing profession in the state.
9. Long term military commitments in the state.
10. Commitments to further education in the state indicating an intent to stay here permanently.
11. Acceptance of an offer of permanent employment in the state.
12. Location of spouse’s employment, if any.
13. Address of student listed on selective service (draft or reserves) registration.

Other factors indicating an intent to make a state one’s domicile may be considered. Normally, the following circumstances do not constitute evidence of domicile sufficient to effect classification as a domiciliary:

1. Voting or registration for voting.
2. The lease of living quarters.
3. A statement of intention to acquire a domicile in state.
4. Automobile registration; address on driver’s license; payment of automobile taxes.
5. Location of bank or saving accounts.

To conclude this section, you may wish to look at a few of the government’s forms that effectively ask you what your “domicile” is, so you can see what we are talking about in this section. Before we do, we must emphasize that in some cases, the version of a form we choose to file, even if it says nothing on the form about domicile, may determine our “residence”! This is VERY important. For instance, if we file a 1040NR form, we are claiming that we are not a “resident alien” and that we do not maintain a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory). Whereas, if we file a 1040 form, we are claiming that we are either a “resident” with a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory), or are a “U.S. citizen” who is described as a “alien” coming under a tax treaty with the United States if we attach a form 2555 to the 1040 form. Also keep in mind that only a “resident” can have a “residence”, and that all “residents” are aliens under the tax code, as far as we understand it. This is confirmed by our quote of 26 C.F.R. §1.871-2 earlier in this section, which you may want to go back and read. With these important considerations, below are a few of the forms that determine our “domicile”:

Items 4 and 5 above are noteworthy, because they mention the phrase “Permanent address”. Why do they use the phrase “permanent”? Because they want to DECEIVE you into thinking that you can’t revoke or withdraw your request to be protected and are therefore FORCED to keep subsidizing them to protect you without your continuing consent. That way, they are the only ones who can unilaterally terminate the CONTRACTUAL protection arrangement. SCAM!

When you fill out government forms to reflect a domicile that is in Heaven, some ignorant or wicked or atheist clerks may decide to argue with you. Below are the three most popular arguments you will hear, which are each accompanied by tactics that are useful in opposing them:

1. If you submit the government form to a private company or organization, they may say that they as have an unofficial "policy" of not accepting such forms. In response to such tactics, find another company that will accept it. If all companies won't accept it, then sue the companies for discrimination and violation of First Amendment rights.

2. They may say that "domicile" is based on a physical place and that Heaven is not a physical place. In response to this, we must remember that the First Amendment prevents the government from "establishing a religion". Because of this prohibition, the government can't even "define" what a religion is:

   A problem common to both religion clauses of the First Amendment is the dilemma of defining religion. To define religion is in a sense to establish it—those beliefs that are included enjoy a preferred constitutional status. For those left out of the definition, the definition may prove coercive. Indeed, it is in this latter context, which roughly approximates the area covered by the free exercise clause, where the cases and discussion of the meaning of religion have primarily centered. Professor Kent Greenwald challenges the effort, and all efforts, to define religion: "No specification of essential conditions will capture all and only the benefits, practices, and organizations that are regarded as religious in modern culture and should be treated as such under the Constitution."

To even define what "Heaven" is or to say that it doesn't physically exist is effectively to establish a religion. In order to determine that "Heaven" is not a physical place, they would be violating the separation of church and state and infringing upon your First Amendment right to practice your religion.

3. They may say that no place can qualify as a domicile that you didn't occupy at one point or another. When they do this, the proper response is to say that they are interfering with your First Amendment religious rights and then to quote them the following scriptures, which suggest that we had an existence in Heaven before we ever came to earth and before time began:

   “But God, who is rich in mercy, because of His great love with which He loved us, even when we were dead in trespasses, made us alive together with Christ (by grace you have been saved), and raised us up together, and made us sit together in the heavenly places in Christ Jesus.”

A

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. Nowhere in Internal Revenue Code is the word “domicile” admitted to be the source of the government’s jurisdiction to impose an income tax, even though the U.S. Supreme Court admitted this in Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954). The word “domicile”, in fact, is only used in two sections of the entire 9,500 page Internal Revenue Code, Title 26. This is no accident, but a very devious way for the government to avoid getting into arguments with persons who is accusing of being “taxpayers”. It avoids these arguments by avoiding showing Americans the easiest way to challenge federal jurisdiction, which is demanding proof from the government required by 5 U.S.C. §556(d), who is the moving party, that you maintain a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory). The two sections below are the only places where domicile is mentioned:

- 1.2. 26 U.S.C. §6091: Defines where returns shall be submitted in the case of deceased “taxpayers”, which is the “domicile” of the decedent when he died.

2. They abuse government forms to get you to convert your status from a “national” to an privileged “alien” or “resident alien”, often without your knowledge. To ALIENATE rights, you literally have to BECOME an alien of one kind or another who is usually domiciled on federal territory NOT protected by the Constitution and where EVERYTHING is a statutory privilege.

2.1. All aliens are privileged when they are outside the country of their birth. They are the ONLY ones that Congress can lawfully legislative for within a Constitutional state BECAUSE they are privileged. Note the use of the phrase “implied license” in the following ruling of the U.S. Supreme Court. “License” and “privilege” are synonymous:

2.3.3. “residence”: defined above, and only applying to “nonresident aliens”. There is no definition of “residence” anywhere in the I.R.C. in the case of a “citizen”. Below is how Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Volume 28 Legal Encyclopedia, Domicile, describes the distinction between “residence” and “domicile”:

Corpus Juris Secundum
§4 Domicile and Residence Distinguished

b. Use of Terms in Statutes

The terms “domicile” and “residence,” as used in statutes, are commonly, although not necessarily, construed as synonymous. Whether the term “residence,” as used in a statute, will be construed as having the meaning of “domicile,” or the term “domicile” construed as “residence,” depends on the purpose of the statute and the nature of the subject matter, as well as the context in which the term is used. 32 It has been declared that the terms “residence” and “domicile” are almost universally used interchangeably in statute, and that since domicile and legal residence are synonymous, the statutory rules for determining the place of residence are the rules for determining domicile.34 However, it has been held that “residence,” when used in statutes, is generally interpreted by the courts as meaning “domicile,” but with important exception.

Accordingly, whenever the terms “residence” and “domicile” are used in connection with subjects of domestic policy, the terms are equivalent, as they also are, generally, where a statute prescribes residence as a qualification for the enjoyment of a privilege or the exercise of a franchise. “Residence” as used in various particular statutes has been considered synonymous with “domicile.” 39 However, the terms are not necessarily synonymous.40

[28 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Domicile, §4 Domicile and Resident Distinguished (2003)]

Note the above underlined language. The “domestic policy” they are referring to are franchises such as driver licensing and marriage licensing. Those participating are privileged AND while exercising said privilege, they represent an office within the government whose domicile is on federal territory OUTSIDE the protections of the Constitution. They in effect have WAIVED their constitutional rights and common law rights and remedies in exchange for government “benefits”:

The Court developed, for its own governance in the cases confessedly within its jurisdiction, a series of rules under which it has avoided passing upon a large part of all the constitutional questions pressed upon it for decision. They are:

2.4. All of the above terms pertain ONLY to foreign nationals and privileged aliens. Equivocation is being used to make them look like they apply to “nationals” born in the country when they DO NOT. “Permanent address” is synonymous with “permanent residents”, not nationals with a domicile in the place:

"Residents, as distinguished from citizens, are aliens who are permitted to take up a permanent abode in the country. Being bound to the society by reason of their dwelling in it, they are subject to its laws so long as they remain there, and, being protected by it, they must defend it, although they do not enjoy all the rights of citizens. They have only certain privileges which the law, or custom, gives them. Permanent residents are those who have been given the right of perpetual residency. They are a sort of citizen of a less privileged character, and are subject to the society without enjoying all its advantages. Their children succeed to their status; for the right of perpetual residence given them by the State passes to their children."

2.5. Driver licensing is the usual gateway into the tax system, because the application for the license declares you to be a privileged alien and foreign national by its use of the above terms on the application. Notice they don’t ask you your domicile, but your “permanent residence”.

2.6. They did the above so that income taxation “appears” to be based entirely on physical presence, when in fact is also requires voluntary consent as well. That consent, as a bare minimum, is YOUR consent to be treated AS IF you are a privileged alien or resident alien and thereby surrender rights to the government that the Declaration of Independence says are INALIENABLE, which means that you aren’t allowed to consent to give them away. If you knew that the government needed your consent to become a “taxpayer”, then probably everyone would “un-volunteer” and the government would be left scraping for pennies.

2.7. For more on TRAPS in government forms such as the above, see:

3. By confusing physical presence ANYWHERE with being a “permanent resident” abroad ONLY under 26 U.S.C. §911.

3.1. 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(b) makes “all citizens of the United States[ federal zone], wherever resident” liable for income tax, whether the income is received from sources within or without the United States”.

3.2. The phrase “wherever resident” would seem to imply REGARDLESS of where they are physically located, but in fact it DOES NOT.

3.3. Extensive evidence exists to prove that the phrase “wherever resident” instead means wherever they have the CIVIL STATUS of “resident”, meaning wherever they are a permanent resident abroad under a tax treaty with the foreign country they are in under 26 U.S.C. §911.

Sections 1.1-1(b) and 1.871-1 of the Income Tax Regulations provide that all citizens of the United States, wherever resident, and all resident alien individuals are liable to the income taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code whether the income is received from sources within or without the United States. See, however, section 911 of the Code. (Emphasis added.) [Rev.Rul. 75-357, p. 5]

Being that Rev. Rul. 75-357 quotes 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(b) directly, and duly informs every reader to see, 26 U.S.C. §911, I believe we should visit 26 U.S.C. §911 and its regulations to locate the appropriate application of the wherever resident feature in that section of federal law. See 26 U.S.C. §911(d)(1)(A) as follows:

(d) Definitions and special rules — For purposes of this section —

(1) Qualified individual — The term "qualified individual" means an individual whose tax home is in a foreign country and who is —

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

(A) a citizen of the United States and establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that he has been a bona fide resident of a foreign country or countries for an uninterrupted period which includes an entire taxable year.
[26 U.S.C. §911(d)(1)(A)]

The regulations to section 911 make the distinction between where income is received as opposed to where services are performed. See:

26 C.F.R. §1.911-3 Determination of amount of foreign earned income to be excluded.

(a) Definition of foreign earned income.

For purposes of section 911 and the regulations thereunder, the term “foreign earned income” means earned income (as defined in paragraph (b) of this section) from sources within a foreign country (as defined in §1.911-2(h)) that is earned during a period for which the individual qualifies under §1.911-2(a) to make an election.
Earned income is from sources within a foreign country if it is attributable to services performed by an individual in a foreign country or countries. The place of receipt of earned income is immaterial in determining whether earned income is attributable to services performed in a foreign country or countries.

Flawed Tax Arguments to Avoid, Form #08.004, Section 8.20
https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

4. By telling you that you MUST have a “domicile”. For instance, the Volume 28 of the Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.)
section on “Domicile” says the following on this subject:

Corpus Juris Secundum
§5 Necessity and Number

“It is a settled principle that every person must have a domicile somewhere. The law permits no individual to be without a domicile, and an individual is never without a domicile somewhere. Domicile is a continuing thing, and from the moment a person is born he must, at all times, have a domicile.”
[28 Corpus Juris Secundum, Domicile, §5 Necessity and Number]

Corpus Juris Secundum
§9 Domicile by Operation of Law

“Whenever a person does not fix a domicile for himself, the law will fix one for him in accordance with the facts and circumstances of the case; 12 and an infant’s domicile will be fixed by operation of law where it cannot be determined from that of the parents.”
[28 Corpus Juris Secundum, Domicile, §9 Domicile by Operation of Law]

The above requirement can and does apply ONLY to civil statutory “persons” and the choice to become such a “person” is voluntary or else it would violate the First Amendment right of freedom from compelled association. Also note that such “persons” are all public officers. Indirectly, what they are also suggesting in the above by FORCING you to have a domicile is that:
4.1. You cannot choose God as your sole CIVIL Protector, but MUST have an earthly protector who cannot be yourself.
4.2. Although the First Amendment gives you the right to freely associate, it does not give you the right to CIVILLY disassociate with ALL governments. This is an absurdity.
4.3. Government has a monopoly on CIVIL protection and that individuals are not allowed to fire the government and provide their own protection, either individually or collectively.

5. By inventing new words that allow them to avoid mentioning “domicile” in their vague “codes” while giving you the impression that an obligation exists that actually is consensual. For instance, in 26 U.S.C. §911 is the section of the I.R.C. entitled “Citizens or residents of the United States living abroad”. This section identifies the income tax liabilities of persons domiciled in the “United States” (federal zone) who are living temporarily abroad. We showed earlier that if they have a domicile abroad, then they cannot be either “citizens” or “residents” under the I.R.C., because domicile is a prerequisite for being either. In that section, they very deceptively:
5.1. Use the word “abode” in 26 U.S.C. §911(d)(3) to describe one’s domicile so as to remove the requirement for “intent” and “consent” from consideration of the subject, even though they have no authority to ignore this requirement for consent in the case of anything but an “alien”.
5.2. Don’t even use the word “domicile” at all, and refuse to acknowledge that what “citizens” or “residents” both have in common is a “domicile” within the United States. They did this to preserve the illusion that even after one changes their domicile to a foreign country while abroad, the federal tax liability continues, when in fact, it legally is not required to. After domicile is changed, those Americans who changed it while abroad then are no longer called “citizens” under federal law, but rather “nationals” and “non-resident non-persons”. If they are engaged in a public office, they also become statutory “nonresident aliens”.

5.3. They invented a new word called a “tax home”, as if it were a substitute for “domicile”, when in fact it is not. A “tax home” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §911 as a place where a person who has a temporary presence abroad treats himself or herself as a privileged “residence” in the foreign country but still also maintains a privileged “resident” and “domicile” status in the “United States”.

The only way the government can maintain your status as a “taxpayer” is to perpetuate you in a “privileged” state, so they simply don’t offer any options to leave the privileged state by refusing to admit to you that the terms “citizen” and “resident” presume you made a voluntary choice of domicile within their exclusive jurisdiction on federal territory. I.R.C. section 162 mentioned above is the section for privileged deductions, and the only persons who can take deductions are those engaged in the privileged “trade or business” excise taxable franchise. Therefore, the only person who would derive any benefit from deductions is a person with a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory) and who has earnings from that place which are connected with a “trade or business”, which means U.S. government (corporation) source income as a “public officer”.

5.4.8.13.5 How the Legal Encyclopedia compels choice of domicile

Even the legal encyclopedia tries to hide the nature of domicile. For instance, Volume 28 of the Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.) at:

which we quoted in the previous section does not even mention the requirement for “allegiance” as part of domicile or the fact that allegiance must be voluntary and not compelled, even though the U.S. Supreme Court said this was an essential part of it:

“Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter.” [Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 247 U.S. 340 (1918)]

The legal encyclopedia in the above deliberately and maliciously omits mention of any of the following key concepts, even though the U.S. Supreme Court has acknowledged elements of them as we have shown:

1. That allegiance that is the foundation of domicile must be voluntary and cannot be coerced.
2. That external factors such as the withdrawal of one’s right to conduct commerce for failure to give allegiance causes domicile choice to no longer be voluntary.
3. That a choice of domicile constitutes an exercise of your First Amendment right of freedom of association and that a failure to associate with a specific government is an exercise of your right of freedom from compelled association.
4. That you retain all your constitutional rights even WITHOUT choosing a domicile within a specific government because rights attach to the land you are standing on and not the civil status you choose by exercising your right to associate and becoming a member of a “state” or municipality.

The result of maliciously refusing to acknowledge the above concepts is a failure to acknowledge the foundation of all just authority of every government on earth, which is the consent of the governed mentioned in our Declaration of Independence.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

“We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. -- That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. -- That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such principles and organizing its powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness.”

[Declaration of Independence]

A failure to acknowledge that requirement results in a complete destruction of the sovereignty of the people, because the basis of all your sovereignty is that no one can do anything to you without your consent, unless you injured the equal rights of others. This concept is exhaustively described in the following document:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003

5.4.8.13.6 How governments compel choice of domicile: Government ID

In order to do business within any jurisdiction, and especially with the government and financial institutions, one usually needs identification documents. Such documents include:

1. State driver’s license. Issued by the Dept. of Motor Vehicles in your state.
2. State ID card. Issued by the Dept. of Motor Vehicles in your state.
3. Permanent resident green card.
5. U.S. Citizen Card. Issued by the Dept. of State. These are typically used at border crossings.

All ID issued by the state governments, and especially the driver’s license, requires that the applicant be a “resident” of the “State of____”. If you look up the definition of “resident” and “State of” or “State” or “in this State” within the state tax code, these terms are defined to mean a privileged alien with a domicile on federal territory not protected by the Constitution.

USA passports also require that you provide a domicile. The Dept. of State DS-11 Form in Block 17 requires you to specify a “Permanent Address”, which means domicile. See:

Domicile within the country is not necessary in order to be issued a national passport. All you need is proof of birth within that country. If you would like tips on how to obtain a national passport without a domicile within a state and without government issued identifying numbers that connect you to franchises, see:

Getting a USA Passport as a "state national". Form #09.007
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

State ID, however, always requires domicile within the state in order to be issued either a state driver’s license or a state ID. Consequently, there is no way to avoid becoming privileged if you want state ID. This situation would seem at first to be a liability until you also consider that they can’t lawfully issue a driver’s license to non-residents. Imagine going down to the DMV and telling them that you are physically on state land but do not choose a domicile here and that you can’t be compelled to and that you would like for them to certify that you came in to request a license and that you were refused and don’t qualify. Then you can show that piece of paper called a “Letter of Disqualification” to the next police officer who stops you and asks you for a license. Imagine having the following dialog with the police officer when you get stopped:

Officer: May I see your license and registration please?

You: I’m sorry, officer, but I went down to the DMV to request a license and they told me that I don’t qualify because I am a non-resident of this state. I have a Letter of Disqualification they gave me while I was there stating that I made application and that they could not lawfully issue me a license. Here it is, officer.

Officer: Well, then do you have a license from another state?
You: My domicile is in a place that has no government. Therefore, there is no one who can issue licenses there. Can you show me a DMV office in the middle of the ocean, which is where my domicile is and where my will says my ashes will be PERMANENTLY taken to when I die. My understanding is that domicile or residence requires an intention to permanently remain at a place and I am not here permanently and don’t intend to remain here. I am a perpetual traveler, a transient foreigner, and a vagrant until I am buried.

Officer: Don’t get cute with me. If you don’t produce a license, then I’m going to cite you for driving without a license.

You: Driving is a commercial activity and I am not presently engaged in a commercial activity. Do you have any evidence to the contrary? Furthermore, I’d love to see you explain to the judge how you can punish me for refusing to have that which the government says they can’t even lawfully issue me. That ought to be a good laugh. I’m going to make sure the whole family is there for that one. It’ll be better than Saturday Night Live!

We allege that the purpose of the vehicle code in your state is NOT the promotion of public safety, but to manufacture “residents” and “taxpayers”. The main vehicle by which states of the Union, in fact, manufacture “residents”, who are privileged “public officers” that are “taxpayers” and aliens with respect to the government is essentially by compelling everyone to obtain and use state driver’s licenses. This devious trap operates as follows:

1. You cannot obtain a state driver’s license without being a “resident”. If you go into any DMV office and tell them you are not a “resident”, then they are not allowed to issue you a license. You can ask from them what is called a “Letter of Disqualification”, which states that you are not eligible for a driver’s license. You can keep that letter and show it to any police officer who stops you and wants your “license”. He cannot then cite you for “driving without a license” that the state refuses to issue you, nor can he impound your car for driving without a license!

California Vehicle Code

“14607.6. (a) Notwithstanding any other provision of law, and except as provided in this section, a motor vehicle is subject to forfeiture as a nuisance if it is driven on a highway in this state by a driver with a suspended or revoked license, or by an unlicensed driver, who is a registered owner of the vehicle at the time of impoundment and has a previous misdemeanor conviction for a violation of subdivision (a) of Section 12500 or Section 14601, 14601.1, 14601.2, 14601.3, 14601.4, or 14601.5.

(b) A peace officer shall not stop a vehicle for the sole reason of determining whether the driver is properly licensed.

(c) (1) If a driver is unable to produce a valid driver’s license on the demand of a peace officer enforcing the provisions of this code, as required by subdivision (b) of Section 12951, the vehicle shall be impounded regardless of ownership, unless the peace officer is reasonably able, by other means, to verify that the driver is properly licensed. Prior to impounding a vehicle, a peace officer shall attempt to verify the license status of a driver who claims to be properly licensed but is unable to produce the license on demand of the peace officer.

(2) A peace officer shall not impound a vehicle pursuant to this subdivision if the license of the driver expired within the preceding 30 days and the driver would otherwise have been properly licensed.

(3) A peace officer may exercise discretion in a situation where the driver without a valid license is an employee driving a vehicle registered to the employer in the course of employment. A peace officer may also exercise discretion in a situation where the driver without a valid license is the employee of a bona fide business establishment or is a person otherwise controlled by such an establishment and it reasonably appears that an owner of the vehicle, or an agent of the owner, relinquished possession of the vehicle to the business establishment solely for servicing or parking of the vehicle or other reasonably similar situations, and where the vehicle was not to be driven except as directly necessary to accomplish that business purpose. In this event, if the vehicle can be returned to or be retrieved by the business establishment or registered owner, the peace officer may release and not impound the vehicle.

(4) A registered or legal owner of record at the time of impoundment may request a hearing to determine the validity of the impoundment pursuant to subdivision (n).

(5) If the driver of a vehicle impounded pursuant to this subdivision was not a registered owner of the vehicle at the time of impoundment, or if the driver of the vehicle was a registered owner of the vehicle at the time of impoundment but the driver does not have a previous conviction for a violation of subdivision (a) of Section 12500 or Section 14601, 14601.1, 14601.2, 14601.3, 14601.4, or 14601.5, the vehicle shall be released pursuant to this code and is not subject to forfeiture.

(d) (1) This subdivision applies only if the driver of the vehicle is a registered owner of the vehicle at the time of impoundment. Except as provided in paragraph (5) of subdivision (c), if the driver of a vehicle impounded pursuant to subdivision (c) was a registered owner of the vehicle at the time of impoundment, the impounding agency shall authorize release of the vehicle if, within three days of impoundment, the driver of the vehicle at the time of impoundment presents his or her valid driver's license, including a valid temporary California driver's license or permit, to the impounding agency. The vehicle shall then be released to a registered owner of record at the time of impoundment, or an agent of that owner authorized in writing, upon payment of towing and storage charges related to the impoundment, and any administrative charges authorized by Section 22850.5, providing that the person claiming the vehicle is properly licensed and the vehicle is properly registered. A vehicle impounded pursuant to the circumstances described in paragraph (3) of subdivision (c) shall be released to a registered owner whether or not the driver of the vehicle at the time of impoundment presents a valid driver's license.

(2) If there is a community property interest in the vehicle impounded pursuant to subdivision (c), owned at the time of impoundment by a person other than the driver, and the vehicle is the only vehicle available to the driver's immediate family that may be operated with a class C driver's license, the vehicle shall be released to a registered owner or to the community property interest owner upon compliance with all of the following requirements:

(A) The registered owner or the community property interest owner requests release of the vehicle and the owner of the community property interest submits proof of that interest.

(B) The registered owner or the community property interest owner submits proof that he or she, or an authorized driver, is properly licensed and that the impounded vehicle is properly registered pursuant to this code.

(C) All towing and storage charges related to the impoundment and any administrative charges authorized pursuant to Section 22850.5 are paid.

(D) The registered owner or the community property interest owner signs a stipulated vehicle release agreement, as described in paragraph (3), in consideration for the nonforfeiture of the vehicle. This requirement applies only if the driver requests release of the vehicle.

(3) A stipulated vehicle release agreement shall provide for the consent of the signator to the automatic future forfeiture and transfer of title to the state of any vehicle registered to that person, if the vehicle is driven by a driver with a suspended or revoked license, or by an unlicensed driver. The agreement shall be in effect for only as long as it is noted on a driving record maintained by the department pursuant to Section 19061.

(4) The stipulated vehicle release agreement described in paragraph (3) shall be reported by the impounding agency to the department not later than 10 days after the day the agreement is signed.

(5) No vehicle shall be released pursuant to paragraph (2) if the driving record of a registered owner indicates that a prior stipulated vehicle release agreement was signed by that person.

(e) (1) The impounding agency, in the case of a vehicle that has not been redeemed pursuant to subdivision (d), or that has not been otherwise released, shall promptly ascertain from the department the names and addresses of all legal and registered owners of the vehicle.

(2) The impounding agency, within two days of impoundment, shall send a notice by certified mail, return receipt requested, to all legal and registered owners of the vehicle, at the addresses obtained from the department, informing them that the vehicle is subject to forfeiture and will be sold or otherwise disposed of pursuant to this section. The notice shall also include instructions for filing a claim with the district attorney, and the time limits for filing a claim. The notice shall also inform any legal owner of its right to conduct the sale pursuant to subdivision (g). If a registered owner was personally served at the time of impoundment with a notice containing all the information required to be provided by this paragraph, no further notice is required to be sent to a registered owner. However, a notice shall still be sent to the legal owners of the vehicle, if any. If notice was not sent to the legal owner within two working days, the impounding agency shall not charge the legal owner for more than 15-days' impoundment when the legal owner redeems the impounded vehicle.

(3) No processing charges shall be imposed on a legal owner who redeems an impounded vehicle within 15 days of the impoundment of that vehicle. If no claims are filed and served within 15 days after the mailing of the notice in paragraph (2), or if no claims are filed and served within five days of personal service of the notice specified in paragraph (2), when no other mailed notice is required pursuant to paragraph (2), the district attorney shall prepare a written declaration of forfeiture of the vehicle to the state. A written declaration of forfeiture signed by the district attorney under this subdivision shall be deemed to provide good and sufficient title to the forfeited vehicle. A copy of the declaration shall be provided on request to any person informed of the pending forfeiture pursuant to paragraph (2). A claim that is filed and is later withdrawn by the claimant shall be deemed not to have been filed.

(4) If a claim is timely filed and served, then the district attorney shall file a petition of forfeiture with the appropriate juvenile, municipal, or superior court within 10 days of the receipt of the claim. The district attorney shall establish an expedited hearing date in accordance with instructions from the court, and the court shall hear the matter without delay. The court filing fee, not to exceed fifty dollars ($50), shall be paid by the claimant, but shall be reimbursed by the impounding agency if the claimant prevails. To the extent practicable, the civil and criminal cases shall be heard at the same time in an expedited, consolidated proceeding. A proceeding in the civil case is a limited civil case.”

Below is evidence showing how one person obtained a “Letter of Disqualification” that resulted in being able to drive perpetually without having a state-issued driver’s license.

2. Most state vehicle codes define “resident” as a person with a domicile in the “State”. Below is an example from the California Vehicle Code:

California Vehicle Code

516. “Resident” means any person who manifests an intent to live or be located in this state on more than a temporary or transient basis. Presence in the state for six months or more in any 12-month period gives rise to a rebuttable presumption of residency.

The following are evidence of residency for purposes of vehicle registration:

(a) Address where registered to vote.
(b) Location of employment or place of business.
(c) Payment of resident tuition at a public institution of higher education.
(d) Attendance of dependents at a primary or secondary school.
(e) Filing a homeowner’s property tax exemption.
(f) Renting or leasing a home for use as a residence.
(g) Declaration of residency to obtain a license or any other privilege or benefit not ordinarily extended to a nonresident.
(h) Possession of a California driver’s license.
(i) Other acts, occurrences, or events that indicate presence in the state is more than temporary or transient.

516. “Resident” means any person who manifests an intent to live or be located in this state on more than a temporary or transient basis. Presence in the state for six months or more in any 12-month period gives rise to a rebuttable presumption of residency.

Prima facie evidence of residency for driver’s licensing purposes includes, but is not limited to, the following:

(A) Address where registered to vote.
(B) Payment of resident tuition at a public institution of higher education.
(C) Filing a homeowner’s property tax exemption.
(D) Other acts, occurrences, or events that indicate presence in the state is more than temporary or transient.

(2) California residency is required of a person in order to be issued a commercial driver’s license under this code.

(b) The presumption of residency in this state may be rebutted by satisfactory evidence that the licensee’s primary residence is in another state.

(c) Any person entitled to an exemption under Section 12502, 12503, or 12504 may operate a motor vehicle in this state for not to exceed 10 days from the date he or she establishes residence in this state, except that he or she shall obtain a license from the department upon becoming a resident before being employed for compensation by another for the purpose of driving a motor vehicle on the highways.

3. The term “State” is then defined in the revenue codes to mean the federal areas within the exterior limits of the state. Below is an example from the California Vehicle Code:

17017. “United States,” when used in a geographical sense, includes the states, the District of Columbia, and the possessions of the United States.

17018. “State” includes the District of Columbia, and the possessions of the United States.

4. You must surrender all other state driver’s licenses in order to obtain one from most states. This is consistent with the fact that you can only have a domicile in ONE place at a time. Below is an example from the California Vehicle Code:

California Vehicle Code

12805. The department shall not issue a driver’s license to, or renew a driver’s license of, any person:

(f) Who holds a valid driver’s license issued by a foreign jurisdiction unless the license has been surrendered to the department, or is lost or destroyed.

12511. No person shall have in his or her possession or otherwise under his or her control more than one driver’s license.

Consequently, the vehicle code in most states, in the case of individuals not involved in “commercial activity”, applies mainly to “public officers” who are effectively “residents” of the federal zone with an effective “domicile” or “residence” there:

26 U.S.C. §7701

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(39) Persons residing outside United States

If any citizen or resident of the United States does not reside in (and is not found in) any United States judicial district, such citizen or resident shall be treated as residing in the District of Columbia for purposes of any provision of this title relating to—

(A) jurisdiction of courts, or

(B) enforcement of summons.

These persons are “taxpayers”. They are Americans who have contracted away their Constitutional rights in exchange for government “privileges” and they are the only “persons” who inhabit or maintain a “domicile” or “residence” in the “State” as defined above. Only people with a domicile in such “State” can be required to obtain a “license” to drive on the “highways”. While they are exercising “agency” on behalf of or representing the government corporation, they are “citizens” of that corporation and “residents”, because the corporation itself is a “citizen” and therefore a person with a domicile in the place where the corporation was formed, which for the “United States” is the District of Columbia:

“A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only.”
[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §§86 (2003)]

Federal Rules of Civil Procedure
IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant; Capacity

(b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

(1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual's domicile;
(2) for a corporation—or one REPRESENTING a PUBLIC CORPORATION called the government as a "public officer"—by the law under which it was organized; and
(3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:
(A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state's law may sue or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution or laws; and
(B) 28 U.S.C. §§ 754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue or be sued in a United States court.

If you don’t want to be a “public officer” who has an effective “domicile” or “residence” in the District of Columbia, then you have to divorce the state, create your own “state”, and change your domicile to that new “state”. For instance, you can form an association of people and choose a domicile within that association. This association would be referred to as a “foreign jurisdiction” within the vehicle code in most states. The association can become the “government” for that group, and issue its own driver’s licenses and conduct its own “courts”. In effect, it becomes a competitor to the corporate state for the affections, allegiance, and obedience of the people. This is capitalism at its finest, folks!

12502. (a) The following persons may operate a motor vehicle in this state without obtaining a driver's license under this code:

(1) A nonresident over the age of 18 years having in his or her immediate possession a valid driver’s license issued by a foreign jurisdiction of which he or she is a resident, except as provided in Section 12505.

As long as the driver’s licenses issued by the government you form meet the same standard as those for the state you are in, then it doesn’t matter who issued it.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

California Vehicle Code

12505. (a) (1) For purposes of this division only and notwithstanding Section 516, residency shall be determined as a person’s state of domicile. “State of domicile” means the state where a person has his or her true, fixed, and permanent home and principal residence and to which he or she has manifested the intention of returning whenever he or she is absent.

(e) Subject to Section 12504, a person over the age of 16 years who is a resident of a foreign jurisdiction other than a state, territory, or possession of the United States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, or Canada, having a valid driver’s license issued to him or her by any other foreign jurisdiction having licensing standards deemed by the Department of Motor Vehicles equivalent to those of this state, may operate a motor vehicle in this state without obtaining a license from the department, except that he or she shall obtain a license before being employed for compensation by another for the purpose of driving a motor vehicle on the highways.

As long as you take and pass the same written and driver’s tests as the state uses, even your church could issue it! As a matter of fact, below is an example of a church that issues “Heaven Driver’s Licenses” called “Embassy of Heaven”:

http://www.embassyofheaven.com/

You can’t be compelled by law to grant to your public “servants” a monopoly that compels you into servitude to them as a “public officer”. In the United States, WE THE PEOPLE are the government, and not their representatives and “servants” who work for them implementing the laws that they pass. Consequently, you and your friends or church, as a “self-governing body” can make your own driver’s license and in fact and in law, those licenses will by definition be “government-issued”.

To wit:

“The words ‘people of the United States’ and ‘citizens,’ are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who hold the power and conduct the government through their representatives [they are the government, not their servants]. They are what we familiarly call the ‘sovereign people,’ and every citizen is one of this people, and a constituent member of this sovereignty, ...”

[Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 143 U.S. 135 (1892)]

“From the differences existing between feudal sovereignties and Government founded on compacts, it necessarily follows that their respective prerogatives must differ. Sovereignty is the right to govern; a nation or State-sovereign is the person or persons in whom that resides. In Europe the sovereignty is generally ascribed to the Prince; here it rests with the people; there, the sovereignty actually administers the Government; here, never in a single instance; our Governors are the agents of the people, and at most stand in the same relation to their sovereign, in which regents in Europe stand to their sovereigns. Their Princes have personal powers, dignities, and pre-eminences, our rulers have none but official; nor do they partake in the sovereignty otherwise, or in any other capacity, than as private citizens.”

Anyone who won’t accept such a driver’s license should be asked to contradict the U.S. Supreme Court and to prove that you AREN’T part of the government as a person who governs his own life and the lives of other members of the group you have created. The following article also emphasizes that “We The People” are the government, and that our servants have been trying to deceive us into believing otherwise:

Chances are good that you as a reader at one time or another procured government ID without knowing all the legal consequences described in this document. The existence of that ID and the evidence documenting your request for it can and probably will be used by the government against you as evidence that you are subject to their civil laws and a customer of their “protection racket”. The best technique for rebutting such evidence is that appearing in the following document. The submission of this document is a MANDATORY part of becoming a Member of this fellowship, and hopefully you now understand why it is mandatory:

5.4.8.13.7 The “wherever resident” SCAM in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1: How context of word “resident” is abused to kidnap your identity and illegally make you a statutory “taxpayer”

False Argument: The phrase “wherever resident” in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 means WHEREVER LOCATED, not WHEREVER DOMICILED OR LOCATED ABROAD.

Corrected Alternative Argument: The phrase “wherever resident” in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 means wherever they have the CIVIL STATUS of a “resident” in respect to the foreign country they are in. It has nothing to do with a state of the Union, because:

1. You can’t simultaneously be a CITIZEN and a RESIDENT at the same time within a constitutional state.
2. State citizens protected by the Constitution aren’t allowed to ALIENATE rights that the Declaration of Independence says are UNALIENABLE, and thus, they cannot become a privileged “RESIDENT” in relation to the government of any Constitutional State or the national government.

In order to illegally enforce the national income tax extraterritorially within the borders of Constitutional State, the national government must use legal trickery and words of art to make it FALSELY APPEAR as if the income tax applies to a STATUTORY “U.S. citizen” (per 8 U.S.C. §1401) ANYWHERE IN THE WORLD, including a CONSTITUTIONAL state of the Union. This section explains how the deception is accomplished and why any and all claims that it applies EVERYWHERE are simply FALSE.

The I.R.C. Subtitle A income tax is imposed upon “citizens” only when they ALSO “RESIDENT” (alien) in the place they earn the statutory “income”.

26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 Income tax on individuals.

(a) General rule.

---

146 Adapted from Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020, Section 7.4.5: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm.
(I) Section 1 of the Code imposes an income tax on the income of every individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States and, to the extent provided by section 871(b) or 877(b), on the income of a nonresident alien individual.

(b) Citizens or residents of the United States liable to tax.

In general, all citizens of the United States, wherever resident, and all resident alien individuals are liable to the income taxes imposed by the Code whether the income is received from sources within or without the United States. Pursuant to section 876, a nonresident alien individual who is a bona fide resident of a section 931 possession (as defined in § 1.931-1(c)(1) of this chapter) or Puerto Rico during the entire taxable year is, except as provided in section 931 or 933 with respect to income from sources within such possessions, subject to taxation in the same manner as a resident alien individual. As to tax on nonresident alien individuals, see sections 871 and 877.

The statutory term “individual” includes ONLY “aliens” and “nonresident aliens” but not statutory “citizens when abroad under 26 U.S.C. §911(d). When abroad, citizens are called “qualified individuals” and what “qualifies” them is that they are aliens and residents in respect to the foreign country they are physically in at the time. Therefore, a “citizen” only becomes an “individual” when they are an “alien” or “nonresident alien”:

26 C.F.R. 1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

We must then ask ourselves WHEN can a statutory “citizen” (under 8 U.S.C. §1401 and identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c)) ALSO be statutory “resident” in the same place at the same time, keeping in mind that a “resident” is an ALIEN domiciled in a place under the law of nations:

“Residents, as distinguished from citizens, are aliens who are permitted to take up a permanent abode in the country. Being bound to the society by reason of their [intention of] dwelling in it, they are subject to its laws so long as they remain there, and, being protected by it, they must defend it, although they do not enjoy all the rights of citizenship. They have only certain privileges which the law, or custom, gives them. Permanent residents are those who have been given the right of perpetual residence. They are a sort of citizen of a less privileged character, and are subject to the society without enjoying all its advantages. Their children succeed to their status; for the right of perpetual residence given them by the State passes to their children.”

26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(b) disproves the assertion that everything a person domiciled in any of the 50 states makes is statutory “income” subject to tax, when it states that “All citizens of the United States, wherever resident,” are liable to tax. This is because:

2. “residence” is ONLY defined in the I.R.C. to include statutory “aliens” and NOT “citizens”. Nowhere is it defined to include “citizens”. Therefore, a “citizen” cannot have a “residence” or be “resident” in a place without being a statutory alien in relation to that place.
An alien actually present in the United States who is not a mere transient or sojourner is a resident of the United States for purposes of the income tax. Whether he is a transient is determined by his intentions with regard to the length and nature of his stay. A mere floating intention, indefinite as to time, to return to another country is not sufficient to constitute him a transient. If he lives in the United States and has no definite intention as to his stay, he is a resident. One who comes to the United States for a definite purpose which in its nature may be promptly accomplished is a transient; but, if his purpose is of such a nature that an extended stay may be necessary for its accomplishment, and to that end the alien makes his home temporarily in the United States, he becomes a resident, though it may be his intention at all times to return to his domicile abroad when the purpose for which he came has been consummated or abandoned. An alien whose stay in the United States is limited to a definite period by the immigration laws is not a resident of the United States within the meaning of this section, in the absence of exceptional circumstances.

3. One cannot simultaneously be a statutory “citizen” and a statutory “alien” in relation to the same political entity at the same time. Therefore:

3.1. More than one political entity must be involved AND

3.2. Those who are simultaneously “citizens” and “aliens” must be outside the country and in a legislatively foreign country.

4. One cannot have a civil status under the civil statutes of a place such as “citizen” or “resident” WITHOUT a DOMICILE in that place.

4.1. This includes statutory “citizen” or statutory “resident”.

4.2. This is a requirement of Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17 and the law of domicile itself.

§ 29. Status

It may be laid down that the, status- or, as it is sometimes called, civil status, in contradistinction to political status - of a person depends largely, although not universally, upon domicile. The older jurists, whose opinions are fully collected by Story I and Barge, maintained, with few exceptions, the principle of the ubiquity of status, conferred by the lex domicili with little qualification. Lord Westbury, in Udny v. Udny, thus states the doctrine broadly: "The civil status is governed by one single principle, namely, that of domicile, which is the criterion established by law for the purpose of determining civil status. For it is on this basis that the personal rights of the party - that is to say, the law which determines his majority and minority, his marriage, succession, testacy, or intestacy-must depend." Gray, C. J., in the late Massachusetts case of Ross v. Ross, speaking with special reference to capacity to inherit, says: "It is a general principle that the status or condition of a person, the relation in which he stands to another person, and by which he is qualified or made capable to take certain rights in that other's property, is fixed by the law of the domicile; and that this status and capacity are to be recognized and upheld in every other State, so far as they are not inconsistent with its own laws and policy."

5. Even JESUS said that the only “taxpayers” are citizens abroad and aliens at home! Are you going to disagree with GOD Himself?:

When they [Jesus and Apostle Peter] had come to Capernaum, those [collectors] who received the temple tax [the government has become the modern day socialist pagan god and Washington, D.C. is our civic "temple"] came to Peter and said, "Does your Teacher [Jesus] not pay the temple tax?"

He [Apostle Peter] said, "Yes." [Jesus, our fearless leader as Christians, was a nontaxpayer!]

And when he had come into the house, Jesus anticipated him, saying, "What do you think, Simon? From whom do the kings [governments] of the earth [lawfully] take customs or taxes, from their sons [citizens and subjects] or from strangers ["aliens"], which are synonymous with "residents" in the tax code, and exclude "citizens"]?"

Peter said to Him, "From strangers ["aliens"?] /"residents" ONLY. See 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)]."

Jesus said to him, "Then the sons ["citizens"] of the Republic, who are all sovereign "non-resident non-persons," if Form #5020, or "nationals," if Form #5,006 are free (sovereign over their own person and labor, e.g. SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY)."

[Matt. 17:24-27, Bible, NKJV]

6. 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a) refers to “every individual who is a citizen”, meaning every ALIEN in a foreign country who is ALSO a STATUTORY “national and citizen of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401.

7. 26 U.S.C. §911(d)(1)(A) describes such an individual as a “qualified individual”. That person is a STATUTORY “national and citizen of the United States” temporarily abroad but domiciled in the federal zone.

8. Rev. Rul. 75-489 at p. 511 agrees that citizens abroad are “aliens” coming under a tax treaty to which the foreign country they are in is a party. Thus, they are receiving a “benefit” or “privilege”. These “citizens” are those born on and domiciled within the federal zone and not any constitutional state. Those born within and domiciled within a constitutional state are “nationals” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) per Form #05.006.

Rev. Rul. 75-489 at p. 511.

Sections 1.1-1 and 1.871-1 of the Income Tax Regulations provide that all citizens of the United States, wherever resident, and all resident alien individuals are liable to the income taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code whether the income is received from sources within or without the United States. See, however, section 911 of the Code. (Emphasis added.)

Note the phrase “wherever resident” meaning wherever they ARE STATUTORY “residents”. All “residents” are defined as ALIENS AND are all “individuals”. All “individuals” are STATUTORY aliens per 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i) as we showed earlier. The only exception is STATUTORY citizens of the United States under 8 U.S.C. §1401 domiciled on federal territory and temporarily abroad per 26 U.S.C. §911(d).

26 U.S. Code § 7701 - Definitions
(b) Definition of resident alien and nonresident alien

(A) Resident alien

An alien individual shall be treated as a resident of the United States with respect to any calendar year if (and only if) such individual meets the requirements of clause (i), (ii), or (iii):

(i) Lawfully admitted for permanent residence

Such individual is a lawful permanent resident of the United States at any time during such calendar year.

(ii) Substantial presence test

Such individual meets the substantial presence test of paragraph (3).

(iii) First year election

Such individual makes the election provided in paragraph (4).

9. Of Revenue Rulings, the courts have held:

We need not decide whether the Revenue Rulings themselves are entitled to deference. In this case, the Rulings simply reflect the agency's longstanding interpretation of its own regulations. Because that interpretation is reasonable, it attracts substantial judicial deference. Thomas Jefferson Univ. v. Shalala, 512 U.S. 358, 512 (1994). We do not resist according such deference in reviewing an agency's steady interpretation of its own 61-year-old regulation implementing a 62-year-old statute. "Treasury regulations and interpretations long continued without substantial change, applying to unamended or substantially reenacted statutes, are deemed to have received congressional approval and have the effect of law." Cottage Savings Assn. v. Commissioner, 499 U.S. 554, 561 (1991) (citing Correll, 389 U.S., at 305-306).

"The IRS's long-standing interpretation of Treasury Regulation § 1.104-1 through Revenue Rulings is reasonable, and thus entitled to substantial deference."

Therefore, the only practical way that a statutory “citizen” can ALSO be statutory “resident” under the civil laws of a place is when they are abroad as identified in 26 U.S.C. §911: Citizens or residents of the United States living abroad. That section of code, in fact, groups STATUTORY “citizens” and “residents” together because they are both “resident” when in a foreign country outside the United States* the country:

1. They are a statutory “citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 if they were born on federal territory or abroad and NOT a constitutional state. See Rogers v. Bellei, 401 U.S. 815 (1971).

2. If they avail themselves of a “benefit” under a tax treaty with a foreign country, then they are also “resident” in the foreign country they are within under the tax treaty. At that point, they ALSO interface to the United States government as a “resident” under that tax treaty.

Moreover, there are two fairly instructive Revenue Rules that clarify the phrase "wherever resident" found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(b) above. See Rev.Rul. 489 and Rev.Rul. 357 as follows:

“No provision of the Internal Revenue Code or the regulations hereunder holds that a citizen of the United States is a resident of the United States for purposes of its tax. Several sections of the Code provide Federal income tax relief or benefits to citizens of the United States who are residents without the United States for some specified period. See sections 911, 934, and 981. These sections give recognition to the fact that not all the citizens of the United States are residents of the United States.”

As regards additional support, see Rev.Rul. 75-357 at p. 5, as follows:

“Sections 1.1-1(b) and 1.871-1 of the Income Tax Regulations provide that all citizens of the United States, wherever resident, and all resident alien individuals are liable to the income taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code whether the income is received from sources within or without the United States. See, however, section 911 of the Code. (Emphasis added.)”
[Rev.Rul. 75-357, p. 5]

Being that Rev.Rul. 75-357 quotes 26 C.F.R. § 1.1-1(b) directly, and duly informs every reader to see 26 U.S.C. §911, we believe an examination of 26 U.S.C. §911 and its regulations is in order to locate the appropriate application of the “wherever resident” phrase in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(b). See 26 U.S.C. §911(d)(1)(A) as follows:

(d) Definitions and special rules — For purposes of this section —

(1) Qualified individual — The term “qualified individual” means an individual whose tax home is in a foreign country and who is —

(A) a citizen of the United States and establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that he has been a bona fide resident of a foreign country or countries for an uninterrupted period which includes an entire taxable year.
[26 U.S.C. §911(d)(1)(A)]

There you have it. The “citizen of the United states” must be a bona-fide “resident of a foreign country” to be a qualified individual subject to tax.

Additionally, as we know, 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(b) states:

“All citizens of the United States, wherever resident, are liable to the income taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code whether the income is received from sources within or without the United States.”

The regulations for section 911 make the distinction between where income is received as opposed to where services are performed. See the following:

26 C.F.R. §1.911-3 Determination of amount of foreign earned income to be excluded.

(a) Definition of foreign earned income.

For purposes of section 911 and the regulations thereunder, the term “foreign earned income” means earned income (as defined in paragraph (b) of this section) from sources within a foreign country (as defined in §1.911-2(h)) that is earned during a period for which the individual qualifies under §1.911-2(a) to make an election. Earned income is from sources within a foreign country if it is attributable to services performed by an individual in a foreign country or countries. The place of receipt of earned income is immaterial in determining whether earned income is attributable to services performed in a foreign country or countries.

Note the phrase “foreign country” above. That phrase obviously does not include states of the Union. We are therefore inescapably lead to the following conclusions based on the above analysis:

2. No statute EXPRESSLY imposes a tax upon statutory “citizens” when they are NOT “abroad”, meaning in a foreign country. Therefore, under the rules of statutory construction, tax is not owed under ANY other circumstance:

Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”

3. A state citizen under the Fourteenth Amendment is NOT a statutory “citizen” under the Internal Revenue Code at 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c), even when they are abroad. Rather, they are statutory “non-resident non-persons” when abroad. See and rebut Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020, Section 8 and the following and answer the questions at the end of the following if you disagree:

4. Even when one is “abroad” as a statutory “citizen”, they can cease to be a statutory “citizen” at any time by:

4.1. Changing their domicile to the foreign country. This is because the civil status of “citizen” is a product of domicile on federal territory, not their birth...AND

4.2. Surrendering any and all tax “benefits” of the income tax treaty. The receipt of the “benefit” makes them subject to Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A “trade or business” franchise and a public officer in receipt, custody, and control of government property, which itself IS the “benefit”.

6. The claim that all state citizens domiciled in states of the Union are “citizens of the United States” under the Internal Revenue Code and that they owe a tax on ANY of their earnings is categorically false and fraudulent.

Below is a table that succinctly summarizes everything we have learned in this section in tabular form. The left column shows what you are now and the two right columns show what you can “elect” or “volunteer” to become under the authority of the Internal Revenue Code based on that status:

5.4.8.13.8 How private employers and financial institutions compel choice of domicile

Whenever you open a financial account or start a new job these days, some companies, banks, or investment companies will require you to produce “government ID”. Their favorite form of ID is the state issued ID. Unfortunately, unless you are an alien (foreign national) domiciled on federal territory within the exterior limits of the state who is not protected by the Constitution, you don’t qualify for state ID or even a state driver’s license. By asking for “government ID”, employers and financial institutions indirectly are forcing you to do the following as a precondition of doing business with them:

1. Surrender the benefits and protections of being a Constitutional “citizen” in exchange for being a privileged statutory alien, and to do so WITHOUT consideration and without recourse.
2. Become a statutory “resident alien” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) domiciled on federal territory and subject to federal jurisdiction, who is a public officer within the federal government engaged in the “trade or business” franchise. See: The “Trade or Business” Scam, Form #05.001 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
3. Become a privileged statutory “resident alien” franchisee who is compelled to participate in what essentially amounts to a “protection racket”.

“Residents, as distinguished from citizens, are aliens who are permitted to take up a permanent abode in the country. Being bound to the society by reason of their [intention of] dwelling in it, they are subject to its laws so long as they remain there, and, being protected by it, they must defend it, although they do not enjoy all the rights of citizenship. They have only certain privileges which the law, or custom, gives them. Permanent residents are those who have been given the right of perpetual residence. They are a sort of citizen of a less privileged character, and are subject to the society without enjoying all its advantages. Their children succeed to their status; for the right of perpetual residence given them by the State passes to their children.”

4. Serving two masters and being subject simultaneously to state and federal jurisdiction. The federal government has jurisdiction over Constitutional aliens, including those within a state.

“No one can serve two masters [two employers, for instance]; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”

[Matt. 6:24, Bible, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]
Those who use OTHER than a driver license for ID may be told by some institutions that they need TWO forms of government ID in order to open the account. They do this because what they are REALLY looking for is at least one document that evidences a domicile or residence in a specific location. Here is an example of what you might hear on this subject:

“I’m sorry, but the Patriot Act [or some other obscure regulation] requires you to produce TWO forms of government issued ID to open an account with us.”

Most people falsely presume that the above statement means that they ALSO need state ID in addition to the passport but this isn’t true. It is a maxim of law that the law cannot require an impossibility. If they are going to impose a duty upon you under the color of law by saying that you need TWO forms of ID, they must provide a way to comply without:

1. Compelling you to politically associate with a specific government in violation of the First Amendment.
2. Compelling you to participate in government franchises by providing an identifying number.
3. Misrepresenting your status as a privileged statutory “resident alien”.
4. Violating your religious beliefs by nominating an Earthly protector and thereby firing God as your only protector.

There are lots of ways around this trap. For instance, the U.S. Supreme Court said WE are the government and that we govern ourselves through our elected representatives.

“The words ‘people of the United States’ and ‘citizens,’ are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who hold the power and conduct the government through their representatives. They are what we familiarly call the ‘sovereign people,’ and every citizen is one of this people, and a constituent member of this sovereignty. ...”

[Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 142 U.S. 135 (1892)]

So what does “government id” really mean? A notary public is also a public officer and therefore part of the government.

A notary public (sometimes called a notary) is a public official appointed under authority of law, with power, among other things, to administer oaths, certify affidavits, take acknowledgments, take depositions, perpetuate testimony, and protect negotiable instruments. Notaries are not appointed under federal law; they are appointed under the authority of the various states, districts, territories, as in the case of the Virgin Islands, and the commonwealth, in the case of Puerto Rico. The statutes, which define the powers and duties of a notary public, frequently grant the notary the authority to do all acts justified by commercial usage and the "law merchant".

If you hand the financial institution any of the following, you have satisfied their requirement for secondary ID without violating the law or being compelled to associate with or contract with the government:

1. Notarized piece of paper with your picture and your birth certificate on it. The notary is a government officer and therefore it is government ID.
2. Certified copy of your birth certificate by itself. The certification is from the government so it is government ID.
3. ID issued by a government you formed and signed by the “Secretary of State” of that government. The people are the government according to the Supreme Court, so you can issue your own ID.

You have to be creative at times to avoid their attempts to compel you to sign up for government franchises, but it is still doable.

Another thing that nearly all financial institutions and private employers habitually do is PRESUME, usually wrongfully, that:

1. You are a “citizen” or a “resident” of the place you live or work. What citizens and residents have in common is a domicile within a jurisdiction. Otherwise, you would be called “nonresidents” or “transient foreigners”.
2. Whatever residence or mailing address you give them is your domicile or residence address.
By making such a false presumption, employers and financial institutions in effect are causing you to make an “invisible election” to become a citizen or resident or domiciliary and to provide your tacit consent to be CIVILLY governed without even realizing it.

If you want to prevent becoming a victim of the false presumption that you are a statutory domiciled “citizen”, “resident”, and therefore domiciliary of the place you live or work, you must take special precautions to notify all of your business associates by providing a special form to them describing you as a “nonresident” of some kind. At the federal level, that form is the IRS Form W-8BEN or a suitable substitute, which identifies the holder as a “nonresident alien”. IRS does not make a form for “nonresidents” who are not “aliens” (foreign nationals) or public officers, unfortunately, so you must therefore modify their form or make your own form. For an article on how to fill out tax forms to ensure that you are not PRESUMED, usually prejudicially and falsely, to be a resident or citizen or domiciliary, see the following article:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Sometimes, those receiving your declaration of “non-resident non-person” or “transient foreigner” status may try to interfere with that choice. For such cases, the following pamphlet proves that the only one who can lawfully declare or establish your civil status, including your “nonresident” status, is you. If anyone tries to coerce you to declare a civil status for yourself that you don’t want to accept and don’t consent to, you should provide an affidavit indicating that you were under duress and that they threatened to financially penalize you or not contract with you if you don’t LIE on government forms and declare a status you don’t want. The following pamphlet is also useful in proving that they have no authority to coerce you to declare any civil status you don’t want:

Your Exclusive Right to Declare or Establish Your Civil Status, Form #13.008
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

We should always keep in mind that whenever a financial institution or employer asks for a tax form, they are doing so under the color of law as a “withholding agent” (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16)) who is usually illegally acting as a public officer of the government. Because they are a public officer of the government in their capacity as a withholding agent, they still have a legal duty not to violate your rights, even if they otherwise are a private company. The Constitution applies to all officers and agents of the government, including “withholding agents” while acting in that capacity. Financial institutions especially are aware of this fact, which is why if you ask them to give you their criteria for what ID they will accept in writing, they will say that it is a confidential internal document that they can't share with the public. They know they are discriminating unlawfully as a public officer by rejecting your ID and they want to limit the legal liability that results from this by preventing you from having evidence to prove that they are officially discriminating. They keep such policies on their computer, protected by a password, and they will tell you that the computer doesn't let them print it out or that there isn't a field in their system for them to accept the type of ID that you have. THIS is a SCAM! Take a picture of the screen with your cellphone, page by page, in response to such a SCAM.

5.4.8.13.9 How corrupt courts, judges, and government attorneys try to CHANGE your domicile

There are many ways in which corrupt judges, prosecutors, and courts compel a change in your domicile to federal territory. Below are a few of the ways, followed by further explanation:

1. The court rules will not require you to specify that you are a citizen or resident. This allows the judge to PRESUME that you are, even though this presumption is a violation of due process of law. Consent to BECOME a citizen or resident domiciled within their jurisdiction cannot confer personal jurisdiction upon a court if you did not ALREADY have such status.

2. Your opponent may accuse you of having a “domicile”, “residence”, or “permanent address” at a specific location and if you don’t rebut it, then you are unconstitutionally PRESUMED to have that status.

3. You may claim that you do NOT have a civil domicile in the jurisdiction of the court and the judge may illegally try to exclude the pleading or the evidence claiming so. This is criminal tampering with a witness and you should vociferously oppose it.

4. The judge or prosecutor may ASK you if you are “citizen”, create the PRESUMPTION that they are talking about your POLITICAL status, and when you answer, PRESUME that it is a civil statutory status. This happens all the time on government forms and its identity theft. Leave no room for such tricks in your pleadings!
5. The judge or prosecutor may try to confuse citizenship terms and fool you into admitting that you have a domicile as shown below.

To avoid all the above malicious traps in court, we recommend the following attachments to your complaint or response:

1. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001

2. Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status Options, Form #10.003
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

It is very important to understand that there are THREE separate and distinct CONTEXTS in which the term "United States" can be used, and each has a mutually exclusive and different meaning. These three definitions of “United States” were described by the U.S. Supreme Court in Hooven and Allison v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945):

<td>2</td>
<td>The “federal zone”.</td>
</tr>
<tr>

<td>3</td>

</tr>
</tbody>

In addition to the above GEOGRAPHICAL context, there is also a legal, non-geographical context in which the term “United States” can be used, which is the GOVERNMENT as a legal entity. Throughout this page and this website, we identify THIS context as "United States*" or "United States". The only types of "persons" within THIS context are public offices within the national and not state government. It is THIS context in which "sources within the United States" is used for the purposes of "income" and "gross income" within the Internal Revenue Code, as proven by:

Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020, Section 5.4
FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

The reason these contexts are not expressly distinguished in the statutes by the Legislative Branch or on government forms crafted by the Executive Branch is that they are the KEY mechanism by which:

1. Federal jurisdiction is unlawfully enlarged by abusing presumption, which is a violation of due process of law. See:
   Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
   DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Presumption.pdf
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. The separation of powers between the states and the national government is destroyed, in violation of the legislative intent of the Constitution. See:
   Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. A "society of law" is transformed into a "society of men" in violation of Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137 (1803):

   "The government of the United States has been emphatically termed a government of laws, and not of men. It will certainly cease to deserve this high appellation, if the laws furnish no remedy for the violation of a vested legal right.”

   [Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137, 163 (1803)]

   4. Exclusively PRIVATE rights are transformed into public rights in a process we call "invisible eminent domain using presumption and words of art".

   5. Judges are unconstitutionally delegated undue discretion and "arbitrary power" to unlawfully enlarge federal jurisdiction. See:
The way a corrupted Executive Branch or judge accomplish the above is to unconstitutionally:

1. PRESUME that ALL of the four contexts for "United States" are equivalent.
2. PRESUME that CONSTITUTIONAL citizens and STATUTORY citizens are EQUIVALENT under federal law. They are NOT. A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen is a "non-resident" under federal civil law and NOT a STATUTORY "national and citizen of the United States at birth" per 8 U.S.C. §1401. See the document below:

   Why You are a "national", "state national", and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
   DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/WhyANational.pdf

3. PRESUME that "nationality" and "domicile" are equivalent. They are NOT. See:

   Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
   DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf

4. Use the word "citizenship" in place of "nationality" OR "domicile", and refuse to disclose WHICH of the two they mean in EVERY context.
5. Confuse the POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL meaning of words with the civil STATUTORY context. For instance, asking on government forms whether you are a POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL citizen and then FALSELY PRESUMING that you are a STATUTORY citizen under 8 U.S.C. §1401.
6. Confuse the words "domicile" and "residence" or impute either to you without satisfying the burden of proving that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to it and thereby illegally kidnap your civil legal identity against your will. One can have only one "domicile" but many "residences" and BOTH require your consent. See:

   Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
   DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf

7. Add things or classes of things to the meaning of statutory terms that do not EXPRESSLY appear in their definitions, in violation of the rules of statutory construction. See:

   Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
   DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/LegalDecPropFraud.pdf

8. Refuse to allow the jury to read the definitions in the law and then give them a definition that is in conflict with the statutory definition. This substitutes the JUDGES will for what the law expressly says and thereby substitutes PUBLIC POLICY for the written law.
9. Publish deceptive government publications that are in deliberate conflict with what the statutes define "United States" as and then tell the public that they CANNOT rely on the publication. The IRS does this with ALL of their publications and it is FRAUD. See:

   Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
   DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/ReasonableBelief.pdf

This kind of arbitrary discretion is PROHIBITED by the Constitution, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court:

"When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power."

Thomas Jefferson, our most revered founding father, precisely predicted the above abuses when he said:

"It has long been my opinion, and I have never shrank from its expression,... that the germ of dissolution of our Federal Government is in the constitution of the Federal Judiciary--an irresponsible body (for impeachment is scarcely a scare-crow), working like gravity by night and by day, gaining a little today and a little tomorrow, and advancing its noiseless step like a thief over the field of jurisdiction until all shall be usurped from the States and the government be consolidated into one. To this I am opposed."

[Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:331]
"Contrary to all correct example, [the Federal judiciary] are in the habit of going out of the question before them, to throw an anchor ahead and grapple further hold for future advances of power. They are then in fact the corps of sappers and miners, steadily working to undermine the independent rights of the States and to consolidate all power in the hands of that government in which they have so important a freehold estate."
[Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:121]

"The judiciary of the United States is the subtle corps of sappers and miners constantly working under ground to undermine the foundations of our confederated fabric. They are construing our Constitution from a co-ordination of a general and special government to a general and supreme one alone. This will lay all things at their feet, and they are too well versed in English law to forget the maxim, 'boni judicis est ampliare jurisdictionem.'"
[Thomas Jefferson to Thomas Ritchie, 1820. ME 15:297]

"When all government, domestic and foreign, in little as in great things, shall be drawn to Washington as the center of all power, it will render powerless the checks provided of one government on another and will become as vengeal and oppressive as the government from which we separated."
[Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:332]

"What an augmentation of the field for jobbing, speculating, plundering, office-building ["trade or business" scam] and office-hunting would be produced by an assumption [PREPTION] of all the State powers into the hands of the General Government!"
[Thomas Jefferson to Gideon Granger, 1800. ME 10:168]

5.4.8.13.10 Summary of how to enslave any people by abusing citizenship terms and language\textsuperscript{147}

It is instructive to summarize how citizenship “words of art” can be abused to enslave any people:

1. Make the government into an unconstitutional monopoly in providing “protection”. This turns government into a mafia protection RACKET. 18 U.S.C. Chapter 95.
2. Ensure that the government NEVER prosecutes its own members for their racketeering crimes, and instead uses the law ONLY to “selectively enforce” against political dissidents or those who refuse their “protection racket”. This act of omission promotes anarchy by making the government not only the source of law, but above the law, not as a matter of law, but as a matter of invisible “policy”.
3. Make people FALSELY believe that:
   3.1. CIVIL STATUTES, all of which ONLY pertain to government are the ONLY remedy for anything.
   3.2. Everyone is a public officer called a “citizen” or “resident” who has to do anything and everything that any politician publishes in the “employment agreement” called the civil law.
   3.3. Any civil obligation any corrupt politician wants can lawfully attach to the status of “citizen” without compensation because calling yourself a citizen is voluntary and anything done to you that you volunteer for cannot form the basis for an injury. This doesn’t violate the Thirteenth Amendment because you volunteered.

\textbf{The citizen cannot complain, because he has voluntarily submitted himself to such a form of government.} He owes allegiance to the two departments, so to speak, and within their respective spheres must pay the penalties which each exacts for disobedience to its laws. In return, he can demand protection from each within its own jurisdiction."
[United States v. Cruikshank, 92 U.S. 542 (1875)]

3.4. There is no common law. Common law is the only way to lawfully approach the government as a PRIVATE human and equal RATHER than a public officer.
3.5. Being a “citizen” under the civil statutes and employment agreement is a result of BIRTH rather than CIVIL DOMICILE. This makes it impossible to “unvolunteer” because being born is not consensual but selecting a domicile is consensual.
4. Define everyone in receipt of that protection as receiving a franchise “benefit”.
   4.1. Give this “benefit” the name “privileges and immunities”.
   4.2. Prosecute as thieves all those who refuse to receive the “benefit” or pay for the benefit. This happens all the time at tax trials. The government prosecution tells a jury full of “tax consumers” with a criminal financial conflict of...\textsuperscript{147} Source: \emph{Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen}, Form #05.006, Section 1.4; \url{https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm}.
interest in violation of 18 U.S.C. §208 that you refuse to pay your “fair share” for receiving the “benefits” of living in this country, but are never even required to quality or prove with evidence the actual VALUE of such benefits. This turns the jury into an angry lynch mob not unlike the mob that crucified Jesus, who are a “weapon of mass destruction” in the hands of a covetous prosecutor. It makes the defendant literally into a “human sacrifice” to the pagan god of government.

5. Implement a common law maxim that he who receives a “benefit” implicitly consents to all the obligations associated with the “benefit”. That way, it is impossible to withdraw your IMPLIED consent to be protected or the obligations of paying for the protection.

“Cujus est commodum ejus debet esse commodum.

He who receives the benefit should also bear the disadvantage.”

“Quo sentit commodum, sentire debet et onas.

He who derives a benefit from a thing, ought to feel the disadvantages attending it. 2 Bov. Inst. n. 1433.”

[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856; SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

6. Call those in receipt of the civil statutory protection “citizens” and “subjects”, whether they want to be or not. Refuse to document or explain HOW they became “subjects” or how to UNVOLUNTEER to become one. Even tell them its “voluntary” but refuse to offer a way to un volunteer. In psychology, this approach is called “crazymaking”.

Crazymaking

Noun

A form of psychological attack on somebody by offering contradictory alternatives and criticizing [or undermining] the person for choosing either.

This obviously violates the First Amendment, but a government that is above the law doesn’t care. Don’t allow anyone but a judge to define or redefine these words “citizen” or “subject” so that the status cannot be challenged in court.

8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21)

The term “national” means a person owing permanent allegiance to a state.

Here is the definition of “permanent” that shows this deception is happening:

8 U.S.C. §1101 Definitions [for the purposes of citizenship]

(a) As used in this chapter—

(31) The term “permanent” means a relationship of continuing or lasting nature, as distinguished from temporary, but a relationship may be permanent even though it is one that may be dissolved eventually at the instance either of the United States[] or of the individual, in accordance with law.

8. Create confusion in the U.S. Supreme Court over what the origin of the government’s taxing power is and whether it derives from DOMICILE or NATIONALITY. Former President Taft, the guy who got the Sixteenth Amendment income tax amendment fraudulently ratified by Philander Knox, did this while he was serving as the Chief Just of the U.S. Supreme Court148.

“Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the United States, nor was not and cannot be made

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

9. Hope no one notices that:

9.1. The common law has never been repealed and CANNOT be repealed because it is mandated in the United States Constitution. See the Seventh Amendment.

9.2. The common law MUST allow one to NOT accept a benefit:

"Invito beneficium non datur.
No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he does not dissent he will be considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

Non videtur consensum retinuisse si quis ex praescripto minantis aliquid immutavit.
He does not appear to have retained his consent, if he has changed anything through the means of a party threatening. Bacon's Max. Reg. 33."

[Source: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

9.3. The term “permanent” really means temporary and requires your express and CONTINUING consent, and ESPECIALLY in the context of “permanent allegiance” that is the basis for “nationality”:

8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(31)

The term “permanent” means a relationship of continuing or lasting nature, as distinguished from temporary, but a relationship may be permanent even though it is one that may be dissolved eventually at the instance either of the United States or of the individual, in accordance with law.

10. Use deception, equivocation, and “words of art” to divorce “domicile”, which requires consent, from the basis for being a “citizen”, and thus, remove CONSENT from the requirement to be a “citizen”. This has the effect of making “citizen” status compelled and involuntary. Do this by the following tactics:

10.1. PRESUME that ALL of the four contexts for “United States” are equivalent.

10.2. PRESUME that CONSTITUTIONAL citizens and STATUTORY citizens are EQUIVALENT under federal law. They are NOT. A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen is a "non-resident non-person" under federal law and NOT a "citizen of the United States".

10.3. PRESUME that "nationality" and "domicile" are equivalent. They are NOT.

10.4. Use the word "citizenship" in place of "nationality" OR "domicile", and refuse to disclose WHICH of the two they mean in EVERY context.

10.5. Confuse the POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL meaning of words with the civil STATUTORY context. For instance, asking on government forms whether you are a POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL citizen and then FALSELY PRESUMING that you are a STATUTORY citizen under 8 U.S.C. §1401.

10.6. Confuse the words "domicile" and "residence" or impute either to you without satisfying the burden of proving that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to it and thereby illegally kidnap your civil legal identity against your will. One can only have one "domicile" but many "residences" and BOTH require your consent.

10.7. Add things or classes of things to the meaning of statutory GEOGRAPHIC terms that do not EXPRESSLY appear in their definitions, in violation of the rules of statutory construction. This allows EVERYONE to be PRESUMED to be a STATUTORY “citizen” and franchisee.

10.8. Refuse to allow the jury to read the definitions in the law and then give them a definition that is in conflict with the statutory definition. This substitutes the JUDGES will for what the law expressly says and thereby substitutes PUBLIC POLICY for the written law.

10.9. Publish deceptive government publications that are in deliberate conflict with what the statutes define "United States" as and then tell the public that they CANNOT rely on the publication. The IRS does this with ALL of their publications and it is FRAUD. See:

All of the above tactics are documented in:

11. Label as “frivolous” anyone who exposes or challenges the above in court. What this really means is someone who refuses to join the state-sponsored religion that worships men and rulers and governments and which has “superior” or “supernatural” powers above that of any man. Prevent challenges to being called “frivolous” by:

11.1. Refusing to define the word.
11.2. Never having to prove WITH EVIDENCE that the claim being called “frivolous” is incorrect.

The above tactics are documented in:

Meaning of the Word “Frivolous”, Form #05.027
https://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

12. Protect the above SCAM by deceiving people litigating against the above abuses into falsely believing that “sovereign immunity” is a lawful way to prevent common law remedies against the above abuses. Sovereign immunity only applies to STATUTORY “citizens” and “residents” under the CIVIL law, not the COMMON law.

The above tactics essentially turn a REPUBLIC into an OLIGARCHY and make everyone a slave to the usually JUDICIAL oligarchy. That oligarchy is also called a “kritarchy”. They make our legal system function just like a British Monarchy for all intents and purposes. British subjects cannot abandon their civil status as “subjects” of the king or queen by changing their domicile, while under American jurisprudence, Americans can but are deceived into believing that they can’t. Now you know why judges don’t like talking about the SOURCE of their unjust civil jurisdiction over you, which is domicile, or its relationship to HOW their civil statutes acquire the “force of law” against you.

5.4.8.13.11 Administrative Remedies to Prevent Identity Theft on Government Forms

We have prepared an entire short presentation showing you all the “traps” on government forms and how to avoid them:

Avoiding Traps in Government Forms, Form #12.023
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

All of the so-called “traps” described in the above presentation center around the following abuses and FRAUDS:

28 U.S. Code § 1746 - Unsworn declarations under penalty of perjury

Wherever, under any law of the United States or under any rule, regulation, order, or requirement made pursuant to law, any matter is required or permitted to be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the sworn declaration, verification, certificate, statement, oath, or affidavit, in writing of the person making the same (other than a deposition, or an oath of office, or an oath required to be taken before a specified official other than a notary public), such matter may, with like force and effect, be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the unsworn declaration, certificate, verification, or statement, in writing of such person which is subscribed by him, as true under penalty of perjury, and dated, in substantially the following form:

(1) If executed within the United States [federal territory or the government], its territories, possessions, or commonwealths: “I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date).”

(2) If executed within the United States [federal territory or the government], its territories, possessions, or commonwealths: “I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date).”

2. Telling you when you submit the form that the terms on the form have their ordinary, PRIVATE, non-statutory meaning but after they RECEIVE the form, INTERPRETING all terms in their PUBLIC and STATUTORY context. This is bait and switch, deception, and FRAUD.

3. Confusing the CONSTITUTIONAL context with the STATUTORY context for geographical words of art such as “United States” and “State”.

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
4. Confusing CONSTITUTIONAL “Citizens” or “citizens of the United States” in the Fourteenth Amendment with
5. Confusing CONSTITUTIONAL “persons” or “people” with STATUTORY “persons” or “individuals”.
CONSTITUTIONAL “persons” are all MEN OR WOMEN AND NOT ARTIFICIAL entities or offices, while civil STATUTORY persons are all PUBLIC offices and fictions of law created by Congress.
6. Connecting you with a civil status found in civil statutory law, which is a public office. The form itself does this:
6.1. In the “status” block. It either doesn’t offer a STATUTORY “non-resident non-person” status in the form or they don’t offer ANY form for STATUTORY “non-resident non-persons”.
6.2. The Title of the form. The upper left corner of the 1040 identifies the applicant as a “U.S. individual”, meaning a public office domiciled on federal territory.
6.3. Underneath the signature, which usually identifies the civil status of the applicant, such as “taxpayer”.

The remedy for the above types of deception and fraud is the following:
1. Avoid filling out any and every government form.
2. If FORCED to fill out a government form, ALWAYS attach a MANDATORY attachment that defines all geographical, citizenship, and status terms the form with precise definitions and betray whether the meaning is
STATUTORY or CONSTITUTION. It CANNOT be both. If you think it is both, you are practicing a logical fallacy called “equivocation”. State on the form you are attaching to that the form is “Not valid, false, and fraudulent if not accompanied by the following attachment:______________________”. The attachments on our sit are good for this.
3. Tell the recipient that if they don’t rebut the definitions you provide within a specified time limit, then they agree and are estopped from later challenging it.
4. Specify that none of the terms on the form submitted have the meaning found in any state or federal statutory code.
Instead they imply only the common meaning.

There are many forms on our site you can attach to standard forms provided by the IRS, state revenue agencies, financial institutions, and employers that satisfy the above to ensure that your correct status is reflected in their records. Below are the most important ones.
1. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001

2. Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201

3. USA Passport Application Attachment, Form #06.007

4. Voter Registration Attachment, Form #06.003

5. Affidavit of Domicile: Probate, Form #04.223

The language after the line below is language derived from Form #04.223 above. The language included is very instructive and helpful to our readers in identifying HOW the identity theft happens. We strongly suggest reusing this language in the administrative record of any entity who claims you are a statutory “taxpayer”, “person”, or “individual” under the Internal Revenue Code or state revenue code.

AFFIDAVIT REGARDING ESTATE OF DECEDED: ______________________

I certify that the following facts are true under penalty of perjury under the criminal perjury laws of the state I am in but NOT under any OTHER of the civil statutory codes. I am not under any other civil codes as a civil non-resident non-person. The content of this form defines all geographical, citizenship, and domicile terms used on any and all forms to which this estate settlement relates for all parties concerned.

1. Civil status and domicile of decedent: Decedent at the time of his death was:
   1.1. A CONSTITUTIONAL “Citizen” or “citizen of the United States” as defined in the Fourteenth Amendment.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1.2. NOT a STATUTORY “U.S. citizen” or “national and citizen of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c), or 26 U.S.C. §3121(e). 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) identifies an 8 U.S.C. §1401 “U.S. citizen” as the ONLY type of “citizen” subject to the Internal Revenue Code. All such “U.S. citizens” are territorial citizens born within and domiciled within federal territory and NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL “State”.

1.3. Domiciled in the CONSTITUTIONAL “United States” and CONSTITUTIONAL State at the time of his death.

The Court’s conclusion in Downes was derived in part by analyzing the territorial scope of the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments. The Thirteenth Amendment prohibits slavery and involuntary servitude “within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.” U.S. Const. amend. XIII, § 1 (emphasis added). The Fourteenth Amendment states that persons “born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside.” U.S. Const. amend. XIV, § 1 (emphasis added). The disjunctive “or” in the Thirteenth Amendment demonstrates that “there may be places within the jurisdiction of the United States that are not[ ] part of the Union” to which the Thirteenth Amendment would apply, Downes, 182 U.S. at 251, 21 S.Ct. at 773. Citizenship under the Fourteenth Amendment, however, “is not extended to persons born in any place ‘subject to [the United States’] jurisdiction,’” but is limited to persons born or naturalized in the states of the Union, Downes, 182 U.S. at 251, 21 S.Ct. at 773 (emphasis added); see also id. at 263, 21 S.Ct. at 777 (“[I]n dealing with foreign sovereignties, the term ‘United States’ has a broader meaning than when used in the Constitution, and includes all territories subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal government, wherever located.”).

1.4. NOT domiciled in the STATUTORY “United States” or “State” as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes. These areas are federal territory not within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union.

1.5. NOT a STATUTORY “U.S. person” as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30), because it relies on the definition of “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes.

1.6. An “individual” in an ordinary or CONSTITUTIONAL sense. By this we mean he was a PRIVATE man or woman protected by the CONSTITUTION and the COMMON LAW and NOT subject to the jurisdiction of the STATUTORY civil law.

1.7. NOT an “individual” in a STATUTORY sense or as used in any revenue code. 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) indicates that “individuals” are “aliens” by default and are both “foreign persons” and “aliens”. Therefore the decedent could not possibly be an “individual” as that term is used in the Internal Revenue Code.

2. Warning NOT to confuse STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts for geographical or citizenship terms:

2.1. Recipient of this form is cautioned NOT to PRESUME that the STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts of geographical, citizenship, or domicile terms are equivalent. They are NOT and are mutually exclusive.

150 Congress, under the Act of February 21, 1871, ch. 62, § 34, 16 Stat. 419, 426, expressly extended the Constitution and federal laws to the District of Columbia. See Downes, 182 U.S. at 261, 21 S.Ct. at 777 (stating that the “mere cession of the District of Columbia” from portions of Virginia and Maryland did not “take [the District of Columbia] out of the United States or from under the aegis of the Constitution.”).

2.2. One CANNOT lawfully have a domicile in two different places that are legislatively “foreign” and a “foreign estate” in relation to each other. This is what George Orwell called DOUBLETHINK and the result is CRIMINAL IDENTITY THEFT.

2.3. The U.S. Supreme Court held in Rogers v. Bellei, 401 U.S. 815 (1971) that an 8 U.S.C. §1401 STATUTORY “U.S. citizen” is NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL “citizen of the United States” under the Fourteenth Amendment. See also Valmonte v. I.N.S., 136 F.3d. 9 (C.A.2, 1998) earlier. Therefore, it is my firm understanding that the decedent:

2.3.1. Was NOT domiciled in the STATUTORY “United States” or “State” defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes. These areas are federal territory under the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government.

2.3.2. Was NOT a STATUTORY "U.S. citizen" under 8 U.S.C. §1401, which is the ONLY type of “citizen” mentioned anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code. These are territorial citizens domiciled on federal territory, and the decedent was NOT so domiciled.

3. “Intention” of the Decedent:

The transaction to which this submission relates requires the affiant to provide legal evidence of the “domicile” of the decedent for the purposes of settling the estate. This requires that he/she make a “legal determination” about someone who he/she had a blood relationship with. “Domicile” is a legal term which includes both PHYSICAL presence in a place COMBINED with consent AND intent to dwell there permanently.

“domicile. A person’s legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one’s home are the requisites of establishing a “domicile” therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other statutory rights and privileges.”

3.1. Two types of domicile are involved in the estate of the decedent:

3.1.1. The domicile of the PRIVATE PHYSICAL MAN OR WOMAN under the common law and the constitution.

3.1.2. The domicile of any PUBLIC OFFICES he/she fills as part of any civil statutory franchises, such as the revenue codes, family codes, traffic codes, etc. These “offices” are represented by the civil statutory “person”, “individual”, “taxpayer”, “driver”, “spouse”, etc.

3.2. Legal publications recognize the TWO components of a MAN OR WOMAN, meaning the PUBLIC and the PRIVATE components as follows:

“A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he administer or execute them.”

[United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

3.3. Man or woman can simultaneously be in possession of BOTH PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. This gives rise to TWO legal “persons”: PUBLIC and PRIVATE.

3.3.1. The CIVIL STATUTORY law attaches to the PUBLIC person. It can do so ONLY by EXPRESS CONSENT, because the Declaration of Independence, which is organic law, declares that all JUST powers derive from the CONSENT of the party. The implication is that anything NOT expressly and in writing consented to is UNJUST and a tort.

3.3.2. The COMMON law and the Constitution attach to and protect the PRIVATE person. This is the person most people think of when they refer to someone as a “person”. They are not referring to the PUBLIC civil statutory “person”.

This is consistent with the following maxim of law.

Quando duo juro concurrunt in und personâ, aequum est ac si essent in diversis.

When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate persons. 4 Co. 118.

[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856; SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

3.4. The affiant would be remiss and malfeasant NOT to:

3.4.1. Distinguish between the PRIVATE man or woman and the PUBLIC office that are both represented by the decedent.

3.4.2. Condone or allow the recipient of the form to PRESUME that they are both equivalent. They are simply NOT.

3.4.3. Require all those enforcing PUBLIC rights associated with a PUBLIC office in the government (such as “person”, “individual”, “taxpayer”, etc.) to satisfy the burden of proving that the decedent lawfully CONSENTED to the office by making an application, taking an oath, and serving where the office (also called a statutory “trade or business” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)) was EXPRESSLY authorized to be executed.

3.5. Regarding the "intent" of the decedent, affiant is certain that the decedent had NO DESIRE to occupy, accept the benefits of, or accept the obligations of any offices he/she was compelled to fill, and therefore:

3.5.1. These offices DO NOT lawfully exist . . .and

3.5.2. It would be UNJUST to enforce the obligations of said offices WITHOUT written evidence of consent being presented by those doing the enforcing. . .and

3.5.3. The recipient of this form has a duty to provide a way NOT to accept any government “benefit” or franchise or the obligations that attach to such an acceptance in the context of any and all transactions which relate to his PRIVATE, exclusively owned property, including the entire estate that is the subject of probate. . . .AND

"Invito beneficium non datur. No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he does not dissent he will be considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE
DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS
PART 2. CONTRACTS
CHAPTER 3. CONSENT

§1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

3.5.4. It would be criminal THEFT and IDENTITY THEFT to presume that the decedent did hold any such PUBLIC offices or to enforce the obligations of such offices upon the decedent. These offices include any and all civil statuses he might have under the Internal Revenue Code (e.g. “taxpayer”, “person”, or “individual”) or the state revenue codes. Detailed documentation on the nature of this identity theft is included in:

Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046
http://sedm.org/Forms/05-McMLaw/GovernmentIdentityTheft.pdf

4. Location of decedent, estate, and property of the estate:

4.1. All property of the estate is WITHIN the CONSTITUTIONAL “United States” and the CONSTITUTIONAL State of domicile of the decedent.

4.2. All property is WITHOUT the STATUTORY “United States” defined in 26 U.S.C. 7701(a)(9) and (a)(10), and 4 U.S.C. §110(d).

4.3. The CONSTITUTIONAL and the STATUTORY “United States” and “State” are mutually exclusive and non-overlapping.

5. Definitions of all terms used on Petition for Probate and all papers filed in this action:

5.1. Any government issued identifying number associated with the Heirs or the Decedent or the estate are hereby declared to be:

5.1.1. NOT those defined in 26 U.S.C. §6109 or any federal or state enactment, REGARDLESS of the name assigned to them or its “confusing similarity” with anything that is the property of the government.

5.1.2. NOT those defined 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1 as being associated with a “trade or business” (public office) or STATUTORY “citizen” or “resident” under any government enactment, REGARDLESS of the name assigned to them or its “confusing similarity” with anything that is the property of the government.

5.1.3. Instead represent a LICENSE and FRANCHISE to any government actor to become the personal servant and “officer” exercising the privilege and agency of the Heirs and for the exclusive benefit of the Heirs. For their delegation of authority order while acting in such capacity, see:

Injury Defense Franchise and Agreement, Form #06.027

5.2. The term “permanent address” and “residence”:

5.2.1. Excludes a domicile or statutory “residence” of the Personal Representative or Heir.

5.2.2. Includes only the long-term mailing address.

5.2.3. Excludes any connection to the word “inhabitant” or “subject” under the laws of the Constitutional state where the Decedent or Heirs or Personal Representative are found.

5.3. The term “resident of the United States”, “resident of the county”:

5.3.1. Means a human PHYSICALLY PRESENT within a CONSTITUTIONAL “United States”,

5.3.2. Means a human NOT physically present in and NOT domiciled within the STATUTORY “United States”, meaning federal territory.
5.3.3. Means a human who is not a STATUTORY “resident” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) to mean an “ALIEN”.

Neither the Decedent nor the Heirs are STATUTORY “aliens”, but rather non-residents.

5.3.4. Excludes statutory “individuals” or “persons” in any act of the national for state government.

5.3.5. Includes only human beings under the common law and not statutory codes.

5.4. The terms “resident” or “resident of (statename)”:

5.4.1. Excludes that defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) to mean an “ALIEN”.

5.4.2. Excludes any and all uses of that term within the state revenue codes. The state revenue codes have the same meaning as the Internal Revenue Code and incorporate the definitions within the Internal Revenue Code into their own title in most cases.

5.4.3. Excludes statutory “individuals” or “persons” in any act of the national or state government.

5.4.4. Includes only human beings under the common law and not statutory codes.

5.4.5. Excludes the following definition of “resident” found in the older version of the Treasury Regulations:

26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5: Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons. [2005]

A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

[IMPORTANT NOTE!: Whether a “person” is a “resident” or “nonresident” has NOTHING to do with the nationality or physical location, but with whether it is engaged in a “trade or business”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office. None of the heirs or the estate are engaging in a public office and cannot lawfully do so without a lawful political election or political appointment from OTHER than themselves]

5.5. The purpose of the definitions in this section (Section 5) is to ensure then neither the Decedent, nor Personal Representative, nor the Heirs are treated as if they are the recipients of any statutory “benefit” or privilege in connection with any government, that they are acting entirely in a PRIVATE capacity, and that they are exercising rightful common law ownership and control over the property in question to exclude the government from receiving any commercial benefit or control over the estate by virtue of this proceeding. Any attempt to undermine this right TO EXCLUDE the government is a denial of an absolute property right and shall constitute a “purposeful availment” of commerce in a foreign jurisdiction and a waiver of official, judicial, and sovereign immunity by all those so abrogating the very purpose of establishing government itself, which is to protect PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights.

(Amended by Stats. 1961, Ch. 537.)

6.2. WITHIN the CONSTITUTIONAL “United States”, meaning states of the CONSTITUTIONAL union of states.

6.3. NOT WITHIN the STATUTORY “State” or STATUTORY “United States” under the state revenue codes. It may be within these things in OTHER titles of the state codes, because other titles use different definitions for “State” and “United States”.

26 U.S.C. §7701
(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof–

(26) trade or business

“The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions of a public office.”
NOTE: The U.S. Supreme Court held in the License Tax Cases that Congress CANNOT establish the above “trade or business” in a state in order to tax it.

[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

Keep in mind that the “license” they are talking about is the constructive license represented by the Social Security Number and Taxpayer Identification Number, which are only required for those ENGAGING in a STATUTORY “trade or business” per 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1. The number therefore behaves as the equivalent of what the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) calls a “franchise mark”.

“A franchise entails the right to operate a business that is "identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark, or to offer, sell, or distribute goods, services, or commodities that are identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark." The term "trademark" is intended to be read broadly to cover not only trademarks, but any service mark, trade name, or other advertising or commercial symbol. This is generally referred to as the "trademark" or "mark" element.

The franchisor [the government] need not own the mark itself, but at the very least must have the right to license the use of the mark to others. Indeed, the right to use the franchisor's mark in the operation of the business - either by selling goods or performing services identified with the mark or by using the mark, in whole or in part, in the business' name - is an integral part of franchising. In fact, a supplier can avoid Rule coverage of a particular distribution arrangement by expressly prohibiting the distributor from using its mark.”

Decedent, if he or she used any government issued identifying number, did so under compulsion, in violation of 42 U.S.C. §408(a)(8), and he/she hereby defines such use as NOT creating any presumption that he was engaged in any franchise or office, but rather evidence of unlawful duress against a non-resident non-person.

7. The above definitions of geographical and citizenship terms are NOT definitions as legally defined if they do not include all things or classes of things which are EXPRESSLY included. Furthermore, the rules of statutory construction require that anything and everything that is NOT EXPRESSLY INCLUDED in the above definitions is PURPOSEFULLY EXCLUDED:

"Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”

NOTE: Judges and even government administrators are NOT legislators and cannot by fiat or presumption add ANYTHING they want to the definition of statutory terms. If they do, they are violating the separation of powers and conducting a criminal invasion of the states in violation of Article 4, Section 4 of the United States Constitution. Furthermore, according the creator of our three branch system of government, there is NO FREEDOM AT ALL and liberty is IMPOSSIBLE when the executive and LEGISLATIVE functions are united under a single person:

“When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of magistrates, there can be no liberty; because apprehensions may arise, lest the same monarch or senate should enact tyrannical laws, to execute them in a tyrannical manner.

Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and oppression [sound familiar?].

There would be an end of everything, were the same man or the same body, whether of the nobles or of the people, to exercise those three powers, that of enacting laws, that of executing the public resolutions, and of trying the causes of individuals.

In what a situation must the poor subject be in those republics! The same body of magistrates are possessed, as executors of the laws, of the whole power they have given themselves in quality of legislators. They may plunder the state by their general determinations; and as they have likewise the judiciary power in their hands, every private citizen may be ruined by their particular decisions.”
It is FRAUD to presume that the use of the word “includes” in any definition gives unlimited license to anyone to add whatever they want to a statutory definition. This is covered in:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
http://sedm.org/Forms/05_MemLaw/LegalDecPropFraud.pdf

8. The recipient of this form is NOT AUTHORIZED to add anything to the above definitions or PRESUME anything is included that does not EXPRESSLY APPEAR in said definitions of the STATUTORY “United States” or “State”. Even the U.S. Supreme Court admits that it CANNOT lawfully do that.

"It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term. Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. 379, 392, and n. 10 (1979). Congress' use of the term "propaganda" in this statute, as indeed in other legislation, has no pejorative connotation. As judges, it is our duty to [481 U.S. 485] construe legislation as it is written, not as it might be read by a layman, or as it might be understood by someone who has not even read it."

[Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484 (1987)]

"When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term's ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a rule, a definition which declares what a term "means" . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated")."

9. How NOT to respond to this submission: In responding to this submission, please DO NOT:

9.1. Tell the affiant what to put or NOT to put in his/her paperwork. That would be practicing law on affiant’s behalf, which I do not consent to.

9.2. Try to censor this addition or submission. That would be criminal subornation of perjury. This affidavit and the attached paperwork are signed under penalty of perjury and therefore constitute “testimony of a witness”. Any attempt to influence that witness or restrict his or her testimony is criminal subornation of perjury.

9.3. Threaten to withhold service or in some way punish the affiant for submitting or insisting on including this mandatory affidavit. All such efforts constitute criminal witness tampering.

9.4. Violate the privacy of the affiant or anyone involved in this transaction by sharing any information about them or this transaction to any third party, whether private or in government.

9.5. Communicate emotions or opinions about this correspondence. The ONLY thing requested in response is FACTS and LAW admissible as evidence in court and immediately relevant and “material” to the issues raised herein. Opinions, beliefs, or presumptions are not admissible as evidence in court under the rules of evidence and I don’t consent or stipulate to those.

9.6. Cite or try to enforce any company policy that might override or supersede what is requested here. Any company policy which promotes, condones, or protects the commission of CRIMINAL activity clearly is unenforceable and non-binding on anyone it is alleged to pertain to, including the recipient of this form and the submitter as a man or woman.

9.7. Contact the IRS or any government agency or rely on any government publication for help in dealing with this issue. The courts have repeatedly held that you CANNOT rely on anything said by any government representative and the IRS’ own website says you can’t rely on their publications as a source of reasonable belief. This is also covered in:

http://sedm.org/Forms/05_MemLaw/ReasonableBelief.pdf

10. Invitation and time limit to rebut by recipient of this form: If the recipient disagrees about the civil status, domicile, or location of the estate of the decedent, you are required to provide court admissible evidence proving EXACTLY where the term "U.S. citizen", “United States”, and “State” as you used it in your communication includes CONSTITUTIONAL states of the Union or CONSTITUTIONAL “citizens” under the Fourteenth Amendment before the transaction that is related to this submission is completed. If you do not rebut the definitions appearing in this affidavit with court admissible evidence, then:

10.1. You constructively consent and stipulate to the definitions provided here both between us and between you and other parties who might be involved in this transaction.

10.2. You are equitably estopped and subject to laches in all future proceedings from contradicting the definitions herein provided.
11. Franchise agreement protecting commercial uses or abuses of this submission or any attachments: Any attempt to do any of the following shall constitute constructive irrevocable consent to the following franchise agreement by those accepting this submission or any of the attached forms or those third parties who use such information as legal evidence in any legal proceeding:

http://sedm.org/Forms/06_AvoidingFranchInjuryDefenseFranchise.pdf

11.1. Commercially or financially benefit anyone OTHER than the affiant and his/her immediate blood relatives.
11.2. Damage the affiant by sharing information about him/her provided in the context of this transaction with third parties.
11.3. RESUME any thing or class of thing is included in the STATUTORY definitions of “State”, “United States”, “U.S. citizen”, or “national and citizen of the United States at birth” in 8 U.S.C. §1401.
11.4. Enforce any portion of the Internal Revenue Code or state revenue code against this FOREIGN estate. This includes any type of withholding, reporting, or compliance to these revenue codes using any information about or provided by the affiant or anyone associated with this transaction. Any attempt to do otherwise shall be treated as a criminal offense.
12. Violations of this affidavit and agreement: Any attempt to enforce any civil status of the decedent or affiant against the affiant is a criminal offense described in the following:

5.4.8.14 A Breach of Contract

Imagine that you have agreed with an auto dealer to purchase the luxurious Belchfire X-1 automobile, for which you agree to pay $45,000, with monthly payments to extend over a period of three years. You sign the sales agreement, and are then told to return the following day to sign the formal contract, which you do. When you arrive two days later to pick up the car, the dealer presents you with the title and keys to a much lesser model, the Klunkermobile J. When you ask the dealer to explain the switch, he points to a provision in the contract that reads: "Dealer shall be entitled to make ‘reasonable’ adjustments it considers to be ‘necessary and proper’ to further the ‘general welfare’ of the parties hereto." He also tells you that the amount of the payments will remain the same as for the Belchfire X-1; that to provide otherwise would be to impair the obligations of the contract. You strongly object, arguing that the dealer is making a fundamental alteration of the contract. The dealer then informs you that this dispute will be reviewed by a third party – his brother-in-law – who will render a decision in the matter.

Welcome to the study of Constitutional Law!

The rationalization for the existence of political systems has, at least since the Enlightenment, depended upon the illusion of a "social contract"; that governments come into existence only through the "consent of the governed" as expressed in a written constitution. I know of no state system that ever originated by a contract among individuals. This is particularly true in America, where the detailed history of the drafting and ratification of the Constitution illustrates the present system having been coercively imposed by some upon others. If you doubt this, a reading of the history of Rhode Island will provide you with one example.

By its very nature, a contract depends upon a voluntary commitment by two or more persons to bind themselves to a clearly-expressed agreement. The common law courts have always held that agreements entered into through coercion, fraud, or any other practice that does not reflect a "meeting of the minds" of individuals are wholly unenforceable. Nor have the courts looked favorably upon transactions that purport to bind parties forever. If I should agree to work for you for $5,000 a month and, after two years of such employment, choose to go work elsewhere, no court of law – not even in Texas – would compel me to continue working for you.

The idea that contractual obligations can arise other than through voluntary undertakings has been firmly established in our culture. Statist efforts to impose duties upon others are often promoted under the myth of an "implied" contract (e.g., by driving a car, you "impliedly consent" to purchase insurance; by living in America you "impliedly consent" to be bound to obligations to which you never agreed). By this logic, if I lived in a high-crime area, it could be argued that I had "impliedly consented" to be mugged, or to be bound by the rules of the local street-corner gang. The idea that the government can force...

people into contractual relationships is at the heart of the current Supreme Court case dealing with "Obamacare." The enactment of such a form of "involuntary servitude" is what leads a few thoughtful minds to question whether it violates the 13th Amendment!

Even accepting the fantasy of a "social contract" theory of the state creates more fundamental problems. The legitimacy of a contract depends upon the existence of "consideration." This means that the party seeking enforcement must demonstrate a changing of one’s legal position to their detriment (e.g., giving up something of value, making a binding promise, foregoing a right, etc.) Statists may argue that their system satisfies this requirement – by supposedly agreeing to protect the lives and property of the citizenry, and agreeing to respect those rights of people that are spelled out in the "Bill of Rights." The problem is that – thanks to the opinions of numerous brothers-in-law who comprise the Supreme Court – the powers given to the state have been given expansive definitions, and the rights protected by the "Bill of Rights" are given an increasingly narrow interpretation.

Thus, Congress’ exclusive authority to declare war is now exercised by presidential whim; while its power to legislate does not depend upon any proposed law having been either fully drafted or read! Fourth and Fifth Amendment "guarantees" re "searches and seizures" or "due process of law" are so routinely violated as to arouse little attention from Boobus Americans. First Amendment rights of "speech" allow the state to confine speakers to wire cages kept distant from their intended audiences, while the right of "peaceable assembly" is no hindrance to police-state brutalities directed against peaceful protestors. With very little criticism from Boobus, one president declared his support for a dictatorship, while his successor proclaimed to the world his unilateral authority to kill anyone of his choosing – including Americans! Meanwhile, torture and the indefinite detention of people without trial continue to be accepted practices.

Having been conditioned to believe that the Constitution exists to limit the powers of the state and to guarantee your liberty, you try employing such reasoning with the car dealer. You direct his attention to another contractual provision that reads: "All rights under this agreement not reserved to the Dealer shall belong to the Buyer." But he tells you that he is adhering to the specific terms of the contract by making "reasonable adjustments" that are "necessary and proper" to "further the general welfare of the parties." Whatever "rights" you have are, by definition, limited by this broad grant of authority.

This is where conservatives get so confused over the inherently repressive nature of the Constitution. They tend to believe that the 10th Amendment "guarantees" to them – and/or the states – "powers not delegated to the United States." But the federal government powers enumerated in this document are overly broad (e.g., "general welfare," "necessary and proper," and "reasonable") and must be interpreted. This authority to provide the government with such powers to interpret its own powers is nowhere spelled out in the Constitution; but was usurped by the Supreme Court in the case of Marbury v. Madison.

Once the courts – or the car dealer’s brother-in-law – define the range of the parties’ respective authorities, the mutually-exclusive logic of the 10th Amendment applies: if the government or the dealer is recognized as having expansive definitions of authority, there is very little that remains inviolate for the individual. The language of the 9th Amendment is more suitable to the argument on behalf of a broader definition of liberty. This provision reads: "The enumeration in the Constitution, of certain rights, shall not be construed to deny or disparage others retained by the people." This catch-all language suggests that the Ninth Amendment protections are far broader than the combined "rights" of all the other amendments. A reading of judicial history reveals only a very small handful of cases ever having been decided under this section. Of course, the words in this amendment are also subject to interpretation by state officials. This fact is what conservatives fail to understand when they bleat about wanting "to get back to the Constitution." The government has never strayed from the Constitution; these words have been in that document from the beginning. They have, however, been interpreted according to the ever-changing preferences of those in power.

As the state continues to not simply eat away at – but to glutonously devour – the liberty its defenders still pretend it is its purpose to protect, it is timely to consider the remedies available to individuals. As one who prefers the peaceful processes of a civilized society – rather than the violent and destructive means that define the state – my thoughts return to contract theory. I must admit, at the outset, that the make-believe "social contract" foundations of the state, reveal the wholesale breach of the obligations of both parties. The failure of the state to restrain its voracious and ruinous appetites is already a matter of record, even to its defenders whose intellectual dishonesty and/or cowardice will not permit them to express the fact. But there is a concurrent obligation on the part of those subject to state rule that finds expression in words carved onto the entrance to the Nebraska state capitol building: "The Salvation of the State is Watchfulness in the Citizen." It was the failure of most people to live up to this standard that led me to write, a few years ago, about the need to impeach the American people! The "watchfulness" of most Americans is confined to such television programs as "American Idol" or "Dancing With the Stars."
The breaches on both sides of this alleged contract are of such enormity as would lead any competent court of law to regard any such "agreement" as a nullity; subject to enforcement by neither party. Such defenses as "frustration of purpose," "impossibility of performance," "unconscionability," "unequal bargaining power," "fraud in the inducement," and other concepts have regularly been used by the courts to excuse further performance by the parties to a contract.

I propose that we respond to our alleged obligations to the state – duties we never agreed to in the first place – in the same manner by which we would treat our hypothetical car dealer in the marketplace: to walk away and take our business elsewhere! Whatever goods or services we desire in our lives, and which we have been conditioned to believe can only be provided by the state, can be found in the willingness of our neighbors to freely and genuinely contract with us in ways that do not depend upon predation, restraint, or violence. It is time for us to discover the peaceful and creative nature of a society grounded in a voluntary "meeting of the minds" of free men and women!

How would we express our intention to invalidate the contract, from a legal perspective? By generating legal evidence of all the following in the government’s own records:

1. Changing our citizenship status in government records to that of a “non-resident non-person” and CONSTITUTIONAL citizen rather than a statutory citizen.
2. Quitting all government franchises and licenses.
3. Stop filling out government forms and rescind all forms we have filled out.
4. Changing our tax status to that of a non-resident non-person.

All of the above are accomplished by:

5.4.8.15 Summary of rules relating to domicile

Based on the foregoing analysis and legally admissible evidence, we can safely conclude the following:

1. Domicile is a “civil protection franchise”. As a franchise, its purpose is to protect ONLY your PRIVATE, absolutely owned property. It is not a constitutional franchise if it only protects public property, requires you convert your PRIVATE property to public property, or refuses to recognize private property. Instead, it becomes a method to STEAL from you and undermine the constitution:
   1.1. All franchises, including the domicile civil protection franchise, derive their authority from property loaned to the franchisee with conditions. That is the thesis of Form #05.030.
   1.2. “Rules” or “laws” are the “conditions” of the loan.
   1.3. The ability to “make rules” (civil statutes or laws) requires some property being “loaned” to the recipient. Ownership implies the right to exclude and the right to control the use of people using the property. It’s the “Golden Rule”: He who OWNS the gold (property) makes the rules.
   1.4. The “territory” you choose or intend to live on determines who makes the rules or laws. That territory is the “property” being loaned, because it is physical. The “laws” that apply to that specific territory are the “conditions” of the loan.
   1.5. By choosing or intending to choose WHICH property you live on, you are in effect nominating a “land lord”, and the “rent” is the “rules”. Notice in the following video, Satan refers to God as “an absentee landlord” and then he says “Worship THAT? NEVER!”. Owning the LAND makes you the LORD! https://sedm.org/what-we-are-up-against/
   1.6. The state doesn’t OWN the territory you live on, regardless of where you physically reside. The Bible says GOD owns the Heavens and the Earth, not Caesar. Deut. 10:15.
   1.7. Since God owns EVERYTHING physical because he created it, then HE is the only one who can make the rules or laws.
   1.8. Caesar renting out GOD’S land, where the “rent” is the rules, is an affront to God. Caesar is “renting out STOLEN property” or property that was merely loaned “WITH CONDITIONS” by God for temporary custody and stewardship by Caesar.
   1.9. The Constitution recognizes these concepts in Article 4, Section 4, by saying: “Congress shall have the power to make all needful rules respecting the property and territory of the United States”.
   1.10. Even marriage follows this basic format of the loan of property:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1.11. Jon Roland, author of the Constitution Society Website (http://constitution.famguardian.org), has privately confirmed to us that the above processes are EXACTLY how the civil statutory codes work. He even goes so far as to say that all land CONTINUES to be owned by the King by Divine Right, even AFTER the revolution, and that “estates” in land are mere temporary revocable franchises regulated and controlled by the King at his or her whim. Of course, being an atheist, he doesn’t acknowledge God’s role in it all, and therefore EVERYTHING he does is without hope and without remedy and vain as a result. How is freedom and liberty even realistically possible if Caesar owns all land and he can attach ANY conditions he wants to its use? Jon can’t answer that question, which means indirectly that he agrees that freedom is IMPOSSIBLE so long as that is his approach to the Constitution: http://constitution.famguardian.org

2. Think of the “state” as a club:

2.1. The “state” is the collection of all the sovereigns that occupy a specific territorial land mass.

2.2. The “government” are the people contracted and under oath to service the needs of the “state” and execute the business of the “state”. They are “protection contractors”. The “government” and the “state” are two separate and distinct groups that are NOT synonymous or the same. The “state” is the sovereign, while the “government” is the SERVANT of the sovereign.

2.3. Those who are members of the club are called “citizens” if they were born somewhere within the country and “residents” if they were born in a different country.

2.4. Those who are not members of the club are called “nonresidents” or “transient foreigners”.

2.5. Whether you are a “member” or a “nonmember” is determined by how you describe your “residence”, “permanent address”, or “domicile” on usually government and financial forms. No one but you can decide or control what you put on these forms.

2.6. Taxes are your “club membership dues”.

2.7. In return for membership, you are entitled to demand “services” or “benefits” from the government that serves the “state”.

2.8. No one can force you to join the club. The First Amendment protects your right to NOT join the club by prohibiting “compelled association”. That is why the First Amendment is the first amendment: Because the first and most important thing you must do when forming any “state” is to give everyone the right to NOT join!

2.9. Since no one can force you to join the club, no one can compel you to accept the liabilities associated with membership in the club and they must prove that you voluntarily consented to join the club before they can legally enforce those liabilities against you. Such liabilities include the duty to pay income taxes, to vote, and to serve as a jurist when summoned.

2.10. Membership in the club confers civil jurisdiction of the courts in order to protect your civil rights.

2.11. You do not need to be a member of the club in order for the government to enforce the criminal laws of the state against you. All that must be proven in order to enforce the criminal laws is that you were physically situated on the territory associated with the “state” and that you committed a criminal or harmful act that injured a specific other fellow sovereign.

2.12. There are TWO levels of club membership: Premium and Unleaded. The “Unleaded” version is basic domicile in the republic and not the “State” and this level buys you basic criminal protection and nothing more. The “Premium” level of membership requires you to become a “public officer” of the government so they can lawfully pay you bribes called “benefits” with money they stole from your neighbor. Because there are two levels of membership, then the “Premium” level violates the Constitution because it confers a “Title of Nobility”. The only other way to view this level and still be consistent with the Constitution is to view all those who participate as employees of a PRIVATE corporation that is NOT a de jure government. See: Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You Are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. Domicile is legally defined as the coincidence of physical presence in a place now or in the past, and the intention to return to and permanently inhabit that place. The Bible says that no place on earth is permanent and that the present earth will be destroyed, and therefore it is against God’s law to declare a domicile within any man-made political group on earth.

4. The place where a person “lives” and their legal “domicile” can be and are often two completely different places. Many people incorrectly confuse these two terms, and in so doing, unknowingly forfeit their right to choose whether they want to be subject to the civil laws where they are located.

5. Domicile is ordinarily associated with “citizens”, while “residence” is associated with privileged “aliens”. You can have only one “domicile” but as many “residences” as you want. Residence, in turn, is a product of your right to contract. When you sign up for a franchise such as the “trade or business”/income tax franchise, you become a “resident” within the statutes granting the privilege or franchise:

26 CFR §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the law when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

6. Those who have chosen a legal domicile outside of the place or state that they occupy at any given time are called “transient foreigners” or simply “nonresidents”. When you go on vacation temporarily to a place, you are a “transient foreigner” with respect to the government of that place. It is perfectly lawful to ALSO choose to be a transient foreigner in the place of your birth and the place where you live or to choose a domicile within a political group of your own making, such as a church, family, or political group. Those who do so have made a protected First Amendment choice to disassociate with what oftentimes is a corrupted government or state that is more harmful than protective of their personal interests.

7. The purpose of selecting a domicile is to nominate a king or ruler to provide a substitute for God’s protection. A choice of domicile amounts essentially to a contract to procure “protection” from a king or ruler to whom those protected owe “tribute” and “allegiance”. Serving anyone but God is idolatry and idolatry is condemned as the most serious sin a believer can commit in the Bible.

“No servant can serve two masters; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon.”

[Jesus (God) speaking in Luke 16:13, Bible, NKJV]

8. You can only have a legal domicile in ONE PLACE or political group at a time, because you can only owe undivided allegiance to one ruler at a time. As a consequence:

8.1. You can only be a “citizen” in ONE PLACE at a time.

8.2. If you are physically present in a place outside of your legal domicile, you are a “transient foreigner” and a “national” but not “citizen” in that place. For instance, Mexicans visiting the United States temporarily and who have not changed their “domicile” to the United States are called “Mexican Nationals” while they are here. When they return to the place of their domicile, they are called “Mexican citizens”.

8.3. You cannot be a “citizen” under federal statutory law without having a domicile on federal territory. States of the Union are NOT federal territory.

8.4. You can only owe income taxes to one government at a time. This is consistent with the fact that you must have a federal tax liability before you can have a state liability. It is also consistent with the conclusion that the states, when they collect state income taxes, are doing so in the capacity as federal territories and instrumentalties and not sovereign or independent governments. This type of abuse is facilitated by the unconstitutionally administered Buck Act, 4 U.S.C. §106, and its implementation found in 5 U.S.C. §5517. No state or federal constitution authorizes any state of the Union to act as a federal corporation, agency, territory, or instrumentality as described in 4 U.S.C. §110(d) and any attempt to do so is a violation of the separation of powers doctrine and an act of TREASON punishable by death under 18 U.S.C. §2381.

9. Domicile constitutes your voluntary choice of the civil law system and the government you choose to live under. The purpose of law is to protect people by preventing harm but not mandating good. The purpose of government is to enforce and implement the law. Therefore, the purpose of government is to protect. You cannot be held responsible for obeying any civil law unless you voluntarily choose a legal domicile where it applies. This includes the civil code and the family code in your state.

10. Domicile is a First Amendment voluntary choice of political affiliation. The government cannot change your domicile without your consent. What the law dictionary calls “intent” really amounts to consent, and they are trying to hide the voluntary nature of the transaction by choosing different words to describe it. For instance:
10.1. Only adults who have reached the age of majority can lawfully choose a legal domicile.
10.2. Insane or incompetent persons cannot have a chosen domicile and take on the domicile of their caretakers.
10.3. Children assume the domicile of their parents.

10.4. Every government tax form in one way or another causes you to choose a domicile, and since the choice of form or the way you fill it out is your choice, then the domicile is also your choice. For instance, IRS Form 1040 causes you to choose a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory). IRS Form 1040NR is filled out by persons who do not have a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory).

11. No court of law or government official may lawfully interfere with your choice of domicile because:

11.1. Courts of justice may not lawfully involve themselves in “political questions”.
11.2. Public servants in the political branches of the government, including the Executive and Legislative branches, may not interfere with your First Amendment right to freely associate or disassociate.

12. A government that compels you to choose a domicile within their jurisdiction is engaging in unlawful slavery in violation of 42 U.S.C. §1994, involuntary servitude in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, extortion, racketeering in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1951, and violating your First Amendment right of freedom from compelled association.

13. Because choice of domicile is voluntary, income taxes based on it are also entirely voluntary and avoidable. The government does NOT want you to know that you can avoid income taxes, and so they will avoid discussing this and persecute all those who reveal it to the public.

14. Your domicile is whatever you say it is on a government form. Other evidentiary methods of determining legal domicile are ordinarily only employed where evidence of your direct declaration of domicile on a government form is not available, or where your behavior is inconsistent with your stated or communicated choice.

15. On government forms, “residence”, meaning the TEMPORARY place of abode of an ALIEN, is synonymous with the terms “permanent address”. “Permanent address” and “domicile” are NOT ordinarily equivalent and we have found no evidence anywhere to believe that they are equivalent.

16. Within the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and all state revenue codes, a “resident” is an alien with a domicile, presence, or existence on federal territory. A person who is not physically present on federal territory can become a “resident” there by engaging in “commerce” within the legislative jurisdiction of that forum. This, in fact, is the main method by which the federal government manufactures “taxpayers” out of sovereign Americans domiciled in states of the Union. The Social Security system causes them to conduct commerce within the legislative jurisdiction of the United States and thereby surrender sovereign immunity and become “resident aliens” pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2). Those engaging in such commerce are called “public officers” who are “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States”. All those engaged in a “trade or business” are “resident aliens” of the United States. Older versions of the Treasury Regulations show this scam below:

26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons

A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

17. Driver’s licenses issued by state governments are the method of choice for compelling persons to declare a legal domicile within a state. Because the government cannot compel you to choose a domicile, they also cannot compel you to obtain or use a state driver’s license.

18. Domicile is an abstract term that is difficult to legally prove. Because it is difficult to prove, the government will avoid discussions of the term. That is why the term only appears twice in the entire 9,500 page Internal Revenue Code. They will also avoid discussing the term because they don’t want to acknowledge that they need your consent to both enforce the law against you and collect taxes from you.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

19. Those who want to divorce the state which controls the place where they live may do so by declaring a domicile outside of their place of abode. Such persons are called:

19.1. “Transient foreigners”.

19.2. “Stateless persons” (in relation to the place they physically live).

20. Those who do not want to assume the liabilities of “domicile” within a jurisdiction cannot:

20.1. Register to vote within that jurisdiction.

20.2. Obtain a state driver’s license within that jurisdiction.

20.3. Serve as a jurist within that jurisdiction.

20.4. Indicate a “permanent address” on any government form that is within the jurisdiction of that government.

20.5. Apply for any government benefit, including Social Security, Medicare, etc.

20.6. Submit any form that implies a domicile there, such as the IRS Form 1040, which is only for use by STATUTORY “U.S. persons” with a legal domicile in the “United States” (federal territory). Instead, the 1040NR is the only proper form for “stateless persons” and “transient foreigners” to use in the context of federal taxation.

21. The only laws that may be enforced against “transient foreigners” or “nonresidents” are criminal laws and the common law. Civil statutory laws require a legal domicile within the jurisdiction where the law applies. This is a result of the fact that the Declaration of Independence says that all just powers in a free government derive from the “consent of the governed” and that the only legitimate reason for the state to proceed against a person without his consent is when he is criminally injuring someone.

22. The Bible commands believers to be separate and sanctified, and to come out of the corrupted government that has become Satan’s whore, which the Bible calls “Babylon the Great Harlot”. In effect, God commands us to DISASSOCIATE. We can do this legally and peacefully only by changing our domicile.

   After these things I saw another angel coming down from heaven, having great authority, and the earth was illuminated with his glory.

   And he cried mightily with a loud voice, saying, ‘Babylon the great is fallen, is fallen, and has become a dwelling place of demons, a prison for every foul spirit, and a cage for every unclean and hated bird!’

   “For all the nations have drunk of the wine of the wrath of her fornication, the kings [politicians, who load us with debt] of the earth have committed fornication with her, and the merchants of the earth have become rich through the abundance of her luxury."

And I heard another voice from heaven saying, ‘Come out of her, my people, lest you share in her sins, and lest you receive her plagues.

“For her sins have reached to heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities.

“Render to her just as she rendered to you, and repay her double according to her works; in the cup which she has mixed, mix double for her.

“In the measure that she glorified herself and lived luxuriously, in the same measure give her torment and sorrow; for she says in her heart, ‘I sit as queen, and am no widow, and will not see sorrow.’

“Therefore her plagues [economic or stock market collapses] will come in one day—death and mourning and famine. And she will be utterly burned with fire [looting from all the greedy people who mortgaged themselves to the hilt and put their children into debt slavery to pay for their luxuries], for strong is the Lord God who judges her.”

[Rev. 18:1-8, Bible, NKJV]

23. If you want to divorce the state and become a “transient foreigner” wherever you go, we suggest the following resource:

   Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States, Form #10.001

   http://sedm.org/Forms/Form10001.htm

24. The government is just like any other corporation. The only product it delivers is “protection”. Government does not have a monopoly on “protection”. A government that compels you to procure or pay for its protection against your will is engaged in racketeering and organized crime. If the cost of government protection exceeds its benefits, any person or group are free to divorce the state by abandoning their domicile, and to provide their own more cost effective protection. Anyone may compete directly with the government in “the protection business” or elect to fire all protectors and instigate “front door justice”. This is a direct result of the fact that the U.S. Supreme Court said the essential purpose of the Constitution was to confer upon We the People the right to be LEFT ALONE by the government.

25. All income taxes are based on legal “domicile”. Income taxes support the police powers of the state, and the police powers of the state implement and enforce the CRIMINAL law ONLY. If you don’t have a domicile in a place, then you can’t be liable for income taxes in that place because you are not being personally protected by the laws of that place.

26. Persons with a legal domicile on federal territory, which is called the “United States” in the Internal Revenue Code at 26 U.S.C §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d), are called “U.S. persons”. Persons with a domicile in a place are also called “inhabitants”. Under the Internal Revenue Code, Sections 7701(a)(39) and 7408(d), persons who declare a domicile in the “United States” are treated as virtual residents of the District of Columbia and “taxpayers” there regardless of where they physically live. “U.S. persons” include statutory “citizens of the United States” under §8 U.S.C. §1401 and “residents” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).

27. Both STATUTORY “citizens” and STATUTORY “residents” have in common a “domicile” in a place and collectively are called “inhabitants”. Those without a domicile are called “transient foreigners”. IRS does NOT like people claiming they are “transient foreigners” because it destroys their ability to tax. They therefore omit this as an option on ALL their tax forms so you can’t property declare your status as a “nontaxpayer”. The only time that either “citizens” or “residents” can have a tax liability under I.R.C. Subtitle A is when they are temporarily abroad pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911. The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed that taxation of “U.S. persons” abroad was permissible in Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924). We have been able to identify NO provision of law that makes any statutory “citizen” or “resident” responsible for an income tax who is NOT temporarily abroad. Even then, they must be voluntarily engaged in a “trade or business”, which is a “public office”, in most cases to have any tax liability at all.

28. An “alien” with a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory) is called a “resident” in the Internal Revenue Code.

28.1. You cannot lawfully be a “resident” and a “citizen” within the same jurisdiction at the same time.

28.2. Likewise, you cannot lawfully be a “resident” and a “nonresident” at the same time.

29. In effect, the civil statutory code functions as a “protection franchise”, “compact”, and/or social compact. All compacts and franchises are contracts or agreements that activate or acquire the “force of law” ONLY upon MUTUAL consent of BOTH parties to them. That is why most enactments of governments are called “the code” instead of simply “law”.

30. Anyone invoking “the code” or any civil statutory law against you should be DEMANDED to satisfy the burden of proof as the moving party to provide the following evidence on the record of any proceeding:

30.1. That you EXPRESSLY consented to have a civil domicile in the place where the “code” they seek to enforce applies.

30.2. That your consent was NOT the product of duress. Duress renders any contract of compact VOIDABLE but not VOID. The minute you indicate the duress, it becomes void.

30.3. That you were physically present within the specific territory where the laws apply. You cannot have a domicile in a place without FIRST having a physical presence there either now or at some time in the past.

30.4. That the author of the laws sought to be enforced OWNED the land you were on as territory and therefore had the authority to make the rules for that land under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution. Hence, they have to prove that the land was not PRIVATE property and instead was lawfully converted to a public use or purpose. Otherwise, the only thing that can be enforced is the common law.

30.5. That if you were not domiciled on the land to which the “codes” apply, that you were representing an entity or public office that WAS domiciled on their land as required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17.

There are some very subtle and subliminal things going on in the domicile concept and these are the root of them all. These concepts are completely invisible to most people, which is why they are so easily enslaved. Most people only look at the outside layer of the onion. THIS is the CORE. The Holy Spirit is what will reveal this to you, if you listen carefully.

“The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men.”

The biblical famine in Egypt is a prime example of the above concepts. Pharaoh owned and controlled all the grain during the famine, and he used that property and usury and the franchises (conditions) he attached to the loan to literally make ALL HIS PEOPLE into his property! Notice the Bible refers to Pharaoh as “my lord”, meaning my “god”.

“Woe to those who seek deep to hide their counsel [attorney or lawyer] far from the Lord,
And their works are in the dark;
They say, “Who sees us?” and, “Who knows us?”
Surely you have things turned around!
Shall the potter be esteemed as the clay;
For shall the thing made say of him who made it,
“He did not make me”?
Or shall the thing formed say of him who formed it,
“He has no understanding”?
[Isaiah 29: 15-16, Bible, NKJV]

As long as there is land and your body is physical, you HAVE to choose a LAND LORD. Who is your “LAND LORD”?: God or Caesar? Satan’s answer to that question is that HE is the landlord because God is AWOL (Absent WithOut Leave, a military term).

The now defunct Soviet Union’s answer was the same as Satan’s: Official state atheism, government ownership of EVERYTHING, and therefore no freedom.

If the People are the sovereign and everything they allow to get into the hands of Caesar or under his/her control is and continues to be THEIR property loaned WITH CONDITIONS that THEY and not Caesar determine, then how is it EVER realistically possible that:

1. Caesar could ever have any civil statutory (franchise) power whatsoever? Keep in mind that the main purpose of the civil statutes is to regulate and control GOVERNMENT property, which are also called “privileges”.
2. Caesar could ever have ANY CIVIL STATUTORY control over them?
3. They could ever be ANYTHING but truly free?

In all our years studying this subject and drilling ten thousand feet into the Earth in the process, we have NEVER seen even one book or speaker that explained the above concept as lucidly or as completely or as succinctly as the above does. The essence of genius is that level of simplicity, according to Einstein.

5.4.9 The IRS is NOT authorized to perform enforcement actions

By consulting Treasury Directive 27-03, Organization and Functions of the Office of the Assistant Secretary (Enforcement), we find that the Internal Revenue Service isn’t included in the list of Department of the Treasury enforcement agencies. You can view this order yourself on the Treasury website at:

http://www.ustreas.gov/regs/td27-03.htm

We also find that 26 C.F.R. §1.274-5T(k)(6)(ii) says that Internal Revenue Service special agents are specifically excluded from designation of law enforcement officers. If we then examine the Department of the Treasury organization chart, page 339 of the 2002-04 U.S. Government Manual available at:

we find that the Internal Revenue Service is not under authority of the Assistance Secretary (Enforcement), like all other enforcement arms of the Treasury. Therefore, the IRS is not an enforcement agency and has no lawful authority whatsoever to adversely affect the people or the rights of persons within states of the Union.

5.4.10 I.R.C., Subtitle A is voluntary for those with no domicile in the federal zone and who are not a federal instrumentality

This section will show that Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, in the context of natural persons, is entirely voluntary for people domiciled within a state of the Union and who have not engaged in any contracts or employment with the federal government. Another way of saying this is that the explicit consent of all natural persons is required in some form before they can be called “taxpayers” by the IRS. Black’s Law Dictionary says under the definition of the term “excise tax”:

"excise tax: In current usage the term has been extended to include various license fees and practically every internal revenue tax EXCEPT THE INCOME TAX."

What they are implying is that income taxes are really voluntary donations, but because the authors of the dictionary (who were lawyers) don’t want to undermine “voluntary compliance” with the Internal Revenue Code, they can’t be honest and just come out and say it, so they define what it isn’t and leave it up to you to figure out what it is! We even tried looking up the term “income tax” in that same Black’s Law dictionary and they don’t classify it as either a “direct tax” or an “indirect excise” there either. Sneaky, huh? That’s the way lawyers and the legal profession work, and it is precisely this kind of treacherous deceit that is behind why we recommend defending yourself primarily and only relying on lawyers as legal “coaches” when you get tripped up. See section 6.10 for more evidence of scandalous games like this by the legal profession. The preceding discussion helps to explain some of the following statements:

[Flora v. United States, 362 U.S. 145 (1960)]

“Our tax system is based on individual self-assessment and voluntary compliance”.
[Mortimer Caplin, Internal Revenue Audit Manual (1975)]

[Dwight E. Avis, former head of the Alcohol and Tobacco Tax Division of the IRS, testifying before a House Ways and Means subcommittee in 1953]
"The purpose of the IRS is to collect the proper amount of tax revenues at the least cost to the public, and in a manner that warrants the highest degree of public confidence in our integrity, efficiency and fairness. To achieve that purpose, we will encourage and achieve the highest possible degree of voluntary compliance in accordance with the tax laws and regulations...".

This raises a lot of questions indeed! Let’s try to answer a few. Here is the definition of the word “tax” from Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1457:

"Tax: A charge by the government on the income of an individual, corporation, or trust, as well as the value of an estate or gift. The objective in assessing the tax is to generate revenue to be used for the needs of the public.

A pecuniary [relating to money] burden laid upon individuals or property to support the government, and is a payment exacted by legislative authority. In re Mytinger, D.C.Tex. 31 F.Supp. 977,978,979. Essential characteristics of a tax are that it is NOT A VOLUNTARY PAYMENT OR DONATION, BUT AN ENFORCED CONTRIBUTION, EXACTED PURSUANT TO LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY.

For clarity, we’d like to add to the end of the above definition: “...exacted pursuant to positive law consistent with the U.S. constitution.” We say this because if the legislative authority to tax within states of the Union does not ultimately derive from the Constitution, then it is null and void because all powers not delegated to the government by the Sovereign People are reserved to the people (per the Tenth Amendment and Article VI, Clause 2 of the Constitution)\(^2\), which is the case with income taxes on Natural Born Persons.

Notice that you can’t call it a “tax” if it is “voluntary”! You have to call it a “donatio” and “donation”:

"Donatio: A gift. A transfer of the title of property to one who receives it without paying for it. The act by which the owner of a thing voluntarily transfers the title and possession of the same from himself to another person, without any consideration."

"Voluntary: Unconstrained by interference; unimpelled by another’s influence; spontaneous; acting of oneself. Coker v. State, 199 Ga. 20, 33 S.E.2d. 171, 174. Done by design or intention. Proceeding from the free and unrestrained will of the person. Produced in or by an act of choice. Resulting from free choice, without compulsion or solicitation. The word, especially in statutes, often implies knowledge of essential facts: Without valuable consideration; gratuitous, as a voluntary conveyance. Also, having a merely nominal consideration; as, a voluntary deed."

We then have to go back to table 5-1 at the beginning of this chapter and ask ourselves:

"What kind of Constitutional tax is described by Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A in relation to states of the Union?"

As you read through most of the federal appellate and district court cases dealing with income tax, they take great pains NOT to identify which of the five constitutional taxes the income tax is from Table 5-1. This is because:

1. They don’t want you to know which of the two legislative jurisdictions they are operating within: The federal zone or the states of the Union. If they said anything more than the above, they would generate a flurry of questions and inquiry that would destroy the tax system as we know it.
2. They don’t want you to know that the tax is on income derived from a taxable activity, because if you knew what the activity was, you would avoid it and thereby avoid the tax.

\(^2\) See the Tenth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, which says: “The powers not delegated to the United States by the Constitution, nor prohibited by it to the States, are reserved to the States respectively, or to the people.” See also U.S. Constitution, Article VI, Clause 2, which says: “This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; and all Treaties made, or which shall be made, under the Authority of the United States, shall be the supreme Law of the Land; and the Judges in every State shall be bound thereby, any Thing in the Constitution or Laws of any State to the Contrary notwithstanding.”
3. They know that the I.R.C., Subtitle A operates primarily within the District of Columbia and attaches to the person through private law or contract, instead of through positive and public law. Because it attaches through private voluntary contract in the form of an SS-5, W-4, or 1040 form, all of which must be signed and submitted by the party, then public or positive law is not required to enforce it. If they revealed how it attaches to the individual, then they would undermine its operation and deprive the government of revenues. Lawyers who are licensed by the government are not about to bite the hands that feed them.

4. They don’t want to admit that Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A only applies to legal “persons” domiciled within the federal zone on land under exclusive federal jurisdiction. If they did, few people would pay it and few CPA’s, attorneys, or even payroll people would be left with anything to do. The whole economy would have to shift to more honest endeavors.

The I.R.C., Subtitle A income tax, in the context of states of the Union, is therefore an indirect excise tax on other than natural persons when it is mandatory or involuntary. That means the proper subject of it is corporations and partnerships, and trusts and not biological people. The corporations and other artificial entities to which it applies must be engaged in one of the following corporate, excise taxable activities before they can have any taxable “sources” of income:

1. Employment and/or agency with the federal government called a “trade or business” within the District of Columbia. Signing or submitting either the W-4, the 1040, or the SSA Form SS-5 all create a presumption that the submitter maintains a legal domicile in the District of Columbia, or that he is acting as a federal “employee” or trustee on behalf of a corporation defined in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) called the “United States”. This corporation has a legal domicile in the District of Columbia, and therefore, when he is acting in that capacity, he too has a legal domicile there. See section 5.6.12 and following for further details.

2. “foreign commerce” coming under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution.

Excise taxes are taxes on government privileges. The average American is NOT in receipt of taxable privileges relating to the subjects above. However, because most Americans have been deceived by a lying IRS using their deceptive publications into misrepresenting their status on government forms, they have created a false presumption that they are “taxpayers”. American “nationals” everywhere, however, who know the law and the nature of this deception are free to earn as much money or goods as they please from outside of the District of Columbia without payment of any income tax under Subtitle A, so long as they don’t:

1. Forget to promptly correct all erroneous reports of receipt of excise taxable “income” received on forms 1099 or W-2.
2. Use a Social Security Number on any government form or in response to any tax collection notice. They must vociferously argue with anyone who tries to use such a number to refer to them. This is because anyone who has a Social Security Number is a federal “employee”. 26 C.F.R. §422.104 falls under Title 20, which is entitled “Employee Benefits”, and it describes the only authority for issuing SSNs. These numbers can only be issued to federal “employees” and can only be used in conjunction with their official duties. See the following article for details: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/AboutSSNsAndTINs.pdf
3. Describe themselves as “taxpayers”.
4. Describe their earnings as being associated with an excise taxable activity such as a “trade or business” or with “foreign commerce” coming under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution.
5. Claim that their earnings originate from the “United States”, which is defined as the District of Columbia in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10).
6. File an IRS Form W-4 or an SSA Form SS-5. The regulations at 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1 and elsewhere say that both of these forms are contracts. You can’t keep your sovereignty if you contract it away to the federal government.
7. File the form 1040, which is the wrong form for most Americans. The 1040 can only be used by those with a domicile in the District of Columbia. IRS Document 7130 says it is only for use by “citizens” and “residents” of the “United States”, which is defined as the District of Columbia in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10).
8. Maintain a legal domicile anywhere in the District of Columbia or “United States”. Instead, you must agree to govern, support, and protect yourself instead of nominating a government to be your protector.

A person who has done all the above is under no duty to account for their earnings or report them to anyone. It is easier for states to enact excises because they have the police power. The privileged excise activity is what establishes the legal duty to account for income produced as the result of the exercise of an excise. Income is the measure of the excise. An occupation tax is an excise measured by the amount of income the person in the occupation produces and that occupation must be licensed or privileged in some way to be the object of an income tax. A fuel tax is an excise tax on foreign commerce disguised as a consumption tax. The dollar amount of the fuel tax is a factor or percentage of the total amount of fuel sold or delivered. No matter how it is expressed, the excise is a tax on gross income. The only difference between a tax on gross income and net income is the certainty of the tax. In either case, there is an absolute requirement of sufficient police power to require the necessary record keeping to calculate either the gross or net income. The “national government” of the District of Columbia does not possess the general police power and without police power in the 50 Union states and outside of the federal zone. The federal government therefore has not authority to attempt to collect the equivalent of unapportioned direct taxes within states of the Union.

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: If I.R.C., Subtitles A and C income taxes are NOT indirect excise taxes upon foreign commerce or a “trade or business”, then why are the ONLY activities and persons upon which the tax “imposed” in receipt of privileges or associated mainly with foreign commerce and federal employment? Here are just a few examples of those privileges an entity or person must be in receipt of in order to be the subject of the income tax, and we’d like to emphasize that if your situation isn’t in this list, then you aren’t under the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code!:

1. They must be a public official of the U.S. government in receipt of the privileges of public office and residing in the District of Columbia:
   1.1. 26 C.F.R. §301.6671-1 Rules for application of assessable penalties; “(b) Person defined. For purposes of subchapter B of chapter 68, the term “person” includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.”
   1.2. 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee: “…the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term ‘employee’ also includes an officer of a corporation.”
   1.3. 26 U.S.C. §3401(c) Employee: For purposes of this chapter, the term “employee” includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term "employee" also includes an officer of a corporation.
   1.4. 8 Federal Register, Tuesday, September 7, 1943, §404.104, pg. 12267: Employee: “The term employee specifically includes officers and employees whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a state, territory, or political subdivision thereof or the District of Columbia or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.”

1.5. Office (Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 1082): A right, and correspondent duty, to exercise a public trust. A public charge or employment. An employment on behalf of the government in any station or public trust, not merely transient, occasional, or incidental. The most frequent occasions to use the word arise with reference to a duty and power conferred on an individual by the government; and, when this is the connection, “public office” is a usual and more discriminating expression. But a power and duty may exist without immediate grant from government, and may be properly called an “office;” as the office of executor. Here the individual acts towards legatees in performance of a duty, and in exercise of a power not derived from their consent, but devolved on him by an authority which quoad hoc is superior....

1.6. Appointment (Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 99): The designation of a person, by the person or persons having authority therefor, to discharge the duties of some office or trust. In re Nicholson’s Estate, 104 Colo. 561, 93 P.2d. 880, 884...

   Office or public function. The selection or designation of a person, by the person or persons having authority therefor, to fill an office or public function and discharge the duties of the same. The term "appointment" is to be distinguished from "election." "Election" to office usually refers to vote of people, whereas "appointment" relates to designation by some individual or group.

   Board of Education of Boyle County v. McChesney, 235 Ky. 692, 32 S.W.2d. 26, 27.

   “Essential characteristics of a ‘public office’ are:
   (1) Authority conferred by law,
   (2) Fixed tenure of office, and
   (3) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.
   (4) Key element of such test is that ‘officer is carrying out a sovereign function’.
   (5) Essential elements to establish public position as ‘public office’ are:
      (a) Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.
      (b) Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

(c) Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.
(d) Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and
(e) Position must have some permanency."

Section 6331 Levy and Distraint.

Section 6331(a) Authority of Secretary. - If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334 (9)) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer of such officer, employee or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

You will note that the above describes the ONLY persons upon which a levy or garnishment may be executed, and this activity applies ONLY to Title 27 Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms and NOT to Subtitle A income taxes, as there are no implementing regulations written by the Secretary of the Treasury that would apply the above section to Subtitle A Income Taxes.

2. Taxable sources: All taxable sources identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) are either privileged sources or involved with foreign commerce (see the Constitution, Art. 1, Section 8, Clause 3, which authorizes regulating foreign trade). The I.R.C., Subtitle A income tax is a tax on the source as measured by income, NOT a tax on income. The taxable sources identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) of the treasury regulations apply to ALL income, both from within the United States (federal zone) and without and include:

2.1. Domestic International Sales Corporation (DISC) taxable income. Corporations are fictitious entities created by the government and therefore in receipt of government privileges.

2.2. Foreign Sales Corporation (FSC) taxable income. Corporations are fictitious entities created by the government and therefore in receipt of government privileges.

2.3. Nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations engaged in a trade or business within the United States.

26 U.S.C. §7701 (a)(26)

The term "trade or business" includes the performance of the functions of a public office.

You will note that holding of a public office is a privilege associated with government service.

2.4. Foreign base company income. These companies operate on U.S. territory/property abroad and are therefore in receipt of government privileges and must pay taxes on that privilege.

2.5. Other operative sections relating to foreign income, including:

(vi) Other operative sections. The rules provided in this section also apply in determining--

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Now do you understand? With this remarkable realization in mind, is it any wonder why the IRS won’t give you a good straight definition of “voluntary compliance” on its website and tries to intimidate ignorant people into paying income taxes they aren’t liable for? They operate on bluff and our own ignorance is how they can continue to victimize us. As one Senator put it:

“In a recent conversation with an official at the Internal Revenue Service, I was amazed when he told me that ‘If the taxpayers of this country ever discover that the IRS operates on 90% bluff the entire system will collapse’.”

[Henry Bellmon, Senator (1969)]

It is precisely the above situation that is the reason why we wrote this book: to eliminate the ignorance of Americans everywhere.

One question we get often from our readers about the I.R.C. along these lines is the following:

“I am making my way through your book, The Great IRS Hoax. Anyway it is gigantic, but extremely interesting. I am only a few hundred pages into it. I am confused on one issue tho about people who work for a state-chartered corporation that is not registered or incorporated under federal law? As we say later in this chapter, in section 5.6.7, the only people who can earn “wages” are federal “employees” working within exclusive federal legislative jurisdiction and who consent or volunteer under the provisions of 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3 to participate in federal withholding. Therefore, it doesn’t matter who we work for as long as it isn’t the U.S. government and as long as we never consent to participate in payroll withholding by submitting a W-4. If we use the right payroll withholding forms, which not the W-4, and maintain the correct citizenship status, which is that of a “national”, then we would be “non-resident non-persons” who are not the proper subject of nearly all federal revenue “schemes” described by Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. This is confirmed by examining 26 U.S.C. §871(a), which describes all taxable subjects for those domiciled in states of the Union who are “nationals” and “nonresident aliens”. Note that the list DOES NOT include “wages”, “salaries” and only includes earnings from within the “United States”, which is the District of Columbia. 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(3)(C)(i) confirms that nonresident aliens who are working for nonresident aliens and whose earnings are not connected with a political office, which is nearly everyone in states of the Union, do not need to include earnings from labor in their “gross income”.

The people working for a state corporation are therefore not liable for extortion to either the state or federal government, because federal liability is universally a prerequisite to state income tax liability. The corporation in this case is the direct recipient of state (but not federal) government privileges, but the employees of the corporation are indirect recipients of these privileges through the earnings they receive from their labor. If the company is employee owned and the employees get stock options and there is appreciation on either their stock or the options, then the employees have a realized gain or profit that is “unearned income” from the appreciation on the corporate stock. This profit or appreciation is a direct result of their labor but is “unearned income” NOT considered part of their earnings from labor. If they were a corporation in receipt of these earnings, then they could be liable for income tax on such profit, but once again, they can only be taxed as a sovereign American National if the VOLUNTEER, because the constitution prohibits unapportioned DIRECT TAXES upon individuals. Only STATES can be taxed directly, and not the individuals in them, under Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4, and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the Constitution.

What about licenses to pursue certain occupations? What kinds of licenses can be taxed? The only licenses subject to federal income taxes are those coming under 27 U.S.C., which is for Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms and which only apply within the federal zone. Receipt of any other occupational license or government privilege, so far as we know, does not make one liable for the payment of 26 U.S.C. Subtitles A and C personal income taxes. Here is what one Oregon court said about privileges as they pertain to natural born persons:

To summarize this section then, what you should have learned is that the notion of calling the income tax described in Subtitles A through C of the Internal Revenue Code a “tax” in reality constitutes fraud on the part of the federal government. The other part of the fraud is not clarifying what is meant in the statutes by “tax” (either a tax OR a donation), “United States” (the federal United States) or “employee” (a public official of the U.S. government), “trade or business” (the holding of public office), or “indirect excise tax” in IRS publications and the Internal Revenue Code. “The big lie” therefore begins with the distortions of our language by the government that deprives us of our liberties as described below.

[Confucius, 500 B.C.]

5.4.11 The money you send to the IRS is a Gift to the U.S. government

31 U.S.C. §321(d)

(1) The Secretary of the Treasury may accept, hold, administer, and use gifts and bequests of property, both real and personal, for the purpose of aiding or facilitating the work of the Department of the Treasury. Gifts and bequests of money and the proceeds from sales of other property received as gifts or bequests shall be deposited in the Treasury in a separate fund and shall be disbursed on order of the Secretary of the Treasury. Property accepted under this paragraph, and the proceeds thereof, shall be used as nearly as possible in accordance with the terms of the gift or bequest.

(2): “For the purposes of the Federal income, estate, and gift taxes, property accepted under paragraph (1) shall be considered as a gift or bequest to or for the use of the United States.”

Now let’s look at the surprising definition of the word “gift” in Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 688:

Gift: A voluntary transfer of property to another made gratuitously and without consideration. Bradley v. Bradley, Tex.Civ.App., 540 S.W.2d. 504, 511. Essential requisites of “gift” are capacity of donor, intention of donor to make gift, completed delivery to or for donee, and acceptance of gift by donee.

In tax law, a payment is a gift if it is made without conditions, from detached and disinterested generosity, out of affection, respect, charity or like impulses, and not from the constraining force of any moral or legal duty or from the incentive of anticipated benefits of an economic nature.

And finally, let’s look up the word “voluntary” from Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1575:

“Unconstrained by interference; unimpelled by another’s influence; spontaneous; acting of oneself. Coker v. State, 199 Ga. 20. 33 S.E.2d. 171, 174. Done by design or intention. Proceeding from the free and unrestrained will of the person. Produced in or by an act of choice. Resulting from free choice, without compulsion or solicitation. The word, especially in statutes, often implies knowledge of essential facts. Without valuable consideration; gratuitous, as a voluntary conveyance. Also, having a merely nominal consideration; as, a voluntary deed.”

The above considerations might explain why the Congress created 31 U.S.C. §321(d)(2), which says that income taxes, estate taxes, and gift taxes are “gifts” to the U.S. government. Therefore, because “gifts” and “bequests” are never mandatory and must always be a product of choice and not compulsion, then they aren’t “taxes” in a legal sense and Subtitles A and C actually describe a voluntary donation program for the municipal government of the District of Columbia! There can be no other rational conclusion you can reach after reading this section. You can read this amazing statute for yourself at:

http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/31/321.html

Because the monies paid the government and IRS under the guise of a lawful income tax are actually gifts, then the Supreme Court has said that such gifts are non-refundable if voluntarily paid, even if they are mistakenly paid. The only way to maintain the ability to get these gifts back is to pay them “under protest”:

http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/31/321.html
"If the duties demanded of Nicholl & Co. had been paid under protest, their payment, in the sense of the law, would have been compulsory, but as they were paid without protest it was a voluntary payment, doubtless made and received in mutual mistake of the law; but in such a case, as was decided in Elliott v. Swartwout, no action will lie to recover back the money."

[...at page 129]

Besides, if there had been a regulation of the department on the subject, it could not affect the rights of the appellants, for such a regulation cannot change a law of Congress.

How do we pay something under protest? Well, simply put, we indicate the words “under protest” near our signature or somewhere on the tax return or letter attached to it. Once we have done this, we have reserved our right to recover the coerced “gift” in a court of law.

Getting back to our friends at the Department of Plunder, the IRS depends not only upon its highly publicized actions but upon its perceived power in order to instill fear into honest Americans and, according to the agency itself, to: "Maintain a sense of presence."

Quoting from a book called IRS In Action by Santo Presti, we read:

"Fear is the key element for the IRS in achieving its mission. Without fear, the IRS would have a difficult time maintaining our so-called system of voluntary compliance..."

And what exactly does "voluntary compliance" really mean?

In 1953, Mr. Dwight E. Avis, head of the Alcohol and Tobacco Division of the Bureau of Internal Revenue, made the following remarkable statement to a subcommittee of the Committee on Ways and Means in the House of Representatives:

"Let me point this out now: Your income tax is 100 percent voluntary tax, and your liquor tax is 100 percent enforced tax. Now, the situation is as different as day and night."

In 1971, the following quote was found in the IRS instruction booklet for Form 1040:

"Each year American taxpayers voluntarily file their tax returns and make a special effort to pay the taxes they owe."

In 1974, Donald C. Alexander, Commissioner of Internal Revenue, published the following statement in the March 29 issue of The Federal Register:

"The mission of the Service is to encourage and achieve the highest possible degree of voluntary compliance with the tax laws and regulations..."

[emphasis added]

One year later, in 1975, his successor, Mortimer Caplin authored the following statement in the Internal Revenue Audit Manual:

"Our system is based on individual self-assessment and voluntary compliance."

In 1980, yet another IRS commissioner, Jerome Kurtz (their turnover is high) issues a similar statement in their Internal Revenue Annual Report:

"The IRS's primary task is to collect taxes under a voluntary compliance system."

Even the Supreme Court of the United States has held that the system of federal income taxation is voluntary, starting in Flora v. United States, 362 U.S. 145 (1960):

"...the government can collect the tax from a district court suitor by exercising it's power of distraint.. but we cannot believe that compelling resort to this extraordinary procedure is either wise or in accord with congressional intent. Our tax system is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.
The dictionary defines "distraint" to mean the act or action of distraining, that is, seizing property to distress or taking by force. One way to determine for whom the income tax is mandatory is to look at the section of the code that talks about the types of levy and distraint that are authorized and how they may be instituted. The only section of the entire Internal Revenue Code that talks about levy and distraint is 26 U.S.C. Section 6331, and it plainly states that only the Secretary of the Treasury (not the IRS) may institute levy and distraint and that he has the authority to do so ONLY on instrumentalities of the federal government, such as officers or elected officials of the United States situated in the federal zone. The Secretary of the Treasury may NOT therefore effect levy or distraint outside of the federal zone or in nonfederal areas in the 50 Union states on other than its own officers. Here is that section of the Internal Revenue Code:

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

The IRS’ definition of “employee” is also consistent with the above conclusions on the limitations on liability for paying the federal income tax:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee: "... the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

26 U.S.C. Sec. 3401(c)

Employee

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term ‘employee’ also includes an officer of a corporation.

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1

Generally, physicians, lawyers, dentists, veterinarians, contractors, subcontractors, public stenographers, auctioneers, and others who follow an independent trade, business, or profession, in which they offer their services to the public, are not employees.

IRS Publication 21 is widely distributed to high schools. It acknowledges that compliance with a Law that requires the filing of returns is voluntary. Get to those young minds early, and it’s easier to wash their brains later on in life.

At the same time, Publication 21 suggests that the filing of a return is mandatory, as follows:

“...make it important for you to understand your rights and responsibilities as a taxpayer. Voluntary compliance places on the taxpayer the responsibility for filing an income tax return. You must decide whether the Law requires you to file a return. If it does, you must file your return by the date it is due.”

Perhaps one of the most famous quotes on this question of the voluntary nature of income taxes came from Roger M. Olsen, Assistant Attorney General, Tax Division, Department of Justice, Washington, D.C., on Saturday, May 9, 1987, when Olsen told an assemblage of tax lawyers:

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

"We encourage voluntary compliance by scaring the heck out of you!"

Meaning, "Assess yourself and volunteer to comply or we'll seize your property and you may go to jail" (exercise "distrain"), that is, which the Supreme Court said in Flora v. United States, 362 U.S. 145 (1960) was NOT to be used as part of our tax system!

What is the difference between the voluntary filing of a tax return and the voluntary paying of income tax on taxable income? A world of difference. Millions of people don't file income tax returns. For instance, below is a clip from a GAO report on nonfilers published in 1996 (see http://www.devvy.com/abra_19991021.html):

"In 1993, IRS received about 114 million individual income tax returns. Almost all of those returns were for tax year 1992. For that same tax year, IRS identified 59.6 million potential individual nonfilers. Of the 59.6 million, IRS took no enforcement action on 54.1 million (91 percent), primarily because IRS subsequently determined that the individual or business had no legal requirement to file."

So as we can see, LOTS of people don't file returns and no enforcement action is taken against them. Why, as we see above, would the IRS not want to institute enforcement action? Because:

TAXES ON INCOME EARNED BY NATIONALS FROM SOURCES WITHIN AND WITHOUT THE FEDERAL UNITED STATES ARE VOLUNTARY, UNCONSTITUTIONAL TO MAKE MANDATORY, AND NOT SUBJECT TO "DISTRAINT" OR FORCE, AS RULED BY THE SUPREME COURT IN Flora v. United States, 362 U.S. 145!

5.4.12 Taxes Paid on One's Own Labor are Slavery

"You were bought at a price; do not become slaves of men [and government is made up of men]."
[1 Cor. 7:23, Bible, NKJV]

"Stand fast therefore in liberty by which Christ has made us free, and do not be entangled again with a yoke of bondage [to the IRS or the government]."
[Gal. 5:1, Bible, NKJV]

"Masters [tyrants in Washington, D.C. who are public servants that vainly think themselves to be masters], give your servants what is just and fair, knowing that you also have a Master in heaven."
[Colossians 4:1, Bible, NKJV]

Slavery, we are reminded incessantly these days, was a terrible thing. In today’s politically correct society, some blacks are demanding reparations for slavery because their remote ancestors were slaves. Slavery is routinely used to bash the South, although the slave trade began in the North, and slavery was once practiced in every state in the Union. Today’s historians assure us that the War for Southern Independence was fought primarily if not exclusively over slavery, and that by winning that war, the North put an end to the peculiar institution once and for all.

Whoa! Time out! Shouldn’t we back up and ask: what is slavery? It has been a while since those ranting on the subject have offered us a working definition of it. They will all claim that we know good and well what it is; why play games with the word? But given the adage that those who can control language can control policy, it surely can’t hurt to revisit the definition of slavery. There are good reasons to suspect the motives of those who won’t allow their basic terms to be defined or scrutinized. Here is a definition, one that will make sense of the instincts telling us that slavery is indeed an abomination:

Slavery is non-ownership of one’s Person and Labor.

Slavery is the opposite of “liberty” or the absence of liberty. We have an excellent animation on our website that very clearly and simply defines what liberty is, which helps us understand what slavery is at the address below:

http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Freedom/Articles/PhilosophyOfLiberty-english.swf

Here’s another example of what slavery means, again from the U.S. Supreme Court in Plessy v. Ferguson, 163 U.S. 537, 542 (1896):

“…The constitutionality and scope of sections 1990 and 5526 present the first questions for our consideration. They prohibit peonage. What is peonage? It may be defined as a state or condition of compulsory service, based upon the indebtedness of the peon to the master. The basal fact is indebtedness. As said by Judge Benedict, delivering the opinion in Jaremillo v. Romero, 1 N.Mex. 190, 194: ’One fact existed universally; all were indebted to their masters. This was the cord by which they seemed bound to their masters’ service.’ Upon this is based a condition of compulsory service. Peonage is sometimes classified as voluntary or involuntary, but this implies simply a difference in the mode of origin, but not in the character of the servitude. The one exists where the debtor voluntarily contracts to enter the service of his creditor. The other is forced upon the debtor by some provision of law. But peonage, however created, is compulsory service, involuntary servitude. The peon can release himself therefrom, it is true, by the payment of the debt, but otherwise the service is enforced. A clear distinction exists between peonage and the voluntary performance of labor or rendering of services in payment of a debt. In the latter case the debtor, though contracting to pay his indebtedness, is still free to choose what work he shall perform.

When the IRS fabricates a bogus tax liability without the authority of enacted positive law creating a “liability”, if they lie to you about what the tax Code says, or if they try to enforce an excise tax against activities that that you aren’t involved in and which you have informed them under penalty of perjury that you aren’t involved in, then they effectively are recruiting or returning you into debt slavery and “peonage” and their activities are a federal offense in violation of 42 U.S.C. §1994 and 18 U.S.C. §1593. These two statutes, incidentally, unlike most other federal legislation and statutes, DO apply within states of the union according to the U.S. Supreme Court in the above mentioned case. 18 U.S.C. §1593 also mandates restitution for all those persons who have been recruited into slavery or involuntary servitude by their slave masters, which means that we must be compensated fairly for the labor of ours that was in effect stolen from us. Why hasn’t the Supreme Court attempted to prevent the unconstitutional implementation of an otherwise constitutional tax law that only operates (as written) within the District of Columbia and other federal territories? Because they are bought and paid for with money they are STEALING from you! By acquiescing to the illegal enforcement of the Internal Revenue Code, which is otherwise constitutional, you are bribing them to maintain the status quo, friends!

In the case of the way the corrupt IRS and an even more corrupted federal judiciary mis-enforces our laws or pretends that there is a positive law federal taxing statute when in fact there isn’t one, the very real slavery that results is at odds with libertarian social ethics, in which all human beings have a natural right to ownership of Person and Labor. According to libertarian social ethics, contracts should be voluntary and not coerced. This is sufficient for us to oppose slavery with all our might. However, notice that this clear definition of slavery is a double-edged sword. There is no reference to race in the above definition. That whites enslaved blacks early in our history is an historical accident; there is nothing inherently racial about slavery. Many peoples have been enslaved in the past, including whites. The South, too, has no intrinsic connection with slavery, given how we already noted that it was practiced in the North as well. No slaves were brought into the Confederacy during its brief, five-year existence, and it is very likely that the practice would have died out in a generation or two had the Confederacy won the war. The Emancipation Proclamation, in fact, freed all the slaves over which Lincoln had NOT JURISDICTION.

It is instructive at this point to compare the status of being a “negro slave” to that of being a “taxpayer” to show you just how similar they are, in fact. We have prepared a table comparing each of these two statuses to show you that they are indeed synonymous:

Finally, it is clear that when most people talk about slavery, they are referring to chattel slavery, the overt practice of buying, selling and owning people like farm animals or beasts of burden. Are there other forms of slavery besides chattel slavery?

Before answering, let’s review our definition above and contrast slavery with sovereignty, in the sense of sovereignty over one’s life. Slavery, we said, is non-ownership of Person and Labor. In that case, sovereignty is ownership of Person and Labor. The basic contrast, then, is between slavery and sovereignty, and the issue is ownership. And there are two basic things one can own: one’s Person (one’s life), and one’s Labor (the fruits of one’s labors, including personal wealth resulting from productive labors).

Let us quantify the situation. A plantation slave owned neither himself nor the fruits of his labors. That is, he owned 0% of Person and 0% of Labor. In an ideal libertarian order, ownership of Person and Labor would be just the opposite: 100% of both. In this case, we have a method allowing us to describe other forms of slavery by ascribing different percentages of ownership to Person and Labor. For example, we might say that a prison inmate owns 5% of Person and 50% of Labor. Inmates are highly confined in person yet they are allowed to own wealth both inside the prison and outside. Some, moreover, are allowed to work at jobs for which they are paid. When slavery was abolished, ownership of Person and Labor was transferred to the slave, and he became mostly free. So let us define the following categories in terms of individual percentage ownership:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

With this in mind, here is an intriguing question for our readers:

How much ownership do you have in your person and your labor?

Are you really free? Or are you a partial slave or peon? We are not, of course, talking about arrangements that cede a portion of ownership of Person and Labor to others through voluntary contract.

We submit that forcible taxation on your personal income makes you a partial slave and makes the government a socialist government. For if you are legally bound to hand a certain percentage of your income (the fruits of your labors) over to federal, state and local governments, then from the legal standpoint you only have “some % ownership” of your person and labor. The pivotal point is whether or not ownership is ceded through voluntary contract. Have you any recollection of any deals you signed with the IRS promising them payment of part of your income? If not, then if 30% of your income is paid in income taxes, then you have only 70% ownership of Labor. You are a slave from January through April – a very conservative estimate at best, today!

If one wants to stand on the U.S. Constitution as one’s foundation, then the 13th Amendment to the U.S. Constitution can be used as an ironclad argument against a forcible direct tax on the labor of a human being. The 13th Amendment says:

> “Neither slavery nor involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for a crime whereof the party shall have been duly convicted, shall exist within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction. Congress shall have the power to enforce this article by appropriate legislation.”

The 13th Amendment makes it very clear that we cannot legally or Constitutionally be forced into involuntary servitude. It doesn’t make any distinction between whether the slavery is physical or financial, but says that any kind of involuntary servitude is prohibited.

As such, we maintain that a human being has an inalienable right to own 100% of Person and 100% of Labor, including control over how the fruits of his actions are dispensed. A human being has an inalienable right to control the compensation for his labor while in the act of any service in the marketplace – e.g., digging ditches, flipping burgers, word-processing documents for a company, programming computers, preparing court cases, performing surgery, preaching sermons, or writing novels.

A forcible direct tax on the labor of a human being is in violation of this right as stated in the 13th Amendment. If we work 40 hours a week, and another entity forcibly conscripts 25% of our compensation, then we argue that we have been forced into involuntary servitude – slavery – for 10 of those 40 hours, and we were free for the other 30. If we could freely choose to work just the 30 hours and decline to work the 10 hours, then our wills would not be violated and the 13th Amendment would be honored.

However, Congress and the IRS claim that their Internal Revenue Code (IRC) lay direct claim to those ten hours (or some stated percentage) without our consent.

In other words, in a free and just society, a society in which there is no slavery of any form:

- Human beings are not forced to work for free, in whole or in part.
- Human beings are not slaves to anything or anyone.
- Anyone who attempts to force us to work for free, without compensation, has violated our rights under the 13th Amendment.
This, of course, is not the state of affairs in the United States of America at the turn of the millennium, in which:

- We labor involuntarily for at least four months out of every year for the government.
- We are, therefore, slaves for that period of time.
- The government, having forced us to work for free, without compensation, has violated the 13th Amendment.

Of course, of which follows from all this discussion is that there is an issue about slavery. But it is not the issue politically correct historians and activists are raising. As for reparations, we suspect many of us might be willing to let bygones be bygones if we never had to pay out another dime to the IRS. We often read about how great the economy is supposedly doing. Just imagine how it would flourish if human beings owned 100% of Person and Labor, and could voluntarily invest the capital we currently pay to the government in our businesses, our homes, our schools, and our communities!

For those of you who believe that the 16th Amendment repealed, replaced, modified, appended, amended or superseded the 13th Amendment, you are mistaken. For an Amendment to be changed, in any way, there must be an Amendment that emphatically declares this action. There is absolutely nothing in the Constitution that alters the efficacy of the 13th Amendment in even the slightest way. The 16th merely allowed the government to enter the "National Social Benefits" business where it finances the system with the mandatory contributions of voluntary participants. While all Americans certainly understand the concept of mandatory contributions, they fail to understand the concept of voluntary participation, largely due to a very effective marketing campaign on the part of our central government for several generations now since the Great Depression. The 16th gave the government the power to legally enter a contractual relationship with its citizens wherein the citizen voluntarily contributes a portion of his labor in exchange for social benefits. In order for both Amendments to peacefully coexist, the contractual relationships in the system created by the 16th cannot be forced upon the citizens. For to do so would be to contradict the 13th completely.

Two final questions, and a few final thoughts. Can we really take seriously the carpings of politically correct historians about an arrangement (chattel slavery) that hasn’t existed for 140 years when they completely ignore the structurally similar arrangements (tax slavery) that have existed right under their noses during most of the years since. And does a governmental system which systematically violates its own founding documents, and then oversees the imprisoning of those who refuse to recognize the legitimacy of the violations, really have a claim on the loyalty of those who would be loyal to the ideals represented in those founding documents?

Eventually, we have to make a decision. How long are we going to continue to put up with the present hypocritical arrangements? In the Declaration of Independence is found these remarks:

"... and accordingly all Experience hath shewn, that Mankind are more disposed to suffer, while Evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the Forms to which they are accustomed."

We are accustomed to the income tax. Most people take it for granted, and don’t look at fundamental issues. Yet some have indeed opted out of the tax system. It is necessary, at present, to become self-employed and hire oneself out based on a negotiated contract in which you determine your hourly rate and then bid for your time. Then you send your client an invoice, they write a check directly to you in response, and you take the check and deposit it in your bank account; you may wish to open a bank account with a name like John Smith Enterprises DBA (DBA stands for ‘Doing Business As’). If the bank asks for a tax-ID number, you may give your social security number. This is perfectly legal since you are not a corporation nor are you required to be. Nor does the use of a government issued number contractually obligate you to participate in their system.

We should specify here that we are discussing taxes on income resulting from personal labor, to be carefully distinguished from taxes for the sale of material items, or excise taxes, both of which are usually indirect taxes on artificial entities like corporations. These are an entirely separate, and voluntary matter, because if you don’t want to pay the tax, you either don’t buy the good or don’t register as a corporation that sells the good.

By advocating opting out of the income tax slavery system, we are not advocating anything illegal here; that is the most surprising thing of all. The Treasury Department nailed Al Capone not because of failure to pay taxes on his personal labor but for his failure to pay the excise tax on the sale of alcoholic beverages. So a plan to be self-employed that includes profit from the sale of material goods should include a plan to pay all the excise taxes; you risk a prison sentence if you don’t. But the 13th Amendment directly prohibits anything or anyone from conscripting your person or the fruits of your physical or cognitive labors; to do so is make a slave of you. You may, of course, voluntarily participate in the SSA-W2 system by free choice. In this case you are required to submit to the rules as outlined in the Internal Revenue Code (IRC). And this means that you will contribute a significant fraction of your labor to pay for the group benefits of the system in which you are voluntarily participating.

Your relationship with the system technically begins with the assignment of a Social Security Number (Personal Tax ID Number). This government-issued number, however, does not contractually obligate you to anything. The government cannot conscript its citizens simply by assigning a number to them. Assigning the number is perfectly fine. But conscripting them in the process is a serious no-no. Some people that feel strongly about the last chapters of the book of Revelation might view this as pure – evil.

The critical point in the relationship begins when a citizen accepts a job with an IRS registered corporation. Accepting the government owned SSA-W2 job marries you to the system. The payroll department has the employee fill out a W4. This W4 officially notifies the employee that the job in question is officially part of the SSA-W2 system and that all job-income is subject first to the rules and regulations of the IRC and then secondly to the employee. When you sign that W4 you are at that point very, very married to the system.

So why not just decline to sign the W4?

You can decline to sign a W4 but this does not accomplish much nor does it un-marry you from the system. Your payroll office will merely use the IRC defaults already present in the payroll software and all deductions will be based on those parameters.

Okay, you might say, fine, I'll sign a W4 but I'll direct my payroll department to withhold zero. (You can do this for federal withholding but not for social security tax.) This still does not un-marly you from the system. Your payroll department still reports the gross income and deductions for your SSA-W2 job to the IRS each and every quarter. And at the end of the year you will probably end up being asked to write a large check to the IRS for the group contributions you declined to pay during the year. With skill and the resources in this book, you may escape this assumed but nonexistent liability.

You then might say, Okay, then I'll just direct my payroll office to decline to report income to the IRS.

Reply: they cannot legally decline to report your SSA-W2 income because of their contractual obligations under the IRC that were agreed to when they established their official IRS registered corporation. The corporation can get into deep trouble by violating their contract.

Okay, you reply in turn, I'll just get the corporation to create a non-SSA-W2 job for me.

Response this time: the corporation cannot do this either; their contract under the IRC requires every single employee-job in that corporation to be an SSA-W2 job. This is similar to labor union practices of insisting that all jobs in a plant be union jobs.

You retort: isn't this a government monopoly on every corporate job in America???

The short answer is YES.

So how can I legally decline to work for free?

The answer is to decline to be an 'employee' of an official IRS registered corporation.

How is that possible?

The answer is simple. You become an independent contractor. The Supreme Court upholds the sovereignty of the individual and has declared that your "...power to contract is unlimited." Corporations hire the labors of non-employees each and every day.

If there is an infestation of cockroaches near the employee break-room, the corporation doesn't create an SSA-W2 employee exterminator job. They hire a contract exterminator to kill the bugs. When the bug-man arrives they don't hand him a W4 and ask him to declare his allowances, they lead him straight to the big-fat-ugly roaches and implore him to vanquish the vermin.
immediately. When the bug-man finishes the job he hands them an invoice for his services. And the company sends him a check to pay the invoice. And nowhere on that check will you find a federal, state, county or city withholding deduction or a social security deduction or a medical or dental deduction or a garnishment or an "I'll-be-needling-an-accountant-to-figure-all-this-out" deduction or a "Tuesday-Save-The-Turnips-Tax" deduction. On the contrary, the bug-man receives full remuneration for his service. This simple arrangement is completely legal and the IRC has zero contractual claim to any part of this check (assuming the bug-man has made no contract under the IRC). And anyone or anything that attempts to forcibly conscript any part of that check is violating the bug-man's rights under the 13th Amendment.

Supreme Court Ruling on Individual Sovereignty

"There is a clear distinction in this particular case between an individual and a corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the State. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights."

[Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43, 74 (1906)]

What does the bug-man do with his check?

The short answer is ... he keeps it ... all of it.

What about filing a tax return?

The bug-man declines to file a return since he has nothing to report that is under the jurisdiction of the IRC. Since he does not work in a government owned SSA-W2 job he is out of the system and under no contractual obligation to make contributions. The corporation that wrote him a check for his service legally reports it as an internal business expense. He is legally classified as a non-participant.

If you are in the SSA-W2 system:

The purpose of an individual year-end tax-return is to settle the exact amount of contractually required contributions to the SSA-W2 system as determined by the IRC. Filing is purely voluntary. You can decline to file but doing so does not release you from your contractual obligations under the IRC. In the absence of a tax-return, the IRS falsely believes that the IRC permits them to file a tax-return on your behalf and they are allowed to file a return that maximally favors them. Most people don’t challenge their illegal attempt to make a return if you don’t provide them with one. And this they will do if it creates a receivable – accounting lingo for – "you owe them money." They will decline to file a return if it would create a payable – accounting lingo for "they owe you money." If the IRS files a return and creates a receivable against you they will send you a notice declaring their claim. If you decline to pay, the IRC permits the IRS to file a tax-lien against you if you are a “public officer” of the U.S. government. This of course will be seen on your credit report. And the end result is your credit is damaged. The IRS computers will see to it that the lien remains on your credit report until the lien is paid. You can't beat a computer.

What if I file a return but cheat like crazy?

This is a very bad idea. The Treasury Department nailed Leona Helmsley not because she failed to pay taxes on her personal labor but because she filed a fraudulent tax return. Filing a dishonest tax return puts you at risk. The IRS is very astute at defending itself. Basically the IRS is responsible for enforcing the IRC rules. If you are in the SSA-W2 system you have to live by the IRC. If you decide to stay in the system, we recommend securing the services of a highly qualified CPA or tax attorney that can assist you in filing the most advantageous return possible without committing fraud or risking an audit.

In the end, the law does allow you to opt-out because you can't be forced to work for free. If you do opt-out there are at least 2 potential inconveniences you need to understand:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. Difficulty with conventional loans. You will have a far more difficult time getting loans from conventional banks, because so often these depend on verifying your income with signed tax returns you no longer have. You can hire an accountant to prepare a certified financial statement that some loan institutions may accept as valid proof of income.

2. No unemployment benefits. This benefit is part of the SSA-W2 system and since you’re not in the system you can’t use the benefits. If you have no contracts you only have yourself to complain to, you can’t complain to the government because you can’t get anyone to do business with you.

Moreover, some who have opted out have moved all their physical assets into a trust. This measure makes it almost impossible for the IRS to touch the assets. The IRS, after all, cannot simply decide to go after a person’s wealth. They have to obey IRC rules as well. If there is no income over which they have jurisdiction then they can legally do nothing.

It is worth noting, finally, that the government is in the "National Social Benefits" business. The government entered this business with the ratification of the 16th Amendment and has achieved a near perfect monopoly in this market (a violation of anti-trust laws). If you don’t believe this, try finding a non-SSA-W2 job with a U.S. corporation. As such, it is in the interest of any business that has a monopoly to get the customers to believe that there is no alternative to the present business relationship. The government is not about to provide any of its customers (you and I) with any information suggesting otherwise. In obtaining such information, we are clearly on our own; no government agency will assist you in opting out of the income tax system or the social security system, with the possible exception of the U.S. Supreme Court, should the right case one day come before them.

So one’s best weapon is still the Declaration of Independence, the U.S. Constitution, the 13th Amendment, and information. Whatever the inconveniences, the reward is personal sovereignty – otherwise known as freedom. If you would like to know more about the subject of the taxability of wages, we have prepared a whole line of deposition questions on the subject useful in an IRS audit or deposition that basically backs the government into the corner of admitting based on facts and evidence and their own words that wages of natural persons and not corporations cannot be taxable. It is at:

5.4.13 The word “shall” in the tax code actually means “may”

Many people who read the tax code are deceived by the word “shall”. When they see that word, they assume it creates a mandatory obligation on their part to obey. In this section, we will explore further exactly what this important word means from a legal perspective to show that it really means “may”. This conclusion then reinforces our hypothesis that the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is indeed completely “voluntary”.

The first place to check on how the word “shall” is being used in the Code, starts with where all construction begins, that is, within the statute itself. The word ‘shall’ is not defined in the Code. The next step would be to see, or how, in general, is the word ‘shall’ defined by the courts. There are very few judicial precedents that deal directly with on the definition of this important word, but we will review what we have found so far to conclusively prove the hypothesis of this section.

In Fort Howard Paper Company v. Fox River Heights Sanitary District, 26 N.W.2nd. 661, the court defined the word 'shall' in the following way:

"The word 'shall' in a statute may be construed to mean may, particularly in order to avoid a constitutional doubt."

The court in Gow v. Consolidated Coopermines Corp, 165 Atl. 136, defined it this way:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

George Williams College v. Village of William Bay, 7 N.W.2d. 6, is another case that defined the word ‘shall’ as ‘may’ as well. Here is what they said:

“‘Shall’ in a statute may be construed to mean ‘may’ in order to avoid constitutional doubt.”

Here is another one. Ballou v. Kemp, 92 F.2d. 556:

“The word ‘shall’ in a statute may be construed as ‘may’ where the connection in which it is used or the relation to which it is put with other parts of the same statute indicates that the legislature intended that it should receive such a construction.”

The reasonable but uninformed or misinformed man, when reading the statutes might “assume” and say "THE WORD SHALL MEANS MUST". On the contrary, the word “shall” means “may” - so there is no constitutional contradiction with the legislative statutes. Furthermore, as you can see from the above judicial citation, notice how each case is a "lower court". It is either an appellate case or some state supreme Court giving the citation. Ladies and gentlemen - of course, the best is for last. Our united States supreme Court HAS EVEN STATED that the word “shall” means “may”!!! Take a look at what the supreme Court case in Cairo and Fulton Railroad Company v. Hect, 92 U.S. 170, stated within its decision:

"As against the government the word ‘shall’ when used in statutes is to be construed as ‘may’, unless a contrary intention is manifest."

[Cairo and Fulton Railroad Company v. Hect, 92 U.S. 170]

The reasonable question is - Has the word “shall” been defined otherwise in the Internal Revenue Code as to mean “must”?

The answer is NO, therefore the logic is simple: There is no CONTRARY INTENTION that is manifest within the Internal Revenue Code! This is another argument on why we can DISCURSIVELY prove that the Internal Revenue Code is voluntary - it is because each time the word “shall” is used within a statute that which applies to alleged “people”, the word “shall” means “may” and when something is a “may” or “perhaps” then we can say SUCH ACTION IS VOLUNTARY.

5.4.14 Constitutional Due Process Rights in the Context of Income Taxes

(1) Rule 1.

An exaction by the U.S. Government, which is not based upon law, statutory or otherwise, is a taking of property without due process of law, in violation of the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution. Accordingly, an Appeals representative in his or her conclusions of fact or application of the law, shall hew to the law and the recognized standards of legal construction. It shall be his or her duty to determine the correct amount of the tax, with striction impartiality as between the taxpayer and the Government, and without favoritism or discrimination between taxpayers.” (4-1-96 Edition)

As we described earlier in section 3.11.8.3, the Fifth Amendment guarantees that we shall NOT be deprived of our property without due process of law.

No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.

[Fifth Amendment, Emphasis added]

In most cases, due process of law means a judicial trial and a resulting warrant issued by the court. The U.S. supreme court in Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906) clearly reveals the need for a warrant:

“...we are of the opinion that there is a clear distinction in this particular between an individual and a corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the state. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to the state [including the payment of income taxes] or to his neighbors to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation.

(by filling out a tax return, for instance), so far as it may tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the state, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the state, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.

Upon the other hand, the corporation is a creature of the state. It is presumed to be incorporated for the benefit of the public. It receives certain special privileges and franchises, and holds them subject to the laws of the state and the limitations of its charter. Its powers are limited by law. It can make no contract not authorized by its charter. Its rights to [201 U.S. 43, 75] act as a corporation are only preserved to it so long as it obeys the laws of its creation. There is a reserved right in the legislature to investigate its contracts and find out whether it has exceeded its powers. It would be a strange anomaly to hold that a state, having chartered a corporation to make use of certain franchises, could not, in the exercise of its sovereignty, inquire how these franchises had been employed, and whether they had been abused, and demand the production of the corporate books and papers for that purpose. The defense amounts to this: That an officer of a corporation which is charged with a criminal violation of the statute, may plead the criminality of such corporation as a refusal to produce its books. To state this proposition is to answer it. While an individual may lawfully refuse to answer incriminating questions unless protected by an immunity statute, it does not follow that a corporation, vested with special privileges and franchises, may refuse to show its hand when charged with an abuse of such privileges. “

[Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906)]

Note that it says

“Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law.”

This is what “due process of law” is all about. The IRS routinely violates this legal requirement by issuing “Levies”, Notice of levies”, “Notice of liens”, and “Liens” that are NOT issued by a judicial trial and have no basis in law whatsoever for a legal duty or legal liability. For such cases, the collection agent responsible for doing this can be held personally liable for his tort (injurious act). We describe how to do this later in Chapter 3 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008.

Returning again to our Henkel cite above, I have a simple question for the IRS. When the Supreme Court says:

“He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.”

The question for the government and the IRS then becomes:

“What part of NOTHING do you not understand?”

The answer to this question, or in the case of the IRS, its repeated and chronic failure to answer, is the heart of the hypocrisy, arrogance, fraud, and evil avarice that perpetuates the tyranny we all live under to this day in the context of the federal and state income tax.

5.4.14.1 What is Due Process of Law?

The Fifth Amendment establishes that the government can’t take our property without just compensation and without a court trial. The mere existence of such a right is evidence that the payment of federal income taxes cannot be anything other than voluntary and the deduction from our pay of these federal donations must be instituted voluntarily and without compulsion. That is why we have to fill out an IRS Form W-4 to institute withholding and why our private (not federal) employer can’t lawfully deduct taxes from our earnings from labor if we don’t authorize it. But the question arises, what is “due process of law”? Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, page 500 defines “due process of law” as follows:

Due process of law. Law in its regular course of administration through courts of justice. Due process of law in each particular case means such an exercise of the powers of the government as the settled maxims of law permit and sanction, and under such safeguards for the protection of individual rights as those maxims prescribe for the class of cases to which the one in question belongs. A course of legal proceedings according to those rules and principles which have been established in our systems of jurisprudence for the enforcement and protection of private rights. To give such proceedings any validity, there must be a tribunal competent by its constitution—that is, by the law of the creation—to pass upon the subject-matter of the suit; and, if that involves merely a determination of the personal liability of the defendant, he must be brought within its jurisdiction by service of process within the state, or his voluntary appearance. Pennoyer v. Neff, 95 U.S. 714, 24 L.Ed. 565.

Due process of law implies the right of the person affected thereby to be present before the tribunal which pronounces judgment upon the question of life, liberty, or property, in its most comprehensive sense; to be heard, by testimony or otherwise, and to have the right of controverting, by proof, every material fact which bears on the question of right in the matter involved. If any question of fact or liability be considered to be presump[ed] rather than proven against him, this is not due process of law.

and to enforce and protect his rights before a court having the power to hear and determine the case. Kazubowski
v. Kazubowski, 45 Ill.2d. 405, 259 N.E.2d. 282, 290. Phrase means that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, property or of any right granted him by statute, unless matter involved first shall have been adjudicated against him upon trial conducted according to established rules regulating judicial proceedings, and it forbids condemnation without a hearing. Pettit v. Penn, LaApp., 180 So.2d. 66, 69. The concept of “due process of law” as it is embodied in the Fifth Amendment demands that a law shall not be unreasonable, arbitrary, or capricious and that the means selected shall have a reasonable and substantial relation to the object being sought. U.S. v.
Smith, D.C.Iowa, 249 F.Supp. 515, 516. Fundamental requisite of “due process of law” is the opportunity to be heard, to be aware that a matter is pending, to make an informed choice whether to acquiesce or contest, and to assert before the appropriate decision-making body the reasons for such choice. Trinity Episcopal Corp. v.
Romney, D.C.N.Y., 387 F.Supp. 1044, 1084. Aside from all else, “due process” means fundamental fairness and Embodied in the due process concept are the basic rights of a defendant in criminal proceedings and the requisites for a fair trial. These rights and requirements have been expanded by Supreme Court decisions and include, timely notice of a hearing or trial which informs the accused of the charges against him or her; the opportunity to confront accusers and to present evidence on one’s own behalf before an impartial jury or judge; the presumption of innocence under which guilt must be proven by legally obtained evidence and the verdict must be supported by the evidence presented; rights at the earliest stage of the criminal process; and the guarantee that an individual will not be tried more than once for the same offence (double jeopardy).

Note above that the existence of any kind of “presumption of liability” implies the absence of due process! This is very important because when Americans are hauled into court on criminal or civil tax charges, the government tries to use false or unsubstantiated presumptions of liability to convict nonfilers and “nontaxpayers” of “willful failure to file” under 26 U.S.C.
§7203, for instance, in direct violation of the due process rights of the accused. Judges will also routinely violate the defendant’s due process rights by refusing to admit any evidence prejudicial to the government regarding the lack of any liability statute for Subtitle A federal income taxes.

The U.S. Supreme Court says the following about “due process of law”:

But guess what?: federal judges violate this requirement of due process all the time as follows:

1. They will not allow the citizen litigant to take all the time he needs to properly present his case, which gives the jury an incomplete at best and downright wrong understanding of the facts and evidence. They will repeatedly disrupt and interrupt him. This is called “crazy-making” and it’s a sinister verbal abuse tactic to discredit and interfere with people’s train of thought and the logical and ethical presentation of their materials. They want to get you in a reactive mode so you look dogmatic and abusive. That way the jury can throw the book at you!

2. They will not allow evidence against the government to be admitted into evidence so that the jury can’t see the whole picture. This is generally done by granting a motion in limine by the U.S. attorney prior to trial granting the government’s request to suppress your evidence.

3. They will grant a motion by the U.S. attorney against you to strike your pleadings, so you have absolutely nothing left to argue. The most frequent reason for doing this is because they will say your arguments are “frivolous” and they will do this even if they indeed are not frivolous. They also do not even need to substantiate why they are frivolous or even what their definition of frivolous is, because the main goal is censorship of your free speech and keeping their friends and the IRS federal mafia employed and rich with your cash so they can pay judicial salaries and give the judge his next pay raise.

4. They filter and sensor the proposed jury instructions submitted by the citizen litigant so the jury can’t hear the truth that you want to communicate to them in violation of your First Amendment rights.

5. They make pleadings, dockets, and their own rulings unpublished so that no one can even find out what you said in your pleadings against the government. They might even seal the court record if your case has some really compelling arguments or evidence against the government, and they don’t even have to explain why they are doing this or obtain anyone’s permission to do it! See section 2.8.13.8 for further details on this scandal.

6. They issue protective orders to interfere with your discovery of the truth and with your communicating that discovery to the jury or tribunal hearing your case. This also keeps evidence of government and judicial wrongdoing out of the court record, which is the number one goal of most corrupt federal judges. See section 2.8.13.5 for further details on this scandal.

Do you still think that we don’t live in a communist or socialist country? This is a police state and our government is at war against our God-given rights! Sit in any federal courtroom during one of your vacations and listen to a few tax trials as we have and please tell us we are wrong!

Another key thing to consider is that the purpose of “due process of law” is to protect individual rights deriving from the Bill of Rights. However, 28 U.S.C. §2201 specifically says that federal courts may not rule on rights in the context of federal tax cases, which ought to be a clue that the Internal Revenue Code subtitles A and C only apply where the Bill of Rights does not apply, and this can only be in the federal zone and abroad as we pointed out in section 4.8 earlier. Even if the case is being heard in an Article III (of the Constitution) court such as a District Court, in the context of federal taxes, these courts are actually performing an Article I function because of the above statute preventing them from ruling on rights. There is no other conclusion a reasonable person could reach on this matter.

5.4.14.2 Violation of Due Process using “Presumptions”

As we said in the previous section, anything that involves presumption of liability is a violation of the Fifth Amendment due process of law. The purpose of a presumption is therefore to shift the burden of proof from the government to the sovereign Americans so that the rights of that citizen are prejudiced by the law. Where a presumption exists, the burden of proof rests squarely on us as defenders of our rights to rebut such a presumption:

“presumption. For example, a criminal defendant is presumed to be innocent until the prosecuting attorney proves beyond a reasonable doubt that she is guilty. Presumptions are used to relieve a party from having to actually prove the truth of the fact being presumed. Once one party relies on a presumption, however, the other party is normally allowed to offer evidence to disprove (rebut) the presumption. The presumption is known as a rebuttable presumption. In essence, then, what a presumption really does is place the obligation of presenting evidence concerning a particular fact on a particular party.

The mere existence of presumption clearly violates a well-established principle of the U.S. supreme Court, which states:

“Keeping in mind the well-settled rule that the citizen is exempt from taxation unless the same is imposed by clear and unequivocal language, and that where the construction of a tax law is doubtful, the doubt is to be resolved in favor of those upon whom the tax is sought to be laid.”

[Spreckels Sugar Refining Co. v. McClain, 192 U.S. 397 (1904)]

Presumptions can also be used to violate a canon of American criminal jurisprudence, which says that we are innocent until proven guilty. In America, all persons accused of a crime are legally presumed to be innocent until they are convicted, either in a trial or as a result of pleading guilty. This presumption means not only that the prosecutor must convince the jury of the defendant’s guilt, but also that the defendant need not say or do anything in his own defense. If the prosecutor can’t convince the jury that the defendant is guilty using evidence and testimony other than his own (attorneys aren’t allowed to be witnesses), the defendant goes free. The presumption of innocence, coupled with the fact that the prosecutor must prove the defendant’s guilt beyond a reasonable doubt, makes it difficult for the government to put people behind bars.

But with sneaky statutes that are not positive law such as the Internal Revenue Code, the government can prejudice the case of the criminally accused by creating presumptions about the evidence or lack thereof. For instance, our greedy legislators can and often do write regulations and statutes that violate due process of law in the hopes that it will slip by an ignorant judge or jury so they make you into a “taxpayer” or a statutory “U.S. citizen” by false presumption and thereby pick your pocket and extort money out of you in clear violation of the RICO statute, 18 U.S.C. §255. Let’s look at an example to show what we mean:

(g) Special rules for taxpayer identifying numbers issued to foreign persons—

(1) General rule—

5-705

(i) Social security number. A social security number is generally identified in the records and database of the Internal Revenue Service as a number belonging to a U.S. citizen or resident alien individual. A person may establish a different status for the number by providing proof of foreign status with the Internal Revenue Service under such procedures as the Internal Revenue Service shall prescribe, including the use of a form as the Internal Revenue Service may specify. Upon accepting an individual as a nonresident alien individual, the Internal Revenue Service will assign this status to the individual’s social security number.

Above, a presumption is created by law which leads one to incorrectly conclude that if you have a Social Security Number, then you must be a statutory “U.S. citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 or “resident alien” of the federal United States under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). But we will establish later in section 5.6.13 that “nationals” living outside the federal United States are non-resident non-persons who also have Social Security Numbers. We also established earlier in section 5.3.4 that most Americans are “nationals”. If the above regulation were just and truthful, it would establish the opposite presumption, which is that a person who has an SSN is a nonresident alien unless the government can provide evidence to the contrary. This would be the only way to meet the intent of the above supreme Court ruling in Spreckels and the “innocent until proven guilty” principle, whereby all doubt is in favor of the person against whom a tax is to be laid. If we aren’t aware of the above presumption by the government, then when we go into court to litigate our rights, we will not meet the burden of proof to establish our correct status and incorrectly be assumed to be a statutory “U.S. person” who is “completely subject to the jurisdiction of the United States” as we pointed out in section 4.11. Here is what one court said when one sovereign American failed to rebut the presumption that he was a statutory “U.S. citizen” with the necessary evidence:

Defendant’s protestations to effect that he derived no benefit from United States government had no bearing on his legal obligation to pay income taxes; unless he could establish that he was not a [statutory] citizen of the United States[under 8 U.S.C. §1401]. IRS possessed authority to attempt to determine his federal tax liability. U.S.C.A. Const. Art. 1, Sec. 8, Cl. 1; [Amend. 16] — 26 U.S.C.A. Sec. 1. [?]

See what we mean? This is important stuff, folks, and that is why we tell you in section 4.5.3.13 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 that THE MOST IMPORTANT THING YOU CAN DO is amend or correct the governments records relating to your citizenship status so you that they properly reflect your correct status as a “national” in order to prevent incorrect government presumptions about your citizenship that might inadvertently make you responsible to pay a tax you don’t owe. That way you will have admissible evidence you can present in court of your status as a “non-resident non-person” with no tax liability!

Another very common presumption you will have to overcome in court and in your dealings with the IRS is the presumption that you are a “taxpayer”, who is a person who is liable for Subtitle A federal income taxes. You won’t read any statute or regulation anywhere that creates a presumption that you are a “taxpayer” but this myth is so firmly planted in the minds of most Americans by our government-run educational system and the media that it can be very difficult to overcome and MUST be overcome if you are going to win in court against the IRS. Below are some of the facts relating to the status of being a “taxpayer” that will be extremely helpful in assisting you to overcome the presumption and meet the burden of proof that you are a “nontaxpayer”:

1. We showed in section 1.5 that the only place the word “liable” is used in Subtitle A is in the context of withholding agents for nonresident aliens, and this regulation made the withholding agent responsible to pay the taxes he deducts from the pay of people who volunteer to pay the federal income tax. This withholding agent is none other than the federal government itself, and of course the federal government has jurisdiction over its own employees!
2. We will show later in section 5.6.1 that there is no statute that makes anyone liable for Subtitle A income taxes.
3. We show you the court’s interpretation of the word “taxpayer” and “nontaxpayer” in section 5.3.1.
4. In section 5.4.27 we will show that most persons are not liable to file returns.
5. In section 5.6 and following we will show that most persons are not liable to pay income taxes.
6. It is shown in section 4.5.2.6 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 that it is extremely important for you to watch your language when communicating with the government to remove the word “taxpayer” from your vocabulary and to contradict the presumption that you are one whenever you hear government employees using that word.

Understanding the above information is extremely important and will give you the ammunition you will need to fight this unreasonable presumption by the average American that you are a “taxpayer”.

Another very important aspect of the presumed use of the word “taxpayer” is that you need to be very careful when you are reading government statutes and regulations about the use of that word. We did a search on the U.S.C. and found that the word “taxpayer” is used no less than 479 times in all of title 26, which is the income tax Title! Whenever the code uses that word, you should assume they aren’t referring to you! Below is just one example from the Internal Revenue Manual:

Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 35.18.9.1 (08-31-1982)

Taxpayers

1. It has been uniformly held that the waiver of sovereign immunity in section 1346(a)(1) of the Judiciary Code (28 U.S.C. §1346(a)(1)) only applies to taxpayers, and not nontaxpayers or interested parties. Busse v. United States, 542 F.2d. 421 (7th Cir. 1976); Hofheinz v. United States, 511 F.2d. 661 (5th Cir. 1975); Eighth Street Baptist Church v. United States, 431 F.2d. 1193 (10th Cir. 1970); Phillips v. United States, 346 F.2d. 999 (2d Cir. 1965); First Nat'l Bank of Emlenton v. United States, 165 F.2d. 297 (3rd Cir. 1959). Accordingly, where a party not liable for the tax has brought a refund suit, a motion to dismiss should be recommended.

So what the above cite from the Internal Revenue Manual is saying is that the government, that is the “state”, can assert a sovereign immunity if you are a “nontaxpayer” who is suing the government for a refund. However, such a waiver does not apply to employees of the government who performed illegal collection or assessment of income taxes, who it is said in section 4.5.5.12 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 can be prosecuted under a Bivens action for their injurious actions not authorized by law. Keep in mind that the above citation is NOT the law, and the courts can’t enforce it. The Internal Revenue Manual, or IRM, is simply an internal directive used only within the IRS to govern its employees and is not binding on sovereign Americans because it is not published in the Federal Register.

5.4.14.3 Substantive Rights and Essentials of Due Process Background

What is a "substantive due process right"?

The Sixth Amendment to the Constitution of the United States establishes several "substantive" or constitutionally-secured due process rights within federal jurisdiction inside the 50 Union states and outside the federal zone. This right can be broken down into three components:

1. The right to know the nature and cause of action against you
2. The right to confront adverse witnesses
3. The right to compel testimony by whoever has relevant knowledge.

The Fourth, Fifth and Sixth Amendments secure due process in the course of the common law. This, too, is a substantive right, with one of the more important distinctions between due process in the course of the common law and due process in the course of the civil law being that an case or controversy must clearly set out fact and law.

Bills of rights in our respective state constitutions secure corresponding rights within state jurisdiction, including rights to access to courts and redress of wrongs. All states other than Louisiana are common law states. Louisiana implemented the civil law system. Insular possessions of the United States also retained civil law process.

Government, government agencies, and corporations are creatures of law. Collectively they are known as "juristic" entities. As creatures of law, they may exercise only powers specifically enumerated to them by the Constitution, the statutes which implement the powers granted by the Constitution, and the regulations which implement the statutes. Where government departments and agencies are concerned, the scope of authority and procedure are detailed in statutes, regulations and intra-departmental policy. Officers, employees and agents of governmental entities must act within procedural bounds prescribed by statutes and the regulations they implement as well as published policy for that agency. In a manner of speaking, procedural requirements prescribed for the governmental agency secures public rights. If and when government personnel fail to comply with procedural mandates and prohibitions, they become personally liable to whoever is the object of their actions, they are subject to agency discipline, and in the event of knowing and willful abuse, may be criminally prosecuted.

Supreme courts of the United States and our respective states have articulated government personnel accountability principles time and again, but there has been a tendency for government prosecutors not to prosecute government personnel, particularly in tax agencies, when they've exceeded authority. The problem has caused enough furor that via the Internal Revenue Service restructing and reform act of 1998, Congress enacted a new Internal Revenue Code section that specifically makes IRS personnel accountable to the Internal Revenue Code, Treasury regulations, and published policy, i.e., the Internal Revenue Manual, added a new administrative discipline section, and created the office of Treasury Inspector General for Tax Administration to investigate complaints against IRS personnel.
Another aspect of dealing with government is that government always has the burden of proof either in civil or criminal forums and at both administrative and judicial levels. In the new Internal Revenue Code section 7491, Congress spelled this out, too, by specifying that when a Citizen (notice we didn't say “taxpayer”) presents credible evidence of non-liability for Subtitle A & B taxes, the Secretary, i.e., IRS bears the burden of proof.

Treasury regulations in Title 31 of the Code of Federal Regulations spell out the right to discovery in dealings with Internal Revenue Service personnel. Per § 2 of 31 C.F.R. Part 1, Appendix B of Subpart C, whoever has dealings with IRS is entitled to whatever evidence of liability the Service has in its systems of records:

"Internal Revenue Service procedures permit the examination of tax records during the course of an investigation, audit, or collection activity. Accordingly, individuals should contact the Internal Revenue Service employee conducting an audit or effecting the collection of tax liabilities to gain access to such records, rather than seeking access under the provisions of the Privacy Act."

With these basics, we can set out minimum requirements for administrative or judicial liability:

1. The government agency must have evidence of one sort or another to establish fact.
2. There must be a competent witness with first-hand knowledge of facts to verify the evidence.
3. The advocate must prove application of law to verified facts.

By utilizing discovery, the target of government initiatives can force disclosure in the context of Sixth Amendment rights. Substantive rights do not begin at the courthouse door. They are ever-present in all dealings with government agencies and personnel. Where tax issues are concerned, knowing the nature and cause of action includes forcing the tax agency, via the revenue officer or whoever the target is dealing with, to disclose taxing and liability statutes, and disclosing whatever competent witness there is. Where authority is concerned, i.e., subject matter jurisdiction, the agency or agent has the burden of proof when authority is challenged and when procedure is challenged.

Does a government agency have authority, i.e., statutory or delegated authority, to do whatever it is attempting to do, then is the agency complying with procedural mandates? Where an agency doesn't have statutory or delegated authority over the "subject matter", any action by that agency is unlawful and void, and where the agency doesn't comply with procedural mandates, it loses subject matter jurisdiction. Unless a procedurally proper assessment has been executed, there is no tax liability. Various secondary reports may constitute presumptive evidence that an assessment has been made, but only the assessment certificate constitutes conclusive evidence. The actual assessment certificate, or a verified copy, qualifies as self-authenticating evidence.

What does a witness do? He testifies to facts he has first-hand knowledge of. Testimony may be in one of three forms: By affidavit (a sworn statement of fact), deposition (sworn testimony outside the court setting in the presence of plaintiff and defendant or their respective representatives), or direct oral examination in open court. The adverse party in all cases has the right to cross-examine the witness. This is fundamental to our adversarial system.

Without a competent witness, any administrative ruling or court judgment is void and can be vacated at any time without time limitation.

If and when a government agency or officer fails to disclose the nature and cause of action, evidence of liability, and whatever witnesses will verify facts, the controversy shifts from the original issue to the substantive rights the agency or agent may be depriving the target of. In the event a defendant's constitutionally secured rights are abridged, the agency or court loses subject matter jurisdiction regardless of whatever liability the defendant might otherwise have. Government agents and agencies must proceed in whatever A > B > C sequence the law prescribes, they cannot jump from A to C unless the law authorizes elimination of B.

One person filed claims for refunds from the Internal Revenue Service based on the gross income "source" position (26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1)(vi)). It took ten months, but a revenue officer finally denied the claim. According to his investigation, the revenue agent claimed, the company is liable for Social Security and employment taxes (Subtitle C, Chapters 21 & 24). However, the agent didn't specify fact nor did he disclose what testimony his decision was based on. He certainly didn't prove application of law.
This is one of the few instances I’ve seen where IRS personnel have disclosed the “nature and cause” of the action, i.e., the specific tax at issue. However, his disclosure presents a few problems that afford the opportunity to challenge subject matter jurisdiction in addition to procedure particulars.

The social welfare taxes in Chapters 21-23 and government personnel tax in Chapter 24 or the Internal Revenue Code are collectively classified as employment taxes, which is a classification distinct from Subtitle A & B income taxes. The Internal Revenue Service serves as delegate of the Secretary for administration of Chapter 1, 2 & 21 taxes in insular possessions (See 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(12)(B)), and administers Subtitle A & B taxes in the several States (See 26 U.S.C. §7491, added by the 1998 act), but the Treasury Financial Management Service and the General Accounting Office have primary responsibility for administration and enforcement of Chapter 21 & 24 employment taxes in States of the Union. The Internal Revenue Service merely maintains records, provides accounting services, and distributes information, it does not have direct administrative enforcement authority, particularly for Chapter 24 government personnel tax.

The Financial Management Service must notify and train government agencies responsible for withholding at the source, and issue Form 8655 Reporting Agent Authorization certificates to whatever agency is required to withhold at the source. (See Internal Revenue Manual §3.0.258.4 (11/21/97), January 1999 edition)

Tax freedom fighters should submit into their administrative record an affidavit addressing the extent of their liability for normal tax and other species of income in Subtitles A & B, employment taxes in Subtitle C, and assorted taxes in Subtitles D & E and Title 19. The affidavit should include statements that they have never been contacted by the Treasury Financial Management Service and has never received a Form 8655 Reporting Agent Authorization certificate.

By submitting the disclosure affidavit into their IRS administrative record, tax freedom fighters can enter testimony concerning their financial circumstance into record. In order to overcome the affidavit, the government adverse party must (1) disprove stated fact or prove alternative fact, then (2) prove application of law to stated or alternative facts. In addition to these requirements, in this case the Internal Revenue Service must prove subject matter jurisdiction by citing and/or providing properly executed delegations of authority that vest the agency with authority to administer Subtitle C employment taxes in States of the Union.

"My research verifies that your company is liable for” any given tax isn’t sufficient. When challenged, IRS and other government personnel must prove authority and liability within the framework of and to the satisfaction of constitutionally secured due process rights. In this particular case, the agent must

1) Provide verified copies of whatever documentary evidence he has.
2) Provide copies of whatever affidavits he has.
3) Disclose whatever other fact witnesses he is relying on.
4) Provide a list of prospective witnesses.
5) Prove application of law to whatever facts he is relying on, and
6) Prove subject matter jurisdiction.
7) Rebut any affidavits submitted by an accused party with more authoritative evidence.

It is important to understand that government personnel, particularly tax agency personnel, for the most part rely on documents prepared by third parties. They are rarely if ever competent witnesses with first-hand knowledge of facts. Further, the various documents they work from are for the most part “hearsay evidence” and declarations, not affidavits, as there are seldom signatures on these documents and they rarely if ever verified by notary publics or the number of witnesses required by common law standards. Consequently, third parties who submit documents are technically prospective witnesses, they have not submitted testimony as such that can be admitted into evidence in a court of law.

Somewhat the same disclosure is required for most criminal investigations where the government is the alleged victim due to someone failing to comply with or doing something prohibited by statute other than what are classified as common law crimes. For example, 26 C.F.R. §601.107 generally secures rights of those being investigated for offenses relating to income, estate, gift, employment, and certain excise taxes. General disclosure requirements are outlined where there is a conference with the Chief of the Criminal Investigation Division of any given district at 26 C.F.R. §601.107(b)(2):

26 C.F.R. §601.107(b)(2)

"At the conference, the IRS representative will inform the taxpayer by a general oral statement of the alleged fraudulent features of the case, to the extent consistent with protecting the Government's interests, and, at the
As researchers and advocates increasingly master due process essentials and continue to unravel proper application of law, administrative and judicial remedies will become considerably more reliable and government encroachment in general can be pushed back. Procedure is particularly important.

5.4.14.4 Due process principles and tax collection

Via the due process clauses of the 5th and 14th Amendments, both the state and federal governments must provide certain fundamental procedures before life, liberty or property are taken. For those interested in this subject, reading the cases of Sniadach v. Family Finance Corp., 395 U.S. 337 (1969), 89 S.Ct. 1820 (1969), Fuentes v. Shevin, 407 U.S. 67, 92 S.Ct. 1983 (1972), and North Georgia Finishing, Inc. v. Di-Chem Inc., 419 U.S. 601, 95 S.Ct. 719 (1975), are important in understanding the views of the Supreme Court regarding the due process procedures to which the states are bound. However, one cannot ignore the fact that there are two different due process standards; one standards is applicable to us and the states under the 14th Amendment, and quite another exists for Uncle Sam under the Fifth Amendment.

There is a popular position of late, Goldberg v. Kelly, 397 U.S. 254, 90 S.Ct. 1011 (1970), that is the "key" due process case regarding the collection of taxes. If you wish to understand principles of due process in reference to tax matters, the cases of Phillips v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 283 U.S. 589 (1931), 51 S.Ct. 608 (1931), and Commissioner v. Shapiro, 424 U.S. 614 (1976), 96 S.Ct. 1062 (1976), are the ones to be read.

5.4.15 IRS has NO Legal Authority to Assess You With an Income Tax Liability

"There is no worse tyranny than to force a man to pay for what he does not want merely because you think it would be good for him."
[Robert Heinlein]

As per 26 U.S.C. §6201(a)(1), only the person paying the tax may make an assessment of tax liability on himself. The Secretary of the Treasury may not make assessments of the liability of individuals under Subtitles A and C personal income taxes. It is quite common for IRS agents to "estimate" the liability of a "taxpayer", especially as an intimidation mechanism during an exam or audit. However, unless the "taxpayer" voluntarily signs the return forms presented by the agent authorizing the assessment or settlement, the assessment is not valid. Without a valid assessment, collection activity cannot be commenced!

Furthermore, under 26 C.F.R. §301.6211-1, either making no return or a return showing no tax amounts to a zero return. Any amount imputed by the IRS to be owed above the amount on the return is referred to as a "deficiency" under that regulation. However, 26 C.F.R. §301.6211-1 is based on the repealed 1939 Internal Revenue Code that is no longer in effect! If you look at the bottom of this regulation, it cites NO statutory authority and therefore is NOT a legislative regulation and cannot be enforced by the courts! To confirm this conclusion, this regulation also does NOT appear in the Parallel Table of Authorities cross-referencing regulations to statutes. See section 5.4.16 for a look at the Parallel Table of Authorities. See also:

If any person shall fail to make a return required by this title or by regulations prescribed thereunder, but shall consent to disclose all information necessary for the preparation thereof, then, and in that case, the Secretary may prepare such return, which, being-signed by such person, may be received by the Secretary as the return of such person.
So you can see that once again, the IRS and the Secretary of Treasury rely on the taxpayer’s self-assessment in order to establish a tax liability. Agents do not have delegated authority to prepare a tax form on behalf of an American without the signature of the person. This is clearly shown on their Pocket Commission (see Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section [1.16.4] 3.1 through [1.16.4] 3.2). Their pocket commission must indicate that they have Enforcement commission (the last letter of the serial number of the pocket commission must be “E”) in order to complete a 23C Assessment form, for instance, and none of the revenue officers associated with Subtitles A and C have such commissions. Revenue officer must also have a Delegation Order showing their authority specifically to sign the IRS Form 23C and/or the 1040. No revenue officers who administer Subtitles A and C have such delegation orders and are acting outside their lawful authority to sign such forms. You should demand a copy of their Delegation Order and their Pocket Commission if any agent tries to exceed their authority by signing a return for you or a 23C Assessment form.

If you argue with the revenue officer over their authority to assess you, they like to point to regulation 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1, which is an explanatory but not implementing regulation for 26 U.S.C. §6201. They will try to say that this authorizes them to make an assessment, but this is simply false! This regulation simply reiterates what was found in 26 U.S.C. §6201 and exists for informational purposes only:

Sec. 301.6201-1 Assessment authority.

(a) IN GENERAL.

The district director is authorized and required to make all inquiries necessary to the determination and assessment of all taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 or any prior internal revenue law. The district director is further authorized and required, and the director of the regional service center is authorized, to make the determinations and the assessments of such taxes. However, certain inquiries and determinations are, by direction of the Commissioner, made by other officials, such as assistant regional commissioners. The term "taxes" includes interest, additional amounts, additions to the taxes, and assessable penalties. The authority of the district director and the director of the regional service center to make assessments includes the following:

(1) TAXES SHOWN ON RETURN. The district director or the director of the regional service center shall assess all taxes determined by the taxpayer or by the district director or the director of the regional service center and disclosed on a return or list.

(2) UNPAID TAXES PAYABLE BY STAMP.

(i) If without the use of the proper stamp:

(a) Any article upon which a tax is required to be paid by means of a stamp is sold or removed for sale or use by the manufacturer thereof, or

(b) Any transaction or act upon which a tax is required to be paid by means of a stamp occurs: The district director, upon such information as he can obtain, must estimate the amount of the tax which has not been paid and the district director or the director of the regional service center must make an assessment therefor upon the person the district director determines to be liable for the tax. However, the district director or the director of the regional service center may not assess any tax which is payable by stamp unless the taxpayer fails to pay such tax at the time and in the manner provided by law or regulations.

(ii) If a taxpayer gives a check or money order as a payment for stamps but the check or money order is not paid upon presentment, then the district director or the director of the regional service center shall assess the amount of the check or money order against the taxpayer as if it were a tax due at the time the check or money order was received by the district director.

number 26 C.F.R. §1.6201, which there is not! A statute cannot be applied to a particular tax until the Secretary of the Treasury writes an implementing regulation, and 26 C.F.R. §301.6201 does not implement or enforce Subtitle A income taxes.

The section above clearly shows that the only thing the district director can do is make assessments of taxes collected by stamp under 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1(a)(2) but NOT personal income taxes coming under Subtitles A and C. Notice that this regulation does NOT give the revenue officer authority to estimate tax nor sign a return or list on behalf of a person, or it would have said so. Subtitles A and C personal income taxes must instead appear on a tax return, and the 1040, 2555, or 1040NR are the only things that qualify as legitimate returns upon which to base an assessment of Subtitle A and C personal income taxes. 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1(a)(1) says the taxes assessed by the district director MUST be “disclosed on a return or list”. Even the title says that: “TAXES SHOWN ON RETURN”. If the agent has no Delegation Order or delegated authority to prepare such a return, then he is acting outside his lawful delegated authority and can be prosecuted for violation of 26 U.S.C. §7214! The Government Accountability Office (GAO) published a surprising audit report, report number GAO/GGD-00-60R on the IRS Substitute for Return program. This report confirms that Substitute For Returns are not really returns! The report says, and I quote:

You know what that means, folks? If the IRS doesn’t prepare an actual return as required above in order to create a valid self-assessment, then they pull it out of their ass and then falsify their IDRS computer system IMF records by putting the system in manual override mode and creating a bogus backdated and fraudulent assessment so they fall within the statutorily allowed date period. You can confirm this if you FOIA your complete unsanitized master file for the years in question. It’s financial terrorism and extortion, folks and these criminals should be locked up in jail and have the key thrown away for doing it! Our politicians look the other way because they want your money so bad that they condone extortion to get it.

Below is a direct link to the GAO report if you would like to read it for yourself on our website:

http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/GAO/GAO-GGD-00-60R-SFR.pdf

Furthermore, there are no regulations implementing 26 U.S.C. §6201 against the IRC Section 1 income tax. Therefore these statutes cannot be applied against Subtitle A income taxes. If there were implementing regulations for personal income taxes, then the regulation number would have to be 26 C.F.R. §1.6201, and there is no such regulation:

With these kinds of shenanigans going on, we need to ask ourselves:

“If the income tax isn’t voluntary, then why don’t they just assess us without our permission and send us a bill like they do with property taxes? Why do they need us to snitch on ourselves and send in a ‘confession’ called a tax return if it’s a mandatory ‘tax’?”

The answer, once again, is that it is and always has been a voluntary tax, which is why the IRS has no authority to assess you and why only you can assess yourself! If all you ever put on your tax return is a zero, then you have no liability and no one other than a judge can determine otherwise. The IRS will try to scare you by sending a bogus Notice and Demand for tax, but they can’t do this either, because the regulation they rely on, 26 C.F.R. §301.6303-1, to send it is not the law so they are acting outside their authority in doing so. This is confirmed by the absence of a reference at the bottom of the regulation pointing to an authorizing statute, which means the regulation is NOT a legislative regulation. Don’t let the IRS scare you with a trick Notice and Demand for tax following an examination or with a bogus assessment, because they do not have the authority to issue either.

5.4.16 IRS Has NO Legal Authority to Assess Penalties on Subtitles A and C Income Taxes on Natural Persons
The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

5-712

“The blessing of God, may our country become a vast and splendid monument, not of oppression and terror, but of wisdom, of peace, and of liberty upon which the world may gaze with admiration forever.”

[First Bunker Hill Oration, Daniel Webster [inscribed on a bronze plaque on the quarterdeck of the USS Bunker Hill, CG-52]

The Congress and the 50 state governments are prohibited by the Constitution from imposing any kind of punishment or penalty against natural persons without a judicial proceeding. This includes financial penalties associated with ensuring compliance with the Internal Revenue Code. This requirement derives from the U.S. Constitution, which in Articles 1, Section 9, Clause 3 prevents Congress from passing any kind of Bill of Attainder law. Likewise, Article 1, Section 10 applies the same requirement to the 50 Union states. Below is the Constitutional restriction:

Article 1, Section 9, Clause 3: “No Bill of Attainder or ex post facto Law shall be passed.” (with respect to the U.S. Congress)

Article 1, Section 10, Clause 1: “No State shall enter into any Treaty, Alliance, or Confederation; grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal; coin Money; emit Bills of Credit; make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts; pass any Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts, or grant any Title of Nobility.”

Below is the definition of a Bill of Attainder for your reference:

Bill of attainder: Legislative acts, no matter what their form, that apply either to named individuals or to easily ascertainable members of a group in such a way as to inflict punishment on them without a judicial trial.

United States v. Brown, 381 U.S. 437, 448-49, 85 S.Ct. 1707, 1715, 14 L.Ed. 484, 492; United States v. Lovett, 328 U.S. 303, 315, 66 S.Ct. 1073, 1079, 90 L.Ed. 1252. An act is a “bill of attainder” when the punishment is death and a “bill of pains and penalties” when the punishment is less severe; both kinds of punishment fall within the scope of the constitutional prohibition. U.S. Const. Art. I, Sect. 9, Cl. 3 (as to Congress): Art. I, Sec. 10 (as to state legislatures).

The above restrictions form the basis of why the U.S. Congress and the states cannot write statutes and the executive branch cannot write implementing regulations authorizing the IRS to impose financial penalties on natural persons for noncompliance with Subtitle A income taxes absent a judicial trial, nor can they collect any penalties without a trial. The following easily verifiable facts prove our point:

- That there is no implementing C.F.R. or Federal Register regulation providing IRS with the authority to assess any kind of financial penalties, including late payment fees, frivolous return fees, etc.
- The definition of “person” found in Subtitle F also confirms that penalties may not be applied against natural persons. In fact, all such penalties are only applicable to Title 27 taxes relating to Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms against corporations under Subtitles D and E!

Whenever the government seeks to impose penalties for violations of the Internal Revenue Code, they have the burden of proof to show that the person against whom the penalty is imposed is liable for the penalty:

“26 U.S.C. §6703

(a) BURDEN OF PROOF.—

In any proceeding involving the issue of whether or not any person is liable for a penalty under 6700, 6701, or 6702, the burden of proof with respect to such issue shall be on the Secretary.”

Most IRS agents are made blissfully unaware of the above facts by their supervisors but they are nevertheless true. You will never hear IRS admit to this, because it is their most important and most secret weapon against the vast majority of Americans, who are natural persons. By way of example, below is the section right out of their own regulations found at the government’s own website that describes the ONLY persons who can be assessed penalties related to I.R.C., Subtitle A income taxes:

[Code of Federal Regulations]
[Title 26, Volume 17, Parts 300 to 499]
[Revised as of April 1, 2000]
From the U.S. Government Printing Office via GPO Access
(b) Person defined. For purposes of subchapter B of chapter 68, the term "person" includes an officer or employee of a corporation, or a member or employee of a partnership, who as such officer, employee, or member is under a duty to perform the act in respect of which the violation occurs.

Even more interesting, is that the above not only doesn’t apply to most Americans: It also doesn’t apply to most corporations or partnerships either! Why?…because the corporations or partnerships mentioned above must be registered in the District of Columbia (the federal zone). State-only chartered corporations or partnerships that aren’t involved in foreign commerce aren’t liable for IRS penalties because they aren’t within the territorial jurisdiction of the IRS either. Furthermore, the only type of employee who can be penalized is an employee of a U.S. corporation registered in the District of Columbia and who is involved in reporting and complying with taxes for the corporation, and NOT for himself individually!

Now when the IRS hears this argument, they often try to say that the above definition of “person” uses the word “includes”, which is an expansive rather than limiting term. Here is what they will quote, from 26 U.S.C. §7701(c) in making this statement:

“Sec. 7701(c) INCLUDES AND INCLUDING.-The terms ‘include’ and ‘including’ when used in a definition contained in this title shall not be deemed to exclude other things otherwise within the meaning of the term defined.”

The IRS will say that the phrase in 26 C.F.R. §301.6671-1 “includes an officer or employee of a corporation” does not exclude other uses of the term, like EVERYONE else or ALL Americans, because of the definition of the word “includes” found in section 3.12.1.8 earlier. But we know from statements made in Congressional Research Service Report 97-59A that Subtitles A and C income taxes are excise taxes, and that the “persons” indicated in the above regulations are the only ones in receipt of privileges from the U.S. government. Expanding the operation of penalties beyond these legal fictions called “persons” makes the income tax operate effectively as a direct tax rather than an indirect tax, which is clearly unconstitutional if enforced outside of federal jurisdiction or within states of the Union.

We address this issue on the abuse of the word “includes” and “including” by the IRS in sections 5.10.1 and 8.2.20. This is a very common and unscrupulous tactic designed to confuse and intimidate Americans and illegally expand the jurisdiction of the taxing power of the federal government for Subtitle A income taxes beyond its clear limits found in the definition of “United States” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and “State” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10).

Now let’s talk about the requirement for implementing regulations. Pursuant to 44 U.S.C.A. §§1504-1507, before a national domiciled in the union states of the United States of America can be bound by, or adversely affected by legislation or an “Act of Congress” having general applicability to such individuals, it must be published in the Federal Register.

5 U.S.C. §552(a): Public information; agency rules, opinions, orders, records, and proceedings

Except to the extent that a person has actual and timely notice of the terms thereof, a person may not in any manner be required to resort to, or be adversely affected by, a matter required to be published in the Federal Register and not so published. For the purpose of this paragraph, matter reasonably available to the class of persons affected thereby is deemed published in the Federal Register when incorporated by reference therein with the approval of the Director of the Federal Register.

Excerpt from the Parallel Table of Authorities in the back of the Title 26 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR).

The following is taken from the Parallel Table of Authorities in the back of the Title 26 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). It only reveals that the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms is the only authority authorized to use distraint or assess penalties for nonpayment of income taxes under Title 27 ONLY. The following is taken from the Parallel Table of Authorities in the back of the Title 26 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). It is Enforcement regulations published as required within the Federal Register are then categorized pursuant to their applicable Title in the Code of Federal Regulations. 26 U.S.C. §7805(a) states:

"...the Secretary shall prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of this title."

The Internal Revenue Code is not self-executing. Without an implementing regulation, applicable to a particular type of tax, a statute has no force of law against anyone who is not part of the government as a “public officer” or “employee”, and therefore imposes no duties or penalties. This is confirmed by the definition of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and by the levy statute which identifies the proper audience for “levy” actions, which are enforcement actions:

Subtitle F > CHAPTER 64 > Subchapter D > PART II > § 6331
§ 6331. Levy and distraint

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, or the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

According to evidence available to us in the form of a letter provided directly by the Internal Revenue Service in response to a Freedom of Information Act request:

"There are no published regulations under Internal Revenue Code Sections 6702 and 6703, which authorize the imposition and collection of penalties for filing frivolous returns."

Furthermore, the Parallel Table Authorities for 26 C.F.R. reveals that the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms is the only authority authorized to use distraint or assess penalties for nonpayment of income taxes under Title 27 ONLY. The following is taken from the Parallel Table of Authorities in the back of the Title 26 Code of Federal Regulations (CFR). It is a list of the ONLY 26 C.F.R. Part 301 Regulations that derive their Authority for implementation from Title 26 USCS or 26 IRC [Income Taxes]. Note the conspicuous absence of any penalty, interest, levy or seizure for the Title 26 Voluntary Income Tax. Again, it is inconceivable that the Congress would legislate penalties for the individual income tax, since the supreme Court and the IRS have both substantiated that such a Tax is voluntary and NOT based upon distraint. It would be absurd to impose penalties for non-compliance, when such an option is what made the tax voluntary to begin with!

Most noteworthy of the above is that ALL of the provisions identified in Subtitle F are associated with Title 27, Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, and NOT Subtitle A Income taxes! Why? Because these types of taxes are indirect excise taxes on privileges. If you don’t want the penalty, then don’t choose the privileged manufacture of alcohol, tobacco, or firearms.

In addition, the following court ruling clearly expresses the lack of IRS authority to assess penalties absent implementing regulations:

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO)

Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship

“...the Act’s civil and criminal penalties attach only upon the violation of a regulation promulgated by the Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on anyone...only those who violate the regulations (not the Code) may incur civil or criminal penalties, it is the actual regulation issued by the Secretary of the Treasury and not the broad authorizing language of the statute, which is to be tested against the standards of the 4th Amendment.”

An older version of the Internal Revenue Manual, which is reflective of the ruling case law on this subject, states that the IRS has no delegated authority to issue a civil penalty or to collect penalties without a judgment signed by a magistrate:

IRM 546 §190(b)(2) “the civil penalty for non-compliance may be imposed only by filing a suit in the name of the United States, naming the taxpayer as a defendant and securing a judgment.”

The supreme Court agrees with this conclusion in the following case:

“Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.”

In case you don’t understand, “distraint” is defined as follows and is the equivalent of “force” or “coercion” or “compulsion” in the collection of debts and legal liabilities:

“...the act or process of DISTRAINT whereby a person (the DISTRAINOR), without prior court approval, seizes the personal property of another located upon the distrainer’s land in satisfaction of a claim, as a pledge for performance of a duty, or in reparation of an injury. Where goods are seized in satisfaction of a claim, the distrainer can hold the goods until the claim is paid and, failing payment, may sell them in satisfaction.”

Therefore, IRS assessments of penalties and demands for money, without the authority of law, their lawless actions to penalize Americans that have not been legally defended or explained or justified based on their delegated authority, constitutes extortion under the color of law, mail fraud, mailing threatening communications, and conspiracy against the rights of a Citizen, for which they can be help personally liable should legal action become necessary.

5.4.17 No Implementing Regulations Authorizing Collection of Subtitles A and C Income Taxes

Collections is one of three parts of the enforcement process. Enforcement of a tax involves:

1. Assessment (26 U.S.C. §6201, which has no implementing regulation under the tax imposed in section 1 of the I.R.C.).
2. Penalties for noncompliance (26 U.S.C. §§6671-6715, which also has no implementing regulations under the tax imposed in section 1 of the I.R.C.)
3. Collections (26 U.S.C. §6330 and 6331, which has no implementing regulations under the tax imposed in Section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code).

We already covered the first two aspects of enforcement in sections 5.4.15 and 5.4.16 of this book respectively. We noted above that collections of Subtitle A income taxes under 26 U.S.C. §6330 and 6331 also has no implementing regulations like the other two parts of the enforcement process. This is no accident, but a direct result of the fact that personal income taxes are and always have been voluntary, which means that they are donations instead of taxes! For a statute to be realized as an enforceable law, then it must have an implementing regulation that applies it to a specific tax. If you look in the CFR, you will not find either of the following two regulations which would apply the ability to collect to the income tax: 26 C.F.R. §1.6331 or 26 C.F.R. §1.6330. The only implementing regulations for 6330 and 6331 are found in 26 C.F.R. Part 70, which is for Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms, because these taxes are enforced taxes and the BATF is an enforcement agency. The IRS is not an enforcement agency like the BATF, but instead is an administrative agency who cannot use distraint against Citizens to collect personal income taxes because it is a voluntary tax:

“Our tax system is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.”

What the IRS likes to do is point to 26 C.F.R. §301.6330 and 26 C.F.R. §301.6331 and say these are the implementing regulations that authorize them impose collections for Subtitle A. This claim is pure fraud! These regulations are only explanatory or amplifying regulations, but they are not implementing regulations that apply the statute to a specific tax. The “301” in the regulation number simply refers to Part 301 of the Regulations under 26 C.F.R., instead of the section of the Subtitles A and C tax that is implemented! For instance, if there was a regulation implementing collection of Employment taxes under Subtitle C, then the regulation number would be 26 C.F.R. §31.6330 or 26 C.F.R. §31.6331, but there is no such regulation!

“...the Act’s civil and criminal penalties attach only upon violation of the regulation promulgated by the Secretary; if the Secretary were to do nothing, the Act itself would impose no penalties on anyone...The Government urges that since only those who violate these regulations [not the Code] may incur civil or criminal penalties, it is the actual regulations issued by the Secretary of the Treasury, and not the broad authorizing language of the statute, which are to be tested against the standards of the Fourth Amendment; and that when so tested they are valid.”

5.4.18 No Implementing Regulations for “Tax Evasion” or “Willful Failure To File” Under 26 U.S.C. §§7201 or 7203!

Just like other aspects of enforcement covered earlier for assessment, collections, and penalties, the Secretary of the Treasury also has not written any implementing regulations for the criminal acts of Tax Evasion under 26 U.S.C. §7201 or Willful Failure to File under 26 U.S.C. §7203. If there were an implementing regulation for these that applied it to Subtitle A Income Taxes imposed in Section 1, which is in Part 1 of the I.R.C., then the regulation numbers would be 26 C.F.R. §1.7201 (Tax Evasion) and 26 C.F.R. §1.7203 (Willful Failure to File) respectively, but these regulations do not exist! Without implementing regulations, these code sections do not apply to the personal income tax and therefore can’t be lawfully enforced!

A search of the U.S. Attorneys’ Manual on the Department of Justice website confirms the conclusions of this chapter. Look in section 9-4.139 entitled “Internal Revenue Code” found at:

This section comes under the general section entitled “Statutes Assigned by Citation”. The section lists all the criminal statutes under each title of the U.S. Code and the federal agency authorized by law to investigate the crime. In the right hand column listed under “Agency With Investigative Jurisdiction” for Internal Revenue Code sections §§7201-7209, it conspicuously says “None”! The reason is because there are NO IMPLEMENTING REGULATIONS. Either the Internal Revenue Service or the BATF would need to write implementing regulations under these criminal code sections in order for them to be considered enforceable outside of the federal government and the agency that wrote the implementing regulation would then be the agency listed in the U.S. Attorneys’ Manual as having investigative jurisdiction. Quite a scam, huh?

In fact, the only people who can be prosecuted for “failure to file” under 26 U.S.C. §7201 are officers and employees of the United States when acting in their official capacity as an agent of the government. The federal courts have indirectly confirmed this fact. For instance, here is what one of them said about the fact that there are no implementing regulations for federal tax crimes:

Budget control numbers because requirement to file tax return is mandated by statute, not by regulation.”

Below is what it says about the requirement to publish in the Federal Register, and note that anything that imposes a “penalty” has a requirement to publish in the Federal Register and is defined as having “general applicability and legal effect”. Certainly the requirement to file a tax return, if it can land a person in jail, would impose a penalty and have “general applicability and legal effect”, and yet it is not published in the Federal Register by the admission of the court above!

44 U.S.C. §1505 Documents to be published in the Federal Register

(a) Proclamations and Executive Orders; Documents Having General Applicability and Legal Effect [against persons living in states of the Union]; Documents Required To Be Published by Congress.

There shall be published in the Federal Register -
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Finally, here is what the implementing regulations for the Internal Revenue Code says about the effect of statutes and regulations that are not published in the Federal Register, and note that they cannot have any effect on the rights of anyone when they are not so published:

26 C.F.R. §601.702 Publication, public inspection, and specific requests for records.

(ii) Effect of failure to publish.

Except to the extent that a person has actual and timely notice of the terms of any matter referred to in paragraph (a)(1) of this section which is required to be published in the Federal Register, such person is not required in any manner to resort to, or be adversely affected by, such matter if it is not so published or is not incorporated by reference therein pursuant to paragraph (a)(2)(i) of this section. Thus, for example, any such matter which imposes an obligation and which is not so published or incorporated by reference shall not adversely change or affect a person’s rights.

In conclusion, the only types of statutes that can impose a penalty and either not have implementing regulations or not have the statute or implementing regulations published in the Federal Register are those that affect only federal employees acting in the official capacity of their employment. Everything else must be published in the F.R. and when it is not, it cannot affect anyone other than federal employees acting in their official capacity as officers and agents of the government. Consequently, nearly all of the people who do not work for the federal government who have ever been prosecuted for Willful Failure to File in violation of 26 U.S.C. §7201 were “assumed” or “presumed” to be “employees” and “officers” of the United States government, and in nearly all cases, this was a violation of their due process rights and produced a “void judgment” that is reversible. It also creates an opportunity for these maliciously prosecuted individuals to seek damages under equity jurisdiction against the judges and prosecutors who wrongfully allowed them to be convicted.

Why do some people get convicted under these statutes anyway? The main reasons are:

1. Ignorant judges who don’t know the law.
2. Ignorant Citizens and their legal counsel who don’t know about implementing regulations and therefore don’t use this knowledge as a defense.
3. Judicial tyranny and conspiracy to protect the income tax. This conspiracy exploits the ignorance of the law by jurors, Citizens, and the legal profession to uphold and expand the operation of the income tax, as we thoroughly documented earlier in section 2.8.13 and later in section 6.6 of this book.

The government loves to make examples out of people whose ignorance of the law allowed them to be convicted of tax evasion and willful failure to file. That is how they keep the “sheeple” (sheep people) scared and “volunteering” to be slaves. But when people do learn the law and use it to defend themselves, the government makes sure that such cases, if they are litigated, go unpublished and never get entered into the court record or case databases, which amounts to fraud, extortion, and a conflict of interest on the part of judges.

5.4.19 The “person” addressed by criminal provisions of the IRC isn’t you!

26 U.S.C. §7343 defines the legal “person” who may be held criminally liable under the Internal Revenue Code for failure to comply with the code. Below is the content of that statute:

26 U.S.C. §7343: Definition of term “person”
Ah...so when a real-live-flesh-and-blood person (known in law as a "natural person") is held accountable for criminal non-compliance with the law, he is held accountable only in his capacity as the officer or employee, under a duty to perform, on behalf of the "legal fiction" called a corporation. The same kind of constraint also applies to liability for penalties as well, as we explained earlier in section 5.4.16, where we talked about the definition of “person” found in 26 C.F.R. §301.6671-1. Once again: you are sovereign and the government is the servant and not the master. The only people the government can boss around and abuse in a free country are those who volunteer and consent to such abuse by volunteering to receive taxable government privileges as a corporation!

5.4.20 The Secretary of the Treasury Has No Delegated Authority to Collect Income Taxes inside of States of the Union!

Earlier in section 4.3.6, we thoroughly described the Separation of Powers Doctrine and showed that it is the essence of our “Republican Form of Government”. We showed that the Separation of Powers Doctrine was the main mechanism envisioned by the Founding Fathers to guarantee the protection of our liberties. In this section, we are going to apply the Separation of Powers Doctrine to show that the Secretary of the Treasury is completely without authority to enforce or collect income taxes from anyone but federal instrumentalities.

The power of taxation was granted to the Legislative Branch under Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 1 and 3 of the Constitution. Under the Separation of Powers Doctrine and under Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution, no branch of government can delegate its powers to any other branch of government. The Supreme Court agreed with this in the case of Butcher’s Union when it said:

“Whatever differences of opinion, said the court, [in the case of Beer Co. v. Massachusetts, 97 U.S. 28.] ‘may exist as to the extent and boundaries of the police power, and however difficult it may be to render a satisfactory definition of it, there seems to be no doubt that it does extend to the protection of the lives, health, and property of the citizens, and to the preservation of good order and public morals. The legislature cannot by any contract divest itself of the power to provide for these objects. They belong emphatically to that class of objects which demand the application of the maxim, salus populi suprema lex, and they are to be attained and provided for by such appropriate means as the legislative discretion may devise. That discretion can no more be bargained away than the power itself.’”

“In the still more recent case of Stone v. Mississippi, 101 U.S. 814, the whole subject is reviewed in the opinion delivered by the chief justice. That also was a case of a chartered lottery, whose charter was repealed by a constitution of the state subsequently adopted. It came here for relief, relying on the clause of the federal constitution against impairing the obligation of contracts. The question is therefore presented, (says the opinion,) whether, in view of these facts, the legislature of a state can, by the charter of a lottery company, defeat the will of the people authoritatively expressed, in relation to the further continuance of such business in their midst. We think it cannot. No legislature can bargain away the public health or the public morals. The people themselves cannot do it, much less their servants. The supervision of both these subjects of governmental power is continuing in its nature, and they are to be dealt with as the special exigencies of the moment may require. Government is organized with a view to their preservation, and cannot divest itself of the power to provide for them. For this purpose the legislative discretion is allowed, and the discretion cannot be parted with any more than the power itself.”

[Butchers’ Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)]

The power to collect taxes cannot therefore be delegated by the Legislative Branch to the Executive Branch because that would separate the taxation and representation functions. The President, who is in the Executive Branch, cannot oversee or implement the collection of taxes by the Legislative Branch. Recall that the entire American revolution was fought over the issue of taxation with representation. We were being taxed by the British King and we had no representation in the British Parliament. When we formed our new government in 1789 after the American Revolution, we put the taxation and representation functions together and within the Legislative Branch of the new government. The House of Representatives was the place where the will of the people was directly represented. Members of the House were elected every two years to ensure that they would be in close touch with the sentiments of the people because if they weren’t, the bastards would be on the street in two short years! The first tax ever passed by the Congress was a tax on imports, which was called a “duty” (see 1 Stat. 24) and the first collectors of these taxes resided at shipping ports of entry. These collectors reported directly to the House of Representatives initially and paid monies they collected directly to the Treasury Department in the Executive Branch. After that first tax was instituted in March 1789, the office of Secretary of the Treasury was created in the act of Sept 2, 1789 (1 Stat. 65), and he reported directly to the House of Representatives and the Senate in the Legislative Branch, and not to the President in the Executive Branch. The job of the Secretary of the Treasury was to “superintend” or supervise the collection of all revenues by the collectors stationed at each port of entry. Therefore, the taxation and the representation functions were coincident and within the Legislative Branch as required by the Separation of Powers Doctrine.

Now let’s fast forward to take a look at how things are being done today. The Department of the Treasury and the Secretary of the Treasury are BOTH in the Executive Branch. The Secretary of the Treasury is appointed by the president and not the House of Representatives and serves under the President and not the Congress. This was not the case at the foundation of our country. The Secretary of the Treasury is now responsible for collecting taxes and the IRS works for the Secretary. Public servants in the Executive Branch are not directly accountable to the people because all of them are appointed, not elected. The Congress deceptively whines and complains in its correspondence with constituents who have been abused by the IRS that they cannot control what the IRS does, because it is in the Executive Branch, but we must realize that they are the ones who created this defect to begin with. We cannot have members of the Executive Branch in the role of collecting taxes from people in the states of the Union because it violates the Separation of Powers Doctrine. The fact that members of Congress complain about this situation is their own fault, because they are responsible for fixing it. Does it seem as though the Constitution is being violated in this case? The answer is an emphatic no, but you can only reach that informed conclusion after you take the time to understand the true nature of the Internal Revenue Code as we describe it in this chapter.

As we have been saying throughout this entire chapter, the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is a tax on only public offices, instrumentalities, and statutory “employees” of the federal government, who are all engaged in some way or another with a “trade or business”, which is defined as “the functions of a public office” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). This is consistent with the Legislative Intent of the Sixteenth Amendment revealed by President Taft in his written address to Congress found in the Congressional Record at 44 Cong.Rec. 3344 and given June 16, 1909. As a tax on only federal government “employees” and instrumentalities, it is not a direct tax on people in states of the Union nor was it ever intended to be collected outside of the federal zone or outside of the federal government. The Internal Revenue Code was obfuscated (using “words of art”) over the years to make it deceptively “appear” like it might apply to people in states of the Union, but in fact it does not and never has. It is instead a tax only on federal instrumentalities, such as “employees” and contractors. Federal “employees” all work in the federal zone, and the federal zone is not a constitutional republic. It is instead a legislative socialist democracy, as we showed earlier in sections 4.7 and 4.8. The requirement found in Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution to guarantee a “Republican form of Government” with separation of powers does not apply to dealings between federal employees and the Congress. There is no need for separation of powers in dealing with federal employees because Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution says Congress can do whatever it wants inside the federal zone and need not abide by the Bill of Rights there. Consequently, it is perfectly Constitutional for the Legislative Branch to institute a direct, unapportioned tax (actually a “kickback” of federal pay) only on federal “employees” and to have a person who is not part of the Legislative Branch called the Secretary of the Treasury collect the tax. We will now examine the delegated of the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to prove the conclusions of this section.

Treasury Department Order No. 150-42, dated July 27, 1956, appearing in at 21 Fed. Reg. 5852, specifies the following:

The Commissioner shall, to the extent of the authority vested in him, provide for the administration of United States internal revenue laws in the Panama Canal Zone, Puerto Rico and the Virgin Islands.

On February 27, 1986 (51 Fed. Reg. 9571), Treasury Department Order No. 150-01 specified the following:

The Commissioner shall, to the extent of authority otherwise vested in him, provide for the administration of the United States internal revenue laws in the U.S. Territories and insular possessions and other authorized areas of the world.

The point is that the above order does not authorize collection of revenues within the borders of the Union states because Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution forbid collection of direct taxes by the federal government from natural persons.

Authors note: It should be stated clearly and unambiguously that it is UNCONSTITUTIONAL for any part of the federal government to collect a revenues from Americans, except for congress! The founding fathers insisted it be that way, so that if congress tried to impose and collect a tax the people didn’t want, they could vote the rascals out!! So how is it that the current fraud is allowed to continue, where the Internal Revenue Laws are imposed on American Citizens domiciled in the
On September 14, 1787, a motion was proposed in Congress to “strike out” the power of Congress to impose and collect taxes and, instead, delegate that authority to the Secretary of the Treasury. The Secretary of the Treasury is not elected but appointed by the President in the Executive Branch of the Government. This motion was denied because it was a direct violation of the Constitutional “Separation of Power” protections for the American Citizens. Therefore, the Secretary of the Treasury has never formally been delegated the Constitutional Authority to collect any type of tax from the citizens of the 50 Union states, even though today he tries to fool everyone into thinking that is his lawful responsibility! Absent a valid delegation of authority order, the Secretary of the Treasury, under whom the IRS Commissioner serves, is acting entirely outside the bounds of his Constitutional authority in collecting taxes as he does!

Remember, there are two classes of citizens in the United States, (1) state nationals of the 50 Union states, described in the Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1, to the Constitution and (2) statutory “citizens subject to its jurisdiction” described in 8 U.S.C. §1401 who were born in territories over which the United States is exclusively Sovereign (i.e. District of Columbia, Guam, Puerto Rico, etc.). These citizens are not legislated for under constitutional guidelines. The only taxing authority the Secretary of the Treasury can have would be over these subject federal citizens, in addition to “resident aliens”, who are under the exclusive territorial jurisdiction of the United States. The Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A is “situs based” territorial federal legislation. It is only applicable to domiciliaries of the federal zone and to persons receiving federal payments outside the federal zone. Otherwise the tax is as foreign as the Japanese income tax. That’s why the Treasury Secretary can NEVER have any delegated authority derived from the constitution to enforce income tax collection upon those domiciled in nonfederal areas of the 50 Union states.

"The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many, but for a very long time this court has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra."

Now let’s look at what the U.S. Supreme Court said about the authority of the Secretary of the Treasury to administratively enforce the income taxes outside the federal zone. We quote from the Supreme Court case of Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Company No. 140, 240 U.S. 1, 36 S.Ct. 236, 60 L.Ed. 493 (1916). This case was argued October 14 and 15, 1915 and decided January 24, 1916:

"We have not referred to a contention that because certain administrative powers to enforce the act were conferred by the statute upon the Secretary of the Treasury, therefore it was void as unwarrantedly delegating legislative authority [to collect taxes inside states of the Union], because we think to state the proposition is to answer it."

The U.S. Supreme Court cited the following cases in reaching this conclusion:

That’s right!: According to the Supreme Court, revenues under I.R.C., Subtitle A can only be collected inside the federal zone because the Secretary of the Treasury has NO LAWFUL DELEGATED AUTHORITY TO ADMINISTER THE IT OUTSIDE THE FEDERAL ZONE! When it comes to income taxes, the truth can sometimes be stranger than fiction!

NOTE: The Supreme Court not only referred to the contention but stated it and thus answered it citing case precedent. In answering the contention in the ruling of the Court the Supreme Court Justices rendered the federal income tax VOID. Since no one else to my knowledge has ever cited this fact the Courts may not honor the ruling. Nevertheless it is a factual statement under the Law that the Congress cannot delegate its powers to anyone, or anything, or any entity. Another factual statement in the Law is that the Congress cannot breach the balance of power between branches of government by giving its legislative power to the executive branch. Both of these statements are set in stone. For either one or both of those reasons the federal income tax AND the Internal Revenue Service are unconstitutional.

The Federalist Papers, written by the founding fathers in order to encourage states to join the Union by ratifying the Constitution, confirmed the above conclusions as follows:

“It is true, that the Confederacy is to possess, and may exercise, the power of collecting internal as well as external taxes throughout the States: but it is probable that this power will not be resorted to, except for supplemental purposes of revenue; that an option will then be given to the States to supply their quotas by previous collections of their own; and that the eventual collection, under the immediate authority of the Union, will generally be made by the officers, and according to the rules, appointed by the several States [not by anyone in the federal government]. Indeed it is extremely probable, that in other instances, particularly in the organization of the judicial power, the officers of the States will be clothed with the correspondent authority of the Union.”

[The Federalist Paper #45, James Madison]

Why must state revenue officers collect taxes on behalf of the federal government rather than the federal government doing it directly? The reason is once again that Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 of the U.S. Constitution require that all direct taxes must be apportioned among the states!

5.4.21 The Department of Justice has NO Authority to Prosecute or investigate IRC Subtitle A Income Tax Crimes!

The responsibility of the Department of Justice is to prosecute individuals for violation of the tax code (not “law”, but “code”). Their authority is derived from 28 C.F.R. §0.70, which you can read for yourself at:

http://squid.law.cornell.edu/cgi-bin/get-cfr.cgi?TITLE=28&PART=0&SECTION=70&TYPE=TEXT

The U.S. Attorneys’ Manual, Section 6-1.000 also describes their lawful role in tax prosecutions, which is also available at our website at:

The Department of Justice prosecutes tax crimes using a document called the Department of Justice, Tax Division, Criminal Tax Manual. The 1994 version of this document is posted on our website in its entirety for you to read and examine at http://famguardian.org/. The IRS relies on the Department of Justice to:

1. Decide whether a particular tax case should be litigated.
2. Institute the litigation.
3. Criminaly prosecute against tax crimes which they have delegated authority to prosecute.

If you examine the U.S. Attorneys’ Manual, the Department of Justice has NO delegated authority to prosecute tax crimes involving U.S. citizens. Here is the section from their manual dealing with their authority to prosecute tax crimes involving the IRS:

U.S. Attorneys’ Manual
6-4.270 Criminal Division Responsibility

The Criminal Division has limited responsibility for the prosecution of offenses investigated by the IRS. Those offenses are: excise violations involving liquor tax, narcotics, stamp tax, firearms, wagering, and coin-operated gambling and amusement machines; malfeasance offenses committed by IRS personnel; forcible rescue of seized property; corrupt or forcible interference with an officer or employee acting under the internal revenue laws (but not omnibus clause); and unauthorized mutilation, removal or misuse of stamps. See 28 C.F.R. Sec. 0.70.

Section 7801 of the Internal Revenue Code concurs with the above description:

Internal Revenue Code
Sec. 7801. Authority of Department of the Treasury

(a) Powers and duties of Secretary

Except as otherwise expressly provided by law, the administration and enforcement of this title shall be performed by or under the supervision of the Secretary of the Treasury.
QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: Do you see anything in the above authority of the DOJ relating to prosecuting tax crimes involving any of the following? We don’t!:

2. Frivolous returns (26 U.S.C. §6702)

You can confirm the conclusions of this section for yourself on the Internet. Section 9-4.139 of the Department of Justice, U.S. Attorneys’ Manual (USAM) found on the DOJ website at:

http://www.usdoj.gov/usao/foia_reading_room/usam/title9/4mcrm.htm#9-4.139 has a listing of all of the statutes within the Internal Revenue code and the specific agency that has “investigative jurisdiction” for that statute. The agency with “investigative jurisdiction” is the agency responsible for enforcing a specific statute. All of the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code are found in sections 7201 through 7209 of the Internal Revenue Code. In order to have investigative jurisdiction, an agency must write an implementing regulation that then creates the authority and the procedure to enforce a specific criminal provision upon a specific tax under the Internal Revenue Code. For instance, if there were an implementing regulation written by the IRS for Willful Failure to File for Subtitle A income taxes, the regulation number would be 26 C.F.R. §1.7203, but there is no such regulation! As we said earlier in section 5.4.18, there are no implementing regulations for any tax crimes for Subtitle A income taxes. The consequence is that there is no agency with “investigative jurisdiction” to enforce the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code. The org chart for the IRS also confirms that the IRS is NOT an enforcement agency because it does not fall under the Undersecretary for Enforcement within the Department of the Treasury, as shown below:

Below was the entry under 26 U.S.C. §7201-7209 found within section 9-4.139 of the USAM as of February 2002, showing who has investigative authority for tax crimes under the Internal Revenue Code, repeated here for your benefit:

This is a tacit admission by our government that no agency may enforce the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, which is another way of saying that no one is liable to pay this tax because it is in fact a donation as we have said repeatedly throughout this chapter! If the IRS or the DOJ do investigate crimes related to the Internal Revenue Code without the above authority or an implementing regulation, then they are acting unlawfully and have exceeded the authority delegated to them by the U.S. codes and the regulations that implement them which are written by the Secretary of the Treasury. They can be prosecuted for libel and any number of crimes if their illegal action causes you any kind of injury or expense.

Subsequent to the writing and publication of this section, the Department of Justice rewrote the above entry in their table. Sometime between February 2002 and July 2005, the entry was changed to read:

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The above entry is fraudulent, because:

1. The same Department of Justice admitted that the IRS is NOT an agency of the federal government. See:

   http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Evidence/USGovDeniesIRS/USGovDeniesIRS.htm

   The reason the IRS is not an agency of the federal government is that it isn’t carrying out a constitutional function within the states and therefore is an independent creation of Congress that only has jurisdiction over matters INTERNAL to the federal zone, as is shown throughout the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, Chapter 7. That is why they are called the INTERNAL Revenue Service to begin with. Even the IRS identifies itself NOT as an “agency”, but a “bureau”. See their document 7233 at the link below. Search for the word “bureau” and you will see what we mean:

2. There are not implementing regulations published in the Federal Register authorizing enforcement of I.R.C., Subtitle A against private persons in states of the Union. The only people the IRS can enforce against are federal instrumentalities in the District of Columbia, according to 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1) and 5 U.S.C. §553(a), who are the only groups that can be the target of penalties absent said publication.

   Therefore, the DOJ is LYING in the new version U.S. Attorneys’ Manual above, and they know it, because a U.S. Attorney basically admitted as much in the link above.

5.4.22 The Federal Courts Can’t Sentence You to Federal Prison for Tax Crimes if You Are A statutory “U.S. citizen” and the Crime was Committed Outside the Federal Zone

Amazingly, even if you are stupid enough to claim you are a domiciliary of the federal zone, whether it be a “U.S. citizen” or “resident”, and thereby subject yourself to the corrupt jurisdiction of a federal court, even under such circumstances, if you commit a “tax crime” outside the federal zone and inside one of the sovereign Union states, no federal court can lawfully imprison you. That’s right! 18 U.S.C. §4001(a) states:

   TITLE 18 > PART III > CHAPTER 301 > Sec. 4001.

   Sec. 4001. - Limitation on detention; control of prisons

   (a) No citizen shall be imprisoned or otherwise detained by the United States except pursuant to an Act of Congress.

   And in the Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure, Rule 54(c) prior to Dec. 2002, it states:

   Federal Rule of Criminal Procedure 54: Application and Exception

   (c) Application of Terms.

   As used in these rules the following terms have the designated meanings.

   “Act of Congress” includes any act of Congress locally applicable to and in force in the District of Columbia, in Puerto Rico, in a territory or in an insular possession.

   The U.S. attorney prosecuting you will try to fool you into thinking that you can be prosecuted for “Willful failure to file” under 26 U.S.C. §7203 or “Tax Evasion” 26 U.S.C. §7201 or Fraud under 26 U.S.C. §7206, but the fact of the matter is that unless you committed this crime inside the federal zone as per Rule 54(c) of the Rules of Criminal Procedure, then they can’t legally sentence you.

   Also, as you learned earlier in section 5.4.18, there are no implementing regulations for Willful Failure to File or Tax Evasion, which means these cannot be crimes for anyone but federal employees, even if you were residing inside the federal zone when you violated these statutes.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

5.4.23 You Don’t Have to Provide a Social Security Number on Your Tax Return!

There is a presumption found in 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) that if you submit a tax return to the U.S. government, then you are by default a “U.S. person”. We repeat that section below, which is the only section of the regulations that talks about the requirement to furnish an identifying number on a tax return:

26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b)

(b) Requirement to furnish one’s own number—(1) U.S. persons. Every U.S. person who makes under this title a return, statement, or other document must furnish his own taxpayer identifying number as required by the forms and the accompanying instructions.

Notice the word “its”. This should clue you into the fact that the tax code doesn’t apply to flesh and blood people, who are called “natural persons” in laws like that above. If they had meant to refer to such a natural person, the word “it’s” would have said “his” or “her”. Consequently, the only type of “person”, they can be referring to is a privileged corporation, as we pointed out at the beginning of this chapter.

According to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30), a “U.S. person” is either an alien or a federal statutory “U.S. citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1401. Here is the definition:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof –

(30) United States person
The term "United States person" means -

(A) a [corporate] citizen or resident [alien] of the [federal] United States,
(B) a domestic partnership,
(C) a domestic corporation,
(D) any estate (other than a foreign estate, within the meaning of paragraph (31)), and
(E) any trust -

(i) a court within the United States is able to exercise primary supervision over the administration of the trust, and
(ii) one or more United States persons have the authority to control all substantial decisions of the trust.
This means that if such the “person” is a “citizen” under the I.R.C., then they must have been domiciled or incorporated in the federal “United States/federal zone, which is limited only to the District of Columbia or U.S. territories. Don’t let the word “citizen” above fool you either, because corporations within law are “citizens” as well and they are “born” at the instant when they are officially “incorporated” by the Secretary of State of the jurisdiction where they are domiciled. Congress wants to deceive you into believing that the term “citizen” also means a natural persons (people), but in the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, this term ONLY refers to corporations because “income”, as you will learn later in section 5.6.5, is defined by our Constitution and by the Supreme court to be limited only to monies earned by federal corporations in the conduct of foreign commerce! This is also consistent with the use of the word “it’s” as used above in 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b), where the only “U.S. persons” in the IRC who can have TINs are corporations. Here is some more proof of that to whet your appetite to read later sections:

19 C.J.S., Corporations §886 [Legal encyclopedia]

[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]

The other very interesting result of the above regulation at 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) is the use of the word “Taxpayer Identification Number”, which is called a “TIN” for short. This is a VERY important word, folks! Here is the meaning of that word from the Treasury regulations:

26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(d)(3)

(3) IRS individual taxpayer identification number -- (i) Definition. The term IRS individual taxpayer identification number means a taxpayer identifying number issued to an alien individual by the Internal Revenue Service, upon application, for use in connection with filing requirements under this title. The term IRS individual taxpayer identification number does not refer to a social security number or an account number for use in employment for wages. For purposes of this section, the term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or national of the United States.

So anyone who has or uses a TIN is an “alien”, and a Social Security Number is NOT a Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) according to the regulations. We learned earlier in 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) that the only thing you are required to provide on a tax return is a “Taxpayer Identification Number” (TIN) and we learned above that a Social Security Number (SSN) is NOT a TIN. Further confirmation of these conclusions can be found by looking at the forms used to obtain “Taxpayer Identification Numbers”. Form W-7 is used to get a TIN while a SSA Form SS-5 is used to obtain a Social Security Number: two totally different forms. Consequently, you can’t be and aren’t required to provide your SSN on a tax return! Amazing, isn’t it? This is another way of saying that you aren’t the proper subject of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and aren’t a “taxpayer” folks! The form W-7 even confirms that it is ONLY for aliens, when it says at the top:

The only thing you can be if you are neither a statutory “U.S. citizen” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 nor a “national” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) is an “alien”! Duhhh! Don’t believe us? Look at the W-7 form for yourself below:

After you look at the W-7 form, go back and reread section 4.11.13, table 4-25 of this book and you will see that the only thing a person can be who is not a “U.S. citizen” or a “national” is an “alien”. The IRS just doesn’t have the courage to directly state the truth on the W-7 form because then NO ONE would fill it out and everyone would drop out of the tax system in droves!

Even more interestingly, under 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(g), having a social security number creates a “presumption” that you maintain a legal “domicile” within the federal zone. Here is what the regulation says about the requirement to provide a social security number when furnishing returns:

26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(g)

(g) Special rules for taxpayer identifying numbers issued to foreign persons—(1) General rule—(i) Social security number. A social security number is generally identified in the records and database of the Internal Revenue Service as a number belonging to a U.S. citizen or resident alien individual. A person may establish a different status for the number by providing proof of foreign status with the Internal Revenue Service under such procedures as the Internal Revenue Service shall prescribe, including the use of a form as the Internal Revenue Service may specify. Upon accepting an individual as a nonresident alien individual, the Internal Revenue Service will assign this status to the individual’s social security number.

What both “U.S. citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 and “resident aliens” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) have in common is that they both maintain a legal “domicile” within the federal zone. We proved this earlier in section 5.4.8. As a presumed domiciliary of the federal zone or a “U.S. person”, you have NO Constitutional rights according to the U.S. Supreme Court in Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)! You must therefore rebut the false presumptions below that you are:

1. A domiciliary of the federal zone.

. . . whenever you correspond with the IRS and continually emphasize instead that you are a “national” and not a “citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21) and a “non-resident non-person”. Only if you are lawfully and consensually engaged in a public office can you claim to be a “nonresident alien” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B). The way to do this is by following the regulation above and requesting a change in the status of your Social Security Number with the IRS!

We give you instructions in section 4.5.3.13 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 entitled "IMPORTANT: Change Your U.S. Citizenship Status" on how to expatriate from 14th Amendment or U.S. citizenship and to obtain evidence proving your change in citizenship. This frees you from the legal obligation to complete income tax returns. We can’t guarantee that the IRS will never bother you again if you don’t file beyond that point, but we do help to minimize the risk that they will bother you or cause any trouble by showing you how to prove that you aren’t a statutory U.S. citizen or aren’t therefore liable for submitting returns or paying income tax.

Lastly, it may also interest you to know that there are only two places in the Bible where numbers are referred to in the context of people, and both of them refer to the efforts of Satan himself. Here is the first one:

Now Satan stood up against Israel, and moved David to number Israel. So David said to Joab and to the leaders of the people, “Go, number Israel from Beersheba to Dan, and bring the number of them to me that I may know it.” [1 Chron. 21:1-2, Bible, NKJV]

The only other place numbering of people is referenced is throughout the book of Revelation in reference to the last days. The mark is given by “the Beast”, which is defined to be the “Kings of the earth” who are at war with God as described in Rev. 19:19:

“And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army.” [Rev. 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

“He [the Beast, which is the political rulers of the earth] causes all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on their right hand or on their foreheads, and that no one may buy or sell except one who has the mark or the name of the beast, or the number of his name.

“Here is wisdom. Let him who has understanding calculate the number of the beast, for it is the number of a man: His number is 666.” [Rev. 13:16-18, Bible, NKJV]

Those who allow themselves to accept the mark of the beast shall be tormented by God himself and it would appear that he shall receive the same punishment as all of Babylon and be part of Babylon:

“And another angel followed, saying, “Babylon is fallen, is fallen, that great city, because she has made all nations drink of the wine of the wrath of her fornication.” Then a third angel followed them, saying with a loud voice, “If anyone worships the beast and his image, and receives his mark on his forehead or on his hand, he himself shall also drink of the wine of the wrath of God, which is poured out full strength into the cup of His indignation. He shall be tormented with fire and brimstone in the presence of the holy angels and in the presence of the Lamb. And the smoke of their torment ascends forever and ever; and they have no rest day or night, who worship the beast and his image, and whoever receives the mark of his name.”
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The people who receive this mark will be among those who are victims of the first Bowl judgment of God’s wrath:

“So the first [angel] went and poured out his bowl [of judgment] upon the earth, and a foul and loathsome sore came upon the men who had the mark of the beast and those who worshiped his image.”

[Rev. 16:2, Bible, NKJV]

Only those who do not accept the mark will reign with Christ in Heaven:

“And I saw thrones, and they sat on them, and judgment was committed to them. Then I saw the souls of those who had been beheaded for their witness to Jesus and for the word of God, who had not worshiped the beast or his image, and had not received his mark on their foreheads or on their hands. And they lived and reigned with Christ for a thousand years.”

[Rev. 20:4, Bible, NKJV]

Is it therefore any surprise that the only status you can have which doesn’t EXPRESSLY require a number is not associated with the political rulers of the earth is that of a “nonresident alien” who has no income from the government, which is the “beast” in the Bible? Accepting money from the government that you didn’t earn is fornication with Babylon, and the mark is the means of controlling how the stolen loot is distributed among the thieves. The victims of the theft are all the people who did not want to participate in the system of usury and abuse and socialism called the “income tax”. Anyone who accepts this money is a “thief”, and the Bible says when a thief is found, he shall pay double the amount stolen:

“If a man [the government, in this case] delivers to his neighbor [a citizen, in this case] money or articles to keep, and it is stolen out of the man’s house [our out of his paycheck], if the thief is found, he shall pay double. If the thief is not found, then the master of the house shall be brought to the judges to see whether he has put his hand into his neighbor’s goods.”

The tribulation described in the Bible book of Revelation is God’s punishment and judgment to all those who became thieves by accepting stolen loot from a corrupted socialist government.

“My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you, Do not consent If they say, “Come with us, Let us lie in wait to shed blood [of innocent “nontaxpayers”]; Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause; Let us swallow them alive like Sheol, And whole, like those who go down to the Pit: We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder]; Cast in your lot among us, Let us all have one purse [share the stolen LOOT]”-- My son, do not walk in the way with them [do not ASSOCIATE with them and don’t let the government FORCE you to associate with them either by forcing you to become a ‘taxpayer’/government whore or a “U.S. person”]. Keep your foot from their path; For their feet run to evil, And they make haste to shed blood. Surely, in vain the net is spread In the sight of any bird; But they lie in wait for their own blood. They lurk secretly for their own lives. So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain [or unearned government benefits]; It takes away the life of its owners.”

[Proverbs 1:10-19, Bible, NKJV]

The book of Revelation echoes the above by saying:

“And I heard another voice from heaven [God] saying, ‘Come out of her [Babylon the Great Harlot, a democratic, rather than republican, state full of socialist non-believers], my people [Christians], lest you share in her sins, and lest you receive of her plagues.’”

[Revelation 18:4, Bible, NKJV]
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

5.4.24 Your Private Employer Isn’t Authorized by Law to Act as a Federal “withholding agent”

IRS Publication 15, Circular E: Employer’s Tax Guide: Employer’s Tax Guide indicates on page 6 what the definition of “employer” is. It only lists federal agencies and “States” as employers. See for yourself:

Remember that “States” in the Internal Revenue Code means territories and possessions of the United States as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d). Private employers do not appear anywhere in the booklet. One of our readers did an FOIA request asking the IRS for the forms and publications that private employers should use. Guess what the response said:

Do you get it? The I.R.C., Subtitle A federal income tax and I.R.C., Subtitle C employment withholding taxes only apply to:

1. “U.S. persons” with a domicile in the District of Columbia, most of whom work for the federal government. These people are described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30).
2. Territories of the United States, which are classified as “States” in federal statutes and “acts of Congress”.
3. Those engaged in a “trade or business” temporarily abroad as described in 26 U.S.C. §911.

States of the Union cannot and do not appear in the Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A and if they did, they would appear as “states” and not “States”. This is further confirmed by the regulations below, which prove that there are no “employers” outside the “United States”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) to include only the District of Columbia and nowhere defined to include states of the Union within I.R.C., Subtitle A:

Title 26: Internal Revenue
PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE
Subpart B—Federal Insurance Contributions Act (Chapter 21, Internal Revenue Code of 1954)
General Provisions
§ 31.3121(b)-3 Employment; services performed after 1954.

(a) In general. Whether services performed after 1954 constitute employment is determined in accordance with the provisions of section 3121(b).

(b) Services performed within the United States [District of Columbia]. Services performed after 1954 within the United States (see §31.3121(e)-1) by an employee for his employer, unless specifically excepted by section 3121(b), constitute employment. With respect to services performed within the United States, the place where the contract of service is entered into is immaterial. The citizenship or residence of the employee or of the employer also is immaterial except to the extent provided in any specific exception from employment. Thus, the employee and the employer may be citizens and residents of a foreign country and the contract of service may be entered into in a foreign country, and yet, if the employee under such contract performs services within the United States, there may be to that extent employment.

Note from the above that services performed outside the District of Columbia do not constitute “employment”. This is also consistent with:

1. 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(3)(c)(ii), which says that “nonresident aliens” not engaged in a “trade or business” [public office in the U.S. government], even if they work in the “United States”, do not earn taxable income. You will note that 4 U.S.C. §72 says that all public offices shall be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere.
2. 26 U.S.C. §3401(a)(6) says that services of a “nonresident alien individual” (a person domiciled in a state of the Union and engaged in a public office) do not constitute “wages” that can be included on a W-2 form.
3. 26 C.F.R. §1.872-2(f) says that earnings from outside the “United States” (District of Columbia) does not constitute “gross income”.

TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
Private employers aren’t covered by the Internal Revenue Code, and the only reason that any of them think otherwise is because they never bothered to read the Internal Revenue Code or IRS Publication 15, Circular E: Employer’s Tax Guide for themselves and simply were reacting to authority that the IRS in fact did not have.

The term “withholding agent” is defined as follows in the Internal Revenue Code:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.

Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof –

(16) Withholding agent

The term “withholding agent” means any person required to deduct and withhold any tax under the provisions of section 1441, 1442, 1443, or 1461.

Now if you look up each of the above four statutes mentioned in the above definition, here is what you end up with:

Table 5-50: Statutes authorizing "withholding agents"

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>26 U.S.C./I.R.C. section</th>

So the question is: “Which one of the above are you as a person in a state of the Union who is working for a private, non-federal employer?” The answer is “nonresident alien”. The trouble is, your private employer fits in the same category as you and is therefore outside of federal jurisdiction and not even subject to the Internal Revenue Code or to withholding. See paragraph (b) below:

Title 26

PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE

Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source

§ 31.3401(a)(6)-1 Remuneration for services of nonresident alien individuals.

(a) In general. All remuneration paid after December 31, 1966, for services performed by a nonresident alien individual, if such remuneration otherwise constitutes wages within the meaning of §31.3401(a)--I and if such remuneration is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is subject to withholding under section 3402 unless excepted from wages under this section. In regard to wages paid under this section after February 28, 1979, the term “nonresident alien individual” does not include a nonresident alien individual treated as a resident under section 6013 (g) or (h).

(b) Remuneration for services performed outside the United States. Remuneration paid to a nonresident alien individual (other than a resident of Puerto Rico) for services performed outside the United States is excepted from wages and hence is not subject to withholding.

Keep in mind that the I.R.C is “legislation” as described by the Supreme Court below:

[Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 885 (1936)]

A person can ONLY be designated as a withholding agent using IRS Form 2678, which you can view below:

Does your private employer have one of these signed forms on file? Chances are he doesn’t, and he is withholding ILLEGALLY. That means he is STEALING.

So the question then becomes: “By what lawful authority does my private employer deduct and withhold “taxes” on my personal earnings from labor (not “wages”, but “earnings”) and where is he even defined as an ‘employer’ in the Internal Revenue Code?” We’ll now answer that question.

The IRS’ own Internal Revenue Manual (IRM) confirms the above, which says:

Internal Revenue Manual
5.14.10.2 (09-30-2004)
Payroll Deduction Agreements

2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction agreements. Taxpayers should determine whether their employers will accept and process executed agreements before agreements are submitted for approval or finalized.

The Internal Revenue Code provisions under Subtitle C, Employment Taxes, is based on the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939. That act only lawfully taxed “Public Salaries”, which is to say salaries of ‘public officers” of the United States Government engaged in a “trade or business” only. Below is the definition of “employee” right from the code:

26 U.S.C. Sec. 3401(c) Employee
For purposes of this chapter, the term “employee” includes an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term “employee” also includes an officer of a corporation.

And below is the regulation that interprets the above section for clarification:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee:
"...the term [employee] includes, as limited to, officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

And the only definition of “employee” that we are aware of that has ever been published in the Federal Register reads as follows:

8 Federal Register, Tuesday, September 7, 1943, §404.104, pg. 12267
Employee: “The term employee specifically includes officers and employees whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a state, territory, or political subdivision thereof or the District of Columbia or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.”

Any way you slice it, Subtitle A income taxes are indirect excise taxes upon the “privileges” of “public office” within the federal United States corporation as we pointed out in section 5.1.8. Keep in mind also that a “public office” includes more than just an elected or appointed employment position. Any artificial entity can be a “public office”, including a whole company, if it is owned or controlled or under contract with the federal government. Even the U.S. Congress agrees with this conclusion in their “Frequently Asked Questions Concerning the Federal Income Tax”, Congressional Research Service Report 97-59A. See:

http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/CRS/CRS-97-59A-rebuts.pdf

In addition to all the above conclusions, even more important is the fact that Subtitle A income taxes only apply to persons domiciled inside the federal zone, those receiving federal payments, or to those with contracts, agency, or employment with the federal government as we thoroughly documented earlier in sections 5.2 through 5.2.20. This is a product of the fact that the federal government has no police powers inside states of the Union and because the Sixteenth Amendment never delegated the authority to collect direct, unapportioned taxes upon People within states of the Union. It authorizes collection of a direct, unapportioned tax inside the federal zone or federal United States, but not within states of the Union.

Since in most cases, the company you work for is not a federal “employer”, then neither you nor that company are the proper subject of either Subtitle A income taxes or Subtitle C employment taxes. But here is the clincher: Either one of you can volunteer to be subject to and liable for these taxes under Subtitle C of the Internal Revenue Code! You, who a “public official” of the United States Government can volunteer to withhold these “donations” to the federal government and once you volunteer by signing a contract/agreement called a W-4, your private employer, if he is within the federal zone, becomes liable to pay them to Uncle Sam under 26 U.S.C. §1461 because if he doesn’t, he has defrauded the government. But if you don’t decide to donate or withhold, your private employer isn’t liable to do anything. The only thing that any private employer is liable to do is to deduct and withhold WHEN YOU ASK him to, and to pay monies deducted to the federal government under 26 U.S.C. §1461. Even then, though, he must maintain a legal domicile in the federal zone or represent a corporation that does under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) in order to be subject to federal law. Businesses in states of the Union aren’t within the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code. As a matter of fact, our research in section 5.6.8 reveals that the IRS classifies all employment taxes deducted as gifts to the federal government, which is what Tax Class 5 is! How can a private employer domiciled within states of the Union and outside of federal jurisdiction be held “liable” for not sending gifts to the federal government? Furthermore, we will show in section 11 that it would be a serious violation of law for the IRS to coerce or force either you or the business you work for to donate such gifts, because that would amount to solicitation of a bribe, which is just money that is extorted without the authority of law.

Now let’s look at whether private employers who are not part of the federal government and have no federal workers are allowed to withhold. The U.S. Supreme Court said that the labor of a human being is “property” in a legal sense:

“Among these unalienable rights, as proclaimed in that great document [the Declaration of Independence] is the right of men to pursue their happiness, by which is meant, the right any lawful business or vocation, in any manner not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, which may increase their prosperity or develop their faculties, so as to give them their highest enjoyment...It has been well said that, THE PROPERTY WHICH EVERY MAN HAS IN HIS OWN LABOR, AS IT IS THE ORIGINAL FOUNDATION OF ALL OTHER PROPERTY SO IT IS THE MOST SACRED AND INVIOLEABLE...to hinder his employing this strength and dexterity in what manner he thinks proper without injury to his neighbor, is a plain violation of this most sacred property.”

[Butchers’ Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)]

Anyone who withholds on earnings from labor that are not connected with a voluntary, excise taxable activity is effecting slavery, because they are literally STEALING property. This is confirmed by examining the withholding regulations at 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-2 say that withholding may not be effected on the sale of “property”:

Title 26: Internal Revenue
PART I—INCOME TAXES
Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Corporations and Tax-Free Covenant Bonds
§ 1.1441-2 Amounts subject to withholding.

(b) Fixed or determinable annual or periodical income—

(1) In general—

(i) Definition. For purposes of chapter 3 of the Internal Revenue Code and the regulations thereunder, fixed or determinable annual or periodical income includes all income included in gross income under section 61 (including original issue discount) except for the items specified in paragraph (b)(2) of this section. Items of income that are excluded from gross income under a provision of law without regard to the U.S. or foreign status of the owner of the income, such as interest excluded from gross income under section 103(a) or qualified scholarship income under section 117, shall not be treated as fixed or determinable annual or periodical income under chapter 3 of the Internal Revenue Code. Income excluded from gross income under section 892 (income of foreign governments) or section 115 (income of a U.S. possession) is fixed or determinable annual or periodical income since the exclusion from gross income under those sections is dependent on the foreign status of the owner of the income. See §1.306–3(h) for treating income from the disposition of section 306 stock as fixed or determinable annual or periodical income.

(2) Exceptions. For purposes of chapter 3 of the Code and the regulations thereunder, the items of income described in this paragraph (b)(2) are not fixed or determinable annual or periodical income—
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren't Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

(i) Gains derived from the sale of property (including market discount and option premiums), except for gains described in paragraph (b)(3) or (c) of this section; and

(ii) Any other income that the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) may determine, in published guidance (see §601.601(d)(2) of this chapter), is not fixed or determinable annual or periodical income.

Note that withholding is not authorized on gains derived from any kind of property other than that listed above, and since labor isn’t included in the list, then there can be no withholding on “labor”. Next, we examine I.R.C. Section 61 to determine whether “labor” is included in the definition of “gross income”. We have highlighted and boldfaced and underlined the only portion of that section that relates to “labor” of a human being:

Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, gross income means all income from whatever source derived, including (but not limited to) the following items:

1. Compensation for services, including fees, commissions, fringe benefits, and similar items;
2. Gross income derived from business;
3. Gains derived from dealings in property;
4. Interest;
5. Rents;
6. Royalties;
7. Dividends;
8. Alimony and separate maintenance payments;
9. Annuities;
10. Income from life insurance and endowment contracts;
11. Penions;
12. Income from discharge of indebtedness;
13. Distributive share of partnership gross income;
14. Income in respect of a decedent; and
15. Income from an interest in an estate or trust.

The above definition uses several tricky “words of art” to deceive the reader about withholding on “labor”, such as “compensation”, “services”, etc. These “words of art” are then defined in the Classification Act of 1923, 42 Stat. 1988 as follows:

1. “department”: “the term ‘department’ means an executive department of the United States Government, a governmental establishment in the executive branch of the United States Government which is not a part of an executive department, the municipal government of the District of Columbia, the Botanic garden, Library of Congress, Library Building and Grounds, Government Printing Office (GPO), and the Smithsonian Institution.”
2. “position”: “means a specific civilian office or employment, whether occupied or vacant, in a department other than the following: Offices or employments in the Postal Service; teachers, librarians, school attendance officers, and employees of the community center department under the Board of Education of the District of Columbia; officers and members of the Metropolitan police, the fire department of the District of Columbia, and the United States park police; and the commissioned personnel of the Coast Guard, the public Health Service, and the Coast and Geodetic Survey.”
3. “employee”: “means any person temporarily or permanently in a position.”
4. “service”: “means the broadest division of related offices and employments.”
5. “compensation”: “means any salary, wage, fee, allowance, or other emolument paid to an employee for service in a position.”

What the above definitions show, is that “labor”, in the context of I.R.C., Subtitle A, is not the commodity being taxed. Rather, “compensation” for “services” performed in conduct of a “trade or business”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office” is the voluntary, excise taxable activity that is being taxed. Remember, Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax upon privileged, excise taxable activities, according to the U.S. Supreme Court. The “activity” is a “trade or business”, which is basically privileged employment with the federal government:

"...by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the Sixteenth Amendment conferred no new power of taxation but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect [excise] taxation to which it inherently belonged and being placed in the category of direct taxation subject to apportionment by a
The Supreme Court also said after Congress attempted to establish the first income tax in 1862 to fund the civil war that a “trade or business” cannot be licensed or taxed within the borders of a state of the Union:

"Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

You will also note that the Supreme Court has said that no one may withhold the wages of a worker against his will:

"Every man has a natural right to the fruits of his own labor, is generally admitted; and no other person can rightfully deprive him of those fruits, and appropriate them against his will ..."

[The Antelope, 23 U.S. 66; 10 Wheat 66; 6 L.Ed. 268 (1825)]

Even the statutes confirm that labor is not a commodity or article of commerce that therefore may be “taxed”:

United States Code
TITLE 15 - COMMERCE AND TRADE
CHAPTER 1 - MONOPOLIES AND COMBINATIONS IN RESTRAINT OF TRADE
Sec. 17. Antitrust laws not applicable to labor organizations

The labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce....

Now let’s look at what the Bible says about the theft and fraud of holding back the wages of the laborer, and it’s not pretty, Mr. Employer:

"The laborer is worthy of [ALL of ] his wages."
[1 Tim. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

"Woe to him who builds his house by unrighteousness
And his chambers by injustice,
Who [whether individual or government] uses his neighbor’s service without wages
And gives him nothing for his work,"
[Lev. 22:13, Bible, NKJV]

"Come now, you rich, weep and howl for your miseries that are coming upon you! Your riches are corrupted, and your garments are moth-eaten. Your gold and silver are corroded, and their corrosion will be a witness against you and will eat your flesh like fire. You have heaped up treasure in the last days. Indeed the wages of the laborers who mowed your fields, which you kept back by fraud, cry out; and the cries of the reapers have reached the ears of the Lord of Sabaoth. You [the business owner who controls the purse of the workers] have lived on the earth in pleasure and luxury; you have fattened your hearts as if in a day of slaughter. You have condemned, you have murdered the just; he does not resist you."
[James 5:1-6, Bible, NKJV]

"You shall not cheat your neighbor, nor rob him. The wages of him who is hired shall not remain with you all night until morning."
[Lev. 19:13, Bible, NKJV]
Any way you look at it, private employers who don’t have privileged federal “employees” for workers cannot withhold against the wishes of the workers and if they do, they are STEALING and violating both man’s law and God’s law. There is nothing in federal law or state law that would indemnify them from such STEALING. They are no better than petty street criminals, and any payroll clerk who doesn’t understand this is a sitting duck for any worker who is even mildly educated about the law and willing to defend his rights.

5.4.25  The money you pay to government is an illegal bribe to public officials

For those who deduct payroll taxes involuntarily and without consent, the money they pay either through Subtitle C withholding or through Subtitle A 1040 returns amounts to extortion under the color of law and a compelled bribe because there is no liability statute and no Constitutional authority to collect inside states of the Union. The payments amount to extortion because:

1. The IRS threatens and pressures private employers to withhold on their employees.
2. Private employers make payment of income taxes based on the above pressure a precondition of obtaining or keeping a job.
3. The IRS and the Department of Injustice terrorize and legally harass employers who choose not to withhold. Case in point is Arrow Plastics, whose proprietor Dick Simkanin was hounded for three straight years in what amounts to an abuse of the legal system and forced labor in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1589. The DOJ had to endlessly pester three different grand juries and he appeared to testify in front of the first two but they didn’t get an indictment until they were able to keep him away from the third grand jury.

This illegally paid and collected money contributes to the corruption and delinquency of our elected or appointed officers, because it enhances their power and influence and causes them to commit treason against the republic by transforming it into a socialist democracy and starting up all kinds of government handout programs. Here is the law making this bribe illegal:

TITLE 18 > PART I > CHAPTER 11 > Sec. 201.
Sec. 201. - Bribery of public officials and witnesses

(b) Whoever -

(1) directly or indirectly, corruptly gives, offers or promises anything of value to any public official or person who has been selected to be a public official, or offers or promises any public official or any person who has been selected to be a public official to give anything of value to any other person or entity, with intent -

(A) to influence any official act; or

(B) to influence such public official or person who has been selected to be a public official to commit or aid in committing, or collude in, or allow, any fraud, or make opportunity for the commission of any fraud, on the United States; or

(C) to induce such public official or such person who has been selected to be a public official to do or omit to do any act in violation of the lawful duty of such official or person;

(2) being a public official or person selected to be a public official, directly or indirectly, corruptly demands, seeks, receives, accepts, or agrees to receive or accept anything of value personally or for any other person or entity, in return for:

(A) being influenced in the performance of any official act;

(B) being influenced to commit or aid in committing, or to collude in, or allow, any fraud, or make opportunity for the commission of any fraud, on the United States; or

(C) being induced to do or omit to do any act in violation of the official duty of such official or person;

(3) directly or indirectly, corruptly gives, offers, or promises anything of value to any person, or offers or promises such person to give anything of value to any other person or entity, with intent to influence the testimony under oath or affirmation of such first-mentioned person as a witness upon a trial, hearing, or other proceeding, before any court, any committee of either House or both Houses of Congress, or any agency, commission, or officer authorized by the laws of the United States to hear evidence or take testimony, or with intent to influence such person to absent himself therefrom;
Since Article 4, Section 4, Clause 1 of the U.S. Constitution requires that the United States Government shall guarantee a republican form of government to each state in the union, then anyone who pays such bribes or accepts them is committing treason by doing so. They are also subsidizing the oppression of fellow Americans, treason, and conspiracy against the rights of their fellow Americans. Have you ever been to the zoo and seen the sign that says “Please don’t feed the animals”? Well, I think we need one on every federal building and on every Internal Revenue Service form you fill out. The animals are your public dis-servants!

Since you must be a “public officers” of the U.S. government in order to be the proper subject of Subtitle C employment taxes as indicated above, your voluntary payment of employment taxes amounts to a bribe to procure public office!

That’s right, you have made yourself into a criminal by volunteering to pay Subtitle C Employment Taxes and the judges and your Congressmen just look the other way because they are bought and paid for with your bribes, which you never would have paid if they had told you the truth to begin with.

That’s not all folks. Recall from our investigation earlier in section 2.8.10 that the Federal Reserve is a private, for profit trust which is not part of the federal U.S. government. It is foreign to the U.S. government. It is not federal, there are no “reserves” and calling it this is a FRAUD! Even the federal courts agreed that the Federal Reserve is a private trust in Lewis v. U.S., 680 F.2d. 1238, 1241 (1982). Also recall that most of the income tax revenues go to the Federal Reserve to pay off the national debt to the private, foreign Federal Reserve. In that capacity, the U.S. Congress and the IRS are acting as collection agents for a foreign principal. Did your Congressman register as an agent of a foreign principal as required by law to indicate that he is a collection agent of that foreign principal?

You might want to do a Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request of your Congressman and ask him for his Foreign Agent Registration documents. What? He doesn’t have them? Prosecute the criminal and have him thrown in jail for two years like the IRS mafia did to Congressman James Traficant! Your Congressmen and their henchmen at the IRS are traitors and criminals, and these laws prove it! Anyone who sends their hard-earned money to Washington, D.C. is subsidizing criminal activity and is involved in a financial crimes enterprise in violation of 18 U.S.C. §225, and they are subsidizing bank robbery.
under 18 U.S.C. §2113 and the monetary transactions derived from unlawful activity under 18 U.S.C. 1957. In short, they are traitors. You can’t pay Subtitle C taxes, which are technically gifts, without being a criminal and in effect bribing your Congressman and the IRS. Remember, it is Congress who decides how the money you donate is spent.

What about your private employer? His federal Employer Identification Number is what identifies him as part of the Federal Corporation called the United States government identified in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). He is acting as a voluntary agent of the federal government under the “color of law”. In order to act as such an agent, he has to fill out IRS Form 2678 in accordance with 26 U.S.C. §3504 and be designated as a “withholding agent” by the Secretary of the Treasury, which most private employers have never done. Here is that section:

<th>TITLE 26</th>
<th>Subtitle C</th>

<th>Sec. 3504.</th>

In case a fiduciary, agent, or other person has the control, receipt, custody, or disposal of, or pays the wages of an employee or group of employees, employed by one or more employers, the Secretary, under regulations prescribed by him, is authorized to designate such fiduciary, agent, or other person to perform such acts as are required of employers under this title and as the Secretary may specify, Except as may be otherwise prescribed by the Secretary, all provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of an employer shall be applicable to a fiduciary, agent, or other person so designated but, except as so provided, the employer for whom such fiduciary, agent, or other person acts shall remain subject to the provisions of law (including penalties) applicable in respect of employers

Congress, through the above statute, may not delegate to the Secretary an authority that they themselves do not have. Remember that the only “employees” they are referring to above are federal “employees” and the reason the Secretary has jurisdiction to appoint such agents is because he is exercising in rem jurisdiction over wages paid to “public officers” of the United States government, because part of those wages belong to the federal government and are a kickback that must be recovered, as we reveal later in section 5.6.10. At the point that your private employer submits IRS Form 2678 and “volunteers” to be a withholding agent, the form says the following about his obligations:

“It is understood that the agent and the employer or payer are subject to all provisions of law and regulations (including penalties) which apply to employers or payers.”

However, even if your private, nonfederal employer tried to volunteer as a “withholding agent”, the Constitution doesn’t authorize the federal government or the Secretary of the Treasury to appoint private employers within states of the Union as “withholding agents” for Subtitle A taxes so they are acting illegally.

“Illegal. Against or not authorized by law.”

“The Government of the United States, therefore, can claim no powers which are not [explicitly] granted to it by the Constitution, and the powers actually granted must be such as are expressly given, or given by necessary implication.”
[Buffington v. Day, 11 Wall. 113, 78 U.S. 122 (1871)]

You can confirm the above assertions by requesting a copy of his delegation order and seeing whether it says the Secretary can do this with private employers. You will find as we have in doing so that he doesn’t have this authority. If he doesn’t have that authority, then he can’t delegate it to the IRS. That means your private employer is not operating with the authority of federal law and really has no lawful authority at all to act as a “withholding agent” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16). If his actions as a voluntary federal agent result in an oppression of your sacred Constitutional rights, then he is liable under equity jurisdiction in any state court for the injury or tort that he causes you. Plain and simple. Even if your employer isn’t being compensated for his acts as a federal agent, he can be prosecuted under the same standards as a government employee! This opens a whole new realm of possibilities, folks.

As an agent of a foreign principal, the federal reserve, your private employer is part of this criminal conspiracy and treason against the constitutional republic. He is a communist and a socialist, in fact, as we showed in the introduction to this chapter. This is especially true if he forces you to pay payroll taxes by threatening to fire or discipline you if you don’t file a W-4 with him or her to initiate withholding. Since he has no lawful authority to deduct or withhold the taxes, being outside the exclusive territorial jurisdiction of the United States government under Subtitles A or C of the I.R.C., then coercing you to deduct or withhold or filing a W-4 without your consent is a clear violation of the Fifth Amendment, which says that we can’t be deprived of our property without due process of law or just compensation.
There aren’t a lot of private employees who would resort to suing their employers, because this would amount to looking a gift horse in the mouth, but this is what most ignorant employers deserve for their negligent and harmful administration of payroll tax withholding. If your employer in effect discriminates against you because you refuse to volunteer, ignorantly and wrongfully thinking that he has the authority by law to compel you to withhold, then you have a case with the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission (EEOC for employment discrimination based on your religious beliefs and based on 8 U.S.C. §1324(a)(3)(A). The same argument applies if they won’t accept the government form you choose to submit to stop withholding, which in most cases is the Amended W-8BEN form we have on our website. If they say they won’t accept the Amended W-8BEN and demand a W-4, then they are violating your First Amendment rights by telling you how you can or must communicate with your government. Free speech implies the ability to either not communicate at all with your government or to communicate on the forms that YOU choose. If you have a coercive or tyrannical employer, then lodging a formal complaint with the EEOC might be an effective strategy to twist their arm. You’ll have your employer scurrying like cockroaches when the lights come on with such tactics, folks!

5.4.26 How a person can “volunteer” to become liable for paying income tax?

Even if a person is not liable for paying any federal taxes on their income, they can nevertheless “volunteer” to make themselves liable to pay. This topic is also discussed in section 3.12.1.21, where we talk about “Taxpayer.” For instance, if you have a large income but none of it is taxable as “gross income”, you can make yourself liable anyway simply by misreporting nontaxable income as taxable on a 1040 form, signing it, and sending it in! That’s called a donation. Do you think the IRS will argue with or correct people who do this? Quite the contrary, they will prosecute such people if they can get more money out of them! This was clearly stated in the case of Lyddon & Company v. U.S., 158 F.Supp. 951:

“When one files a tax return showing taxes due, he has, presumably, assessed himself and is content to become liable for the tax, and to pay it either when it is due according to statute, or when he can get the money together.”

Below is how one of our readers succinctly described how we volunteer to become liable to pay federal income taxes:

“There seems to be two camps. One says the tax is illegal and doesn’t apply to them...ie (Joe Banister) 16th amendment wasn’t properly ratified, taxes aren’t apportioned ...etc. All these and related arguments miss an important and critical point. Why is it that a ‘patriot’ finds himself in court... makes a valid argument... and then loses the case? Why did Robert Clarkson spend five years in jail.. convicted of interfering with IRS operations.
The judge would not allow any first amendment arguments. Everyone thought the judge was a communist pinko.
The judge was right when he said no free speech arguments would be allowed because the constitution did not apply. Everyone missed the real issue including Robert who did five years. I reject the court’s decision... but THE JUDGE WAS RIGHT.”

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
The citizenship issue is a huge issue or should I say nexus. I ran into a fella a while back that had the case cite where a judge said we become citizens of the corporate U.S. when we pay the first dollar into social security as an adult; and our use of the current postal system. The judge declined to elaborate but (here I'm being very optimistic) was trying to tell the litigant what he must do to beat the infidels back. I have ex-patriated / re-patriated, filed my UCC documents, and am making use of common law trusts. Appears that everything is working and soon I will find out in an up-coming court case... The ex-patriating issue and KNOWING how the uniform commercial code and how we get into contracts with the corporate US seems to be the minimum we must know and defend. For nearly thirty years I have heard it all from sincere but wide-eyed 'patrists' who were eager to convince me how the income tax was illegal...blah, blah, blah. It never occurred to them that they are not SUBJECT TO the tax (even if it was illegal). Several judges I see now and then are now avoiding me. I made the 'mistake' of asking them about jurisdiction and straw man and Uniform Commercial Code issues. Squirm and sweat describes their responses. Maybe we haven't found the "Magic-Bullet" yet but it seems that we are very close.

Therefore, all of our problems begin when we claim to be persons domiciled within exclusive federal jurisdiction, which includes “U.S. citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 or “residents” (aliens with a domicile) under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). This is what makes us slaves of the state in the pursuit of taxable government privileges and benefits, whether they be the right to vote, social security, driver’s licenses, permits, etc. In a way, one could say that the effort by the government to fool American Nationals, who are “non-resident no9m-persons”, into claiming they are domiciliaries of the federal zone constitutes the crime of “conspiracy against rights” in violation of 18 U.S.C. §241, because once we become domiciliaries of the federal zone, we lose all our rights and no one including the states may interfere. Once we declare ourselves (usually falsely) to be STATUTORY “U.S. citizens” or “residents”, we become nonresidents in our own CONSTITUTIONAL state and divorce our state. We also now become privileged “franchisees” and “dependents” of the “pares patriae” federal government. We’re slaves, and from that point on our government will call us “taxpayers”, which is nothing but a polite way to say that we are federal whores! At that point, every visit we make to a federal court assumes that we have the burden of proving that we are not whores, I mean “taxpayers”. Every case is litigated in equity rather than the Constitution, and the federal courts become administrative courts to enforce our voluntary “domicile contract”, which amounts to indentured servanthood. But keep in mind that “U.S. citizenship” status is voluntary, according to the U.S. supreme Court as follows:

“The citizen cannot complain, because he has voluntarily submitted himself to such a form of government. He owes allegiance to the two departments, so to speak, and within their respective spheres must pay the penalties which each exacts for disobedience to its laws. In return, he can demand protection from each within its own jurisdiction.”

If you don’t want the “privileges” of being a domiciliary of the federal zone, then your government, in a free country, can’t force you to accept them or pay for them through income taxes. Compelled receipt of and payment for a government benefit is not a benefit at all, but slavery disguised as government benevolence in plain violation of the Thirteenth Amendment. Period, end of discussion. It’s ludicrous the way our government treats “taxpayers” to even claim in the first place that being a statutory “U.S. person” or “U.S. citizen” is a “privilege”! What a joke!

Remember the following important facts regarding the voluntary nature of “domicile”. Also remember that under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), our “domicile” and any agency we are exercising is where federal courts get civil jurisdiction. The main purpose of the Federal District Courts is to facilitate “business” or “commerce” by enforcing the Social Security contract with otherwise sovereign Americans in the states. Also remember that:

1. “Domicile” is the origin of the government’s tax jurisdiction.
2. The choice of “domicile” is voluntary and we aren’t obligated to have ANY earthly domicile.
3. All “residents” are “aliens” with a domicile in the federal zone. See 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).
4. All “U.S. citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 are domiciled in the federal zone. They are automatically also “nationals of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(22).
6. The government cannot remove any aspect of your citizenship status without your voluntary consent and participation, because citizenship is a right and a contract, once granted by the government, and can only be revoked by the recipient, which is you. See Afroyim v. Rusk, 387 U.S. 253 (1967):

“Citizen has constitutional right to remain a citizen in a free country unless he voluntarily relinquishes that citizenship.”
7. If you change your domicile to be outside the federal zone, you still retain your “national” status but lose your statutory “U.S. citizen” status under 8 U.S.C. §1401. The government can’t take away your “national” status in the process, because they can’t take away your citizenship without your consent.

8. 8 U.S.C. §1452 describes how to obtain evidence that you are a “non-citizen national” if you were born in a U.S. possession.

9. There are procedures on how to change your domicile and amend government records to remove any presumed statutory “U.S. citizen” status to become exclusively a “national” but not a “citizen” in section 4.5.3.13 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005.

5.4.27 Popular illegal government techniques for coercing “consent”

Now that we have firmly established that consent is required in the assessment and collection of income taxes under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, it’s reasonable to ask what devious and illegal means the government uses to coerce “consent” or what they popularly call “voluntary compliance” out of the populace. We covered such techniques generally earlier in section 4.3.16, but it is reasonable to particularize the techniques down so that we can be very aware of the tools of coercion, force, and fraud used directly against us in the case of income taxation. We will therefore itemize each technique into a very specific “MO”, which is a “Method of Operation” used by criminal public servants for accomplishing their crime. The reason we put this section at the end of the treatment of the “voluntary” nature of income taxes is so that we can start from the point of knowing exactly what the lawful limits are upon the IRS’ authority. The techniques in the following subsections will be listed in order of the frequency they occur.

5.4.27.1 Deceptive language and words of art

IRS makes false presumptions about the meaning of several important words in its publications and forms and website which it is unwilling to share with you and which prejudice your rights and sovereignty in most cases. In such a case, we must remind ourselves what the U.S. Supreme Court said about the abuse of “presumption” to exceed the authority of the Constitution:

"The power to create [false] presumptions is not a means of escape from constitutional restrictions,”

The purpose of these “words of art” is to deceive you into believing their false presumptions and thereby commit constructive fraud. The abused words include, but are not limited to:

1. “United States”
2. “State”
3. “state”
4. “foreign”
5. “nonresident alien”
6. “U.S. citizen”
7. “employee”
8. “income”
9. “gross income”
10. “trade or business”
11. “wages”
12. “individual”

The only way to overcome false presumptions about the meaning of the above words is to read the codes and laws for oneself, which the IRS knows that few Americans will do. This constructive fraud counts on the following elements to be successful:

1. A deficient public education system run by the government which dumbs-down Americans by not teaching them either “law” or “constitutional law”, in any grammar, junior high, or high school curricula.
2. College and university curricula in government-run universities that do not require the study of any aspect of law for most majors.
3. IRS and government websites that do not define the meaning of these words. See section 3.12.1 and following earlier for examples.
4. IRS publications that deliberately do not define the meaning of these words.
5. Legal dictionaries that have had these critical words removed so that they cannot be easily understood. For instance, no legal dictionary published at this time that we could find has a definition of the term “United States” in it. See section 6.10.1 later, for instance.

6. Federal courts that have become vehicles for political propaganda and terrorism rather than justice. See sections 2.8.13 through 2.8.13.8.1 earlier.

7. A refusal, upon submitting a Freedom of Information Act Request, to provide an unambiguous and honest definition of these words that includes the WHOLE truth.

Those who try to educate the public about the legal meaning of the above words have been persecuted by the IRS, and this includes us. If you would like to learn more about this fraud, consult:

- Subsections underneath section 3.12.1 earlier.
- Section 5.10 later about vague laws

5.4.27.2 Ignoring Responsive Correspondence to Collection Notices

When the IRS attempts illegal collection actions against Americans, they send out threatening correspondence, often via certified mail. Many recipients respond faithfully to this correspondence, using research from this book, documenting that the IRS is:

1. Violating enacted positive law.
2. Wrongfully enforcing against a “nontaxpayer”.
3. Involved in racketeering and organized extortion.
4. Collecting without the consent of the target.

We call such responses to illegal enforcement actions “response letters”. Any time a person sends a response letter to the IRS, they are doing what is called “Petitioning their government for illegal and unconstitutional abuses.” The First Amendment to the U.S. Constitution makes petitioning the government a protected right, the exercise of which cannot be penalized. Such a petition also requires an earnest response by the IRS and due respect for the legal issues raised in it. Seldom are these response letters read or even responded to by the IRS. Instead, the IRS routinely penalizes those submitting such correspondence by:

1. Instituting penalties illegally and in violation of the Constitutional prohibition against Bills of Attainder. A Bill of Attainder is a penalty without a court trial, and it is prohibited by Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution against natural persons.
2. Creating additional retaliatory assessments.
3. Falsifying the Individual Master File (IMF) of the respondent by indicating that they are involved in criminal activity. When the respondent notices this in their record, then the IRS refuses to correct the computer fraud, which is actually a violation of 18 U.S.C. §1030. See our Master File Decoder for how this fraud works: http://sedm.org/ItemInfo/Programs/MFDecoder/MFDecoder.htm

5.4.27.3 Fraudulent forms and publications

The IRS publications are constructively fraudulent. Their purpose is mainly as a government propaganda vehicle intended to encourage false presumption, because they exclude discussion of any of the below subjects, and therefore encourage incorrect conclusions about the tax liability of the reader:

1. The limits upon federal jurisdiction.
2. The implications of these limits upon the definition of terms such as “United States”, “State”, “employee”, and “income”
3. The fact that the Internal Revenue Code is not “law” and therefore imposes no obligation upon anyone except those who consent to be subject to its provisions.
4. The fact that the Internal Revenue Code does not describe a lawful “tax” as defined by the Supreme Court
5. The dual nature of the Internal Revenue Code as a municipal tax upon all federal territories, possessions, and the District of Columbia as well as a “national” tax upon imports of corporations ONLY.

The IRS admits that its publications are not trustworthy, by saying in its Internal Revenue Manual (IRM) the following:
If you would like to learn more detail about this subject, read:

- Section 3.12 earlier on “words of art”
- Section 5.5.9 about fraud in the use of the 1040 form
- Section 6.9.6: IRS Trickery on the 1040 form to get you inside the federal zone
- Our website article describing how the courts refuse to hold the IRS responsible for the content of its publications, forms, and telephone advice at: http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/IRSNotResponsible.htm

5.4.27.4 Political propaganda

There are five main sources of political propaganda designed to terrorize the American public into consenting to comply with the I.R.C. These sources are:

2. The Department of Injustice press releases. See: http://www.usdoj.gov/tax/TEN.htm
3. Press releases leaked indirectly to the media.
5. Informal publications posted on the IRS website which the IRS refuses to take responsibility for. This includes the IRS pamphlet below:

   The Truth About Frivolous Tax Arguments, Internal Revenue Service
   http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/IRS/friv_tax_rebutts.pdf

6. Abuse of caselaw for political rather than legal purposes. The IRS will quote irrelevant federal caselaw from federal courts that have no jurisdiction over us because we do not live on federal property. They will do this in violation of their own Internal Revenue Manual, which says on the subject the following:

   Internal Revenue Manual
   4.10.7.2.9.8 (05-14-1999) Importance of Court Decisions

   1. Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position.

   2. Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the Code.

   3. Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers.

Because none of these sources portray the relevant, complete or most important truth about the limits upon federal taxing powers, the result is that they exploit ignorance to create fear of the government and the IRS in order to encourage “voluntary compliance”. We might add that any decision accomplished in the presence of fear, at least in the context of rape, cannot be considered “consensual”. The only way consent can lawfully be procured is when it is FULLY INFORMED, meaning that the decision maker is give the WHOLE truth upon which to make his decision, rather than only that subset of the truth which benefits the government.

   “Waivers of constitutional rights not only must be voluntary but must be knowing, intelligent acts done with sufficient awareness of the relevant circumstances and likely consequences.”

5.4.27.5 Deception of private companies and financial institutions

5-745

Through a systematic campaign of dis-information, the IRS deceives private companies outside of its jurisdiction into believing that they are required to comply with whatever IRS agents tell them on the telephone or whatever gets mailed to them in the form of a Notice of Levy or a Notice of Lien. The most famous private company, No Time Delay Electronics, Nick Jesson, which challenged the IRS authority to use such tactics has been targeted for endless legal harassment and terrorism by the IRS and the Franchise Tax Board. The owner of that establishment, Nick Jesson, was featured on the movie on our website entitled “How to Keep 100% of Your Earnings” at:

http://famguardian.org/Media/movie.htm

Mr. Jesson eventually became the target of endless legal terrorism, the techniques of which are documented in the next section.

Private employers not within the jurisdiction of the federal government that don’t ask any questions and comply with illegal requests by the IRS are left alone. However, those that request any of the following are harassed and terrorized:

1. Proof of the legal identity and service of process address of the person in the IRS who is making the request or sending the illegal Notice of Lien or Notice of Levy.
2. The basis upon which to believe that the I.R.C. is “law”.
3. Why the Notice of Levy form 668A-c(DO) is missing paragraph (a) of 26 U.S.C. §6331, which states that levies are limited only to elected or appointed officers of the United States government or federal “instrumentalities” such as “public officers”.
4. An abstract of judgment signed by a judge authorizing the levy or lien of the property of the accused. The “Notice of Levy” and “Notice Of Lien” must meet the requirements of the Fifth Amendment, which requires that all such takings of property must be signed by a judge and be executed ONLY through judicial process.

In response to questions of the kind above, the IRS only offers threats, because it can’t demonstrate legal authority. Disinformation of payroll people at private companies is effected mainly through the techniques documented later in section 5.4.27.8. If you would like to learn how to fight such underhanded intimidation of private companies and financial institutions in the context of withholding, please refer to our free pamphlet below:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Family Guardian Fellowship

5.4.27.6 Legal terrorism

Those people who expose the illegal and fraudulent dealings of the government relating to income taxes are frequently targeted for endless litigation and terrorism by the government. The nature of litigation is that it is expensive, very time-consuming, and complex. The government institutes what is called “malicious abuse of legal process” to essentially wear down, distract, and plunder their opponents of financial resources. Most Americans are unfamiliar with the legal process, and when falsely accused or litigated against by the government, must hire an expensive attorney. This attorney, who is licensed by the government, becomes just another government prosecutor against them who essentially bilks their assets while cooperating subtly with the government in ensuring a conviction. It doesn’t take long to exhaust the financial resources of the falsely accused American, and so even if there is no money left for the IRS to collect at that point, they have still accomplished the financial punishment that they sought originally. As long as it really hurts financially to not “consent”, then the government will win in the end.

We must remember, however, that such an abuse of legal process to effect the equivalent of slavery, is a crime if effected within federal jurisdiction. The government parties who cooperate in such legal terrorism become personally liable for this type of slavery:

TITLE 18 > PART I > CHAPTER 77 > Sec. 1589.

Sec. 1589. - Forced labor

 Whoever knowingly provides or obtains the labor or services of a person -

(3) by means of the abuse or threatened abuse of law or the legal process.
The slavery produced by this legal terrorism also violates the Thirteenth Amendment prohibition against involuntary servitude and is punishable under 18 U.S.C. §1994 and 18 U.S.C. §1581.

5.4.27.7 Coercion of federal judges

Since 1918, federal judges sitting in the District and Circuit courts have been subject to IRS extortion and coercion. Since 1938, this extortion has enjoyed the blessing of no less than the U.S. Supreme Court. The Revenue Act of 1918, section 213, 40 Stat. 1057, was the first federal law to impose income taxes on federal judges. That act was challenged by federal judges in the case of Miles v. Graham, 268 U.S. 501 (1924) and the judges won. Congress attempted again in the Revenue Act of 1932, section 22, to do the same thing by much more devious means. Federal judges again challenged the attempt in the case of O'Malley v. Woodrough, 307 U.S. 277 (1939), and lost. Since that time, the independence of the federal judiciary on the subject of taxation has been completely compromised. No judge who is subject to IRS extortion can possibly be objective when ruling on an income tax issue. He cannot faithfully and with integrity perform his job without violating 28 U.S.C. §144, 28 U.S.C. §455, and 18 U.S.C. §208. Consequently, the rulings of the federal district and circuit courts since that time have consistently favored the government, and thereby prejudiced the rights of the sovereign people. Every case involving a judge with this kind of conflict of interest can only be described as violation of due process of law, which requires both an impartial jury AND judge to preside over the trial. The very problem documented in the Declaration of Independence that was the reason for creating this country to begin with has once again come back to haunt us:

“They have made Judges dependent on their will alone, for the tenure of their offices and the amount and payment of their salaries.”

[Declaration of Independence]

An entire book has been written about the corruption of the federal judiciary and its nature as an Article IV, territorial court which enjoys no jurisdiction in states of the Union, if you wish to investigate further:

5.4.27.8 Manipulation, licensing, and coercion of CPA’s, Payroll clerks, Tax Preparers, and Lawyers

The IRS maintains several “education programs” for tax preparers, tax professionals, payroll people, and CPAs, which have become nothing but propaganda, disinformation, and terrorism mechanisms. Below are a few:

1. TaxTalk Today, Internal Revenue Service: A website devoted to “educating” tax attorneys, CPAs, and payroll people. See http://www.taxtalktoday.tv/
2. Tax Professionals Area: Area on their website devoted to propagandizing tax professionals. See:
3. Enrolled Agent Program: Described in Treasury Circular 230, this publication prescribes the requirements that tax professionals must meet in order to get “privileged”, priority service from the IRS in the resolution of tax problems. Those who don’t participate in the program and meet all the governments demands are put on hold forever on the telephone and ignored when they seek tax help in the resolution of problems for their clients. Undoubtedly, they must be “compliant” and not challenge the authority of the IRS, and when they don’t, their “privilege” of participating is summarily revoked.
Can you see how insidious and devious this manipulation is? On top of the above, those tax professionals who reveal the truth are threatened to have their licenses and CPA credentials pulled. This happened to former IRS Criminal Investigator Joe Banister, who became the target of an attempt by the Secretary of the Treasury to suspend his CPA license because he was informing people about the government fraud documented in this book. This same kind of illegal duress of tax professionals also extends to those who left the IRS to speak out against the agency: They are persecuted and become the target of media slander campaigns. 5.5 Why We Aren’t Liable to File Tax Returns or Keep Records

5.5.1 It’s illegal and impossible to “file” your own tax return!

That’s right: It is ILLEGAL to file your own tax return! The term “file” is nowhere defined in the Internal Revenue Code. If you ask the IRS at an audit exactly what it means to “file” a tax return and when that task is accomplished they will tell you the following as they told us:

1. A return is only considered “filed” after a Document Locator Number (DLN) is assigned to it in the upper right corner.
2. The only person who can assign a Document Locator Number (DLN) to any document filed with the IRS is the clerk processing a tax return that you have mailed in.
3. If you personally appeared at the processing center and asked to personally file the return yourself, they would tell you that:
   3.1. They can’t let you inside their facility.
   3.2. You aren’t allowed to enter into the processing area where a DLN could be assigned because you would then have access or display of sensitive Privacy Act information about other “taxpayers”, which is illegal.
4. If you asked an IRS agent to give you the next “DLN” to assign to your return so you could write it on the return yourself, they would say they aren’t authorized to.

Therefore, it is not only literally impossible for you to personally “file” a tax return document about yourself, but it is also ILLEGAL to file the return yourself because it would violate the privacy of other “taxpayers” in the process because you would have to be physically present inside the IRS processing facility, which is illegal. Consequently, the only person who can “file” a tax return is the clerk who processes it on behalf of someone else.

Knowing the above concept, one of our readers actually used this knowledge in his favor at an IRS audit. He has a certified transcript under oath of two IRS agents admitting on the record that it is illegal to “file” a tax return! It’s hilarious and he has it on tape! The agents were totally embarrassed and we recommend that you use this approach as well.

The above reader also took the knowledge in this section one step further. He filed two blank returns to the IRS. The first one had in big black letters “NOT LIABLE” written across the return as required by IRS regulations. Then he attached to it a blank return along with an IRS Form 2848 Power of Attorney and a letter stating that he had authority to prepare and sign the return on behalf of him if the agent would:

1. Provide the statute making him “liable” to pay.
2. Provide a signed copy of his delegation order authorizing him to “assess” a tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A against a person who doesn’t volunteer to pay the tax.
3. Provide a photocopy of his Pocket Commission and his state driver’s license.
4. Provide his real legal name and home address so he could be served with legal papers in the event that he didn’t follow directions.

Guess what the response of the IRS was to the above request? It took them almost two years to respond to the paperwork they got and they never filed a return on behalf of the reader! Then the reader decided to prosecute the AGENT for “Willful

5.5.2 Why God says you can’t file tax returns

The book of Isaiah 39 records the story of an Israelite King Hezekiah who had great riches and honor. Envoys from a faraway land of Babylon sent him letters of condolence while he was sick, hoping to sweet talk him out of his wealth. In response to the flattering letters, King Hezekiah invited them to visit and when they visited, he thought he would show off and parade his wealth by showing them all that he had. Here is the story:

The Babylonian Envoys

Babylonian Captivity of Judah Foretold

1 At that time Merodach-Baladan the son of Baladan, king of Babylon, sent letters and a present to Hezekiah, for he heard that he had been sick and had recovered. 2 And Hezekiah was pleased with them, and showed them the house of his treasures—the silver and gold, the spices and precious ointment, and all his armory—all that was found among his treasures. There was nothing in his house or in all his dominion that Hezekiah did not show them.

3 Then [prophet] Isaiah the prophet went to King Hezekiah, and said to him, "What did these men say, and from where did they come to you?"

So Hezekiah said, "They came to me from a far country, from Babylon."

4 And he said, "What have they seen in your house?"

So Hezekiah answered, "They have seen all that is in my house; there is nothing among my treasures that I have not shown them."

5 Then Isaiah said to [King] Hezekiah, "Hear the word of the LORD of hosts: 6 "Behold, the days are coming when all that is in your house, and what your fathers have accumulated until this day, shall be carried to Babylon; nothing shall be left,' says the LORD. 7 "And they shall take away some of your sons who will descend from you, whom you will beget; and they shall be eunuchs in the palace of the king of Babylon."

8 So Hezekiah said to Isaiah, "The word of the LORD which you have spoken is good!" For he said, "At least there will be peace and truth in my days." [Isaiah 39, Bible, NKJV]

Subsequently, the prophet Isaiah’s predictions were fulfilled in 2 Chron. 36:1-17. The moral of the above story is that those who are not discreet and who do not protect their privacy and information about their wealth will not keep it for long, and will be plundered by covetous people, governments, and nations.

Now let’s apply these principles to your situation. Tax returns record EVERY aspect of your wealth and earnings, and report it to foreigners in a foreign state and a foreign jurisdiction called the District of Criminals. By reporting everything on your tax return, you are inviting them to come and take it. You are “showing off” your wealth, which, according to the prophet Isaiah, is a grievous sin that will invite strife and subjection. Below are some additional Bible cites that confirm this conclusion:

“A prudent man foresees evil and hides himself [and his assets]. But the simple pass on and are punished [and plundered].” [Prov. 22:3, Bible, NKJV]

“Those who trust in their wealth...
And boast [on a tax return to a bunch of criminal politicians and lawyer thieves] in the multitude of their riches,

None of them can by any means redeem his brother,
Nor give to God a ransom for him—
For the redemption of their souls is costly,
And it shall cease forever—
That he should continue to live eternally,
And not see the Pit.
For he sees wise men die;
Likewise the fool and the senseless person perish,
And leave their wealth to others [foreigners in the District of Criminals].
Their inner thought is that their houses will last forever,
Their dwelling places to all generations;
They call their lands after their own names.
Nevertheless man, though in honor, does not remain;
He is like the beasts that perish.
This is the way of those who are foolish,
And of their posterity who approve their sayings. Selah
Like sheep they are laid in the grave;
Death shall feed on them;
The upright shall have dominion over them in the morning;
And their beauty shall be consumed in the grave, far from their dwelling.
But God will redeem my soul from the power of the grave,
For He shall receive me. Selah
Do not be afraid when one becomes rich,
When the glory of his house is increased;
For when he dies he shall carry nothing away;
His glory shall not descend after him.
Though while he lives he blesses himself
(For men will praise you when you do well for yourself),
He shall go to the generation of his fathers;
They shall never see light.
Nevertheless man, though in honor, does not understand,
Is like the beasts that perish."
[Psalm 49:6-20, Bible, NKJV]

Therefore, you CANNOT complete a tax return and send it to anyone in government, because it is against God’s law. Such an unwise act amounts to:

1. “boasting of your wealth” and invites strife and thievery by the government.
2. The perjury statement at the end of the return amounts to an oath of allegiance to your sovereign and protector, the government. This is idolatry, because the government becomes your substitute God. Even the Supreme Court says that the last oath you took determines who your real “sovereign” or false god is:

   "Citizenship is a political tie; allegiance is a territorial tenure. [...] The doctrine is, that allegiance [which is expressed by the taking of an oath on a tax return] cannot be due to two sovereigns [God v. mammon/government]; and taking an oath of allegiance to a new, is the strongest evidence of withdrawing allegiance from a previous, sovereign...."
   [Talbot v. Janson, 3 U.S. 133 (1795); From the syllabus but not the opinion; SOURCE: http://www.law.cornell.edu/supct/search/display.html?terms=choice%20or%20conflict%20and%20law&url=/supct/html/historics/USSC_CR_0003_0133_ZS.html]

Jesus, on the other hand, said that we cannot take oaths, which implies that we cannot sign the perjury oath at the end of the tax return:

   'Again you have heard that it was said to those of old, “You shall not swear falsely, but shall perform your oaths to the Lord.’ But I say to you, do not swear at all: neither by heaven, for it is God’s throne; nor by the earth, for it is His footstool; nor by Jerusalem, for it is the city of the great King. Nor shall you swear by your head, because you cannot make one hair white or black. But let your ‘Yes’ be ‘Yes,’ and your ‘No,’ ‘No.’ For whatever is more than these is from the evil one.”
   [Matt. 5:33-37, Bible, NKJV]

If you do not heed these warnings in God’s law, then the same fate that happened to the tribe of Judah in the Bible will happen to you. Instead of the plunderer being “Babylon”, it will be the equivalent of Babylon, which is the District of Criminals, which is what the “D.C.” means in “Washington, D.C.”:

5.5.3 You’re Not a “U.S. citizen” If You File Form 1040, You’re a “Alien”!
The income tax is “imposed” in 26 U.S.C. §1 on statutory “U.S. citizens” (8 U.S.C. §1401), “residents” (who are only “aliens”), and “nonresident aliens”. 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 explains this section as follows:

26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 Income tax on individuals

(a) General rule

(1) Section 1 of the Code imposes an income tax on the income of every individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States and, to the extent provided by section 871(b) or 877(b), on the income of a nonresident alien individual...

The group of people called “citizens and residents” in the above regulation are called “U.S. persons” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30). These people maintain a “domicile” within the District of Columbia. Later in the regulations, in section 26 C.F.R. §1.1441(c), we find that the definition of “individual” means an “alien” or “nonresident alien”. Here’s the definition of “individual”:

26 C.F.R. 1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c ) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

(ii) [Reserved]

By the way, don’t be distracted by the title of the regulation above, because the titles mean nothing according to 26 U.S.C. Section 7806(b). The title says “foreign persons”, and in fact that’s exactly what you declare yourself to be when you file a form 1040! Based on the preceding discussion, if you are a “U.S. citizen”, then there is only one occasion where you can also be an “individual”, and that occasion is when you are overseas and domiciled in a foreign country that is not a state of the Union. These people are called “U.S. citizens living abroad” in the IRS publications and if they volunteer to file a return, then they should file a 1040 with an attached 2555. What the code is really saying is that if you are in a foreign country that is not a state of the Union, then:

1. You are outside the protections of the Bill of Rights. The Bill of Rights, which are the first ten amendments to the Constitution, only applies inside states of the Union. See Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901).
2. It’s perfectly constitutional to tax you while in a foreign country since rights to not apply and doing so would not violate any of your Constitutional rights.
3. When you are in a foreign country, you are an “alien” relative to that foreign country and chances are that you come under the provisions of an income tax treaty between the United States and that foreign country. Within the Internal Revenue Code, under such circumstances, you would be referred to as an “alien” even if you in fact were also a statutory “U.S. citizen”!
4. The reason that federal “citizens” can be taxed under the provisions of a treaty with a foreign country is because:
   4.1. When “citizens” (under federal law, who are born in the District of Columbia and federal territories only) are abroad and domiciled in a foreign country, they are subject to the laws of the federal United States. They have to be subject in order to be under the protection of the government when traveling.
   4.2. There is a cost to provide the protection that government provides to its citizens when overseas, and its reasonable that they should pay for that cost.
5. In spite of all the above, since the Internal Revenue Code is not “positive law” and there is not liability statute for anyone other than withholding agents in 26 U.S.C. §1461, then the payment of Subtitle A income taxes even by statutory “U.S. citizens” or “residents” or “U.S. persons” temporarily abroad is still not compulsory or mandatory. The “U.S. citizen” we are referring to here is a statutory citizen defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401, and that definition doesn’t include most Americans.

The Supreme Court confirmed the above conclusions in the case of Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924), in which it said:
So the question is, how can the IRS claim you owe anything under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A if you claim to be a “U.S. citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1401? The answer is that it can ONLY happen when all of the following constraints apply:

1. You are either domiciled in the federal zone or living abroad, but not while you are in a state of the Union.
2. You filed a 1040 in the past and gave the IRS the mistaken impression that you were a “U.S. person” living abroad. If you did not attach a Form 2555 to the form 1040, then you basically admitted to them that you are an “alien” domiciled in a foreign country and the tax be legal-the government having power to impose the tax.
3. Even then, you must also volunteer to be a “taxpayer”, because there is no liability statute requiring you to pay absent your consent.
When you fit the above constraints, you can be described as an “individual” under the Internal Revenue Code, which in most cases is a “U.S. person” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) living abroad and coming under the provisions of an income tax treaty with that foreign country pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911. That’s why the IRS doesn’t ask you on your 1040 income tax return if you are a “U.S. citizen” but instead they put a title at the top of the form that says “U.S. Individual”! They are indirectly asking you if you are either an “alien” domiciled in the federal zone (which are the only kinds of “residents” in the code) or a statutory but not constitutional “U.S. citizen” living abroad who comes under an income tax treaty and is therefore an “alien” under that treaty.

Those who declare themselves to be “U.S. individuals” by filing a form 1040 are declaring themselves to be either a “nonresident alien” or an “alien” based on the definition of “individual” found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) above, which is the ONLY definition of “individual” anywhere in the Treasury Regulations, 26 C.F.R. Now since the form 1040NR is filed by “nonresident aliens” and since we must either be an “alien” to be a “U.S. individual” subject to income taxes, the only thing we can be is an “Alien” under 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)(i) or a statutory “U.S. citizen” abroad under 26 U.S.C. §911(d) if we file a form 1040. Leave it to an IRS lawyer to figure out how to fool you into admitting that you are legally an alien in your own country so that you can be taxed. Outrageous, isn’t it?

The definition for “individual” that the government wants you to incorrectly assume, however, is that found in 5 U.S.C. §552(a)(2):

(2) the term “individual” means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence;

But this definition of “individual” is superseded by the only definition of “individual” found in the Treasury Regulations found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 above. The whole purpose for providing a definition in a statute is to supersede the common definition or other definitions.

The content of this section is confirmed by 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1, which says the tax is “imposed” on “aliens” ONLY. Do you see “citizens” mentioned anywhere in the following section(?):

NORMAL TAXES AND SURTAXES DETERMINATION OF TAX LIABILITY
Tax on Individuals
Sec. 1.1-1 Income tax on individuals.

(a)(2)(i) For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1970, the tax imposed by section 1(d), as amended by the Tax Reform Act of 1969, shall apply to the income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States by a married alien individual who is a nonresident of the United States for all or part of the taxable year or by a foreign estate or trust. For such years the tax imposed by section 1(c), as amended by such Act, shall apply to the income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States by an unmarried alien individual (other than a surviving spouse) who is a nonresident of the United States for all or part of the taxable year. See paragraph (b)(2) of section 1.871-8. [26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(i)]

Here’s a definition from Black’s Law Dictionary that confirms the findings of this section:

Resident alien “One, not yet a citizen of this country, who has come into the country from another with the intent to abandon his former citizenship and to reside here.” [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition][Underlines added]

If you are a “national” but not a statutory “citizen”, then you are a “nonresident alien” and you DO NOT fit the description of being a “Resident alien” or an “alien” above because although you are not a statutory “U.S. citizen”, you do not reside or maintain a domicile within the federal United States or federal zone, which is the area that the term “resident” is relative to.

Finally, the Internal Revenue Code further confirms the content of this section. 26 U.S.C. §6091 confirms that statutory “citizens of the United States” described in 8 U.S.C. §1401 who reside outside the federal United States are not allowed to file their returns in a local IRS District Office or Service Center:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 61 > Subchapter A > PART VII > Sec. 6091.
Sec. 6091. - Place for filing returns or other documents

(a) General rule
When not otherwise provided for by this title, the Secretary shall by regulations prescribe the place for the filing of any return, declaration, statement, or other document, or copies thereof, required by this title or by regulations.

(b) Tax returns

In the case of returns of tax required under authority of part II of this subchapter -

(1) Persons other than corporations

(A) General rule

Except as provided in subparagraph (B), a return (other than a corporation return) shall be made to the Secretary -

(i) in the internal revenue district in which is located the legal residence or principal place of business of the person making the return, or

(ii) at a service center serving the internal revenue district referred to in clause (i), as the Secretary may by regulations designate.

(B) Exception

Returns of -

(i) persons who have no legal residence or principal place of business in any internal revenue district,

(ii) citizens of the United States whose principal place of abode for the period with respect to which the return is filed is outside the United States,

(iii) persons who claim the benefits of section 911 (relating to citizens or residents of the United States living abroad), section 931 (relating to income from sources within Guam, American Samoa, or the Northern Mariana Islands), or section 933 (relating to income from sources within Puerto Rico),

(iv) nonresident alien persons, and

(v) persons with respect to whom an assessment was made under section 6851(a) or 6852(a) (relating to termination assessments) with respect to the taxable year, shall be made at such place as the Secretary may by regulations designate.

The term “United States” above, means the federal zone, as we explained earlier in chapter 4. Consequently, if a “citizen of the United States”, who is defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401 (meaning a person born in a territory or possession of the United States or the District of Columbia) is domiciled in a state of the Union, he can’t file his tax return at a District Office, because he:

1. Does not live within any Internal Revenue District.
2. Does not live in any federal judicial district either.
3. Does not live in the federal zone or federal “United States”.

Where would he file his return then? He would file it with the International Branch of the Internal Revenue Service located in Philadelphia, Pennsylvania. That is the place where all 1040NR forms are sent by “nonresident aliens” and also where all 1040 forms that have an attached form 2555 are sent. The 1040 form with the attached 2555 form are used by “U.S. citizens” under 8 U.S.C. §1401 who are traveling overseas or who are within states of the Union and who choose to volunteer to donate to the government under the authority of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.

5.5.4 You’re NOT the “individual” mentioned at the top of the 1040 form if you are a “U.S. citizen” Domiciled in the Federal “United States”!
this “individual”? Here is the only definition, hidden deep inside the Treasury regulations in a place you would never think to look, which we only found after we bought the regulations in searchable electronic CD-ROM form and did a search of the entire 20,000 pages of regulations:

26 C.F.R. 1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

(ii) [Reserved]

The above definition is the ONLY definition of the term “individual” found ANYWHERE in either the Internal Revenue Code or the Regulations. The above definition ought to raise some BIG red flags! First of all, if you live in the [federal] United States as a “citizen of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, then you aren’t an “individual” because the definition of “individual” doesn’t include citizens of the United States! If you are an alien, that is a person who is neither a citizen nor a national of the United States, who is domiciled in the federal United States, then you are an individual. That also makes you a “resident” because the terms “alien,” “resident alien,” and “resident” are all synonymous in the Internal Revenue Code. For confirmation of this fact, examine 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) discussed in the previous section.

Therefore, the tax code can’t apply to you even if you claim to be a U.S. citizen on a 1040 income tax return! That is why they don’t ask you if you are a “U.S. citizen” on the tax return and only say at the top “U.S. Individual!” This is consistent with our findings elsewhere in this chapter. It also explains why a U.S. citizen is defined as someone who lives in the Virgin Islands, Guam, Puerto Rico, or American Samoa, as follows:

26 C.F.R. §31.3121(e)-1 State, United States, and citizen.

(b) …The term ‘citizen of the United States’ includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

You therefore can’t be an “individual” who can be the subject of Subtitle A income taxes under 26 U.S.C. §1 unless you are:

1. A statutory “U.S. citizen” temporarily OUTSIDE the “United States” (the country, which is called “abroad” in IRS publications) under 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c )(3)
2. A statutory “U.S. resident” (alien) as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) domiciled in the federal zone and temporarily outside the “United States” the country.
3. A statutory “U.S. person” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) temporarily outside the “United States” the country but domiciled in the federal zone.

That’s why they created a definition of statutory “U.S. citizen” that means you are living outside the United States* (in the Virgin Islands) so they can “pretend” that you are taxable! That way, even when you tell them you live in the “United States” by giving them an address in the 50 Union states on your tax return, they can still claim that you live in Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands because of your status as a “U.S. citizen”! This whole scheme can be confirmed by ordering a copy of your non-sanitized Individual Master File (IMF) from the IRS and looking at the transaction codes on the IMF. If you look at your IMF and you have been filing 1040 forms for a while, chances are your record reflects that you reside in the Virgin Islands, even if you really have a domicile in one of the 50 Union states outside the federal zone! That’s why the IRS made the Publication 6209, which is used for decoding the IMF file, “For Official Use Only”, which is short for “Don’t let Citizen bastards get their hands on this at all costs!” They know they are committing fraud and they don’t want you, the Citizen, to know the horrible truth and expose that fraud, because then they lose their ability to claim “plausible deniability”.

Even more interesting is the fact that form 1040NR is intended for nonresident aliens. The only type of “individual” not covered by the 1040NR is the “Alien”. Therefore, the 1040 form is intended for “Aliens”. How does it feel to be an “alien” in your own country? Leave it to greedy lawyers to dream up this kind of scam using definitions to fool you into paying taxes. The definition of Alien above excludes U.S. citizens or “nationals”, so you have to in effect commit fraud by declaring yourself to be a foreigner domiciled in the federal zone in order to be the subject of the income tax.

The next time you file a Form 1040 as the “national” that you rightfully are, consider that you are committing “fraud” by claiming to be a “U.S. Individual”. Your employer is also committing fraud on the W-2 he sends to you by claiming in Block 2 that you earn “wages”, which you will find out later in section 5.6.5 means that you are an elected or appointed employee of the federal government and who comes under the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939! No kidding!

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: If you don’t believe an “individual” can only be defined as an “alien” or “nonresident alien” as above or that the above definition is the only definition of “individual” anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code” or 26 C.F.R., then we challenge you to find a definition in either of these two titles (not IRS Publications, which we will find out later are a fraud, but the statutes, which aren’t “positive law” by the way) that defines the word “individual” as also including “U.S. citizens” or “citizens of the United States”. We searched the entire I.R.C. and 26 C.F.R. (20,000 pages) electronically and found NO other definitions! Furthermore, we challenge you to explain why the 1040 income tax form doesn’t say “U.S. Citizen or Resident” instead of “U.S. Individual” at the top of the form!

5.5.5 No Law Requires You to Keep Records

26 U.S.C. §6001 states the following:

TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
Subtitle F - Procedure and Administration
CHAPTER 61 - INFORMATION AND RETURNS
Subchapter A - Returns and Records
PART I - RECORDS, STATEMENTS, AND SPECIAL RETURNS

Sec. 6001. Notice or regulations requiring records, statements, and special returns

Every person liable for any tax imposed by this title, or for the collection thereof, shall keep such records, render such statements, make such returns, and comply with such rules and regulations as the Secretary may from time to time prescribe. Whenever in the judgment of the Secretary it is necessary, he may require any person, by notice served upon such person or by regulations, to make such returns, render such statements, or keep such records, as the Secretary deems sufficient to show whether or not such person is liable for tax under this title. The only records which an employer shall be required to keep under this section in connection with charged tips shall be charge receipts, records necessary to comply with section 6053(c), and copies of statements furnished by employees under section 6053(a).

If you look through all of the regulations pertaining to Subtitles A and C income taxes in the Internal Revenue Code, you will not find a single regulation requiring you to keep records to comply with the requirements of the code. The only thing records are needed for is to justify exemptions claimed during an examination or audit. The purpose of examinations and audits by the IRS is to exclude exemptions and thereby increase the amount of tax owed by the person being audited. However, if you don’t have any taxable income because your income does not fall in the category of corporate profits (as a corporation, because the income tax is only legal as an indirect excise tax) as identified later in section 5.6.1, then you don’t have to worry about exemptions so you don’t have to worry about records either, unless specifically notified personally by the Secretary of the Treasury or by someone who can show you a delegation of authority order authorizing him or her to act in their behalf!

If an IRS agent asks you to bring your records to an examination, you can safely tell him you were never notified personally by the Secretary of the Treasury that you were required to keep records. For examples under the Internal Revenue Code that require the keeping of records, refer to the following:

- 26 U.S.C. §4403 Record Requirements (Taxes on Wagering)
- 26 U.S.C. §5114 Records (Excise taxes on alcohol)
- 26 U.S.C. §5124 Records (Records on all distilled spirits received)
- 26 U.S.C. §5741 Records to be maintained (Records required for manufacturers of tobacco products)

Another interesting fact, is that the 1040 form constitutes a record in and of itself, which then points to the assumption of the existence of other records or evidence you have documenting the numbers on the form. If you can’t be required to maintain records, then why can you be required to file a tax return!
5.5.6 Federal courts have NO authority to enforce criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code to crimes committed outside the federal zone

26 U.S.C. §7402(f) is the only place that describes the jurisdiction of the federal district courts of the United States to enforce the Internal Revenue Code. It states:

For general jurisdiction of the district courts of the United States in civil actions involving internal revenue, see Section 1340 of Title 28 of the United States Code.

Thus it is plain that district courts were only given jurisdiction to hear “civil actions”—not criminal ones—as far as the Internal Revenue Code is concerned. Even for “civil actions,” the Code refers to the jurisdiction contained in 28 U.S.C. §1340, the United States Code of Civil Procedure. This alone proves that all trials involving alleged criminal violations of the Code by persons domiciled outside the federal zone, including those under 26 U.S.C. §7201 (tax evasion) and 7203 (willful failure to file) were and are illegal, and that federal judges never had jurisdiction to conduct them!

It is well established that in order for the U.S. government to prosecute a person for a crime, the crime must be committed on federal property subject to the territorial jurisdiction of the federal government under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the U.S. Constitution. The burden of proof belongs to the federal government to demonstrate using a preponderance of evidence that the crime was committed on federal property that was ceded to the U.S. government by the state. Proof must consist of the cession documents. You can find more information about this concept in 40 U.S.C. §3112:

To give you some examples, in United States v. Bateman, 34 F. 86 (N.D.Cal. 1888), it was determined that the United States did not have jurisdiction to prosecute for a murder committed at the Presidio because California had never ceded jurisdiction; see also United States v. Tully, 140 F. 899 (D.Mon. 1905). But later, California ceded jurisdiction for the Presidio to the United States, and it was held in United States v. Watkins, 22 F.2d. 437 (N.D.Cal. 1927), that this enabled the U.S. to maintain a murder prosecution; see also United States v. Holt, 168 F. 141 (W.D.Wash. 1909), United States v. Lewis, 253 F. 469 (S.D.Cal. 1918), and United States v. Wurtzbarger, 276 F. 753 (D.Or. 1921). Because the U.S. owned and had a state cession of jurisdiction for Fort Douglas in Utah, it was held that the U.S. had jurisdiction for a rape prosecution in Rogers v. Squier, 157 F.2d. 948 (9th Cir. 1946). But, without a cession, the U.S. has no jurisdiction; see Arizona v. Manypenny, 445 F.Supp. 1123 (D.Ariz. 1977).

It stands to reason then, that no federal tax crime can be prosecuted in a federal court which did not occur on federal property subject to the exclusive legislative jurisdiction of the United States under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17. The only exception to this rule with respect to taxes are those which come under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution dealing with foreign (overseas) commerce, since this is a specific power or subject matter delegated to the federal government in the constitution and it applies throughout the country and on nonfederal land within the 50 Union states:

The Congress shall have Power ... To regulate Commerce with foreign Nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian Tribes;

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
It is precisely the above clause of the constitution that explains, later in this chapter, most of the taxable sources of income found in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f), when we discuss the 861 Position in section 5.6.10 and following.

Federal courts rightly say that federal tax crimes don’t require implementing regulations to enforce. Here is an example:

“Federal income tax regulations governing filing of income tax returns do not require Office of Management and Budget control numbers because requirement to file tax return is mandated by statute, not by regulation.”

The reason the federal courts are completely correct in the above conclusion is because the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code found in 26 U.S.C. §6700 and 7201-7217 only apply to federal “employees” acting in their official capacity, which almost exclusively occurs on federal property under the requirements of 4 U.S.C. §§71 & 72. . Here is the main reason why this is true:

TITLE 44 > CHAPTER 15 > Sec. 1505.
Sec. 1505. - Documents to be published in Federal Register

(a) Proclamations and Executive Orders; Documents Having General Applicability and Legal Effect; Documents Required To Be Published by Congress.

There shall be published in the Federal Register -

(1) Presidential proclamations and Executive orders, except those not having general applicability and legal effect or effective only against Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof;

(2) documents or classes of documents that the President may determine from time to time have general applicability and legal effect; and

(3) documents or classes of documents that may be required so to be published by Act of Congress.

For the purposes of this chapter every document or order which prescribes a penalty has general applicability and legal effect.

When no implementing regulations are published in the Federal Register for any law that institutes a penalty that can adversely affect the Constitutional rights of a person domiciled in states of the Union and outside of federal territory, the law may not be enforced against anything but federal “employees”, “officers”, and “agents” acting in their official capacity on federal territory. The implementing regulations for Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code confirm this:

26 C.F.R. §601.702 Publication and public inspection

Except to the extent that a person has actual and timely notice of the terms of any matter referred to in subparagraph (1) of this paragraph which is required to be published in the Federal Register, such person is not required in any manner to resort to, or be adversely affected by, such matter if it is not so published or is not incorporated by reference therein pursuant to subdivision (i) of this subparagraph. Thus, for example, any such matter which imposes an obligation and which is not so published or incorporated by reference will not adversely change or affect a person’s rights.

When the Department of INjustice attempts to illegally and maliciously prosecute you for “Failure to File”, they will use your incorrectly submitted IRS Form W-4 as prima facie evidence that you are a federal “employee”, because it says “employee” in the upper left corner. When they do this, they have violated your due process rights because even though you swore under penalty of perjury that you were an “employee” on the incorrect IRS Form W-4, they still are not allowed to presume that it is true until they actually prove it, and if you are smart, you will submit an affidavit with your pleading which rescinds or revokes your signatures on any such forms whenever you send correspondence to the IRS and whenever you file any kind of motion as a criminal defendant in such an action. We also show in sections 3.5.3.14 and 3.5.4.13 and the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008 how to use the W-8 form instead of the IRS Form W-4 to stop withholding, and to use a version of the form that does not create any false presumptions about your true status as a “non-resident non-person” and a “nontaxpayer”.
Within the 50 Union states, the ONLY federal crimes which can be prosecuted in a federal court that occurred outside of the territorial jurisdiction of the federal government are the following, all of which require implementing regulations if prosecuted against persons who are not federal “employees”:

1. Federal government espionage.
3. Destruction of federal property.
4. Interference with the mail.
5. Frauds on the federal government.
6. Violations of Constitutional rights by either state or federal employees or officials.
7. Crimes involving federal insurance (such as FDIC).
8. Excise tax violations involving foreign commerce (Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution).
9. Slavery and enticement into slavery (Thirteenth Amendment).

For further details on the limits of the jurisdiction of the federal courts, refer to sections 7.4 through 7.4.10 in the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008.

5.5.7 Objections to Filing Based on Rights

The Bill of Rights is a series of amendments to the original U.S. Constitution that serve to constrain the authority of the federal government over citizens. They establish certain civil rights which may not be violated by the government. The first ten amendments were ratified as part of the original Constitution, and subsequent amendments were added after the union of the first Thirteen Colonies was formed. The First, Fourth, Fifth, and Tenth Amendments clearly eliminate any possibility that the federal government can compel or force us to file tax returns. We summarize our findings here:
Table 5-51: Constitutional constraints on filing of income tax returns

<tbody>
<tr>
<td>First</td>
<td>Congress shall make no law respecting an establishment of religion, or prohibiting the free exercise thereof; or abridging the freedom of speech, or of the press; or the right of the people peaceably to assemble, and to petition the Government for a redress of grievances.</td>
<td>Freedom of speech includes one’s right to NOT communicate with one’s government, including on a tax return.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fourth</td>
<td>The right of the people to be secure in their persons, houses, papers, and effects, against unreasonable searches and seizures, shall not be violated, and no Warrants shall issue, but upon probable cause, supported by Oath or affirmation, and particularly describing the place to be searched, and the persons or things to be seized.</td>
<td>Filing of tax returns violates our privacy and the security of our papers and effects, most notably our business records. It exposes them to undue and unwanted examination by the government. Compelled filing of tax returns creates a police state mentality in which we can get our own family members in criminal trouble for disclosing financial information about ourselves.</td>
</tr>
<tr>
<td>Fifth</td>
<td>No person shall be held to answer for a capital, or otherwise infamous crime, unless on a presentment or indictment of a Grand Jury, except in cases arising in the land or naval forces, or in the Militia, when in actual service in time of War or public danger; nor shall any person be subject for the same offence to be twice put in jeopardy of life or limb; nor shall be compelled in any criminal case to be a witness against himself, nor be deprived of life, liberty, or property, without due process of law; nor shall private property be taken for public use, without just compensation.</td>
<tr>
<td>Tenth</td>
<td>Direct taxes on citizens can be used for any social purpose and “social engineering”, to usurp the authority of the States. For instance, if a State passes a law permitting abortion and the federal government wants to outlaw abortion, then all the federal government has to do is establish a huge tax credit for people who don’t have abortions. This clearly violates the Tenth Amendment.</td>

In accordance with the U.S. Supreme Court Case of Garner v. U.S., 424 U.S. 648 (1976), income tax returns are submitted under duress and coercion and constitute the “compelled testimony of a witness”. Therefore, by the Fifth Amendment to the U.S. Constitution, tax returns are inadmissible as evidence in a court of law because they violate the right of non-self-incrimination and were therefore obtained illegally as per the supreme Court case of Weeks v. United States, 232 U.S. 383 (1914). Below is a list of some of the types of coercion applied to compel such witnesses to testify against themselves:

1. 26 U.S.C. §7201: Attempt to evade or defeat tax (up to $100,000 fine or imprisonment not more than 5 years along with attorney fees).
2. 26 U.S.C. §7203: Willful Failure to File (fine up to $25,000 or imprisonment for one year or both)

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

4. IRS Liens and levies being imposed for nonpayment of taxes.
5. Receipt of threatening mail communications from the IRS (e.g. CP-515 “Notice of Deficiency” and subsequent Notice of Lien and Levy).
6. Constant anxiety from and harassment by IRS agents (by telephone and otherwise).

Remember that the essential aspect of being a “right” is that the free exercise of rights CANNOT be penalized, taxed, or regulated in any way by the government. The above laws, however, indeed do precisely that and are therefore to be regarded as unconstitutional, illegal, null, and void and they should immediately be declared as such by all federal courts. The U.S. Constitution is and always has been the Supreme Law of the land, and it supersedes all other law. The below supreme Court case emphasizes constraints on treatment of the rights of citizens by both the government and individuals in Harman v. Forssenius, 380 U.S 528 at 540, 85 S.Ct. 1177, 1185 (1965):

The only way to overcome Fifth Amendment restrictions on the filing of tax returns that are documented above absent a waiver of rights is for the IRS to sign an “Immunity from Prosecution Letter” under 26 U.S.C. §§6002-6003. In the event an authorized agent of the U.S. Government is willing to sign such an agreement for ALL future income tax returns having to do with you, then you are encouraged to submit returns, if you owe tax of course, which is highly unlikely. If there is some other way to avoid waiving rights without fear of criminal prosecution that is not documented here, then we invite your help in showing us what that method is.

One of the most famous Fifth Amendment tax resistance proponents is William Conklin. For years, he has had a standing challenge, offering up to $100,000 to the first person who can show how a Citizen can file a tax return without waiving his Fifth Amendment rights. He wrote a fascinating and excellent book about the subject called Why No One is Required to File Tax Returns, ISBN 1-891833-91-X, $21, copyright 1996, 2000. This book is available from Davidson Press, 21520 Yorba Linda Blvd, #G440; Yorba Linda, CA 92887-3753, info@davidsonpress.com; http://davidsonpress.com. Bill’s website is at the following address:

For further information on issues relating to the filing of 1040 forms, please read section 6.9.7 entitled “IRS Form 1040: Irrational Conspiracy to Violate Rights”.

Similar arguments as those for the 1040 form above also apply to the filing of IRS Form W-4’s by citizens. We discuss this subject further in section 6.9.8 entitled “IRS Form W-4 Scandals”.

5.5.8 We Don’t Have to Sign Tax Returns Under Penalty of Perjury, Which Makes Them Worthless and Useless![1]

The premise of this section is that there is no law pursuant to the Constitution of the United States that requires an individual to make and sign under penalties of perjury a Form 1040 tax return. Unless otherwise noted, the terms defined in this section are quoted from the Sixth Edition of Black’s Law Dictionary. To readers who consider as unnecessary (or perhaps even an affront to their intelligence) listing below the definitions of some simple legal terms, the writer extends his apologies and states that by including them here he merely wishes to preclude any effort on the part of potential gainsayers who think they can refute the logical and legal premise of this work.

5.5.8.1 Definitions

"Affiant. The person who makes and subscribes an affidavit."

"Affidavit. A written or printed declaration of facts, made voluntarily, and confirmed by the oath or affirmation of the party making it, taken before a person having authority to administer such oath or affirmation. ....See also Certification; Jurat; Verification." (The word "voluntarily" has been emphasized by the author.)

"Authority. Permission. Right to exercise powers; to implement and enforce laws; to exact obedience; to command; to judge. Control over; jurisdiction. Often synonymous with power. The power delegated by a principal to his agent."

"Belief. A conviction of the truth of a proposition, existing subjectively in the mind, and induced by argument, persuasion, or proof addressed to the judgment." (Italics added.)

"Certification. The formal assertion in writing of some fact. The act of certifying or state of being certified."

"Confession. A voluntary statement made by a person charged with the commission of a crime or misdemeanor, communicated to another person, wherein he acknowledges himself to be guilty of the offense charged, and discloses the circumstances of the act or the share and participation which he had in it. See 18 U.S.C.A. § 3501." (Italics added for emphasis.)

"Confessions, admissibility of. Subsections (d) and (e) of Title 18 U.S.C.A. § 3501 read as follows: "(d) Nothing contained in this section shall bar the admission of any confession made or given voluntarily by any person to any other person without interrogation by anyone, or at any time the person who made or gave such confession was not under arrest or other detention. (e) As used in this section, 'confession' means any confession of guilt of any criminal offense or any self-incriminating statement made or given orally or in writing." (Italics added.) Subsections (d) and (e) of the U.S. Code are quoted to show that the legal definition of "confession" is not restricted or applied solely to persons "charged with the commission of a crime or misdemeanor."

"Fraud on court. A scheme to interfere with judicial machinery performing task of impartial adjudication, as by preventing opposing party from fairly presenting his case or defense. ....It consists of conduct so egregious that it undermines the integrity of the judicial process."

"Intimidation. Unlawful coercion; extortion; dares; putting in fear. To take, or attempt to take, by putting in fear of bodily harm. Such fear must arise from the willful conduct of the accused, rather than from some mere temperamental timidity of the victim; however, the fear of the victim need not be so great as to result in terror, panic, or hysteria."

"Involuntary confession. Confession is 'involuntary' if it is not the product of an essentially free and unrestrained choice of its maker or where maker's will is overborne at the time of the confession. [Citation omitted.] Term refers to confessions that are extracted by any threats of violence, or obtained by direct or implied promises, or by exertion of improper influence. [Citation omitted.]"

"Jurat. Certificate of officer or person before whom writing was sworn to. In common use term is employed to designate certificate of competent administering officer that writing was sworn to by person who signed it. The clause written at the foot of an affidavit, stating when, where, and before whom such affidavit was sworn."

"Knowledge. Acquaintance with fact or truth."

"Perjury. In criminal law, the willful assertion as to a matter of fact, opinion, belief, or knowledge, made by a witness in a judicial proceeding as part of his evidence, either upon oath or in any form allowed by law to be substituted for an oath, whether such evidence is given in open court, or in an affidavit, or otherwise, such assertion being material to the issue or point of inquiry and known to such witness to be false." (Italics added.)

"Prima facie evidence. Evidence good and sufficient on its face. Such evidence as, in the judgment of the law, is sufficient to establish a given fact, or the group or chain of facts constituting the party's claim of defense, and which if not rebutted or contradicted, will remain sufficient. Evidence which, if unexplained or uncontradicted, is sufficient to sustain a judgment in favor of the issue which it supports, but which may be contradicted by other evidence."

"Proceeding......An act which is done by the authority or direction of the court, agency, or tribunal, express or implied; an act necessary to be done in order to obtain a given end; a prescribed mode of action for carrying into effect a legal right."

"Subpoena. A subpoena is a command to appear at a certain time and place to give testimony upon a certain matter. A subpoena duces tecum requires production of books, papers and other things."

"Summons. Instrument used to commence a civil action or special proceeding and is the means of acquiring jurisdiction over a party. [Cite omitted.] Writ or process directed to the sheriff or other proper officer, requiring him to notify the person named that an action has been commenced against him in the court from where the process issues, and that he is required to appear, on a day named and answer the complaint in such action."
The jurat of the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) Form 1040 reads in relevant part:

"Under penalties of perjury, I declare that I have examined this return and accompanying schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, they are true, correct and complete." (Italics added.)

The U.S. Supreme Court in Garner v. United States, 424 U.S. 648 (1976) stated that:

"The information revealed in the preparation and filing of an income tax return is, for purposes of Fifth Amendment analysis, the testimony of a 'witness,' as that term is used herein."

Rule 603 of the Federal Rules of Evidence (Fed.R.Evid.) states:

"Before testifying, every witness shall be required to declare that he will testify truthfully, by oath or affirmation administered in a form calculated to awaken his conscience and impress his mind with his duty to do so." (Italics added.)

The jurat of Form 1040 establishes the premise here defended that the tax return to which the jurat refers is by law (26 U.S.C. §7206) intended to be voluntarily completed and signed under the penalties of perjury. This is a simple observation derived from the text of the jurat and the legal terms herein defined. Clearly, the self-assessment of income taxes by making a Form 1040 return under penalties of perjury is voluntary because the act of signing any affidavit or document that subjects its affiant to the penalties of perjury must by law be willful. Obviously, a coerced statement though by signed jurat purports it was made under penalties of perjury is nevertheless a fraudulent statement. It is not the rule of law or the payment of taxes that is penalized but a rule of intellectual tyranny invented by corrupt bureaucrats and judges who under color of law (such as 26 U.S.C. §§ 6702, 7203) penalize individuals when they fail or refuse--without being subpoenaed--to testify on Form 1040 and sign its decreed jurat that falsely purports that the form was made and signed willfully (the word means voluntarily) under penalties of perjury.

Thus, it cannot be overly emphasized that the lawful signing of the Form 1040 jurat is premised upon the "knowledge and belief" of the individual who willfully signs it and thereby certifies that he or she understands and agrees with the governmentally prescribed information on the tax return to which the jurat refers. How many people can honestly state that they have read even one page of the Internal Revenue Code--incidentally, they have read even one page of the Internal Revenue Code--determined by a self-serving tax office, that subjects them to the penalties of perjury? How many people can honestly state that they understand the information revealed in the preparation and filing of an income tax return? "Knowledge" is the "knowledge" of the individual who signs the jurat.

Moreover, the common law requires that an oath be meaningful to the witness who takes the oath and this principle underpins Rule 603 of the Fed.R.Evid. See U.S. v. Ward 973 F.2d. 730 (9th Cir. 1992). This principle is applicable to jurats as well, i.e., a jurat must be crafted so as to be meaningful to its potential affiant. Thus, an oath or jurat based upon a religious belief in an Almighty God as a test of an atheist’s honesty makes no sense at all. Likewise, it is absurd and a corruption of law for the IRS and the courts to force individuals to declare "under penalties of perjury" that they owe taxes which they do not know and believe they owe. It must be obvious to all but the most obtuse or predisposed minds that a Form 1040 jurat that was signed under coercion but which purports it was signed under penalties of perjury is a fraudulent document. A statement or Form 1040 jurat signed because of coercion by a federal agency (i.e., the IRS) is no more valid than a confession that was beaten out of a person by the local police. Confessions and affidavits are defined as voluntary documents, and therefore no person acting in his or her own natural capacity may be logically or legally required to make or sign them, by whatever name they are called. The New York Times reported (July 5, 1995) that IRS Commissioner Margaret Milner Richardson said that “in IRS usage, the term ‘voluntary compliance’ referred to filling out tax forms, not to paying taxes.” Having said that and if it reflects what Commissioner Richardson believes, why does she penalize individuals or have them prosecuted as criminals for not filling out tax forms? After explaining to an IRS agent why my knowledge and belief preclude me from conscientiously and legally signing the jurat of a 1988 Form 1040, the agent replied (a promise?) that if I would sign the jurat anyway, the IRS would not prosecute me for perjury. Now that’s one for Ripley’s Believe it or Not!

It is a rule of law that any doubt about the truth of a person’s testimony given under oath or by affidavit is a question of fact for a jury to decide. The Supreme Court in Cheek v. United States, 498 U.S. 192 (1991), stated:

“Knowledge and belief are characteristics questions for the factfinder, in this case the jury.” (See also United States v. Burton, 737 F.2d. 439 (5th Cir. 1984).

Thus, any question about whether testimony by affidavit is the truth is for a jury to decide unless the affiant waives this right. Where testimony of a relevant affidavit is not questioned, it must be accepted in evidence as factually true.

There are only two lawful ways for a person to testify before governmental bodies or agencies such as grand juries, the Internal Revenue Service, courts of law, etc. One way is by command, whether it be by subpoena, subpoena duces tecum or by direct command (order) of a court after the court has gained jurisdiction over a party through the operation of a summons. In all such cases the command must name or be directed to the specific person whose testimony is sought. Subpoenas are authoritative, legal commands to persons requiring them to testify as witnesses and subpoenas duces tecum are legal commands to persons requiring them to produce "books, papers and other things." The only other lawful way to testify or to produce "books, papers and other things" is to do so voluntarily.

Justice Hugo Black declared in U.S. v. Kahriger, 345 U.S. 22 (1953) that, "The United States has a system of taxation by confession." (Italics added). Of course compelled confessions are not legal under the Constitution which is why Congress mandated the inclusion of the jurat on Form 1040, thus informing the jurat’s potential affiant that unless he/she knows and believes the governmentally defined and preordained answers to the form’s prescribed questions are correct, complete and true, then the individual acting in his/her personal capacity may not be required to sign the jurat under any statute or regulation. Justice Black did not state the nature of the confession by which the self-assessment of income taxes is made but any legal confession must be "voluntary," Bram v. United States, 168 U.S. 532 (1897), and "the product of a rational intellect and a free will," Townsend v. Sain, 372 U.S. 293 (1963).

Moreover, the Supreme Court in Flora v. United States, 362 U.S. 145 (1960), admitted the nature of the tax return confession when it ruled that:

“Our tax system is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not upon distraint.” (Italics added).

These are not idle words as the Court ruled in United States v. Mason, 412 U.S. 391 (1973), that under the doctrine of stare decisis

"the people have a right to rely upon the decisions of this Court and not be needlessly penalized for such reliance."

Clearly, the federal government’s coercing of individuals--through the use of fear, intimidation, threats of prison sentences and heavy penalties—to get them to complete and sign tax forms that falsely purport they were made and signed under penalties of perjury is as unconstitutional if not quite as brutal as policemen beating signed, involuntary confessions out of people. How valid or credible is testimony when given involuntarily to satisfy public officials and when based upon the tyranny of mind and/or body? Remembering that the Supreme Court in Garner (supra) stated that:

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOOU) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
"The information revealed in the preparation and filing of an income tax return is, for purposes of Fifth Amendment analysis, the testimony of a witness."

It is obvious that absent an individual's having been served a subpoena to testify on a Form 1040 or served a subpoena duces tecum to produce a Form 1040 tax return ordered by a court to file one, the individual is under no legal compulsion or duty to do so. See also Wigmore on Evidence, McNaughton. rev., at 378, 379.

5.5.8.3 Conclusion

The making and signing under penalties of perjury of a Form 1040 return is dependent upon the "knowledge and belief" of its potential affiant and inasmuch as individuals under the First Amendment enjoy the rights to freedom of conscience, knowledge and belief and to the expression thereof, it is clear that the filing of a completed and legally validated Form 1040 tax return rests upon its voluntary subscription in "compliance with the tax code," of which § 7206 of the Internal Revenue Code is a part. The definition of perjury supports the proposition that the crime of perjury is based upon the willful assertion or affirmation--known to a witness to be false--of a fact, belief, or knowledge, made by the witness in a judicial proceeding such as an open court or by affidavit for potential presentation to courts as admissible evidence. The IRS coerces individuals by fear, intimidation, threats of penalties and criminal prosecution (and sometimes by implied promises not to prosecute them) to complete and sign prescribed, Form 1040 "taxation by confession" documents that euphemistically are called "self-assessed tax returns" under the ruse that they are voluntarily completed and signed and thereby subject their affiants to the penalties of perjury. This method of assessing and collecting taxes is a monumental fraud perpetrated upon the people under the guise of law; it is unconstitutional because it is fraudulent, if for no other reason. This deceptive practice is not the practice of law but of intellectual tyranny and witness tampering. When the government forces millions of individuals to file prescribed, Form 1040 testimony under a prescribed jurat that falsely purports that it was signed under penalties of perjury and such testimony is used against the individuals in courts of law that accept these coerced returns as certified evidence of what the individuals as witnesses "know and believe" (about a complex tax code that most of them have never read and about which even judges differ), can any reasonable person doubt the absurdity, the duplicity, the invalidity and the unconstitutionality of the Form 1040 involuntary confession of taxation?

5.5.9 1040 and Especially 1040NR Tax Forms Violate the Privacy Act and Therefore Need Not Be Submitted

The Privacy Act of 1974 and subsequent amendments places stringent requirements on all paper forms that the federal government produces and distributes to the public. Among the laws regarding privacy is Public Law 96-511, which states the following relative to forms provided to the public by the federal government:

\text{[It] "requires all information requests of the public to display a control number, an expiration date, and indicate why the information is needed, how it will be used, and whether it is a voluntary or mandatory request. Requests which do not reflect a current OMB control number or fail to state why not, are "bootleg" requests and may be ignored by the public.

If you examine the IRS Forms 1040 and 1040NR, they do NOT meet these criteria. Below is a summary of the problems with these forms as they relate to the Privacy Act of 1974:

5.5.9.1 IRS Form 1040

The Privacy Act statement on the 1040 Tax form is as follows:

"For Disclosure, Privacy Act, and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice, see page 56."

Then on page 56 of the year 2000 1040 booklet, it says:

"The IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998, the Privacy Act of 1974, and Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 require that when we ask you for information we must first tell you our legal right to ask for the information, why we are asking for it, and how it will be used. We must also tell you what could happen if we do not receive it and whether your responsibility is voluntary, required to obtain a benefit, or mandatory under the law."

This notice applies to all papers you file with us, including this tax return. It also applies to any questions we need to ask you so we can complete, correct, or prove your return; figure your tax; and collect tax, interest, or penalties.

Our legal right to ask for information is Internal Revenue Code sections 6001, 6011, and 6012(a) and their regulations. They say that you must file a return or statement with us for any tax you are liable for. Your response is mandatory under these sections [but only if you owe tax]. Code section 6109 requires that you provide your social security number or individual identification number on what you file. This is so we know who you are, and can process your return and other papers. You must fill in all parts of the tax form that apply to you. But you do not have to check the boxes for the Presidential Election Campaign Fund or for authorizing the IRS to discuss your return with the paid preparer shown. You also do not have to provide your daytime phone number.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of the Internal Revenue law.

We ask for tax return information to carry out the tax laws of the United States. We need it to figure out and collect the right amount of tax.

If you do not file a return, do not provide the information we ask for, or provide fraudulent information, you may be charged penalties and be subject to criminal prosecution. We may also have to disallow the exemptions, exclusions, credits, deductions, or adjustments shown on the tax return. This could make the tax higher or delay any refund. Interest may be charged.

Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as stated in Code section 6103. However, Code section 6103 allows or requires the Internal Revenue Service to disclose or give the information shown on your tax return to others as described in the Code. For example, we may disclose your tax information to the Department of Justice, to enforce the tax laws, both civil and criminal, and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, U.S. commonwealths or possessions, and certain foreign governments to carry out their tax laws. We may disclose your tax information to the Department of Treasury and contractors for tax administration purposes; and to other persons as necessary to obtain information which we cannot get in any other way in order to determine the amount of or to collect the tax you owe. We may disclose your tax information to the Comptroller General of the United States to permit the Comptroller General to review the Internal Revenue Service. We may also disclose your tax information to Committees of Congress; Federal, state, and local child support agencies; and to other Federal agencies for the purposes of determining entitlement for benefits or the eligibility for and the repayment of loans.

Please keep this notice with your records. It may help you if we ask for other information. If you have questions about the rules for filing and giving information, please call or visit any Internal Revenue Service office."

As we point out in section 5.6.1, if you examine the entire Internal Revenue Code, you will not find a single statute making anyone liable to pay a tax under Subtitle A, Income taxes. So why didn’t the IRS in the Privacy Act notice above just come out and say you don’t have to file the return because there is not statute making you liable? Instead, they say you must file the form for any tax “you are liable for”, which is NONE! That means the form is voluntary and not mandatory, but they couldn’t say that, because then no one would ever pay their taxes. This is part of their crafty deception that perpetuates fraud on a massive scale against the American public.

The 1040 form itself that comes inside the booklet that contains the above statement does not have a valid expiration date. The IRS also doesn’t state on this form:

1. What the definition of “person” is. Because the income tax, according to the Supreme Court and the Congressional Research Service, is an indirect excise tax, then only those entities in receipt of U.S. government privileges are liable for the tax. In this case, these “persons” are Corporation or Partnership registered in the District of Columbia or “public officers” of the United States Government.
2. That human beings who do not meet the above definition of “person” need not fill out the tax form! The government is so aware of this that they deleted the definition of person originally pointed to in 4 U.S.C. Sec. 110(a). This section of the code, even to this day, points to a nonexistent 26 U.S.C. §3797, which formerly defined the term “person”!
3. That human beings have a Fifth Amendment right to not provide any of the information requested and cannot be penalized for doing so in any way. One cannot be penalized, fined, or taxed for exercising rights guaranteed by the U.S. constitution.
4. That you do not have to provide an SSN if you are not liable for tax. Therefore, if you are applying for a refund of all amounts paid, you need not provide an SSN and can remove it from all the W-2’s and 1099 forms you get so as not to incriminate yourself.

5.5.9.2 IRS Form 1040NR

On page 18 of the year 2000 1040NR booklet, it says the following:

Disclosure and Paperwork Reduction Act Notice

The IRS Restructuring and Reform Act of 1998 requires that we tell you the conditions under which return information may be disclosed to any party outside the Internal Revenue Service. We ask for the information on this form to carry out the Internal Revenue laws of the United States. You are required to give us the information.

We need the information to ensure that you are complying with these laws and to allow us to figure and collect the right amount of tax.

This notice applies to all papers you file with us, including this tax return. It also applies to any questions we need to ask you so we can complete, correct, or process your return; figure your tax; and collect tax, interest, or penalties.

You are not required to provide the information requested on a form that is subject to the Paperwork Reduction Act unless the form displays a valid OMB control number. Books or records relating to a form or its instructions must be retained as long as their contents may become material in the administration of any Internal Revenue law.

Generally, tax returns and return information are confidential, as required by section 6103. However, section 6103 allows or requires the Internal Revenue Service to disclose or give the information you write on your tax return to others as described in the Code. For example, we may disclose your tax information to the Department of Justice, to enforce the tax laws, both civil and criminal, and to cities, states, the District of Columbia, U.S. commonwealths or possessions, and certain foreign governments to carry out their tax laws. We may disclose your tax information to the Department of Treasury and contractors for tax administration purposes; and to other persons as necessary to obtain information that we cannot get in any other way in order to determine the amount of or to collect the tax you owe. We may disclose your tax information to the Comptroller General of the United States to permit the Comptroller General to review the Internal Revenue Service. We may also disclose your tax information to Committees of Congress; Federal; state, and local child support agencies; and to other Federal agencies for purposes of determining entitlement for benefits or the eligibility for an the repayment of loans.

Keep this notice with your records. It may help you if we ask you for other information. If you have any questions about the rules for filing and giving information, call or visit any Internal Revenue Service office.

It’s very obvious that the privacy notice on this booklet is far less complete than the 1040 form. Based on the above and the content of the 1040NR form itself, we conclude that:

1. 1040NR form:
   1.1. Does NOT have any kind of privacy act notice.
   1.2. Does NOT have an expiration date.
   1.3. Does NOT state whether the form is voluntary or mandatory.

2. Booklet:
   2.1. Does not even mention the Privacy Act of 1974. At least the 1040 booklet mentioned this act.

Clearly, this form violates the Privacy Act of 1974 and is “bogus” and may be ignored by the public because under the circumstances, the federal government has absolutely no jurisdiction. According to Public Law 96-511, this form may be disregarded. We have to ask ourselves based on these conclusions:

The answer is that if they told the truth, the form would be indicated as voluntary and not mandatory for persons domiciled in the 50 Union states of the United States of America. If they did that, NO ONE would fill it out and their empire and house of cards would crumble! So instead, they blatantly violated the Privacy Act of 1974 and Public Law 96-511 and counted on the fact that most people filling out the form wouldn’t notice the violation. Why? Because most of the people who fill out this form are foreigners from other countries who don’t know our taxing statutes! Pretty sneaky, huh? That’s how the IRS operates and it’s EVIL.

Based on analysis of the code sections cited by the IRS, here is a summary of our conclusions:

1. If you aren’t liable to pay income tax, like most people, then:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1.1. You don’t have to submit a tax return.
1.2. You aren’t required to provide your SSN on your return. The only persons required to provide SSN’s with their return are employers who are withholding, and not individuals, as indicated in 26 U.S.C. section 6011.
1.3. You aren’t required to keep records.
1.4. You aren’t required to use the forms prescribed by the IRS.

2. The 1040NR tax form totally violates the Privacy Act of 1974 and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980 and is a bogus form that Public Law 96-511 says you can disregard and not file. For instance, the 1040NR form doesn’t have a Privacy Act notice, doesn’t have an expiration date, and the booklet doesn’t even mention the Privacy Act.

3. The 1040 tax form violates Public Law 96-511 and is bogus and that law says we can disregard the form and not use it. For instance, it does not have a valid expiration date, which can be no more than three years from the date of publication.

4. If you want examples of U.S. Government forms that DO meet all the requirements of the Privacy Act of 1974 and the Paperwork Reduction Act of 1980, then you are encouraged to visit the Income Tax Freedom Forms and Instructions area of our website at http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/FormsInstr.htm and click on “View Evidence” in the upper left corner of the screen and go down to the bottom of the left scroll area under sections 13 and 14.

In closing, what you need to understand is that you must be liable for tax in order for the requirement to file the return to be mandatory. However, the IRS Privacy Act Notice for form 1040 above does not say this. It tries to create an impression that everyone is liable with convoluted illogic, but doesn’t specifically say every American is liable because that would be a lie. It also doesn’t say what the definition of “person” is and this definition is pivotal to understanding whether you are a “person” who is liable. They want you to be fearful and confused about whether you are a person liable so they can extort money out of you. However, as we said before, “persons”, in this case, are those entities and individuals who in receipt of U.S. government privileges because the income tax is an indirect excise tax. Such persons include ONLY public officers of the U.S. government, U.S. registered corporations and partnerships, DISC (Domestic International Sales Corporations), and FSC (Foreign Sales Corporations). Even the Congressional Research Service, in its Report 97-59A (which Congressmen frequently quote and distribute to constituents in answer to their tax questions and concerns), admits that the income tax is an indirect excise tax, which means that it is a tax on government granted privileges against businesses and corporations and not individuals. This report appears on our website at:

Because of what we learned in this section, you now have some very powerful arguments you can make when you file your “statement” every year to satisfy the requirements of 26 U.S.C. 6011(a), which we recommend. We know that you aren’t a person who is liable, but we also know that the IRS is incompetent and needs to be reminded regularly of our nonliability so they don’t, in their ignorance, mount an assault on our person and property in their mistaken belief that we are liable. After you get out of the tax system and stop paying income taxes by following the recommendations in chapter 3 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, we recommend filing an annual statement in order to stay out of trouble. That statement should mention that the form (1040 or 1040NR) that the IRS may mistakenly allege you are required to file is “bogus” in accordance with Public Law 96-511 and that you are therefore allowed to disregard it and submit a statement (indicated in 26 U.S.C. §6011(a)) attesting to that fact and that you are a person who is not liable for the income tax and documenting your good faith reasons for your belief, which probably will come out of this chapter of the book.

5.5.10 If You Don’t File, the IRS Can’t File a Substitute Return For You Under 26 U.S.C. §6020 (b)

26 U.S.C. §6020 says the following about returns prepared by the Secretary of the Treasury:

(a) Preparation of return by Secretary

If any person shall fail to make a return required by this title or by regulations prescribed thereunder, but shall consent to disclose all information necessary for the preparation thereof, then, and in that case, the Secretary may prepare such return, which, being-signed by such person, may be received by the Secretary as the return of such person.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

So you can see that once again, the IRS and the Secretary of the Treasury HAVE to rely on the tax payer’s self-assessment in order to establish a tax liability. Agents do not have delegated authority to prepare a tax form on behalf of an American without the signature of the person. This is clearly shown on their Pocket Commission (see Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section [1.16.4] 3.1 through [1.16.4] 3.2). Their pocket commission must indicate that they have Enforcement commission (the last letter of the serial number of the pocket commission must be “E”) in order to complete a 23C Assessment form, for instance, and none of the revenue officers associated with Subtitles A and C have such commissions. Revenue officer must also have a Delegation Order showing their authority specifically to sign the IRS Form 23C and/or the 1040. No revenue officers who administer Subtitles A and C have such delegation orders and are acting outside their lawful authority to sign such forms. You should demand a copy of their Delegation Order and their Pocket Commission if any agent tries to exceed their authority by signing a return for you or a 23C Assessment form.

A “Substitute for Return (SFR)” is a tax return prepared under the authority of law by the Internal Revenue Service on behalf of an Americans who refuse to file returns and which creates a tax liability. Section 5.1.11.6.8 of the Internal Revenue Manual describes the authority of the Internal Revenue Service to execute Substitute for Returns. Below is the content of that section:

IRC 6020(b) Authority

1. The following returns may be prepared, signed and assessed under the authority of IRC 6020(b):
   A. Form 940, Employer’s Annual Federal Unemployment Tax Return
   B. Form 941, Employer’s Quarterly Federal Tax Return
   C. Form 943, Employer’s Annual Tax Return for Agricultural Employees
   D. Form 720, Quarterly Federal Excise Tax Return
   E. Form 2290, Heavy Vehicle Use Tax Return
   F. Form CT-1, Employer’s Annual Railroad Retirement Tax Return
   G. Form 1065, U.S. Return of Partnership Income.

2. Pursuant to IRM 1.2.2.97, Delegations of Authority, Order Number 182 (rev. 7), dated 5/5/1997, revenue officers GS-09 and above, and Collection Support Function managers GS-09 and above, have the authority to prepare and execute returns under IRC 6020(b).

From the above, we can see that forms 1040, 1040A, 1040EZ, 1040NR, 1041, and 1120 do NOT appear, meaning that the Internal Revenue Service has no lawful delegated authority to execute SFR’s against Americans under 26 U.S.C. §6020 of the Internal Revenue Code for personal income taxes found in Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. This means that if you don’t complete and sign and submit an income tax form yourself and thereby assess yourself with a tax liability, no one in the government can do it without your consent or permission. Likewise, they can’t AMEND an assessment that you do on yourself either. What they will do is PROPOSE an amendment and give you a time limit to respond, and then assume you agree if you fail to respond, but if you indicate on the original return that they may not amend it, then they are screwed and can’t do anything except assume the liability you indicate, which hopefully will be zero! This very situation explains why even the government says our income tax system is based on “voluntary compliance”.

The We the People Truth in Taxation Hearing held on 27-28 February 2002 featured an John Turner, Ex IRS Agent, who was a former collection officer for ten years, agreeing precisely with the above conclusions by answering a series of questions under oath related to his training as a revenue officer. He showed his actual IRS 6020(b) Training Course Materials as a revenue officer, which clearly showed that he did not have the authority to execute substitute for returns for IRS Forms 1040, 1040EZ, 1040A, 1040NR, 1041, or 1120. You can view the series of questions he answered and the evidence consisting of his revenue officer training materials on our website at:

http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/Forms/Discovery/Deposition/Section_13.htm

In addition to the above significant conclusions, most revenue officers also have Delegation Orders that define which forms they are authorized to sign by law. The IRS simply does not issue delegation orders authorizing any revenue officer to sign or prepare SFRs for taxes associated with forms 1040, 1040A, 1040EZ, 1040NR, 1041, and 1120. When the IRS does prepare SFR’s for an individual, they typically do not sign the form. It is well-established in the federal courts that a tax return that is not signed is not a valid tax return and does not satisfy the requirement to file a return.

Assessment authority of revenue officers to prepare SFRs are described in 26 U.S.C. §6201 and the regulation which implements this section says the following. Note that the regulation is an “interpretive” and not a “legislative” regulation, which means that it can’t be applied to the income tax “imposed” by section 1 of the Internal Revenue Code. If you want to know about the different types of regulations, you can review section 3.15.2 earlier again:
The district director is authorized and required to make all inquiries necessary to the determination and assessment of all taxes imposed by the Internal Revenue Code of 1954 or any prior internal revenue law. The district director is further authorized and required, and the director of the regional service center is authorized, to make the determinations and the assessments of such taxes. However, certain inquiries and determinations are, by direction of the Commissioner, made by other officials, such as assistant regional commissioners. The term “taxes” includes interest, additional amounts, additions to the taxes, and assessable penalties. The authority of the district director and the director of the regional service center to make assessments includes the following:

(1) TAXES SHOWN ON RETURN. The district director or the director of the regional service center shall assess all taxes determined by the taxpayer or by the district director or the director of the regional service center and disclosed on a return or list.

(2) UNPAID TAXES PAYABLE BY STAMP.

(i) If without the use of the proper stamp:

(b) Any transaction or act upon which a tax is required to be paid by means of a stamp occurs; The district director, upon such information as he can obtain, must estimate the amount of the tax which has not been paid and the district director or the director of the regional service center must make assessment therefor upon the person the district director determines to be liable for the tax. However, the district director or the director of the regional service center may not assess any tax which is payable by stamp unless the taxpayer fails to pay such tax at the time and in the manner provided by law or regulations.

(ii) If a taxpayer gives a check or money order as a payment for stamps but the check or money order is not paid upon presentment, then the district director or the director of the regional service center shall assess the amount of the check or money order against the taxpayer as if it were a tax due at the time the check or money order was received by the district director.

As we covered earlier in section 5.4.15, the IRS has no legal authority to assess you with an income tax “liability”. The reason is because the only form they can use to do so is the 1040, 1040NR, and/or 2555 under the authority of 26 U.S.C. §6020(b) , and this section along with its implementing regulations found in 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1(a)(1) clearly shows that the only thing the district director can do is make assessments of taxes collected by stamp but NOT for personal income taxes coming under Subtitles A and C. Notice that this regulation does NOT give the revenue officer authority to estimate tax nor sign a return or list on behalf of a person, or it would have said so. Subtitles A and C personal income taxes must instead appear on a tax return, and the 1040, 2555, or 1040NR are the only things that qualify as legitimate returns upon which to base an assessment of Subtitle A and C personal income taxes. 26 C.F.R. §301.6201-1(a)(1) says the taxes assessed by the district director MUST be “disclosed on a return or list”. Even the title says that: “TAXES SHOWN ON RETURN”. If the agent has no Delegation Order or delegated authority to prepare such a return, then he is acting outside his lawful delegated authority and can be prosecuted for violation of 26 U.S.C. §7214! The Government Accountability Office (GAO) published a surprising audit report, report number GAO/GGD-00-60R on the IRS Substitute for Return program. This report confirms that Substitute For Returns are not really returns! The report says, and I quote:

You know what that means, folks? If the IRS doesn’t prepare an actual return as required above in order to create a valid self-assessment, then they pull it out of their ass and then falsify their IDRS computer system IMF records by putting the system in manual override mode and creating a bogus backdated and fraudulent assessment so the assessment will occur before the expired Assessment Statute Expiration Date (ASED). You can confirm this if you FOIA your complete unsanitized master file for the years in question. It’s financial terrorism and extortion, folks and these criminals should be locked up in jail and have the key thrown away for doing it! Our politicians look the other way because they want your money so bad that they condone extortion to get it. 5.6 Why We Aren’t Liable to Pay Income Tax

"GOVERNMENT ANNOUNCEMENT (Reuters, New York): The government announced today that it is changing its emblem to a condom because it more clearly reflects the government’s political stance. A condom stands up to inflation, halts production, destroys the next generation, protects a bunch of pricks, and gives you a sense of security while it’s actually screwing you."

[Anonymous]

"It could probably be shown by facts and figures that the only distinctly native American criminal class is Congress."

[Mark Twain]

"There is no art which one government sooner learns of another, than that of draining money from the pockets of the people."

This section will show clearly why we aren’t liable to pay income taxes using only the I.R. codes themselves and not the IRS Publications.

5.6.1 There’s No Statute Making Anyone Other than Withholding Agents Liable to Pay Subtitle A Income Taxes!

26 U.S.C. §1461 makes the PAYER liable to deduct and withhold payment to another "person" but a nonresident cannot be a "person" within the meaning of this civil provision because all civil law attaches to one’s choice of domicile:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 3 > Subchapter B > § 1461
§ 1461. Liability for withheld tax

Every person required to deduct and withhold any tax under this chapter is hereby made liable for such tax and is hereby indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any payments made in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

The word “liable” or “liability” is the only term that establishes a legal “duty” to pay a tax. The first and only positive law federal taxing statute that has ever imposed such a legal “duty” was section 29 of the Revenue Act of 1894, which said in pertinent part:

“Sec. 29. That it shall be the duty of all persons of lawful age having an income of more than three thousand five hundred dollars for the taxable year, computed on the basis herein prescribed, to make and render a list or return, on or before the day provided by law, in such form and manner as may be directed by the Commissioner of Internal Revenue with the approval of the Secretary of the Treasury, to the collector or a deputy collector of the district in which they reside, of the amount of their income, gains, and profits, as aforesaid:…”

Notice the phrase “it shall be the duty of all persons of lawful age”. You can read this law direct from the Statutes at Large on our website at:

http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/HistoricalActs/IncomeTax1894final.pdf

The above positive law was declared unconstitutional by the U.S. Supreme Court in the case of Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601 (1895) because it attempted to institute a direct tax within states of the Union in stark violation of Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the Constitution. That case caught the Congress red-handed trying to violate the Constitution and slapped them on the wrist for putting their hands in the cookie jar. Since that time, the Congress has never since even attempted to institute any positive law federal taxing statute that included a “legal duty” or “liability” for natural persons (people) to pay a direct tax in states of the Union. The closest they have ever come was to create a “code” that “looks” like it is a law and “looks” like it creates a liability, but in fact does not because it cannot without violating the Constitution.

If you search the current edition of the Internal Revenue Code you will find that there is currently no section within the entire Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A and C, which makes most natural persons “liable” or establishes a legal “duty” for the payment of the taxes imposed under section 1! That section “imposes” a tax but never makes anyone liable. The only liability statute we could find pertaining to I.R.C., Subtitle A was 26 U.S.C. § 1461, but this pertains to withholding agents, and not to the average American. Why? Because Subtitle A income taxes on all persons, natural or corporate, are voluntary and always have been since long before the Pollock case. The IRS Form 1040 confirms this. Look at the line that says what you owe the government. Note that it says “Amount you Owe” and not “amount you are liable for”.

Liability is a crucial component of nearly everything that relates to income tax enforcement and every other area of law. Before any enforcement action may be undertaken, a legal “liability” must first be demonstrated by the moving party, which means that the government must first produce a valid assessment executed under the authority of a positive law, and we already said earlier in section 5.4.15 that IRS does not have the authority to do an assessment for Subtitle A income taxes because only you as the sovereign and the “volunteer” can do that on yourself. Here are a few legal aspects of enforcement that have “liability” as a prerequisite:

1. 26 U.S.C. § 7701(a)(14) entitled “Definitions” prescribes that a “taxpayer” is anyone who is “subject to” any internal revenue tax. “Subject to” means “liable for”. Since no one who does not work as a “public officers” of the United States government can be made “liable” for taxes under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, then no private individual domiciled in a state of the Union who is not a “public officer” of the United States government can be a “taxpayer” unless they consensually volunteer to be. Being deceived into volunteering by using a repealed or obfuscated “code” or an abuse of legal process as a propaganda vehicle does not qualify as lawful informed consent, but instead amounts to duress.

2. 26 U.S.C. § 6001 entitled “Records” only requires persons who are “liable” to keep records in order to properly comply with the provisions of the internal revenue code.

3. 26 U.S.C. § 7601 entitled “Canvass of districts for taxable persons and objects” authorizes agents to canvass the “district” for persons “liable” for the tax. Without a liability demonstrated beforehand, they can’t go looking for either you or your assets.

4. 26 U.S.C. § 7602 entitled “Examination of books and witnesses” authorizes summons only for the purpose of “determining the liability of any person for any internal revenue tax”. Without a demonstrated liability before the summons, they can’t hold the summons!

5. 26 U.S.C. § 6331(a) entitled “Levy and distraint” authorizes levies only upon persons who are “liable”. Without a demonstrated liability, no levies may be made.

6. 26 U.S.C. § 6700 entitled “Abusive tax shelters” makes it a crime to offer abusive tax shelters if these shelters are offered to “taxpayers” with an existing tax liability that they want to reduce by purchasing an investment that will give them a write-off. The government can’t prove you are offering “abusive tax shelters” if they can’t prove that the person you were offering them to was “liable” for the tax, and therefore a “taxpayer”. Remember, a tax shelter is defined as follows:

tax shelter n (1952): a strategy, investment, or tax code provision that reduces one’s tax liability.
```

Anything that is “voluntary” simply can’t be enforced, collected, or assessed. Not only this, but penalties for fraud or inaccurate returns cannot be instituted without an existing “liability”, as revealed in 26 U.S.C. § 6662(a) and 26 U.S.C. §6663(a).

Sec. 6662. - Imposition of accuracy-related penalty

(a) Imposition of penalty

If this section applies to any portion of an underpayment of tax required to be shown on a return, there shall be added to the tax an amount equal to 20 percent of the portion of the underpayment to which this section applies.
If you aren’t legally “liable” for a tax to begin with and only file zero return or a one cent return, then you can’t be penalized for doing so! That is why a natural person cannot be assessed by the IRS, cannot be penalized for nonpayment, and cannot legally have his property forcibly removed from him for nonpayment. Furthermore, subtitles A and C are the only “taxes” (really they are technically “donations”, but the government calls them “taxes”) in the I.R.C. which don’t make the subjects “liable”. All other types of taxes in the Internal Revenue Code specifically do the following in the Internal Revenue Code:

1. Make the individual specifically “liable” for the payment of taxes and state “shall be paid”. Examples:

   1.1. 26 U.S.C. §4374
   1.2. 26 U.S.C. §4401(c)
   1.3. 26 U.S.C. §5005
   1.4. 26 U.S.C. §5043
   1.5. 26 U.S.C. §5703

2. Require the individual to keep records about his liability. Examples of other types of taxes that do require records:

   2.1. 26 U.S.C. §4403
   2.2. 26 U.S.C. §5114
   2.3. 26 U.S.C. §5124
   2.4. 26 U.S.C. §5741

3. Subject him or her to penalties for nonpayment. Examples:

   3.1. 26 U.S.C. Subtitle F, Sections 6671 through 6715 address assessable penalties.
   3.2. There are no implementing regulations or entries in any of the parallel tables of authorities (see http://www.access.gpo.gov/nara/cfr/parallel/parallel_table.html) that map any of the penalties above to specific sections in 26 U.S.C. Subtitles A and C, nor are there any cross-references from Subtitles A and C that point to penalties in Subtitle F.

Without a legal liability, the IRS cannot institute collection, but they do so illegally anyway, and it’s up to you to learn how they do it so you can fight it!

26 U.S.C. §1 is the section that the IRS says imposes the income tax. Here is an excerpt from that section:

United States Code
TITLE 26 - INTERNAL REVENUE CODE
Subtitle A - Income Taxes
CHAPTER 1 - NORMAL TAXES AND SURTAXES
Subchapter A - Determination of Tax Liability PART I - TAX ON INDIVIDUALS

Sec. 1. Tax imposed

(a) Married individuals filing joint returns and surviving spouses

There is hereby imposed on the taxable income of –

The question is:

Does the word “imposed” mean “liable”?

Incidentally, did you notice we used “mean” instead of “include” above…because the government just loves to abuse this word to illegally expand their jurisdiction! Here is the definition of the word “impose” from Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition:

Impose: To levy or exact as by authority; to lay as a burden, tax, duty, or charge.

Exaction. The wrongful act of an officer or other person in compelling payment of a fee or reward for his services, under color of his official authority, where no payment is due.

Extortion. The obtaining of property from another induced by wrongful use of actual or threatened force, violence, or fear, or under color of official right. 18 U.S.C.A. § 871 et seq.; § 1951.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

A person is guilty of theft by extortion if he purposely obtains property of another by threatening to: (1) inflict bodily injury on anyone or commit any other criminal offense; or (2) accite anyone of a criminal offense; or (3) expose any secret tender to subject anyone to hatred, contempt or ridicule, or to impair his credit or business reputation; or (4) take or withhold action as an official, or cause an official to take or withhold action; or (5) bring about or continue a strike, boycott or other collective unofficial action, if the property is not demanded or received for the benefit of the group in whose interest the actor purports to act; or (6) testify or provide information or withhold testimony or information with respect to another’s legal claim or defense; or (7) inflict any other harm which would not benefit the actor. Model Penal Code, §224.4.

Amazing how brazen these lawyer criminals in the District of Criminals are, huh? Nothing in there about liability! And the definition of the word “levy” out of that same legal dictionary on p. 907 says:

Levy v.: To assess; raise; execute; exact; tax; collect; gather; take up; seize. Thus, to levy (assess, exact, raise, or collect) a tax; to levy (raise or set up) a nuisance; to levy (acknowledge) a fine; to levy (inaugurate) war; to levy an execution, i.e., to levy or collect a sum of money on an execution.

Here is what the federal courts say about the requirements to create a statutory liability before an obligation to pay can be established:

“…liability for taxation must clearly appear from statute imposing tax.”

[Higley v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 69 F.2d. 160 (1934)]

“While Congress might have the power to place such a personal liability upon trust beneficiaries who did not renounce the trust, yet it would require clear expression of such intent, and it cannot be spelled out from language (as that here) which can be given an entirely natural and useful meaning and application excluding such intent.”

[Higley v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 69 F.2d. 160 (1934)]

“A tax is a legal imposition, exclusively of statutory origin (37 Cyc. 724, 725), and, naturally, liability to taxation must be read in statute, or it does not exist.”

[Bente v. Bugbee, 137 A. 552, 103 N.J. Law. 608 (1927)]

“…the taxpayer must be liable for the tax. Tax liability is a condition precedent to the demand. Merely demanding payment, even repeatedly, does not cause liability.”

[Terry v. Bothke, 713 F.2d. 1405, at 1414 (1983)]

Can you collect a tax that no one is liable for? You certainly can, if you can find enough ignorant Americans and fool or coerce them into believing that they are “taxpayers”? Do you see the words “liable” or “liability” used anywhere in the above two definitions or anywhere in 26 U.S.C. §1? We don’t…and if you aren’t liable, then you don’t have to pay! When you search electronically through the entire 9,500 pages of the Internal Revenue Code like we did, you will indeed find the word “liable” used for every kind of tax OTHER than personal income taxes, but not for any of the taxes on individuals found in Subtitles A or C! When a person is made liable, the code explicitly says “shall be liable”, “shall be paid” and “shall keep records”, etc, but nowhere is this stated for personal income taxes in Subtitles A or C. Here are just a few examples where persons are explicitly made “liable” for payment of a tax that was also “imposed” elsewhere in the code:

26 U.S.C. §4374: Liability for tax: “…shall be paid…”

26 U.S.C. §4401(c) Persons liable for tax: “…wagers shall be liable for and shall pay”

26 U.S.C. §4403 Record requirements: “Each person liable for tax under this subchapter shall keep a daily record…”

26 U.S.C. §5005 Persons liable for tax:

“(a) The distiller or importer of distilled spirits shall be liable for the taxes imposed…”

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

“(c) Proprietors of distilled spirits plants: “(1) Bonded storage. Every person operating bonded premises of a distilled spirits plant shall be liable for internal revenue tax...”
“(e)(1) Withdrawals without payment of tax: “... shall be liable”
“(e)(2) Relief from liability: “All persons liable for the tax...”

“(a) Persons liable for payment
The taxes on wine provided for in this subpart shall be paid...”

26 U.S.C. §5054. Determination and collection of tax on beer
“(a) Time of determination
(1) Beer produced in the United States; certain imported beer... shall be paid by the brewer thereof in accordance with section 5061.”

(a) Liability for tax
(1) Original liability... shall be liable for...
(2) Transfer of liability... shall become liable...

That’s right: The personal income taxes mentioned in the following subtitles NOWHERE use the word “liable” or “liability”, so you can’t be required to pay, which is why they also don’t say “liable” or “shall pay” anywhere in the code for these taxes on natural persons anywhere in:

- Subtitle A: Income Taxes
- Subtitle C: Employment Taxes

A favorite trick of the IRS when the above fact is pointed out is to cite 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 and show that the implementing regulation for the statute uses the phrase “are liable to”:

26 C.F.R. §1.1-1

(b) Citizens or residents of the United States liable to tax.

In general, all citizens of the United States, wherever resident, and all resident alien individuals are liable to the income taxes imposed by the Code whether the income is received from sources within or without the United States. Pursuant to section 876, a nonresident alien individual who is a bona fide resident of Puerto Rico during the entire taxable year is, except as provided in section 933 with respect to Puerto Rican source income, subject to taxation in the same manner as a resident alien individual. As to tax on nonresident alien individuals, see sections 871 and 877.

Did you get that? 26 U.S.C. §1 didn’t use the word “liable” but the implementing regulation did, which is clearly illegal and violates the concept described in the Spreckles v. C.I.R. case below, which says:

"To the extent that regulations implement the statute, they have the force and effect of law. The regulation implements the statute and cannot vitiate or change the statute..."
[Spreckles v. C.I.R., 119 F.2d, 667]

What the Treasury did to try to illegally expand their jurisdiction, in a clear demonstration of conflict of interest and a violation of the Code of Ethics for Government employees we discussed in section 2.1, was create a bogus liability by writing an illegal regulation in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(b) to implement 26 U.S.C. §1 and use the word “liable” in the regulation! Sneaky bastards!

Remember that the Secretary of the Treasury is authorized to write regulations that interpret and implement the Internal Revenue Code under 26 U.S.C. §7805, but the Secretary has no delegated authority to expand or enlarge or modify the original language or jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code section he is implementing and enforcing! Why? Because the Congress is the only legislative body authorized by the Constitution, and no one in the Executive branch, including the Treasury, has any delegated authority to legislate.

"When enacting §7206(1) Congress undoubtedly knew that the Secretary of the Treasury is empowered to prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of the internal revenue laws, so long as they carry..."
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Therefore, 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(b) is a regulation that is null and void and fraudulent on its face insofar as its imposition of an otherwise nonexistent liability for the payment of Subtitle A income taxes. If you were to investigate this matter further, I’d be willing to bet money that the Secretary of Treasury who approved this regulations was a lame duck and knew he was on the way out of office and probably his last official act was to approve this regulation. That was the kind of scam that got the Sixteenth Amendment passed by the lame duck Secretary of State Philander Knox, who perjured himself by saying that the Sixteenth Amendment had been properly ratified by the required ¾ of the states.

One of our readers responded to this section with the following statement:

Family Guardian,

“The current 26 U.S.C. §1 comes from Section 11 of the 1939 code, without any significant change occurring (according to Congress). The old Section 11 said that the tax shall be “levied, collected, and PAID” upon the net income of individuals. While I think it was stupid of them to reward it without stating the liability there, the underlying law (the Statutes at Large) shows it, so 1.1-1 is correct. Congress also in Sections 6012 and 6151 show that one who receives “gross income” must file a return, and the one required to file the return “shall pay such tax.” It’s not in Subtitle A, but there’s no requirement that it has to be, since the section says it applies “when a return of tax is required UNDER THIS TITLE” (not subtitle). Why do you not consider 6151 to be a liability clause?“

Larken Rose
http://www.taxableincome.net/

Here was part of our response to that claim:

Larken,

1. I looked up the implementing regulations applying 6151 to Subtitle A income taxes in Section 1. 26 C.F.R. §1.6151 clearly shows that “taxpayers” should pay the amount of tax shown on the return, but it doesn’t say they are required to pay any tax that they didn’t assess against themself VOLUNTARILY. The only case they have to pay taxes they didn’t voluntarily assess is under section 6014, which allows the TAXPAYER to ELECT to allow the IRS to compute his tax with his permission.

“Our system of taxation is based on voluntary assessment and payment, not on distraint”, according to Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)

That’s why you can’t be made liable to pay a tax that you didn’t assess against yourself voluntarily. If you refuse to file a return or refuse to claim any gross income by filling in zeros on your return, then 26 USC §6201 clearly shows that the IRS may not involuntarily assess you a liability! If you look at the Parallel Table of Authorities, ALL of the taxes to which 6151 applies relate ONLY to Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms under Title 27. Look for yourself!:

http://www4.law.cornell.edu/cgi-bin/tusc-cfr.cgi/26/6151

See section 5.4.5 of the Great IRS Hoax for further details.

2. 26 U.S.C. §6151 and 26 U.S.C. §6012 are NOT liability statutes. 6151 says you shall pay any tax shown on a return (that you completed VOLUNTARILY) and 6012 says you must “make a return” for any Subtitle A taxable gross income you have. Since the term “make a return” doesn’t say “file a return” or even who to file it WITH, then one can satisfy this requirement by filling out a tax return (called “making a return”) and filing it in one’s file cabinet! One place that the word “file” is used is in the title of 26 U.S.C. §7203, and 26 U.S.C. §7806 says the title has no force or effect. The only other place “file” is used is in 6151, which only applies to Title 27 taxes. The code or regulations for Subtitle A income taxes therefore has to say WHO to file the return WITH and mention “liable to file with the Secretary of the Treasury”, which it doesn’t. It does for Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms taxes, but not for Subtitle A income taxes. See section 3.9.11 of my Great IRS Hoax book for further details on this. The code COULDN’T impose a requirement to file a return because it would violate the Fifth Amendment so they played games with words, as usual. I know this is picking nits, but that is what the code itself does and especially what Mr. Roginsky of the IRS did during his friendly interview with you!

Misunderstandings on your part about the issues discussed above is why you attract busy IRS bees to your honeypot. The IRS picks their battles carefully, and like the lion, hits the weakest parts of the herd, who are usually hobbling at the end of the procession with less than a full deck of cards. I'm not trying to criticize you, however, and simply want to help you by keeping you out of trouble.

Your friend,

Family Guardian

To give you just one example in real life that illustrates the lack of liability for Income Taxes, if employment taxes are indeed "taxes" rather than "donations", then why:

1. Do you have to complete a W-4 giving the government permission to take your money under Subtitle C, Employment taxes? If it is a tax, they don't need your permission, do they!
2. Are Employment taxes classified by the IRS as gifts by assigning them to Tax Class 1? See section 5.6.8 later on this subject.

Something is fishy here, isn't it? And why do they call it a “tax” if you aren’t “liable”? Shouldn’t our dishonest government call it a “donation”? You be the judge!

The other question we should be asking ourselves is: “Who is the income tax imposed on”? 26 U.S.C. §1 uses the term “Individuals”, but what does that mean? The answer is found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a):

26 C.F.R. Sec. 1.1-1 Income tax on individuals.

(a) General rule.

(1) Section 1 of the Code imposes an income tax on the income of every individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States and, to the extent provided by section 871(b) or 877(b), on the income of a nonresident alien individual.

The tax is “imposed” on “citizens or residents of the United States” and “nonresident aliens” described in sections 871(b) and 877(b), but we know that “United States” as used here means the federal zone or the federal United States, so the tax doesn’t apply to us. That is the only logical conclusion we can reach based on the constitutional limitations on direct taxation found in Article 1, Section 9 (1:9:4), Clause 4 and 1:2:3 of the U.S. Constitution!

"The right to tax and regulate the national citizenship is an inherent right under the rule of the Law of Nations, which is part of the law of the United States, as described in Article I, Section 8, Clause 17. “The Lusitania, 251 F.715, 712.

"This jurisdiction extends to citizens of the United States, wherever resident, for the exercise of the privileges and immunities and protections of [federal] citizenship."
[Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47,44 S.Ct. 447, 11 Virginia Law Review, 607 (1924)]

So once again, if we aren’t “U.S. citizens” or nonresident aliens with income associated with a “trade or business” in the federal United States, then we aren’t liable for income taxes!

26 C.F.R. §31.3121(e)-1 State, United States, and citizen.

(b) The term 'citizen of the United States' includes a citizen of the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico or the Virgin Islands, and, effective January 1, 1961, a citizen of Guam or American Samoa.

If we aren’t statutory “U.S. citizens” (8 U.S.C. §1401) but we were born in United States* the country on nonfederal land, then we are “nationals” and non-resident non-persons. As we will point out later, most of us are born as non-resident non-persons and “nationals” (see 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21)) because we are born outside the federal zone but inside the 50 Union states. The legal profession has done their best to hide this fact over the years by redefining some key terms or removing important definitions entirely from the legal dictionary. We talk about this later, in section 6.13.1.
Now when the IRS tries to do any enforcement action for income taxes under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and they try to call someone in for an audit, they don’t have a leg to stand on. All you have to do is show them the statute that gives them the authority to call the audit, from 26 U.S.C. §7601:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 78 > Subchapter A > Sec. 7601.
Sec. 7601. - Canvass of districts for taxable persons and objects

(a) General rule

The Secretary shall, to the extent he deems it practicable, cause officers or employees of the Treasury Department to proceed, from time to time, through each internal revenue district and inquire after and concerning all persons therein who may be liable to pay any internal revenue tax, and all persons owning or having the care and management of any objects with respect to which any tax is imposed.

So the only thing the IRS can go looking for inside their “district”, which encompasses only areas within the federal zone that are within the outer boundaries of their region, are “persons therein who may be liable to pay any internal revenue tax”. Without a liability statute, the IRS agent has no authority to call you into his office to ask about taxes he thinks you owe. Once again, “liability” is a prerequisite in order for enforcement action to be warranted, and since “liability” is nowhere defined in the IRC for Subtitle A individual income taxes, then it isn’t a tax but a “donation”. This is a very good fact to bring up at your next IRS audit, folks! Now if you don’t help him when he calls you in for an audit because you point out that he can’t prove you are liable, then he may try to illegally levy your pay. Once again, he’s violating the “code” (not “law”, but “code”) because look at what the levy statutes says, 26 U.S.C. §6331(a):

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 64 > Subchapter D > PART II > Sec. 6331.
Sec. 6331. - Levy and distraint

(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

Once again, notice that the prerequisite for levy and distraint above is that the person must be liable, and so the frustrated IRS agent can’t legally levy your pay either, without subjecting himself to criminal liability under 26 U.S.C. §7433 and 26 U.S.C. §7214!

5.6.2 Your earnings aren’t taxable because it is “notes” and “obligations” of the U.S. government

The power of Congress to coin money is found in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 5 of the U.S. Constitution:

U.S. Constitution
Article 1, Section 8, Clause 5

The Congress shall have Power To. . .

To coin Money, regulate the Value thereof, and of foreign Coin, and fix the Standard of Weights and Measures

The above power is not the origin for printing Federal Reserve Notes. Those notes are printed under the authority of Article 1, Section 8, Clause 2 of the U.S. Constitution:

U.S. Constitution
Article 1, Section 8, Clause 2
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The Congress shall have Power To...

To borrow Money on the credit of the United States:

The “money” you think you carry around in your pocket isn’t money at all, but a debt instrument or obligation borrowed from a PRIVATE banking consortium deceptively called the “Federal Reserve” pursuant to Article 1, Section 8, Clause 2 of the Constitution. You will note that the top of each bill says “Federal Reserve Note”. The “Federal Reserve”, in fact, is about as “federal” as “Federal Express”. Here is how Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth edition defines “money” on page 1005:

Money: In usual and ordinary acceptation it means coins and paper currency used as circulating medium of exchange, and does not embrace notes, bonds, evidences of debt, or other personal or real estate. Lane v. Railey, 280 Ky, 319, 133 S.W.2d, 74, 79, 81. [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 1005]

Here is what the law says about this subject in 12 U.S.C. §411:

TITLE 12 > CHAPTER 3 > SUBCHAPTER XII > Sec. 411.
Sec. 411. - Issuance to reserve banks; nature of obligation; redemption

Federal reserve notes, to be issued at the discretion of the Board of Governors of the Federal Reserve System for the purpose of making advances to Federal reserve banks through the Federal reserve agents as hereinafter set forth and for no other purpose, are authorized. The said notes shall be obligations of the United States and shall be receivable by all national and member banks and Federal reserve banks and for all taxes, customs, and other public dues. They shall be redeemed in lawful money on demand at the Treasury Department of the United States, in the city of Washington, District of Columbia, or at any Federal Reserve bank.

You can search the entire U.S. Code as we have and NOWHERE will you find any place where Federal Reserve Notes are defined or identified as “dollars” as used in the Constitution. Therefore, you cannot lawfully conclude that they are equivalent. A Congressman wrote the Federal Reserve Board and they wrote back to admit that there is NOT definition for what a “dollar” is! See the amazing truth for yourself:

Ogilvie Letter, SEDM Exhibit #06.001
http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm

But wait a minute! The law says that obligations of the U.S. government are not taxable in 31 U.S.C. §3124:

TITLE 31 > SUBTITLE III > CHAPTER 31 > SUBCHAPTER II > Sec. 3124.
Sec. 3124. - Exemption from taxation

(a) Stocks and obligations of the United States Government are exempt from taxation by a State or political subdivision of a State. The exemption applies to each form of taxation that would require the obligation, the interest on the obligation, or both, to be considered in computing a tax, except -

(1) a nondiscriminatory franchise tax or another nonproperty tax instead of a franchise tax, imposed on a corporation; and

(2) an estate or inheritance tax.

(b) The tax status of interest on obligations and dividends, earnings, or other income from evidences of ownership issued by the Government or an agency and the tax treatment of gain and loss from the disposition of those obligations and evidences of ownership is decided under the Internal Revenue Code of 1986 (26 U.S.C. 1 et seq.). An obligation that the Federal Housing Administration had agreed, under a contract made before March 1, 1941, to issue at a future date, has the tax exemption privileges provided by the authorizing law at the time of the contract. This subsection does not apply to obligations and evidences of ownership issued by the District of Columbia, a territory or possession of the United States, or a department, agency, instrumentality, or political subdivision of the District, territory, or possession.
Therefore, your Federal Reserve Notes (FRN’s) are not taxable by federal State governments, because they aren’t really lawful money, but debt obligations, or the equivalent of corporate government bonds! For more interesting reading, we refer you to the Legal Tender Cases, Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884).

> “Under the power to borrow money on the credit of the United States, and to issue circulating notes for the money borrowed, [Congress’] power to define the quality and force of those notes as currency is as broad as the like power over a metallic currency under the power to coin money and to regulate the value thereof. Under the two powers, taken together, Congress is authorized to establish a national currency, either in coin or in paper, and to make that currency lawful money for all purposes, as regards the national government or private individuals. . . . (Emphasis added)”

Here is what one federal court said when one American claimed his FRN’s weren’t lawful money:

> “Congress has delegated the power to establish this national currency which is lawful money to the Federal Reserve System. 12 U.S.C. §411. Congress has made the Federal Reserve note the measure of value in our monetary system, 12 U.S.C. § 412 (1968), and has defined Federal Reserve notes as legal tender for taxes, 31 U.S.C. §392 (1965). Taxpayers’ attempt to devalue the Federal Reserve notes they received as income is, therefore, not lawful under the laws of the United States.”

[Mathes v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 576 F.2d 70 (1978)]

5.6.3 Constitutional Constraints on Federal Taxing Power

While the current I.R. code and implementing regulations document the limited application of the federal income tax, it is important to explain the reason why such a limitation exists. Without an explanation of why the code is as it is, the conclusion may be unbelievable to some (regardless of the actual evidence). Certainly the limitation was not due to Congress not wanting to tax all income. Without some obstacle to Congress’ power, the tax which most people now believe exists (a tax on the income of most Americans) would certainly have been imposed.

According to the Supreme Court, the broad and general wording which Congress used to define “gross income” was intended to tax all income within their power to tax.

> “This Court has frequently stated that this language [defining “gross income”] was used by Congress to exert in this field the full measure of its taxing power.”

[Commissioner v. Glenshaw Class Co., 348 U.S. 426 (1955)]

This ruling is speaking specifically of Section 22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1939, which is the predecessor to the current 26 U.S.C. §61. Congress has stated that the scope of “gross income” did not change when the law was rearranged and reworded. (It should be mentioned that the current tax code is basically just the income tax of 1913, but with many amendments over the years adding, removing, rewording, and renumbering various sections. The fundamental nature and origin of the tax remains intact.)

The general language of the definition of “gross income” (past and present) may give an initial impression of an unlimited tax on the income of every individual. However, the meaning of a statute passed by Congress is limited to those matters which the Constitution puts under federal jurisdiction.

> “It is elementary law that every statute is to be read in the light of the constitution. However broad and general its language, it cannot be interpreted as extending beyond those matters which it was within the constitutional power of the legislature to reach.”

[McCulloch v. Com. Of Virginia, 172 U.S. 102 (1898)]

(Notice that this is not some radical decision, but is considered “elementary law.”)

In other words, a statute may be more restricted that its general wording suggests. The above case goes on to say that Constitutional restrictions are to be assumed when reading a statute (state or federal), even though they are not stated.

> “So, although general language was introduced into the statute of 1871, it is not to be read as reaching to matters in respect to which the legislature had no constitutional power, but only as to those matters within its control. And, if there were, as it seems there were, certain special taxes and dues, which, under the existing provisions of the state constitution, could not be affected by legislative action, the statute is to be read as though it in terms excluded them from its operation.”

So a federal statute is to be read as though it specifically excludes matters which the Constitution does not put under federal jurisdiction. So while, as the Supreme Court said, Congress intended to use the “full measure of its taxing power” by using such a generally-worded definition of “gross income,” the Supreme Court also admits that the income tax “cannot be applied to any income which Congress has no power to tax” [William E. Peck & Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 165 (1918)]. So the general wording must be interpreted in light of the Constitutional limits on Congress’ power. But this could pose a problem for the average American. How is he to know what the Constitutional limits are on Congress’ power (when even federal judges disagree with each other on the matter)?

As mentioned at the beginning of this report, the Secretary of the Treasury is empowered (by statute) to implement and interpret the law. When the Treasury regulations are published in the Federal Register, that becomes the official notice to the public of what the law requires. Therefore, while the statutes may use general language (which might at first glance seem to include matters outside of federal jurisdiction), the regulations must give specifics.

Though it is phrased somewhat differently than the current 26 U.S.C. §61, the definition of “gross income” found in Section 22(a) of the 1939 Code appears all-encompassing. The regulations under the 1939 Code, however, are very telling. (The term “net income” was used back then, which would later become “taxable income.”)

"Sec. 29.21-1. Meaning of net income. The tax imposed by chapter 1 is upon income. Neither income exempted by statute or fundamental law... enter into the computation of net income as defined by section 21."

The term “fundamental law” refers to the Constitution (as countless court rulings show). While the general wording of the statutes makes no such reference, here the regulations imply that some income not exempted by statute is nonetheless exempt from taxation under the Constitution. Note the distinction between income exempted by statute, and income exempted by the Constitution. This occurs again later in the same section:

"(b) Gross income, meaning income (in the broad sense) less income which is by statutory provision or otherwise exempt from the tax imposed by chapter 1. (See section 22.)"

Again, the regulations are admitting that some things not exempted by statute are nonetheless exempt from federal taxation. The above citation refers us to Section 22 (of the 1939 Code) for the meaning of “gross income.” The regulations under that section begin as follows:

"Sec. 29.22(a)-1. What included in gross income. Gross income includes in general [items of income listed] derived from any source whatever, unless exempt from tax by law. (See section 22(b) and 116.)"

This refers the reader to Section 22(b) to learn what income is “exempt from tax.” After saying that certain items are specifically exempted by statute, the regulations under section 22(b) (referred to in the previous citation) state:

"No other items are exempt from gross income except (1) those items of income which are, under the Constitution, not taxable by the Federal Government; (2) those items of income which are exempt from tax on income under the provisions of any Act of Congress still in effect; and (3) the income exempted under the provisions of section 116."

Again the regulations explicitly state that some income is not constitutionally taxable, even though it is not specifically exempted by any statute passed by Congress. The statutes need not mention this, because (as shown above), the Constitutional limitations are to be assumed when reading any statute. But because the regulations must give specifics, the fact that some income not exempt by statute is exempted by the Constitution is specifically stated in the regulations. (Many tax professionals are at a loss to explain this; they are unable to identify anything which is not taxable under the constitution, but which is not exempted by statute.)

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: What types of income not exempted by statute are nonetheless, under the Constitution, not taxable by the federal government?

5.6.4 Exempt Income

The above issue of Constitutional limits on Congress’ taxing power is not intended to dispute the constitutionality of the income tax. In fact, the opinion of this author, the readers, and even the courts regarding the question of taxing jurisdiction ends up being irrelevant in this case. The statutes of Congress, together with the regulations of the Secretary of the Treasury.
(which must also be approved by Congress), show that they believe their jurisdiction to tax incomes was limited to individuals involved in international and foreign commerce.

(“International commerce” means trade which crosses country borders, such as income from within the federal United States and federal zone going to nonresident aliens. “Foreign commerce” means trade which happens entirely outside of the United States of America, such as a U.S. citizen working and getting paid abroad, or in a federal possession.)

As discussed above, the regulations under 22(a) of the 1939 Code show that the meaning of “gross income” does not include income which is exempt by statute, or other income which is “under the Constitution, not taxable by the Federal Government.” But, as stated before, the regulations must specifically inform the public of what is required, rather than leaving people to guess at what is Constitutionally taxable. The following is the first paragraph of the 1945 regulations under the section of statutes defining “gross income”:

Keeping in mind the matter of taxing jurisdiction, it becomes clear that the Secretary of the Treasury in these regulations was informing the public of which matters are constitutionally taxable by the federal government. This list of taxable activities is completely absent from 22(a) of the 1939 statutes. As the Supreme Court has stated, “the statute is to be read as though it in terms exclude[s]” matters not within the constitutional power of the government to tax. At the same time, the regulations must give specifics to the public of what the law requires, and here they do so. Not surprisingly, the list of taxable activities in these regulations matches precisely those matters which the Constitution puts under federal jurisdiction (international and foreign commerce, and federal possessions).

Anyone claiming that this list of taxable activities is not exclusive (claiming instead that other types of income are also taxable) encounters a logical problem. One must then claim that the regulations specifically say that some income not exempt by statute is exempt under the Constitution, but that those regulations never give any indication as to what income is meant. If this list is not the explanation of what is constitutionally taxable, then no further explanation seems to exist (which would violate the requirement that the regulations specifically state what the law requires).

In addition, one would be hard pressed to explain why these regulations bother to specifically point out these taxable activities (when the statutes do not), if this is not a complete list of what the Secretary believed to be constitutionally taxable.

While the regulations specifically mention the Constitutional limitations, and the limits are to be assumed when reading the statutes, this is not to say that the statutes give no indication of the limited nature of the tax. While the general statutory definition of “gross income” by itself may be misleading, there is plenty of evidence in the statutes that shows that Congress knew the limits of its power, and stayed within those bounds. Most notably, the entire structure and contents of Subchapter N (“Tax based on income from sources within or without the United States”) indicates that it is about international and foreign commerce.

5.6.5 The Definition of “income” for the purposes of the Internal Revenue Code

Have you ever closely examined block 1 of the W-2 form that your employer sends you at the end of every year? The block is labeled “Wages, tips, other compensation”. Have you ever wondered why this block isn’t labeled “income”? After all, if you correspond with or talk with the revenue agents at the IRS, they will try to make you believe that everything you make is “income”, so why don’t they just call it that on the form? Did you ever notice that they will NEVER put in writing with their signature on it that the amount in block 1 is “income” and wonder why? The answer to these intriguing questions are found in this section and they will surprise you indeed! One of the reasons is that neither your employer nor the government can lawfully call what you make “income” without committing blatant fraud and making themselves criminally liable in the process!
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Amazing as it may sound, the entire 9,500 page Internal Revenue Code also never defines the word “income” in the context of a person domiciled in a state of the Union! To wit:

1. 26 U.S.C. §643(b) defines the term “income”, but only in the context of the estate of a deceased person domiciled within the federal zone under Subtitle B, but not in the context of any tax documented under Subtitle A. Below is that definition:

   (b) Income For purposes of this subpart and subparts B, C, and D, the term “income”, when not preceded by the words “taxable”, “distributable net”, “undistributed net”, or “gross”, means the amount of income of the estate or trust for the taxable year determined under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law.

   Items of gross income constituting extraordinary dividends or taxable stock dividends which the fiduciary, acting in good faith, determines to be allocable to corpus under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law shall not be considered income.

As we learned earlier in section 5.1.11, the Internal Revenue Code serves a dual purpose. Subtitles A through C only apply to federal employees domiciliaries of the District of Columbia. Subtitles D and E apply throughout the states (mostly but not exclusively). From the very foundations of this country, the founders bestowed upon Congress no limitations as to the right to institute estate taxes within the District of Columbia and territories. This conclusion is based on the ruling of the Supreme Court in the case of Knowlton v. Moore, 178 U.S. 41 (1900), which explains the history of estate taxes very thoroughly.

2. Under Subtitle A, the IRS defines the phrase “gross income” in 26 U.S.C. §61 and 26 U.S.C. §872 but it never tells you that “gross income” must also meet the Constitutional definition of “income” defined by the Supreme Court to be applied to the “items of gross income” appearing in that section. The older version of the codes and regulations used to do that (see 26 C.F.R. §39.22(b)-1 (1956), for instance) but the new version was obfuscated to disguise it.

On many occasions, and especially during examinations or summons or depositions, IRS agents and DOJ lawyers will ask people “how much income did you have during taxable year _____?” As an American domiciled in the 50 Union states, the correct answer is “that depends on how you define ‘income’. I didn’t have any ‘GROSS income’, and the true definition of ‘income’ in my case is that defined in I.R.C. section 901.” If you look in that section, the title of the section is “Sec. 901. Taxes of foreign countries and of possessions of United States” As we described earlier in section 5.2.5, everything outside of federal territories and possessions of the United States/federal zone is “foreign” with respect to the I.R.C., and therefore each of the 50 Union states are considered “foreign countries” with respect to the Internal Revenue Code, as we talked about in section 5.3.5 earlier. This conclusion forms the basis for why the correct form to file for Americans born in the federal zone and who are living overseas is IRS Form 2555. If you look over I.R.C. section 901, the income of Americans domiciled in the nonfederal areas simply isn’t listed as being taxable within that section! You can therefore legitimately answer the auditor or revenue agent during the examination that your “gross income” and your “taxable income” are both a “big fat zero.” One of our readers (Wayne Benton) used this technique during a deposition against the IRS and reported that afterward he overheard two IRS revenue agents whispering to each other “He knows!” after which they promptly ended the deposition! More even interesting is that the very same sources of “gross income” enumerated in 26 U.S.C. §1.861-8(f) and applying to both sources within and sources without the “[federal] United States” are mentioned in this section 901 (FSC, DISC, etc).

To reiterate; the tax authorized under the original U.S. Constitution has not changed except as to separate the source of “income” from the income itself permitting the collection of an indirect (excise) tax on income by leaving the source for items of gross income for the recipient (wages, salaries, fees for service, and first time commissions) free of tax (Brushaber, supra.) despite how some politicians misinterpret the 16th Amendment.

NOTE: The Brushaber court referred to an earlier case, Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan and Trust Co., 158 U.S. 601 (1895) which declared the Income Tax Act of 1894 unconstitutional, as it’s effect would have been to leave the burden of the tax to be born by professions, trades, employments, or vocations; and in that way, what was intended as a tax on capital would remain, in substance, a tax on occupations and labor. This result, the court held, could NOT have been contemplated by Congress.

According to one federal court:

[U.S. v. Ballard, 535 F.2d 400 (8th Cir., 1976)]

Of course, we now know based on an examination of 26 U.S.C. §643(b) above that this conclusion is wrong based on the I.R.C. of today, but this may have been true when the ruling occurred in 1976. The U.S. Supreme Court has also ruled that Congress may not make its own definition of “income” in Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, 207, 40 S.Ct. 189, 9 A.L.R. 1570 (1920):

“...Whatever difficulty there may be about a precise scientific definition of ‘income,’ it imports, as used here, something entirely distinct from principal or capital either as a subject of taxation or as a measure of the tax; conveying rather the idea of gain or increase arising from corporate activities.”

[Doyle v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 185, 38 S.Ct. 136 (1913)]

Has the IRS been treating you as a corporation all these years? When people see this, they say things like:

If you already read sections 4.1 and 5.1.1 earlier, you would understand why this is the case. For those of you who haven’t, keep reading and we will clarify. Here is the other cite defining income mentioned in the Eisner ruling, from Stratton’s Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 414, 38 S.Ct. 285, 34 Sup.Ct. 136 (1913):

“This court had decided in the Pollock Case that the income tax law of 1894 amounted in effect to a direct tax upon property, and was invalid because not apportioned according to populations, as prescribed by the Constitution. The act of 1909 avoided this difficulty by imposing not an income tax, but an excise tax upon the conduct of business in a corporate capacity, measuring, however, the amount of tax by the income of the corporation...Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107, 55 L.Ed. 389, 31 Sup.Ct. 342, Ann. Cas.”

The case cited above in Stratton’s, Flint v. Stone, is very enlightening on exactly what type of activity or source of income is being taxed and who has to pay the tax:

"The Corporation Tax is not a direct tax within the enumeration provision of the Constitution, but is an impost or excise which Congress [220 U.S. 107] has power to impose under Art. I, §8, cl. 1, of the Constitution. Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 158 U.S. 601, distinguished.

"Indirect taxation includes a tax on business done in a corporate capacity; the difference between it and direct taxation imposed on property because of its ownership is substantial, and not merely nominal."
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

“Excises are taxes laid upon the manufacture, sale, or consumption of commodities within the country, upon licenses to pursue certain occupations and upon corporate privileges; the requirement to pay such taxes involves the exercise of the privilege, and if business is not done in the manner described, no tax is payable.

“The only limitations on the power of Congress to levy excise taxes are that they must be for the public welfare and must be uniform throughout the United States; they do not have to be apportioned.

“Courts may not add any limitations on the power of Congress to impose excise taxes to that of uniformity, which was deemed sufficient by those who framed and adopted the Constitution.

“The revenues of the United States must be obtained from the same territory, and the same people, and its excise taxes collected from the same activities, as are also reached by the states to support their local governments, and this fact must be considered in determining whether there are any implied limitations on the federal power to tax because of the sovereignty of the states over matters within their exclusive jurisdiction.

“Enactments of Congress levying taxes are, as are other laws of the federal government acting within constitutional authority, the supreme law of the land.

“Business activities such as those enumerated in the Corporation Tax Law are not beyond the excise taxing power of Congress because executed under franchises created by the states.

“The power of Congress to raise revenue is essential to national existence, and cannot be impaired or limited by individuals incorporating and acting under state authority. The mere fact that business is transacted pursuant to state authority creating private corporations does not exempt it from the power of Congress to levy excise laws upon the privilege of so doing.

“The exemption from federal taxation of the means and instrumentalities employed in carrying on the governmental operations of the states does not extend to state agencies and instrumentalities used for carrying on business of a private character. South Carolina v. United States, 199 U.S. 437. 220 U.S. 111

So what they are saying above in Flint is that in order to have “income” as Constitutionally defined, one must be a corporation earning “profit” from a privileged activity or source that is subject to federal excise taxes. This applies equally to both federal and state corporations, but only as provided by statute. The key is that the only taxable activities or sources for federal income taxes are all related to foreign commerce, which is the only “privileged” type of commerce coming under federal jurisdiction under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 5 of the U.S. Constitution. Foreign commerce is the “privileged” activity that is subject to the federal excise tax because foreign commerce is subject only to federal regulation and not state regulation.

“The States, after they formed the Union, continued to have the same range of taxing power which they had before, barring only duties affecting exports, imports, and on tonnage. Congress, on the other hand, to lay taxes in order ‘to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States’, Art. 1, Sec. 8, U.S.C.A.Const., can reach every person and every dollar in the land with due regard to Constitutional limitations as to the method of laying taxes.”

The legal definition of “duty” confirms that it is an excise tax on imports:

“Duty...denotes a tax or impost due to the government upon the importation or exportation of goods. See 19 U.S.C.A. See also Customs: Customs duties; Tariff; Toll; Tonnage-duty.”

The fact that foreign commerce is a privileged activity that comes exclusively under federal jurisdiction is confirmed by examining 26 U.S.C. §7001, which requires that all such foreign commerce activities of legal fictions called “persons” [which in fact are corporations] be licensed by the federal government:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 72 > Subchapter A > Sec. 7001.
Sec. 7001. - Collection of foreign items

(a) License
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

All persons undertaking as a matter of business or for profit the collection of foreign payments of interest or dividends by means of coupons, checks, or bills of exchange shall obtain a license from the Secretary and shall be subject to such regulations enabling the Government to obtain the information required under subtitle A (relating to income taxes) as the Secretary shall prescribe.

(b) Penalty for failure to obtain license

For penalty for failure to obtain the license provided for in this section, see section 7231

Under the current Internal Revenue Code, excise taxes under Subtitles D and E are the only such foreign commerce activities subject to legitimate federal excise taxes on “income”. Under subtitles A and C, the only taxable activities are foreign commerce of corporations and the only persons subject to the jurisdiction of the code are corporate officers, but because there is no liability statute anywhere in these subtitles, then income taxes under Subtitle A and Employment taxes under Subtitle C are not really “taxes” as legally defined, but more properly “donations”, and are voluntary. We covered this subject more thoroughly earlier in section 5.1.8. The only biological persons who can define earnings or monies as taxable under the Internal Revenue Code are those who “volunteer” to call it so, because the federal government isn’t authorized in the Constitution to define it as other than “corporate profit” from foreign commerce, according to the Supreme Court in Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920). Incidentally, there are many who might be tempted to say that the ruling of the Supreme Court in Flint v. Stone Tracy above is irrelevant and overruled because it was made before the passage of the Sixteenth Amendment in 1913, which most contemporary politicians say is what authorized the income tax. However, this is a simply not true because the Supreme Court later ruled in Stanton v. Baltic Mining, 240 U.S. 103 (1916) that the Sixteenth Amendment “conferred no new powers of taxation.”

The above findings are completely consistent with our analysis found in section 5.1.8, where we concluded that Subtitle A Income taxes are indirect excise taxes on federal privileges. In the instant case above, the privilege is status as a corporation involved in foreign commerce:

United States Code
TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS
Sec. 3002. Definitions
(15) “United States” means -
(A) a Federal corporation;
(B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or
(C) an instrumentality of the United States.

As a matter of fact, the U.S. Supreme Court has admitted that ALL governments are corporations!:

“Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects; all governments are corporations, created by usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes; but whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise of power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the instrument by which the incorporation is made. One universal rule of law protects persons and property. It is a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term freemen of the kingdom, includes ‘all persons,’ ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporate, politque or natural; it is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst. 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. The persons of the members of corporations are on the same footing of protection as other persons, and their corporate property secured by the same laws which protect that of individuals, 2 Inst. 46-7. ‘No man shall be taken,’ no man shall be dispossessed, without due process of law, is a principle taken from magna charta, infused into all our state constitutions, and is made inviolable by the federal government, by the amendments to the constitution.”

The people in receipt of taxable federal corporate “privileges” are the officers of the corporation, who in this case are the “public officers” of the corporation working as Congressmen, the President, judges, and appointees of the President!

26 U.S.C. §7701

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof –

(26) The term “trade or business” includes the performance of the functions of a public office.
“(2) DETERMINATION OF TAXABLE INCOME.—In determining taxable income... gross income includes only gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.”

Following is a definition of “public office”:

- Essential characteristics of a ‘public office’ are:
  - Authority conferred by law,
  - Fixed tenure of office, and
  - Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.
- Essential elements to establish public position as ‘public office’ are:
  - Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.
  - Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position.
  - Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.
  - Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and
  - Position must have some permanency."

The section below shows the only persons from whom unpaid taxes can be collected, and note that it is federal “public officers” or instrumentalities of the federal corporation known as the U.S. government, who are in receipt of taxable privileges:

26 U.S.C., Subchapter D - Seizure of Property for Collection of Taxes
Sec. 6331. Levy and distraint
(a) Authority of Secretary

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax). Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salary or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d) of such officer, employee, or elected official. If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section.

(b) Seizure and sale of property

The term “levy” as used in this title includes the power of distraint and seizure by any means. Except as otherwise provided in subsection (e), a levy shall extend only to property possessed and obligations existing at the time thereof. In any case in which the Secretary may levy upon property or rights to property, he may seize and sell such property or rights to property (whether real or personal, tangible or intangible).

And the definition of “employee” confirms that these people against whom collection can be instituted are really just elected or appointed officers of the federal corporation known as the U.S. government:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee: “... the term ‘employee’ includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term ‘employee’ also includes an officer of a corporation.”

The above are the ONLY entities against whom collection actions can be instituted, and this is a reflection of the fact that the income tax is really just an embodiment of the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939! Essentially, taxes under Subtitle A are part of the terms of the federal employment agreement that public officers voluntarily accept as a condition of employment. Section 5.6.10 expands upon this point. When you file a form 1040, you are in effect electing to treat your income as “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” which is the equivalent of saying that you want to be treated as a “public officer” of the U.S. government whose income is taxable under the indirect excise tax found in Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A!
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

To extend this federal corporation metaphor even further, the debt instruments or “stocks” issued by this federal corporation known as the U.S. government are U.S. dollars! See the following cite right from the Supreme Court on this subject, where someone challenged the constitutionality of paper money in preference to gold-backed currency:

There you have it. The paper money you carry around is “stock” in the federal corporation called the “U.S. government” and that government wants to make you a “stockholder” and an officer of that corporation in receipt of federal privileges so they can tax those privileges using the Subtitle A income tax! We know, however, that they can’t legitimately do this because the result would be unavoidable financial slavery:

“Legislature...cannot name something to be a taxable privilege unless it is first a privilege [Taxation West Key 53]...The Right to receive income or earnings is a right belonging to every person and realization and receipt of income, is therefore, not a privilege that can be taxed.”  [Taxation West Key 533] Jack Cole Co. v. MacFarland, 337 S.W.2d. 453, Tenn.

“The obligation to pay an excise tax is based upon the voluntary action of the person taxed in performing the act, enjoying the privilege, or engaging in the occupation which is the subject of the excise, and the element of absolute and unavoidable demand is lacking.”  [People ex. rel. Atty Gen. v. Naglee, 1 Cal. 232, Bank of Commerce & T. Co. v. Senter, 149 Tenn. 441, 381 S.W. 144]

Thank God we live in a free country, because our greedy government certainly has pushed us as far in the direction of socialism as they could since the income tax was introduced in 1913 and as it has been perfected over the last 70 or so years, haven’t they? To see this federal corporation metaphor for the U.S. government extended even further, we refer you to section 4.7 for a fascinating look at the two faces of our federal government: democratic socialism vs. capitalist republic. This section is well worth your time to read and study.

You don’t, however, have to believe us that “income” can only be defined by the U.S. Constitution as federal corporate profit. Look in section 3.11.11.1, which talks about the legislative intent of the Sixteenth Amendment. That section has the entire speech of President Taft given before Congress on June 16, 1909 for the purpose of introducing the Sixteenth Amendment for ratification. Here is an excerpt from that speech:

I therefore recommend to the Congress that both Houses, by a two-thirds vote, shall propose an amendment to the Constitution conferring the power to levy an income tax upon the National Government without apportionment among the States in proportion to population.

...Second, the decision in the Pollock case left power in the National Government to levy an excise tax, which accomplishes the same purpose as a corporation income tax and is free from certain objections urged to the proposed income tax measure.

I therefore recommend an amendment to the tariff bill imposing upon all corporations and joint stock companies for profit, except national banks (otherwise taxed), savings banks, and building and loan associations, an excise tax measured by 2 per cent on the net income of such corporations. This is an excise tax upon the privilege of doing business as an artificial entity, and of freedom from a general partnership liability enjoyed by those who own the stock. [Emphasis added] I am informed that a 2 per cent tax of this character would bring into the Treasury of the United States not less than $25,000,000.

The decision of the Supreme Court in the case of Spreckels Sugar Refining Company against McClain (192 U.S., 397), seems clearly to establish the principle that such a tax as this is an excise tax upon privilege and not a direct tax on property, and is within the federal power without apportionment according to population. The tax on net income is preferable to one proportionate to a percentage of the gross receipts, because it is a tax upon success and not failure. It imposes a burden at the source of the income at a time when the corporation is well able to pay and when collection is easy.

Here are some additional U.S. Supreme Court cites further defining “income” that clarify our assertions:

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
“Income has been taken to mean the same thing as used in the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909 (36 Stat. 112) in the 16th Amendment, and in the various revenue acts subsequently passed.”

“As repeatedly pointed out by this court, the Corporation Tax Law of 1909, imposed an excise or privilege tax, and not in any sense, a tax upon property or upon income merely as income. It was viewed in the decision of Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & T. Co., 157 U.S. 429, 29 L.Ed. 759, 15 Sup. St. Rep. 673, 158 U.S. 601, 39 L.Ed. 1108, 15 Sup.Ct.Rep. 912, which held the income tax provisions of a previous law to be unconstitutional because amounting in effect to a direct tax upon property within the meaning of the Constitution, and because not apportioned in the manner required by that instrument.”

[Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1, 16-17 (1916)]

“We must reject in this case, as we have rejected in cases arising under the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909 (Doyle, Collector, v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 38 Sup.Ct. 467, 62 L.Ed.--), the broad contention submitted on behalf of the government that all receipts—everything that comes in—are income within the proper definition of the term ‘gross income,’ and that the entire proceeds of a conversion of capital assets, in whatever form and under whatever circumstances accomplished, should be treated as gross income. Certainly the term ‘income’ has no broader meaning in the 1913 act than in that of 1909 (see Stratton’s Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 416, 417 S., 34 Sup.Ct. 136), and for the present purpose we assume there is not difference in its meaning as used in the two acts.”
[Southern Pacific Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330, 335, 38 S.Ct. 540 (1918)]

“... the definition of income approved by the Court is:

The gain derived from capital, from labor, or from both combined, provided it be understood to include profits gained through sale or conversion of capital assets.”
[Eisner, supra.]

“Income within the meaning of the 16th Amendment and the Revenue Act means, gain... and in such connection gain means profit... proceeding from property severed from capital, however invested or employed and coming in, received or drawn by the taxpayer for his separate use, benefit and disposal”

The Court ruled similarly in Goodrich v. Edwards, 255 U.S. 527 (1921) and in 1969, the Court ruled in Conner v. U.S., 303 F.Supp. 1187, that:

“Whatever may constitute income, therefore must have the essential feature of gain to the recipient. This was true when the 16th Amendment became effective, it was true at the time of Eisner v. Macomber, supra, it was true under sect. 22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1938, and it is likewise true under sect. 61(a) of the I.R.S. Code of 1954. If there is not gain, there is not income.... Congress has taxed INCOME and not compensation.”

And here is more evidence that earnings from labor are not “income”:

“... one does not derive income by rendering services and charging for them.”
[Edwards v. Keith, 231 F. 110 (1916)]

Even at the state level, we find courts following the lead of the U.S. Supreme Court:

“There is a clear distinction between profit and wages or compensation for labor. Compensation for labor cannot be regarded as profit within the meaning of the law.”
[Oliver v. Halstead, 196 Va. 992, 86 S.E.2d. 858 (1955)]

and:

“Reasonable compensation for labor or services rendered is not profit.”
[Laureldale Cemetery Assoc. v. Matthews, 345 Pa. 239, 47 A.2d. 277, 280 (1946)]

Clearly, then, we have firmly established based on the above cites from the Supreme Court that:

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. Congress has no authority to redefine the meaning of income. The Constitution is the only thing that can define it.
2. Any attempt by Congress to redefine the meaning of income in the Internal Revenue Code can safely be disregarded if it is inconsistent with the above definitions by the Constitution and the U.S. Supreme Court.
3. Income taxes authorized by the Sixteenth Amendment starting in 1913 are and always have been indirect excise taxes only on state or federal corporations involved in foreign commerce.
4. The tax is not on income, it is a tax on gain or profit derived from the sale or conversion of federal (not state) corporate assets and the amount of tax is computed based on the amount of gain (income).
5. Because the income tax is an indirect excise tax and all excise taxes are taxes on privileges, the tax must be paid by the federal corporation to the entity granting the privilege. A state-chartered corporation would also pay income tax to the federal government, but only on profits derived from foreign commerce, which is the only aspect of commerce that the federal government is granted with the jurisdiction to regulate and tax under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution. A federally-chartered corporation would NOT pay income tax to a state unless it physically operates within the state.
6. The U.S. government is classified as a federal corporation. This can be confirmed by examining 28 U.S.C. §3002, we find:

    United States Code
    TITLE 28 - JUDICIARY AND JUDICIAL PROCEDURE
    PART VI - PARTICULAR PROCEEDINGS
    CHAPTER 176 - FEDERAL DEBT COLLECTION PROCEDURE
    SUBCHAPTER A - DEFINITIONS AND GENERAL PROVISIONS

Sec. 3002. Definitions
15. "United States" means -
(A) a Federal corporation;
(B) an agency, department, commission, board, or other entity of the United States; or
(C) an instrumentality of the United States.

7. Regardless of what any circuit court says about the meaning of income, the U.S. Supreme Court’s rulings above supersede all circuit courts. This finding agrees with the Internal Revenue Manual:

    Internal Revenue Manual
    4.10.7.2.9.8 (05-14-1999)
    Importance of Court Decisions

1. “Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position.
2. Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the Code.
3. Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers.”

[Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05/14/99)]

The findings above are entirely consistent with the taxable sources listed as taxable in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f), which are all either income earned by Americans living overseas or income from federally chartered corporate activities. How do we apply what we have just learned? Let’s apply it to the Treasury Regulations, the I.R.C. (Internal Revenue Code) and the I.R.M. (Internal Revenue Manual).

Since the Rules contained in the Internal Revenue Manual, even if codified in the Code of Federal Regulations, do not have the force and effect of law (U.S. v. Horne, [C.A. Me. 1983] 714 F.2d. 206) and the power to promulgate regulations does not include the power to broaden or narrow the meaning of statutory provisions beyond what Congress intended (Abbot, Procter & Paine v. U.S., [1965] 344 F.2d. 333, 170 Cl.Ct. 408) and regulations cannot do what Congress itself is without power to do; they must conform to the Constitution (C.I.R. v. Van Vorst, [C.C.A. 1932] 59 F.2d. 677).

Since the above cases are the undisputable law with respect to what is or is not income, we find the word "income" does not mean all monies that come into the possession of an individual, which is called “gross receipts”, but rather profit or gain FROM the money a [federal] corporate “person” (a legal fiction denoting a corporation) takes in, such as interest, stock dividends, profit from an employee's labors. All of these constraints on the definition of "income" result from the apportionment clauses found in Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4 and Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 of the Constitution. None of the income of most individuals falls in the category of "income" defined by the Supreme Court, and therefore such "income" cannot be taxable "gross income" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §61. This means that a natural person’s wages, which are compensation for his labor, are not taxable because such a tax would amount to an unconstitutional direct tax on property (labor). With no taxable "income", you are not liable to file a return. These conclusions are confirmed by the Supreme Court, which said on the subject:

"Every man has a natural right to the fruits of his own labor, is generally admitted; and no other person can rightfully deprive him of those fruits, and appropriate them against his will..."

Now let's look at the history behind this analysis to see if it corroborates our findings. In 1909, Congress enacted the federal corporation excise tax and sent to the states for ratification the proposed income tax amendment. The measure of that excise after a $5,000 deduction, on the privilege of doing business as a corporation, was income from whatever source derived, including rents and interest on real and personal property. When the excise was upheld by the Supreme Court in Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107 (1911), the court suggested a neat tax avoidance device: just don’t operate as a corporation.

You know what happened to the federal corporation excise tax? It was repealed after Flint. Do you suppose this was a chance happening or a well-orchestrated plan to force an income tax on Americans? Following Flint, Congress lost no time in plugging this proffered loophole. The Tariff Act of 1913, also known as the Federal Income Tax Law, repealed the corporate excise tax and imposed the individual income tax on corporations instead. This little ploy helped keep the "what’s income” controversy pot boiling for decades. Chief Justice White would effectively keep a lid on any “income revelations” until his death in 1921. Recall that Chief Justice White was the dissenting opinion in Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., which declared the first direct income tax unconstitutional. Chief Justice Taft, the former President who had appointed White as Chief Justice, then took over after White. Taft was even more dedicated to expanding the income tax than White, even though they were both in the same camp. Recall that Taft proposed the Sixteenth Amendment while serving as President and also the one whose Secretary of State Philander(er) Knox fraudulently ratified it.

What value or purpose does the 16th Amendment have? The Sixteenth Amendment is a dodge, a subterfuge and it worked. After its ratification, everyone in the country was poised to receive and accept an income tax from the Congress. There was popular support for an income tax on the rich. Everyone knew it was coming and everyone who wasn’t rich wanted it. Practically, no one thought they would ever be lucky enough to have to pay an income tax. Even though the amendment conferred no new taxing powers upon Congress according to the Supreme Court in Stanton v. Baltic Mining, Congress and members of the executive branch have systematically been trying to deceive people into thinking that the Amendment created a new type of tax on people, which is a blatant fraud. Write your Congressman or woman and ask them why you have to pay income tax and this is the kind of LIES that they will tell you in their letter. We have a copy of such a response from our Congressperson.

Congress had passed a similar income tax during the Civil War. The Civil War taxing acts contained a section that imposed a requirement to keep track of any money earned. What good does it do to fool people into believing that something called “income” is being taxed if no one has any? The IRS is very open about their Civil War history. The IRS admits they sent agents out to make up assessment lists of those who were believed to owe a tax. If a person didn’t sign up for the tax right away there was a 50% penalty. What I never expect them to admit is that these agents were outside their area of their territorial jurisdiction and that the Constitution never empowered Congress to collect the equivalent of direct taxes within the borders of states of the union on land that is not part of the federal zone.

The income tax they were collecting was one based on the exercise of general police powers which Congress only had in the District of Columbia, federal enclaves inside the states, and the territories. Even in those areas it was a direct tax that had to be apportioned. That problem was resolved by making the tax a "forced" voluntary tax. How such a tax could be fully implemented will be the subject of this entire document.

The Sixteenth Amendment gives Congress the power to enact an excise tax, but Congress created an income tax that wasn’t an excise. Rather than name an excisable activity Congress created the magic words "taxable income". The Congress then created a voluntary self-assessment taxation system based on "taxable income". Such a taxation system depended completely on the power to exercise the police power. Congress had the police power in the seat of government and the territories. The U.S. Supreme Court would then cite some old cases to seemingly find the new income tax to be constitutional, with the aid of the chief advocate and creator of the Sixteenth Amendment, who was President Taft, who also served in the Supreme Court as chief justice for 9 years after he had his hand-picked Secretary of State, Philander (philanderer?) Knox fraudulently claim in 1913 that the Sixteenth Amendment had been properly ratified by the required ¾ of the states.

If you would like to learn more about the definition of “income”, we refer you to a very in depth study of the subject in an excellent book by Phil Hart entitled Constitutional Income available at:

http://www.constitutionalincome.com/

Phil provides both in his book and on his website an interesting summary of his research regarding the Constitutional meaning of “income” which he calls “10 Key Facts”, which we now repeat here for your benefit as follows:

- Fact #1: "In examining the history of the debate and ratification of the 16th Amendment, this book will show that there is no evidence upon which the government can rely for their claim that the American People desired to have their wages and salaries taxed. No evidence can be found in the law journals of the time, not in the journals on political economy or economics, not in the Congressional Record nor other Congressional documents, nor in any of the newspapers of record of the time. In other words, the government's position that wages and salaries equals income within the meaning of the 16th Amendment is 'wholly without foundation.'" Phil Hart, Constitutional Income: Do You Have Any? page 10, (Alpine Press, 2001).

- Fact #2: A tax on wages payable by the wage earner is a Capitation Tax. So says the premier authority on the issue, Adam Smith author of the timeless work Wealth of Nations. See ibid. pp. 141-145.

- Fact #3: Capitation Taxes are direct taxes and are required by the Constitution to be apportioned among the 50 Union states. The 16th Amendment had nothing to do with Capitation Taxes. Ibid. pp. 250 - 253.

- Fact #4: In the few hours just prior to the Senate's passage of the 16th Amendment the morning of July 5, 1909, the Senate twice by vote rejected two separate proposals to include direct taxes within the authority of the 16th Amendment. Ibid. pages 193-200.

- Fact #5: In briefs and argument before the Supreme Court in the case of Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad, both Brushaber and the Government claimed that the 16th Amendment provided for a direct tax exempted from the Constitutional apportionment rule. The High Court called this claim an "erroneous assumption...wholly without foundation." Ibid. pp. 204-210.

- Fact #6: Just weeks after the Brushaber Case was decided, Mr. Stanton, in the case of Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co. again claimed (35 times) that the 16th Amendment created a new class of constitutional tax, that being a direct tax exempted from the apportionment rule. The High Court said in this case that the 16th Amendment created "no new tax." Ibid. pp. 212-220.

- Fact #7: In the Stanton and Brushaber Cases, the Supreme Court ruled correctly by excluding direct taxes from the 16th Amendment. The intent of the American People and that of Congress was never to directly tax the American People, but only to tax income severed from accumulated wealth. Ibid. pp. 244 - 270.

- Fact #8: When the Supreme Court stated in the Eisner, Stanton, and Doyle Cases that "Income may be derived from capital, or labor or from both combined" all these cases dealt with corporations and had nothing to do with the "Are wages income?" question. Ibid. pp. 239-244 and 272-274.

- Fact #9: The genesis of the 16th Amendment was the income tax plank of the Democrat Party's Presidential Platform of 1908 which clearly reveals the intent of that Amendment:

  "We favor an income tax as part of our revenue system, and we urge the submission of a constitutional amendment specifically authorizing Congress to levy and collect a tax upon individual and corporate incomes, to the end that wealth may bear its proportional share of the burdens of the federal government." Ibid. p. 48.
• Fact #10: There is not, and never has been, any delegation of authority from We the People to the government for the collection of an unapportioned direct tax on the wages and salaries of the American People. It has been a maxim of English Law since the Magna Carta of 1215, that the People must consent to all taxation. "We are being taxed without our Consent!" Ibid. p. 278.

Here is a table adapted and expanded from page 120 of Phil’s book which we believe is entirely accurate. It shows under what circumstances Congress has the Constitutional authority to define the word “income” within the contexts of the Statutes at Large or the U.S. Code:
5.6.6 “Gross Income”

A detailed understanding of the meaning of the term “gross income” is crucial to understanding the income tax enforcement fraud. This section is devoted exclusively to that topic.

According to 26 U.S.C. §63, “taxable income” means “gross income” minus deductions:

\[ \text{TITLE 26} > \text{Subtitle A} > \text{CHAPTER 1} > \text{Subchapter B} > \text{PART I} > \text{Sec. 63.} \]
\[ \text{Sec. 63.} - \text{Taxable income defined} \]
\[ (a) \text{In general} \]
\[ \text{Except as provided in subsection (b), for purposes of this subtitle, the term “taxable income” means gross income minus the deductions allowed by this chapter (other than the standard deduction).} \]

To have “taxable income”, one must first have “gross income”. “Gross income” is then defined as follows:

\[ \text{TITLE 26} > \text{Subtitle A} > \text{CHAPTER 1} > \text{Subchapter N} > \text{PART II} > \text{Subpart A} > \text{Sec. 872.} \]
\[ \text{Sec. 872.} - \text{Gross income} \]
\[ (a) \text{General rule} \]
\[ \text{In the case of a nonresident alien individual, except where the context clearly indicates otherwise, gross income includes only -} \]
\[ (1) \text{gross income which is derived from sources within the United States } [ \text{the federal zone} ] \text{and which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States } [ \text{federal zone} ] , \text{and} \]
\[ (2) \text{gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States } [ \text{federal zone} ] . \]

26 U.S.C. §61 defines “classes of gross income” but 26 U.S.C. §872 is the only section that actually defines which “individuals” can earn “gross income”. Notice that this definition of “gross income” is found in Subpart A of the I.R.C., which is entitled “Nonresident aliens”. This is consistent with the definition of “individual” as being either an “alien” or “nonresident alien” as we revealed later in section 5.5.4 and in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3). As we said in that section, the 1040 form is intended only for STATUTORY “resident aliens” and for STATUTORY “U.S. citizens”. The 1040NR form is intended for “nonresident aliens”. This is consistent with the definition of “withholding agent”, who is responsible for withholding on:

Another interesting fact is that the only “individuals” who are subject to withholding are “nonresident aliens”, from (26 U.S.C. §1441). If you search the entire Internal Revenue Code, you will not find any definition of “gross income” that applies to any type of “individual” other than a “nonresident alien”. This implies that “U.S. citizens” who do not work for the federal government are incapable of earning “gross income” and confirms that they are not the specific and singular “individual” mentioned in 26 U.S.C. §1 upon whom Subtitle A personal income taxes are “imposed”. Yes, the regulations under 26 U.S.C. §1 at 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 do mention “citizens”, but if there is no definition of “gross income” anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code that connects the earnings of these natural persons to the income tax by calling their earnings “gross income”, then it’s meaningless to even mention them. The reason they are mentioned at all in this regulations is because corporations are legally “citizens”, and the Supreme Court has never defined “income” as meaning anything but corporate profit in the context of the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. Furthermore, since the underlying statute that 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1 implements doesn’t mention “citizens”, then neither can the regulation, so it’s illegal for the Secretary of the Treasury to even mention “U.S. citizens” in this regulation!

“When enacting §7206(1) Congress undoubtedly knew that the Secretary of the Treasury is empowered to prescribe all needful rules and regulations for the enforcement of the internal revenue laws, so long as they carry into effect the will of Congress as expressed by the statutes. Such regulations have the force of law. The Secretary, however, does not have the power to make law. Dixon v. United States, supra.”

[United States v. Levy, 533 F.2d. 969 (1976)]

If you look in the Social Security Program Operations Manual System (POMS) at the link below, you will find that the only persons they say are “U.S. nationals” are those persons domiciled in outlying territories of the United States government. Since we established in chapter 4 that “nationals” are “nonresident aliens” for the purposes of I.R.C. Subtitle A income taxes when engaged in a public office, then from the erroneous perception of the POM, the only people who are “nonresident aliens” in the entire country (United States*) are domiciled in Swains Island and American Samoa!

RS 02001.010 United States Nationals

A. INTRODUCTION

Most of the agreements include one or more provisions that determine a worker’s coverage based on his or her nationality.

B. DEFINITION

A U.S. national is a U.S. citizen or a person who, although not a U.S. citizen, owes permanent allegiance to the United States. The only persons who are U.S. nationals but not U.S. citizens are American Samoans and natives of Swains Island.

Anyone born in the 50 states of the Union can technically also be a “national” or “national of the United States” if they correct (not expatriate) government records describing their citizenship status to correctly reflect exactly what they already are to become a non-privileged person. From the perspective of the above unofficial publication, however, our “silly” servants think that the only place that “non-residents”, and therefore “nonresident aliens” live is in U.S. territories and possessions. We showed in section 4.8 that these “territories” are not covered by the Bill of Rights and therefore may be subjected to direct taxes without apportionment, which is why the only natural persons who receive “gross income” as defined in the I.R.C. are “nonresident aliens” domiciled in territories of the United States who are employed as “public officers” of the United States government. This is confirmed by examining the 1954 code version of 26 U.S.C. §931:

Sec. 931. INCOME FROM SOURCES WITHIN POSSESSIONS OF THE UNITED STATES [provided in part]

(a) General rule.

In the case of individual citizens of the United States, gross income means only gross income from sources within the (federal) United States if the conditions of both paragraph (1) and paragraph (2) are satisfied:

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

(1) 3-year period. If 80 percent or more of the gross income of such citizen...was derived from sources within a possession of the United States; and

(2) Trade or business [political office]. If 50 percent or more of his gross income was derived from the active conduct of a trade or business within a possession of the United States either on his own account or as an employee or agent of another.

...

(h) Employees of the United States

For purposes of this section, amounts paid for services performed by a citizen of the United States as an employee of the United States or any agency thereof shall be deemed to be derived from sources within the United States.

Remember that “trade or business” above means the holding of a “public office” as legally defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

In 1986, Congress obfuscated this section to conceal the truth, as revealed in the article below. Keep in mind that older versions of the code, however, remain in effect unless explicitly repealed:

There are two types of “gross income”:

1. “Income” of corporations involved in foreign and international commerce, as described in the previous section. This “income” is defined as “corporate profit” by the U.S. supreme Court, as revealed later in section 5.6.5, which is the next section. The “sources” for this type of income are described in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) and include or mean only corporate profit from Foreign Sales Corporations (FSC’s) and Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC’s), as revealed later in section 5.6.10.

2. Earnings of “public officers” of the United States government. These earnings come from the salaries of “public officers” of the United States government, which are called “personal services” (see section 3.12.1.16) and which are “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” (see section 3.12.1.22). “Trade or business” is then defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”. 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1)(iv) also says that this type of income must be earned by a “nonresident alien” or else it is not “gross income”. Anyone else who earning monies that are not connected with political office in the United States government, according to 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1), it is not subject to Subtitle A income tax. 26 U.S.C. §872(a)(1) says this type of “gross income” can also come from other sources within the federal United States government. This type of “gross income” is described and detailed later in section 5.6.10, entitled “The Public Officer Kickback Position”. Recall that the President, Representatives, and Senators must all be “Citizens of the United States” under the Constitution. They are the ONLY people who indeed hold “public office” in the United States government, other than appointees of the president, and these are the people who are identified as “nonresident aliens” in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1). This reinforces our definition of “nonresident alien” and provides a nice prelude to the description of the Non-Resident Non-Person Position beginning later in section 5.6.13. For all of these public officers, declaring their earnings from political office as “gross income” is essentially considered an implied obligation of their employment agreement. It is an undocumented requirement to hold political office that all office holders, who are our “leaders” must maintain the fiction of the federal income tax by filing their income tax return every year and making it into a major media event. If they don’t, the Ponzi scheme will collapse and their federal pension will be adversely affected.

The previous section talks about the first type of “gross income”, which is what the Supreme Court calls “corporate profit” and which is earned by corporations. As we stated at the beginning of that section, you must earn “income” as legally defined before you can earn “gross income”, so technically, your compensation as a private person must meet both of the above requirements in order to be “gross income”. Because the Supreme Court has ruled repeatedly that the income tax is and always has been an indirect tax, then it can’t be on natural persons. That is why there can’t be a liability statute in the context of natural persons under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. We’ll now therefore devote the remainder of this section to talking about the second type of “gross income” above, which is that in the context of the specific type of “individual” mentioned in the Internal Revenue Code. This “individual” is a “public officer” of the United States government only.

can confirm this by looking at who levy and distrain may be instituted against in 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) for the collection of this tax, which is a “public officer” or instrumentality of the U.S. government:

Title 26 > Subtitle E > Chapter 64 > Subchapter D > Part II > Sec. 6331.
Sec. 6331. Levy and distraint.

(a) Authority of Secretary.

If any person liable to pay any tax neglects or refuses to pay the same within 10 days after notice and demand, it shall be lawful for the Secretary to collect such tax (and such further sum as shall be sufficient to cover the expenses of the levy) by levy upon all property and rights to property (except such property as is exempt under section 6334) belonging to such person or on which there is a lien provided in this chapter for the payment of such tax. Levy may be made upon the accrued salaries or wages of any officer, employee, or elected official, of the United States, the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of the United States or the District of Columbia, by serving a notice of levy on the employer (as defined in section 3401(d)) of such officer, employee, or elected official. [5] If the Secretary makes a finding that the collection of such tax is in jeopardy, notice and demand for immediate payment of such tax may be made by the Secretary and, upon failure or refusal to pay such tax, collection thereof by levy shall be lawful without regard to the 10-day period provided in this section. [Underscore added for emphasis]

The term “gross income” was first introduced and used in the Revenue Act of 1918. Here is the definition from that Act:

Sec. 213. That for the purposes of this title...the term “gross income”-

(a) Includes gains, profits, and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal service (including the case of the President of the United States, the judges of the Supreme and inferior courts of the United States, and all other officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, Alaska, Hawaii, or any political subdivision thereof, or of the District of Columbia, the compensation received as such), of whatever kind and in whatever form paid, or from professions, vocations, trades, businesses, commerce, or sales, or dealings in property, whether real or personal, growing out of the ownership or use of or interest in such property; also from interest, rent, dividends, securities, or the transaction of any business carried on for gain or profit, or gains or profits and income derived from any source whatever....[emphasis added]

In the above, the term “personal service” is defined as labor in connection with a “trade or business”, which is then defined as the holding of a public office. See 26 C.F.R. §1.162-7, and pay special attention to the phrase “trade or business”, which means “public office”.

Title 26: Internal Revenue
PART I—INCOME TAXES
Itemized Deductions for Individuals and Corporations

§1.162-7 Compensation for personal services.

(a) There may be included among the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred in carrying on any trade or business a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services actually rendered. The test of deductibility in the case of compensation payments is whether they are reasonable and are in fact payments purely for services.

The I.R.C. only tells half the story on “gross income” and could easily deceive the average American into believing that the money they make is “gross income”. The place where the fraud of the income tax becomes abundantly obvious is in the implementing regulations found in 26 C.F.R.. The Federal Register Act, found in 44 U.S.C. Chapter 15, says in 44 U.S.C. §1505(a) that every document which has “general applicability and legal effect” must be published in the Federal Register. This means that anything which will apply to the public at large must be published in the Federal Register. This includes any law which imposes a penalty or enforcement authority on the public at large.

Title 44 > Chapter 15 > Sec. 1505.
Sec. 1505. - Documents to be published in Federal Register

(a) Proclamations and Executive Orders; Documents Having General Applicability and Legal Effect; Documents Required To Be Published by Congress.

There shall be published in the Federal Register -
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

(1) Presidential proclamations and Executive orders, except those not having general applicability and legal effect or effective only against Federal agencies or persons in their capacity as officers, agents, or employees thereof;

(2) documents or classes of documents that the President may determine from time to time have general applicability and legal effect; and

(3) documents or classes of documents that may be required so to be published by Act of Congress.

For the purposes of this chapter every document or order which prescribes a penalty has general applicability and legal effect.

Laws which impose penalties on the public at large are called “Public Laws” or “general laws”. Laws which impose penalties on specific classes or groups of citizens only and not on everyone are referred to as “special law”.

“special law. One relating to particular persons or things; one made for individual cases or for particular places or districts; one operating upon a selected class, rather than upon the public generally. A private law. A law is "special" when it is different from others of the same general kind or designed for a particular purpose, or limited in range or confined to a prescribed field of action or operation. A "special law" relates to either particular persons, places, or things or to persons, places, or things which, though not particularized, are separated by any method of selection from the whole class to which the law might, but not such legislation, be applied. Utah Farm Bureau Ins. Co. v. Utah Ins. Guaranty Ass’n, Utah, 564 P.2d. 731, 754. A special law applies only to an individual or a number of individuals out of a single class similarly situated and affected, or to a special locality, Board of County Com’rs of Lemhi County v. Swensen, Idaho, 80 Idaho 198, 327 P.2d. 361, 362. See also Private bill; Private law. Compare General law; Public law.”

For instance, laws that only apply to federal “employees” are not required to be published in the Federal Register under the Federal Register Act. Refer to section 4.5.4.17 or the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005, where a table is provided of enforcement statutes and their corresponding implementing regulations and show that all enforcement authorities under the Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A have no implementing regulations. This confirms that the I.R.C. is “special law” that only applies to federal “public officers” and “employees”.

The Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A can therefore best be described as special law which applies only to federal “public officers” and corporations domiciled in or residing in the federal zone or who are receiving federal payments. Our deceitful government has done its best to disguise this fact over the years but the truth still remains in the Internal Revenue Code and 26 C.F.R. for those who want to see it, albeit in obfuscated form.

There are lots of ways to prove this as it pertains to “individuals”. For instance, the definition of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) refers not to “all individuals”, but to “an individual”:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle E > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701 - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof -

(1) Person

The term “person” shall be construed to mean and include [throughout the Internal Revenue Code] an individual, a trust, estate, partnership, association, company or corporation.

This means that there is a very specific type of “individual” referred to in the I.R.C. which is further defined elsewhere and it is for us to determine what the characteristics of this “individual” are. This individual, as you will find out later, is a person contracted with or employed with the U.S. and holding “public office”, which is the excise taxable activity one must be engaged in order to earn “gross income”.

Another way to show that the Internal Revenue Code is “special law” is by referring to it as a “Act of Congress”. All Acts of Congress are applicable only inside the federal zone by default.
"A canon of construction which teaches that of Congress, unless a contrary intent appears, is meant to apply only within the territorial jurisdiction of the United States."

[U.S. v. Spejar, 338 U.S. 217 at 222 (1949)]

And here is a very revealing definition of “territory” from the Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.) legal encyclopedia:

86 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Territories (2003)

"§1. Definitions, Nature, and Distinctions

"The word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization has a distinctive, fixed, and legal meaning under the political institutions of the United States, and does not necessarily include all the territorial possessions of the United States, but may include only the portions thereof which are organized and exercise governmental functions under act of congress."

"While the term 'territory' is often loosely used, and has even been construed to include municipal subdivisions of a territory, and 'territories of the' United States is sometimes used to refer to the entire domain over which the United States exercises dominion, the word 'territory,' when used to designate a political organization, has a distinctive, fixed, and legal meaning under the political institutions of the United States, and the term 'territory' or 'territories' does not necessarily include only a portion or the portions thereof which are organized and exercise government functions under acts of congress. The term 'territories' has been defined to be political subdivisions of the outlying dominion of the United States, and in this sense the term 'territory' is not a description of a definite area of land but of a political unit governing and being governed as such. The question whether a particular subdivision or entity is a territory is not determined by the particular form of government with which it is, more or less temporarily, invested.

"'Territories' or 'territory' as including 'state' or 'states.' While the term 'territories of the' United States may, under certain circumstances, include the states of the Union, as used in the federal Constitution and in ordinary acts of congress "territory" does not include a foreign state.

"As used in this title, the term 'territories' generally refers to the political subdivisions created by congress, and not within the boundaries of any of the several states."

[86 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Territories, §1 (2003)]

There are very few exceptions to this general rule and we list them all in section 5.6.9 of the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008. Here is the definition of the limitation of Congress’ criminal jurisdiction, for instance:

[TITLE 18 > PART III > CHAPTER 301 > Sec. 4001.
Sec. 4001. - Limitation on detention; control of prisons

(a) No citizen shall be imprisoned or otherwise detained by the United States except pursuant to an Act of Congress.

The civil jurisdiction of the District Courts of the United States is the same as above in most cases. The older version of Rule 54(c ) of Federal Rules of Criminal Procedure reveals where Acts of Congress apply:

"Act of Congress" includes any act of Congress locally applicable to and in force in the District of Columbia, in Puerto Rico, in a territory or in an insular possession."

Therefore, “Acts of Congress” are only applicable inside the federal zone and nowhere else by default. Therefore, in order to be subject to any kind of penalty or collection or enforcement action, you must reside in the federal zone and there must be an implementing regulation found in 26 C.F.R. which authorizes the enforcement action per the Federal Register Act, 44 U.S.C. Chapter 15. We devote a great deal of study to the need for implementing regulations in section 3.15 and later in sections 5.4.17 and 5.4.18, so we won’t repeat ourself here again.

Another way to show that the Internal Revenue Code is special law is to describe it as a type of “police power”. Police powers are reserved entirely to the states under the Tenth Amendment. The only jurisdiction the feds have within states comes from the commerce clause of the Constitution found in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3. The power of taxation directly on individuals is a police power. The purpose of “police powers” and the role of our state governments is to protect the public... health, safety, and morals of the people within their jurisdiction. To the extent that they allow the federal government to impose direct taxes on the general population, which amount to involuntary servitude and slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, is the extent to which they have abdicated their role to protect their respective citizens. It is precisely this conflict of interest that results from direct taxes which explains why virtually every country in the world that implements an income tax follows the following simple model:

In the context of the above, the “aliens” are “residents” in the I.R.C. and are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). The “citizens” are “U.S. citizens” born in the District of Columbia or a federal territory and excluding those born in states of the Union. “Abroad” means in a country outside of one of the states of the Union. You can investigate this matter further earlier in section 4.9.

So from many different angles, we have shown that the only “individuals” who earn “gross income” are “public officers” of the United States government and that the income tax that most people falsely “believe” they are obligated to pay only applies inside the federal zone and abroad. Even within the federal zone, the tax is still entirely voluntary because there is no liability statute.

“Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not distraint.”

Because the word “tax” excludes all “voluntarily” paid amounts, as we showed earlier in section 5.1.8, then technically it amounts to fraud to even call it a “tax” in the context of biological people, even if you are a “public officer” of the United States government. The result of all this analysis is that all amounts you pay the federal government under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A as an income “tax” amount to “donations”, and therefore you can fill in any amount on your tax return for “income” and not commit fraud. All you are saying is that this is the amount you “elect” or “volunteer” or “designate” to be subject to Subtitle A federal income “taxes”. You have to qualify and explain what you are doing on your return and its attachments for such a case, but this is a perfectly legal way to submit a tax return as a natural person. All you have to do is explain on an attachment to the return the following, and make sure the return reads “Not valid without the attached statement, ___ pages, with my signature”:

1. You are not a “public officer” or federal “employee”.
2. You are not a “transferee” for government property under 26 U.S.C. §6091.
3. There are no implementing regulations authorizing any kind of “enforcement” action as it pertains to Subtitle A income taxes, and this includes assessment, collection, record keeping, or penalties.
4. The IRS is not an enforcement agency but an administrative agency, because it does not fall under the authority of the Undersecretary for Enforcement within the Treasury Department. This is confirmed by the pocket commission of the agent processing your return, who has an administrative rather than enforcement pocket commission.
5. There is no liability statute so the “tax” is “voluntary”. This agrees with the rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court in Flora v. U.S., 362 U.S. 145 (1960)

For further details on using this approach, refer to the following sections:

2. Section 5.3.1 entitled “‘Taxpayer’ v. ‘Nontaxpayer’”.
3. Our sample federal income tax filing attachment found in section 2.9.1 of the following:
   Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
4. “Request Income Tax Refunds for the Current Year and the Past Two Years”, section 4.5.4.12 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005.

We have taken the time to summarize how to compute “gross income” and “taxable income” based on the statutes and regulations discussed in this section and elsewhere. The results are summarized in the tables below. We have one table for each type of entity:

1. Natural persons
2. Corporations
For each table below, we have given you the equivalent of a spreadsheet format and showed you how to compute “taxable income”. The items in brackets “[ ]” indicate where to go in the law to learn what goes in that block. For instance, column 5, row 2 lists “[26 U.S.C. §61(a)(1)]” as the place to go to find out where “gross income” is defined for “public officers” of the United States government. If you wanted to make a worksheet out of this for your reuse, just remove the bracketed content of each cell under column 5, leaving an empty cell to fill in your amount and do computations. After this table, we will give you an example and show you how to use this table. Note that these examples ONLY apply to Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. Other types of taxes, such as excise taxes on imported oil or gasoline, are likely to be very different. The fact that you earn “gross income” or “taxable income” doesn’t necessarily imply that you owe a tax, because as we pointed out earlier in section 5.6.1, you must first be “liable” for the tax in order to be a “taxpayer” who has a legal duty to pay the tax.

NOTES ON ABOVE TABLE:

1. There is no “gross income” associated with activities occurring without the federal “United States”. This is because 26 C.F.R. §1.862-1(b) states that all earnings or profit from without the federal “United States” must use 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) for computing gross income, and this section only deals with sources within the federal “United States”. This means, effectively, that no income from sources without the federal “United States” can be classified as “gross income” because it does not originate from within the federal “United States”.
2. The earnings of “nonresident aliens” are not classified as “gross income” under 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(3)(C)(i) if they are not associated with a “trade or business” (public office) within the federal “United States”. Most people who live in a state of the Union fall into this category, because they are “nationals” and they do not hold public office.

Let’s apply the above table to a specific situation. Let’s say that you are a Congressman who decides to volunteer to pay income tax. There is not statute making you liable to pay the tax but you decide to volunteer to be a “taxpayer” because you’ll never join the good-old boy club and be a Presidential Candidate unless you pretend like you have to pay income tax. Your salary is paid by the federal government, which originates from sources within the federal “United States” and it is $150,000/year. You also have investments in your home state from a business and profit from these amounts to $50,000 for the year and is from sources without the federal “United States”. You also had $10,000 in business travel expenses from your job as a Congressman. You name is Strom Thurmond and you also collect Social Security in the amount of $1,500/month for a total of 18,000 per year. Here is the table above filled in with the data from this example.

NOTES ON ABOVE TABLE:

1. There is no “gross income” associated with activities occurring without the federal “United States”. This is because 26 C.F.R. §1.862-1(b) states that all earnings or profit from without the federal “United States” must use 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f) for computing gross income, and this section only deals with sources within the federal “United States”. This means, effectively, that no income from sources without the federal “United States” can be classified as “gross income” because it does not originate from within the federal “United States”.
5.6.7 You Don’t Earn “Wages” Under Subtitle C Unless you Volunteer on a W-4

“Every man has a property in his own person. This nobody has any right to but himself. The labor of his body and the work of his hands are properly his.”

[John Locke, 1690]

A very hot topic in the tax honesty movement is the concept of the taxability of “wages”. Many people argue that “wages” received by natural persons (people) are not taxable. Like all legal issues, we must ensure in making such a statement that we know whether we mean “wages” as legally defined or wages in the more common and general sense because the two are not the same. On this subject of the taxability of the fruit of a man’s labor, the Supreme Court has said:

“Every man has a natural right to the fruits of his own labor, is generally admitted; and no other person can rightfully deprive him of those fruits, and appropriate them against his will...”

In common usage, the “fruit of a man’s labor” and “wages” are thought to be equivalent. However, the definitions of terms used within the Internal Revenue Code are such that “wages” means something entirely different than common usage. It is strictly true that “wages” are taxable under subtitle C of the Internal Revenue Code, but “wages” as defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a) can be taxable only when received by those who volunteer by submitting an IRS Form W-4. We’ll explain that later in this section.

Most people dig themselves a deep hole and literally jump into it by never bothering to distinguish between the layman’s definition of “wages” and the legal definition, and we must be very careful in all our communications to distinguish which of these two definitions we are referring to. If you haven’t figured this out by now, we emphasize repeatedly throughout this book that “presumptions” will get you into a heap of trouble in the legal field and that they are also a sin condemned in the Bible that you ought to avoid.156 We therefore need to be VERY explicit in defining the terms we use in the legal realm in every context they are used or we will get into BIG trouble because our government opponents will try to use false “presumption” as a weapon against us during litigation. In this book, we keep the legal version of words in quotes and the layman’s version without quotes so it is especially clear which of the two definitions we are using. If you try to claim that “wages” aren’t taxable on your tax return and refuse to list them, however, your claim will most often be disallowed by the IRS because you argued the wrong point. Why is that? We’ll explain.

The term “Wages” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401 as follows. Pay particular attention to the words “employee” and “trade or business”:

(a) Wages

For purposes of this chapter, the term "wages" means all remuneration (other than fees paid to a public official) for services performed by an employee for his employer, including the cash value of all remuneration (including benefits) paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include remuneration paid -

[...]

(4) for service not in the course of the employer’s trade or business performed in any calendar quarter by an employee, unless the cash remuneration paid for such service is $50 or more and such service is performed by an individual who is regularly employed by such employer to perform such service. For purposes of this paragraph, an individual shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if -

(A) on each of some 24 days during such quarter such individual performs for such employer for some portion of the day service not in the course of the employer's trade or business; or

(B) such individual was regularly employed (as determined under subparagraph (A)) by such employer in the performance of such service during the preceding calendar quarter; or

(5) for services by a citizen or resident of the United States for a foreign government or an international organization; or

(6) for such services, performed by a nonresident alien individual, as may be designated by regulations prescribed by the Secretary; or

(7) Repealed. Pub. L. 89-809, title I, Sec. 103(k), Nov. 13, 1966, 80 Stat. 1554)

(A) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof) -
   (i) performed by a citizen of the United States if, at the time of the payment of such from gross income under section 911; or

   (ii) performed in a foreign country or in a possession of the United States by such a

   (other than Puerto Rico), if it is reasonable to believe that at least 80 percent of the remuneration to be paid to the employee by such employer during the calendar year will be for such services; or
   (C) for services for an employer (other than the United States or any agency thereof) performed by a citizen of the United States within Puerto Rico, if it is reasonable to

(A) from or to a trust described in section 401(a) which is exempt from tax under section 501(a) at the time of such payment unless such payment is made to an employee of the trust as remuneration for services rendered as such employee and not as a beneficiary of the trust; or
(B) under or to an annuity plan which, at the time of such payment, is a plan described in section 403(a); or
(C) for a payment described in section 402(h)(1) and (2) if, at the time of such payment, it is reasonable to believe that the employee will be entitled to an exclusion under such section for payment; or
(D) under an arrangement to which section 408(p) applies; or
(13) pursuant to any provision of law other than section 5(c) or 6(1) of the Peace Corps Act, for service performed as a volunteer or volunteer leader within the meaning of such Act; or
(14) in the form of group-term life insurance on the life of an employee; or
(15) to or on behalf of an employee if (and to the extent that) at the time of the payment of such remuneration it is reasonable to believe that a corresponding deduction is allowable under section 217 (determined without regard to section 274(n)); or (16) [...]
(A) as tips in any medium other than cash;
(B) as cash tips to an employee in any calendar month in the course of his employment by an employer unless the amount of such cash tips is $20 or more; [1]
   [...]

The first thing we notice about the above is that the “employee” cannot earn “wages” if he or she:

1. Is NOT a “public office” in the U.S. government as defined above. See 26 U.S.C. §3401(a) and 26 U.S.C. §6041.
2. Is working for a “employer” who is not engaged in a “trade or business” and remuneration is received in other than cash.
   A “trade or business” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office” in the U.S. government and not expanded elsewhere to include anything else. See 26 U.S.C. §3401(a)(11).
3. Is not regularly or permanently employed and is only a “temp”. See 26 U.S.C. §3401(a)(4) above.
5. Receives the payment other than U.S. dollars. For instance, payments in gold bullion are not “wages”. See 26 C.F.R.
   §31.3401(a)(11)-1(a).

The key to deciphering this lawyer speak above (does anyone trust lawyers?) is to realize the definition of “employee”, as follows:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c) Employee: “…the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision, thereof.

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term ‘employee’ also includes an officer of a corporation.”

Therefore, we can’t be an “employee” unless we work for the U.S. government as a “public officer”, and such government officers cannot earn “wages” under 26 U.S.C. §3401(a) UNLESS they are NOT elected or appointed “public officials”.

If we work for a private, nonfederal employer outside of the federal zone, we therefore:

1. Cannot be an “employee” as defined above in the regulations.

   Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 5.14.10.2 (09-30-2004)
   Payroll Deduction Agreements

2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction agreements. Taxpayers should determine whether their employers will accept and process executed agreements before agreements are submitted for approval or finalized. [http://www.irs.gov/irm/part5/ch14s10.html]

2. Cannot be involved in “employment” as defined in the Internal Revenue Code:

   26 C.F.R. §31.3121(d)-2 Who are employers

   (c) Although a person may be an employer under this section, services performed in his employ may be of such a nature, or performed under such circumstances, as not to constitute employment (see §31.3121(b)–3).

   Title 26: Internal Revenue
   PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE
   Subpart B—Federal Insurance Contributions Act (Chapter 21, Internal Revenue Code of 1954)
   General Provisions
   § 31.3121(b)-3 Employment; services performed after 1954.

   (a) In general. Whether services performed after 1954 constitute employment is determined in accordance with the provisions of section 3121(b).

   (b) Services performed within the United States [District of Columbia]. Services performed after 1954 within the United States (see §31.3121(e)–1) by an employee for his employer, unless specifically excepted by section 3121(b), constitute employment. With respect to services performed within the United States, the place where the contract of service is entered into is immaterial. The citizenship or residence of the employee or of the employer also is immaterial except to the extent provided in any specific exception from employment. Thus, the employee and the employer may be citizens and residents of a foreign country and the contract of service may be entered into in a foreign country, and yet, if the employee under such contract performs services within the United States, there may be to that extent employment.

   "(c) Services performed outside the United States—(1) In general. Except as provided in paragraphs (c)(2) and (3) of this section, services performed outside the United States [District of Columbia] (see §31.3121(e)–1) do not constitute employment.”

3. Cannot earn “wages” as legally defined.
4. Cannot have anything reported in the “wages” block on a W-2 and that block must read “0” for “wages, tips, and other compensation”.

So how do our public dis-servants turn “compensation for labor” into something that fits the legal definition “wages” above so it can be taxed? Once again, you have to dig deep into the regulations to find the secret:

26 C.F.R. Sec. 31.3401(a)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements.

(a) In general. Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the regulations thereunder, the term “wages” includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (Section 31.3401(a)-3).
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

(b) REMUNERATION FOR SERVICES.

(1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the amounts referred to in paragraph (a) of this section include any remuneration for services performed by an employee for an employer which, without regard to this section, does not constitute wages under section 3401(a). For example, remuneration for services performed by an agricultural worker or a domestic worker in a private home (amounts which are specifically excluded from the definition of wages by section 3401(a)(2) and (3), respectively) are amounts with respect to which a voluntary withholding agreement may be entered into under section 3402(p). See Sections 31.3401(c)-1 and 31.3401(d)-1 for the definitions of "employee" and "employer".

So the bottom line is, if you fill out a W-4 and request voluntary withholding, even though you don’t fit the legal definition of an “employee”, then you consent to treat your earnings as “wages” as legally defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401(a) which are subject to tax under the I.R.C., Subtitle C! That’s why we also don’t recommend filling out W-4 Exempts and instead prefer to use the W-8 form.

IMPORTANT: NEVER, EVER fill out and submit a W-4 to change your withholding with your private employer. It’s the WRONG form! The Correct form is the W-8 or W-8BEN form. The following resource is helpful for directions on how to fill out this form:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

The W-8 or W-8BEN forms have the following advantages that the IRS Form W-4 does not enjoy:

1. You identify yourself as a “nonresident alien” by submitting the form. That means you are “nonresident” to the federal “United States” and therefore are outside of federal jurisdiction. Consequently, the form doesn’t need to be sent to the IRS automatically like the Exempt W-4, so you aren’t putting yourself on report by submitting it.
2. You do not identify yourself as a federal “employee” when you submit the form.
3. The IRS cannot penalize you for making tax deductions zero with this form. This is because once again, you are outside of their jurisdiction, and the IRS can’t affect anything outside of federal jurisdiction.
4. The form is not sent to the IRS when you submit it. It says that right on the form.
5. Unlike the IRS Form W-4 Exempt, the form does not expire every February and have to be resubmitted annually. Instead, it is good for three years.

At law, labor is property. In fact, the Supreme Court in Butchers’ Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884) has identified labor as man’s most precious property. Therefore, the exchange of one’s labor as a private employee (one who does not work for the federal government as a “public officer”) for wages (not “wages” as defined in the I.R.C., but just wages in the conventional sense) or salary (which are also property) is considered by law to be an exchange of properties of equal value in which there is NO gain or profit for the person who performed the labor. Their employer can derive profit, but a natural person cannot profit from wages. Such a property exchange of equal value cannot therefore be taxed because there is no profit or gain. The below statute makes the above assertions very clear:

United States Code
TITLE 15 - COMMERCE AND TRADE
CHAPTER 1 - MONOPOLIES AND COMBINATIONS IN RESTRANitory OF TRADE
Sec. 17. Antitrust laws not applicable to labor organizations

The labor of a human being is not a commodity or article of commerce....

Based on the above, it’s reasonable to ask:

“...The federal government derives most of its authority to reach into the states based on the so called ‘commerce clause’, which is found in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution. This is the section of the Constitution which empowers Congress to regulate and tax foreign commerce, and if labor and the wages (in a common sense and not in the context of the internal revenue code) or property that result from that labor inside the sovereign 50 Union states cannot be a commodity or article of commerce, then where does the federal government derive its power to tax earnings from labor?”
The answer is, they have no power to impose an involuntary or mandatory tax on the earnings of private, non-federal businesses inside the sovereign 50 Union states and never have! Read my lips again, and you can trust these lips, unlike those of lying politicians and the IRS who are on the take:

“The federal government has no lawful authority delegated from the U.S. constitution to impose a mandatory/involuntary tax on earnings outside of the federal United States and in the sovereign 50 Union states. Doing so is clearly illegal, and that is why there is no statute anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code making anyone liable to pay Subtitle A income taxes. As we explain in section 5.9, just about the whole constitution would have to be destroyed in order to make direct taxes on labor legal. So that we aren’t misquoted, the term “wages” as used in this quotation is not that defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401, but rather the wages of private, nonfederal employers.”

Therefore, one who works in an ordinary occupation for a private, non-federal employer is not a recipient of any “privilege” granted by government and is therefore not involved in an excise taxable activity, because he is merely exercising his constitutionally guaranteed right to work and earn a living. Under Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution, you have a right to contract, and that right extends to exchanging your labor for money, and the government may not interfere with that right to contract by stealing a portion of the monies exchanged because if they did, they would be violating that right. Courts have repeatedly ruled that no tax may be placed upon the exercise of rights. The reasoning of the founders and our courts was sensible. If the exercise of rights could be taxed, government could destroy them by excessive rates of taxation. Only “corporate profit” from importation of goods from outside the country is subject to a mandatory/enforced tax as per the U.S. Constitution, Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 and natural people don’t earn this kind of “profit”. This kind of activity, by the way, is a privileged activity under 26 U.S.C. §7001 for which all corporations involved must be “licensed”. It must be licensed because it is simultaneously subject to regulation and taxation by the federal government. The taxes paid under this corporate “license” are used to fund the cost of regulation and may not be used for more than that purpose.

When we are thinking about income taxes, we need to think very clearly. The Subtitles A and C income tax is an indirect excise tax. The Internal Revenue Code applies uniformly:

- Throughout the 50 Union states under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the Constitution for Subtitle D taxes (see the Definition of “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. Section 4612)
- Only within the federal zone and abroad for Subtitles A and C income taxes (see the Definition of “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9)) under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 of the Constitution.

Consequently, we have to be very clear in our minds about the following three issues.

WHO is the subject of the tax (what is the definition of “person” and “individual” in the meaning of the tax code)?

“Income” as Constitutionally defined ONLY as coming from corporations involved in foreign commerce. See:

- Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920)
- 26 C.F.R. §6671-1(b) in section 5.4.16.

Natural persons and “individuals” can “volunteer” to make their income taxable but there is no law that requires them to. A natural person can only earn “gross income” if two criteria are met:

1. They consent to be treated as a “taxpayer” who is therefore “subject to” the Internal Revenue Code AND
2. They identify the earnings that they want to subject to taxation as “effectively connected with a trade or business” as required under 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii).

WHAT is the definition of “income”?

The Supreme Court ruled in Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920) that Congress nor the Internal Revenue Code itself CANNOT define “income”, and it neither even tries to. Only the Constitution can define “income”. Income is defined as “corporate profit” from corporations involved in the privilege of conducting foreign commerce. Before you can have “gross income” you must have “income” and it must derive from taxable sources identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f). See sections 5.6.5 and 5.7.6.5 for further details on this subject.

It took us almost a year to document and fully discover the implications of the above very simple table. Unless we are very clear in our thinking in answering the above questions, we will cloud the application of the tax code, confuse the IRS, and they will disallow our claim! Please therefore keep this table utmost in your mind in all your dealings with the IRS.

Many people also try to argue with the IRS that their wages are not taxable, without clarifying what they mean by “wages” or whether they fit the description of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) or “individual”, which isn’t defined in the code but is defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c ). It is very common for the IRS to disallow claims for refund from people who try to argue that their wages aren’t taxable, however, and it’s the wrong point to argue with the IRS that will get you in trouble every time! You will get in trouble because your W-2 contains a lie in block 2 saying that you earned “wages” and you never refuted that evidence and clarified that you are not an “employee” and never consented or volunteered to participate in the revenue system. Have you ever wondered why 26 U.S.C. §61 does not list “wages” as a type of taxable income?

Instead, they try to confuse the issue with the following statement in that section identified as taxable: “Compensation for services, including fees, commissions, fringe benefits, and similar items;”. There is a very good reason why they didn’t just come out and say “wages are taxable”. This is a result of the following analysis and conclusions:

1. An agreement between a private employer and a private employee is a contract. Neither the states nor the federal government are allowed under the Constitution to interfere with the right to contract, or to directly reduce the compensation received by the private employee by the private employer except by a court order, which is a requirement of the Fifth Amendment. See Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution:

   Article 1, Section 10

   No State shall enter into any Treaty, Alliance, or Confederation; grant Letters of Marque and Reprisal; coin Money; emit Bills of Credit; make any Thing but gold and silver Coin a Tender in Payment of Debts; pass any Bill of Attainder, ex post facto Law, or Law impairing the Obligation of Contracts, or grant any Title of Nobility.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren't Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

2. The Public Salary Tax Act of 1939 and the devious redefinition of “gross income”.

When Congress revised the 1939 Internal Revenue Code came out with the 1954 code, they removed the specific mention of wages as being taxable. Why would Congress REMOVE wages from the list of items of gross income if they wanted it to be taxable? Here is the redefinition:

1.1 26 U.S.C. §22(a) entitled “Gross income(a) General definition” states:

   Gross income” includes gains, profits, and income derived from salaries, wages, or compensation for personal services...

1.2 26 U.S.C. Section 61(a)(1), entitled “Gross income defined”, says the following:

   Except as otherwise provided in this subtitle, gross income means all income from whatever source derived, including (but not limited to) the following items:

   (1) Compensation for services, including fees, commissions, fringe benefits, and similar items.

The above changes were based on the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939, which was passed after the 1939 code revision. The Act, which has never been repealed, was extremely significant because it amends and redefines the words “gross income” [not “income’] which is the basis for calculating “taxable income,” to include ONLY “compensation for services” (as public servants) earned by officers and employees of a State. As will be later documented, in statutory construction of the word “including” means “only” and cannot be expanded to add other elements not within the exact “meaning of the definition.” The meaning here is “government employees” and can’t be expanded to also include “private sector employees.”

Public Salary Tax Act of 1939

TITLE I-

SECTION 1.

“§22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code relating to the definition of ‘gross income,’ is amended after the words “compensation for personal service’ the following: ‘including personal service as an officer or employee of a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing.”

“Wages” and “Compensation for personal services” are ONLY earned by public employees. This is why the Government rightfully argues “Wages are Gross Income.”. According to their definition of “wages”, they’re right, but also according to their definition of “employee”, you don’t earn “wages”! However, by such definition, compensation for labor in the private sector is not “wages” and is not “compensation for personal services” unless you fill out a voluntary withholding agreement (W-4). Here is the definition of “personal services”, and note that “trade or business” in that definition means the holding of a public office:

26 C.F.R. Sec. 1.469-9 Rules for certain rental real estate activities.

(b)(4) PERSONAL SERVICES.

Personal services means any work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business. However, personal services do not include any work performed by an individual in the individual’s capacity as an investor as described in section 1.469-5T(j)(2)(ii).

Elected and appointed government employees are considered to be public servants, exercising “official privileges”, while employed. According to a Freedom of Information Act response in our possession, the income tax is applicable to those who chose to make themselves liable by entering into contracts with the U.S. Government. Also, such paychecks come from the District of Columbia, giving them compensation “effectively connected to” a federal area (from “within the United States” under 26 U.S.C. §861) under exclusive federal United States jurisdiction.

3. Labor is property relative to natural persons, as ruled by the U.S. supreme Court in 1883 in the case of Butchers’ Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884). We repeat that ruling here for your benefit:

"Among these unalienable rights, as proclaimed in that great document [the Declaration of Independence] is the right of men to pursue their happiness, by which is meant, the right any lawful business or vocation, in any manner not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, which may increase their prosperity or develop their faculties, so as to give them their highest enjoyment...It has been well said that, THE PROPERTY WHICH EVERY MAN HAS IS HIS OWN LABOR, AS IT IS THE ORIGINAL FOUNDATION OF ALL OTHER PROPERTY SO IT IS THE MOST SACRED AND INVOLVABLE..."

This is easy to see, because if labor had no value or wasn’t property or something they could acquire, then people wouldn’t be willing to pay for it!

4. Receipt of earnings in connection with personal labor by a natural person constitutes an equal exchange of one type of property for another: Labor exchanged for money.

5. Since the income tax is a tax on profit, and since receipt of wages by natural persons who don’t work for the federal government and is an equal exchange of property, there can be no “profit” involved, and therefore no tax on wages as income. However, money received by corporations (involved in foreign commerce) in exchange for labor of their employees is taxable after the cost of producing the labor is deducted to arrive at corporate profit. This conclusion is supported by the following cites:

"Income within the meaning of the Sixteenth Amendment and the Revenue Act, means ‘gain’... and in such connection ‘gain’ means profit...proceeding from property, severed from capital, however invested or employed, and coming in, received, or drawn by the taxpayer, for his separate use, benefit and disposal...”

[Stapler v. U.S., 21 F.Supp. 737 AT 739]

"There is a clear distinction between ‘profit’ and ‘wages’, or a compensation for labor. Compensation for labor (wages) cannot be regarded as profit within the meaning of the law. The word ‘profit’, as ordinarily used, means the gain made upon any business or investment -- a different thing altogether from the mere compensation for labor.”

[Oliver v. Halstead, 86 S.E.2nd. 859]

"After further consideration, we adhere to that view and accordingly hold that the Sixteenth Amendment does not authorize or support the tax in question. " (A tax on salary)

[Evans v. Gore, 253 U.S. 245]

"The phraseology of form 1040 is somewhat obscure... But it matters little what it does mean; the statute and the statute alone determines what is income to be taxed. It taxes only income "derived" from many different sources; one does not "derive income" by rendering services and charging for them... IRS cannot enlarge the scope of the statute.”

[Edwards v. Keith, 231 F. 110, 113]

"The 16th Amendment does not authorize laying of an income tax upon one person for the income derived solely from another. [wages]

[McCutchin v. Commissioner of IRS, 159 F.2d. 472 (1947)]

"Treasury regulations can add nothing to income as defined by Congress.”

[Blatt Co. v U.S., 59 S.Ct. 186]

"Tips are gifts and therefore are not taxable.”

[Okl v. United States, February 18, 1975, Las Vegas, Nevada]

"Property acquired by gift is excluded from gross income.”

[Commissioner of IRS v. Duberstein, 80 S.Ct. 1190]

"Decided cases have made the distinction between wages and income and have refused to equate the two.”

"Constitutionally the only thing that can be taxed by Congress is "income." And the tax actually imposed by Congress has been on net income as distinct from gross income. THE TAX IS NOT, NEVER HAS BEEN, AND COULDN'T CONSTITUTIONALLY BE UPON "GROSS RECEIPTS"..."
"...whatever may constitute income, therefore, must have the essential feature of gain to the recipient. This was true at the time of Eisner v Macomber, it was true under section 22(a) of the Internal Revenue Code of 1938, and it is likewise true under Section 61(a) of the IRS code of 1954. If there is not gain, there is not income, CONGRESS HAS TAXED INCOME, NOT COMPENSATION"!
[Conner v U.S., 303 F.Supp. 1187 Federal District Court, Houston, never overruled]

"Income" has been taken to mean the same thing as used in the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909, in the Sixteenth Amendment and in the various revenue acts subsequently passed ....
[Bowers v Kerbaugh-Empire Co., 271 U.S. 174]

"The conclusion reached in the Pollock Case did not in any degree involve holding that income taxes generically and necessarily came within the class of direct taxes on property, but on the contrary recognized the fact that taxation on income was in its nature an excise entitled to be enforced as such..."
[Brushaber v Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1]

"An income tax is neither a property tax nor a tax on occupations of common right, but is an EXCISE tax...The legislature may declare as 'privileged' and tax as such for state revenue, those pursuits not matters of common right, but it has no power to declare as a 'privilege' and tax for revenue purposes, occupations that are of common right."
[Sims v Ahrens, 271 S.W. 720]

"...the definition of 'income' approved by this court is: The gain derived from capital, from labor, or from both combined, provided it be understood to include profits gained through sale or conversion of capital assets."
[Eisner v Macomber, 252 U.S. 189, US Supreme court, never overruled]

"Reasonable compensation for labor or services rendered is not profit"
[Laureldale Cemetery Assoc v Matthews, 345 Pa. 239]

"Income is realized gain."
[Schuster v Helvering, 121 F 2nd 643]

6. A tax on natural persons as a percentage of income (not "gross income", but "income") from labor earnings amounts to slavery and violates the 13th Amendment, which outlawed slavery. For instance, if your marginal tax rate is 28% and you erroneously treat your wages as income, then you are a slave for the first 28% of the year. There is no other way to look at it. The only thing necessary to make you a complete slave would be for the combined sum of the State and Federal taxes on income to consume 100% of your wages! That will happen someday, we predict, if somewhere along the line people don't wake up and protest the unjust income tax we have now! Even the press agrees with this view of income taxes, because the newspapers frequently talk about "tax freedom day", which is the first day of the year in which the country as a whole quits working for the government and starts making money only for themselves. The implication is that everything before that is "slavery." Every year, tax freedom day gets later, and right now, we spend the first four months of the year as slaves to the government. This happens because the government raises tax rates and will continue to do so because people don't protest. However, a tax on corporate profits derived from wages is perfectly legal, ethical and moral.

7. It is not within the power of the government to impose a mandatory tax on the exercise of an occupation of common right, or natural right, or on the receipt and/or realization of the earnings received from the exercise of such a right. The Income Tax is an excise tax. To be legally required to pay an excise tax, a "person" must be involved in the exercise of a taxable privilege*. Most citizens in the course of supporting themselves are exercising no privileges upon which an excise tax could be imposed by law.

*Privilege: "A particular benefit or advantage enjoyed by a person, company, or class beyond the common advantages of their citizens..."

"Privilege...An advantage possessed by an individual or a class of persons, which is not possessed by others which exists by operation of law or by virtue of a license, franchise, grant or other permission...”
[Ballentine’s Law Dictionary]
“That the right to...accept employment as a laborer for hire is a fundamental right, is inherent in every free citizen, and is indisputable...”
[United States v. Morris, 125 F.Rept. 325, 331]

“The conclusion reached in the Pollock case...recognized the fact that taxation on income was, in its nature, an excise...”
[Brushaber v. Union Pacific Railroad Co., 240 U.S. 1, 15-17]

EXCISEES: “Excises are taxes laid upon...licenses to pursue certain [regulated] occupations and upon corporate privileges; the requirement to pay such taxes involves the exercise of privilege...Conceding the power of Congress to tax the business activities of private corporations, the tax must be measured by some standard...It is, therefore, well settled by the decisions of this court that when the sovereign authority has exercised the right to tax a legitimate subject of taxation as an exercise of a franchise or privilege, it is no objection that the measure taxation is income...”

“The obligation to pay an excise is based upon the voluntary action of the person taxed in performing the act, enjoying the privilege, or engaging in the occupation which is the subject of the excise, and the element of absolute and unavoidable demand is lacking.”
144]

“The individual, unlike the corporation, cannot be taxed for the mere privilege of existing. The corporation is an artificial entity which owes its existence and charter power to the State, but the individual's right to live and own property are natural rights for the enjoyment of which an excise cannot be imposed.”
[Redfield v. Fisher, 292 Oregon 814, 817]

“Legislature...cannot name something to be a taxable privilege unless it is first a privilege...” [Taxation West Key 43]... “The right to receive income or earnings is a right belonging to every person and realization and receipt of income is therefore not a ‘privilege’, that can be taxed.”
[Taxation West Key 933; Jack Cole Co. v. MacFarland, 337 S.E. 2d 453, Tenn.

“The term ‘excise tax’ is synonymous with ‘ privilege tax’; and the two have been used interchangeably.” Foster
& C. Co. v. Graham, 154 Tenn. 412, 285 S.W. 570, 47 A.L.R. 971. “Whether a tax is characterized in the statute imposing it, as a privilege tax or an excise tax is merely a choice of synonymous words. An excise tax is a privilege tax.”
877, 888]

“An excise is...a duty levied upon licenses to pursue certain trades or deal in certain commodities, upon official privileges, [i.e. a government job as an elected or appointed political official but NOT an occupation of common right] etc.”
[Black v. State, 113 Wis. 205, 89 N.W. 522]

“Excise tax is one not directly imposed upon persons or property.”
[New Neighborhoods v. W. VA, Workers Comp. Fund, 886 F.2d. 714 (4th Cir. 1989)]

80 L.Ed. 1372,56 S.Ct. 750

We said earlier that the income tax is a tax on corporate profit. How come “employees” of the federal government can have their wages taxed? The reason is because the U.S. government is a federal corporation! That’s right. In 1871, the District of Columbia became a Municipal Corporation, which also made them a federal corporation. “Employees” of that corporation then were in receipt of “profit” from the federal corporation! We have an article on our website that explains this conclusion completely below:

http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/16Amend/SpecialLaw/16thAmendIRCrrelevant.htm

Let’s tie together what we have learned about taxability of “wages” with a couple of fictitious examples to make the application of this knowledge crystal clear in your mind:

EXAMPLE 1: Kelly Girl (federal) Corporation

The Great $$ IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Let’s say the “person” in question is a federal corporation called “Kelley Girl”, which is a “temp agency” that farms out its employees to third parties. In effect, they sell labor for profit. The third parties they sell the labor to are located outside the United States and these parties reimburse them with “wages” for that labor. Because Kelly Girl flies their employees outside the United States to service their clients, they are involved in foreign commerce that comes under federal jurisdiction. Kelly Girl, in turn, deducts the cost of the labor to pay their employees’ wages and benefits. The difference between what third parties pay them for the labor and what they pay their employees is corporate profit derived from wages, or “compensation for services” as described in 26 U.S.C. §61(a)(1). That corporate profit is taxable under the Internal Revenue Code.

EXAMPLE 2: You

Now let’s say the “person” in question is a natural person and not a corporation. It is you! You sell your labor to third parties and receive “wages” or “compensation for personal services” in return. That money does fit the description of “gross income” defined in 26 U.S.C. section 61(a)(1) but it does not meet the definition of “income” as corporate profit since you are not a corporation (see Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920). Because the income tax is an excise or privilege tax and you are not an entity in receipt of taxable federal privileges, and because you do not have “income”, then you cannot have “gross income”. On your tax return, you would fill in “0” for your taxable income on your return and pay NO TAX on that income.

Now isn’t that interesting? Can you believe you have been fooled for so long? Why don’t they teach this stuff in our public schools? Could it be because the government funds them and they don’t want you knowing that you don’t have to pay taxes on wages? We think so! That is why we advocate getting your children out of the public schools as quickly as possible and why we advocate school vouchers.

If we try to claim on our tax return that “wages” are not taxable and identify ourselves as a “natural person”, as we did, the IRS came back with the following nonsense on their form letter 105C:

“The claim is based on your view that wages and salary don’t constitute taxable income. The U.S. Tax Court and other federal courts have rejected this argument repeatedly and have held that wages and salary are taxable income reportable at the full amount received.”

Nonsense! Did you notice that:

1. They didn’t cite any cases?
2. They didn’t cite any laws?
3. They violated their own Internal Revenue Manual, which states that they cannot apply U.S. Tax Court cases or any cases other than the Supreme Court against more than one taxpayer?

“Decisions made at various levels of the court system are considered to be interpretations of tax laws and may be used by either examiners or taxpayers to support a position.

Certain court cases lend more weight to a position than others. A case decided by the U.S. Supreme Court becomes the law of the land and takes precedence over decisions of lower courts. The Internal Revenue Service must follow Supreme Court decisions. For examiners, Supreme Court decisions have the same weight as the Code.

Decisions made by lower courts, such as Tax Court, District Courts, or Claims Court, are binding on the Service only for the particular taxpayer and the years litigated. Adverse decisions of lower courts do not require the Service to alter its position for other taxpayers.”

[Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.9.8 (05/14/99)]

So what kind of nonsense is this? This is an abuse of case law and a fraud if we ever saw one, but that is the kind of double-speak you can expect from the deceitful beast and monster we the people have allowed to evolve in the form of the IRS.

What do the state taxing authorities say about the taxability of wages? Here is what the California Franchise Tax Board (FTB) said in their response to a past Affidavit Request for Refund which contained as the last element a claim that wages are not taxable. The letter number was FTB 4619MEO (NEW 8-1999):

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Compensation received in whatever form, including wages for services, constitutes taxable income.

[Lonsdale v. Commissioner, 661 F.2d 71 (5th Cir. 1981)]

We then examined this case using VersusLaw (http://www.versuslaw.com). Here is what it said:

[12] As nearly as we can tell from their pro se brief, these arguments are two, or possibly three, in number. The first category of contentions may be summarized as that the United States Constitution forbids taxation of compensation received for personal services. This is so, appellants first argue, because the exchange of services for money is a zero-sum transaction, the value of the wages being exactly that of the labor exchanged for them and hence containing no element of profit. This contention is meritless. The Constitution grants Congress power to tax “incomes, from whatever source derived ...” U.S.Const. amend. XVI. Exercising this power, Congress has defined income as including compensation for services. 26 U.S.C. §61(a)(1). Broadly speaking, that definition covers all “accessions to wealth.” See Commissioner v. Glennshaw Glass Co., 348 U.S. 426, 431, 75 S.Ct. 473, 477, 9 L.Ed. 483 (1955). This definition is clearly within the power to tax “incomes” granted by the sixteenth amendment.

[13] Appellants next seem to argue, in reliance on Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 15 S.Ct. 673, 39 L.Ed. 759 (1895), and other authority, that, so understood, the income tax is a direct one that must be apportioned among the several states. U.S.Const. art. I, sec. 2. This requirement was eliminated by the sixteenth amendment.

[14] Finally, appellants argue that the seventh amendment to the Constitution entitles them to a jury trial in their case. That amendment, however, extends only to “suit at common law ....” This is not such a suit. Mathes v. Commissioner of Internal Revenue, 576 F.2d 70 (5th Cir. 1978).

[15] Appellants’ contentions are stale ones, long settled against them. As such they are frivolous. Bending over backwards, in indulgence of appellants’ pro se status, we today forbear the sanctions of Rule 38, Fed.R.App.P. We publish this opinion as notice to future litigants that the continued advancing of these long-defunct arguments invites such sanctions, however.

[16] AFFIRMED.

If you want more information on Commissioner v. Glennshaw Glass Co. cited above, we refer you to sections 5.7.6.4 and 5.7.6.11.7, where we concluded that the case was shortsighted and ignored taxable sources in 26 U.S.C. §861 and 862. Did you notice that they cited the weakest possible case to establish the taxability of wages and did not repeat the foundation of the appellants arguments? The appellant was a pro se litigant (defending himself without the aid of a lawyer) who probably had a weak defense or explanation of the issues. This is a very common approach for the government: If the case is appealed, the appellate court will pick the person with the weakest legal defense and poorest explanation of the issues, and make it into the equivalent of law without even examining all the issues in depth. Then they will cite that case in the future ad infinitum without ever in the future fully examining the foundational issues. In effect, one hasty person who can’t afford legal counsel destroys a good argument for the rest of the tax freedom community because of corrupt judges like judges Gee, Garza, and Tate who heard this case. Not only that, but look at all the people who this poor pro se was fighting against:

Alfred C. Bishop, Jr., Chief, John Menzel, Director, Tax Litigation, I. R. S., Washington, D.C., for respondent-appellee.

Do you detect that this was a battle of wits with an unarmed man? Other interesting conclusions in the above Lonsdale cite are:

“This requirement [of apportionment of direct taxes] was eliminated by the Sixteenth Amendment.”

This is an obvious fraud because the U.S. Supreme Court ruled in Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 (1916) that:

“. . . by the previous ruling it was settled that the provisions of the Sixteenth Amendment conferred no new power of taxation but simply prohibited the previous complete and plenary power of income taxation possessed by Congress from the beginning from being taken out of the category of indirect taxation to which it inherently belonged and being placed in the category of direct taxation subject to apportionment by a consideration of the sources from which the income was derived, that is by testing the tax not by what it was -- a tax on income, but by a mistaken theory deduced from the origin or source of the income taxed.”

This finding has never been overruled, and yet the Lonsdale case above completely ignored it. What kind of Alice in Wonderland fairytale illogic is this? If the Sixteenth Amendment conferred “no new powers of taxation” then how could it eliminate the apportionment requirement as cited above? That is why we say that more crime occurs in federal courtrooms

5.6.8 Employment Withholding Taxes are Gifts to the U.S. Government!

That’s right! If you examine a copy of IRS Publication 6209 available on our website, which shows you how to decode your Individual Master File (IMF), you will find out that employment withholding taxes that you pay after you fill out a W-4 with your employer are assigned to Tax Class 5, which is classified as “Estate and Gift Taxes”. Income taxes, on the other hand, are listed as tax class 2. Even more interesting, is that IRS Publication 6209, also called the “ADP/IDRS Manual” on their website, used to indicate what the various Tax Classes were, but when people found out that employment taxes were gifts and got outraged and litigated to get their money back, the IRS conveniently:

1. Removed the identification of Tax Classes from IRS Publication 6209, thus making it difficult to impossible for the average individual to figure out or prove in court that employment taxes are gifts.
2. Classified Publication 6209 on every page at the bottom as “For Official Use Only”, which is a code word for “Don’t Let This Get In The Hands of Those Taxpayer Bastards or They Will Sue us in Court!”.
3. Eventually removed the document entirely from their website and classified the entire document as “For Official Use Only” so that it cannot be disclosed to the public.

After all the difficulty raised by the embarrassing information exposed in this publication, the IRS subsequently restored the list of tax classes to the beginning of Chapter 4 of the 6209 Document 6209 on about June of 2002. The above types of shenanigans by the IRS are only the tip of the iceberg and provide compelling proof that getting the IRS to tell the WHOLE truth is like trying to get someone into a dentist’s office so you can pull their teeth out! Chapter 4 of this manual is available on our website below and the tax class table is listed on pages 4-1 and 4-2:

http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/IRS/6209Manual/toc.htm

The IRS, by the way, used to offer this document on their website but after we started referring to it in this book, they mysteriously removed it on March 17, 2003 to cover evidence of their wrongdoing. Below is a summary of that table, and keep in mind that the Tax Class is the third digit of any Document Locator Number (DLN) that you can request from your Individual Master File (IMF) using the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) request:

Doesn’t this kind of sly treachery and deception make you even a tiny bit mad? If I.R.C., Subtitle A really were mandatory, don’t you think that the W-2 would be listed as tax class 2? Instead, the employment taxes you pay are gifts to the government and then, in their guilt, they try to hide this fact from you by obfuscating Publication 6209 and classifying it as “For Official Use Only” so it doesn’t get into your hands! It is precisely this kind of treachery and deception that is the reason we like to say:

“The U.S. Government is so protective of the truth about income taxes that they have to surround it with a bodyguard of lies.”

[S. Jackson]

Incidentally, if you want to get a copy of IRS Publication 6209, it doesn’t appear on their Document 7130 which lists all of their forms and publications. You may also not be able to obtain it under the Freedom of Information Act (FOIA) because they simply do not want you to have it. Consequently, we have posted it on our website below:

5.6.9 The Deficiency Notices the IRS Sends To Individuals are Actually Intended for Businesses!

The IRS Document 6209 describes how to decode both your IRS Individual Master File (IMF) as well as the notices sent out by the IRS. You can obtain an electronic version of this manual from our website at the address below:

Chapter 9, section .01, on page 9-1 of the 1998 version of the IRS Document 6209 is entitled “Notices and Notice Codes” indicates the following:

Computer generated notices and letters of inquiry are mailed to taxpayers in connection with tax returns for BMF, IMF, and IRAF. Computer paragraph (CP) numbers (3-digit number for BMF AND IRAF, 2-digit number for IMF) are located in the upper left corner of the notices and letters.

By way of explanation, BMF means “Business Master File” and “IMF” means Individual Master File. Businesses should therefore never get any CP notice with a two digit code and Individuals should never get any CP notice with a three digit code, and if this requirement is violated, then this is a strong indication of one of the two likely problems, in descending order of likelihood:

1. Your IMF has been deliberately falsified by the dishonest IRS agent or agents who have been handling your returns in order to create a fraudulent tax liability by making you into a business rather than an individual. The type of business they make you into is usually an excise taxable corporation.
2. There has been an accidental data entry error.
When an individual has either not filed a return or has not paid taxes or penalties that the IRS says they owe, they will typically receive a CP deficiency notice from the IRS with a three digit code. For instance, a series of four letters, CP-501 through CP-504 are sent out prior to initiating collection activity against an alleged taxpayer. Notice that the number part of the form letter is a three digit code, which the above citation from the IRS Document 6209 says is for businesses and not individuals. Individuals should never receive such notices because we all know that the income tax is voluntary and cannot apply to individuals since there is no statute creating a liability in all of I.R.C., Subtitle A. The only reason it applies to businesses is because the businesses are associated with taxes found in Title 27, which is for the Bureau of Alcohol, Tobacco, and Firearms. The IRS and the BATF share the same computer system and at one time were part of the same agency! BATF taxes are indeed mandatory and can be enforced with penalties and seizures and collection activity. Even worse, the IRS itself, in the Treasury Organization Chart at the below web address from the Department of the Treasury, is clearly shown as NOT being an enforcement agency, since it does not fall under the Under Secretary for Enforcement!

There are two types of commissions IRS employees can get: Enforcement and Non-enforcement (also called Administrative). The type of commission they get is clearly shown on their Pocket Commission. See the following address for more information about pocket commissions, which takes you to the Internal Revenue Manual Section 1.16.4 3.7 (also called section 1.16.4.3.7):

http://www.irs.gov/taxpros/display/0,i1%3D5%26genericId%3D21267.00.html

Only IRS employees who have Enforcement Pocket Commissions can institute enforcement activities, including assessment, collection, liens, levies, and summons. But guess what: none of the IRS employees who institute enforcement actions on individuals have enforcement commissions! They just pretend like they do and hope you won’t notice or ask about their Pocket Commissions—it’s a big bluff! That explains statements like the following

“In a recent conversation with an official at the Internal Revenue Service, I was amazed when he told me that ‘If the taxpayers of this country ever discover that the IRS operates on 90% bluff the entire system will collapse’.”
[Henry Bellmon, Senator (1969)]

We have a sample FOIA request in section 2.11.12 of the following, which allows you to find out what kind of commission they have if you want to find out.

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

What typically happens is that when a person sends in their first 1040 tax return assessing themselves with a liability they really don’t have and can’t have under law, the IRS agent processing the return has to fabricate a liability. Otherwise, he would have to send your return and your money back and politely tell you that you aren’t liable for tax. What agent or person from the government would be honest enough to do that?

The only way the corrupt IRS agent can fabricate such a liability is to lie to their AIMS computer by telling it that the person indicated on the tax return is a business rather than an individual. Beyond that point and at any time in the future, that person is erroneously presumed by the IRS computers to be a business who is liable to pay tax and file returns. No kidding! The only way you can get the IRS off your back after you erroneously assess yourself with a liability is to point out to them that you are not a business and that you:

- Want any Business Master File (BMF) records they maintain on you expunged and amended to reflect your correct status as an individual. You will need to provide them with a notarized Affidavit in order to do this.
- Want them to provide proof that you are a business if they continue to insist that you are. You can refute their evidence by providing them with a copy of your birth certificate.

Doing the above should hopefully stop the threatening collection and/or deficiency notices for taxes you were never liable for.

5.6.10 Public Officer Kickback Position
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

As near as we can tell, this position was first articulated by Frank Kowalik in his marvelous book entitled IRS Humbug: Weapons of Enslavement, Frank Kowalik, ISBN 0-9626552-0-1, 1991, by Universalistic Publishers. This is an excellent book that is copiously and meticulously researched and which we highly recommend. It is the second most important book in our tax library, as a matter of fact, being second only to the book In Their Own Words listed in section 8.2 of this book.

You don’t hear much about his book in the tax freedom community but we believe it deserves a lot more acclaim than it gets. You can order this book from:

http://amazon.com

Frank builds his research on the content of section 5.4.1 earlier, in which we proved that taxes on labor amount to slavery.

We could find no errors in the evidence or logic used in Frank’s book and we agree 100% with everything that he says in his book. The book fills in a lot of holes in the research of other authors along with a rare glimpse at a real-life legal battle that he went through to show how the government maliciously prosecuted him for following the Internal Revenue Code and thereby violated his due process rights, his dignity, and committed treason against the Constitution.

What Frank Kowalik proves in his IRS Humbug book using his exhaustive legal research is the following, which is a terse summary of his almost 360 page book:

1. Subtitle A income taxes, insofar as natural persons, is not a “tax” at all, but what he calls a “kickback” program for “public officers” of the United States government only. That is to say it is part of an implied employment agreement they voluntarily consent to when they accept political office. In that sense, it is a voluntary excise tax based on the acceptance of political privileges associated with public office. The tax does not apply to any type of federal employee other than “public officers of the U.S. government. We covered this earlier in sections 3.12.1.4 and 5.2.19.

2. Those people who have entered into this voluntary employment agreement are described in the Internal Revenue Code as being “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States”. In this context, “United States” means the federal government. “trade or business” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the performance of the functions of a public office”. The only people who can be involved in a “trade or business” are those holding public office, and all of these people are mandated by the Constitution to serve in the District of Columbia as congressmen, judges, the President, and his appointed help. He traces the history of 26 U.S.C. §931 and other sections to prove this.

3. Everyone who does not ALREADY have a labor contract with the federal government is therefore not involved in a “trade or business” under Subtitle A, and therefore is not in receipt of federal excise-taxable “privileges”. As such, all of their assets are a “foreign estate” under the Internal Revenue Code as defined under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31)(A):

   TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
   Sec. 7701. - Definitions

   (a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

   (31) Foreign estate or trust

   (A) Foreign estate

   The term “foreign estate” means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

4. The very first kickback program began in 1862 as an outgrowth of desperation of Congress to fund the Civil War. He traces the enactments of Congress over more than a hundred years to show that the basic “kickback” approach started by Abraham Lincoln in 1862 has been perfected and expanded over the years to become extremely effective and very deceptive. The main method for expanding this illegal kickback program to apply to other than the “public officers” it was originally intended for has been the obfuscation of Title 26 of the U.S. Code and the willful, criminal, and treasonous participation of the federal judiciary in this scheme to expand federal jurisdiction beyond the clear limits of the Constitution.

5. Nothing we pay to the federal government is truly a “tax” as defined by the Supreme Court because taxes can only support the government and not the constituents. There are very few real “taxes” under the Internal Revenue Code, because most of the money is used for wealth transfer rather than to support only the government. In the context of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, the word “tax” really means “kickback”, and only applies to federal corporations, trusts, and domestic partnerships, where “domestic” means within the federal government or the “federal zone”. In fact, all of the entities listed under 26 U.S.C. §7701 fit the description of those connected to the federal government. Under the rule of statutory construction known as “ejusdem generis”, all of the entities listed below are of the same class or kind, and are entities in receipt of the federal privileges:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

5.1. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a): “citizens” and “residents” of the United States
5.2. 26 U.S.C. §7701(b): domestic partnerships
5.3. 26 U.S.C. §7701(c): domestic corporations
5.4. 26 U.S.C. §7701(b): gross income that can be called “domestic income”
5.5. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30): United States Person. These are the only entities that need identifying number.

6. The Social Security Number identifies a constructive trust. Your labor builds the assets in the trust. The federal government is the trustee. This is consistent with our document below:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Family Guardian Fellowship

7. The public officer “kickback” scheme works as follows:
7.1. The federal government pays its “public officers” an additional amount above and beyond the pay they are supposed to get. In fact, if you look at the Public Salary Tax Act of 1939 and various other revenue acts enacted over the years upon which Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A were derived, the only natural persons who earn either “wages” or “gross income” as legally defined are these federal employees. See 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a). These federal employees are, in actuality, the only natural persons who can reasonably be classified as “individuals” within Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.
7.2. The amount above the pay that these federal public officers are supposed to get is classified as “profit” or “income” of the United States government. We covered this earlier in sections 3.12.1.4, 3.12.1.22, and 5.2.19.
7.3. This “profit” or “income” is the income of a federal corporation, the United States (see 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A)), and the public officers receiving this “profit” or “income” are the “fiduciaries” under 26 U.S.C. §6903 who have been temporarily entrusted with property that actually belongs to the United States government. These custodians of U.S. property are classified as a “transferee” as defined in earlier versions of the code in 26 U.S.C. §6901. The current version of the code no longer contains the definition of “transferee” in section 6901 and has replaced that with “fiduciary” in 26 U.S.C. §6903 since Frank first wrote his book. However, if you submit an affidavit to tax court claiming NOT to be a “transferee” or “fiduciary” of U.S. government property under 26 U.S.C. §6902(b), then you cannot lawfully litigate your case in that court for Subtitle A income taxes.
7.4. The “taxpayer” in this scheme is not the public official or appointee who is receiving the monies, but instead is the paymaster or withholding agent who is paying the public officer, and indeed, 26 U.S.C. §1461 is the only section anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code that makes anyone liable for subtitle A income taxes, and that person is the person who is withholding from the pay of these public officers.
7.5. The jurisdiction the United States government within this kickback scheme is in rem jurisdiction, which means jurisdiction over the property but not the person. The property is the means by which they obtain jurisdiction over the person. This jurisdiction arises under Article IV, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution. We covered this earlier in section 1.5.
7.6. If taxes are not paid on the “profit” or “income” by the public officer, then the U.S. government has a legal right to administratively levy the wages of the public officer to recover their monies because of their “in rem” jurisdiction over these monies, which always were the property of the U.S. government, both before and after their receipt by the public officer. This act is perfectly constitutional and does not violate the Fifth Amendment rights of the public officer because he consented to such withholding and to being a fiduciary custodian of these excess monies as an implied part of his employment agreement with the United States government. However, the administrative levy, effected with a Notice of Levy, may only constitutionally be implemented within a federal agency under the Federal Payment Levy Program (FPLP). It may not be instituted against private employers.
7.7. The definition of “employee” found in 26 U.S.C. §3401(c), 26 U.S.C. §6331(a), and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 confirm that the only “employees” who are subject to Subtitles A or C income taxes are indeed elected or appointed officers of the United States government. In accordance with 4 U.S.C. §72, these officers can only reside in the District of Columbia, which is why the term “United States” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) means the District of Columbia only in the context of Subtitle A income taxes. We covered this earlier in section 5.2.12. It is also covered in section 4.5.4.21 of the Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005.
7.8. The IRS’ administrative enforcement, including liens, levies, and assessments, become illegal if they are enforced upon private citizens who are not public officers of the United States government, and especially if those private citizens are domiciled outside of the federal zone. In fact, if Subtitle A income taxes are enforced against private citizens, then they become a form of debt slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment, 18 U.S.C. §1581, and 42 U.S.C. §1994.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

7.9. The federal judiciary has become an accessory to this illegal kickback scheme, and he traces the history of at least three different Supreme Court rulings (Brushaber v. Union Pacific RR, 240 U.S. 1 (1916); Miles v. Graham, 268 U.S. 501 (1924); O’Malley v. Woodrough, 307 U.S. 277 (1939)) to show how this kickback scheme has been expanded with the blessings and willing participation of no less than the U.S. Supreme Court, mainly through the error of omission rather than commission, to be misapplied by the IRS against private citizens who don’t work as public officers for the federal government.

8. Title 26 of the U.S. Code is not positive law because it was never enacted by Congress. Instead it is only prima facie evidence of law. The only real and positive law is found in the Statutes at Large, which are the direct enactments of Congress. The U.S. Codes are simply “codified” versions of the Statutes at Large, modified to make them more general and universal.

9. The main mechanism for illegally expanding the Public Officer Kickback program has been the obfuscation of the Internal Revenue Code over the years by the Congress in order to confuse and mislead both the public and the IRS who administers the tax code written by Congress. The deliberate and systematic abuse of the word “includes” has been pivotal in effecting this criminal fraud. The obfuscation is easily illustrated and revealed by comparing the Statutes at Large with 26 U.S.C. to show the legislative intent of the various sections of the U.S.C. The most obvious example of this would be to search for all the definitions of “gross income” found in the Statutes at Large and compare them with 26 U.S.C. §61 and 26 U.S.C. §861.

10. Since the first “kickback” scheme started in 1862, there has been a systematic attempt by Congress to expand its jurisdiction by obfuscating the U.S. Codes to make them hide the truth found in the Statutes at Large. He cites several examples where the Office of Legislative Counsel has abused its authority in writing and rewriting Title 26 to hide the truth about the limited applicability of the Subtitle A income tax.

11. The biggest improvement in this “kickback” scheme came in the Revenue Act of 1918, in which Congress first defined the term “gross income”. He shows several sections in the Statutes at Large that specifically define “gross income” to only mean the “wages” of public officers of the United States government. He shows that there has never been any statute in the Statutes at Large where “gross income” was ever defined to also encompass monies earned by private persons who don’t work for the federal government as public officers. This is a hot issue worth a very serious and diligent look by the freedom community, folks. In the coming months, we will research this and post the evidence on our website for all to see proving this point. In the meantime, a good place to start is the following link on our website:

http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/HistoricalActs/ HistFedIncTaxActs.htm

12. The objectivity of the Federal Judiciary has been compromised because judges are both paid by income taxes and are beholden to IRS extortion because they too participate in this “kickback” scheme. This has created a conflict of interest and a criminal class of judges in violation of 28 U.S.C. §455 and 28 U.S.C. §144. He says the stakes get higher every day for these corrupt judges because by exposing the fraud, they would bring terrible retribution upon their brethren in their own judiciary and in other branches of government. This makes them very reluctant to expose the fraud and leads them to prejudice the litigation of most tax freedom advocates. This also explains why so many cases these days go unpublished: they are part of a massive cover-up of judicial wrongdoing and violation of due process. This also explains why tape recording or video recording of tax trials is prohibited by law: It would increase the risk that these corrupt judges could be prosecuted for their fraud and violation of due process under the Constitution.

13. Those private Americans who choose to volunteer in this corrupt federal kickback program do not have a “tangible right” to force others to participate. The public is not injured or harmed in any way by the failure of certain individuals to “volunteer” to participate in this tax “scheme”. This matter was settled by the Supreme Court in the case of McNally v. United States, 483 U.S. 350 (1987).

14. The purpose of Subtitle F of the Internal Revenue Code is to facilitate an action in “replevin” against federal “employees” who are in temporary custody of federal property as “fiduciaries” and “transferees”.

"Replevin. An action whereby the owner or person entitled to repossession of goods or chattels may recover those goods or chattels from one who has wrongfully distrained or taken or who wrongfully detains such goods or chattels. Jim’s Furniture Mart, Inc. v. Harris, 42 Ill.App.3d. 488, 1 Ill.Dec. 175, 176, 356 N.E.2d. 175, 176.
Also refers to a provisional remedy that is an incident of a replevin action which allows the plaintiff at any time before judgment to take the disputed property from the defendant and hold the property pendent lite. Other names for replevin include Claim and Delivery, Detinue, Revendicatio, and Sequestration (q.v.)."

15. All funds conveyed to the federal government using tax withholding or a 1040 form are considered “gifts” and come under the provisions of 31 U.S.C. §321(d). All gifts are absolute, irrevocable transfers of property. As such, it doesn’t make sense to try to recover them from the government. The more appropriate approach is to recover them in a state court personally from a revenue agent.
16. The IRS Form 1040 tax return is legally considered a “contract of bailment” and is a deed for a “gift” to the federal government. It is also identified as such by Williston's on Contracts, Vol. 9, Section 1040. The first edition of this book was published in 1933, right around the time that income taxes were first introduced, and the section number is strategic. When you fill out a form 1040, you as the bailee are conveying property back to the federal government that always was theirs. The implied contract under which the bailment is made is the employment agreement governing federal “employees”.

17. Under 26 U.S.C. §4000 (1939 tax code), revenue agents are considered “entrepreneurs” and not employees.

Title 26, Internal Revenue Code (1939 Code)
Sec. 4000. Appointment
The Commissioner may, whenever in his judgment the necessities of the service so require, employ competent agents, who shall be known and designated as internal revenue agents, and, except as provided for in this title, no general or special agent or inspector of the Treasury Department in connection with internal revenue, by whatever designation he may be known, shall be appointed, commissioned, or employed.

You can read this statute yourself at:

IRS agents are nothing but “informers” and “consultants” who have no enforcement powers. The IRS Commissioner can hire anyone he wants as an IRS agent but they can’t be considered employees. Therefore, they are independently and personally liable as “consultants” for everything they do, and that liability cannot be transferred to the U.S. government.

18. Involuntary servitude or peonage, which is debt slavery, is prohibited under the Thirteenth Amendment. It is prohibited to be done by:

18.1. Private individuals, as revealed by the Supreme Court in the Clyatt v. U.S., 197 U.S. 207 (1905).

19. The Internal Revenue Code doesn’t apply at all to most Americans. Therefore, when we are tangling with the IRS, we should never rely on anything from that code because it doesn’t apply to us. Only “taxpayers” are supposed to use the IRC and your average American is a “nontaxpayer”.

20. Stay away from the declaring you are a “nonresident alien” because the government is good at using it for slandering people using in front of juries using presumption. Combs in N.C. used the “nonresident alien” approach and was slammed with it.

20.1. Citizenship has nothing to do with tax liability.
20.2. The important thing is whether you have a labor contract with the federal government. If you do, then you have income “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” which is includable in “gross income”.
20.3. Frank Kowalik said he studied the “nonresident alien” position for six months trying to understand it, but he couldn’t. He says it is too confusing and prejudices juries. Instead, he mistakenly thinks that anyone who works for the federal government falls into the category of “citizens or residents” of the United States. He wasn’t aware of the definition of “nonresident alien” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B), which identifies a “nonresident alien” as someone who is neither a “citizen” nor a “resident” of the United States. He also mistakenly thinks that “nonresident aliens” are also “U.S. persons” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30).

20.4. Don’t debate the Non-Resident Non-Person Position with Frank, because he can’t be rational about it and won’t discuss the basis of his beliefs using the law. He says “That position won’t work in court with juries and that’s all I need to know about it to stay away from it.” Then he turns around and contradicts himself by saying that everyone should write “Foreign estate as described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31)” on the back of every check they endorse and cash. This section identifies him as a nonresident alien, and yet he disagrees with those who use this position. This aspect of his position is clearly irrational.

21. Frank also says to stay away from the 861 Position because it is too confusing to present to juries. It should not be used as the core of a person’s defense. He says “nontaxpayers” shouldn’t be citing any part of the I.R.C. in their defense, and we agree.

22. As we investigated his claims, we were appalled that there was no online source for historical Statutes at Large provided by the government for dates after 1873. Only the last few five or so years are available online, and for others you have to go to a Federal Depository library or pay for an expensive online legal research service (such as Lexis-Nexis or Westlaw.com) costing $150/month or more in order to examine older Statutes at Large. We believe that this omission is deliberate because Congress doesn’t want their fraud and conspiracy exposed by you reading the REAL code and thereby understanding their very limited jurisdiction. Frank implies but does not explicitly say that the term “includes” is indeed used as a term of limitation and not enlargement. We will cover this issue later in section 5.10.1. See also the following for the evidence:

http://memory.loc.gov/ammem/aimgen/amlaw/lawhome.html

23. Frank Kowalik uses his own history of litigation to powerfully illustrate how Subtitle A income "taxes" are indeed "voluntary" for the average American and how the federal judiciary is colluding with the IRS in illegally enforcing what should be a voluntary federal donation program.

The big question arises under the Public Officer Kickback Position of how, precisely, the federal government has made us all at least "appear" as federal "employees" or "public officers". Understanding how this is done is key to understanding how we become parties obligated to participate in the kickback scheme. The secret is as follows, which was related to us by a dedicated researcher who has been studying this specific subject for over 8 years as follows:

1. The IRS Form W-4 is what identifies you as a federal "employee" in the upper left corner. The term "employee" is defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 as only an elected or appointed officer of the United States government. Therefore, signing this form under penalty of perjury and submitting it provides admissible evidence that we are a federal "employee".

2. Most federal benefit programs administered within the states and outside of federal jurisdiction can be lawfully and constitutionally administered if offered ONLY to federal "employees". Such benefit programs may NOT be provided to private citizens, because there is no Constitutional authority for doing so. For instance, 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(13) says that all those who are "entitled" to receive federal benefits are considered "federal personnel".

3. Social Security is described as an "entitlement" and fits the criteria above to make all those who participate into federal "employees" or "federal personnel". The problem is that by law, Congress is only authorized to offer it to those who maintain a domicile in the federal zone, which excludes persons domiciled in states of the Union. The Constitution does not authorize them to offer it to people in the states, so it cannot be an entitlement for anyone domiciled in the states. If you file the 1040NR and maintain your status as a nonresident alien and a "national" but not a "citizen", then you therefore aren’t legally entitled to receive such a benefit by law. You therefore can’t lawfully be described as "federal personnel" nor have your rights adversely affected without the need for implementing regulations.

4. The First Annual Report of the Social Security Board of 1936 describes the activity upon which the Individual Income Tax is based. Page 20 says:

"Title VII of the Social Security Act imposes an income tax on the employees covered by the old-age benefits sections. . . .".

Therefore, those who participate in Social Security also become the proper subject for the federal income tax under Subtitle A.

5. Social Security is a welfare agreement, Steward Machine Co. v. Davis, 301 U.S. 548 (1937). Welfare is a grantor trust agreement. Trust agreements stay valid as long as they are agreed upon by voice (or written act) or action (use). Grantor trusts can be collapsed via revesting title by the grantor, Blackstone's Commentaries, Volume 1, Chapter 18. The Social Security "totalization agreement" makes you "Federal personnel" pursuant to 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(13), retirement benefits eligibility.

6. When you entered into a grantor trust agreement with the United States (Attorney General), 50 USC Appendix 12, paragraph 4, you exchanged those unalienable Rights for privileges just like Esau exchanged his birth right with Jacob for a bowl of pottage. The U.S. Attorney General is the trustee, 28 U.S.C. §§581 and 582, Assistant United States trustees (a) The Attorney General may appoint one or more assistant United States trustees in any region when the public interest so requires. (b) Each assistant United States trustee is subject to removal by the Attorney General. [As last amended Oct. 27, 1986, Pub.L. 99-554, Title I, § 111(d), 100 Stat. 3091.]
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The weak point of the above techniques is that Congress may not enact a positive law within the states of the Union because they have no legislative authority there.

“It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S. 251, 275, 38 S.Ct. 529, 3 A.L.R. 649, Ann.Cas.1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation.” [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

Consequently, the feds need our help to circumvent this limitation imposed by the Constitution. The way they did this was:

1. To write all the benefit program statutes so that they only apply to federal “employees” and to “U.S. persons”, which are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) as citizens or residents born in or residing within exclusive federal jurisdiction in the federal zone.
2. Then they obfuscated the definition of “United States” on their forms and government publications to deceive us into admitting that we live within exclusive federal jurisdiction in the federal zone and thereby admit that we are statutory “U.S. persons”.
3. To add in the regulations at 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-(3-a) that the W-4 is an agreement or contract. This makes you party to the contract and therefore subject to federal jurisdiction no matter where you are. Both you and the federal government have the right to contract and no state or court can interfere with your right to contract or the enforcement of the rights resulting from the contract. This allowed them to exceed the boundaries of the territorial jurisdiction and bring you within the jurisdiction of federal courts under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the contract. It also allowed them to regulate your life without the need to pass implementing regulations, because 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2) says they don’t need implementing regulations in the case of either federal contracts or federal employees.

This is an obvious fraud in most cases that anyone with a minimal legal education would recognize that the federal government willfully overlooks in order to obtain jurisdiction over you and transform you into a “taxpayer”. Once we know how this fraud works, all we have to do is correct our paperwork to remove their jurisdiction, and we document how to do this in the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008.

We don’t like to speculate and we avoid it like the plague throughout this book. However, on this occasion, we would like to delve into some intriguing theorizing that may be useful to illustrate how to address an argument you are likely to hear some misguided employee of the IRS or DOJ make some day. The argument goes something like this:

“If the government is paying you money, even if they are paying you your own money back that you overpaid in taxes, then don’t you effectively become an ‘employee’ of that government? If you are receiving federal public assistance such as Social Security, Welfare, AFDC, or the like, then can’t you also be considered an “employee” of the federal government for the same reason? What they expect you to do as an ‘employee’ is pay your taxes and subject yourself to laws and jurisdiction that you wouldn’t otherwise voluntarily subject yourself to, right? Because of this, don’t you think that the ‘Public Officer Kickback Position’ described in this section may apply to all such Americans who are in the ‘privileged’ position of receiving federal payments?“

We aren’t making the above up, because we actually heard someone ask this question, so it’s a realistic question! Here is a summary of our response, which you can use as additional ammunition against the government if they try to argue that you are an “employee” as defined in the I.R.C.:

1. Your position is frivolous.
2. The only “employees” that Internal Revenue Code Subtitle A income taxes apply to are public officers of the United States government engaged in a “trade or business” as identified in 26 U.S.C. §6331(a), 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26), 26 U.S.C. §3401(c), and 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1.
3. When the federal government pays you money, in most cases they are paying money back to you that came from you to begin with. Therefore you are the real employer and they are just the “bank”, in effect, that is making the payment as your indirect agent and under the authority of law. Remember that the government doesn’t “produce” anything. All they do is steal from productive members of society to fund their operations and thereby destroy the lives of the very people they were put into existence to “protect”.
4. Even if you were expecting to draw Social Security checks but had not yet drawn them, you can’t be called an “employee” in that instance either because the receipt of the benefits is a privilege and not a right. Not only that, but we also showed earlier in section 4.3.14 that the U.S. Supreme Court in Helvering v. Davis, 301 U.S. 619 (1937) and Flemming v. Nestor, 363 U.S. 603 (1960) declared that Social Security (and by implication all other government social programs) are NOT insurance and are NOT a contract. If the receipt of benefits is not contractual or a right of the recipient, then why should the receipt of taxes by the government from your wages in order to pay for such benefits be considered either a right by the government or contractual?

5. Even if none of the other arguments above applied, the U.S. government still wouldn’t have lawful authority to collect taxes in the states of the Union because:

5.1. The federal government has no police powers inside states of the union.

5.2. The federal government has no territorial jurisdiction under the Internal Revenue Code or the Title 18 criminal code.

5.3. Remember that the Constitution establishes a federal government of limited and enumerated powers and under the Tenth Amendment, all powers not delegated by the Constitution are reserved to the states and the people. The Constitution does not explicitly or even indirectly authorize the federal government to treat you as “public officer” of the U.S. government or the money you make as “income” as constitutionally defined. Therefore, they simply can’t do that which they have no delegated authority to do, even if you are willing to volunteer as their accomplice and help them by paying a tax you don’t owe.

5.4. The federal government has no authority to exercise its power to contract in order to subvert or escape the limitations imposed by the federal Constitution. Therefore, it cannot form private contracts with people in the states to provide social insurance, because this authority is not conferred by the Constitution and it would be usurping authority and sovereignty from the people and the states and thereby violating the Ninth and Tenth Amendments:

"State officials [or private citizens, for that matter] thus cannot consent to the enlargement of the powers of Congress beyond those enumerated in the Constitution."

Finally, if you would like to look at some of the historical milestones that show the development of the “Federal Employee Kickback” scheme, refer to the following sections in Chapter 6:

3. Section 6.8.16: 1918: “Gross income” first defined in the Revenue Act of 1918
5. Section 6.8.15: 1932: Revenue Act of 1932 imposes first excise tax on federal judges and public officers
7. Section 6.8.9: 1986: Cover-Up of 1986- Obfuscation of IRC Section 931

5.6.11 You don’t have any taxable sources of income

As we pointed out at the beginning of this chapter in sections 5.1.6 through 5.1.8, the federal income tax under Subtitle A is and always has been an indirect excise tax upon privileged activities, according to both the Congress and the U.S. Supreme Court. There has never been a claim otherwise by these two source that we are aware of. The federal district courts appear confused about this issue and have contradicted the Supreme Court (and even themselves) several times, in violation of stare decisis, but their rulings are irrelevant to those not within federal jurisdiction anyway, which includes most Americans. Now if I.R.C., Subtitle A describes an indirect excise upon privileges, then it is a tax on privileged or licensed “activities”, and not on “items of income” listed within 26 U.S.C. §§861 or 862. But the government has tried to confuse the issue and divert attention away from this aspect of the income tax by the following means:

1. Most of the sections within the current IRC deliberately don’t even mention “taxable activities” because if people understood this, they wouldn’t owe anything. Older versions of the code very clearly described the taxable activities but the current version is totally obfuscated to disguise this fact. Our public dis-servants have had over 80 years to perfect their willful fraud, and it has become harder and harder as they did their dirty work to discover the true nature of the federal income tax as an indirect excise tax.
2. The IRS has completely removed mention of the “taxable activities” and “subjects of taxation” from all of its publications.
3. The only remaining mention of excise “taxable activities” we could find is within an obfuscated section of the Treasury regulations found at 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1). The IRS and DOJ have recently attacked and persecuted and harassed all those who relied on this list of “taxable activities” in order to determine whether their income is “gross income”, in order to divert attention away from the nature of Subtitle A as an indirect excise tax.
As we read through the code to try to discover what is “taxable” and what is includible in “gross income”, we must narrow our search down to include only activities that are privileged and therefore excise taxable. Within I.R.C., Subtitle A, there are only two types of privileged, and therefore excise taxable, activities. These are:

1. “foreign commerce” within states of the Union, which is privileged and licensed under 26 U.S.C. §7001. Jurisdiction over foreign commerce within the states is bestowed by Constitution Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3. This taxable activity is identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1).

2. “trade or business”. Defined under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) to mean “the functions of a public office” in a government entity under exclusive federal jurisdiction. The “license” is the oath that all office holders must take before they may serve. This is also called “effectively connected income” or simply “ECI”. See the next section for details on this.

It should also be pointed out here that jurisdiction of the federal government within the states, under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1 of the Constitution is ONLY granted in the case of excise taxes relating to foreign commerce mentioned under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3. The federal government has no jurisdiction over any other subject matter of taxation derived from the Constitution, because the Constitution only grants the federal government jurisdiction over affairs EXTERNAL to the states of the Union, including imports and interstate commerce. See section 5.2.3 earlier. If it ain’t in the Constitution, then the feds can’t do it in the states. Period. The Ninth and Tenth Amendments make that clear. All excise taxes are voluntary, because if you don’t want to pay the tax, then you don’t “volunteer” to engage in the privileged or licensed commercial activity that is the subject of the tax. If the IRS attempts to collect a tax from you, then the questions you must resolve with them are:

1. What activity is subject to tax? Show them the table in section 5.1.6 and ask them which type of tax they are trying to collect and ask them what is the “subject of” the tax. Neither 26 U.S.C. §61 nor 26 U.S.C. §861 describe or enumerate only “taxable activities” that are proper constitutional “subjects of tax” as shown in the table. Therefore, one must go to 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) to see the activities. If they don’t want to use that section as the list of activities subject to tax, then ask them where else you can find the taxable activities, because I.R.C. sections 61 and 861 don’t list of privileged taxable activities under the Constitution.

2. What admissible evidence do you have that I am engaged in such an activity? Reports of a payment documented on a form 1099 does not reveal any connection to a “taxable activity”. On what basis are you “presuming” that I am engaged in a “taxable activity”?. Being a “citizen” isn’t a privileged activity, so what privilege is being exercised so that I may know how to avoid this tax? Without the ability to avoid the tax and the activity that is taxed, you are instituting slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment and enforcing a Direct tax within states of the Union that is a violation of Constitution Article 1, Section 2, Clause 3 and Article 1, Section 9, Clause 4.

3. What license or privilege did I apply for and receive from the government in order to justify being subject to this alleged “tax”?

The answer to the above questions in the case of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, which the IRS would give you if they could be honest without hurting the municipal donation program for the District of Columbia that they administer, is the following:

1. It is a “privilege” to live within exclusive/plenary federal jurisdiction. EVERYTHING inside the federal zone is a privilege because the area is not covered by the Bill of Rights and you have absolutely NO rights. The only sovereign inside the federal zone is Congress and the Executive branch, not the people who live there. There is no Constitution within the federal zone between its inhabitants and the national government, because the people don’t have sovereignty. It is a dictatorship and oligarchy, not a Republic. You are entitled to nothing and you are living on the king’s feudal plantation. Pay up and worship your new king, slave, or we’ll plunder ALL your property!

2. All people who file an IRS Form W-4 are “assumed” to live within the District of Columbia and be federal “employees” who are public officials. It says that in the upper left corner of the W-4 and the definition of “employee” in 26 C.F.R. §1.3401(c)-1 confirms who these “employees” are. You signed this form under penalty of perjury so we have court-admissible evidence that you are a privileged public official and a federal “employee”. If you either filed an IRS Form 1040 or claimed itemized deductions on your return, then you also effectively admitted under penalty of perjury that your income is connected with a privileged public office in the U.S. government, which is what a “trade or business” is. Under these circumstances:

   2.1. You are in receipt of the “privilege” of deductions on your return and a lower, graduated rate of tax.

2.2. We don’t need implementing regulations to enforce against you, because you consented to be treated as a federal “employee” and 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1) says no implementing regulations are required.
2.3. The federal government has jurisdiction over you no matter where you are, because you consented to be treated as one of its “employees”. Governments have always had full jurisdiction over their own employees, even outside of their borders and territory.

3. If you have a federal ID number such as an SSN or TIN, then you are registered as being in receipt of a federal excise taxable privilege. That privilege is participation in the welfare program called Social Security. It is a privilege to not have to take responsibility for your own financial security when you get older, and you will pay DEARLY for that privilege. We are going to rape and pillage 50% of your income for that privilege. Even though the Social Security tax is only 7.5%, we do the collection and enforcement for the Social Security program and we are going to abuse the information we have about you as a way to plunder even more “loot” from your estate using our dastardly automated paper terrorism program called IDRS. Since the acceptance of an SSN creates a presumption that you are a statutory “U.S. person” and you never rebutted that presumption, then we’re going to treat you like a federal resident (alien) where living on the federal plantation who has no rights. Bend over and get used to being screwed, and don’t expect us to give you any help with leaving the federal plantation or taking off those chains. We are going to make you and your property captive and make you a slave of your own apathy and ignorance.

“The hand of the diligent will rule, but the lazy man will be put to forced labor [slavery].”
[Prov. 12:24, Bible, NKJV]

4. Since you put an SSN on a tax return, you consented to use that number as a “substitute” TIN. There is no law requiring “nonresident aliens” who do not live or work in the District of Columbia and who are not engaged in a “trade or business”/public office to use an SSN in place of a TIN. 26 U.S.C. §6109(d) says that the SSN “shall” be used, but this statute doesn’t apply to anything but public officers of the United States government working in the District of Columbia.

When you as a “nonresident alien” and “nontaxpayer” not subject to federal jurisdiction provided that number, you consented to do that which no law requires you to do. You colluded with use to exceed the bounds of the Constitution, and so we are partners in crime. Therefore, you consented to be treated as an alien, since the IRS can only issue TINs to aliens under 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(d)(3), no matter what your real status is. You are on the same footing as people from other countries domiciled in the federal zone as far as tax purposes go. Such a person is referred to as a “resident” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). Since you didn’t attach a form 2555 to the 1040 form that you mistakenly filed, then you agreed to be treated as an alien. “U.S. citizens” living abroad are also aliens in the context of treaties with foreign countries. Either way then, whether you file a 1040 as an alien or a 1040 plus a 2555 as a statutory “U.S. citizen” abroad, you are still treated by us as an “alien” with NO RIGHTS.

Now let’s examine the IRS’ own publications to see if we can confirm the above conclusions. IRS Publication 519 entitled Tax Guide for Aliens describes the tax status of “aliens” and “nonresident aliens”. The year 2000 booklet available at:

has a very useful table describing taxable sources on page 11 entitled “Summary of Source Rules for Income of Nonresident Aliens”. This table applies not only to “aliens” and “nonresident aliens”, but also to “U.S. citizens” as well. The reason is because “U.S. citizens” living “abroad” in a foreign country come under the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code by virtue of the fact that they are treated as “aliens” under the provisions of an income tax treaty with a foreign country. Ordinarily, we don’t trust any IRS publications because the IRS says in I.R.C. because the government doesn’t want you to know what it means. We therefore repeat it below for your benefit and to aid the discussion. Please be astutely aware of the definitions of important “words of art” used in the table below as you read such as the following:

1. “United States” is defined earlier in section 5.2.12 to mean only the District of Columbia under the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.

2. “foreign” is defined earlier in section 5.2.14 to mean outside the “United States” (federal zone). It is not defined in the I.R.C. because the government doesn’t want you to know what it means.

3. “wages” are defined earlier in section 5.6.7 as earnings from labor of a federal “employee” who has consented or volunteered to become a “taxpayer” under the provisions of 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3, by submitting a form W-4 authorizing withholding. Without submitting this form or submitting it under duress makes him a “nontaxpayer” who does not earn “wages”. Since the term “employee” is defined in 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 as a person holding public office, then “wages” are connected to the taxable activity called a “trade or business”.

4. “personal services” is defined earlier in section 3.12.1.22 as work in connection with “the functions of a public office” in the United States government, which is called a “trade or business” throughout the I.R.C. This is confirmed by examining 26 C.F.R. §1.162-7(a), 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(3)(C)(i), and 26 C.F.R. §1.469-9(b)(4). See also: http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/personalServices.htm.

We have italicized and underlined the above “words of art” in the table below to help you in reading the table. We have also added a new column to the IRS’ table identifying exactly the excise “taxable activity” that must occur for the item of income to be taxable.

Exceptions include:

a) Dividends paid by a U.S. corporation are foreign source if the corporation elects the Puerto Rico economic activity credit or possessions tax credit.

b) Part of a dividend paid by a foreign corporation is U.S. source if at least 25% of the corporation’s gross income is effected connected with a U.S. trade or business for the 3 tax years before the year in which the dividends are declared.

Next, we will show you a table that summarizes the above rules and discussion geographically, to show taxable source rules and requirements based on the location where your source of income came from and your citizenship status. Some of the information appearing here comes from section 5.11, where we talk about income taxes within territories and possessions of the United States. We have broken the table down into three groups of rows relating to a particular citizenship status. The four columns on the right relate to the “situs” for imposing the tax, which is the combination of the excise taxable activity occurring within a specific region enumerated in the code. The top three rows of the table describe certain characteristics of each of the five “situses” identified across the top. This table is intended to help you compute your taxable income by adding up all the income from specific excise taxable activities in each of the five distinct types of jurisdictions within our society.

NOTE(S):

1. Territories and possessions typically have their own local income taxes that replace, not supplement, the federal income tax.
2. This table assumes that the “taxpayer” is not involved in a “trade or business” anywhere except in the District of Columbia.
3. The IRS is the tax collection agency exclusively for the District of Columbia. Treasury Order 150-02 reveals that the only remaining Internal Revenue District is in the District of Columbia.
4. Taxes on “foreign commerce” are taxes on imports but not exports coming under Constitution Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3. The U.S. Constitution prohibits taxes on exports from states of the Union under Article 1, Section 9, Clause 5. These types of taxes are also called “excises, duties, and imposts”. Most of these taxes are listed under Subtitle D of the Internal Revenue Code and are licensed under 26 U.S.C. §7001. An example is the tax on petroleum imported into the 50 states imposed under 26 U.S.C. §4611. Note that the term “United States”, in the context of imported petroleum taxes is specifically defined in 26 U.S.C. §4612(a)(4)(A) as “The term ‘United States’ means the 50 States, the District of Columbia, the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, any possession of the United States, the Commonwealth of the Northern Mariana Islands, and the Trust Territory of the Pacific Islands. “
The most notable conclusion one can draw from the above table is that if you don’t live in the District of Columbia and do not elect to connect your earnings to a “trade or business” within the “United States” (D.C.), then you can’t earn “gross income”. Without “gross income”, you do not meet the minimum requirement for filing a return found in 26 U.S.C. §6012. Therefore, you are in effect:

1. A “nontaxpayer” and not a “taxpayer”. This means every reference in the I.R.C. or the Internal Revenue Manual which imposes an obligation upon a “taxpayer” doesn’t apply to you.
2. Not subject to any of the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code.
3. Are not subject to withholding on any payments you receive.
4. If any money was withheld from your pay by either a business or a financial institution, then you are due for a refund of all withholding.
5. Cannot file an IRS Form 1040, because EVERYTHING that goes on that form is treated as “effectively connected with a trade or business”. That form is for “aliens”, and not “nonresident aliens”, as we showed in section 5.5.2 earlier.
6. Cannot lawfully have any CTR’s, or Currency Transaction Reports, prepared against you by any financial institution. See 31 C.F.R. §103.30(d)(2), which excludes these reports for persons not engaged in a “trade or business”.
9. “foreign” with respect to the Internal Revenue Code because you live outside the “United States” and do not have any earnings from within the “United States” that are connected with a “trade or business”.

IRS Publication 519 (2000) edition also has an enlightening section on p. 14 entitled “Services Performed for Foreign Employer” which confirms the above conclusions. Here is what it says. Once again, we have boldfaced and underlined the “words of art” to draw special attention to them:

Services Performed for Foreign Employer

If you were paid by a foreign employer, your U.S. source income may be exempt from U.S. tax, but only if you meet one of the situations discussed next.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Employees of foreign persons, organizations, or offices. If three conditions exist, income for personal services performed in the United States as a nonresident alien is not considered to be from U.S. sources and is tax exempt. If you do not meet all three conditions, your income from personal services performed in the United States is U.S. source income and is taxed according to the rules in chapter 4.

The three conditions are:

1) You perform personal services as an employee of or under a contract with a nonresident alien individual, foreign partnership, or foreign corporation, not engaged in a trade or business in the United States; or you work for an office or place of business maintained in a foreign country or possession of the United States by a U.S. corporation, a U.S. partnership, or a U.S. citizen or resident.

2) You perform these services while you are a nonresident alien temporarily present in the United States for a period or periods of not more than a total of 90 days during the tax year, and

3) Your pay for these services is not more than $3,000.

If your pay for these services is more than $3,000, the entire amount is income from a trade or business within the United States. To find if your pay is more than $3,000, do not include any amounts you get from your employer for advances or reimbursements of business travel expenses, if you were required to and did account to your employer for those expenses. If the advances or reimbursements are more than your expenses, include the excess in your pay for these services.

A day means a calendar day during any part of which you are physically present in the United States.

Now, we will take the above deceptive excerpt from Publication 519 and translate it from legalese into common English using the I.R.C. definitions into something that really reveals the whole truth to make its meaning crystal clear and consistent with what we have learned throughout the rest of this chapter. We have taken the “words of art” and put their definitions in brackets after the words. As you read the below, replace the item in brackets for the underlined word it precedes. This will blow your mind, folks!:

Services Performed for Foreign [outside the District of Columbia] Employer

If you were paid by a foreign employer [an employer outside the District of Columbia], your U.S. [District of Columbia] source income may be exempt from U.S. [District of Columbia] tax, but only if you meet one of the situations discussed next.

Employees of foreign persons [persons born outside the federal zone], organizations, or offices [in foreign countries or states of the Union]. If three conditions exist, income [federal payments] for personal services [labor in connection with a public office] performed in the United States [District of Columbia] as a nonresident alien is not considered to be from U.S. [District of Columbia] sources and is tax [donation] exempt. If you do not meet all three conditions, your income from personal services performed in the United States [District of Columbia] is U.S. [District of Columbia] source income [federal payments] and is taxed [subject to donation] according to the rules in chapter 4.

The three conditions are:

1) You perform personal services as an employee of or under a contract with a nonresident alien individual, foreign [outside the District of Columbia] partnership, or foreign [outside the District of Columbia] corporation, not engaged in a trade or business [public office] in the United States [District of Columbia]; or you work for an office or place of business maintained in a foreign country [including a state of the Union] or possession of the United States by a U.S. [District of Columbia registered] corporation [and excluding state registered corporations], a U.S. [District of Columbia] partnership, or a U.S. citizen [person born in the District of Columbia or a territory] or resident [alien].

2) You perform these services while you are a nonresident alien temporarily present in the United States [District of Columbia] for a period or periods of not more than a total of 90 days during the tax [donation] year, and

3) Your pay for these services is not more than $3,000.

If your pay for these services is more than $3,000, the entire amount is income from a trade or business [public office] within the United States [District of Columbia]. To find if your pay is more than $3,000, do not include any amounts you get from your employer for advances or reimbursements of business travel expenses, if you were... required to and did account to your employer for those expenses. If the advances or reimbursements are more than your expenses, include the excess in your pay for these services.

A day means a calendar day during any part of which you are physically present in the United States [District of Columbia].

Mind blowing, how deceptive the IRS publications are, isn’t it? No wonder the IRS says you can’t depend on them in Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 4.10.7.2.8!

This approach is pretty simple, huh? The simplicity of this approach, by the way, far exceeds that of the 861 Position advocates described later in section 5.6.21, which is why we don’t recommend using the 861 Position during litigation. Those who argue the 861 Position live within and cite the I.R.C., which is irrelevant to the average American because they are "nontaxpayers" not subject to the I.R.C. to begin with. Why? Because most Americans are “nationals” and not “citizens” under federal law and “non-resident non-persons” with no income “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” and all of whose sources of income are from outside the federal “United States”:

Income Subject to Tax

Income from sources outside the United States that is not effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States is not taxable if you receive it while you are a nonresident alien. The income is not taxable even if you earned it while you were a resident alien or if you became a resident alien or a U.S. citizen after receiving it and before the end of the year.

IRS Publication 519 (2000), p. 26

All that citing the I.R.C. does is help the government to demonstrate that you are subject to it and a party to it, and we sincerely believe this is a VERY BIG MISTAKE! We showed earlier in sections 5.4.1 through 5.4.6.4 that the I.R.C. is effectively a private contract and not a positive law, so citing it just proves you are party to the contract and consent to be bound by it. It is precisely this kind of BIG oversight by proponents of the 861 Position such as Larken Rose that will eventually be their downfall. This also explains why, for instance, the ONLY proponents of tax honesty who are still out there to offer you materials and solutions are those who know what a “nontaxpayer” is and who only help “nontaxpayers”. This is no accident, folks. All the other tax honesty advocates who don’t understand the “nontaxpayer” and “non-resident non-person” issue have had injunctions placed against them and were shut down long ago as easy targets by the federal mafia. If you want your freedom back, you’re going to have to get educated and stick with simple, solid, arguments that are supportable with lots of evidence that juries can understand and believe.

Instead of citing the code and using the complicated 861 Position, it’s much better to stick to the simple issues of jurisdiction and cite only the Supreme Court and the code as your authority and the whole house of cards will fall down simply and easily.
Both you and a jury can easily understand this approach without ever looking at the Treasury regulations or talking about “positive law” or other complicated subjects. It’s simple and easy to defend and it depends on only a handful of very simple definitions that are not subject to misinterpretation by an informed jury. The only caveat with using this approach is that the IRS will try to use the word “includes” as a way to stretch the meaning of the code to fit their position, and we show how to fight this unscrupulous and dishonest tactic and deception later in chapter 8.

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

As we explained earlier in section 5.3.2 and the preceding section, one must be engaged in a “trade or business”, which is defined as “the functions of a public office”, within the statutory but not constitutional “United States”, which is defined as federal territory, in order to earn “gross income”. This is because:

1. The income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax, as the Supreme Court pointed out repeatedly. See section 5.1.6 earlier for details. The “subject of” all indirect excise taxes are voluntary “taxable activities” that are privileged and in many cases licensed. The tax may only be instituted by the agency or government entity that issues the license or bestows the privilege to the person who volunteers to be the “licensee”, and the tax is only enforceable within the legislative jurisdiction of the taxing entity. The “privileged activity” in this case of the federal income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is that of holding “public office” in the U.S. Government.

A “public office” is therefore the only excise taxable activity that a biological person can involve themselves in that will make them the subject of the municipal donation program for the District of Columbia called the Internal Revenue Code.

2. According to 4 U.S.C. § 72, all “public offices” may be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere, except as “expressly provided by law”. That is why the “United States” is defined in I.R.C., Subtitle A as federal territory in 26 U.S.C. § 87701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. § 110(d). There is also no provision of law which authorizes “public offices” outside the District of Columbia other than 48 U.S.C. § 1612, and therefore, the I.R.C., Subtitle A Income tax upon “public offices” can apply nowhere outside the District of Columbia other than the Virgin Islands. This is also consistent with the definition of “U.S. sources” found in 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3), which identifies all earnings originating from the “United States” as “effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business”.

3. “Income” has the meaning it was given in the Constitution, which is “gain and profit” in connection with an excise taxable activity. Congress is forbidden to define the word “income” because the Constitution defines it. This was pointed out by several rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, including Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920); So. Pacific v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330 (1918); Merchant’s Loan & Trust Co. v. Smietanka, 255 U.S. 509 (1921). Where there is no “taxable activity”, there can be no “taxable income”. We covered this earlier in section 5.6.5 if you want more detail.

4. Because all “taxpayers” under I.R.C., Subtitle A are “public officers” who work for a federal corporation called the “United States” (see 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A)), then they are acting as an “officer or employee of a federal corporation” and they:

4.1. Are the proper subject of the penalty statuses, as defined under 26 U.S.C. §6671(b). This is true even though the Constitution prohibits “Bills of Attainder” in Article 1, Section 10, because the penalty isn’t on the natural person, but upon the “office” or “agency” he volunteered to maintain in the process of declaring that he has “taxable income”.

4.2. May have the code enforced against you without implementing regulations as required by 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1) and 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2)

4.3. Are the proper subject for the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, which identify officers of corporations as the only “persons” within 26 U.S.C. §7343.

5. Earnings not connected with a “trade or business” under 26 U.S.C. §871(b) and 26 U.S.C. §864 and not originating from the statutory “United States” (federal territory), which is what “United States” is defined as:

5.1. Are identified as part of a “foreign estate” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31). A foreign estate is outside the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code and not includible in gross income either, based on the definition of “foreign estate”, BECAUSE it is not connected with a “trade or business”.

5.2. Are not includable as “gross income” if paid by a nonresident alien. See 26 U.S.C. §864(b)(1)(A) . Remember: We showed earlier in sections 5.2.14 and 5.6.13 that states of the union are “foreign countries” with respect to the Internal Revenue Code and all of their inhabitants are “non-resident non-persons”. The subset of these people who also occupy a public office in the national government are “nonresident aliens” rather than “non-resident nonpersons”.

This means one must be engaged in a “public office” in the District of Columbia in order to earn “gross income” as a human being. Statutory and ordinary “gross income” that meets this criteria is described in the code simply as “income effectively connected with a trade or business from sources within the United States”. This is confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), which says that an estate that is in no way connected with a “trade or business” and whose sources of income are outside the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory) may not have its earnings identified as statutory “gross income” and is a “foreign estate”, which means it is not subject in any way to the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701. - Definitions

(31) Foreign estate or trust

(A) Foreign estate

The term "foreign estate" means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States [under 26
U.S.C. §871(a)] which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States [under 26 U.S.C. §871(b) and 26 U.S.C. §864], is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

These critical facts are very carefully concealed by the IRS in their publications to hide the true nature of the income tax and instead to make it appear as an “unapportioned direct tax” upon persons domiciled in states of the Union. If the American people understood on a large scale:

1. That the I.R.C., Subtitle A income tax was an “excise tax” upon privileged "taxable activities" only.
2. Exactly what activity was being taxed.
3. That the IRS has no jurisdiction within states of the Union against anyone who does not sign a private agreement with the government by submitting an IRS Form W-4 or an IRS Form 1040 tax return.

...then they would exit the tax system en masse by simply avoiding the activity. All excise taxes are “avoidable” by avoiding the taxed activity, and therefore they are completely “voluntary”. Therefore, the IRS and our public dis-servants have a vested interest in hiding and concealing the true nature of the income tax as an “excise tax” in order to maintain revenues from the income tax. They sold the truth and your liberty to Satan for 20 pieces of silver. Some things never change, do they?

“For the love of money is a root of all kinds of evil, for which some have strayed from the faith in their greediness, and pierced themselves through with many sorrows.”
[1 Tim. 6:10, Bible, NKJV]

In this section, we will demonstrate all the evidence we can find that supports these conclusions, and also show you how the IRS, with the implicit approval and collusion of Congress and the Treasury Dept, has tried to do the following within their deceptive publications:

1. Taken great pains to hide and obfuscate the fact that Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax upon licensed, privileged activities. They have done this by burying the sordid truth deep in regulations that they hope people will never read and which have been carefully obfuscated over the years to make them virtually unintelligible for the average American.
2. Confuse the meaning of the term “trade or business” in their publications so that everyone thinks they meet this criteria.
3. Create a false and unsupportable presumption that all people and all earnings within states of the Union are connected with a “trade or business in the United States”.
4. Create the illusion and deception that IRC Subtitle A describes a direct, unapportioned tax upon natural persons that cannot be avoided or shifted. Once IRS can establish the false presumption Subtitle A as a direct unapportioned tax, then they:
4.1. Can label those who choose not to volunteer as “frivolous” or worst yet, penalize them for filing an accurate return reflecting no “gross income” because not connected to a “trade or business”.
4.2. Have a way to exploit the false presumption and ignorance of juries to claim that those who avoid paying or filing are lawbreakers, even though they broke no laws and exercised their constitutionally protected choice not to volunteer to connect their earnings to a “trade or business”.
4.3. Have an excuse to ignore those who complain that private employers are forcing them to sign and submit IRS Form W-4 withholding agreements under duress, or be denied employment. Instead, they have a presumptuous and mistaken excuse to say that it isn’t voluntary and that everyone must submit the form, when in fact, the regulations at 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1 clearly show otherwise.

If you read the IRS’ Civil and Criminal Actions website at the address below, you will see that ALL of their propaganda in fact focuses on the above goals, as we predicted:

The IRS warned us it was going to try to deceive us by stating in its own Internal Revenue Manual that you can’t rely upon any of its own publications. The federal courts warned us that the IRS was going to do this by telling us that we can’t rely upon the phone or oral advice of anyone in the IRS, even if they signed their recommendation under penalty of perjury! Why didn’t we listen to any of these warnings? See the surprising truth for yourself:

We must, however, remember what the Supreme Court said about false presumptions:

“The power to create [false] presumptions is not a means of escape from constitutional restrictions,”

5.6.12.1 Introduction

ne must be engaged in a “trade or business”, which is defined as “the functions of a public office”, within the statutory but not constitutional “United States”, which is defined as federal territory, in order to earn “gross income”. The only exception to this is nonresident aliens with income from the statutory “United States” (federal territory) under 26 U.S.C. §871(a).

This is because:

1. The income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax, as the Supreme Court pointed out repeatedly. See section 5.1.6 for details. The “subject of” all indirect excise taxes are voluntary “taxable activities” that are privileged and in many cases licensed. The tax may only be instituted by the agency or government entity that issues the license or bestows the privilege to the person who volunteers to be the “licensee”, and the tax is only enforceable within the legislative jurisdiction of the taxing entity. The “privileged activity” in this case of the federal income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is that of holding “public office” in the U.S. Government. A “public office” is therefore the only excise taxable activity that a biological person can involve themselves in that will make them the subject of the municipal donation program for the District of Columbia called the Internal Revenue Code.

2. According to 4 U.S.C. §72, all “public offices” may be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere, except as “expressly provided by law”. That is why the “United States” is defined in I.R.C., Subtitle A as federal territory in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d). There is also no provision of law which authorizes “public offices” outside the District of Columbia other than 48 U.S.C. §1612, and therefore, the I.R.C., Subtitle A Income tax upon “public offices” can apply nowhere outside the District of Columbia other than the Virgin Islands. This is also consistent with the definition of “U.S. sources” found in 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3), which identifies all earnings originating from the “United States” as “effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business”.

3. “Income” has the meaning it was given in the Constitution, which is “gain and profit” in connection with an excise taxable activity. Congress is forbidden to define the word “income” because the Constitution defines it. This was pointed out by several rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court, including Eisner v. Macomber, 252 U.S. 189 (1920); So. Pacific v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330 (1918); Merchant’s Loan & Trust Co. v. Smietanka, 255 U.S. 509 (1921). Where there is no “taxable activity”, there can be no “taxable income”. This is covered in section 5.6.5 if you want more detail.

4. Because all “taxpayers” under I.R.C., Subtitle A are “public officers” who work for a federal corporation called the “United States” (see 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)), then they are acting as an “officer or employee of a federal corporation” and they:

4.1. Are the proper subject of the penalty statutes, as defined under 26 U.S.C. §6671(b). This is true even though the Constitution prohibits “Bills of Attainder” in Article 1, Section 10, because the penalty isn’t on the natural person, but upon the “office” or “agency” he volunteered to maintain in the process of declaring that he has “taxable income”.

4.2. May have the code enforced against you without implementing regulations as required by 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1) and 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2)

4.3. Are the proper subject for the criminal provisions of the Internal Revenue Code, which identify officers of corporations as the only "persons" within 26 U.S.C. §7343.

5. Earnings not connected with a “trade or business”:

5.1. Are identified as part of a “foreign estate” in 26 U.S.C. §8771(a)(31). A foreign estate is outside the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code and not includible in gross income either, based on the definition of “foreign estate”, BECAUSE it is not connected with a “trade or business”.

5.2. Are not includable as “gross income” if paid by a nonresident alien. See 26 U.S.C. §864(b)(1)(A). Remember: Sections 5.2.12.1 and 5.6.13 that states of the union are "foreign countries" with respect to the Internal Revenue
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Code and all of their inhabitants are “non-resident non-persons”. The subset of state inhabitants who are also public officers are also “nonresident alien individuals”.

This means one must be engaged in a “public office” in the District of Columbia in order to earn “gross income” as a human being. Statutory and not ordinary “gross income” that meets this criteria is described in the code simply as “income effectively connected with a trade or business from sources within the United States”. This is confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), which says that an estate that is in no way connected with a “trade or business” and whose sources of income are outside the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory) may not have its earnings identified as statutory “gross income” and is a “foreign estate”, which means it is not subject in any way to the provisions of the Internal Revenue Code:

Why did Congress HAVE to place the tax upon an activity called a “public office” in the United States government? Because:

1. The government can only pass civil laws to regulate its own public officers, territory, franchises, and property. The ability to regulate the PRIVATE conduct of the public at large is “repugnant to the constitution”, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court. See the following for proof:

   Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. The Thirteenth Amendment outlaws involuntary servitude EVERYWHERE, including on federal territory. It does not and cannot outlaw VOLUNTARY servitude. The only way they can tax your labor without instituting slavery is for you to volunteer for public office franchise in the government. See the following for proof:

   How the Government Defrauds You Out of Legitimate Deductions for the Market Value of Your Labor, Form #05.026
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. Congress has no legislative jurisdiction within states of the Union, which are “foreign states” that are sovereign, but they have jurisdiction over anyone that contracts with them wherever they are. Hence, Congress instituted a franchise that functions as a contract that they can enforce anywhere the contractors are found. See the following for proof:

Debitum et contractus non sunt nullius loci.
Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

Locus contractus regit actum.
The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.
[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856;]

“It is generally conceded that a franchise is the subject of a contract between the grantor and the grantee, and that it does in fact constitute a contract when the requisite element of a consideration is present.” Conversely,

5. That the law specifically forbids the activity to be exercised outside the District of Columbia per 4 U.S.C. §72 or within a state of the Union.
6. That it is a CRIME for most Americans to engage in the activity pursuant to 18 U.S.C. §912.

We must, however, remember what the Supreme Court said about false presumptions:

"The power to create [false] presumptions is not a means of escape from constitutional restrictions,"

5.6.12.2 Proof that IRC Subtitle A is an Excise tax on activities in connection with a “trade or business”

The Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A and C is an excise tax or franchise tax upon activities in connection with a statutory franchise called a “public office”. All franchises are contracts or agreements that only acquire the force of law with the consent of BOTH the GRANTOR and the GRANTEE.

"It is generally conceded that a franchise is the subject of a contract between the grantor and the grantee, and that it does in fact constitute a contract when the requisite element of a consideration is present." Conversely, a franchise granted without consideration is not a contract binding upon the state, franchisee, or pseudo-franchisee.
[36 American Jurisprudence 2d, Franchises, §6: As a Contract (1999)]

Furthermore, the U.S. Supreme Court has held that the national government CANNOT expand its powers within a constitutional state of the Union by using any kind of contract or compact or agreement:

"The United States have no constitutional capacity to exercise municipal jurisdiction, sovereignty, or eminent domain, within the limits of a State or elsewhere, except in cases where it is delegated, and the court denies the faculty of the Federal Government to add to its powers by treaty or compact."

[Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 508-509 (1856)]

"Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensees.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States, No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects.

Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.

[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

Notice the language in the last quote above:

“Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

By “authorize” they mean “license”. That’s what the above case was about. And WHAT “license” are they talking about? In the next section we prove that license is, in fact, the Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number.

And guess what? The ONLY thing they can tax under I.R.C. Subtitles A and C of the Internal Revenue Code is a “trade or business”, which they define as “the functions of a public office”. The implication of the above is that a taxable “trade or business” CANNOT lawfully be offered in a state of the Union. That, in fact, is why the geographical definitions of “State” and “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) limit themselves to federal territory not within any state. That is also why there are no internal revenue districts within any state of the Union and 26 U.S.C. §7601 limits IRS Enforcement to “Internal Revenue Districts”. If this limit on the jurisdiction of the national government is violated, then in effect we have an unconstitutional “INVASION” in violation of Article 4, Section 4 of the U.S. Constitution. That “invasion” is a commercial invasion intended to “worship” mammon and filthy lucre:

United States Constitution
Section 4. Obligations of United States to States

The United States shall guarantee to every State in this Union a Republican Form of Government, and shall protect each of them against Invasion; and on Application of the Legislature, or of the Executive (when the Legislature cannot be convened) against domestic Violence.

To prove the foregoing, we’ll start off with a definition of “trade or business”:

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)

“The term 'trade or business' includes [is limited to] the performance of the functions of a public office.”

The definition of “privilege”, which is also called a “public right” and a “franchise” in the legal field is very revealing about what privileges ATTACH to:

privilege /priv-lij, pri-vo/ noun [ Middle English, from Anglo-French, from Latin privilegium law for or against a private person, from privus private + leg-, lex law ] 12th century: a right or immunity granted as a peculiar benefit, advantage, or favor: prerogative especially: such a right or immunity attached specifically to a position or an office privilege verb transitive

-leged; -leging 14th century
1: to grant a privilege to

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

2: to accord a higher value or superior position to (privilege one mode of discourse over another)

Notice that “privileges” and therefore “public rights” and “franchises” always attach to an OFFICE. In the government that office is called a “public office”. What office is that? It’s called a STATUTORY “citizen”, “resident”, “person”, or “taxpayer”. The definition of “person” even confirms this!

We know that the IRS likes to point to the word “includes” in the above definitions of “trade or business” and “person” and state that it is an “expansive” definition that does not exclude the common meaning of the term. We must remember, however, that there is an important principle of statutory construction which states that anything not mentioned in a law, statute, code, or regulation is “excluded by implication”, which means that all things not connected to a “public office” are excluded from the definition of “trade or business” by implication:

“When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term’s ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) (“It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term”); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 (“As a rule, a definition which declares what a term "means" . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated”); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General’s restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the contrary.”

[Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

"Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”

Therefore, the definition of the term “trade or business”, says what it means and means what it says. The Supreme Court has held many times that words used in a law or statute are to be given their ordinary and plain meaning and are to be restricted to the clear language found in the code itself. If you would like an exhaustive analysis of the meaning of the word “includes” within the Internal Revenue Code, please refer to the free pamphlet available on the internet at:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Judges and even government administrators are NOT legislators and cannot by fiat or presumption add ANYTHING they want to the definition of statutory terms. If they do, they are violating the separation of powers and conducting a commercial invasion of the states in violation of Article 4, Section 4 of the United States Constitution. Furthermore, according the creator of our three branch system of government, there is NO FREEDOM AT ALL and liberty is IMPOSSIBLE when the executive and LEGISLATIVE functions are united under a single person:

"When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of magistrates, there can be no liberty; because apprehensions may arise, lest the same monarch or senate should enact tyrannical laws, to execute them in a tyrannical manner.

Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and oppression [sound familiar?].

There would be an end of everything, were the same man or the same body, whether of the nobles or of the people, to exercise those three powers, that of enacting laws, that of executing the public resolutions, and of trying the causes of individuals."

In what a situation must the poor subject be in those republics? The same body of magistrates are possessed, as executors of the laws, of the whole power they have given themselves in quality of legislators. They may plunder the state by their general determinations; and as they have likewise the judiciary power in their hands, every private citizen may be ruined by their particular decisions."

The only time in the I.R.C. where the term “trade or business” can mean anything other than what it is defined above to mean is in places where there a regional definition that overrides the general or default definition found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) above. Below is the only example of that within the I.R.C., which is intended to be used only in the context of “self

(c) Trade or business

The term “trade or business”, when used with reference to self-employment income or net earnings from self-employment, shall have the same meaning as when used in section 162 (relating to trade or business expenses), except that such term shall not include -

(1) the performance of the functions of a public office, other than the functions of a public office of a State or a political subdivision thereof with respect to fees received in any period in which the functions are performed in a position compensated solely on a fee basis and in which such functions are not covered under an agreement entered into by such State and the Commissioner of Social Security pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act;

(2) the performance of service by an individual as an employee, other than -

(A) service described in section 3121(b)(14)(B) performed by an individual who has attained the age of 18,

(B) service described in section 3121(b)(16),

(C) service described in section 3121(b)(11), (12), or (15) performed in the United States (as defined in section 3121(e)(2)) by a citizen of the United States, except service which constitutes "employment" under section 3121(y),

(D) service described in paragraph (4) of this subsection,

(E) service performed by an individual as an employee of a State or a political subdivision thereof in a position compensated solely on a fee basis with respect to fees received in any period in which such service is not covered under an agreement entered into by such State and the Commissioner of Social Security pursuant to section 218 of the Social Security Act,

(F) service described in section 3121(b)(20), and

(G) service described in section 3121(b)(8)(B);
(3) the performance of service by an individual as an employee or employee representative as defined in section 3231;

(4) the performance of service by a duly ordained, commissioned, or licensed minister of a church in the exercise of his ministry or by a member of a religious order in the exercise of duties required by such order;

(5) the performance of service by an individual in the exercise of his profession as a Christian Science practitioner; or

(6) the performance of service by an individual during the period for which an exemption under subsection (g) is effective with respect to him. The provisions of paragraph (4) or (5) shall not apply to service (other than service performed by a member of a religious order who has taken a vow of poverty as a member of such order) performed by an individual unless an exemption under subsection (e) is effective with respect to him.

So we look up the definition in 26 U.S.C. §162 and here is what it says:

TITLE 26 › Subtitle A › CHAPTER 1 › Subchapter B
Part VI-Itemized deductions for Individuals and Corporations
Sec. 162. - Trade or business expenses

(a) In general

There shall be allowed as a deduction all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year in carrying on any trade or business, including –

(1) a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services actually rendered;

So in other words, in the context of “self employment” ONLY, the term “trade or business” excludes public offices in the District of Columbia and only includes those of federal territories and possessions, which are called “States” within the I.R.C. This is because the default definition in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) includes ALL public offices everywhere within federal jurisdiction, whereas those public offices in the District of Columbia are specifically not mentioned by the above definition. When the authors of U.S. Code in the Office of Law Revision Counsel of the House of Representatives wants to confuse and mislead the American people, they will write the code in such a way as to use a double-negative, whereby they define what the new definition of “trade or business” excludes, and then don’t include public offices in the District of Columbia but include all other types of political offices under federal jurisdiction. Therefore, for self employment context ONLY, “trade or business” has a different meaning than the default definition in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) and has been overridden to exclude public offices in the District of Columbia but include all other types of public offices otherwise within federal jurisdiction.

Government franchises and the excise taxes that implement them such as the “trade or business” franchise are commonly called by any of the following names to disguise the nature of the transaction:

1. “public right”.
2. “publici juris”.
3. “privilege”.
4. “excise taxable privilege”.
5. “public office”.
6. “Congressionally created right”.

The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed that the income tax was an excise tax indirectly when they held the following:

“The distinction between public rights and private rights has not been definitively explained in our precedents. Nor is it necessary to do so in the present cases, for it suffices to observe that a matter of public rights must at a minimum arise “between the government and others.” Ex parte Bakelite Corp., supra, at 451, 49 S.Ct., at 413.

Crowell v. Benson, 285 U.S. 22, 52 S.Ct. 285, 76 L.Ed. 598 (1932), attempted to catalog some of the matters that fall within the public-rights doctrine:

Congress cannot “withdraw from [Art. III] judicial cognizance any matter which, from its nature, is the subject of a suit at the common law, or in equity, or admiralty.” Murray’s Lessee v. Hoboken Land & Improvement Co., 18 How. 272, 284 (1856) (emphasis added). It is thus clear that the presence of the United States as a proper party to the proceeding is a necessary but not sufficient means of distinguishing “private rights” from “public rights.” And...
In contrast, “the liability of one individual to another under the law as defined,” Crowell v. Benson, supra, at 51, 52 S.Ct., at 292, is a matter of private rights. Our precedents clearly establish that only controversies in the former category may be removed from Art. III courts and delegated to legislative courts or administrative agencies for their determination. See Atlas Roofing Co. v. Occupational Safety and Health Review Comm’n, 430 U.S. 442, 450 n. 7, 97 S.Ct. 1361, 1366 n. 7, 51 L.Ed.2d 464 (1977); Crowell v. Benson, supra, 285 U.S., at 50-51, 52 S.Ct., at 292. See also Katz, Federal Legislative Courts, 43 Harv.L.Rev. 894, 917-918 (1930). FN24

Private-rights disputes, on the other hand, lie at the core of the historically recognized judicial power.”

Although Crowell and Raddatz do not explicitly distinguish between rights created by Congress and other rights, such a distinction underlies in part Crowell’s and Raddatz’ recognition of a critical difference between rights created by federal statute and rights recognized by the Constitution. Moreover, such a distinction seems to us to be necessary in light of the delicate accommodations required by the principle of separation of powers reflected in Art. III. The constitutional system of checks and balances is designed to guard against “encroachment or aggrandizement” by Congress at the expense of the other branches of government. Buckley v. Valeo, 424 U.S., at 122, 96 S.Ct., at 683. But when Congress creates a statutory right (a “privilege”), in this case, such as a “trade or business”), it clearly has the discretion, in defining that right, to create presumptions, or assign burdens of proof, or prescribe remedies; it may also provide that persons seeking to vindicate that right must do so before particularized tribunals created to perform the specialized adjudicative tasks related to that right. FN35 Such provisions do, in a sense, affect the exercise of judicial power; but they are also incidental to Congress’ power to define the right that it has created. No comparable justification exists, however, when the right being adjudicated is not of congressional creation. In such a situation, substantial inroads into functions that have traditionally been performed by the Judiciary cannot be characterized merely as incidental extensions of Congress’ power to define rights that it has created. Rather, such inroads suggest unwarranted encroachments upon the judicial power of the United States, which our Constitution reserves for Art. III courts.

To give you an example of the above phenomenon, the so-called “U.S. Tax Court” is identified in 26 U.S.C. §7441 as an Article I court, and hence NOT an Article III court as described above. It is therefore what the U.S. Supreme Court identified above as a “particularized” tribunal that officiates ONLY over “Congressionally created rights”, which is a euphemism for “privileges” incident to a franchise.

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 76 > Subchapter C > PART I > § 7441

§ 7441. Status

There is hereby established, under article I of the Constitution of the United States, a court of record to be known as the United States Tax Court. The members of the Tax Court shall be the chief judge and the judges of the Tax Court.

Only “public rights” exercised by “public officers” may be officiated in the U.S. Tax Court, which is a “legislative franchise court”.

“franchise court. Hist. A privately held court that (usu.) exists by virtue of a royal grant [privilege], with jurisdiction over a variety of matters, depending on the grant and whatever powers the court acquires over time. In 1274, Edward I abolished many of these feudal courts by forcing the nobility to demonstrate by what authority (quo warranto) they held court. If a lord could not produce a charter reflecting the franchise, the court was abolished. - Also termed courts of the franchise.

Dispensing justice was profitable. Much revenue could come from the fees and dues, fines and amercements. This explains the growth of the second class of feudal courts, the Franchise Courts. They too were private courts held by feudal lords. Sometimes their claim to jurisdiction was based on old pre-Conquest grants ... But many of them were, in reality, only wrongful usurpations of private jurisdiction by powerful lords. These were put down after the famous Quo Warranto enquiry in the reign of Edward I.” W.J.V. Windeyer, Lectures on Legal History 56-57 (2d ed. 1949).

Below are the legal mechanisms involved as described by the Annotated U.S. Constitution:

The Public Rights Distinction

it is also clear that even with respect to matters that arguably fall within the scope of the “public rights” doctrine, the presumption is in favor of Art. III courts. See Glidden Co. v. Zdanok, 370 U.S., at 548-549, and n. 21, 82 S.Ct., at 1471-1472, and n. 21 (opinion of Harlan, J.). See also Currie, The Federal Courts and the American Law Institute, Part 1, 36 U.Chi.L.Rev. 1, 13-14, n. 67 (1968). Moreover, when Congress assigns these matters to administrative agencies, or to legislative courts, it has generally provided, and we have suggested that it may be required to provide, for Art. III judicial review. See Atlas Roofing Co. v. Occupational Safety and Health Review Comm’n, 430 U.S., at 455, n. 13, 97 S.Ct., at 1269, n. 13.

"That is, “public” rights are, strictly speaking, those in which the cause of action inheres in or lies against the Federal Government in its sovereign capacity, the understanding since Murray's Lessee. However, to accommodate Crowell v. Benson, Atlas Roofing, and similar cases, seemingly private causes of action between private parties will also be deemed “public” rights, when Congress, acting for a valid legislative purpose pursuant to its Article I powers, fashions a cause of action that is analogous to a common-law claim and so closely integrates it into a public regulatory scheme that it becomes a matter appropriate for agency resolution with limited involvement by the Article III judiciary. (83)"

[Footnote 83: Granfinanciera, S.A. v. Nordberg, 492 U.S. at 52-54. The Court reiterated that the Government need not be a party as a prerequisite to a matter being of “public right.” Id. at 54. Concurring, Justice Scalia argued that public rights historically were and should remain only those matters to which the Federal Government is a party. Id. at 63.]

So the U.S. Tax Court is really nothing more than an administrative binding arbitration board for federal statutory “employees” and public officers in resolving disputes INTERNAL to the national government and among federal instrumentalities, officers, bureaus, and agencies. All these entities are identified in 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) as the ONLY proper subject of IRS enforcement activity, which the code calls “distrain”. That, in fact, is why the INTERNAL Revenue Service begins with the word “INTERNAL”. The “private causes of action” they are referring to are the exercise of “private law”, which is a fancy term for contract law, where the franchise itself codified in Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A through C is the franchise contract. The U.S. Supreme Court called income taxes a “quasi contract”, in fact.165

“Private law. That portion of the law which defines, regulates, enforces, and administers relationships among individuals, associations, and corporations. As used in contradistinction to public law, the term means all that part of the law which is administered between citizen and citizen, or which is concerned with the definition, regulation, and enforcement of rights in cases where both the person in whom the right inheres and the person upon whom the obligation is incident are private individuals. See also Private bill; Special law. Compare Public Law.”

Private law such as the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A through C can only acquire the “force of law” through the consent of BOTH parties to it. Contracts between private people are an example of private law. This is thoroughly established in:

| Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003, Sections 9.5 through 9.6 |
| http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm |

Many people misrepresent the facts by claiming that the I.R.C. is not “law”. It IS law, but NOT for everyone. If someone shoves a signed contract in front of you and you manifest actions that indicate consent to the provisions of the contract, then it's as good as if you signed it. This kind of consent is called “implied” consent or “tacit procuration”. This kind of consent is manifested in several forms, including:

1. Filling out “taxpayer” forms. ALL IRS forms are ONLY for consenting statutory “taxpayers”.
   1.1. IRS Mission Statement, Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 1.1.1.1 says that they can help ONLY statutory “taxpayers” who consent to the franchise contract. That is the true meaning of the word “Service” in their name. They are helping those who volunteer to “serve” uncle with their “donations”. 31 U.S.C. §321(d), in fact, identifies all income taxes as “donations”. So whenever you see the word “tax”, it REALLY means a donation paid under the authority of the federal public officer kickback program disguised to LOOK like a lawful constitutional tax.

1.2. If you want a nontaxpayer form, you will have to modify theirs to make one or make your own nontaxpayer form. They don’t help and even interfere with the rights of “nontaxpayers”, which makes us wonder whether they can even really be part of a government. REAL governments provide EQUAL protection to both “taxpayers” and “nontaxpayers”, don’t discriminate, and are instituted to protect mainly PRIVATE rights, which means constitutional rights of NONTAXPAYERS FIRST, before they can even take on the job of ALSO protecting public rights of public officers. For a huge collection of “nontaxpayer forms”, see:

SEDM Forms and Publications Page
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. VOLUNTARILY signing and submitting an IRS Form W-4, which the treasury regulations identify as an “agreement”, and hence contract. See 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a) and 26 C.F.R. §34.3402(p)-1. The upper left corner of the form says “EMPLOYEE’S withhold allowance certificate”:

2.1. YOU are the one doing the “allowing”.

2.2. What you are consenting to is to become a public officer engaged in the “trade or business”, “social insurance” and SOCIALISM franchise. You are trading RIGHTS for statutory privileges by signing up.

2.3. The IRS Form W-4 is therefore a request to become a Kelly girl on loan to a formerly private employer and to send kickbacks to the mother corporation and your “parens patriae” that loans out your services as a public officer.

3. Quoting any provision of the I.R.C. and thereby “purposefully availing” yourself of its “benefits” and thereby:

3.2. Changing your status from a statutory “non-resident non-person” to that of a resident alien under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A).

5. Petitioning U.S. Tax Court. Tax Court Rule 13(a) says that only “taxpayers” who are party to the contract can avail themselves of the “benefits” of this brand of administrative rather than judicial remedy.

6. Using a “Taxpayer Identification Number”, which 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) says is only mandatory in the case of those engaged in a “trade or business” and therefore a public office in the U.S. government.

The IRS, judges, and government prosecutors don’t want you to know this stuff and carefully hide the nature of the transaction to keep you in the dark. They love what we call “mushrooms”, which are organisms that you keep in the dark and feed SHIT to. The SHIT is:

1. Shifting the burden of proof to you for EVERYTHING, so they can just sit there and watch you hang yourself with your own legal ignorance. The moving party always has the burden of proof, but even when THEY assert a liability or do an assessment, the code is written so that YOU have the burden of proving you AREN’T liable (an IMPOSSIBILITY) instead of THEM proving you ARE liable if you wish to dispute it in Tax Court. See 26 U.S.C. §6902(a) and:

   Government Burden of Proof, Form #05.025
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. Disinformation. This includes EVERYTHING they say, which they are not accountable for the accuracy of. See:

   Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. Deceptive publications that refuse to disclose complete or accurate definitions of key words. See the above memorandum of law.

4. Words of art in their void for vagueness franchise “codes” that are private law.

5. Equivocation of geographical terms such as “United States”, “U.S. citizen”, “U.S. person”, “U.S. resident”, etc. They use this equivocation to confuse the CONTEXT of geographical terms and make state citizens LOOK like territorial citizens domiciled within the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress. See:

   Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014, Section 14.1
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

6. Concealing of the real names of the IRS agents (they don’t use their REAL names).

7. False accusations to keep you on the defensive so you never get to discuss THEIR violations of law.

8. Filtering evidence against the government from appearing in litigation to keep the jury from learning what is in this document and thereby unjustly enrich themselves at your expense. This is naked thievery. It is called a “motion in limine” and it is undertaken just before trial to destroy all evidentiary weapons you could possibly use to damage the government’s FRAUDULENT case against you.

Your public dis-servants play these games to disguise the consensual nature of what they are doing and let you practically convict and hang yourself. They also do it to protect their “plausible deniability” and absolute irresponsibility towards the public. That lack of responsibility and complete unaccountability and even anonymity is the source of GREAT evil, in fact:

They sit back and watch by doing all the above, never once:

1. Admitting that the source of ALL JUST authority of the government comes from your INDIVIDUAL consent, as per the Declaration of Independence. They don’t need to because you never learned constitutional law in high school or grammar school.
2. Telling you that your consent is required.
3. Asking you whether you want to consent to BECOME a statutory “taxpayer” and public officer.
4. Making the government satisfy the burden of proving consent on the record WITH EVIDENCE.
5. Notifying you in their publications that they will protect your right to NOT consent. If they won’t do this, then nothing is really “voluntary” to begin with!

We call this “hide the presumption and hide the consent” game. The trap is their own omission and the legal ignorance they manufactured in you within the public/government school system that they use to HARVEST your labor and property when you enter the work force. Here is how the Bible describes this trap:

> "For among My [God's] people are found wicked [covetous public servant] men; They lie in wait as one who sets snares; They set a trap; They catch men. As a cage is full of birds, So their houses are full of deceit. Therefore they have become great and grown rich. They have grown fat, they are sleek; Yes, they surpass the deeds of the wicked; They do not plead the cause, The cause of the fatherless [or the innocent, widows, or the non taxpayer]; Yet they prosper, And the right of the needy they do not defend. Shall I not punish them for these things?" says the Lord. ‘Shall I not avenge Myself on such a nation as this?’" [Jer. 5:26-31, Bible, NKJV]

> "An astonishing and horrible thing Has been committed in the land: The prophets prophesy falsely, And the priests [judges in franchise courts that worship government as a pagan deity] rule by their own power; And My people love to have it so. But what will you do in the end?" [Jer. 5:26-31, Bible, NKJV]

> "For the upright will dwell in [ON] the land, And the blameless will remain in it; But the wicked will be cut off from the earth, And the unfaithful will be uprooted from it [by KIDNAPPING their legal identity and transporting it to the District of Criminals]." [Prov. 2:21-22, Bible, NKJV]

You live on a corporate farm and you are government livestock if you let that legal ignorance continue. A cage is reserve for you on the federal plantation UNLESS and UNTIL you take charge and prosecute these CRIMINALS who never protect you and ONLY protect their own mafia RICO racket. See:

Why do they need your consent? Because the Declaration of Independence says ALL JUST AUTHORITY of any civil government derives from CONSENT of the governed, and they need that consent in a LOT of ways to govern. Another reason is that he who consents cannot complain of an injury accomplished during tax enforcement and in some cases entirely forfeits their right to sue in REAL, Constitutional court instead of fake U.S. Tax Court franchise court.

> "These general rules are well settled:

1. That the United States, when it creates rights [PUBLIC rights/privileges/franchises] in [STATUTORY] individuals [FICTIONS OF LAW] against itself [a "public right", which is a euphemism for a "franchise" to help the court disguise the nature of the transaction], is under no obligation to provide a remedy through the courts, United States ex rel. Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

It is otherwise an unconstitutional “bill of attainder” to institute IRS penalties against a person protected by the Constitution:

Volunti non fit injuria.

He who consents cannot receive an injury. 2 Bouv. Inst. n. 2279, 2327; 4 T. R. 657; Shelf. on mar. & Div. 449.

Consensus tollit errorem.

Consent removes or obviates a mistake. Co. Litt. 126.

Melius est omnia mala pati quam mala concentire.

It is better to suffer every wrong or ill, than to consent to it. 3 Co. Inst. 23.

Nemo videtur fraudare eos qui sciunt, et consentiunt.

One cannot complain of having been deceived when he knew the fact and gave his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 145.

1. The Declaration of Independence, which is organic law, says our constitutional rights are “unalienable”.
2. An “unalienable right” is one that you AREN’T ALLOWED BY LAW to consent to give away in relation to a real, de jure government! Such a right cannot lawfully be sold, bargained away, or transferred through any commercial process, INCLUDING A FRANCHISE. Hence, even if we consent, the forfeiture of such rights is unconstitutional, unauthorized, and a violation of the fiduciary duty to the public officer we surrender them to.

[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856; http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

The important thing to remember, however, is that Congress is FORBIDDEN from creating franchises within states of the Union. Why? Because:

3. The only place you can lawfully give up constitutional rights is where they physically do not exist, which is among those domiciled on AND physically present on federal territory not part of any state of the Union.

“Indeed, the practical interpretation put by Congress upon the Constitution has been long continued and uniform to the effect [182 U.S. 244, 279] that the Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase or conquest, only when and so far as Congress shall so direct. Notwithstanding its duty to ‘guarantee to every state in this Union a republican form of government’ (art. 4, 4), by which we understand, according to the definition of Webster, ‘a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people, and is exercised by representatives elected by them,’ Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of the territories of Louisiana, Florida, the Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of government bearing a much greater analogy to a British Crown colony than a republican state of America, and to vest the legislative power either in a governor and council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by the President. It was not until they had attained a certain population that power was given them to organize a legislature by vote of the people. In all these cases, as well as in territories subsequently organized west of the Mississippi, Congress thought it necessary either to extend to Constitution and laws of the United States over them, or to declare that the inhabitants should be entitled to enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, as well as other privileges of the bill of rights.”

[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

4. All governments are created exclusively to protect PRIVATE RIGHTS. The way you protect them is to LEAVE THEM ALONE and not burden their exercise in any way. A lawful de jure government cannot and does not protect your rights by making a business out of destroying, regulating, and taxing their exercise, implement the business as a franchise, and hide the nature of what they are doing as a franchise and an excuse. This would cause and has caused the money changers to take over the charitable public trust and “civic temple” and make it into a whorehouse in violation of the Constitutional trust indenture. This kind of money changing in fact, is the very reason that Jesus flipped tables over in the temple out of anger: Turning the bride of Christ and God’s minister for justice into a WHORE. The nuns are now pimped out and the church is open for business for all the statutory “taxpayer” Johns who walk in.

That is why the geographical definitions within the I.R.C. limit themselves to federal territory exclusively and include no part of any state of the Union.

If you want an exhaustive analysis of how franchises such as the I.R.C., Subtitles A through C operate, please see the following:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

5.6.12.3 Social Security Numbers (SSNs) and Taxpayer Identification Numbers (TINs) are what the FTC calls a “franchise mark”

The Federal Trade Commission (F.T.C.) has defined a commercial franchise as follows:

“. . . a commercial business arrangement is a “franchise” if it satisfies three definitional elements. Specifically, the franchisor must:

(1) promise to provide a trademark or other commercial symbol;
(2) promise to exercise significant control or provide significant assistance in the operation of the business; and
(3) require a minimum payment of at least $500 during the first six months of operations.”

In the context of the above document, the “Social Security Number” or “Taxpayer Identification Number” function essentially as what the FTC calls a “franchise mark”. It behaves as what we call a “de facto license” to represent Caesar as a public officer:

“A franchise entails the right to operate a business that is "identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark, or to offer, sell, or distribute goods, services, or commodities that are identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark." The term "trademark" is intended to be read broadly to cover not only trademarks, but any service mark, trade name, or other advertising or commercial symbol. This is generally referred to as the "trademark" or "mark" element.

The franchisor [the government] need not own the mark itself, but at the very least must have the right to license the use of the mark to others. Indeed, the right to use the franchisor's mark in the operation of the business - either by selling goods or performing services identified with the mark or by using the mark, in whole or in part, in the business' name - is an integral part of franchising. In fact, a supplier can avoid Rule coverage of a particular distribution arrangement by expressly prohibiting the distributor from using its mark.”

This same SSN or TIN “franchise mark” is what the Bible calls “the mark of the beast”. It defines “the Beast” as the government or civil rulers:

“And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army.”
[Rev. 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

“He [the government BEAST] causes all, both small and great, rich and poor, free and slave, to receive a mark on their right hand or on their foreheads, and that no one may buy or sell except one who has the mark of[13] the name of the beast, or the number of his name.
[Rev. 13:16-17, Bible, NKJV]

The “business” that is “operated” or “licensed” by THE BEAST in statutes is called a “trade or business” which is defined as follows:

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701(a)(26)
Those engaged in “the trade or business” franchise activity are officers of Caesar and have fired God as their civil protector. By becoming said public officers or officers of Caesar, they have violated the FIRST COMMANDMENT of the Ten Commandments, because they are “serving other gods”, and the pagan god they serve is a man:

“You shall have no other gods [including governments or civil rulers] before Me.

“You shall not make for yourself a carved image—any likeness of anything that is in heaven above, or that is in the earth beneath, or that is in the water under the earth; you shall not bow down to them nor serve them. For I, the LORD your God, am a jealous God, visiting the iniquity of the fathers upon the children to the third and fourth generations of those who hate Me, but showing mercy to thousands, to those who love Me and keep My commandments.

[Exodus 20:3-6, Bible, NKJV]

By “bowing down” as indicated above, the Bible means that you cannot become UNEQUAL or especially INFERIOR to any government or civil ruler under the civil law. In other words, you cannot surrender your equality and be civilly governed by any government or civil ruler under the Roman system of jus civile, civil law, or civil “statutes”. That is not to say that you are lawless or an “anarchist” by any means, because you are still accountable under criminal law, equity, and the common law in any court. All civil statutory codes make the government superior and you inferior so you can’t consent to a domicile and thereby become subject to it. The word “subjection” in the following means INFERIORITY:

“Protectio trahit subjectionem, subjectio projectionem.
Protection draws to it subjection, subjection, protection. Co. Litt. 65.”
[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856;
SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

Below are ways one becomes subject to Caesar’s civil statutory “codes” and civil franchises as a “subject”, and thereby surrenders their equality to engage in government idolatry:

3. Domicile by choice: Choosing domicile within a specific jurisdiction.
4. Domicile by operation of law. Also called domicile of necessity:
   4.1. Representing an entity that has a domicile within a specific jurisdiction even though not domiciled oneself in said jurisdiction. For instance, representing a federal corporation as a public officer of said corporation, even though domiciled outside the federal zone. The authority for this type of jurisdiction is, for instance, Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).
   4.2. Becoming a dependent of someone else, and thereby assuming the same domicile as that of your care giver. For instance, being a minor and dependent and having the same civil domicile as your parents. Another example is becoming a government dependent and assuming the domicile of the government paying you the welfare check.
   4.3. Being committed to a prison as a prisoner, and thereby assuming the domicile of the government owning or funding the prison.

Those who violate the First Commandment by doing any of the above become subject to the civil statutory franchises or codes. They are thereby committing the following form of idolatry because they are nominating a King to be ABOVE them rather than EQUAL to them under the common law:

Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel at Ramah, and said to him, “Look, you are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Now make us a king to judge us like all the nations [and be OVER them].”

But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, “Give us a king to judge us.” So Samuel prayed to the Lord, And the Lord said to Samuel, “Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have rejected Me [God], that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day— with which they have forsaken Me and served other gods [Kings, in this case]—so they are doing to you also [government becoming idolatry]. Now therefore, heed their voice. However, you shall solemnly forewarn them, and show them the behavior of the king who will reign over them.”

So Samuel told all the words of the LORD to the people who asked him for a king. And he said, “This will be the behavior of the king who will reign over you: He will take [STEAL] your sons and appoint them for his own chariots and to be his horsemen, and some will run before his chariots. He will appoint captains over his thousands and captains over his fifties, will set some to plow his ground and reap his harvest, and some to make his weapons of war and equipment for his chariots. He will take [STEAL] your daughters to be perfumers, cooks, and bakers. And he will take [STEAL] the best of your fields, your vineyards, and your olive groves, and give them to his servants. He will take [STEAL] a tenth of your grain and your vintages, and give it to his officers and servants. And he will take [STEAL] your male servants, your female servants, your finest young men, and your donkeys, and put them to his work [as SLAVES]. He will take [STEAL] a tenth of your sheep. And you will be his servants. And you will cry out in that day because of your king whom you have chosen for yourselves, and the LORD will not hear you in that day."

Nevertheless the people refused to obey the voice of Samuel; and they said, "No, but we will have a king over us, that we also may be like all the nations, and that our king may judge us and go out before us and fight our battles."

[1 Sam. 8:2-20, Bible, NKJV]

5.6.12.4 Public v. Private

A very important subject is the division of legal authority between PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. On this subject the U.S. Supreme Court held:

"A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he administer or execute them."

[United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

If you can't "execute" them, then you ALSO can't enforce them against ANYONE else. Some people might be tempted to say that we all construe them against the private person daily, but in fact we can't do that WITHOUT being a public officer WITHIN the government. If we do enforce the law as a private person, we are criminally impersonating a public officer in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912. Another U.S. Supreme Court cite also confirms why this must be:

"...we are of the opinion that there is a clear distinction in this particular between an [PRIVATE] individual and a [PUBLIC] corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the state. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to the state or to his neighbors to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the state, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as exist under the law, and are not to be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.

"Upon the other hand, the [PUBLIC] corporation is a creature of the state. It is presumed to be incorporated for the benefit of the public. It receives certain special privileges and franchises, and holds them subject to the laws of the state and the limitations of its charter. Its powers are limited by law. It can make no contract not authorized by its charter. Its rights to [201 U.S. 43, 75] act as a corporation are only preserved to it so long as it obeys the laws of its creation. There is a reserved right in the legislature to investigate its contracts and find out whether it has exceeded its powers. It would be a strange anomaly to hold that a state, having chartered a corporation to make use of certain franchises, could not, in the exercise of its sovereignty, inquire how these franchises had been employed, and whether they had been abused, and demand the production of the corporate books and papers for that purpose. The defense amounts to this: That an officer of a corporation which is charged with a criminal violation of the statute, may plead the criminality of such corporation as a refusal to produce its books. To state this proposition is to answer it. While an individual may lawfully refuse to answer incriminating questions unless protected by an immunity statute, it does not follow that a corporation, vested with special privileges and franchises, may refuse to show its hand when charged with an abuse of such privileges."

[Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906)]

You MUST therefore be an agent of the government and therefore a PUBLIC officer in order to “make constitutions or laws or administer, execute, or ENFORCE EITHER”. Examples of “agents” or “public officers” of the government include all the following:

1. “person” (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1)).
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

2. “individual” (26 C.F.R. §1441-1(c)(3)).
3. “taxpayer” (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14)).
4. “withholding agent” (26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16)).

“The government thus lays a tax, through the [GOVERNMENT] instrumentality [PUBLIC OFFICE] of the company [a FEDERAL and not STATE corporation], upon the income of a non-resident alien over whom it cannot justly exercise any control, nor upon whom it can justly lay any burden.”

[United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 377 (1882)]

So how do you “OBEY” a law without “EXECUTING” it? We’ll give you a hint: It CAN’T BE DONE!

Likewise, if ONLY public officers can “administer, execute, or enforce” the law, then the following additional requirements of the law are unavoidable and also implied:

1. Congress cannot impose DUTIES against private persons through the civil law. Otherwise the Thirteenth Amendment would be violated and the party executing said duties would be criminally impersonating an agent or officer of the government in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912.
2. Congress can only impose DUTIES upon public officers through the civil statutory law.
3. The civil statutory law is law for GOVERNMENT, and not PRIVATE persons. See: Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
4. Those who enforce any civil statutory duties against you are PRESUMING that you occupy a public office.
5. You cannot unilaterally “elect” yourself into a public office in the government by filling out a government form, even if you consent to volunteer.
6. Even if you ARE a public officer, you can only execute the office in a place EXPRESSLY authorized by Congress per 4 U.S.C. §72, which means ONLY the District of Columbia and “not elsewhere”.
7. If you are “construing, administering, or executing” the laws, then you are doing so as a public officer and the Public Records exception to the Hearsay Exceptions Rule, Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8) applies. EVERYTHING you produce in the process of “construing, administering, or executing” the laws is instantly admissible and cannot be excluded from the record by any judge. If a judge interferes with the admission of such evidence, he is:
   7.1. Interfering with the duties of a coordinate branch of the government in violation of the Separation of Powers.
   7.2. Criminally obstructing justice.

5.6.12.4.1 Introduction

In order to fully understand and comprehend the nature of franchises, it is essential to thoroughly understand the distinctions between PUBLIC and PRIVATE property. The following subsections will deal with this important subject extensively. In the following subsections, we will establish the following facts:

1. There are TWO types of property:
   1.1. Public property. This type of property is protected by the CIVIL law.
   1.2. Private property. This type of property is protected by the COMMON law.
2. Specific legal rights attach to EACH of the two types of property. These “rights” in turn, are ALSO property as legally defined.

Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belong exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 253, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man’s courtesy.

The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one’s property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.
3. Human beings can simultaneously be in possession of BOTH PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. This gives rise to TWO legal “persons”: PUBLIC and PRIVATE.

3.1. The CIVIL law attaches to the PUBLIC person.

3.2. The COMMON law attaches to the PRIVATE person.

This is consistent with the following maxim of law.

Quando duo juro concurrunt in und personâ, aequum est ac si essent in diversis.

When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate persons, 4 Co. 118.

[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856; SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

4. That the purpose of the Constitution and the establishment of government itself is to protect EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights.

“We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. -- That to secure these [EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE, God-given] rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.”

[Declaration of Independence, 1776]

“...unless and until the government meets the burden of proving, WITH EVIDENCE, on the record of the proceeding that:

1. A SPECIFIC formerly PRIVATE owner consented IN WRITING to convert said property to PUBLIC property.

2. The owner was domiciled on federal territory NOT protected by the Constitution and therefore had the legal capacity to ALIENATE a Constitutional right or relieve a public servant of the fiduciary obligation to respect and protect the right. Those domiciled in a constitutional but not statutory state and who are “citizens” or “residents” protected by the constitution cannot alienate rights to a real, de jure government.

3. If the government refuses to meet the above burden of proof, it shall be CONCLUSIVELY PRESUMED to be operating in a PRIVATE, corporate capacity on an EQUAL footing with every other private corporation and which is therefore NOT protected by official, judicial, or sovereign immunity.

5. The main method for protecting PRIVATE rights is to impose the following burden of proof and presumption upon any entity or person claiming to be “government”:

“All rights and property are PRESUMED to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and beyond the control of government or the CIVIL law unless and until the government meets the burden of proving, WITH EVIDENCE, on the record of the proceeding that:

1. A SPECIFIC formerly PRIVATE owner consented IN WRITING to convert said property to PUBLIC property.

2. The owner was domiciled on federal territory NOT protected by the Constitution and therefore had the legal capacity to ALIENATE a Constitutional right or relieve a public servant of the fiduciary obligation to respect and protect the right. Those domiciled in a constitutional but not statutory state and who are “citizens” or “residents” protected by the constitution cannot alienate rights to a real, de jure government.

3. If the government refuses to meet the above burden of proof, it shall be CONCLUSIVELY PRESUMED to be operating in a PRIVATE, corporate capacity on an EQUAL footing with every other private corporation and which is therefore NOT protected by official, judicial, or sovereign immunity.

6. That the ability to regulate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE conduct is repugnant to the constitution and therefore such conduct cannot lawfully become the subject of any civil statutory law.

7. That the terms “person”, “persons”, “individual”, “individuals” as used within the civil statutory law by default imply PUBLIC “persons” and therefore public offices within the government and not PRIVATE human beings. All such offices are creations and franchises of the government and therefore property of the government subject to its exclusive control.

8. That if the government wants to call you a statutory “person” or “individual” under the civil law, then:

8.1. You must volunteer or consent at some point to occupy a public office in the government while situated physically in a place not protected by the USA Constitution and the Bill of Rights....namely, federal territory. In some cases, that public office is also called a “citizen” or “resident”.

8.2. If you don’t volunteer, they are essentially exercising unconstitutional “eminent domain” over your PRIVATE property. Keep in mind that rights protected by the Constitution are PRIVATE PROPERTY.

9. That there are VERY SPECIFIC and well defined rules for converting PRIVATE property into PUBLIC PROPERTY and OFFICES, and that all such rules require your express consent except when a crime is involved.

10. That if a corrupted judge or public servant imposes upon you any civil statutory status, including that of “person” or “individual” without your consent, they are:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

10.1. Violating due process of law.
10.2. Imposing involuntary servitude.
10.3. STEALING property from you. We call this “theft by presumption”.
10.4. Kidnapping your identity and moving it to federal territory.
10.5. Instituting eminent domain over EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property.

11. That within the common law, the main mechanism for PREVENTING the conversion of PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property through government franchises are the following maxims of law. These maxims of law MANDATE that all governments must protect your right NOT to participate in franchises or be held accountable for the consequences of receiving a “benefit” you did not consent to receive and/or regarded as an INJURY rather than a “benefit”:

Invito beneficium non datur.
No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he does not dissent he will be considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

Quilibet potest renunciare juri pro se inducto.
Any one may renounce a law introduced for his own benefit. To this rule there are some exceptions. See 1 Bouv. Inst. n. 83.

[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856, SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

For an example of how this phenomenon works in the case of the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A and C “trade or business” franchise, see:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes. Form #05.008 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

As an example of why an understanding of this subject is EXTREMELY important, consider the following dialog at an IRS audit in which the FIRST question out of the mouth of the agent is ALWAYS “What is YOUR Social Security Number?”:

IRS AGENT: What is YOUR Social Security Number?

YOU: 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d) says SSNs belong to the government. The only way it could be MY number is if I am appearing here today as a federal employee or officer on official business. If that is the case, no, I am here as a private human being and not a government statutory “employee” in possession or use of “public property” such as a number. Therefore, I don’t HAVE a Social Security Number. Furthermore, I am not lawfully eligible and never have been eligible to participate in Social Security and any records you have to the contrary are FALSE and FRAUDULENT and should be DESTROYED.

IRS AGENT: That’s ridiculous. Everyone HAS a SSN.

YOU: Well then EVERYONE is a STUPID whore for acting as a federal employee or agent without compensation THEY and not YOU determine. The charge for my services to act as a federal “employee” or officer or trustee in possession of public property such as an SSN is ALL the tax and penalty liability that might result PLUS $1,000 per hour. Will you agree in writing pay the compensation I demand to act essentially as your federal coworker, because if you don’t, then it’s not MY number?

IRS AGENT: It’s YOUR number, not the government’s.

YOU: Well why do the regulations at 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d) say it belongs to the Social Security Administration instead of me? I am not appearing as a Social Security employee at this meeting and its unreasonable and prejudicial for you to assume that I am. I am also not appearing here as “federal personnel” as defined in 5 U.S.C. §552a(13). I don’t even qualify for Social Security and never have, and what you are asking me to do by providing an INVALID and knowingly FALSE number is to VIOLATE THE LAW and commit fraud by providing that which I am not legally entitled to and thereby fraudulently procure the benefits of a federal franchise. Is that your intention?

IRS AGENT: Don’t play word games with me. It’s YOUR number.
YOU: Well good. Then if it’s MY number and MY property, then I have EXCLUSIVE control and use over it. That is what the word “property” implies. That means I, and not you, may penalize people for abusing MY property. The penalty for wrongful use or possession of MY property is all the tax and penalty liability that might result from using said number for tax collection plus $1,000 per hour for educating you about your lawful duties because you obviously don’t know what they are. If it’s MY property, then your job is to protect me from abuses of MY property. If you can penalize me for misusing YOUR procedures and forms, which are YOUR property, then I am EQUALLY entitled to penalize you for misusing MY property. Are you willing to sign an agreement in writing to pay for the ABUSE of what you call MY property, because if you aren’t, you are depriving me of exclusive use and control over MY property and depriving me of the equal right to prevent abuses of my property??

IRS AGENT: OK, well it’s OUR number. Sorry for deceiving you. Can you give us OUR number that WE assigned to you?

YOU: You DIDN’T assign it to ME as a private person, which is what I am appearing here today as. You can’t lawfully issue public property such as an SSN to a private person. That’s criminal embezzlement. The only way it could have been assigned to me is if I’m acting as a “public officer” or federal employee at this moment, and I am NOT. I am here as a private person and not a public employee. Therefore, it couldn’t have been lawfully issued to me. Keep this up, and I’m going to file a criminal complaint with the U.S. Attorney for embezzlement in violation of 18 U.S.C. §641 and impersonating a public officer in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912. I’m not here as a public officer and you are asking me to act like one without compensation and without legal authority. Where is the compensation that I demand to act as a fiduciary and trustee over your STINKING number, which is public property? I remind you that the very purpose why governments are created is to PROTECT and maintain the separation between “public property” and “private property” in order to preserve my inalienable constitutional rights that you took an oath to support and defend. Why do you continue to insist on co-mingling and confusing them in order to STEAL my labor, property, and money without compensation in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause?

Usually, after the above interchange, the IRS agent will realize he is digging a DEEP hole for himself and will abruptly end that sort of inquiry, and many times will end his collection efforts.

5.6.12.4.2 What is “Property”?

Property is legally defined as follows:

Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man’s courtesy.

The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one’s property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.

Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership, or whether beneficial, or a private ownership, Davis v. Davis. TexCiv-App., 495 S.W.2d. 607. 611. Term includes not only ownership and possession but also the right of use and enjoyment for lawful purposes. Hoffmann v. Kinealy, Mo., 389 S.W.2d. 745, 752.

Property, within constitutional protection, denotes group of rights inhering in citizen’s relation to physical thing, as right to possess, use and dispose of it. Cereghino v. State By and Through State Highway Commission, 230 Or. 439, 370 P.2d. 694, 697.
The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Goodwill is property, Howell v. Bowden, Tex.Civ. App., 368 S.W.2d. 842, &18; as is an insurance policy and rights incident thereto, including a right to the proceeds, Harris v. Harris, 83 N.M. 441, 493 P.2d. 407, 408.

Criminal code. “Property” means anything of value, including real estate, tangible and intangible personal property, contract rights, choses-in-action and other interests in or claims to wealth, admission or transportation tickets, captured or domestic animals, food and drink, electric or other power. Model Penal Code, Q 223.0. See also Property of another, infra. Dusts. Under definition in Restatement, Second, Trusts, Q 2(c), it denotes interest in things and not the things themselves.

Keep in mind the following critical facts about “property” as legally defined:

1. The essence of the “property” right, also called “ownership”, is the RIGHT TO EXCLUDE others from using or benefitting from the use of the property.

“We have repeatedly held that, as to property reserved by its owner for private use, “the right to exclude [others is] one of the most essential sticks in the bundle of rights that are commonly characterized as property.”
[Nollan v. California Coastal Comm’n, 483 U.S. 825 (1987)]

“In this case, we hold that the “right to exclude,” so universally held to be a fundamental element of the property right,100 falls within this category of interests that the Government cannot take without compensation.”
[Kaiser Aetna v. United States, 444 U.S. 164 (1979)]

FOOTNOTE:

United States v. Lutz, 295 F.2d. 736, 740 (CA5 1961). As stated by Mr. Justice Brandeis, “[a]n essential element of individual property is the legal right to exclude others from enjoying it.” International News Service v.
Associated Press, 248 U.S. 125, 150 (1918) (dissenting opinion).

2. It’s NOT your property if you can’t exclude the GOVERNMENT from using, benefitting from the use, or taxing the specific property.
3. All constitutional rights and statutory privileges are property.
4. Anything that conveys a right or privilege is property.
5. Contracts convey rights or privileges and are therefore property.
6. All franchises are contracts between the grantor and the grantee and therefore property.

5.6.12.4.3 “Public” v. “Private” property ownership

Next, we would like to compare the two types of property: Public v. Private. There are two types of ownership of “property”:
Absolute and Qualified. The following definition describes and compares these two types of ownership:

Ownership. Collection of rights to use and enjoy property, including right to transmit it to others. Trustees of Phillips Exeter Academy v. Exeter, 92 N.H. 473, 33 A.2d. 665, 673. The complete dominion, title, or proprietary right in a thing or claim. The entirety of the powers of use and disposal allowed by law.

The right of one or more persons to possess and use a thing to the exclusion of others. The right by which a thing belongs to someone in particular, to the exclusion of all other persons. The exclusive right of possession, enjoyment, and disposal; involving as an essential attribute the right to control, handle, and dispose.

Ownership of property is either absolute or qualified. The ownership of property is absolute when a single person has the absolute dominion over it, and may use it or dispose of it according to his pleasure, subject only to general laws. The ownership is qualified when it is shared with one or more persons, when the time of enjoyment is deferred or limited, or when the use is restricted. Calif. Civil Code, §§678-680.

There may be ownership of all inanimate things which are capable of appropriation or of manual delivery; of all domestic animals; of all obligations; of such products of labor or skill as the composition of an author, the goodwill of a business, trademarks and signs, and of rights created or granted by statute. Calif. Civil Code, §655.
In connection with burglary, "ownership" means any possession which is rightful as against the burglar.

See also Equitable ownership; Exclusive ownership; Hold; Incident of ownership; Interest; Interval ownership; Ostensible ownership; Owner; Possession; Title.

Participation in franchises causes PRIVATE property to transmute into PUBLIC property. Below is a table comparing these two great classes of property and the legal aspects of their status.

5.6.12.4.4 The purpose and foundation of de jure government: Protection of EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights

The main purpose for which all governments are established is the protection of EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights and property. This purpose is the foundation of all the just authority of any government as held by the Declaration of Independence:

“We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. – That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed.”

[Declaration of Independence, 1776]

The fiduciary duty that a public officer who works for the government has is founded upon the requirement to protect PRIVATE property.

¹⁶⁶ See: About SSNs and TINs on Government Forms and Correspondence, Form #05.012.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trusts. That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves, and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual. Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy.

The VERY FIRST step that any lawful de jure government must take in protecting PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights is to protect it from being converted to PUBLIC/GOVERNMENT property. After all: If the people you hire to protect you won’t even do the job of protecting you from THEM, why should you hire them to protect you from ANYONE ELSE?

The U.S. Supreme Court has also affirmed that the protection of PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property is “the foundation of the government” when it held the following. The case below was a challenge to the constitutionality of the first national income tax, and the U.S. government rightfully lost that challenge:

“In here I close my opinion. I could not say less in view of questions of such gravity that they go down to the very foundations of the government. If the provisions of the Constitution can be set aside by an act of Congress, where is the course of usurpation to end?”

The present assault upon capital [THEFT! and WEALTH TRANSFER by unconstitutional CONVERSION of PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property] is but the beginning. It will be but the stepping stone to others larger and more sweeping, until our political contest will become war of the poor against the rich, a war of growing intensity and bitterness.”

[Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429, 555, 37 S.Ct. 167, 61 L.Ed. 291, 437 U.S. 676, 181, hearing the case against the first income tax passed by Congress that included people in states of the Union. They declared that first income tax UNCONSTITUTIONAL, by the way]

In the above landmark case, the lawyer for the petitioner, Mr. Choate, even referred to the income tax as COMMUNISM, and he was obviously right! Why? Because communism like socialism operates upon the following political premises:

1. All property is PUBLIC property and there IS no PRIVATE property.
2. The government owns and/or controls all property and said property is LOANED to the people.
3. The government and/or the collective has rights superior to those of the individual. There is and can be NO equality or equal protection under the law without the right of PRIVATE property. In that sense, the government or the “state” is a pagan idol with “supernatural powers” because human beings are “natural” and they are inferior to the collective.
4. Control is synonymous with ownership. If the government CONTROLS the property but the citizen “owns” it, then:
   4.1. The REAL owner is the government.
   4.2. The ownership of the property is QUALIFIED rather than ABSOLUTE.
   4.3. The person holding the property is a mere CUSTODIAN over GOVERNMENT property and has EQUITABLE rather than LEGAL ownership. Hence, their name in combination with the Social Security Number constitutes a PUBLIC office synonymous with the government itself.

170 United States v. Holzer (CA7 Ill), 816 F.2d. 304 and vacated, remanded on other grounds 484 U.S. 807, 98 L.Ed. 2d 18, 108 S.Ct. 53, on remand (CA7 Ill) 840 F.2d. 1343, cert den 486 U.S. 1035, 100 L.Ed. 2d 608, 108 S.Ct. 2022 and (criticized on other grounds by United States v. Osser (CA3 Pa) 864 F.2d. 1056) and (superseded by statute on other grounds as stated in United States v. Little (CA5 Miss) 889 F.2d. 1367) and (among conflicting authorities on other grounds noted in United States v. Boylan (CA1 Mass), 898 F.2d. 230, 29 Fed.Rules.Evid.Serv. 1223). 171 Chicago ex rel. Cohen v. Keane, 64 Ill.2d. 559, 2 Ill.Dec. 285, 357 N.E.2d. 452, later proceeding (1st Dist) 105 Ill.App.3d. 298, 61 Ill.Dec. 172, 434 N.E.2d. 325.
5. Everyone in temporary use of said property is an officer and agent of the state. A “public officer”, after all, is someone who is in charge of the PROPERTY of the public. It is otherwise a crime to use public property for a PRIVATE use or benefit. That crime is called theft or conversion:

“Public office. The right, authority, and duty created and conferred by law, by which for a given period, either fixed by law or enduring at the pleasure of the creating power, an individual is invested with some portion of the sovereign functions of government for the benefit of the public. Walker v. Rich, 73 Cal.App. 139, 249 P. 56, 58. An agency for the state, the duties of which involve in their performance the exercise of some portion of the sovereign power, either great or small. Yaselli v. Goff, C.C.A., 12 F.2d. 396, 405, 56 A.L.R. 1239; Lacey v. State, 13 Ala.App. 212, 68 So. 706, 710; Curtin v. State, 61 Cal.App. 377, 214 P. 1030, 1035; Shelmadine v. City of Elkhart, 75 Ind.App. 493, 129 N.E. 878. State ex rel. Colorado River Commission v. Frohmiller, 46 Ariz. 413, 52 P.2d. 483, 486. Where, by virtue of law, a person is clothed, not as an incidental or transient authority, but for such time as de- notes duration and continuance, with Independent power to control the property of the public, or with public functions to be exercised in the supposed interest of the people, the service to be compensated by a stated yearly salary, and the occupant having a designation or title, the position so created is a public office. State v. Brennan, 49 Ohio.St. 33, 29 N.E. 593.

Look at some of the planks of the Communist Manifesto, Karl Marx and confirm the above for yourself:

1. Abolition of property in land and application of all rents of land to public purposes.
2. A heavy progressive or graduated income tax.

The legal definition of “property” confirms that one who OWNS a thing has the EXCLUSIVE right to use and dispose of and CONTROL the use of his or her or its property and ALL the fruits and “benefits” associated with the use of such property. The implication is that you as the PRIVATE owner have a right to EXCLUDE ALL OTHERS including all governments from using, benefitting from, or controlling your property. Governments, after all, are simply legal “persons” and the constitution guarantees that ALL “persons” are equal. If your neighbor can’t benefit from your property without your consent, then neither can any so-called “government”.

Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 63 Misc.Rep. 283, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. The highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man's courtesy.

The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one’s property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d. 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.

Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership, or whether beneficial, or a private ownership. Davis v. Davis. Tex.Civ.App., 495 S.W.2d. 607. 611. Term includes not only ownership and possession but also the right of use and enjoyment for lawful purposes. Hoffmann v. Kinealy, Mo., 389 S.W.2d. 745, 752.

Property, within constitutional protection, denotes group of rights inhering in citizen’s relation to physical thing, as right to possess, use and dispose of it. Cereghino v. State By and Through State Highway Commission, 230 Or. 439, 370 P.2d. 694, 697.

In a lawful de jure government under our constitution:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. All “persons” are absolutely equal under the law. No government can have any more rights than a single human being, no matter how many make up that government. If your neighbor can’t take your property without your consent, then neither can the government. The only exception to this requirement of equality is that artificial persons do not have constitutional rights, but only such “privileges” as statutory law grants them. See:

   Requirement for Equal Protection and Equal Treatment, Form #05.033
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. All property is CONCLUSIVELY presumed to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE until the GOVERNMENT meets the burden of proof on the record of the legal proceeding that you EXPRESSLY consented IN WRITING to donate the property or use of the property to the PUBLIC:

   “Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights; - life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness; and to secure, not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property for income which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor’s injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor’s benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY, Medicare, and every other public “benefit”]; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.”

   [Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

3. You have to knowingly and intentionally DONATE your PRIVATE property to a public use and a PUBLIC purpose before the government can lawfully REGULATE its use. In other words, you have to at least SHARE your ownership of otherwise private property with the government and become an EQUITABLE rather than ABSOLUTE owner of the property before they can acquire the right to regulate its use or impose obligations or duties upon its original owner.

4. That donation ordinarily occurs by applying for and/or using a license in connection with the use of SPECIFIC otherwise PRIVATE property.

5. The process of applying for or using a license and thereby converting PRIVATE into PUBLIC cannot be compelled. If it is, the constitutional violation is called “eminent domain” without compensation or STEALING, in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause.

6. You have a PUBLIC persona (office) and a PRIVATE persona (human) at all times.

6.1. That which you VOLUNTARILY attach a government license number to, such as a Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number, becomes PRIVATE property donated to a public use to procure the benefits of a PUBLIC franchise. That property, in turn, is effectively OWNED by the government grantor of your public persona and the public office it represents.

6.2. If you were compelled to use a government license number, such as an SSN or TIN, then a theft and taking without compensation has occurred, because all property associated with such numbers was unlawfully converted and STOLEN.

7. If the right to contract of the parties conducting any business transaction has any meaning at all, it implies the right to EXCLUDE the government from participation in their relationship.

7.1. You can write the contract such that neither party may use or invoke a license number, or complain to a licensing board, about the transaction, and thus the government is CONTRACTED OUT of the otherwise PRIVATE relationship. Consequently, the transaction becomes EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and government may not tax or regulate or arbitrate the relationship in any way under the terms of the license franchise.

7.2. Every consumer of your services has a right to do business with those who are unlicensed. This right is a natural consequence of the right to CONTRACT and NOT CONTRACT. The thing they are NOT contracting with is the GOVERNMENT, and the thing they are not contracting FOR is STATUTORY/FRANCHISE “protection”. Therefore, even those who have applied for government license numbers are NOT obligated to use them in connection with any specific transaction and may not have their licenses suspended or revoked for failure or refusal to use them for a specific transaction.

8. If the government invades the commercial relationship between you and those you do business with by forcing either party to use or invoke the license number or pursue remedies or “benefits” under the license, they are:

8.1. Interfering with your UNALIENABLE right to contract.

8.2. Compelling you to donate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property to a PUBLIC use.

8.3. Exercising unconstitutional eminent domain over your otherwise PRIVATE property.

8.4. Compelling you to accept a public “benefit”, where the “protection” afforded by the license is the “benefit”.

The above requirements of the USA Constitution are circumvented with nothing more than the simple PRESUMPTION, usually on the part of the IRS and corrupted judges who want to STEAL from you, that the GOVERNMENT owns it and that you have to prove that they CONSENTED to let you keep the fruits of it. They can’t and never have proven that they have such a right, and all such presumptions are a violation of due process of law.

(1) [8:4993] Conclusive presumptions affecting protected interests:

A conclusive presumption may be defeated where its application would impair a party's constitutionally-protected liberty or property interests. In such cases, conclusive presumptions have been held to violate a party's due process and equal protection rights. [Vlandis v. Kline (1973) 412 U.S. 444, 93 S.Ct. 2230, 2235; Cleveland Bed. of Ed. v. LaFleur (1974) 414 U.S. 632, 639-640, 94 S.Ct. 1208, 1215-presumption under Illinois law that unmarried fathers are unfit violates process]

[Federal Civil Trials and Evidence (2006), Rutter Group, paragraph 8:4993, p. 8K-34]

In order to unconstitutionally and TREASONOUSLY circumvent the above limitation on their right to presume, corrupt governments and government actors will play “word games” with citizenship and key definitions in the ENCRYPTED “code” in order to KIDNAP your legal identity and place it OUTSIDE the above protections of the constitution by:

1. PREASSURING that you are a public officer and therefore, that everything held in your name is PUBLIC property of the GOVERNMENT and not YOUR PRIVATE PROPERTY. See:

2. Abusing fraudulent information returns to criminally and unlawfully “elect” you into public offices in the government:

   Correcting Erroneous Information Returns, Form #04.001
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. PREASSURING that because you did not rebut evidence connecting you to a public office, then you CONSENT to occupy the office.

4. PREASSURING that ALL of the four contexts for “United States” are equivalent.

5. PREASSUME that CONSTITUTIONAL citizens and STATUTORY citizens are EQUIVALENT under federal law. They are NOT. A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen is a “non-resident” under federal civil law and NOT a STATUTORY “national and citizen of the United States at birth” per 8 U.S.C. §1401. See the document below:

   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

6. PREASSURING that “nationality” and “domicile” are equivalent. They are NOT. See:

   Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
   DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

7. Using the word “citizenship” in place of “nationality” OR “domicile”, and refusing to disclose WHICH of the two they mean in EVERY context.

8. Confusing the POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL meaning of words with the civil STATUTORY context. For instance, asking on government forms whether you are a POLITICAL/CONSTITUTIONAL citizen and then FALSELY PREASSURING that you are a STATUTORY citizen under 8 U.S.C. §1401.

9. Confusing the words “domicile” and “residence” or impute either to you without satisfying the burden of proving that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to it and thereby illegally kidnap your civil legal identity against your will. One can have only one “domicile” but many “residences” and BOTH require your consent. See:

   Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
   DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/Domicile.pdf
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

10. Adding things or classes of things to the meaning of statutory terms that do not EXPRESSLY appear in their definitions, in violation of the rules of statutory construction. See:

    Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
    DIRECT LINK: http://sedm.org/Forms/05-MemLaw/LegalDecPropFraud.pdf
    FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

11. Refusing to allow the jury to read the definitions in the law and then give them a definition that is in conflict with the statutory definition. This substitutes the JUDGES will for what the law expressly says and thereby substitutes PUBLIC POLICY for the written law.
12. Publishing deceptive government publications that are in deliberate conflict with what the statutes define "United States" as and then tell the public that they CANNOT rely on the publication. The IRS does this with ALL of their publications and it is FRAUD. See:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007

FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

This kind of arbitrary discretion is PROHIBITED by the Constitution, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court:

“When we consider the nature and the theory of our institutions of government, the principles upon which they are supposed to rest, and review the history of their development, we are constrained to conclude that they do not mean to leave room for the play and action of purely personal and arbitrary power. What an augmentation of the field for jobbing, speculating, plundering, office-hunting would be produced by an assumption [PREMPTION] of all the State powers into the hands of the General Government!”

[Thomas Jefferson: Autobiography, 1821. ME 1:121]

Thomas Jefferson, our most revered founding father, precisely predicted the above abuses when he astutely said:

“It has long been my opinion, and I have never shrunk from its expression... that the germ of dissolution of our Federal Government is in the constitution of the Federal Judiciary--an irresponsible body (for impeachment is scarcely a scare-crow), working like gravity by night and by day, gaining a little today and a little tomorrow, and advancing its noiseless step like a thief over the field of jurisdiction until all shall be usurped from the States and the government be consolidated into one. To this I am opposed.”

[Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:331]

“Contrary to all correct example, [the Federal judiciary] are in the habit of going out of the question before them, to throw an anchor ahead and grapple further hold for future advances of power. They are then in fact the corps of sappers and miners, steadily working to undermine the independent rights of the States and to consolidate all power in the hands of that government in which they have so important a freehold estate.”

[Thomas Jefferson to Thomas Ritchie, 1820. ME 15:297]

“The judiciary of the United States is the sable corps of sappers and miners constantly working under ground to undermine the foundations of our confederated fabric. They are construing our Constitution from a co-ordination of a general and special government to a general and supreme one alone. This will lay all things at their feet, and they are too well versed in English law to forget the maxim, ‘boni judicis est ampliare jurisdictionem.’

[Thomas Jefferson to Charles Hammond, 1821. ME 15:332]

“When all government, domestic and foreign, in little as in great things, shall be drawn to Washington as the center of all power, it will render powerless the checks provided of one government on another and will become as venal and oppressive as the government from which we separated.”

[Thomas Jefferson to Gideon Granger, 1800. ME 10:168]

The key to preventing the unconstitutional abuse of presumption by the corrupted judiciary and IRS to STEAL from people is to completely understand the content of the following memorandum of law and consistently apply it in every interaction with the government:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

It ought to be very obvious to the reader that:

1. The rules for converting PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property ought to be consistently, completely, clearly, and unambiguously defined by every government officer you come in contact with, and ESPECIALLY in court. These rules ought to be DEMANDED to be declared EVEN BEFORE you enter a plea in a criminal case.
2. If the government asserts any right over your PRIVATE property, they are PRESUMING they are the LEGAL owner and relegating you to EQUITABLE ownership. This presumption should be forcefully challenged.
3. If they won’t expressly define the rules, or try to cloud the rules for converting PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property, then they are:
3.1. Defeating the very purpose for which they were established as a “government”. Hence, they are not a true “government” but a de facto private corporation PRETENDING to be a “government”, which is a CRIME under 18 U.S.C. §912.

3.2. Exercising unconstitutional eminent domain over private property without the consent of the owner and without compensation.

3.3. Trying to STEAL from you.

3.4. Violating their fiduciary duty to the public.

5.6.12.4.5 The Ability to Regulate Private Rights and Private Conduct is Repugnant to the Constitution

The following cite establishes that private rights and private property are entirely beyond the control of the government:

When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain. "A body politic," as aptly defined in the preamble of the Constitution of Massachusetts, "is a social compact by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good." This does not confer power upon the whole people to control rights which are purely and exclusively private, Torpe v. R. & B. Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 143; but it does authorize the establishment of laws requiring each citizen to so conduct himself, and so use his own property, as not unnecessarily to injure another. This is the very essence of government, and 125*125 has found expression in the maxim sic utere tuo ut alienum non lades. From this source come the police powers, which, as was said by Mr. Chief Justice Taney in the License Cases, 5 How. 583, "are nothing more or less than the powers of government inherent in every sovereignty... that is to say,... the power to govern men and things." Under these powers the government regulates the conduct of its citizens one towards another, and the manner in which each shall use his own property, when such regulation becomes necessary for the public good. In their exercise it has been customary in England from time immemorial, and in this country from its first colonization, to regulate ferries, common carriers, hackmen, bakers, millers, wharfingers, innkeepers, &c., and in so doing to fix a maximum of charge to be made for services rendered, accommodations furnished, and articles sold. To this day, statutes are to be found in many of the States upon some or all these subjects; and we think it has never yet been successfully contended that such legislation came within any of the constitutional prohibitions against interference with private property. With the Fifth Amendment in force, Congress, in 1820, conferred power upon the city of Washington "to regulate... the rates of wharfage at private wharves, . . . the sweeping of chimneys, and to fix the rates of fees therefor, . . . and the weight and quality of bread," 3 Stat. 587, sect. 7; and, in 1848, "to make all necessary regulations respecting hackney carriages and the rates of fare of the same, and the rates of hauling by cartmen, wagoners, carmen, and draymen, and the rates of commission of auctioneers," 9 id. 224, sect. 2.

Notice that they say that the ONLY basis to regulate private rights is to prevent injury of one man to another by the use of said property. They say that this authority is the origin of the "police powers" of the state. What they hide, however, is that these same POLICE POWERS involve the CRIMINAL laws and EXCLUDE the CIVIL laws or even franchises. You can TELL they are trying to hide something because around this subject they invoke the Latin language that is unknown to most Americans to conceal the nature of what they are doing. Whenever anyone invokes Latin in a legal setting, a red flag ought to go up because you KNOW they are trying to hide a KEY fact. Here is the Latin they invoked:

"sic utere tuo ut alienum non lades"

The other phrase to notice in the Munn case above is the use of the word "social compact". A compact is legally defined as a contract.

"Compact, n. An agreement or contract between persons, nations, or states. Commonly applied to working agreements between and among states concerning matters of mutual concern. A contract between parties, which creates obligations and rights capable of being enforced and contemplated as such between the parties, in their distinct and independent characters. A mutual consent of parties concerned respecting some property or right that is the object of the stipulation, or something that is to be done or forborne. See also Compact clause; Confederacy; Interstate compact; Treaty."

Therefore, one cannot exercise their First Amendment right to legally associate with or contract with a SOCIETY and thereby become a party to the "social compact/contract" without ALSO becoming a STATUTORY "citizen". By statutory citizen, we really mean a domiciliary of a SPECIFIC municipal jurisdiction, and not someone who was born or naturalized in that place. Hence, by STATUTORY citizen we mean a person who:
1. Has voluntarily chosen a civil domicile within a specific municipal jurisdiction and thereby become a “citizen” or “resident” of said jurisdiction. “Citizens” or “residents” collectively are called “inhabitants”.

2. Has indicated their choice of domicile on government forms in the block called “residence” or “permanent address”.

3. CONSENTS to be protected by the regional civil laws of a SPECIFIC municipal government.

A CONSTITUTIONAL citizen, on the other hand, is someone who cannot consent to choose the place of their birth. These people in statutes are called “non-residents”. Neither BEING BORN nor being PHYSICALLY PRESENT in a place is an express exercise of one’s discretion or an act of CONSENT; and therefore cannot make one a government contractor called a statutory “U.S. citizen”. That is why birth or naturalization determines nationality but not their status under the CIVIL laws. All civil jurisdiction is based on “consent of the governed”, as the Declaration of Independence indicates. Those who do NOT consent to the civil laws that implement the social compact of the municipal government they are PHYSICALLY situated within are called “free inhabitants”, “nonresidents”, “transient foreigners”, “non-resident”, or “foreign sovereigns”.

These “free inhabitants” are mentioned in the Articles of Confederation, which continue to this day and they are NOT the same and mutually exclusive to a statutory “U.S. citizen”. These “free inhabitants” instead are CIVILLY governed by the common law RATHER than the civil law.

Policemen are NOT allowed to involve themselves in CIVIL disputes and may ONLY intervene or arrest anyone when a CRIME has been committed. They CANNOT arrest for an "infraction", which is a word designed to hide the fact that the statute being enforced is a CIVIL or FRANCHISE statute not involving the CRIMINAL "police powers". Hence, civil jurisdiction over PRIVATE rights is NOT authorized among those who HAVE such rights. Only those who know those rights and claim and enforce them, not through attorneys but in their proper person, have such rights. Nor can those PRIVATE rights lawfully be surrendered to a REAL, de jure government, even WITH consent, if they are, in fact UNALIENABLE as the Declaration of Independence indicates.

The only people who can consent to give away a right are those who HAVE no rights because domiciled on federal territory not protected by the Constitution or the Bill of Rights:

“Indeed, the practical interpretation put by Congress upon the Constitution has been long continued and uniform to the effect [182 U.S. 244, 279] that the Constitution is applicable to territories acquired by purchase or conquest, only when and so far as Congress shall so direct. Notwithstanding its duty to ‘give every state in this Union a republican form of government’ (art. 4, 4), by which we understand, according to the definition of Webster, ‘a government in which the supreme power resides in the whole body of the people, and is exercised by representatives elected by them,’ Congress did not hesitate, in the original organization of the territories of Louisiana, Florida, the Northwest Territory, and its subdivisions of Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, and Wisconsin and still more recently in the case of Alaska, to establish a form of government bearing a much greater analogy to a British Crown colony than a republican state of America, and to vest the legislative power either in a governor and council, or a governor and judges, to be appointed by the President. It was not until they had attained a certain population that power was given them to organize a legislature by vote of the people. In all these cases, as well as in territories subsequently organized west of the Mississippi, Congress thought it necessary either to extend to Constitution and laws of the United States over them, or to declare that the inhabitants should be entitled to enjoy the right of trial by jury, of bail, and of the privilege of the writ of habeas corpus, as well as other privileges of the bill of rights.”
[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

To apply these concepts, the police enforce the "vehicle code", but most of the vehicle code is a civil franchise that they may NOT enforce without ABUSING the police powers of the state. In recognition of these concepts, the civil provisions of the vehicle code are called "infractions" rather than "crimes". AND, before the civil provisions of the vehicle code may lawfully be enforced against those using the public roadways, one must be a "resident" with a domicile not within the state, but on federal territory where rights don’t exist. All civil law attaches to SPECIFIC territory. That is why by applying for a driver's license, most state vehicle codes require that the person must be a "resident" of the state, meaning a person with a domicile within the statutory but not Constitutional "United States", meaning federal territory.

So what the vehicle codes in most states do is mix CRIMINAL and CIVIL and even PRIVATE franchise law all into one title of code, call it the "Vehicle code", and make it extremely difficult for even the most law abiding "citizen" to distinguish which provisions are CIVIL/FRANCHISES and which are CRIMINAL, because they want to put the police force to an UNLAWFUL use enforcing CIVIL rather than CRIMINAL law. This has the practical effect of making the "CODE" not only a deception, but void for vagueness on its face, because it fails to give reasonable notice to the public at large, WHICH specific provisions pertain to EACH subset of the population. That in fact, is why they have to call it “the code”, rather than... simply “law”: Because the truth is encrypted and hidden in order to unlawfully expand their otherwise extremely limited civil jurisdiction. The two subsets of the population who they want to confuse and mix together in order to undermine your sovereignty are:

1. Those who consent to the “social compact” by choosing a domicile or residence within a specific municipal jurisdiction. These people are identified by the following statutory terms:
   1.1. Individuals.
   1.2. Residents.
   1.3. Citizens.
   1.4. Inhabitants.
   1.5. PUBLIC officers serving as an instrumentality of the government.
2. Those who do NOT consent to the “social compact” and who therefore are called:
   2.1. Free inhabitants.
   2.2. Nonresidents.
   2.3. Transient foreigners.
   2.4. Sojourners.
   2.5. EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE human beings beyond the reach of the civil statutes implementing the social compact.

The way they get around the problem of only being able to enforce the CIVIL provisions of the vehicle code against domiciliaries of the federal zone is to:

1. ONLY issue driver licenses to “residents” domiciled in the federal zone.
2. Confuse CONSTITUTIONAL “citizens” with STATUTORY “citizens”, to make them appear the same even though they are NOT.
3. Arrest people for driving WITHOUT a license, even though technically these provisions can only be enforceable against those who are acting as a public officer WHILE driving AND who are STATUTORY but not CONSTITUTIONAL “citizens”.

The act of "governing" WITHOUT consent therefore implies CRIMINAL governing, not CIVIL governing. To procure CIVIL jurisdiction over a private right requires the CONSENT of the owner of the right. That is why the U.S. Supreme Court states in Munn the following:

> "When one becomes a member of society, he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain."

[Source: http://scholar.google.com/scholar_case?case=6419197193322400931]

Therefore, if one DOES NOT consent to join a “society” as a statutory citizen, he RETAINS those SOVEREIGN rights that would otherwise be lost through the enforcement of the civil law. Here is how the U.S. Supreme Court describes this requirement of law:

> "Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, - ‘life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness,’ and to ‘secure,’ not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations:

[1] First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor’s injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor’s benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY, Medicare, and every other public “benefit”];

[2] second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and

[3] third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation."

[Source: Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

A PRIVATE right that is unalienable cannot be given away by a citizen, even WITH consent, to a de jure government. Hence, the only people that any government may CIVILLY govern are those without unalienable rights, all of whom MUST therefore be domiciled on federal territory where CONSTITUTIONAL rights do not exist.
Notice that when they are talking about "regulating" conduct using CIVIL law, all of a sudden they mention "citizens" instead of ALL PEOPLE. These "citizens" are those with a DOMICILE within federal territory not protected by the Constitution:

"Under these powers the government regulates the conduct of its citizens one towards another, and the manner in which each shall use his own property, when such regulation becomes necessary for the public good."

SOURCE: http://scholar.google.com/scholar_case?case=641919719322400931

All "citizens" that they can regulate therefore must be WITHIN the government and be acting as public officers. Otherwise, they would continue to be PRIVATE parties beyond the CIVIL control of any government. Hence, in a Republican Form of Government where the People are sovereign:

1. The only "subjects" under the civil law are public officers in the government.
2. The government is counted as a STATUTORY "citizen" but not a CONSTITUTIONAL "citizen". All CONSTITUTIONAL citizens are human beings and CANNOT be artificial entities. All STATUTORY citizens, on the other hand, are artificial entities and franchises and NOT CONSTITUTIONAL citizens.

"A corporation [the U.S. government, and all those who represent it as public officers, is a federal corporation per 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A) ] is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only."

[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §§886 (2003)]

Citizens of the United States within the meaning of this Amendment must be natural and not artificial persons; a corporate body is not a citizen of the United States.

Not being citizens of the United States, corporations accordingly have been declared unable "to claim the protection of that clause of the Fourteenth Amendment which secures the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States against abridgment or impairment by the law of a State." Orient Ins. Co. v. Daggs, 172 U.S. 557, 561 (1896). This conclusion was in harmony with the earlier holding in Paul v. Virginia, 75 U.S. (8 Wall.) 168 (1869), to the effect that corporations were not within the scope of the privileges and immunities clause of state citizenship set out in Article IV, Sec. 2. 3. The only statutory "citizens" are public offices in the government.
4. By serving in a public office, one becomes the same type of "citizen" as the GOVERNMENT is.

These observations are consistent with the very word roots that form the word "republic". The following video says the word originally comes from "res publica", which means a collection of PUBLIC rights shared by the public. You must therefore JOIN "the public" and become a public officer before you can partake of said PUBLIC right.

Overview of America, SEDM Liberty University, Section 2.3
http://sedm.org/LibertyU/LibertyU.htm

This gives a WHOLE NEW MEANING to Abraham Lincoln's Gettysburg Address, in which he refers to American government as:

"A government of the people, by the people, and for the people."

You gotta volunteer as an uncompensated public officer for the government to CIVILLY govern you. Hence, the only thing they can CIVILLY GOVERN, is the GOVERNMENT! Pretty sneaky, huh? Here is a whole memorandum of law on this subject proving such a conclusion:
The other important point we wish to emphasize is that those who are EXCLUSIVELY private and therefore beyond the reach of the civil law are:

1. Free inhabitants.
2. Not a statutory “person” under the civil law or franchise statute in question.
3. Not “individuals” under the CIVIL law if they are human beings. All statutory “individuals”, in fact, are identified as “employees” under 5 U.S.C. §2105(a). This is the ONLY statute that describes HOW one becomes a statutory “individual” that we have been able to find.
4. “foreign”, a “transient foreigner”, and sovereign in respect to government CIVIL but not CRIMINAL jurisdiction.
5. NOT “subject to” but also not necessarily statutorily “exempt” under the civil or franchise statute in question.

For a VERY interesting background on the subject of this section, we recommend reading the following case:

5.6.12.4.6 The Right to be left alone

The purpose of the Constitution of the United States of America is to confer the “right to be left alone”, which is the essence of being sovereign:

“The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men.” [Olmstead v. United States, 277 U.S. 438, 478 (1928) (Brandeis, J., dissenting); see also Washington v. Harper, 494 U.S. 210 (1990)]

The legal definition of “justice” confirms that its purpose is to protect your right to be “left alone”:

“Justice, as a moral habit, is that tendency of the will and mode of conduct which refrains from disturbing the lives and interests of others, and, as far as possible, hinders such interference on the part of others. This virtue springs from the individual's respect for his fellows as ends in themselves and as his co equals. The different spheres of interests may be roughly classified as follows: body and life; the family, or the extended individual life; property, or the totality of the instruments of action; honor, or the ideal existence; and finally freedom, or the possibility of fashioning one's life as an end in itself. The law defends these different spheres, thus giving rise to a corresponding number of spheres of rights, each being protected by a prohibition. . . To violate the rights, to interfere with the interests of others, is injustice. All injustice is ultimately directed against the life of the neighbor; it is an open avowal that the latter is not an end in itself, having the same value as the individual's own life. The general formula of the duty of justice may therefore be stated as follows: Do no wrong yourself, and permit no wrong to be done, so far as lies in your power; or, expressed positively: Respect and protect the right.” [Readings on the History and System of the Common Law, Second Edition, Roscoe Pound, 1925, p. 2]

The Bible also states the foundation of justice by saying:

“Do not strive with [or try to regulate or control or enslave] a man without cause, if he has done you no harm.” [Prov. 3:30, Bible, NKJV]

And finally, Thomas Jefferson agreed with the above by defining “justice” as follows in his First Inaugural Address:

“With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing more, fellow citizens--a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from Therefore, the word “injustice” means interference with the equal rights of others absent consent and which constitutes an injury NOT as any law defines it, but as the PERSON who is injured defines it. Under this conception of “justice”, anything done with your consent cannot be classified as “injustice” or an injury.

Those who are “private persons” fit in the category of people who must be left alone as a matter of law:

“There is a clear distinction in this particular case between an individual and a corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the State. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.”

The U.S. Supreme Court has also held that the ability to regulate what it calls “private conduct” is repugnant to the constitution. It is the differentiation between PRIVATE rights and PUBLIC rights, in fact, that forms the basis for enforcing your right to be left alone:

“The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress' §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned.”

[City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

Only by taking on a “public character” or engaging in “public conduct” rather than a “private” character may our actions become the proper or lawful subject of federal or state legislation or regulation.

“One great object of the Constitution is to permit citizens to structure their private relations as they choose subject only to the constraints of statutory or decisional law. [500 U.S. 614, 620]

To implement these principles, courts must consider from time to time where the governmental sphere (e.g., "public purpose" and "public office") ends and the private sphere begins. Although the conduct of private parties lies beyond the Constitution’s scope in most instances, governmental authority may dominate an activity to such an extent that its participants must be deemed to act with the authority of the government and, as a result, be subject to constitutional constraints. This is the jurisprudence of state action, which explores the "essential dichotomy" between the private sphere and the public sphere, with all its attendant constitutional obligations. Moose Lodge, supra, at 172. “

Given that the statutory authorization for the challenges exercised in this case is clear, the remainder of our state action analysis centers around the second part of the Lugar test, whether a private litigant, in all fairness, must be deemed a government actor in the use of peremptory challenges. Although we have recognized that this aspect of the analysis is often a fact-bound inquiry, see Lupar, supra, 457 U.S. at 939, our cases disclose certain principles of general application. Our precedents establish that, in determining whether a particular action or course of conduct is governmental in character, it is relevant to examine the following: the extent to which the
The phrase “subject only to the constraints of statutory or decisional law” refers ONLY to statutes or court decisions that pertain to licensed or privileged activities or franchises, all of which:

1. Cause the licensee or franchisee to act in a representative capacity as an officer of the government, which is a federal corporation and therefore he or she becomes an “officer or employee of a corporation” acting in a representative capacity. See 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7434, which both define a “person” within the I.R.C. criminal and penalty provisions as an officer or employee of a corporation.

2. Change the effective domicile of the “office” or “public office” of the licensee or franchisee to federal territory pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39), and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d).

4. Creates a “res” or “office” which is the subject of federal legislation and a “person” or “individual” within federal statutes. For instance, the definition of “individual” within 5 U.S.C. §552(a)(2) reveals that it is a government employee with a domicile in the statutory “United States”, which is federal territory. Notice that the statute below is in Title 5, which is “Government Organization and Employees”, and that “citizens and residents of the United States” share in common a legal domicile on federal territory. An “individual” is an officer of the government, and not a natural man or woman. The office is the “individual”, and not the man or woman who fills it:

In America, however the case is widely different. Our government is founded upon sovereignty resides in the People, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their Constitution entrusted to it. All else is withheld.”
[Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884)]

“Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law for it is the author and source of law;”
[Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

“In Europe, the executive is synonymous with the sovereign power of a state...where it is too commonly acquired by force or fraud, or both...In America, however the case is widely different. Our government is founded upon compact. Sovereignty was, and is, in the people.”
[The Betsy, 3 Dall 6]

In summary, the only way the government can control you through civil law is to connect you to public conduct or a “public office” within the government executed on federal territory. If they are asserting jurisdiction that you believe they don’t have, it is probably because:

1. You misrepresented your domicile as being on federal territory within the “United States” or the “State of___” by declaring yourself to be either a statutory “U.S. citizen” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or a statutory “resident” (alien) pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). This made you subject to their laws and put you into a privileged state.
2. You filled out a government application for a franchise, which includes government benefits, professional licenses, driver’s licenses, marriage licenses, etc.
3. Someone else filed a document with the government which connected you to a franchise, even though you never consented to participate in the franchise. For instance, IRS information returns such as W-2, 1042S, 1098, and 1099 presumptively connect you to a “trade or business” in the U.S. government pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041. A “trade or business” is then defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”. The only way to prevent this evidence from creating a liability under the franchise agreement provisions is to rebut it promptly. See:

5.6.12.4.7  The PUBLIC You (straw man) vs. the PRIVATE You (human)

It is extremely important to know the difference between PRIVATE and PUBLIC “persons”, because we all have private and public identities. This division of our identities is recognized in the following maxim of law:

Quando duo juro concurrunt in und personâ, aequum est ac si essent in diversis.
When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate persons, 4 Co. 118.
[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856; SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

The U.S. Supreme Court also recognizes the division of PUBLIC v. PRIVATE:

“A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he administer or execute them.”
[United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

“All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made with [private] individuals.”

“...we are of the opinion that there is a clear distinction in this particular between an [PRIVATE] individual and a [PUBLIC] corporation, and that the latter has no right to refuse to submit its books and papers for an examination at the suit of the State. The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to the state or to his neighbors to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the state, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the state, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.

"Upon the other hand, the [PUBLIC] corporation is a creature of the state. It is presumed to be incorporated for the benefit of the public. It receives certain special privileges and franchises, and holds them subject to the laws of the state and the limitations of its charter. Its powers are limited by law. It can make no contract not authorized by its charter. Its rights to [201 U.S. 43, 75] act as a corporation are only preserved to it so long as it obeys the laws of its creation. There is a reserved right in the legislature to investigate its contracts and find out whether it has exceeded its powers. It would be a strange anomaly to hold that a state, having chartered a corporation to make use of certain franchises, could not, in the exercise of its sovereignty, inquire how these franchises had been employed, and whether they had been abused, and demand the production of the corporate books and papers for that purpose. The defense amounts to this: That an officer of a corporation which is charged with a criminal violation of the statute, may plead the criminality of such corporation as a refusal to produce its books. To state this proposition is to answer it. While an individual may lawfully refuse to answer incriminating questions unless protected by an immunity statute, it does not follow that a corporation, vested with special privileges and franchises, may refuse to show its hand when charged with an abuse of such privileges."

[Hale v. Henkel, 201 U.S. 43 (1906)]

The next time you are in court as a PRIVATE person, here are some questions for the next jury, judge, or government prosecutor trying to enforce a civil obligation upon you as a PRESUMED public officer called a “citizen”, “resident”, “person”, or “taxpayer”:

1. How do you, a PRIVATE human, “OBEY” a law without “EXECUTING” it? We’ll give you a hint: It CAN’T BE DONE!

2. What “public office” or franchise does the government claim to have “created” and therefore have the right to control in the context of my otherwise exclusively PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights under the Constitution?

3. Does the national government claim the right to create franchises within a constitutional state in order to tax them?
The Constitution says they CANNOT and that this is an “invasion” within the meaning of Article 4, Section 4 of the Constitution:

"Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it."

[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

4. Isn’t a judge compelling you to violate your religious beliefs by compelling you to serve in a public office or accept the DUTIES of the office? Isn’t this a violation of the First Commandment NOT to serve “other gods”, which can and does mean civil rulers or governments?

But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, "Give us a king to judge us," So Samuel prayed to the Lord. And the Lord said to Samuel, "Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have rejected Me [God], that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day— with which they have forsaken Me and served other gods [Kings, in this case]—so they are doing to you also [government becoming idolatry]. Now therefore, heed their voice.
However, you shall solemnly forewarn them, and show them the behavior of the king who will reign over them.

[1 Sam. 8:6-9, Bible, NKJV]
5. How can one UNILATERALLY ELECT themselves into public office by filling out a government form? The form isn’t even signed by anyone in the government, such as a tax form or social security application, and therefore couldn’t POSSIBLE be a valid contract anyway? Isn’t this a FRAUD upon the United States and criminal bribery, using illegal “withholdings” to bribe someone to TREAT you as a public officer? See 18 U.S.C. §211.

6. How can a judge enforce civil statutory law that only applies to public officers without requiring proof on the record that you are CONSENSUALLY and LAWFULLY engaged in a public office? In other words, that you waived sovereign immunity by entering into a contract with the government.

"It is true, that the person who accepts an office may be supposed to enter into a compact to be answerable to the government, which he serves, for any violation of his duty; and, having taken the oath of office, he would unquestionably be liable, in such case, to a prosecution for perjury in the Federal Courts. But because one man, by his own act [CONSENT], renders himself amenable to a particular jurisdiction, shall another man, who has not incurred a similar obligation, be implicated? If, in other words, it is sufficient to vest a jurisdiction in this court, that a Federal Officer is concerned; if it is a sufficient proof of a case arising under a law of the United States to affect other persons, that such officer is bound, by law, to discharge his duty with fidelity; a source of jurisdiction is opened, which must inevitably overflow and destroy all the barriers between the judicial authorities of the State and the general government. Anything which can prevent a Federal Officer from the punctual, as well as from an impartial, performance of his duty; an assault and battery; or the recovery of a debt, as well as the offer of a bribe, may be made a foundation of the jurisdiction of this court; and, considering the constant disposition of power to extend the sphere of its influence, fictions will be resorted to, when real cases cease to occur. A mere fiction, that the defendant is in the custody of the marshall, has rendered the jurisdiction of the King's Bench universal in all personal actions."

[United States v. Worrall, 2 U.S. 384 (1798)]

7. Isn’t this involuntary servitude in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment to serve in a public office if you DON’T consent and they won’t let you TALK about the ABSENCE of your consent?

8. Isn’t it a violation of due process of law to PRESUME that you are public officer WITHOUT EVIDENCE on the record from an unbiased witness who has no financial interest in the outcome?

"A presumption is an assumption of fact that the law requires to be made from another fact or group of facts found or otherwise established in the action. A presumption is not evidence."

"If any question of fact or liability be conclusively be presumed [rather than proven] against him, this is not due process of law. [. . .] The presumption of innocence under which guilt must be proven by legally obtained evidence and the verdict must be supported by the evidence presented; rights at the earliest stage of the criminal process; and the guarantee that an individual will not be tried more than once for the same offence (double jeopardy).

"A presumption is neither evidence nor a substitute for evidence."

[American Jurisprudence 2d, Evidence, §181 (1999)]

9. If the judge won’t enforce the requirement that the government as moving party has the burden of proving WITH EVIDENCE that you were LAWFULLY “appointed or elected” to a public office, aren’t you therefore PRESUMED to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and therefore beyond the reach of the civil statutory law?

10. Isn’t the judge criminally obstructing justice to interfere with requiring evidence on the record that you lawfully occupy a public office? See 18 U.S.C. §1503, whereby the judge is criminally “influencing” the PUBLIC you.

11. Isn’t an unsupported presumption that prejudices a PRIVATE right a violation of the Constitution and doesn’t the rights that UNCONSTITUTIONAL presumption prejudicially conveys to the government constitute a taking of rights without just compensation in violation of the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause?

12. How can the judge permit federal civil jurisdiction within a state, a legislatively but not constitutionally foreign jurisdiction, be permitted absent proof under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) that the party was representing a

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

13. Even if we ARE lawfully serving in a public office, don’t we have the right to:

13.1. Be off duty?
13.2. Choose WHEN we want to be off duty?
13.3. Choose WHAT financial transactions we want to connect to the office?
13.4. Be protected in NOT volunteering to connect a specific activity to the public office? Governments LIE by calling something “voluntary” and yet refuse to protect those who do NOT consent to “volunteer”, don’t they?
13.5. Not be coerced to sign up for OTHER, unrelated public offices when we sign up for a single office? For instance, do we have a right not become a FEDERAL officer when we sign up for a STATE “driver license” and “public office” that ALSO requires us to have a Social Security Number to get the license, and therefore to ALSO become a FEDERAL officer at the same time.

If the answer to all the above is NO, then there ARE no PRIVATE rights or PRIVATE property and there IS no “government” because governments only protect PRIVATE rights and private property!

We’d love to hear a jury, judge, or prosecutor address this subject before they hall him away in a straight jacket to the nuthouse because of a completely irrational and maybe even criminal answer.

The next time you end up in front of a judge or government attorney enforcing a civil statute against you, you might want to insist on proof in the record during the process of challenging jurisdiction as a defendant or respondent:

1. WHICH of the two “persons” they are addressing or enforcing against.
2. How the two statuses, PUBLIC v. PRIVATE, became connected.
3. What specific act of EXPRESS consent connected the two. PREASSUPTION alone on the part of government can’t. A presumption that the two became connected WITHOUT consent is an unconstitutional eminent domain in violation of the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause.

In a criminal trial, such a question would be called a “bill of particulars”.

We can handle private and public affairs from the private, but we cannot handle private affairs from the public. The latter is one of the biggest mistakes many people make when trying to handle their commercial and lawful (private) or legal (public) affairs. Those who use PUBLIC property for PRIVATE gain in fact are STEALING and such stealing has always been a crime.

In law, all rights attach to LAND, and all privileges attach to one’s STATUS under voluntary civil franchises. An example of privileged statuses include “taxpayer” (under the tax code), “person”, “individual”, “driver” (under the vehicle code), “spouse” (under the family code). Rights are PRIVATE, PRIVILEGES are PUBLIC.

In our society, the PRIVATE “straw man” was created by the application for the birth certificate. It is a legal person under contract law and under the Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.), with capacity to sue or be sued under the common law. It is PRIVATE PROPERTY of the human being described in the birth certificate.

The PUBLIC officer “straw man” (e.g. statutory "taxpayer") was created by the Application for the Social Security Card, SSA Form SS-5. It is a privileged STATUS under an unconstitutional national franchise of the de facto government. It is PROPERTY of the national government. The PUBLIC “straw man” is thoroughly described in:

Proof that There Is a “Straw Man”, Form #05.042
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

The PRIVATE “John Doe” is a statutory "non-resident alien non-individual" not engaged in the “trade or business”/PUBLIC OFFICER franchise in relation to the PUBLIC. He exists in the republic and is a free inhabitant under the Articles of Confederation. He has inalienable rights and unlimited liabilities. Those unlimited liabilities are described in

The Unlimited Liability Universe
http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Spirituality/Articles/UnlimitedLiabilityUniverse.htm
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The PUBLIC "JOHN DOE" is a public office in the government corporation and statutory "U.S. citizen" per 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 U.S.C. §3121(e), and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c). He exists in the privileged socialist democracy. He has "benefits", franchises, obligations, immunities, and limited liability.

In the PRIVATE, money is an ASSET and always in the form of something that has intrinsic value, i.e. gold or silver. Payment for anything is in the form of commercial set off.

In the PUBLIC, money is a LIABILITY or debt and normally takes the form of a promissory note, i.e. an Federal Reserve Note (FRN), a check, bond or note. Payment is in the form of discharge in the future.

The PRIVATE realm is the basis for all contract and commerce under the Uniform Commercial Code (U.C.C.). The PUBLIC realm was created by the bankruptcy of the PRIVATE entity. Generally, creditors can operate from the PRIVATE. PUBLIC entities are all debtors (or slaves). The exercise of the right to contract by the PRIVATE straw man makes human beings into SURETY for the PUBLIC straw man.

Your judicious exercise of your right to contract and the requirement for consent that protects it is the main thing that keeps the PUBLIC separate from the PRIVATE. See:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003
http://sedn.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Be careful how you use your right to contract! It is the most DANGEROUS right you have because it can destroy ALL of your PRIVATE rights by converting them to PUBLIC rights and offices.

"These general rules are well settled:

(1) That the United States, when it creates rights in individuals against itself [a "public right"], which is a euphemism for a “franchise" to help the court disguise the nature of the transaction], is under no obligation to provide a remedy through the courts. United States ex rel. Dunlap v. Black, 128 U.S. 40, 9 Sup.Ct. 12, 32 L.Ed. 354; Ex parte Atocha, 17 Wall. 439, 21 L.Ed. 696; Gordon v. United States, 7 Wall. 188, 195, 19 L.Ed. 35; De Groot v. United States, 5 Wall. 419, 431, 433, 18 L.Ed. 700; Comegys v. Vasse, 1 Pet. 193, 212, 7 L.Ed. 108.

All PUBLIC franchises are contracts or agreements and therefore participating in them is an act of contracting.

"It is generally conceded that a franchise is the subject of a contract between the grantor and the grantee, and that it does in fact constitute a contract when the requisite element of a consideration is present. Conversely, a franchise without consideration is not a contract binding upon the state, franchisee, or pseudo-franchisee."

Franchises include Social Security, income taxation (“trade or business”)/public office franchise), unemployment insurance, driver licensing (“driver” franchise), and marriage licensing (“spouse” franchise).

“You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan government] gods [laws or judges]: They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by becoming a “resident” or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a snare to you.”

[Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

Governments become corrupt by:

1. Refusing to recognize the PRIVATE.
2. Undermining or interfering with the invocation of the common law in courts of justice.
3. Allowing false information returns to be abused to convert the PRIVATE into the PUBLIC without the consent of the owner.
4. Destroying or undermining remedies for the protection of PRIVATE rights.
5. Replacing CONSTITUTIONAL courts with LEGISLATIVE FRANCHISE courts.
6. Making judges into statutory franchisees such as “taxpayers”, through which they are compelled to have a conflict of interest that ultimately destroys or undermines all private rights. This is a crime and a civil offense in violation of 18 U.S.C. §208, 28 U.S.C. §144, and 28 U.S.C. §455.
7. Offering or enforcing government franchises to people not domiciled on federal territory. This breaks down the separation of powers and enforces franchise law extraterritorially.
8. Abusing “words of art” to blur or confuse the separation between the PUBLIC and the PRIVATE. (deception)
9. Removing the domicile prerequisite for participation in government franchises through policy and not law, thus converting them into essentially PRIVATE business ventures that operate entirely through the right to contract.
10. Abusing sovereign immunity to protect PRIVATE government business ventures, thus destroying competition and implementing a state-sponsored monopoly.
11. Refusing to criminally prosecute those who compel participation in government franchises.
12. Turning citizenship into a statutory franchise, and thus causing people who claim citizen status to unwittingly become PUBLIC officers.
13. Allowing presumption to be used as a substitute for evidence in any proceeding to enforce government franchises against an otherwise PRIVATE party. This violates due process of law, unfairly advantages the government, and imputes to the government supernatural powers as an object of religious worship.

Therefore, it is important to learn how to be EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and a CREDITOR in all of our affairs. Freedom is possible in the PRIVATE; it is not even a valid fantasy in the realm of the PUBLIC.

5.6.12.4.8 All PUBLIC/GOVERNMENT law attaches to government territory, all PRIVATE law attaches to your right to contract

A very important consideration to understand is that:

1. All EXCLUSIVELY PUBLIC LAW attaches to the government’s own territory. By “PUBLIC”, we mean law that runs the government and ONLY the government.

2. All EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE law attaches to one of the following:
   2.1. The exercise of your right to contract with others.
   2.2. The property you own and lend out to others based on specific conditions.

Item 2.2 needs further attention. Here is how that mechanism works:

“How, then, are purely equitable obligations created? For the most part, either by the acts of third persons or by equity alone. But how can one person impose an obligation upon another? By giving property to the latter on the terms of his assuming an obligation in respect to it. At law there are only two means by which the object of the donor could be at all accomplished, consistently with the entire ownership of the property passing to the donee, namely: first, by imposing a real obligation upon the property; secondly, by subjecting the title of the donee to a condition subsequent. The first of these the law does not permit; the second is entirely inadequate.

Equity, however, can secure most of the objects of the donor, and yet avoid the mischiefs of real obligations by imposing upon the donee (and upon all persons to whom the property shall afterwards come without value or with notice) a personal obligation with respect to the property; and accordingly this is what equity does. It is in this way that all trusts are created, and all equitable charges made (i.e., equitable hypothecations or liens created) by testators in their wills. In this way, also, most trusts are created by acts inter vivos, except in those cases in which the trustee incurs a legal as well as an equitable obligation. In short, as property is the subject of every equitable obligation, so the owner of property is the only person whose act or acts can be the means of creating an obligation in respect to that property. Moreover, the owner of property can create an obligation in respect to it in only two ways: first, by incurring the obligation himself, in which case he commonly also incurs a legal obligation; secondly, by imposing the obligation upon some third person; and this he does in the way just explained.”

Next, we must describe exactly what we mean by “territory”, and the three types of “territory” identified by the U.S. Supreme Court in relation to the term “United States”. Below is how the united States Supreme Court addressed the question of the meaning of the term “United States” (see Black’s Law Dictionary) in the famous case of Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945). The Court ruled that the term United States has three uses:

“The term ‘United States’ may be used in any one of several senses. It may be merely the name of a sovereign occupying the position analogous to that of other sovereigns in the family of nations. It may designate the territory over which the sovereignty of the United States extends, or it may be the collective name of the states which are united by and under the Constitution.”

[Hooven & Allison Co. v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945)]

We will now break the above definition into its three contexts and show what each means.

This definition is also synonymous with the “United States” corporation found in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A).</td>

Rights are retained by the States in the 9th and 10th Amendments, and you are a “Citizen of these United States.” This is the definition used in the Constitution for the United States of America. The way our present system functions, all PUBLIC rights are attached to federal territory. They cannot lawfully attach to EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property because the right to regulate EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE rights is repugnant to the constitution, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court.

Lastly, when the government enters the realm of commerce and private business activity, it operates in equity and is treated as EQUAL in every respect to everyone else. ONLY in this capacity can it enact law that does NOT attach to its own territory and to those DOMICILED on its territory:

See also Clearfield Trust Co. v. United States, 318 U.S. 363, 369 (1943) (“The United States does business on business terms”) (quoting United States v. National Exchange Bank of Baltimore, 270 U.S. 527, 534 (1926)); Perry v. United States, supra at 352 (1935) (“When the United States, with constitutional authority, makes contracts, it has rights and incurs responsibilities similar to those of individuals who are parties to such instruments. There is no difference . . . except that the United States cannot be sued without its consent”) (citation omitted); United States v. Bostwick, 94 U.S. 53, 66 (1877) (“The United States, when they contract with their citizens, are controlled by the same laws that govern the citizen in that behalf”); Cooke v. United States, 91 U.S. 389, 398 (1875) (explaining that when the United States “comes down from its position of sovereignty, and enters the domain of commerce, it submits itself to the same laws that govern individuals there”).

If a government wants to reach outside its territory and create PRIVATE law for those who have not consented to its jurisdiction by choosing a domicile on its territory, the ONLY method it has for doing this is to exercise its right to contract.

Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

The most important method by which governments exercise their PRIVATE right to contract and disassociate with the territorial limitation upon their lawmaking powers is through the use or abuse of franchises, which are contracts.

As a rule, franchises spring from contracts between the sovereign power and private citizens, made upon valuable considerations, for purposes of individual advantage as well as public benefit, and thus a franchise partakes of a double nature and character. So far as it affects or concerns the public, it is publici juris and is subject to governmental control. The legislature may prescribe the manner of granting it, to whom it may be granted, the conditions and terms upon which it may be held, and the duty of the grantee to the public in exercising it, and may also provide for its forfeiture upon the failure of the grantee to perform that duty. But when granted, it becomes the property of the grantee, and is a private right, subject only to the governmental control growing out of its other nature as publici juris.

[American Jurisprudence 2d, Franchises, §4: Generally (1999)]

5.6.12.4.9 Taxation of “Public” v. “Private” property

“All systems either of preference or of restraint, therefore, being thus completely taken away, the obvious and simple system of natural liberty establishes itself of its own accord. Every man, as long as he does not violate the laws of justice, is left perfectly free to pursue his own interest his own way, and to bring both his industry and capital into competition with those of any other man or order of men. The sovereign is completely discharged from a duty, in the attempting to perform which he must always be exposed to innumerable delusions, and for the proper performance of which no human wisdom or knowledge could ever be sufficient: the duty of superintending the industry of private people.”

[Adam Smith, An Inquiry into the Nature and Causes of the Wealth of Nations (1776)]

The U.S. Supreme Court has held many times that the ONLY purpose for lawful, constitutional taxation is to collect revenues to support ONLY the machinery and operations of the government and its “employees”. This purpose, it calls a “public use” or “public purpose”:

“The power to tax is, therefore, the strongest, the most pervading of all powers of government, reaching directly or indirectly to all classes of the people. It was said by Chief Justice Marshall, in the case of McCulloch v. Md., 4 Wheat. 431, that the power to tax is the power to destroy. A striking instance of the truth of the proposition is seen in the fact that the existing tax of ten per cent, imposed by the United States on the circulation of all other banks than the National Banks, drove out of existence every “state bank of circulation within a year or two after its passage. This power can be readily employed against one class of individuals and in favor of another, so as to ruin the one class and give unlimited wealth and prosperity to the other, if there is no implied limitation of the uses for which the power may be exercised.

To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.

Nor is it taxation. “A tax,” says Webster’s Dictionary, “is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.” “Taxes are burdens or charges imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.” Cooley, Const. Lim., 479.

Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John’s Church, 13 Pa.St. 104 says, very forcibly, “I think the common mind has everywhere taken in the understanding that taxes are a public imposition, levied by authority of the government for the purposes of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations—that they are imposed for a public purpose.” See, also Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa.St. 69; Matter of Mayor of N.Y., 11 Johns., 77; Camden v. Allen, 2 Dutch., 398; Sharpless v. Mayor, supra; H annoy v. Vernon, 27 Ia., 47; Whiting v. Fond du Lac, supra.

[Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 (1874)]

Black’s Law Dictionary defines the word “public purpose” as follows:

“Public purpose. In the law of taxation, eminent domain, etc., is a term of classification to distinguish the objects for which, according to settled usage, the government is to provide, from those which, by the like usage, are left to private interest, inclination, or liberality. The constitutional requirement that the purpose of any tax, police regulation, or particular exertion of the power of eminent domain shall be the convenience, safety, or welfare of the entire community and not the welfare of a specific individual or class of persons [such as, for instance, federal benefit recipients as individuals]. “Public purpose” that will justify expenditure of public money generally means such an activity as will serve as benefit to community as a body and which at same time is directly related function of government. Pack v. Southwestern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co., 215 Tenn. 303, 387 S.W.2d. 789, 794.

The term is synonymous with governmental purpose. As employed to denote the objects for which taxes may be levied, it has no relation to the urgency of the public need or to the extent of the public benefit which is to follow: the essential requisite being that a public service or use shall affect the inhabitants as a community, and not merely as individuals. A public purpose or public business has for its objective the promotion of the public health, safety, morals, general welfare, security, prosperity, and contentment of all the inhabitants or residents within a given political division, as, for example, a state, the sovereign powers of which are exercised to promote such public purpose or public business.”

A related word defined in Black’s Law Dictionary is “public use”:

Public use. Eminent domain. The constitutional and statutory basis for taking property by eminent domain. For condemnation purposes, “public use” is one which confers some benefit or advantage to the public; it is not confined to actual use by public. It is measured in terms of right of public to use proposed facilities for which condemnation is sought and, as long as public has right of use, whether exercised by one or many members of public, a “public advantage” or “public benefit” accrues sufficient to constitute a public use. Montana Power Co. v. Bokma, Mont., 457 P.2d. 769, 772, 773.

Public use, in constitutional provisions restricting the exercise of the right to take property in virtue of eminent domain, means a use concerning the whole community distinguished from particular individuals. But each and every member of society need not be equally interested in such use, or be personally and directly affected by it; if the object is to satisfy a great public want or exigency, that is sufficient. Ringe Co. v. Los Angeles County, 262 U.S. 700, 43 S.Ct. 689, 692, 67 L.Ed. 1186. The term may be said to mean public usefulness, utility, or advantage, or what is productive of general benefit. It may be limited to the inhabitants of a small or restricted locality, but must be in common, and not for a particular individual. The use must be a needful one for the public, which cannot be surrendered without obvious general loss and inconvenience. A “public use” for which land may be taken defies absolute definition for it changes with varying conditions of society, new appliances in the sciences, changing conceptions of scope and functions of government, and other differing circumstances brought about by an increase in population and new modes of communication and transportation. Katz v. Brandon, 156 Conn. 521, 245 A.2d. 579, 586.

See also Condemnation; Eminent domain.

Black’s Law Dictionary also defines the word “tax” as follows:

“Tax. A charge by the government on the income of an individual, corporation, or trust, as well as the value of an estate or gift. The objective in assessing the tax is to generate revenue to be used for the needs of the public.

A pecuniary [relating to money] burden laid upon individuals or property to support the government, and is a payment exacted by legislative authority. In re Mytinger, D.C.Tex. 31 F.Supp. 977,978. Essential characteristics of a tax are that it is NOT A VOLUNTARY PAYMENT OR DONATION, BUT AN ENFORCED CONTRIBUTION, EXAC TED PURSUANT TO LEGISLATIVE AUTHORITY. Michigan Employment Sec. Commission v. Patt, 4 Mich.App. 228, 144 N.W.2d. 663, 665. ...”

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

So in order to be legitimately called a “tax” or “taxation”, the money we pay to the government must fit all of the following criteria:

1. The money must be used ONLY for the support of government. It cannot go to a private person, or even to those who THINK they are private but aren’t.
2. The subject of the tax must be “liable”, and responsible to pay for the support of government under the force of law.
3. The money must go toward a “public purpose” rather than a “private purpose”.
4. The monies paid cannot be described as wealth transfer between two people or classes of PRIVATE people within society.
5. The monies paid cannot aid one group of private individuals in society at the expense of another group, because this violates the concept of equal protection of law for all citizens found in Fourteenth Amendment, Section 1.

If the monies demanded by government do not fit all of the above requirements, then they are being used for a “private” purpose and cannot be called “taxes” or “taxation”, according to the U.S. Supreme Court. Actions by the government to enforce the payment of any monies that do not meet all the above requirements can therefore only be described as:

1. Theft and robbery by the government in the guise of “taxation”
2. Government by decree rather than by law
3. Tyranny
4. Socialism
5. Mob rule and a tyranny by the “have-nots” against the “haves”
6. 18 U.S.C. §241: Conspiracy against rights. The IRS shares tax return information with states of the union, so that both of them can conspire to deprive you of your property.
7. 18 U.S.C. §242: Deprivation of rights under the color of law. The Fifth Amendment says that people in states of the Union cannot be deprived of their property without due process of law or a court hearing. Yet, the IRS tries to make it appear like they have the authority to just STEAL these people’s property for a fabricated tax debt that they aren’t even legally liable for.
8. 18 U.S.C. §247: Damage to religious property; obstruction of persons in the free exercise of religious beliefs
10. 18 U.S.C. §876: Mailing threatening communications. This includes all the threatening notices regarding levies, liens, and idiotic IRS letters that refuse to justify why government thinks we are “liable”.
11. 18 U.S.C. §880: Receiving the proceeds of extortion. Any money collected from Americans through illegal enforcement actions and for which the contributors are not “liable” under the law is extorted money, and the IRS is in receipt of the proceeds of illegal extortion.
12. 18 U.S.C. §1581: Peonage, obstructing enforcement. IRS is obstructing the proper administration of the Internal Revenue Code and the Constitution, which require that they respect those who choose NOT to volunteer to participate in the federal donation program identified under subtitle A of the I.R.C.
13. 18 U.S.C. §1583: Enticement into slavery. IRS tries to enlist “nontaxpayers” to rejoin the ranks of other peons who pay taxes they aren’t demonstrably liable for, which amount to slavery.
14. 18 U.S.C. §1589: Forced labor. Being forced to expend one’s personal time responding to frivolous IRS notices and pay taxes on my labor that I am not liable for.

The U.S. Supreme Court has further characterized all efforts to abuse the tax system in order to accomplish “wealth transfer” as “political heresy” that is a denial of republican principles that form the foundation of our Constitution, when it issued the following strong words of rebuke. Incidentally, the case below also forms the backbone of reasons why the Internal Revenue Code can never be anything more than private law that only applies to those who volunteer into it:

“The Legislature may enjoin, permit, forbid, and punish; they may declare new crimes; and establish rules of conduct for all its citizens in future cases; they may command what is right, and prohibit what is wrong; but they cannot change innocence [a “nontaxpayer”] into guilt [a “taxpayer”]; or punish innocence as a crime [criminalize prosecute a “nontaxpayer” for violation of the tax laws]; or violate the right of an antecedent lawful private contract; or the right of private property. To maintain that our Federal, or State, Legislature possesses such powers [of THEFT and FRAUD], if they had not been expressly restrained; would, in my opinion, be a political heresy, altogether inadmissible in our free republican governments.”

[Calder v. Bull, 3 U.S. 386 (1798)]

We also cannot assume or suppose that our government has the authority to make “gifts” of monies collected through its taxation powers, and especially not when paid to private individuals or foreign countries because:

3. The Constitution DOES NOT authorize the government to “gift” money to anyone within states of the Union or in foreign countries, and therefore, this is not a Constitutional use of public funds, nor does unauthorized expenditure of such funds produce a tangible public benefit, but rather an injury, by forcing those who do not approve of the gift to subsidize it and yet not derive any personal benefit whatsoever for it.

4. The Supreme Court identifies such abuse of taxing powers as “robbery in the name of taxation” above.

Based on the foregoing analysis, we are then forced to divide the monies collected by the government through its taxing powers into only two distinct classes. We also emphasize that every tax collected and every expenditure originating from the tax paid MUST fit into one of the two categories below:

The U.S. Supreme Court also helped to clarify how to distinguish the two above categories when it said:

“It is undoubtedly the duty of the legislature which imposes or authorizes municipalities to impose a tax to see that it is not to be used for purposes of private interest instead of a public use, and the courts can only be justified in interfering when a violation of this principle is clear and the [87 U.S. 665] reason for interference cogent. And in deciding whether, in the given case, the object for which the taxes are assessed falls upon the one side or the other of this line, they must be governed mainly by the course and usage of the government, the objects for which taxes have been customarily and by long course of legislation levied, what objects or purposes have been considered necessary to the support and for the proper use of the government, whether state or municipal. Whatever lawfully pertains to this and is sanctioned by time and the acquiescence of the people may well be held to belong to the public use, and proper for the maintenance of good government, though this may not be the only criterion of rightful taxation.”

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

If we give our government the benefit of the doubt by “assuming” or “presuming” that it is operating lawfully and consistent with the model on the left above, then we have no choice but to conclude that everyone who lawfully receives any kind of federal payment MUST be either a federal “employee” or “federal contractor” on official duty, and that the compensation received must be directly connected to the performance of a sovereign or Constitutionally authorized function of government. Any other conclusion or characterization of a lawful tax other than this is irrational, inconsistent with the rulings of the U.S. Supreme Court on this subject, and an attempt to deceive the public about the role of limited Constitutional government based on Republican principles. This means that you cannot participate in any of the following federal social insurance programs WITHOUT being a federal “employee”, and if you refuse to identify yourself as a federal employee, then you are admitting that your government is a thief and a robber that is abusing its taxing powers:

7. Unemployment compensation.
8. Medicare.

An examination of the Privacy Act, 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(13), in fact, identifies all those who participate in the above programs as “federal personnel”, which means federal “employees”. To wit:

The “individual” they are talking about above is further defined in 5 U.S.C. §552a(2) as follows:

The “citizen of the United States” they are talking above is based on the statutory rather than constitutional definition of the “United States”, which means it refers to the federal zone and excludes states of the Union. Also, note that both of the two preceding definitions are found within Title 5 of the U.S. Code, which is entitled “Government Organization and Employees”. Therefore, it refers ONLY to government “employees” and excludes private employees. There is no definition of the term “individual” anywhere in Title 26 (I.R.C.) of the U.S. Code or any other title that refers to private natural persons, because Congress cannot legislate for them. Notice the use of the phrase “private business” in the U.S. Supreme Court ruling below:

“The individual may stand upon his constitutional rights as a citizen. He is entitled to carry on his private business in his own way [unregulated by the government]. His power to contract is unlimited. He owes no duty to the State or to his neighbor to divulge his business, or to open his doors to an investigation, so far as it may tend to criminate him. He owes no such duty to the State, since he receives nothing therefrom, beyond the protection of his life and property. His rights are such as existed by the law of the land long antecedent to the organization of the State, and can only be taken from him by due process of law, and in accordance with the Constitution. Among his rights are a refusal to incriminate himself, and the immunity of himself and his property from arrest or seizure except under a warrant of the law. He owes nothing to the public [including so-called “taxes” under Subtitle A of the I.R.C.] so long as he does not trespass upon their rights.”

The purpose of the Constitution and the Bill of Rights instead is to REMOVE authority of the Congress to legislate for private persons and thereby protect their sovereignty and dignity. That is why the U.S. Supreme Court ruled the following:
"The makers of our Constitution undertook to secure conditions favorable to the pursuit of happiness. They recognized the significance of man's spiritual nature, of his feelings and of his intellect. They knew that only a part of the pain, pleasure and satisfactions of life are to be found in material things. They sought to protect Americans in their beliefs, their thoughts, their emotions and their sensations. They conferred, as against the Government, the right to be let alone - the most comprehensive of rights and the right most valued by civilized men."

QUESTIONS FOR DOUBTERS: If you aren’t a federal statutory “employee” as a person participating in Social Security and the Internal Revenue Code, then why are all of the Social Security Regulations located in Title 20 of the Code of Federal Regulations under parts 400-499, entitled “Employee Benefits”? See for yourself:

Below is the definition of “employee” for the purposes of the above:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 Employee:

"...the term [employee] includes officers and employees, whether elected or appointed, of the United States, a [federal] State, Territory, Puerto Rico or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term 'employee' also includes an officer of a corporation."

26 U.S.C. §3401(c) Employee

For purposes of this chapter, the term "employee" includes [is limited to] an officer, employee, or elected official of the United States, a State, or any political subdivision thereof, or the District of Columbia, or any agency or instrumentality of any one or more of the foregoing. The term "employee" also includes an officer of a corporation.

TITLE 5 > PART III > Subpart A > CHAPTER 21 > § 2105

§2105. Employee

(a) For the purpose of this title, “employee”, except as otherwise provided by this section or when specifically modified, means an officer and an individual who is—

(1) appointed in the civil service by one of the following acting in an official capacity—

(A) the President;
(B) a Member or Members of Congress, or the Congress;
(C) a member of a uniformed service;
(D) an individual who is an employee under this section;
(E) the head of a Government controlled corporation; or
(F) an adjutant general designated by the Secretary concerned under section 709 (c) of title 32;

(2) engaged in the performance of a Federal function under authority of law or an Executive act; and
(3) subject to the supervision of an individual named by paragraph (1) of this subsection while engaged in the performance of the duties of his position.

Keeping in mind the following rules of statutory construction and interpretation, please show us SOMEWHERE in the statutes defining “employee” that EXPRESSLY includes PRIVATE human beings working as PRIVATE workers protected by the constitution and not subject to federal law:

"Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Bargin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”

Another very important point to make here is that the purpose of nearly all federal law is to regulate “public conduct” rather than “private conduct”. Congress must write laws to regulate and control every aspect of the behavior of its employees so that they do not adversely affect the rights of private individuals like you, who they exist exclusively to serve and protect. Most federal statutes, in fact, are exclusively for use by those working in government and simply do not apply to private citizens in the conduct of their private lives. This fact is exhaustively proven with evidence in:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Federal law cannot apply to the private public at large because the Thirteenth Amendment says that involuntary servitude has been abolished. If involuntary servitude is abolished, then they can't use, or in this case “abuse” the authority of law to impose ANY kind of duty against anyone in the private public except possibly the responsibility to avoid hurting their neighbor and thereby depriving him of the equal rights he enjoys.

> For the commandments, “You shall not commit adultery,” “You shall not murder,” “You shall not steal,” “You shall not bear false witness,” “You shall not covet,” and if there is any other commandment, are all summed up in this saying, namely, “You shall love your neighbor as yourself.”

> Love does no harm to a neighbor; therefore love is the fulfillment of [the ONLY requirement of] the law [which is to avoid hurting your neighbor and thereby love him].

> [Romans 13:9-10, Bible, NKJV]

> “Do not strive with a man without cause, if he has done you no harm.”

> [Prov. 3:30, Bible, NKJV]

Thomas Jefferson, our most revered founding father, summed up this singular duty of government to LEAVE PEOPLE ALONE and only interfere or impose a “duty” using the authority of law when and only when they are hurting each other in order to protect them and prevent the harm when he said:

> “With all [our] blessings, what more is necessary to make us a happy and a prosperous people? Still one thing more, fellow citizens—a wise and frugal Government, which shall restrain men from injuring one another, shall leave them otherwise free to regulate their own pursuits of industry and improvement, and shall not take from the mouth of labor the bread it has earned. This is the sum of good government, and this is necessary to close the circle of our felicities.”

> [Thomas Jefferson: 1st Inaugural, 1801. ME 3:320]

The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed this view, when it ruled:

> “The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 314, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress' §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned.”

> [City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

What the U.S. Supreme Court is saying above is that the government has no authority to tell you how to run your private life. This is contrary to the whole idea of the Internal Revenue Code, whose main purpose is to monitor and control every aspect of those who are subject to it. In fact, it has become the chief means for Congress to implement what we call “social engineering”. Just by the deductions they offer, people are incentivized into all kinds of crazy behaviors in pursuit of reductions in a liability that they in fact do not even have. Therefore, the only reasonable thing to conclude is that Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A which would “appear” to regulate the private conduct of all human beings in states of the Union, in fact:

1. Only applies to “public employees”, “public offices”, and federal instrumentalities in the official conduct of their duties on behalf of the municipal corporation located in the District of Columbia, which 4 U.S.C. §72 makes the “seat of government”.
2. Does not CREATE any new public offices or instrumentalities within the national government, but only regulates the exercise of EXISTING public offices lawfully created through Title 5 of the U.S. Code. The IRS abuses its forms to unlawfully CREATE public offices within the federal government. In payroll terminology, this is called “creating fictitious employees”, and it is not only quite common, but highly illegal and can get private workers FIRED on the spot if discovered.
3. Regulates PUBLIC and not PRIVATE conduct and therefore does not pertain to private human beings.
4. Constitutes a franchise and a “benefit” within the meaning of 5 U.S.C. §552a. Tax “refunds” and “deductions”, in fact, are the “benefit”, and 26 U.S.C. §162 says that all those who take deductions MUST, in fact, be engaged in a public office within the government, which is called a “trade or business”:

TITLE 5 > PART I > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a
§ 552a. Records maintained on individuals
(a) Definitions.— For purposes of this section—

(12) the term “Federal benefit program” means any program administered or funded by the Federal Government, or by any agent or State on behalf of the Federal Government, providing cash or in-kind assistance in the form of payments, grants, loans, or loan guarantees to individuals . . .

5. Has the job of concealing all the above facts in thousands of pages and hundreds of thousands of words so that the average American is not aware of it. That is why they call it the “code” instead of simply “law”: Because it is private law you have to volunteer for and an “encryption” and concealment device for the truth. Now we know why former Treasury Secretary Paul O’Neil called the Internal Revenue Code “9500 pages of gibberish” before he quit his job in disgust and went on a campaign to criticize government.

The I.R.C. therefore essentially amounts to a part of the job responsibility and the “employment contract” of EXISTING “public employees”, “public officers”, and federal instrumentalities. This was also confirmed by the House of Representatives, who said that only those who take an oath of “public office” are subject to the requirements of the personal income tax. See:

The total lack of authority of the government to regulate or tax private conduct explains why, for instance:

1. The vehicle code in your state cannot be enforced on PRIVATE property. It only applies on PUBLIC roads owned by the government.
2. The family court in your state cannot regulate the exercise of unlicensed and therefore PRIVATE CONTRACT marriage. Marriage licenses are a franchise that make those applying into public officers. Family court is a franchise court and the equivalent of binding arbitration that only applies to fellow statutory government “employees”.
3. City conduct ordinances such as those prohibiting drinking by underage minors only apply to institutions who are licensed, and therefore PUBLIC institutions acting as public officers of the government.

Within the Internal Revenue Code, those legal “persons” who work for the government are identified as engaging in a “public office”. A “public office” within the Internal Revenue Code is called a “trade or business”, which is defined below. We emphasize that engaging in a privileged “trade or business” is the main excise taxable activity that in fact and in deed is what REALLY makes a person a “taxpayer” subject to the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A:

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701(a)(26)
Below is the definition of “public office”:

Public office

“Essential characteristics of a ‘public office’ are:

(1) Authority conferred by law,
(2) Fixed tenure of office, and
(3) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.
(4) Key element of such test is that ‘officer is carrying out a sovereign function’.
(5) Essential elements to establish public position as ‘public office’ are:
(a) Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.
(b) Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position.
(c) Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.
(d) Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and
(e) Position must have some permanency.”

Those who are fulfilling the “functions of a public office” are under a legal, fiduciary duty as “trustees” of the “public trust”, while working as “volunteers” for the “charitable trust” called the “United States Government Corporation”, which we affectionately call “U.S. Inc.”:

“As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vacations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trust. That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves, and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual.

Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy.

"U.S. Inc." is a federal corporation, as defined below:

"Corporations are also of all grades, and made for varied objects: all governments are corporations, created by usage and common consent, or grants and charters which create a body politic for prescribed purposes; but whether they are private, local or general, in their objects, for the enjoyment of property, or the exercise of power, they are all governed by the same rules of law, as to the construction and the obligation of the instrument by which the incorporation is made. One universal rule of law protects persons and property. It is a fundamental principle of the common law of England, that the term freemen of the kingdom, includes all persons, ecclesiastical and temporal, incorporating, politic or natural; it is a part of their magna charta (2 Inst. 4), and is incorporated into our institutions. Those who are acting as “public officers” for “U.S. Inc.” have essentially donated their formerly private property to a “public use”. In effect, they have joined the SOCIALIST collective and become partakers of money STOLEN from people, most of whom, do not wish to participate and who would quit if offered an informed choice to do so.

“My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you,
Do not consent [do not abuse your power of choice]
If they say, “Come with us,
Let us lie in wait to shed blood [of innocent “nontaxpayers”];
Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;
Let us swallow them alive like Sheol,
And whole, like those who go down to the Pit:
We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder];
Cast in your lot among us,
Let us all have one purse [share the stolen LOOT]”--

My son, do not walk in the way with them [do not ASSOCIATE with them and don’t let the government FORCE you to associate with them either by forcing you to become a “taxpayer”/government whore or a “U.S. citizen”].
Keep your foot from their path;
For their feet run to evil,
And they make haste to shed blood.
Surely, in vain the net is spread
In the sight of any bird;
But they lie in wait for their own blood.
They lurk secretly for their own lives.
So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain [or unearned government benefits];
It takes away the life of its owners.”
[Proverbs 1:10-19, Bible, NKJV]

Below is what the U.S. Supreme Court says about those who have donated their private property to a “public use”. The ability to volunteer your private property for “public use”, by the way, also implies the ability to UNVOLUNTEER at any time, which is the part no government employee we have ever found is willing to talk about. I wonder why....DUHHHH!

“Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights,‘life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;’ and to ‘secure,’ not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor’s injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor’s benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that USE; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.
[Braden v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

Any legal person, whether it be a natural person, a corporation, or a trust, may become a “public office” if it volunteers to do so. A subset of those engaging in such a “public office” are federal “employees”, but the term “public office” or “trade or business” encompass much more than just government “employees”. In law, when a legal “person” volunteers to accept the legal duties of a “public office”, it therefore becomes a “trustee”, an agent, and fiduciary (as defined in 26 U.S.C. §6903) acting on behalf of the federal government by the operation of private contract law. It becomes essentially a “franchisee” of the federal government carrying out the provisions of the franchise agreement, which is found in:

1. Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, in the case of the federal income tax.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax  S-892

2. The Social Security Act, which is found in Title 42 of the U.S. Code.

If you would like to learn more about how this “trade or business” scam works, consult the authoritative article below:

If you would like to know more about the extreme dangers of participating in all government franchises and why you destroy ALL your Constitutional rights and protections by doing so, see:

2. SEDM Liberty University, Section 4:

The IRS Form 1042-S Instructions confirm that all those who use Social Security Numbers are engaged in the “trade or business” franchise:

Box 14, Recipient’s U.S. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

You must obtain and enter a U.S. taxpayer identification number (TIN) for:

• Any recipient whose income is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.

[IRS Form 1042-S Instructions, p. 14]

Engaging in a “trade or business” therefore implies a “public office”, which makes the person using the number into a “public officer” who has donated his formerly private time and services to a “public use” and agreed to give the public the right to control and regulate that use through the operation of the franchise agreement, which is the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A and the Social Security Act found in Title 42 of the U.S. Code. The Social Security Number is therefore the equivalent of a “license number” to act as a “public officer” for the federal government, who is a fiduciary or trustee subject to the plenary legislative jurisdiction of the federal government pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39), 26 U.S.C. §7408(c), and Federal Rule of Civil Procedure Rule 17(b), regardless of where he might be found geographically, including within a state of the Union. The franchise agreement governs “choice of law” and where it’s terms may be litigated, which is the District of Columbia, based on the agreement itself.

Now let’s apply what we have learned to your employment situation. God said you cannot work for two companies at once. You can only serve one company, and that company is the federal government if you are receiving federal benefits:

“No one can serve two masters [two employers, for instance]; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”

[Luke 16:13, Bible, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]

Everything you make while working for your slave master, the federal government, is their property over which you are a fiduciary and “public officer”.

“THE” + “IRS” = “THEIRS”

A federal “public officer” has no rights in relation to their master, the federal government:

“The restrictions that the Constitution places upon the government in its capacity as lawmaker, i.e., as the regulator of private conduct, are not the same as the restrictions that it places upon the government in its capacity as employer. We have recognized this in many contexts, with respect to many different constitutional guarantees. Private citizens perhaps cannot be prevented from wearing long hair, but policemen can. Kelley v. Johnson, 425 U.S. 238, 247 (1976). Private citizens cannot have their property searched without probable cause, but in many circumstances government employees can. O’Connor v. Ortega, 480 U.S. 709, 723 (1987) (plurality opinion); id., at 732 (SCALIA, J., concurring in judgment). Private citizens cannot be punished for refusing to provide the government information that may incriminate them, but government employees can be dismissed when the incriminating information that they refuse to provide relates to the performance of their job. Gardner v.
Your existence and your earnings as a federal “public officer” and “trustee” and “fiduciary” are entirely subject to the whim and pleasure of corrupted lawyers and politicians, and you must beg and grovel if you expect to retain anything:

“In the general course of human nature, A POWER OVER A MAN’S SUBSISTENCE AMOUNTS TO A POWER OVER HIS WILL.”

[Alexander Hamilton, Federalist Paper No. 79]

You will need an “exemption” from your new slave master specifically spelled out in law to justify anything you want to keep while working on the federal plantation. The 1040 return is a profit and loss statement for a federal business corporation called the “United States’. You are in partnership with your slave master and they decide what scraps they want to throw to you in your legal “cage” AFTER they figure out whatever is left in financing their favorite pork barrel project and paying off interest on an ever-expanding and endless national debt. Do you really want to reward this type of irresponsibility and surety?

The W-4 therefore essentially amounts to a federal employment application. It is your badge of dishonor and a tacit admission that you can’t or won’t trust God and yourself to provide for yourself. Instead, you need a corrupted “protector” to steal money from your neighbor or counterfeit (print) it to help you pay your bills and run your life. Furthermore, if your private employer forced you to fill out the W-4 against your will or instituted any duress to get you to fill it out, such as threatening to fire or not hire you unless you fill it out, then he/she is:

1. Acting as an employment recruiter for the federal government.
3. Involved in a conspiracy to commit grand theft by stealing money from you to pay for services and protection you don’t want and don’t need.
5. Involved in money laundering for the federal government, by sending in money stolen from you to them, in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1956.

The higher ups at the IRS probably know the above, and they certainly aren’t going to tell private employers or their underlings the truth, because they aren’t going to look a gift horse in the mouth and don’t want to surrender their defense of “plausible deniability”. They will NEVER tell a thief who is stealing for them that they are stealing, especially if they don’t have to assume liability for the consequences of the theft. No one who practices this kind of slavery, deceive, and evil can rightly claim that they are loving their neighbor and once they know they are involved in such deceit, they have a duty to correct it or become an “accessory after the fact” in violation of 18 U.S.C. §3. This form of deceit is also the sin most hated by God in the Bible. Below is a famous Bible commentary on Prov. 11:1:

“As religion towards God is a branch of universal righteousness (he is not an honest man that is not devout), so righteousness towards men is a branch of true religion, for he is not a godly man that is not honest, nor can he expect that his devotion should be accepted; for, 1. Nothing is more offensive to God than deceit in commerce, a false balance is here put for all manner of unjust and fraudulent practices [of our public dis-servants] in dealing with any person [within the public], which are all an abomination to the Lord, and render those abominable [hated] to him that allow themselves in the use of such assessed arts of thriving. It is an affront to justice, which God is the patron of, as well as a wrong to our neighbour, whom God is the protector of. Men [in the IRS and the Congress] make light of such frauds, and think there is no sin in that there is money to be got by, and, while it passes undiscovered, they cannot blame themselves for it; a blot is no blot till it is hit, Hos. 12: 7, 8. But they are not the less an abomination to God, who will be the avenger of those that are defrauded by their brethren. 2. Nothing is more pleasing to God than fair and honest dealing, nor more necessary to make us and our devotions acceptable to him: A just weight is his delight, He himself goes by a just weight, and holds the scale of judgment with an even hand, and therefore is pleased with those that are herein followers of him. A balance cheats, under pretence of doing right most exactly, and therefore is the greater abomination to God.”

[Matthew Henry’s Commentary on the Whole Bible; Henry, M., 1996, c1991, under Prov. 11:1]
"And I saw a woman sitting on a scarlet beast which was full of names of blasphemy, having seven heads and ten horns. The woman was arrayed in purple and scarlet, and adorned with gold and precious stones and pearls, having in her hand a golden cup full of abominations and the filthiness of her fornication. And on her forehead a name was written:

I saw the woman, drunk with the blood of the saints and with the blood of the martyrs of Jesus. And when I saw her, I marveled with great amazement."

[Rev. 17:3-6, Bible, NKJV]

This despicable harlot is described below as the “woman who sits on many waters”.

"Come, I will show you the judgment of the great harlot [Babylon the Great Harlot] who sits on many waters, with whom the kings of the earth [politicians and rulers] committed fornication, and the inhabitants of the earth were made drunk [indulged] with the wine of her fornication."

[Rev. 17:1-2, Bible, NKJV]

These waters are simply symbolic of a democracy controlled by mobs of atheistic people who are fornicating with the Beast and who have made it their false, man-made god and idol:

"The waters which you saw, where the harlot sits, are peoples, multitudes, nations, and tongues."

[Rev. 17:15, Bible, NKJV]

The Beast is then defined in Rev. 19:19 as “the kings of the earth”, which today would be our political rulers:

"And I saw the beast, the kings of the earth, and their armies, gathered together to make war against Him who sat on the horse and against His army."

[Rev. 19:19, Bible, NKJV]

Babylon the Great Harlot is “fornicating” with the government by engaging in commerce with it. Black’s Law Dictionary defines “commerce” as “intercourse”:

"Commerce...Intercourse by way of trade and traffic between different peoples or states and the citizens or inhabitants thereof, including not only the purchase, sale, and exchange of commodities, but also the instrumentalities [governments] and agencies by which it is promoted and the means and appliances by which it is carried on..."

If you want your rights back people, you can’t pursue government employment in the context of your private job. If you do, the Bible, not us, says you are a harlot and that you are CONDEMNED to hell!

And I heard another voice from heaven saying, “Come out of her, my people, lest you share in her sins, and lest you receive of her plagues. For her sins have reached to heaven, and God has remembered her iniquities. Render to her just as she rendered to you, and repay her double according to her works; in the cup which she has mixed, mix double for her. In the measure that she glorified herself and lived luxuriously, in the same measure give her torment and sorrow; for she says in her heart, ‘I sit as queen, and am no widow, and will not see sorrow.’ Therefore her plagues will come in one day—death and mourning and famine. And she will be utterly burned with fire, for strong is the Lord God who judges her.

[Rev. 18:4-8, Bible, NKJV]

In summary, it ought to be very clear from reading this section then, that:

1. It is an abuse of the government’s taxing power, according to the U.S. Supreme Court, to pay public monies to private persons or to use the government’s taxing power to transfer wealth between groups of private individuals.
2. Because of these straight jacket constraints of the use of “public funds” by the government, the government can only lawfully make payments or pay “benefits” to persons who have contracted with them to render specific services that are authorized by the Constitution to be rendered.
3. The government had to create an intermediary called the “straw man” that is a public office or agent within the government and therefore part of the government that they could pay the “benefit” to in order to circumvent the restrictions upon the government from abusing its powers to transfer wealth between private individuals.
4. The straw man is a “public office” within the U.S. government. It is a creation of Congress and an agent and fiduciary of the government subject to the statutory control of Congress. It is therefore a public entity and not a private entity which the government can therefore lawfully pay public funds to without abusing its taxing powers.

5. Those who sign up for government contracts, benefits, franchises, or employment agree to become surety for the straw man or public office and agree to act in a representative capacity on behalf of a federal corporation in the context of all the duties of the office pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).

6. Because the straw man is a public office, you can’t be compelled to occupy the office. You and not the government set the compensation or amount of money you are willing to work for in order to consensually occupy the office. If you don’t think the compensation is adequate, you have the right to refuse to occupy the office by refusing to connect your assets to the office using the de facto license number for the office called the Taxpayer Identification Number.

5.6.12.4.10 “Political (PUBLIC) law” v. “civil (PRIVATE) law”

Within our republican government, the founding fathers recognized three classes of law:

1. Criminal law. Protects both PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights.
2. Civil law. Protects exclusively PRIVATE rights.

The above three types of law were identified in the following document upon which the founding fathers wrote the constitution and based the design of our republican form of government:

_The Spirit of Laws_, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758

Montesquieu defines “political law” and “political liberty” as follows:

_I. A general Idea._

_I make a distinction between the laws that establish political liberty, as it relates to the constitution, and those by which it is established, as it relates to the citizen. The former shall be the subject of this book; the latter I shall examine in the next._

_[The Spirit of Laws, Charles de Montesquieu, 1758, Book XI, Section 1; SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/SpiritOfLaws/sol_11.htm#001]_

The Constitution in turn is a POLITICAL document which represents law EXCLUSIVELY for public officers within the government. It does not obligate or abrogate any PRIVATE right. It defines what the courts call “public rights”, meaning rights possessed and owned exclusively by the government ONLY.

_“And the Constitution itself is in every real sense a law—the lawmakers being the people themselves, in whom under our system all political power and sovereignty primarily resides, and through whom such power and sovereignty primarily speaks. It is by that law, and not otherwise, that the legislative, executive, and judicial agencies which it created exercise such political authority as they have been permitted to possess. The Constitution speaks for itself in terms so plain that to misunderstand its import is not rationally possible. ‘We the People of the United States,’ it says, ‘do ordain and establish this Constitution.’ Ordain and establish! These are definite words of enactment, and without more would stamp what follows with the dignity and character of law. The framers of the Constitution, however, were not content to let the matter rest here, but provided explicitly—‘This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; ... shall be the supreme Law of the Land.’ (Const. art. 6, cl. 2.) The supremacy of the Constitution as law is thus declared without qualification. That supremacy is absolute; the supremacy of a statute enacted by Congress is not absolute but conditioned upon its being made in pursuance of the Constitution. And a judicial tribunal, clothed by that instrument with complete judicial power, and, therefore, by the very nature of the power, required to ascertain and apply the law to the facts in every case or proceeding properly brought for adjudication, must apply the supreme law and reject the inferior stat— [298 U.S. 238, 297] use whenever the two conflict. In the discharge of that duty, the opinion of the lawmakers that a statute passed by them is valid must be given great weight, Adkins v. Children’s Hospital, 261 U.S. 525, 544, 43 S.Ct. 594, 24 A.L.R. 1238; but their opinion, or the court’s opinion, that the statute will prove greatly or generally beneficial is wholly irrelevant to the inquiry. Schechter Poultry Corp. v. United States, 295 U.S. 495, 549, 55 S.Ct. 837, 97 A.L.R. 947. “ [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238 (1936)]”_
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The vast majority of laws passed by Congress are what Montesquieu calls “political law” that is intended exclusively for the government and not the private citizen. The authority for implementing such political law is Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution. To wit:

United States Constitution
Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2

The Congress shall have Power to dispose of and make all needful Rules and Regulations respecting the Territory or other Property belonging to the United States; and nothing in this Constitution shall be so construed as to prejudice any Claims of the United States, or of any particular State.

The only areas where POLITICAL law and CIVIL law overlap is in the exercise of the political rights to vote and serve on jury duty. Why? Because jurists are regarded as public officers in 18 U.S.C. §201(a)(1):

TITLE 18 > PART I > CHAPTER 11 > § 201
§ 201. Bribery of public officials and witnesses

(a) For the purpose of this section—

(1) the term “public official” means Member of Congress, Delegate, or Resident Commissioner, either before or after such official has qualified, or an officer or employee or person acting for or on behalf of the United States, or any department, agency or branch of Government thereof, including the District of Columbia, in any official function, under or by authority of any such department, agency, or branch of Government, or a juror;

However, it has also repeatedly been held by the courts that poll taxes are unconstitutional. Hence, voters technically are NOT to be regarded as public officers or franchisees for any purpose OTHER than their role as a voter. Recall that all statutory “Taxpayers” are public offices in the government.

Tax laws, for instance, are “political law” exclusively for the government or public officer and not the private citizen. Why? Because:

1. The U.S. Supreme Court identified taxes as a “political matter”. “Political law”, “political questions”, and “political matters” cannot be heard by true constitutional courts and may ONLY be heard in legislative franchise courts officiated by the Executive and not Judicial branch:

“Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located.”

[Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

2. The U.S. Tax Court:

2.1. Is an Article I Court in the EXECUTIVE and not JUDICIAL branch, and hence, can only officiate over matters INTERNAL to the government. See 26 U.S.C. §7441.

2.2. Is a POLITICAL court in the POLITICAL branch of the government. Namely, the Executive branch.

2.3. Is limited to the District of Columbia because all public offices are limited to be exercised there per 4 U.S.C. §72. It travels all over the country, but this is done ILLEGALLY and in violation of the separation of powers.

3. The activity subject to excise taxation is limited exclusively to “public offices” in the government, which is what a “trade or business” is statutorily defined as in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

26 U.S.C. Sec. 7701(a)(26)

“The term ‘trade or business’ includes the performance of the functions of a public office.”

In Book XXVI, Section 15 of the Spirit of Laws, Montesquieu says that POLITICAL laws should not be allowed to regulate CIVIL conduct, meaning that POLITICAL laws limited exclusively to the government should not be enforced upon the PRIVATE citizen or made to “appear” as though they are “civil law” that applies to everyone:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The Spirit of Laws, Book XXVI, Section 15

15. That we should not regulate by the Principles of political Law those Things which depend on the Principles of civil Law.

As men have given up their natural independence to live under political laws, they have given up the natural community of goods to live under civil laws.

By the first, they acquired [PUBLIC] liberty; by the second, [PRIVATE] property. We should not decide by the laws of [PUBLIC] liberty, which, as we have already said, is only the government of the community, what ought to be decided by the laws concerning [PRIVATE] property. It is a paradox to say that the good of the individual should give way to that of the public; this can never take place, except when the government of the community, or, in other words, the liberty of the subject is concerned; this does not affect such cases as relate to private property, because the public good consists in every one’s having his property, which was given him by the civil laws, invariably preserved.

Cicero maintains that the Agrarian laws were unjust; because the community was established with no other view than that every one might be able to preserve his property.

Let us, therefore, lay down a certain maxim, that whenever the public good happens to be the matter in question, it is not for the advantage of the public to deprive an individual of his property, or even to retrench the least part of it by a law, or a political regulation. In this case we should follow the rigour of the civil law, which is the Palladium of [PRIVATE] property.

Thus when the public has occasion for the estate of an individual, it ought never to act by the rigour of political law; it is here that the civil law ought to triumph, which, with the eyes of a mother, regards every individual as the whole community.

If the political magistrate would erect a public edifice, or make a new road, he must indemnify those who are injured by it; the public is in this respect like an individual who treats with an individual. It is fully enough that it can oblige a citizen to sell his inheritance, and that it can strip him of this great privilege which he holds from the civil law, the not being forced to alienate his possessions.

After the nations which subverted the Roman empire had abused their very conquests, the spirit of liberty called them back to that of equity. They exercised the most barbarous laws with moderation: and if any one should doubt the truth of this, he need only read Beaumanoir’s admirable work on jurisprudence, written in the twelfth century.

They mended the highways in his time as we do at present. He says, that when a highway could not be repaired, they made a new one as near the old as possible; but indemnified the proprietors at the expense of those who reaped any advantage from the road.22 They determined at that time by the civil law; in our days, we determine by the law of politics.

What Montesquieu is implying is what we have been saying all along, and he said it in 1758, which was even before the Declaration of Independence was written:

1. The purpose of establishing government is exclusively to protect PRIVATE rights.
2. PRIVATE rights are protected by the CIVIL law. The civil law, in turn is based in EQUITY rather than PRIVILEGE:

   “Thus when the public has occasion for the estate of an individual, it ought never to act by the rigour of political law; it is here that the civil law ought to triumph, which, with the eyes of a mother, regards every individual as the whole community.”

3. PUBLIC or government rights are protected by the PUBLIC or POLITICAL or GOVERNMENT law and NOT the CIVIL law.
4. The first and most important role of government is to prevent the POLITICAL or GOVERNMENT law from being used or especially ABUSED as an excuse to confiscate or jeopardize PRIVATE property.

Unfortunately, it is precisely the above type of corruption that Montesquieu describes that is the foundation of the present de facto government, tax system, and money system. ALL of them treat every human being as a PUBLIC officer against their consent, and impose what he calls the “rigors of the political law” upon them, in what amounts to unconstitutional eminent domain and a THEFT and CONFISCATION of otherwise PRIVATE property by enforcing PUBLIC law against PRIVATE people.

5.6.12.4.11 Lawful methods for converting PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property

Next, we must carefully consider all the rules by which EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property is lawfully converted into PUBLIC property subject to government control or civil regulation. These rules are important, because the status of a particular type of property as either PRIVATE or PUBLIC determines whether either COMMON LAW or STATUTORY LAW apply respectively.

In general, only by either accepting physical property from the government or voluntarily applying for and claiming a status or right under a government franchise can one procure a PUBLIC status and be subject to STATUTORY civil law. If one wishes to be governed ONLY by the common law, then they must make their status very clear in every interaction with the government and on EVERY government form they fill out so as to avoid connecting them to any statutory franchise.

Below is a detailed list of the rules for converting PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property:

1. The purpose for establishing governments is mainly to protect private property. The Declaration of Independence affirms this:

   "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. -- That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, --"

   [Declaration of Independence, 1776]

2. Government protects private rights by keeping "public [government] property" and "private property" separate and never allowing them to be joined together. This is the heart of the separation of powers doctrine: separation of what is private from what is public with the goal of protecting mainly what is private. See:

   Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023

   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. All property BEGINS as private property. The only way to lawfully change it to public property is through the exercise of your unalienable constitutional right to contract. All franchises qualify as a type of contract, and therefore, franchises are one of many methods to lawfully convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property. The exercise of the right to contract, in turn, is an act of consent that eliminates any possibility of a legal remedy of the donor against the donee:

   "Volunti non fit injuria.
   He who consents cannot receive an injury. 2 Bouv. Inst. n. 2279, 2327; 4 T. R. 657; Shelf. on mar. & Div. 449.

   Consensus tollit errorem.
   Consent removes or obviates a mistake. Co. Litt. 126.

   Melius est omnia mala pati quam malo concentire.
   It is better to suffer every wrong or ill, than to consent to it. 3 Co. Inst. 23.

   Nemo videtur fraudare eos qui sciunt, et consentiunt.
   One cannot complain of having been deceived when he knew the fact and gave his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 145."

   [Bouvier’S Maxims of Law, 1856; SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

4. In law, all rights are “property”.

   Property. That which is peculiar or proper to any person; that which belongs exclusively to one. In the strict legal sense, an aggregate of rights which are guaranteed and protected by the government. Fulton Light, Heat & Power Co. v. State, 65 Misc.Rep. 263, 121 N.Y.S. 536. The term is said to extend to every species of valuable right and interest. More specifically, ownership; the unrestricted and exclusive right to a thing; the right to dispose of a thing in every legal way, to possess it, to use it, and to exclude everyone else from interfering with it. That dominion or indefinite right of use or disposition which one may lawfully exercise over particular things or subjects. The exclusive right of possessing, enjoying, and disposing of a thing. A highest right a man can have to anything; being used to refer to that right which one has to lands or tenements, goods or chattels, which no way depends on another man’s courtesy.
The word is also commonly used to denote everything which is the subject of ownership, corporeal or incorporeal, tangible or intangible, visible or invisible, real or personal, everything that has an exchangeable value or which goes to make up wealth or estate. It extends to every species of valuable right and interest, and includes real and personal property, easements, franchises, and incorporeal hereditaments, and includes every invasion of one's property rights by actionable wrong. Labberton v. General Cas. Co. of America, 53 Wash.2d 180, 332 P.2d. 250, 252, 254.

Property embraces everything which is or may be the subject of ownership, whether a legal ownership, or whether beneficial, or a private ownership. Davis v. Davis. Tex.Civ-App., 495 S.W.2d. 607, 611. Term includes not only ownership and possession but also the right of use and enjoyment for lawful purposes. Hoffmann v. Kinealy, Mo., 389 S.W.2d. 745, 752.

Property, within constitutional protection, denotes group of rights inhering in citizen's relation to physical thing, as right to possess, use and dispose of it. Cereghino v. State By and Through State Highway Commission, 340 Or. 439, 370 P.2d. 694, 697.

By protecting your constitutional rights, the government is protecting your PRIVATE property. Your rights are private property because they came from God, not from the government. Only what the government creates can become public property. An example is corporations, which are a public franchise that makes officers of the corporation into public officers.

5. The process of taxation is the process of converting “private property” into a “public use” and a “public purpose”. Below are definitions of these terms for your enlightenment.

Public use. Eminent domain. The constitutional and statutory basis for taking property by eminent domain. For condemnation purposes, “public use” is one which confers some benefit or advantage to the public; it is not confined to actual use by public. It is measured in terms of right of public to use proposed facilities for which condemnation is sought and, as long as public has right of use, whether exercised by one or many members of public, a “public advantage” or “public benefit” accrues sufficient to constitute a public use. Montana Power Co. v. Bokma, Mont., 457 P.2d. 769, 772, 773.

Public use, in constitutional provisions restricting the exercise of the right to take property in virtue of eminent domain, means a use concerning the whole community distinguished from particular individuals. But each and every member of society need not be equally interested in such use, or be personally and directly affected by it; if the object is to satisfy a great public want or exigency, that is sufficient. Ringe Co. v. Los Angeles County, 262 U.S. 700, 43 S.Ct. 689, 692, 67 L.Ed. 1186. The term may be said to mean public usefulness, utility, or advantage, or what is productive of general benefit. It may be limited to the inhabitants of a small or restricted locality, but must be in common, and not for a particular individual. The use must be a needful one for the public, which cannot be surrendered without obvious general loss and inconvenience. A “public use” for which land may be taken defies absolute definition for it changes with varying conditions of society, new appliances in the sciences, changing conceptions of scope and functions of government, and other differing circumstances brought about by an increase in population and new modes of communication and transportation. Katz v. Brandon, 156 Conn. 521, 245 A.2d. 579, 586.

See also Condemnation; Eminent domain.

“Public purpose. In the law of taxation, eminent domain, etc., this is a term of classification to distinguish the objects for which, according to settled usage, the government is to provide, from those which, by the like usage, are left to private interest, inclination, or liberality. The constitutional requirement that the purpose of any tax, police regulation, or particular exertion of the power of eminent domain shall be the convenience, safety, or welfare of the entire community and not the welfare of a specific individual or class of persons [such as, for instance, federal benefit recipients as individuals]. “Public purpose” that will justify expenditure of public money generally means such an activity as will serve as benefit to community as a body and which at same time is directly related function of government. Buck v. Southwestern Bell Tel. & Tel. Co., 215 Tenn. 303, 387 S.W.2d. 789, 794.

The term is synonymous with governmental purpose. As employed to denote the objects for which taxes may be levied, it has no relation to the urgency of the public need or to the extent of the public benefit which is to follow; the essential requisite being that a public service or use shall affect the inhabitants as a community, and not merely as individuals. A public purpose or public business has for its objective the promotion of the public health, safety, morals, general welfare, security, prosperity, and contentment of all the inhabitants or residents within a given political division, as, for example, a state, the sovereign powers of which are exercised to promote such public purpose or public business. ”

6. The federal government has no power of eminent domain within states of the Union. This means that they cannot lawfully convert private property to a public use or a public purpose within the exclusive jurisdiction of states of the Union:

"The United States have no constitutional capacity to exercise municipal jurisdiction, sovereignty, or eminent domain, within the limits of a State or elsewhere, except in cases where it is delegated, and the court denies the faculty of the Federal Government to add to its powers by treaty or compact." [Dred Scott v. Sandford, 60 U.S. 393, 508-509 (1856)]

7. The Fifth Amendment prohibits converting private property to a public use or a public purpose without just compensation if the owner does not consent, and this prohibition applies to the Federal government as well as states of the Union. It was made applicable to states of the Union by the Fourteenth Amendment in 1868.

8. Because taxation involves converting private property to a public use, public purpose, and public office, then it involves eminent domain if the owner of the property did not expressly consent to the taking:

Eminent domain. The power to take private property for public use by the state, municipalities, and private persons or corporations authorized to exercise functions of public character. Housing Authority of Cherokee National of Oklahoma v. Langley, Okl., 555 P.2d. 1025, 1028. Fifth Amendment, U.S. Constitution.

In the United States, the power of eminent domain is founded in both the federal (Fifth Amend.) and state constitutions. However, the Constitution limits the power to taking for a public purpose and prohibits the exercise of the power of eminent domain without just compensation to the owners of the property which is taken. The process of exercising the power of eminent domain is commonly referred to as "condemnation", or, "expropriation".

The right of eminent domain is the right of the state, through its regular organization, to reassert, either temporarily or permanently, its dominion over any portion of the soil of the state on account of public exigency and for the public good. Thus, in time of war or insurrection, the proper authorities may possess and hold any part of the territory of the state for the common safety; and in time of peace the legislature may authorize the appropriation of the same to public purposes, such as the opening of roads, construction of defenses, or providing channels for trade or travel. Eminent domain is the highest and most exact idea of property remaining in the government, or in the aggregate body of the people in their sovereign capacity. It gives a right to resume the possession of the property in the manner directed by the constitution and the laws of the state, whenever the public interest requires it.

See also Adequate compensation; Condemnation; Constructive taking; Damages; Expropriation; Fair market value; Just compensation; Larger parcel; Public use; Take. [Black's Law Dictionary, Fifth Edition, p. 470]

9. The Fifth Amendment requires that any taking of private property without the consent of the owner must involve compensation. The Constitution must be consistent with itself. The taxation clauses found in Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 1 and 3 cannot conflict with the Fifth Amendment. The Fifth Amendment contains no exception to the requirement for just compensation upon conversion of private property to a public use, even in the case of taxation. This is why all taxes must be indirect excise taxes against people who provide their consent by applying for a license to engage in the taxed activity: The application for the license constitutes constructive consent to donate the fruits of the activity to a public use, public purpose, and public office.

10. There is only ONE condition in which the conversion of private property to public property does NOT require compensation, which is when the owner donates the private property to a public use, public purpose, or public office.

To wit:

“Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, ‘life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;’
and to ‘secure,’ not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor’s injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor’s benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY, Medicare, and every other public “benefit”]; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.”

[Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

11. The following two methods are the ONLY methods involving consent of the owner that may be LAWFULLY employed to convert PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property. Anything else is unlawful and THEFT:

11.1. DIRECT CONVERSION: Owner donates the property by conveying title or possession to the government. 184

11.2. INDIRECT CONVERSION: Owner assumes a PUBLIC status as a PUBLIC officer in the HOLDING of title to the property. 185 All such statuses and the rights that attach to it are creations and property of the government, the use of which is a privilege. The status and all PUBLIC RIGHTS that attach to it conveys a “benefit” for which the status user must pay an excise tax. The tax acts as a rental or use fee for the status, which is government property.

12. You and ONLY you can authorize your private property to be donated to a public use, public purpose, and public office. No third party can lawfully convert or donate your private property to a public use, public purpose, or public office without your knowledge and express consent. If they do, they are guilty of theft and conversion, and especially if they are acting in a quasi-governmental capacity as a “withholding agent” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(16).

12.1. A withholding agent cannot file an information return connecting your earnings to a “trade or business” without you actually occupying a “public office” in the government BEFORE you filled out any tax form.

12.2. A withholding agent cannot file IRS Form W-2 against your earnings if you didn’t voluntarily sign an IRS Form W-4 contract and thereby consent to donate your private property to a public office in the U.S. government and therefore a “public use”.

12.3. That donation process is accomplished by your own voluntary self-assessment and ONLY by that method. Before such a self-assessment, you are a “nontaxpayer” and a private person. After the assessment, you become a “taxpayer” and a public officer in the government engaged in the “trade or business” franchise.

12.4. In order to have an income tax liability, you must complete, sign, and “file” an income tax return and thereby assess yourself:

“Our system of taxation is based upon voluntary assessment and payment, not distraint.”

By assessing yourself, you implicitly give your consent to allow the public the right to control that use of the formerly PRIVATE property donated to a public use.

---

184 An example of direct conversion would be the process of “registering” a vehicle with the Department of Motor Vehicles in your state. The act of registration constitutes consent by original ABSOLUTE owner to change the ownership of the property from ABSOLUTE to QUALIFIED and to convey legal title to the state and qualified title to himself.

185 An example of a PUBLIC status is statutory “taxpayer” (public office called “trade or business”), statutory “citizen”, statutory “driver” (vehicle), statutory voter (registered voters are public officers).
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

A THEFT of property has occurred on behalf of the government if it attempts to do any of the following:

1. Circumvents any of the above rules.
2. Blurs, confuses, or obfuscates the distinction between PRIVATE property and PUBLIC property.
3. Refuses to identify EXACTLY which of the mechanisms identified in item 10 above was employed in EACH specific case where it:
   3.1. Asserts a right to regulate the use of private property.
   3.2. Asserts a right to convert the character of property from PRIVATE to PUBLIC.
   3.3. Asserts a right to TAX what you THOUGHT was PRIVATE property.

The next time someone from the government asserts a tax obligation, you might want to ask them the following very insightful questions based on the content of this section:

1. Please describe at EXACTLY what point in the taxation process my earnings were LAWFULLY converted from EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE to PUBLIC and thereby became SUBJECT to civil statutory law and government jurisdiction. Check one or more. If none are checked, it shall CONCLUSIVELY be PRESUMED that no tax is owed:
   1.1. There is no private property. EVERYTHING belongs to us and we just “RENT” it to you through taxes. Hence, we are NOT a “government” because there is not private property to protect. Everything is PUBLIC property by default.
   1.2. When I was born?
   1.3. When I became a CONSTITUTIONAL citizen?
   1.4. When I changed my domicile to a CONSTITUTIONAL and not STATUTORY “State”?
   1.5. When I indicated “U.S. citizen” or “U.S. resident” on a government form, and the agent accepting it FALSELY PRESUMED that meant I was a STATUTORY “national and citizen of the United States” per 8 U.S.C. §1401 rather than a CONSTITUTIONAL “citizen of the United States”.
   1.6. When I disclosed and used a Social Security Number or Taxpayer Identification Number to my otherwise PRIVATE employer?
   1.7. When I submitted my withholding documents, such as IRS Forms W-4 or W-8?
   1.8. When the information return was filed against my otherwise PRIVATE earnings that connected my otherwise PRIVATE earnings to a PUBLIC office in the national government?
   1.9. When I FAILED to rebut the false information return connecting my otherwise PRIVATE earnings to a PUBLIC office in the national government?
   1.10. When I filed a “taxpayer” form, such as IRS Forms 1040 or 1040NR?
   1.11. When the IRS or state did an assessment under the authority if 26 U.S.C. §6020(b).
   1.12. When I failed to rebut a collection notice from the IRS?
   1.13. When the IRS levied monies from my EXCLUSIVELY private account, which must be held by a PUBLIC OFFICER per 26 U.S.C. §6331(a) before it can lawfully be levied?
   1.14. When the government decided they wanted to STEAL my money and simply TOOK it, and were protected from the THEFT by a complicit Department of Justice, who split the proceeds with them?
   1.15. When I demonstrated legal ignorance of the law to the government sufficient to overlook or not recognize that it is impossible to convert PRIVATE to PUBLIC without my consent, as the Declaration of Independence requires.

2. How can the conversion from PRIVATE to PUBLIC occur without my consent and without violating the Fifth Amendment Takings Clause?

3. If you won’t answer the previous questions, how the HELL am I supposed to receive constitutionally mandated “reasonable notice” of the following:
   3.1. EXACTLY what property I exclusively own and therefore what property is NOT subject to government taxation or regulation?
   3.2. EXACTLY what conduct is expected of me by the law?

4. EXACTLY where in your publications is the first question answered and why should I believe it if even you refuse to take responsibility for the accuracy of said publications?

5. EXACTLY where in the statutes and regulations is the first question answered?

6. How can you refuse to answer the above questions if your own mission statement says you are required to help people obey the law and comply with the law?

5.6.12.4.12 Unlawful methods abused by government to convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property
There are a LOT more ways to UNLAWFULLY convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property than there are ways to do it lawfully. This section will address the most prevalent methods abused by state actors so that you will immediately recognize them when you are victimized by them. For the purposes of this section CONTROL and OWNERSHIP are synonymous. Hence, if the TITLE of the property remains in your name but there is any aspect of control over the USE of said property that does not demonstrably injure others, then the property ceases to be absolutely owned and therefore is owned by the government.

Based on the previous section, there is ONLY one condition in which PRIVATE property can be converted to PUBLIC property without the consent of the owner, which is when it is used to INJURE the rights of others. Any other type of conversion is THEFT. The U.S. Supreme Court describes that process of illegally CONVERTING property from PRIVATE to PUBLIC as follows. Notice that they only reference the “citizen” as being the object of regulation, which implies that those who are “nonresidents”, “transient foreigners”, and “state nationals” are beyond the control of those governments in whose territory they have not chosen a civil domicile:

“The doctrine that each one must so use his own as not to injure his neighbor — sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas — is the rule by which every member of society must possess and enjoy his property; and all legislation essential to secure this common and equal enjoyment is a legitimate exercise of State authority. Except in cases where property may be destroyed to arrest a conflagration or the ravages of pestilence, or be taken under the pressure of an immediate and overwhelming necessity to prevent a public calamity, the power of the State over the property of the citizen [NOT EVERYONE, but only those consent to become citizens by choosing a domicile] does not extend beyond such limits.” [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)]

Below is a list of the more prevalent means abused by corrupt and covetous governments to illegally convert PRIVATE property to PUBLIC PROPERTY without the express consent of the owner. Many of these techniques are unrecognizable to the average American and therefore surreptitious, which is why they continue to be abused so regularly and chronically by public dis-servants:

1. Deceptively label statutory PRIVILEGES as RIGHTS.
2. Confuse STATUTORY citizenship with CONSTITUTIONAL citizenship.
3. Refuse to admit that the court you are litigating in is a FRANCHISE court that has no jurisdiction over non-franchisees or people who do not consent to the franchise.
4. Abuse the words “includes” and “including” to add anything they want to the definition of “person” or “individual” within the franchise. All such “persons” are public officers and not private human beings. See: Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
5. Refuse to impose the burden of proof upon the government to show that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to convert PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property BEFORE they can claim jurisdiction over it.
6. Silently PRESUME that the property in question is PUBLIC property connected with the “trade or business” (public office per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)) franchise and force you to prove that it ISN’T by CHALLENGING false information returns filed against it, such as IRS Forms W-2, 1098, 1099, and K-1. See: Correcting Erroneous Information Returns, Form #04.001 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
7. Presume that the STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts for geographical words are the same. They are NOT, and in fact are mutually exclusive.
8. Presume that because you submitted an application for a franchise, that you:
  8.1. CONSENTED to the franchise and were not under duress.
  8.2. Were requesting a “benefit” and therefore agreed to the obligations associated with the “benefit”.

CALIFORNIA CIVIL CODE
DIVISION 3. OBLIGATIONS
PART 2. CONTRACTS
CHAPTER 3. CONSENT
Section 1589

1589. A voluntary acceptance of the benefit of a transaction is equivalent to a consent to all the obligations arising from it, so far as the facts are known, or ought to be known, to the person accepting.

8.3. Agree to accept the obligations associated with the status described on the application, such as “taxpayer”, “driver”, “spouse”.

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
If you want to prevent the above, reserve all your rights on the application, indicate duress, and define all terms on the form as NOT connected with any government or statutory law.

9. PRESUME that the OWNER has a civil statutory status that he or she did not consent to, such as:

9.1. “spouse” under the family code of your state, which is a franchise.
9.2. “driver” under the vehicle code of your state, which is a franchise.
9.3. “taxpayer” under the tax code of your state, which is a franchise.

10. PRESUME that physical PROPERTY that is situated on federal territory to which the general and exclusive jurisdiction of the national government applies, even though it is not. This is primarily done by playing word games with geographical “words of art” such as “State” and “United States”.

11. Refuse to satisfy the burden of proving that the owner of the property expressly consented in a manner that he/she prescribed to change the status of either himself or the property over which they claim a public interest.

12. Judges will interfere with attempts to introduce evidence in the proceeding that challenges any of the above presumptions.

13. Unlawfully compel the use of Social Security Numbers or Taxpayer Identification Numbers in violation of 42 U.S.C. §408(a)(8) in connection with specific property as a precondition of rendering a usually essential service. It will be illegally compelled because:

13.1. The party against whom it was compelled was not a statutory “Taxpayer” or “person” or “individual” or to whom a duty to furnish said number lawfully applies.
13.2. The property was not located on territory subject to the territorial jurisdiction of that national government.

14. Use one franchise as a way to recruit franchisees under OTHER franchises that are completely unrelated. For instance, they will enact a vehicle code statute that allows for confiscation of REGISTERED vehicles only that are being operated by UNLICENSED drivers. That way, everyone who wants to protect their vehicle also indirectly has to ALSO become a statutory “driver” using the public road ways for commercial activity and thus subject to regulation by the state, even though they in fact ARE NOT intending to do so.

15. Issue a license and then refuse to recognize the authority and ability in court of those possessing said license to act in an EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE capacity. For instance:

15.1. They may have a contractor’s license but they are NOT allowed to operate as OTHER than a licensed contractor…OR are NOT allowed to operate in an exclusively PRIVATE capacity.
15.2. They may have a vehicle registration but are NOT allowed to remove it or NOT use it during times when they are NOT using the public roadways for hire, which is most of the time. In other words, the vehicle is the equivalent to “off duty” at some times. They allow police officers, who are PUBLIC officers, to be off duty, but not anyone who DOESN’T work for the government.

16. Issue or demand GOVERNMENT ID and then presume that the applicant is a statutory “resident” for ALL purposes, rather than JUST the specific reason the ID was issued. Since a “resident” is a public officer, in effect they are PRESUMING that you are a public officer 24 hours a day, 7 days a week, and that you HAVE to assume this capacity without pay or “benefit” and without the ability to quit. See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002, Section 13.4
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

What all of the above government abuses have in common is that they do one or more of the following:

1. Involve PRESUMPTIONS which violate due process of law and are therefore UNCONSTITUTIONAL. See:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. Refuse to RECOGNIZE the existence of PRIVATE property or PRIVATE rights.

3. Violate the very purpose of establishing government to begin with, which is to PROTECT PRIVATE property by LEAVING IT ALONE and not regulating or benefitting from its use or abuse until AFTER it has been used to injure the equal rights of anyone OTHER than the original owner.

4. Violate the Unconstitutional Conditions Doctrine of the U.S. Supreme Court.

5. Needlessly interfere with the ownership or control of otherwise PRIVATE property.

6. Often act upon property BEFORE it is used to institute an injury, instead of AFTER. Whenever the law acts to PREVENT future harm rather than CORRECT past harm, it requires the consent of the owner. The common law itself only provides remedies for PAST harm and cannot act on future conduct, except in the case of injunctions where PAST harm is already demonstrated.

7. Institute involuntary servitude against the owner in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment.

8. Represent an eminent domain over PRIVATE property in violation of the state constitution in most states.

9. Violate the takings clauses of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.
10. Violate the maxim of law that the government has a duty to protect your right to NOT receive a “benefit” and NOT pay for “benefits” that you don’t want or don’t need.

Invito beneficium non datu.
No one is obliged to accept a benefit against his consent. Dig. 50, 17, 69. But if he does not dissent he will be considered as assenting. Vide Assent.

It ought to be obvious to the reader that the basis for Socialism is public ownership of ALL property.

“Socialism n (1839) 1: any of various economic and political theories advocating collective or governmental ownership and administration of the means of production and distribution of goods. 2 a: a system of society or group living in which there is no private property b: a system or condition of society in which the means of production are owned and controlled by the state 3: a stage of society in Marxist theory transitional between capitalism and communism and distinguished by unequal distribution of goods and pay according to work done.” [Webster’s Ninth New Collegiate Dictionary, ISBN 0-87779-510-X, 1983, p. 1118]

Any system of law that recognizes no absolute and inviolable constitutional boundary between PRIVATE property and PUBLIC property, or which regards ALL property as being subject to government taxation and/or regulation is a socialist or collectivist system. That socialist system is exhaustively described in the following:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Below is how the U.S. Supreme Court characterizes efforts to violate the rules for converting PRIVATE property into PUBLIC property listed above and thereby STEAL PRIVATE property. The text below the following line up to the end of the section comes from the case indicated:

Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)

The question presented, therefore, is one of the greatest importance, — whether it is within the competency of a State to fix the compensation which an individual may receive for the use of his own property in his private business, and for his services in connection with it.

139*139 The validity of the legislation was, among other grounds, assailed in the State court as being in conflict with that provision of the State Constitution which declares that no person shall be deprived of life, liberty, or property without due process of law, and with that provision of the Fourteenth Amendment of the Federal Constitution which imposes a similar restriction upon the action of the State. The State court held, in substance, that the constitutional provision was not violated so long as the owner was not deprived of the title and possession of his property; and that it did not deny to the legislature the power to make all needful rules and regulations respecting the use and enjoyment of the property, referring, in support of the position, to instances of its action in prescribing the interest on money, in establishing and regulating public ferries and public mills, and fixing the compensation in the shape of tolls, and in delegating power to municipal bodies to regulate the charges of hackmen and draymen, and the weight and price of bread. In this court the legislation was also assailed on the same ground, our jurisdiction arising upon the clause of the Fourteenth Amendment, ordaining that no State shall deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. But it would seem from its opinion that the court holds that property loses something of its private character when employed in such a way as to be generally useful. The doctrine declared is that property "becomes clothed with a public interest when used in a manner to make it of public consequence, and affect the community at large;" and from such clothing the right of the legislature is deduced to control the use of the property, and to determine the compensation which the owner may receive for it. When Sir Matthew Hale, and the sages of the law in his day, spoke of property as affected by a public interest, and ceasing from that cause to be juris privati solely, that is, ceasing to be held merely in private right, they referred to property dedicated by the owner to public uses, or to property the use of which was granted by the government, or in connection with which special privileges were conferred. Unless the property was thus dedicated, or some right bestowed by the government was held with the property, either by specific grant or by prescription of so long a time as 140*140 to imply a grant originally, the property was not affected by any public interest so as to be taken out of the category of property held in private right.

But it is not in any such sense that the terms "clothing property with a public interest" are used in this case. From the nature of the business under consideration — the storage of grain — which, in any sense in which the words can be used, is a private business, in which the public are interested only as they are interested in the storage of other products of the soil, or in articles of manufacture, it is clear that the court intended to declare that, whenever one devotes his property to a business which is useful to the public, — "affects the community at large," — the legislature can regulate the compensation which the owner may receive for its use, and for his own services in connection with it. "When, therefore," says the court, "one devotes his property to a use in which the public has an interest, he, in effect, grants to the public an interest in that use, and must submit to be controlled by the public for the common good, to the extent of the interest he has thus created. He may withdraw his grant by discontinuing the use; but, so long as he maintains the use, he must submit to the control." The building used by the defendants was for the storage of grain: in such storage, says the court, the public has an interest; therefore the defendants, by devoting the building to that storage, have granted the public an interest in that use, and must submit to have their compensation regulated by the legislature.

If this be sound law, if there be no protection, either in the principles upon which our republican government is founded, or in the prohibitions of the Constitution against such invasion of private rights, all property and all business in the State are held at the mercy of a majority of its legislature. The public has no greater interest in the use of buildings for the storage of grain than it has in the use of buildings for the residences of families, nor, indeed, anything like so great an interest; and, according to the doctrine announced, the legislature may fix the rent of all tenements used for residences, without reference to the cost of their erection. If the owner does not like the rates prescribed, he may cease renting his houses. He has granted to the public, says the court, an interest in the use of the 141*141 buildings, and "he may withdraw his grant by discontinuing the use; but, so long as he maintains the use, he must submit to the control." The public is interested in the manufacture of cotton, woollen, and silken fabrics, in the construction of machinery, in the printing and publication of books and periodicals, and in the making of utensils of every variety, useful and ornamental; indeed, there is hardly an enterprise or business engaging the attention and labor of any considerable portion of the community, in which the public has not an interest in the sense in which that term is used by the court in its opinion; and the doctrine which allows the legislature to interfere with and regulate the charges which the owners of property thus employed shall make for its use, that is, the rates at which all these different kinds of business shall be carried on, has never before been asserted, so far as I am aware, by any judicial tribunal in the United States.

The doctrine of the State court, that no one is deprived of his property, within the meaning of the constitutional inhibition, so long as he retains its title and possession, and the doctrine of this court, that, whenever one's property is used in such a manner as to affect the community at large, it becomes by that fact clothed with a public interest, and ceases to be juris privat only, appear to me to destroy, for all useful purposes, the efficacy of the constitutional guaranty. All that is beneficial in property arises from its use, and the fruits of that use; and whatever deprives a person of them deprives him of all that is desirable or valuable in the title and possession. If the constitutional guaranty extends no further than to prevent a deprivation of title and possession, and allows a deprivation of use, and the fruits of that use, it does not merit the encomiums it has received. Unless I have misread the history of the provision now incorporated into all our State constitutions, and by the Fifth and Fourteenth Amendments into our Federal Constitution, and have misunderstood the interpretation it has received, it is not thus limited in its scope, and thus impotent for good. It has a much more extended operation than either court, State, or Federal has given to it. The provision, it is to be observed, places property under the same protection as life and liberty. Except by due process of law, no State can 142*142 deprive any person of either. The provision has been supposed to secure to every individual the essential conditions for the pursuit of happiness; and for that reason has not been heretofore, and should never be, construed in any narrow or restricted sense.

No State "shall deprive any person of life, liberty, or property without due process of law," says the Fourteenth Amendment to the Constitution. By the term "life," as here used, something more is meant than mere animal existence. The inhibition against its deprivation extends to all those limbs and faculties by which life is enjoyed. The provision equally prohibits the mutilation of the body by the amputation of an arm or leg, or the putting out of an eye, or the destruction of any other organ of the body through which the soul communicates with the outer world. The deprivation not only of life, but of whatever God has given to everyone with life, for its growth and enjoyment, is prohibited by the provision in question, if its efficacy be not frittered away by judicial decision.
By the term "liberty," as used in the provision, something more is meant than mere freedom from physical restraint or the bounds of a prison. It means freedom to go where one may choose, and to act in such manner, not inconsistent with the equal rights of others, as his judgment may dictate for the promotion of his happiness; that is, to pursue such callings and avocations as may be most suitable to develop his capacities, and give to them their highest enjoyment.

The same liberal construction which is required for the protection of life and liberty, in all particulars in which life and liberty are of any value, should be applied to the protection of private property. If the legislature of a State, under pretence of providing for the public good, or for any other reason, can determine, against the consent of the owner, the uses to which private property shall be devoted, or the prices which the owner shall receive for its uses, it can deprive him of the property as completely as by a special act for its confiscation or destruction. If, for instance, the owner is prohibited from using his building for the purposes for which it was designed, it is of little consequence that he is permitted to retain the title and possession; or, if he is compelled to take as compensation for its use less than the expenses to which he is subjected by its ownership, he is, for all practical purposes, deprived of the property, as effectually as if the legislature had ordered his forcible dispossess. If it be admitted that the legislature has any control over the compensation, the extent of that compensation becomes a mere matter of legislative discretion. The amount fixed will operate as a partial destruction of the value of the property, if it fall below the amount which the owner would obtain by contract, and, practically, as a complete destruction, if it be less than the cost of retaining its possession. There is, indeed, no protection of any value under the constitutional provision, which does not extend to the use and income of the property, as well as to its title and possession.

This court has heretofore held in many instances that a constitutional provision intended for the protection of rights of private property should be liberally construed. It has so held in the numerous cases where it has been called upon to give effect to the provision prohibiting the States from legislation impairing the obligation of contracts; the provision being construed to secure from direct attack not only the contract itself, but all the essential incidents which give it value and enable its owner to enforce it. Thus, in Bronson v. Kinzie, reported in the 1st of Howard, it was held that an act of the legislature of Illinois, giving to a mortgagor twelve months within which to redeem his mortgaged property from a judicial sale, and prohibiting its sale for less than two-thirds of its appraised value, was void as applied to mortgages executed prior to its passage. It was contended, in support of the act, that it affected only the remedy of the mortgagee, and did not impair the contract; but the court replied that there was no substance in the argument, and that the provision was a distinct interference with the rights of the mortgagor. In the same year, in the case of Crutcher v. Ellet, the Court again sustained the principle against a legislation impairing the obligation of a contract. In speaking of the power of a legislature to impair the obligation of a contract, the Court said: "It would be a very curious and unsatisfactory result, if, in construing a provision of constitutional law, always understood to have been adopted for protection and security to the rights of the individual as against the government, and which has received the commendation of jurists, statesmen, and commentators, as placing the just principles of the common law on that subject beyond the power of ordinary legislation to change or control them, it shall be held that, if the government refrains from the absolute conversion of real property to the uses of the public, it can destroy its value entirely, can inflict irreparable and permanent injury to any extent, can, in effect, subject it to total destruction without making any compensation, because, in the narrowest sense of the word, it is not taken for the public use. Such a construction would pervert the constitutional provision into a restriction on the rights of the citizen, as those rights stood at the common law, instead of the government, and make it an authority for invasion of private right under the pretext of the public good, which had no warrant in the laws or practices of our ancestors."

And in Pumpelly v. Green Bay Company, 13 Wall. 177, the language of the court is equally emphatic. That case arose in Wisconsin, the constitution of which declares, like the constitutions of nearly all the States, that private property shall not be taken for public use without just compensation; and this court held that the flooding of one's land by a dam constructed across a river under a law of the State was a taking within the prohibition, and required compensation to be made to the owner of the land thus flooded. The court, speaking through Mr. Justice Miller, said: —
The views expressed in these citations, applied to this case, would render the constitutional provision invoked by the defendants effectual to protect them in the uses, income, and revenues of their property, as well as in its title and possession. The construction actually given by the State court and by this court makes the provision, in the language of Taney, a protection to "a mere barren and abstract right, without any practical operation upon the business of life," and renders it "illusive and nugatory, mere words of form, affording no protection and producing no practical result."

The power of the State over the property of the citizen under the constitutional guaranty is well defined. The State may take his property for public uses, upon just compensation being made therefor. It may take a portion of his property by way of taxation for the support of the government. It may control the use and possession of his property, so far as may be necessary for the protection of the rights of others, and to secure to them the equal use and enjoyment of their property. The doctrine that each one must so use his own as not to injure his neighbor — sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas — is the rule by which every member of society must possess and enjoy his property; and all legislation essential to secure this common and equal enjoyment is a legitimate exercise of State authority. Except in cases where property may be destroyed to arrest a conflagration or the ravages of pestilence, or be taken under the pressure of an immediate and overwhelming necessity to prevent a public calamity, the power of the State over the property of the citizen does not extend beyond such limits.

It is true that the legislation which secures to all protection in their rights, and the equal use and enjoyment of their property, embraces an almost infinite variety of subjects. Whatever affects the peace, good order, morals, and health of the community, comes within its scope; and every one must use and enjoy his property subject to the restrictions which such legislation imposes. What is termed the police power of the State, which, from the language often used respecting it, one would suppose to be an undefined and irresponsible element in government, can only interfere with the conduct of individuals in their intercourse with each other, and in the use of their property, so far 146*146 as may be required to secure these objects. The compensation which the owners of property, not having any special rights or privileges from the government in connection with it, may demand for its use, or for their own services in union with it, forms no element of consideration in prescribing regulations for that purpose. If one construct a building in a city, the State, or the municipality exercising a delegated power from the State, may require its walls to be of sufficient thickness for the uses intended; it may forbid the employment of inflammable materials in its construction, so as not to endanger the safety of his neighbors; if designed as a theatre, church, or public hall, it may prescribe ample means of egress, so as to afford facility for escape in case of accident; it may forbid the storage in it of powder, nitro-glycerine, or other explosive material; it may require its occupants daily to remove decayed vegetable and animal matter, which would otherwise accumulate and engender disease; it may exclude from it all occupations and business calculated to disturb the neighborhood or infect the air. Indeed, there is no end of regulations with respect to the use of property which may not be legitimately prescribed, having for their object the peace, good order, safety, and health of the community, thus securing to all the equal enjoyment of their property; but in establishing these regulations it is evident that compensation to the owner for the use of his property, or for his services in union with it, is not a matter of any importance: whether it be one sum or another does not affect the regulation, either in respect to its utility or mode of enforcement. One may go, in like manner, through the whole round of regulations authorized by legislation, State or municipal, under what is termed the police power, and in no instance will he find that the compensation of the owner for the use of his property has any influence in establishing them. It is only where some right or privilege is conferred by the government or municipality upon the owner, which he can use in connection with his property, or by means of which the use of his property is rendered more valuable to him, or he thereby enjoys an advantage over others, that the compensation to be received by him becomes a legitimate matter of regulation. Submission to the regulation of compensation in such cases is an implied condition 147*147 of the grant, and the State, in exercising its power of prescribing the compensation, only determines the conditions upon which its concession shall be enjoyed. When the privilege ends, the power of regulation ceases.

Jurists and writers on public law find authority for the exercise of this police power of the State and the numerous regulations which it prescribes in the doctrine already stated, that everyone must use and enjoy his property consistently with the rights of others, and the equal use and enjoyment by them of their property. "The police power of the State," says the Supreme Court of Vermont, "extends to the protection of the lives, limbs, health, comfort, and quiet of all persons, and the protection of all property in the State. According to the maxim, sic utere tuo ut alienum non lædas, which, being of universal application, it must, of course, be within the range of legislative action to define the mode and manner in which every one may so use his own as not to injure others." Thorne v. Rutland & Burlington Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 149. "We think it a settled principle growing out of the nature of well-ordered civil society," says the Supreme Court of Massachusetts, "that every holder of property, however absolute and unqualified may be his title, holds it under the implied liability that his use of it shall not be injurious to the equal enjoyment of others having an equal right to the enjoyment of their property, nor injurious to the rights..."

of the community.” Commonwealth v. Alger, 7 Cush. 84. In his Commentaries, after speaking of the protection afforded by the Constitution to private property, Chancellor Kent says: —

“But though property be thus protected, it is still to be understood that the law-giver has the right to prescribe the mode and manner of using it, so far as may be necessary to prevent the abuse of the right, to the injury or annoyance of others, or of the public. The government may, by general regulations, interdict such uses of property as would create nuisances and become dangerous to the lives, or health, or peace, or comfort of the citizens. Unwholesome trades, slaughter-houses, operations offensive to the senses, the deposit of powder, the application of steam-power to propel cars, the building with combustible materials, and the burial of the dead, may all be interdicted by law, in the midst of dense masses of population, 149*149 on the general and rational principle that every person ought so to use his property as not to injure his neighbors, and that private interests must be made subservient to the general interests of the community. 2 Kent, 340.

The Italics in these citations are mine. The citations show what I have already stated to be the case, that the regulations which the State, in the exercise of its police power, authorizes with respect to the use of property are entirely independent of any question of compensation for such use, or for the services of the owner in connection with it.

There is nothing in the character of the business of the defendants as warehousemen which called for the interference complained of in this case. Their buildings are not nuisances; their occupation of receiving and storing grain infringes upon no rights of others, disturbs no neighborhood, infects not the air, and in no respect prevents others from using and enjoying their property as to them may seem best. The legislation in question is nothing less than a bold assertion of absolute power by the State to control at its discretion the property and business of the citizen, and fix the compensation he shall receive. The will of the legislature is made the condition upon which the owner shall receive the fruits of his property and the just reward of his labor, industry, and enterprise. “That government,” says Story, “can scarcely be deemed to be free where the rights of property are left solely dependent upon the will of a legislative body without any restraint. The fundamental maxims of a free government seem to require that the rights of personal liberty and private property should be held sacred.” Wilkeson v. Leland, 2 Pet. 657. The decision of the court in this case gives unrestrained license to legislative will.

The several instances mentioned by counsel in the argument and by the court in its opinion, in which legislation has fixed the compensation which parties may receive for the use of their property and services, do not militate against the views I have expressed of the power of the State over the property of the citizen. They were mostly cases of public ferries, bridges, and turnpikes, of wharfingers, hackmen, and draymen, and of interest on money. In all these cases, except that of interest on money, which I shall presently notice there was some special 149*149 privilege granted by the State or municipality; and no one, I suppose, has ever contended that the State had not a right to prescribe the conditions upon which such privilege should be enjoyed. The State in such cases exercises no greater right than an individual may exercise over the use of his own property when leased or loaned to others. The conditions upon which the privilege shall be enjoyed being stated or implied in the legislation authorizing its grant, no right is, of course, impaired by their enforcement. The recipient of the privilege, in effect, stipulates to comply with the conditions. It matters not how limited the privilege conferred, its acceptance implies an assent to the regulation of its use and the compensation for it. The privilege which the hackman and drayman have to the use of stands on the public streets, not allowed to the ordinary coachman or laborer with teams, constitutes a sufficient warrant for the regulation of their fares. In the case of the warehousemen of Chicago, no right or privilege is conferred by the government upon them; and hence no assent of theirs can be alleged to justify any interference with their charges for the use of their property.

The quotations from the writings of Sir Matthew Hale, so far from supporting the positions of the court, do not recognize the interference of the government, even to the extent which I have admitted to be legitimate. They state merely that the franchise of a public ferry belongs to the king, and cannot be used by the subject except by license from him, or prescription time out of mind; and that when the subject has a public wharf by license from the king, or from having dedicated his private wharf to the public, as in the case of a street opened by him through his own land, he must allow the use of the wharf for reasonable and moderate charges. Thus, in the first quotation which is taken from his treatise De Jure Maris, Hale says that the king has “a right of franchise or privilege, that no man may set up a common ferry for all passengers without a prescription time out of mind or a charter from the king. He may make a ferry for his own use or the use of his family, but not for the common use of all the king’s subjects passing that way; because it doth in consequent tend to a common charge, and is become a thing of public interest and use, and every man for his passage 150*150 pays a toll, which is a common charge, and every ferry ought to be under a public regulation, viz., that it give attendance at due times, keep a boat in due order, and take but reasonable toll; for if he fail in these he is fined.”

Of course, one who obtains a license from the king to establish a public ferry, at which "every man for his passage pays a toll," must take it on condition that he charge only reasonable toll, and, indeed, subject to such regulations as the king may prescribe.

In the second quotation, which is taken from his treatise De Portibus Maris, Hale says: —

"A man, for his own private advantage, may, in a port or town, set up a wharf or crane, and may take what rates he and his customers can agree for cranage, wharfage, housellage, pesage; for he doth no more than is lawful for any man to do, viz., makes the most of his own. If the king or subject have a public wharf, unto which all persons that come to that port must come and unlade or lade their goods as for the purpose, because they are the wharves only licensed by the king, or because there is no other wharf in that port, as it may fall out where a port is newly erected, in that case there cannot be taken arbitrary and excessive duties for cranage, wharfage, pesage, &c.; neither can they be enhanced to an immoderate rate, but the duties must be reasonable and moderate, though settled by the king's license or charter. For now the wharf and crane and other conveniences are affected with a public interest, and they cease to be juris privati only; as if a man set out a street in new building on his own land, it is now no longer bare private interest, but is affected by the public interest."

The purport of which is, that if one have a public wharf, by license from the government or his own dedication, he must exact only reasonable compensation for its use. By its dedication to public use, a wharf is as much brought under the common-law rule of subjection to reasonable charges as it would be if originally established or licensed by the crown. All property dedicated to public use by an individual owner, as in the case of land for a park or street, falls at once, by force of the dedication, under the law governing property appropriated by the government for similar purposes.

I do not doubt the justice of the encomiums passed upon Sir 151*151 Matthew Hale as a learned jurist of his day; but I am unable to perceive the pertinency of his observations upon public ferries and public wharves, found in his treatises on "The Rights of the Sea" and on "The Ports of the Sea," to the questions presented by the warehousing law of Illinois, undertaking to regulate the compensation received by the owners of private property, when that property is used for private purposes.

The principal authority cited in support of the ruling of the court is that of Alnutt v. Inglis, decided by the King's Bench, and reported in 12 East. But that case, so far from sustaining the ruling, establishes, in my judgment, the doctrine that everyone has a right to charge for his property, or for its use, whatever he pleases, unless he enjoys in connection with it some right or privilege from the government not accorded to others; and even then it only decides what is above stated in the quotations from Sir Matthew Hale, that he must submit, so long as he retains the right or privilege, to reasonable rates. In that case, the London Dock Company, under certain acts of Parliament, possessed the exclusive right of receiving imported goods into their warehouses before the duties were paid; and the question was whether the company was bound to receive them for a reasonable reward, or whether it could arbitrarily fix its compensation. In deciding the case, the Chief Justice, Lord Ellenborough, said: —

"There is no doubt that the general principle is favored, both in law and justice, that every man may fix what price he pleases upon his own property, or the use of it; but if, for a particular purpose, the public have a right to resort to his premises and make use of them, and he have a monopoly in them for that purpose, if he will take the benefit of that monopoly, he must, as an equivalent, perform the duty attached to it on reasonable terms."

And, coming to the conclusion that the company's warehouses were invested with "the monopoly of a public privilege," he held that by law the company must confine itself to take reasonable rates; and added, that if the crown should thereafter think it advisable to extend the privilege more generally to other persons and places, so that the public would not be restrained from exercising a choice of warehouses for the purpose, the company might be enfranchised from the restriction which 152*152 attached to a monopoly; but, so long as its warehouses were the only places which could be resorted to for that purpose, the company was bound to let the trade have the use of them for a reasonable hire and reward. The other judges of the court placed their concurrence in the decision upon the ground that the company possessed a legal monopoly of the business, having the only warehouses where goods imported could be lawfully received without previous payment of the duties. From this case it appears that it is only where some privilege in the bestowal of the government is enjoyed in connection with the property, that it is affected with a public interest in any proper sense of the terms. It is the public privilege conferred with the use of the property which creates the public interest in it.

In the case decided by the Supreme Court of Alabama, where a power granted to the city of Mobile to license bakers, and to regulate the weight and price of bread, was sustained so far as regulating the weight of the bread was concerned, no question was made as to the right to regulate the price. 3 Ala. 137. There is no doubt of the competency of the State to prescribe the weight of a loaf of bread, as it may declare what weight shall constitute a pound or a ton. But I deny the power of any legislature under our government to fix the price which one shall receive for his property of any kind. If the power can be... exercised as to one article, it may as to all articles, and the prices of everything, from a calico gown to a city mansion, may be the subject of legislative direction.

Other instances of a similar character may, no doubt, be cited of attempted legislative interference with the rights of property. The act of Congress of 1820, mentioned by the court, is one of them. There Congress undertook to confer upon the city of Washington power to regulate the rates of wharfage at private wharves, and the fees for sweeping chimneys. Until some authoritative adjudication is had upon these and similar provisions, I must adhere, notwithstanding the legislation, to my opinion, that those who own property have the right to fix the compensation at which they will allow its use, and that those who control services have a right to fix the compensation at which they will be rendered. The chimney-sweeps may, I think, safely claim all the compensation which 153*153 they can obtain by bargain for their work. In the absence of any contract for property or services, the law allows only a reasonable price or compensation; but what is a reasonable price in any case will depend upon a variety of considerations, and is not a matter for legislative determination.

The practice of regulating by legislation the interest receivable for the use of money, when considered with reference to its origin, is only the assertion of a right of the government to control the extent to which a privilege granted by it may be exercised and enjoyed. By the ancient common law it was unlawful to take any money for the use of money: all who did so were called usurers, a term of great reproach, and were exposed to the censure of the church; and if, after the death of a person, it was discovered that he had been a usurer whilst living, his chattels were forfeited to the king, and his lands escheated to the lord of the fee. No action could be maintained on any promise to pay for the use of money, because of the unlawfulness of the contract. Whilst the common law thus condemned all usury, Parliament interfered, and made it lawful to take a limited amount of interest. It was not upon the theory that the legislature could arbitrarily fix the compensation which one could receive for the use of property, which, by the general law, was the subject of hire for compensation, that Parliament acted, but in order to confer a privilege which the common law denied. The reasons which led to this legislation originally have long since ceased to exist; and if the legislation is still persisted in, it is because a long acquiescence in the exercise of a power, especially when it was rightfully assumed in the first instance, is generally received as sufficient evidence of its continued lawfulness. 10 Bac. Abr. 264.[*]

There were also recognized in England, by the ancient common law, certain privileges as belonging to the lord of the manor, which grew out of the state of the country, the condition of the people, and the relation existing between him and 154*154 his tenants under the feudal system. Among these was the right of the lord to compel all the tenants within his manor to grind their corn at his mill. No one, therefore, could set up a mill except by his license, or by the license of the crown, unless he claimed the right by prescription, which presupposed a grant from the lord or crown, and, of course, with such license went the right to regulate the tolls to be received. Woolrych on the Law of Waters, c. 6, of Mills. Hence originated the doctrine which at one time obtained generally in this country, that there could be no mill to grind corn for the public, without a grant or license from the public authorities. It is still, I believe, asserted in some States. This doctrine being recognized, all the rest followed. The right to control the toll accompanied the right to control the establishment of the mill.

It requires no comment to point out the radical differences between the cases of public mills and interest on money, and that of the warehouses in Chicago. No prerogative or privilege of the crown to establish warehouses was ever asserted at the common law. The business of a warehouseman was, at common law, a private business and is so in its nature. It has no special privileges connected with it, nor did the law ever extend to it any greater protection than it extended to all other private business. No reason can be assigned to justify legislation interfering with the legitimate profits of that business, that would not equally justify an intermeddling with the business of every man in the community, so soon, at least, as his business became generally useful.

5.6.12.4.13 The public office is a “fiction of law”

The fictitious public office and “trade or business” to which all the government’s enforcement rights attach is called a “fiction of law” by some judges. Here is the definition:

“Fiction of law. An assumption or supposition of law that something which is or may be false is true, or that a state of facts exists which has never really taken place. An assumption [PRESUMPTION], for purposes of justice, of a fact that does not or may not exist. A rule of law which assumes as true, and will not allow to be disproved, something which is false, but not impossible. Roux v. Motor Credit Co., 30 N.J.Eq. 531, 23 A.2d. 607, 621. These assumptions are of an innocent or even beneficial character, and are made for the advancement of the ends of justice. They secure this end chiefly by the extension of procedure from cases to which it is applicable to other cases to which it is not strictly applicable, the ground of inapplicability being some difference of an immaterial character. See also Legal fiction.” (Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 623)

The key elements of all fictions of law from the above are:
1. A PRESUMPTION of the existence or truth of an otherwise nonexistent thing.
2. The presumptions are of an INNOCENT or BENEFICIAL character.
3. The presumptions are made for the advancement of the ends of justice.
4. All of the above goals are satisfied against BOTH parties to the dispute, not just the government. Otherwise the constitutional requirement for equal protection and equal treatment has been transgressed.

The fictitious public office that forms the heart of the modern SCAM income tax clearly does not satisfy the elements for being a “fiction of law” because:

1. All presumptions that violate due process of law or result in an injury to EITHER party affected by the presumption are unconstitutional. See:

   Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
   [http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm]

2. The presumption does not benefit BOTH parties to a dispute that involves it. It ONLY benefits the government at the expense of innocent nontaxpayers and EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE parties.
3. The presumption of the existence of the BOGUS office does NOT advance justice for BOTH parties who to any dispute involving it. The legal definition of justice is the RIGHT TO BE LEFT ALONE. The presumption of the existence of the BOGUS office ensures that those who do not want to volunteer for the office but who are the subject of FALSE information returns are NEVER left alone and are continually harassed illegally by the IRS. Here is the legal definition of “justice” so you can see for yourself:

   “PAULSEN, ETHICS (Thilly’s translation), chap. 9.

   Justice, as a moral habit, is that tendency of the will and mode of conduct which refrains from disturbing the lives and interests of others [INCLUDING US] and, as far as possible, hinders such interference on the part of others. This virtue springs from the individual’s respect for his fellows as ends in themselves and as his co-equals. The different spheres of interests may be roughly classified as follows: body and life; the family, or the extended individual life; property, or the totality of the instruments of action; honor, or the ideal existence; and finally freedom, or the possibility of fashioning one’s life as an end in itself. The law defends these different spheres, thus giving rise to a corresponding number of spheres of rights, each being protected by a prohibition. . .  To violate the rights, to interfere with the interests of others, is injustice. All injustice is ultimately directed against the life of the neighbor; it is an open avowal that the latter is not an end in itself, having the same value as the individual’s own life. The general formula of the duty of justice may therefore be stated as follows: Do no wrong yourself, and permit no wrong to be done, so far as lies in your power; or, expressed positively: Respect and protect the right.”

Therefore it is clearly a CRUEL FRAUD for any judge to justify his PRESUMPTION of the existence of the BOGUS public office that is the subject of the excise tax by calling it a “fiction of law”.

If you want to see an example of WHY this fiction of law was created as a way to usurp jurisdiction, read the following U.S. Supreme Court cite:

    “It is true, that the person who accepts an office may be supposed to enter into a compact to be answerable to the government, which he serves, for any violation of his duty; and, having taken the oath of office, he would unquestionably be liable, in such case, to a prosecution for perjury in the Federal Courts. But because one man, by his own act, renders himself amenable to a particular jurisdiction, shall another man, who has not incurred a similar obligation, be implicated? If, in other words, it is sufficient to vest a jurisdiction in this court, that a Federal Officer is concerned; if it is a sufficient proof of a case arising under a law of the United States to affect other persons, that such officer is bound, by law, to discharge his duty with fidelity; a source of jurisdiction is opened, which must inevitably overflow and destroy all the barriers between the judicial authorities of the State and the general government. Anything which can prevent a Federal Officer from the punctual, as well as from an impartial, performance of his duty; an assault and battery; or the recovery of a debt, as well as the offer of a bribe, may be made a foundation of the jurisdiction of this court; and, considering the constant disposition of power to extend the sphere of its influence, fictions will be resorted to, when real cases cease to occur. A mere fiction, that the defendant is in the custody of the marshall, has rendered the jurisdiction of the King’s Bench universal in all personal actions.”

   [United States v. Worrall, 2 U.S. 384 (1798)]

The reason for the controversy in the above case was that the bribe occurred on state land by a nonresident domiciled in the state, and therefore that federal law did not apply. In the above case, the court admitted that a "fiction" was resorted to usurp jurisdiction because no legal authority could be found. The fact that the defendant was in custody created the jurisdiction. It didn't exist before they KIDNAPPED him. Notice also that they mention an implied "compact" or contract related to the office being exercised, and that THAT compact was the source of their jurisdiction over the officer who was bribed. This is the SAME contract to which all those who engage in a statutory "trade or business" are party to.

5.6.12.5 Introduction to the Law of Agency

A very important subject to learn is the law of agency. This law is intimately related to franchises because:

1. All franchises are contracts or agreements.
2. Contracts produce agency.
3. Agency, in turn, is how:
   3.1. PRIVATE property is converted to PUBLIC property.
   3.2. Public rights are associated with otherwise private individuals.
4. Civil statuses such as “taxpayer”, “person”, “spouse”, “driver” are the method of representing the existence of the agency created by contracts and franchises.

In the following subsections, we will summarize the law of agency so that you can see how franchises implement it and thereby adversely impact and take away your PRIVATE rights by converting them to PUBLIC rights, often without your knowledge. Exploitation of the ignorance of the average American about this subject is the main method that governments use to unwittingly recruit more taxpayers, surety for government debt, and public officers called “citizens” and “residents”.

If you would like to study the law of agency from a legal perspective, please read the following exhaustive free treatise at

5.6.12.5.1 Agency generally

Entire legal treaties hundreds of pages in length have been written about the laws of agency. To save you the trouble of reading them, we summarize the basics below:

1. The great bulk of trade and commerce in the world is carried on through the instrumentalty of agents; that is to say, persons acting under authority delegated to them by others, and not in their own right or on their own account.
2. Parties: There are two parties involved in agency:
   2.1. The principal, who is the person delegating the authority or consent.
   2.2. The agent, who is the person receiving the authority.
3. Who is a principal: A person of sound independent mind who delegates authority to the agent. He is legally responsible or liable for the acts of the agent, so long as the agent is doing a lawful act authorized by the principal in his/her sui juris capacity.
4. Who is an agent: An agent-- sometimes called servant, representative, delegate, proxy, attorney-- is a person who undertakes, by some subsequent ratification of the principal, to transact some business or manage some affair for the latter, and to render an account of it. He is a substitute for a person, employed to manage the affairs of another. He is a person duly authorized to act on behalf of another, or one whose unauthorized act has been duly ratified. There are various classes of agents, each of which is known or recognized by some distinctive appellation or name; as factor, broker, employee, representative, etc.
5. What is agency: A legal relation, founded upon the express or implied contract of the parties, or created by law, by virtue of which one party—the agent—is employed or authorized to represent and act for the other—the principal—in business dealings with third persons.
6. Agency is usually acquired by contract. Contracts are not enforceable without consideration. Therefore, to prove that the agency was lawfully created, the principal has the burden of proving that the Agent received “consideration” or “benefit” not as the PRINCIPAL defines it, but as the AGENT defines it. We cover this in:

---

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

7. Fundamental Principles of Agency: The fundamental principles of the law agency are:

   1. Whoever a person does through another, he does through himself.
   2. He who does not act through the medium of another is, in law, considered as having done it himself.
   3. Those who act through agents must have the legal capacity to do so. That is:
      - 3.1. Lunatics, infants, and idiots cannot delegate authority to someone to manage affairs that they themselves are incapable of managing personally.
      - 3.2. Those who delegate authority must be of legal age.
      - 3.3. The act to be delegated must be lawful. You cannot enforce a contract that delegates authority to commit a crime.
   4. The principal is usually liable for the acts of his agent. He is not liable in all cases for the torts of his agent or employee, but only for those acts committed in the course of the agency or employment; while the agent himself is, in such cases, for reasons of public policy, also liable for the same. Broom Legal Maxims 843.
   5. Those who receive the “benefits” of agency have a reciprocal duty to suffer the obligations also associated with it.
   6. Each specific form of agency we voluntarily and explicitly accept has a specific civil status associated with it in the civil statutory law. Such statuses include:
      - 6.1. “Taxpayer” under the tax code.
      - 6.2. “Driver” under the vehicle code.
      - 6.3. “Spouse” under the family code.
   7. Certain types of agency and the obligations attached to the agency may not be enforceable in court between the parties. These include:
      - 7.1. Agency to commit a crime. This is called a conspiracy.
      - 7.2. An alienation by the principle of an INALIENABLE right. This includes any surrender of constitutional rights by a state citizen protected by the Constitution to any government, even with consent.

5.6.12.5.2 Agency within the Bible

God is a spiritual being who most people have never seen in physical form. As such, to influence the affairs of this physical Earth, He must act through His agents. Those agents are called believers, Christians, “god’s family”, etc. in the case of Christianity. The law of agency governs His acts and the consequences of those acts as He influences the affairs of this Earth. This chapter will therefore summarize the law of agency so that it can be applied to the Bible, which we will regard in this document as a delegation order that circumscribes the exercise of God’s agency on Earth by believers.

It is very important to study and know the law of agency, because the Bible itself is in fact a delegation of authority from God to believers. That delegation of authority occurred when God created the Earth in the book of Genesis and commanded Adam and Eve to have dominion over the Earth:

> Then God said, “Let Us make man in Our image, according to Our likeness; let them have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over the cattle, over all the earth and over every creeping thing that creeps on the earth.” So God created man in His own image; in the image of God He created him; male and female He created them. Then God blessed them, and God said to them, “Be fruitful and multiply; fill the earth and subdue it; have dominion over the fish of the sea, over the birds of the air, and over every living thing that moves on the earth.”

[Gen. 1:26-28, Bible, NKJV]

Now some facts as we understand them about agency in the Bible:

1. God describes himself as Law itself:

   > “In the beginning was the Word, and the Word was with God, and the Word was God. He was in the beginning with God. All things were made through Him, and without Him nothing was made that was made. In Him was life, and the life was the light of men. And the light shines in the darkness, and the darkness did not comprehend it.”

   [John 1:1-5, Bible, NKJV]

2. Those who sin are what Jesus called “lawless”. Matt. 7:23. The word “sin” in Latin means “without”. The thing that people who sin are “without” is the authority of God and His laws.

3. The “Kingdom of Heaven” is defined in scripture as “God’s will displayed on Earth”. See:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

4. Christians are “subjects” in the “Kingdom of Heaven”. Psalm 47:7. A “subject” is an agent and franchise of a specific “king”. The Kingdom of Heaven is a private corporation and franchise created and granted by God and not Caesar. As such, those who are members of it owe nothing to Caesar to receive the “benefits” of participation in it. The creator of a thing is always the owner. See:

Hierarchy of Sovereignty: The Power to Create is the Power to Tax, Family Guardian Fellowship
http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Remedies/PowerToCreate.htm

5. Those who are acting as agents of God are referred to as being “in Him”. By that we mean they are legally rather than physically WITHIN the corporation of the Kingdom of Heaven as agents and officers of God in Heaven.

“My mother and My brothers are these who hear the word of God and do it.” [Luke 8:21, Bible, NKJV]

“He who has [understands and learns] My commandments [laws in the Bible (OFFSITE LINK)] and keeps them, it is he who loves Me. And he who loves Me will be loved by My Father, and I will love him and manifest Myself to him.” [John 14:21, Bible, NKJV]

“And we have known and believed the love that God has for us. God is love, and he who abides in love [obedience to God’s Laws] abides in [and is a FIDUCIARY of] God, and God in him.” [1 John 4:16, Bible, NKJV]

“Now by this we know that we know Him [God], if we keep His commandments. He who says, “I know Him,” and does not keep His commandments, is a liar, and the truth is not in him. But whoever keeps His word, truly the love of God is perfected in him. By this we know that we are in Him [His fiduciaries]. He who says he abides in Him [as a fiduciary] ought himself also to walk just as He [Jesus] walked.” [1 John 2:3-6, Bible, NKJV]

6. Those who accept God and become believers take on a new identity, which in effect is that of an agent and servant of God:

Character of the New Man

Therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, put on tender mercies, kindness, humility, meekness, longsuffering; bearing with one another, and forgiving one another, if anyone has a complaint against another; even as Christ forgave you, so you also must do. But above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfection. And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also you were called in one body; and be thankful. Let the word of Christ dwell in you richly in all wisdom, teaching and admonishing one another in psalms and hymns and spiritual songs, singing with grace in your hearts to the Lord. And whatever you do in word or deed, do all in the name of the Lord Jesus, giving thanks to God the Father through Him. [Colossians 3:12-17, Bible, NKJV]

The “one body” spoken of above is the private corporation called the “Kingdom of Heaven” to put it in legal terms. When it says “Let the word of Christ dwell in you”, he means to follow your delegation order, which is God’s word. When it says “do all in the name of the Lord Jesus”, they mean that you are acting as an AGENT of the Lord Jesus 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. If God gets the credit or the “benefit”, then He is the REAL actor and responsible party under the law of agency.

7. Those who accept God and become believers take on a new identity, which in effect is that of an agent and servant of God:

Character of the New Man

Therefore, as the elect of God, holy and beloved, put on tender mercies, kindness, humility, meekness, longsuffering; bearing with one another, and forgiving one another, if anyone has a complaint against another; even as Christ forgave you, so you also must do. But above all these things put on love, which is the bond of perfection. And let the peace of God rule in your hearts, to which also you were called in one body; and be thankful. The “one body” spoken of above is the private corporation called the “Kingdom of Heaven” to put it in legal terms. When it says “Let the word of Christ dwell in you”, he means to follow your delegation order, which is God’s word. When it says “do all in the name of the Lord Jesus”, they mean that you are acting as an AGENT of the Lord Jesus 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. If God gets the credit or the “benefit”, then He is the REAL actor and responsible party under the law of agency.

8. While acting as “agents” or “servants” of God in strict conformance with God’s delegation of authority order in the Bible, the party liable for the consequences of those acts is the Master or Principal of the agency under the law of agency, which means God and not the person doing the act.

9. The phrase “free exercise of religion” found in the First Amendment refers to our right and ability to be faithful agents of God, 24 hours a day, 7 days a week.

9.1. Any attempt to interfere with the exercise of that agency is an interference of your right to contract.

9.2. Any attempt to command agents of God to violate their delegation order is a violation of the First Amendment. This includes commanding believers to do what God forbids or forbidding them to do what God commands.

10. The law of agency allows that one can fulfill multiple agencies simultaneously. You can be a father, brother, son, employer, employee, taxpayer, citizen (even of multiple countries) all simultaneously, but in different contexts and in relation to different people or “persons”. HOWEVER, the Bible forbids Christians from simultaneously being “subjects” under His law and “subjects” under the civil laws of Caesar. The reason is clear. It creates criminal conflict of interest and conflicting allegiances:

“No one can serve two masters [two Kings or rulers, for instance]; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”

[Luke 16:13, Bible, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]

11. The First Commandment of the Ten Commandments states that we shall not “serve other gods”, meaning idols. To “serve” another god literally means to act as the AGENT of that false god or idol. When you execute the will of another, and especially an EVIL other, you are an agent of that other. Its unavoidable.

12. All agency begins with an act of consent, contract, or agreement.

12.1. Agency cannot lawfully be created WITHOUT consent.

12.2. Since God forbids us from becoming agents of false gods or idols and thereby “serving” them in violation of the First Commandment, He therefore also forbids us from legally allowing or creating that agency by consenting or exercising our right to contract.

“My son, if sinners [socialists, in this case] entice you,
Do not consent [do not abuse your power of choice]
If they say, ‘Come with us,
Let us lie in wait to shed blood [of innocent "nontaxpayers"];
Let us lurk secretly for the innocent without cause;
Let us swallow them alive like Sheol,
And whole, like those who go down to the Pit;
We shall fill our houses with spoil [plunder];
Cast in your lot among us,
Let us all have one purse [the GOVERNMENT socialist purse, and share the stolen LOOT]’--
My son, do not walk in the way with them [do not ASSOCIATE with them and don’t let the government FORCE you to associate with them either by forcing you to become a "taxpayer"/government whore or a "U.S. citizen"],
Keep your foot from their path;
For their feet run to evil,
And they make haste to shed blood,
Surely, in vain the net is spread
In the sight of any bird;
But they lie in wait for their own blood.
They lurk secretly for their own lives.
So are the ways of everyone who is greedy for gain [or unearned government benefits];
It takes away the life of its owners.”

[Proverbs 1:10-19, Bible, NKJV]

[Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

“Awake, awake, O Zion, clothe yourself with strength. Put on your garments of splendor, O Jerusalem, the holy city. The uncircumcised and defiled will not enter you again. Shake off your dust; rise up, sit enthroned, O Daughter of Zion. For this is what the LORD says: ‘You were sold for nothing [free government cheese worth a fraction of what you had to pay them to earn the right to “eat” it], and without money you will be redeemed.”

[Isaiah 52:1-3, Bible, NKJV]
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

For among My [God’s] people are found wicked [covetous public servant] men; They lie in wait as one who sets snares; They set a trap; They catch men. As a cage is full of birds, So their houses are full of deceit. Therefore they have become great and grown rich. They have grown fat, they are sleek; Yes, they surpass the deeds of the wicked; They do not plead the cause, The cause of the fatherless [or the innocent, widows, or the nontaxpayer]; Yet they prosper, And the right of the needy they do not defend. Shall I not punish them for these things?’ says the Lord. ‘Shall I not avenge Myself on such a nation as this?’

“An astonishing and horrible thing Has been committed in the land: The prophets prophesy falsely. And the priests [judges in franchise courts that worship government as a pagan deity] rule by their own power; And My people love to have it so. But what will you do in the end?”

[Jer. 5:26-31, Bible, NKJV]

13. We all sin, and when we do so, we are agents of Satan:

13.1. We are agents of Satan ONLY within the context of that specific sin, and not ALL contexts. Below is a commentary on Luke 4:7 which demonstrates this:

Wilt worship before me ἐπὶ τὸν ἑαυτοῦ μου [προσκυνήσεις ἐνώπιον ἐμοῦ]. Matt. 4:9 has it more bluntly “worship me.” That is what it really comes to, though in Luke the matter is more delicately put. It is a condition of the third class (ἐαν [ean] and the subjunctive). Luke has it “thou therefore if” (ἐάν θύῃ [su own ean]), in a very emphatic and subtle way. It is the ingressive aorist (προσκυνήσεις), just bow the knee once up here in my presence. The temptation was for Jesus to admit Satan’s authority by this act of prostration (fall down and worship), a recognition of authority rather than of personal merit. It shall all be thine (ἐσται σου πασα [estai sou pāsα]). Satan offers to turn over all the keys of world power to Jesus. It was a tremendous grandstand play, but Jesus saw at once that in that case he would be the agent of Satan in the rule of the world by bargain and graft instead of the Son of God by nature and world ruler by conquest over Satan. The heart of Satan’s program is here laid bare. Jesus here rejected the Jewish idea of the Messiah as an earthly ruler merely.

“He rejects Satan as an ally, and thereby has him as an implacable enemy” (Plummer.)

13.2. Those who sin and therefore act as “agents of Satan” are separated or removed from the protection of God and His Law. In effect, they have abandoned their office under His delegation order as Christians and are “off duty” acting in a private capacity rather than as an agent. They are serving or “worshipping” the ego of self rather than a greater being above them.

14. When we do good, we are agents of God fulfilling our delegation of authority order in the Bible. That is why the Bible says to do all for the glory of God RATHER than self.

15. Since we all sin and we all do good, then we serve both God and Satan at different times. In that sense, we are serving God and Mammon at the same time, but in different contexts and in relation to different audiences. For instance:

15.1. When we serve government, we violate the First Commandment by “serving other gods” if that government has any rights above our own or above that of any ordinary man. That’s idolatry.

15.2. We are also sinning and therefore acting as agents of Satan if the government forces us to do things God forbids or NOT do things that He commands.

In other words, we are exceeding our delegation order and therefore are acting in a PRIVATE capacity and therefore outside the protection of God’s law and delegation order. This is EXACTLY the same mechanism that government uses to protect its own agents, and it’s a cheap imitation of how God does the same thing.

If you would like an exhaustive treatise proving that the Bible is in fact a delegation of authority order from God to Christians, please read the following on our site:

5.6.12.5.3 Agency within government

The law of agency dictates the entire organization of government and the legal system it implements and enforces. For instance:

1. The source of sovereignty is the People as individuals.
2. The People as individuals get together and act as a collective to agree on a Constitution. The will of the majority is what delegates that authority.
3. The Constitution then delegates a portion of the sovereign powers of individual humans to public servants using the Constitution.
4. The people then elect “representatives” in the Legislative Branch, who are their agents, to implement the declared intent of the Constitution.

5. The representatives of the people in the Legislative Branch then vote to enact civil statutory codes that implement the Constitution among those who are employed by the government as public servants.

“All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made with [private] individuals.”

“The reason why States are “bodies politic and corporate” is simple: just as a corporation is an entity that can act only through its agents, “the State is a political corporate body, can act only through agents, and can command only by laws.” Pundt v. Greenhow, supra, 114 U.S. at 288, 5 S.Ct. at 912-913. See also Black’s Law Dictionary 159 (5th ed. 1979) (“[Body politic or corporate.” “4 social compact by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good.”). As a “body politic and corporate,” a State falls squarely within the Dictionary Act’s definition of a “person.”

6. The civil statutory codes function in effect as a contract or compact that can and does impose duties only upon agents of the government called “citizens” and “residents”.

6.1. Those who did not consent to BECOME agents of the government called “citizens” or “residents” are non-resident non-persons. They are protected by the Constitution and the common law, rather than the statutory civil law.

6.2. Disputes between “citizens” or “residents” on the one hand, and non-resident non-persons on the other, must be governed by the common law, because otherwise a taking of property without just compensation has occurred in which the rights enforced by the civil law are the property STOLEN by those enforcing it against non-residents.

7. The Executive Branch then executes the statutes, which in effect are their “delegation order”.

7.1. The first step in “executing” the statutes is to write interpretive regulations specifying how the statutes will be implemented.

7.2. The interpretive regulations are then published in the Federal Register to give the public the constitutionally required “reasonable notice” of the obligations they create upon the public, if any.

7.3. When the Executive Branch acts WITHIN the confines of their delegation order, they are agents of the state and are protected by official, judicial, and sovereign immunity.

7.4. When the Executive Branch exceeds their delegation order in the statutes, they are deemed by the courts to be acting in a private capacity and therefore must surrender official, judicial, and sovereign immunity and come down to the level of an ordinary human who has committed a trespass.

8. The Judicial Branch then fulfills the role of arbitrating disputes:

8.1. Under the civils statutory codes, we have disputes between:

8.1.1. The Legislative and Executive Branch.

8.1.2. The government and private humans.

8.1.3. Two humans when they have injured each other.

8.2. Under the constitution and the common law we have disputes between two EQUAL parties which have no duty to each other OTHER than that of “justice” itself, which is legally defined as the right to be left alone.

Some basic principles underlie the above chain of delegation of authority:

1. The People as individuals cannot delegate an authority to THE COLLECTIVE that they do not individually and personally have.

Nemo dat qui non habet. No one can give who does not possess. Jenk. Cent. 250.

Nemo plus juris ad alienum transfere potest, quam ipse habent. One cannot transfer to another a right which he has not. Dig. 50, 17, 54; 10 Pet. 161, 175.

Nemo potest facere per alium quod per se non potest. No one can do that by another which he cannot do by himself.

Qui per alium facit per seipsum facere videtur. He who does anything through another, is considered as doing it himself. Co. Litt. 258.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Quicquid acquirit servo, acquiritur domino. Whatever is acquired by the servant, is acquired for the master.
15 Bin. Ab. 327.

Quod per me non possum, nec per alium. What I cannot do in person, I cannot do by proxy [the Constitution]. 4 Co. 24.

What a man cannot transfer, he cannot bind by articles [the Constitution].

[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856; SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

2. The People as a collective cannot delegate an authority to a government through a Constitution that the people individually and personally do not also have.

3. Those receiving an authority delegated through the Constitution have a fiduciary duty to the public they serve:

“As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trust. That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves, and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual.

Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy.

[63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]

4. The agent or public servant cannot be greater than or have more rights or powers than his master in the eyes of the law. In other words, public servants and people they serve must be EQUAL in the eyes of the law at all times:

Remember the word that I [Jesus] said to you, “A [public] servant is not greater than his master.” If they persecuted Me, they will also persecute you. If they kept My word, they will keep yours also.

[John 15:20, Bible, NKJV]

5. The act of delegating specific authority from a private human with unalienable rights cannot cause a surrender of the authority from whom it is delegated, because according to the Declaration of Independence, rights created by God and bestowed upon human beings are UNALIENABLE, which means that you are legally incapable of surrendering them entirely.

“We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights; that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, “

[Declaration of Independence]

“Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred.”

5.6.12.5.4 Illegal uses of agency or compelled agency

1. Certain types of agency and the obligations attached to the agency may not be enforceable in court between the parties. Any attempt to enforce therefore constitutes a TORT and even in many cases a CRIME. These include:

   1.1. Agency to commit a crime. This is called a conspiracy.

   1.2. An alienation by the principle of an INALIENABLE right. This includes any surrender of constitutional rights by a state citizen protected by the Constitution to any government, even with consent.

2. Illegal uses of agency include:

   2.1. Duress: Duress occurs when someone is compelled to accept the duties of a specific civil status through threats, unlawful government enforcement, threats of unlawful enforcement, violence, or coercion of some kind. Examples include:

      2.1.1. Offering or enforcing franchises outside the exclusive territorial jurisdiction of a specific government. This is private business activity.

      2.1.2. Offering or enforcing franchises among those who are not eligible because their rights are Unalienable and therefore cannot lawfully be given away as per the Declaration of Independence.

      2.1.3. Tax collection notices sent to non-residents who are not statutory “taxpayers”.

      2.1.4. Compelling people to fill out government applications signed under penalty of perjury that misrepresent their status. This is criminal witness tampering.

      2.1.5. Nor providing a status block on every government form to offer “Other” or “Nonresident” or “Not subject but not statutorily exempt”.

      2.1.6. Threatening to withhold private employment or commercial relations unless people declare a civil status in relation to government that they do not want. This is extortion.193

   2.2. Identity theft occurs when someone is associated with a civil status, usually on a government form or application, that they do not consent to have or which they cannot lawfully have. See:

   Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. Duress: It is an important principle of law that when a party is under coercion or duress, the real actor is the SOURCE of the duress, and not the person forced to do the act. This principle also applies to those under the compulsion of a civil statute, as indicated by the U.S. Supreme Court in the State Action Doctrine:

   For petitioner to recover under the substantive count of her complaint, she must show a deprivation of a right guaranteed to her by the Equal Protection Clause of the Fourteenth Amendment. Since the 'action inhibited by the first section of the Fourteenth Amendment is only such action as may fairly be said to be that of the State,' Shelley v. Kraemer, 334 U.S. 1, 13, 68 S.Ct. 836, 842, 92 L.Ed. 1161 (1948), we must decide, for purposes of this case, the following 'state action' issue: Is there sufficient state action to prove a violation of petitioner's Fourteenth Amendment rights if she shows that Kress refused her service because of a state-enforced custom compelling segregation of the races in Hattiesburg restaurants?

   In analyzing this problem, it is useful to state two polar propositions, each of which is easily identified and resolved. On the one hand, the Fourteenth Amendment plainly prohibits a State itself from discriminating because of race. On the other hand, § 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment does not forbid a private party, not acting against a backdrop of state compulsion or involvement, to discriminate on the basis of race in his personal affairs as an expression of his own personal predilections. As was said in Shelley v. Kraemer, supra, § 1 of that Amendment erects no shield against merely private conduct, however discriminatory or wrongful. 334 U.S., at 13, 68 S.Ct., at 842.

   At what point between these two extremes a State's involvement in the refusal becomes sufficient to make the private refusal to serve a violation of the Fourteenth Amendment, is far from clear under our case law. If a State had a law requiring a private person to refuse service because of race, it is clear beyond dispute that the law would violate the Fourteenth Amendment and could be declared invalid and enjoined from enforcement. Nor can a State enforce such a law requiring discrimination through either convictions of proprietors who refuse to discriminate, or trespass prosecutions of patrons who, after being denied service pursuant to such a law, refuse to honor a request to leave the premises.40

   The question most relevant for this case, however, is a slightly different one. It is whether the decision of an owner of a restaurant to discriminate on the basis of race under the compulsion of state law offends the Fourteenth Amendment. Although this Court has not explicitly decided the Fourteenth Amendment state action issue implicit in this question, underlying the Court's decisions in the sit-in cases is the notion that a State is responsible for the discriminatory act of a private party when the State, by its law, has compelled the act. As

---

193 On this subject, Leon Trotsky, the Soviet communist said: ‘‘In a country where the sole employer is the State...the old principle: who does not work shall not eat, has been replaced by a new one: who does not obey shall not eat.’
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax 5-922

the Court said in Peterson v. City of Greenville, 373 U.S. 244, 248, 83 S.Ct. 1119, 1121 (1963): ‘When the State has commanded a particular result, it has saved to itself the power to determine that result and thereby to a significant extent has ‘become involved’ in it.’ Moreover, there is much support in lower court opinions for the conclusion that discriminatory acts by private parties done under the compulsion of state law offend the Fourteenth Amendment. In Baldwin v. Morgan, supra, the Fifth Circuit held that ‘[t]he very act of posting and maintaining separate (waiting room) facilities when done by the (railroad) Terminal as commanded by these state orders is action by the state.’ The Court then went on to say: ‘As we have pointed out above the State may not use race or color as the basis for distinction. It may not do so by direct action or through the medium of others who are under State compulsion to do so.’ Id., 287 F.2d at 755—756 (emphasis added). We think the same principle governs here.

For state action purposes it makes no difference of course whether the racially discriminatory act by the private party is compelled by a statutory provision or by a custom having the force of law—in either case it is the State that has commanded the result by its law. Without deciding whether less substantial involvement of a State might satisfy the state action requirement of the Fourteenth Amendment, we conclude that petitioner would show an abridgement of her equal protection right, if she proves that Kress refused her service because of a state-enforced custom of segregating the races in public restaurants.

5.6.12.6 Synonyms for “trade or business”

Another important concept we need to be very aware of is that there are also synonyms for "trade or business" used within the Internal Revenue Code.

5.6.12.6.11 “wages”

The term "wages" is synonymous with a "trade or business". Below is the proof from 26 U.S.C. §3401, where it says that earnings not in the course of an employer’s "trade or business" are exempted from "wages".

TITLE 26 > Subtitle C > CHAPTER 24 > § 3401

§ 3401. Definitions

(a) Wages

For purposes of this chapter, the term “wages” means all remuneration (other than fees paid to a public official) for services performed by an employee for his employer, including the cash value of all remuneration (including benefits) paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include remuneration paid—

[...]

(4) for service not in the course of the employer’s trade or business performed in any calendar quarter by an employee, unless the cash remuneration paid for such service is $50 or more and such service is performed by an individual who is regularly employed by such employer to perform such service. For purposes of this paragraph, an individual shall be deemed to be regularly employed by an employer during a calendar quarter only if—

(A) on each of some 24 days during such quarter such individual performs for such employer for some portion of the day service not in the course of the employer’s trade or business; or

(B) such individual was regularly employed (as determined under subparagraph (A)) by such employer in the performance of such service during the preceding calendar quarter; or

(11) for services not in the course of the employer’s trade or business, to the extent paid in any medium other than cash; or other fixed or determinable gains, profits, and income (other than payments to which section 6042 (a)(1), 6044 (a)(1), 6047 (e), 6049 (a), or 6050N (a) applies, and other than payments with respect to which a statement is required under the authority of section 6042 (a)(2), 6044 (a)(2), or 6045), of $600 or more in any taxable year, or, in the case of such payments made by the United States, the officers or employees of the United States having information as to such payments and required to make returns in regard thereto by the regulations hereinafter provided for, shall render a true and accurate return to the Secretary, under such regulations and in such form and manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary, setting forth the amount of such gains, profits, and income, and the name and address of the recipient of such payment.

The above is also completely consistent with the IRS Form W-2 itself, which is an information return that 26 U.S.C. §6041 says may ONLY be filed to document earnings in excess of $600 in the course of a "trade or business".

So if you aren't engaged in a "trade or business", then your private employer cannot lawfully or truthfully report "wages" on an IRS Form W-2 in connection with you. If they do, they are in criminal violation of 26 U.S.C. §7207, which provides for a $10,000 fine and imprisonment for up to one year for filing a false information return such as a W-2.

Those who do not serve in a "public office" therefore can only earn "wages" if they sign an agreement and stipulate to call their PRIVATE earnings wages. In the absence of such an agreement, it is false and fraudulent and a criminal offense to report any amount other than ZERO on an IRS Form W-2 in connection with a person who is not engaged in a "trade or business". These conclusions are confirmed by 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1:

Title 26: Internal Revenue
PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE
Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source
Sec. 31.3402(p)-1 Voluntary withholding agreements.
(a) In general. An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of §31.3401(a)—3, made after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder. See §31.3405(c)—1, Q&A—3 concerning agreements to have more than 20-percent Federal income tax withheld from eligible rollover distributions within the meaning of section 402.

(b) Form and duration of agreement
(2) An agreement under section 3402 (p) shall be effective for such period as the employer and employee mutually agree upon. However, either the employer or the employee may terminate the agreement prior to the end of such period by furnishing a signed written notice to the other. Unless the employer and employee agree to an earlier termination date, the notice shall be effective with respect to the first payment of an amount in respect of which the agreement is in effect which is made on or after the first “status determination date” (January 1, May 1, July 1, and October 1 of each year) that occurs at least 30 days after the date on which the notice is furnished. If the employee executes a new Form W-4, the request upon which an agreement under section 3402 (p) is based shall be attached to, and constitute a part of, such new Form W-4.

The above is also reiterated again in the Treasury Regulations below:

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements
(a) In general. Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the regulations thereunder, the term "wages" includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (§31.3401(a)—3).

(b) Remuneration for services. (1) Except as provided in subparagraph (2) of this paragraph, the amounts referred to in paragraph (a) of this section include any remuneration for services performed by an employee for an employer which, without regard to this section, does not constitute wages under section 3401(a). For example, remuneration for services performed by an agricultural worker or a domestic worker in a private home (amounts which are specifically excluded from the definition of wages by section 3401(a) (2) and (3), respectively) are amounts with respect to which a voluntary withholding agreement may be entered into under section 3402(p). See §§31.3401(c)—1 and 31.3401(d)—1 for the definitions of “employee” and “employer”.

If you do not give your private employer an IRS Form W-4 or if it is signed under duress and indicates so, it is a criminal offense to report anything other than ZERO on any IRS Form W-2 that is sent to the IRS. Even if the IRS orders the private employer to withhold at single zero, he can STILL only withhold on "wages", which are ZERO for a person who never signed or submitted an IRS Form W-4. 100% of ZERO is still ZERO. Furthermore, nothing signed under any threat of duress, such as a threat to either fire you or not hire you for refusing to sign and submit an IRS Form W-4 can be described as a "voluntary agreement" pursuant to any of the above regulations and anyone who concludes otherwise is engaged in a criminal conspiracy against your rights. This is ESPECIALLY true if they are acting under the "color of law" as a voluntary officer of the government, such as an "employer"..

"An agreement [consent] obtained by duress, coercion, or intimidation is invalid, since the party coerced is not exercising his free will, and the test is not so much the means by which the party is compelled to execute the agreement as the state of mind induced."\(^{194}\) Duress, like fraud, rarely becomes material, except where a contract or conveyance has been made which the maker wishes to avoid. As a general rule, duress renders the contract or conveyance voidable, not void, at the option of the person coerced,\(^{195}\) and it is susceptible of ratification. Like other voidable contracts, it is valid until it is avoided by the person entitled to avoid it.\(^{196}\) However, duress in the form of physical compulsion, in which a party is caused to appear to assent when he has no intention of doing so, is generally deemed to render the resulting purported contract void.\(^{197}\

[American Jurisprudence 2d, Duress, §21 (1999)]

Yet another confirmation of the conclusions of this section is found in the Individual Master File (IMF) that the IRS uses to maintain a record of your tax liability. The amount of "taxable income" is called NOT "income", but "wages" at the end of the report! Quite telling. See for yourself:

5.6.12.6.2  "personal services"

The term "personal services" in nearly all cases where it is used in the code means "work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business". Here is an example:

26 C.F.R. Sec. 1.469-9 Rules for certain rental real estate activities.

(b)(4) PERSONAL SERVICES.

Personal services means any work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business. However, personal services do not include any work performed by an individual in the individual's capacity as an investor as described in section 1.469-5T(f)(2)(ii).

The only place in the code where "personal services" is mentioned outside the context of a "trade or business" is the case where earnings from it are NOT taxable:

26 U.S.C. §861 Income from Sources Within the United States

(a)(3) "...Compensation for labor or personal services performed in the United States shall not be deemed to be income from sources within the United States if--

(C) the compensation for labor or services performed as an employee of or under contract with--

(i) a nonresident alien not engaged in a trade or business in the United States..."

Therefore, whenever you see the term "personal services", it means "work performed by an individual in connection with a 'trade or business'" unless specifically defined otherwise. This will become very important when we are talking about earnings of "U.S. citizens" who are abroad.

195 Barnette v. Wells Fargo Nevada Nat'l Bank, 270 U.S. 438, 70 L.Ed. 669, 46 S.Ct. 326 (holding that acts induced by duress which operate solely on the mind, and fall short of actual physical compulsion, are not void at law, but are voidable only, at the election of him whose acts were induced by it); Faske v. Gershman, 30 Misc.2d. 442, 215 N.Y.S.2d. 144; Glenney v. Crane (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)), 352 S.W.2d. 773, writ ref n r e (May 16, 1962); Carroll v. Fetty, 121 W.Va. 215, 2 S.E.2d. 521, cert den 308 US 571, 84 L.Ed. 479, 60 S.Ct. 85.

197 Restatement 2d, Contracts § 174, stating that if conduct that appears to be a manifestation of assent by a party who does not intend to engage in that conduct is physically compelled by duress, the conduct is not effective as a manifestation of assent.
The term “sources within the United States” is also a synonym for “trade or business” under the I.R.C. in most cases. Under 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3), all earnings from originating within the statutory “United States”, which is defined as federal territory that is not within the exclusive jurisdiction of any constitutional State of the Union in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) is also treated as “effectively connected with a trade or business”.

The term “sources within the United States” is also a synonym for “trade or business” under the I.R.C. in most cases. Under 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3), all earnings from originating within the statutory “United States”, which is defined as federal territory that is not within the exclusive jurisdiction of any constitutional State of the Union in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) is also treated as “effectively connected with a trade or business”.

Therefore, whenever you see the phrase “sources within the United States” associated with any earnings, then indirectly, it is being associated with a “trade or business”. This is the case for 26 U.S.C. §871(a), which identifies income of “nonresident aliens” only from within the statutory “United States” (federal territory) that is not connected to a “trade or business”. 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(2) identifies all sources of income not associated with a “trade or business” and they include ONLY:

1. 26 U.S.C. §871(a)(1): Income of nonresident aliens other than capital gains derived from patents, copyrights, sale of original issue discounts, gains described in I.R.C. 631(b) or (c), interest, dividends, rents, salaries, premiums, annuities from sources within the statutory “United States” (federal territory).
2. 26 U.S.C. §871(h): Earnings of nonresident aliens from portfolio debt instruments
3. 26 U.S.C. §881(a): Earnings of foreign corporations from patents, copyrights, gains, and interest not connected with a trade or business.

26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) define the statutory “United States” in a “geographical sense” only as being federal territories and possessions.

However, I.R.C. Section 864 above does not directly state or imply a "geographical sense", so it may have some other undefined meaning. We allege that the ONLY way that working for a living can be an excise taxable privilege or "trade or business” is where the Constitution itself, in Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 requires all “public offices” (“trades or businesses”), to be exercised, which is the District of Columbia:

Congress shall have power * * * To exercise exclusive Legislation in all Cases whatsoever, over such District (not exceeding ten Miles square) as may, by Cession of particular States, and the Acceptance of Congress, become the Seat of Government of the United States, and to exercise like Authority over all Places purchased by the Consent of the Legislature of the State in which the same shall be, for the Erection of Forts, Magazines, Arsenals, dock-Yards, and other needful Buildings.

Since accepting a public office in the federal government is a voluntary act, then the tax is voluntary. If you don't want to pay it, you don't accept or run for the office. In furtherance of the above, 4 U.S.C. §72 requires all "public offices" that are the subject of the tax upon a "trade or business" to be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and NOT elsewhere, except as "expressly provided by law":

All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

Therefore, all persons engaged in public offices MUST serve ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere, and there is no enactment of Congress authorizing them to serve in any state of the Union. Therefore, the term "United States" as used throughout Internal Revenue Code; Subtitle A:

1. Does not imply a "geographical sense", because that phrase is never used in combination with the term "United States" anywhere we could find. Instead, this definition is a red herring.
2. Does not imply any state of the Union or any part of any state of the Union.
3. Implies the United States government or “national government” and not the "federal government" of the states of the Union. See Federalist Paper #39 for details.
4. Applies only to persons domiciled on federal territory called the “United States” and subject to the exclusive or general or plenary jurisdiction of Congress. 26 U.S.C. §871(d)(3) requires that a person cannot have a “tax home” unless their “abode”, meaning “domicile” is within the “United States”. The tax is applied against the “tax home” of the “individual”, which individual is a “public officer” within the United States government. States of the Union are not “territory” as that word is correctly understood within American legal jurisprudence.

Consequently, "sources within the United States* really refers to payments to or from the U.S. government, all of which are enumerated and described and listed in 26 U.S.C. §871 in the context of “nonresident aliens”. I.R.C., Subtitle A is therefore a "kickback program" for federal instrumentalities, domiciliaries, franchises, and employees, and the "profit and loss" statement for these instrumentalities is IRS Form 1040. The tax is on the "profit" of these instrumentalities, which the I.R.S. calls "income". 26 U.S.C. §643(b) confirms that "income" means the earnings of a trust or estate connected with a public office and NOT all earnings. That "trust" is the "public trust". Government is a "public trust" per Executive Order 12731 and 5 C.F.R. §2635.101(a). If you never received a payment from the government or accepted a payment on behalf of the government while acting in a representative capacity as a "public officer", then we allege that you cannot be a "taxpayer" or have a tax liability pursuant to I.R.C., Subtitle A This is also consistent with the holding of the U.S. Supreme Court on this subject:

"Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98, was an action of trespass or, as appears by the original record, replevin, brought in the circuit court for the District of Columbia to try the right of Congress to impose a direct tax for general purposes on that District. 3 Stat. at L. 216, chap. 60. It was insisted that Congress could act in a double capacity: in one as legislating [182 U.S. 244, 260] for the states; in the other as a local legislature for the District of Columbia. In the latter character, it was admitted that the power of levying direct taxes might be exercised, but for District purposes only, as a state legislature might tax for state purposes; but that it could not legislate for the District under art. 1, 8, giving to Congress the power "to lay and collect taxes, impost, and excises," which "shall be uniform throughout the United States," inasmuch as the District was not part of the United States [described in the Constitution]. It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States. The fact that art. 1, 2 declares that representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states . . . according to their respective numbers furnished a standard by which taxes were apportioned, but not to exempt any part of the country from their operation. The words used do not mean that direct taxes shall be imposed on states only which are represented, or shall be apportioned to representatives; but that direct taxation, in its application to states, shall be apportioned to numbers. That art. 1, 9, 4, declaring that direct taxes shall be laid in proportion to the census, was applicable to the District of Columbia, and will enable Congress to apportion on it its just and equal share of the burden, with the same accuracy as on the respective states. If the tax be laid in this proportion, it is within the very words of the restriction. It is a tax in proportion to the census or enumeration referred to. It was further held that the words of the 9th section did not ‘in terms require that the system of direct taxation, when resorted to, shall be extended to the territories, as the words of the 2d section require that it shall be extended to all the states. They therefore may, without violence, be understood to give a rule when the territories shall be taxed, without imposing the necessity of taxing them.’”

[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

The conclusions of this section are also consistent with 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d), which both effectively kidnap a “taxpayers” identity and move it to the District of Columbia for the purposes of I.R.C., Subtitle A. The “citizen” and “resident” they are talking about in these statutes are statutory and not constitutional “citizens” and “residents” which rely on the statutory term “United States”, which means a person domiciled on federal territory and NOT domiciled within any state of the Union. Why would they need such a provision and why would they try to fool you into declaring yourself to be a “U.S. citizen” using their deceptive forms if they REALLY had jurisdiction within states of the Union? More about this later.

5.6.12.6.4  Statutory “citizen of the United States” or “U.S. citizen”

You may wonder as we have how it is that Congress can make it a crime to falsely claim to be a statutory “U.S. citizen” in 18 U.S.C. §911.

Whoever falsely and willfully represents himself to be a citizen of the United States[] shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than three years, or both.

The reason is that you cannot tax or regulate anything until abusing it becomes harmful. A “license”, after all, is legally defined as permission from the state to do that which is otherwise illegal or harmful or both. And of course, you can only tax or regulate things that are harmful and licensed. Hence, they had to:

1. Create yet another franchise.
2. Attach a “status” to the franchise called “citizen of the United States”, where “United States” implies the GOVERNMENT and not any geographical place.
3. Criminalize the abuse of the “status” and the rights that attach to the status.
4. Make adopting the status entirely discretionary on the part of those participating. Hence, invoking the “status” and the “benefits” and “privileges” associated with the status constitutes constructive consent to abide by all the statutes that regulate the status.

5. Impose a tax or fine or “licensing fee” for those adopting or invoking the status. That tax, in fact, is the federal income tax codified in I.R.C., Subtitle A.

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Every type of franchise works and is implemented exactly the same way, and the statutory “U.S. citizen” or “citizen of the United States” franchise is no different. This section will prove that being a “citizen of the United States” under the I.R.C. is, in fact, a franchise, that the franchise began in 1924 by judicial pronouncement, and that because the status is a franchise and all franchises are voluntary, you don’t have to participate, accept the “benefits”, or pay for the costs of the franchise if you don’t consent.

As you will eventually learn, one becomes a “citizen” in a common law or constitutional sense by being born or naturalized in a country and exercising their First Amendment right of political association by voluntarily choosing a national and a municipal domicile in that country. How can Congress criminalize the exercise of the First Amendment right to politically associate with a “state” and thereby become a citizen? After all, the courts have routinely held that Congress cannot criminalize the exercise of a right protected by the Constitution.

"It is an unconstitutional deprivation of due process for the government to penalize a person merely because he has exercised a protected statutory or constitutional right. United States v. Goodwin, 457 U.S. 368, 372, 102 S.Ct. 2485, 2488, 73 L.Ed.2d. 74 (1982)."

[People of Territory of Guam v. Fegurgur, 800 F.2d. 1470 (9th Cir. 1986)]

Even the U.S. Code recognizes the protected First Amendment right to not associate during the passport application process. Being a statutory and not constitutional “citizen” is an example of type of membership, because domicile is civil membership in a territorial community usually called a county, and you cannot be a “citizen” without a domicile:

TITLE 22 > CHAPTER 38 > § 2721

$2721. Impermissible basis for denial of passports

A passport may not be denied issuance, revoked, restricted, or otherwise limited because of any speech, activity, belief, affiliation, or membership, within or outside the United States, which, if held or conducted within the United States, would be protected by the first amendment to the Constitution of the United States.

The answer to how Congress can criminalize the exercise of a First Amendment protected right of political association that is the foundation of becoming a “citizen” therefore lies in the fact that the statutory “U.S. citizen” mentioned in 18 U.S.C. §911 is not a constitutional citizen protected by the Constitution, but rather is:

1. Not a human being or a private person but a statutory creation of Congress. The ability to regulate private conduct, according to the U.S. Supreme Court, is repugnant to the U.S. Constitution and therefore Congress can ONLY regulate public conduct and the public offices and franchises that it creates.

“The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 396 U.S. 238 (1970); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress’ §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned.”

[City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

2. A statutory franchise and a federal corporation created on federal territory and domiciled there. Notice the key language “Whenever the public and private acts of the government seem to come into [in this case, through the offering and enforcement of PRIVATE franchises to the public at large such as income taxes], a citizen or corporate body must by supposition be substituted in its place…” What Congress did was perform this substitution in the franchise agreement itself (the I.R.C.) BEFORE the controversy ever even reached the court such that this judicial doctrine could be CORRECTLY applied! They want to keep their secret weapon secret.

See also Clearfield Trust Co. v. United States, 318 U.S. 363, 369 (1943) (“The United States does business on business terms”) (quoting United States v. National Exchange Bank of Baltimore, 270 U.S. 527, 534 (1926)); Perry v. United States, supra at 352 (1935) (“When the United States, with constitutional authority, makes contracts or franchises, it has rights and incurs responsibilities similar to those of individuals who are parties to such instruments. There is no difference . . . except that the United States cannot be sued without its consent”) (citation omitted); United States v. Bostwick, 94 U.S. 53, 66 (1877) (“The United States, when they contract with their citizens, are controlled by the same laws that govern the citizen in that behalf”); Cooke v. United States, 91 U.S. 399, 405 (1875) (explaining that when the United States "comes down from its position of sovereignty, and enters the domain of commerce, it submits itself to the same laws that govern individuals there").
Every public and private act of the government seems to congregate within the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only."

Ordinarily, and especially in the case of states of the Union, domicile within that state by the state “citizen” is the determining factor as to whether an income tax is owed to the state by that citizen:

"domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one's home are the requisites of establishing a "domicile" therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges."

"Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located."

[Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

We also establish the connection between domicile and tax liability in the following article.

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed that the statutory “citizen of the United States” mentioned in the Internal Revenue Code at 26 U.S.C. §911 and at 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) is not associated with either domicile OR with constitutional citizenship (nationality) of the human being who is the “taxpayer” in the following case. The party they mentioned, Cook, was domiciled within Mexico at the time, which meant he was NOT a statutory “citizen of the United States” under the Internal Revenue Code but rather a “non-resident non-person”. However, because he CLAIMED to be a statutory “citizen of the United States” and the Supreme Court colluded with that FRAUD, they treated him as one ANYWAY.

We may make further exposition of the national power as the case depends upon it. It was illustrated at once in United States v. Bennett by a contrast with the power of a state. It was pointed out that there were limitations upon the latter that were not on the national power. The taxing power of a state, it was decided, encountered at its borders the taxing power of other states and was limited by them. There was no such limitation, it was pointed out, upon the national power, and that the limitation upon the states affords, it was said, no ground for constructing a barrier around the United States, 'shutting that government off from the exertion of powers which inherently belong to it by virtue of its sovereignty.'

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
"The contention was rejected that a citizen's property without the limits of the United States derives no benefit from the United States. The contention, it was said, came from the confusion of thought in 'mistaking the scope and extent of the sovereign power of the United States as a nation and its relations to its citizens and their relations to it.' And that power in its scope and extent, it was decided, is based on the presumption that government by its very nature benefits the citizen and his property wherever found, and that opposition to it holds on to citizenship while it 'belittles and destroys its advantages and blessings by denying the possession by government of an essential power required to make citizenship completely beneficial.' In other words, the principle was declared that the government, by its very nature, benefits the citizen and his property wherever found, and therefore has the power to make the benefit complete. Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the United States, nor was not and cannot be made dependent upon the domicile of the citizen, that being in or out of the United States, but upon his relation as citizen to the United States and the relation of the latter to him as citizen. The consequence of the relations is that the native citizen who is taxed may have domicile, and the property from which his income is derived may have situs, in a foreign country and the tax be legal—the government having power to impose the tax."

[Cook v. Tait, 265 U.S. 47 (1924)]

So the key thing to note about the above is that the tax liability attaches to the STATUS of BEING a statutory but not constitutional “citizen of the United States” under the Internal Revenue Code, and NOT to domicile of the party, based on the above case.

"Or, to express it another way, the basis of the power to tax was not and cannot be made dependent upon the situs of the property in all cases, it being in or out of the United States, nor was not and cannot be made dependent upon the domicile of the citizen, that being in or out of the United States, but upon his relation as citizen to the United States and the relation of the latter to him as citizen. The consequence of the relations is that the native citizen who is taxed may have domicile, and the property from which his income is derived may have situs, in a foreign country and the tax be legal—the government having power to impose the tax."

There are only two ways to reach a nonresident party through the civil law: Domicile and contract.198 That status of being a statutory “U.S. citizen” under the Internal Revenue Code, in turn, can only be a franchise contract that establishes a “public office” in the U.S. government, which is the property of the U.S. Government that the creator of the franchise can regulate or tax ANYWHERE under the franchise “protection” contract. All rights that attach to STATUS are, in fact, franchises, and the Cook case is no exception. This, in fact, is why falsely claiming to be a “U.S. citizen” is a crime under 18 U.S.C. §911, because the status is “property” of the national government and abuse of said property or the public rights and “benefits” that attach to it is a crime. The use of the “Taxpayer Identification Number” then becomes a de facto “license” to exercise the privilege. You can’t license something unless it is ILLEGAL to perform without a license, so they had to make it illegal to claim to be a statutory “U.S. citizen” before they could license it and tax it.

How can they tax someone without a domicile in the “United States” and with no earnings from the United States in the case of Cook, you might ask? Well, the REAL “taxpayer” is a public office in the U.S. government. That office REPRESENTS the United States federal corporation. All corporations are “citizens” of the place of their incorporation, and therefore under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), the effective domicile of the “taxpayer” is the District of Columbia.199 All taxes are a civil liability that are implemented with civil law. The only way they could have reached extraterritorially with civil law to tax Cook without him having a domicile or residence anywhere in the statutory “United States” was through a private law franchise contract in which he was a public officer. It is a maxim of law that debt and contract know no place, meaning that they can be enforced anywhere.

Debt and contract [franchise agreement, in this case] are of no particular place.

Locus contractus regit actum.

The place of the contract [franchise agreement, in this case] governs the act.

The feds have jurisdiction over their own public officers wherever they are but the EFFECTIVE civil domicile of all such offices and officers is the District of Columbia pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). Hence, the ONLY thing 198 See section 5.2.4: The Two Sources of Federal Civil Jurisdiction: “Domicile” and “Contract”; http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm.

199 "A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only.” [19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §886 (2003)]
such a statutory “citizen of the United States” could be within the I.R.C. is a statutory creation of Congress that is actually a public office which is domiciled in the statutory but not constitutional “United States” in order for the ruling in Cook to be constitutional or even lawful. AND, according to the Cook case, having that status is a discretionary choice that has NOTHING to do with your circumstances, because Cook was NOT a statutory “citizen of the United States” as someone not domiciled in the statutory but not constitutional “United States”. Instead, he was a “non-resident non-person” because of his foreign domicile and the fact that he was no engaged in a public office in the national government. The court allowed him to accept the voluntary “benefit” of the statutory status and hence, it had nothing to do with his circumstances, but rather his CHOICE to nominate a “protector” and join a civil statutory franchise. Simply INVOKING the status of being a statutory “citizen of the United States” on a government form is the only magic word needed to give one’s consent to become a “taxpayer” in that case. It is what the court called a “benefit”, and all “benefits” are voluntary and the product of a franchise contract. It was a quasi-contract as all taxes are, because the consent was implied rather than explicit, and it manifested itself by using property of the government, which in this case was the STATUS he claimed.

“Even if the judgment is deemed to be colored by the nature of the obligation whose validity it establishes, and we are free to re-examine it, and, if we find it to be based on an obligation penal in character, to refuse to enforce it outside the state where rendered, see Wisconsin v. Pelican Insurance Co., 127 U.S. 265, 292, et seq. 8 S.Ct. 1370, compare Faunteroy v. Lamm, 210 U.S. 230, 28 S.Ct. 641, still the obligation to pay taxes is not penal. It is a statutory liability, quasi contractual in nature, enforceable, if there is no exclusive statutory remedy, in the civil courts by the common-law action of debt or indebitatus assumpsit. United States v. Chamberlin, 219 U.S. 250, 31 S.Ct. 155; Price v. United States, 269 U.S. 492, 46 S.Ct. 180; Dollar Savings Bank v. United States, 19 Wall. 227; and see Stockwell v. United States, 13 Wall. 531, 542; Meredith v. United States, 13 Pet. 486, 493. This was the rule established in the English courts before the Declaration of Independence, Attorney General v. Weeks, Bunbury's Exch. Rep. 223; Attorney General v. Jewers and Butty, Bunbury's Exch. Rep. 225; Attorney General v. Hatton, Bunbury's Exch. Rep. 227; Attorney General v. . . . 2 Ans.Rep. 558; see Comyn's Digest (Title 'Dett,' A. 9); 1 Chitty on Pleading, 123; cf. Attorney General v. Sewell, 4 M.& W. 77. “

[Milwaukee v. White, 296 U.S. 268 (1935)]

You might reasonably ask of the Cook case, as we have, the following question:

“HOW did the government create the public office that they could tax and which Cook apparently occupied as a franchisee?”

Well, apparently the “citizen of the United States” status he claimed is a franchise and an office in the U.S. government that carries with it the “public right” to make certain demands upon those who claim this status. Hence, it represents a “property interest” in the services of the United States federal corporation. In law, all rights are property, anything that conveys rights is property, contracts convey rights and are therefore property, and all franchises are contracts and therefore property. A “public officer” is legally defined as someone in charge of the property of the public, and the property Cook was in possession of was the public rights that attach to the status of being a statutory “citizen of the United States”.

“Public office. The right, authority, and duty created and conferred by law, by which for a given period, either fixed by law or enduring at the pleasure of the creating power, an individual is invested with some portion of the sovereign functions of government for the benefit of the public. Walker v. Rich, 79 Cal.App. 139, 249 P. 56, 58, An agency for the state, the duties of which involve in their performance the exercise of some portion of the sovereign power, either great or small. Yaselli v. Goff, C.C.A., 12 F.2d. 396, 403, 56 A.L.R. 1239; Lacey v. State, 13 Ala.App. 212, 68 So. 706, 710; Currin v. State, 61 Cal.App. 377, 214 P. 1030, 1035; Shelmadine v. City of Elkhart, 75 Ind.App. 493, 129 N.E. 878. State ex rel. Colorado River Commission v. Frohnmiller, 46 Ariz. 413, 52 P.2d. 483, 486. Where, by virtue of law, a person is clothed, not as an incidental or transient authority, but for such time as de-notes duration and continuance, with Independent power to control the property of the public, or with public functions to be exercised in the supposed interest of the people, the service to be compensated by a stated yearly salary, and the occupant having a designation or title, the position so created is a public office. State v. Brennan, 49 Ohio.St. 33, 29 N.E. 593. [Black's Law Dictionary, Fourth Edition, p. 1235]

For Cook, the statutory status of being a “citizen of the United States” was the “res” that “identified” him within the jurisdiction of the federal courts, and hence made him a “res-ident” or “resident” subject to the tax with standing to sue in a territorial franchise court, which is what all U.S. District Courts are. In effect, he waived sovereign immunity and became a statutory “resident alien” by invoking the services of the federal courts, and as such, he had to pay for their services by paying the tax. Otherwise, he would have no standing to sue in the first place because he would be a “stateless” person and they would have had to dismiss his case.

If you would like a much more thorough discussion of all of the nuances of the Cook case, we strongly recommend the following:

Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.018, Section 4.4
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Here is another HUGE clue about what they think a “U.S. citizen” really is in federal statutes. Look at the definition below, and then consider that you CAN’T own a human being as property. That’s called slavery:

TITLE 46 > Subtitle V > Part A > CHAPTER 505 > § 50501
§ 50501. Entities deemed citizens of the United States

(a) In General.—

In this subtitle, a corporation, partnership, or association is deemed to be a citizen of the United States only if the controlling interest is owned by citizens of the United States. However, if the corporation, partnership, or association is operating a vessel in the coastwise trade, at least 75 percent of the interest must be owned by citizens of the United States.

Now look at what the U.S. Supreme Court said about “ownership” of human beings. You can’t “own” a human being as chattel. The Thirteenth Amendment prohibits that. Therefore, the statutory “U.S. citizen” they are talking about above is an instrumentality and public office within the United States. They can only tax, regulate, and legislate for PUBLIC objects and public offices of the United States under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2. The ability to regulate PRIVATE conduct of human beings has repeatedly been held by the U.S. Supreme Court to be “repugnant to the constitution” and beyond the jurisdiction of Congress.

“[t]he contract is, in substance and effect, a contract for servitude, with no limitation but that of time; leaving the master to determine what the service should be, and the place where and the person to whom it should be rendered. Such a contract, it is scarcely necessary to say, is against the policy of our institutions and laws. If such a sale of service could be lawfully made for five years, it might, from the same reasons, for ten, and so for the term of one’s life. The door would thus be opened for a species of servitude inconsistent with the first and fundamental article of our declaration of rights, which, proprio vigore, not only abolished every vestige of slavery then existing in the commonwealth, but rendered every form of it thereafter legally impossible. That article has always been regarded, not simply as the declaration of an abstract principle, but as having the active force and conclusive authority of law. Observing that one who voluntarily subjected himself to the laws of the state must find in them the rule of restraint as well as the rule of action, the court proceeded: ‘Under this contract the plaintiff had no claim for the labor of the servant for the term of five years, or for any term whatever. She was under no legal obligation to remain in his service. There was no time during which her service was due to the plaintiff, and during which she was kept from such service by the acts of the defendants."

Under the contract of service it was at the volition of the master to entail service upon these appellants for an indefinite period. So far as the record discloses, it was an accident that the vessel came back to San Francisco when it did. By the shipping articles, the appellants could not quit the vessel until it returned to a port of the United States, and such return depended absolutely upon the will of the master. He had only to land at foreign ports, and keep the vessel away from the United States, in order to prevent the appellants from leaving his service.

The supreme law of the land now declares that involuntary servitude, except as a punishment for crime, of which the party shall have been duly convicted, shall not exist any where within the United States.

Federal courts also frequently use the phrase “privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States”. Below is an example:
The privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States do not necessarily include all the rights protected by the first eight amendments to the Federal Constitution against the powers of the Federal Government.

The trial of a person accused as a criminal by a jury of only eight persons instead of twelve, and his subsequent imprisonment after conviction do not abridge his privileges and immunities under the Constitution as a citizen of the United States and do not deprive him of his liberty without due process of law.”

[Maxwell v. Dow, 176 U.S. 581 (1900)]

Note that the “citizen of the United States” described above is a statutory rather than constitutional citizen, which is why the court admits that the rights of such a person are inferior to those possessed by a “citizen” within the meaning of the United States Constitution. A constitutional but not statutory citizen is, in fact, NOT “privileged” in any way and none of the rights guaranteed by the Constitution can truthfully be called “privileges” without violating the law. It is a tort and a violation of due process, in fact, to convert rights protected by the Constitution and the common law into “privileges” or franchises or “public rights” under statutory law without at least your consent, which anyone in their right mind should NEVER give.

It is furthermore proven in the following memorandum of law that civil statutory civil law pertains almost exclusively to government officers and employers and cannot and does not pertain to human beings or private persons not engaged in federal franchises/privileges:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037

http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Consequently, if a court refers to “privileges and immunities” in relation to you, chances are they are presuming, usually FALSELY, that you are a statutory “U.S. citizen” and NOT a constitutional citizen. If you want to prevent them from making such false presumptions, we recommend attaching the following forms at least to your initial complaint and/or response in any action in court:

5.6.12.7 I.R.C. requirements for the exercise of a “trade or business”

Next, we must search the code for the uses of the term “trade or business” to define how it applies by using the context. Below is a summary of our findings:

1. For “individuals”, who are ALL “aliens” under the I.R.C., only income “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” is considered “gross income” or originating from the statutory but not constitutional “United States” and earned by a nonresident alien under 26 U.S.C. §871(a). Statutory “U.S. citizens” can only be taxable when they are living abroad, in which case they become “aliens” under the provisions of a treaty with a foreign country. ONLY in that condition are they the proper subject of the Internal Revenue Code:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t LIABLE To File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Sec. 1.1-1 Income tax on individuals.

(a)(2)(ii) For taxable years beginning after December 31, 1970, the tax imposed by section 1(d) [married individuals filing separately], as amended by the Tax Reform Act of 1969, shall apply to the income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States by a nonresident alien individual who is a nonresident of the United States for all or part of the taxable year or by a foreign estate or trust. For such years the tax imposed by section 1(c) [unmarried individuals], as amended by such Act, shall apply to the income effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States by an unmarried alien individual (other than a surviving spouse) who is a nonresident of the United States for all or part of the taxable year. See paragraph (b)(2) of section 1.871-8.” [26 C.F.R. §1.1-1]

2. Those who are “self employed” do not earn “gross income” unless it is connected to a “trade or business”:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 2 > §1402
§1402: Definitions
(a) Net earnings from self-employment

The term "net earnings from self-employment" means the gross income derived by an individual from any trade or business carried on by such individual, less the deductions allowed by this subtitle which are attributable to such trade or business, plus his distributive share (whether or not distributed) of income or loss described in section 702(a)(8) from any trade or business carried on by a partnership of which he is a member; ....

3. The only indirect excise activity connected with a biological person and which is subject to Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1)(iv) as “income effectively connected with a trade or business” of a “nonresident alien”. Therefore, the only earnings of a “nonresident alien” that can be included in “gross income” are those “effectively connected with a trade or business” (e.g. performance of a public office domiciled in the District of Columbia):

Title 26: Internal Revenue
PART I—INCOME TAXES
Determination of Sources of Income
§1.861-8 Computation of taxable income from sources within the United States and from other sources and activities.
(f) Miscellaneous matters.
(1) Operative sections.
The operative sections of the Code which require the determination of taxable income of the taxpayer from specific sources or activities and which give rise to statutory groupings to which this section is applicable include the sections described below.
(iv) Effectively connected taxable income.

Nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations engaged in trade or business within the United States, under sections 871(b)(1) and 882(a)(1), on taxable income [federal payments] which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the [federal] United States. Such taxable income is determined in most instances by initially determining, under section 864(c), the amount of gross income which is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States. Pursuant to sections 873 and 882(c), this section is applicable for purposes of determining the deductions from such gross income (other than the deduction for interest expense allowed to foreign corporations (see section 1.882-5)) which are to be taken into account in determining taxable income. See example (21) of paragraph (g) of this section.

4. Statutory but not constitutional “U.S. Citizens” abroad whose earnings are subject to tax include only those with income “effectively connected with a trade or business”. By statutory “U.S. Citizen” (8 U.S.C. §1401), we mean those born anywhere in the country and domiciled on federal territory within the District of Columbia or the territories of the United States, as discussed in chapter 4 starting in section 4.11 and NOT within any state of the Union:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART III > Subpart B > § 911
§ 911. Citizens or residents of the United States living abroad
(a) Exclusion from gross income

At the election of a qualified individual (made separately with respect to paragraphs (1) and (2)), there shall be excluded from the gross income of such individual, and exempt from taxation under this subtitle, for any taxable year:

(1) the foreign earned income of such individual, and
(2) the housing cost amount of such individual. (d) Definitions and special rules

(b) Foreign earned income

(1) Definition

For purposes of this section -

(A) In general

The term "foreign earned income" with respect to any individual means the amount received by such individual from sources within a foreign country or countries which constitute earned income attributable to services performed by such individual during the period described in subparagraph (A) or (B) of subsection (d)(1), whichever is applicable. (B) Certain amounts not included in foreign earned income

The foreign earned income for an individual shall not include amounts -

(i) received as a pension or annuity,
(ii) paid by the United States or an agency thereof to an employee of the United States or an agency thereof,
(iii) included in gross income by reason of section 402(b) (relating to taxability of beneficiary of nonexempt trust) or section 403(c) (relating to taxability of beneficiary under a nonqualified annuity), or
(iv) received after the close of the taxable year following the taxable year in which the services to which the amounts are attributable are performed.

[...]

(d) Definitions and special rules

For purposes of this section -

[...]

(2) Earned income

(A) In general

The term "earned income" means wages, salaries, or professional fees, and other amounts received as compensation for personal services actually rendered, but does not include that part of the compensation derived by the taxpayer for personal services rendered by him to a corporation which represents a distribution of earnings or profits rather than a reasonable allowance as compensation for the personal services actually rendered.

(B) Taxpayer engaged in trade or business

In the case of a taxpayer engaged in a trade or business in which both personal services and capital are material income-producing factors, under regulations prescribed by the Secretary, a reasonable allowance as compensation for the personal services rendered by the taxpayer, not in excess of 30 percent of his share of the net profits of such trade or business, shall be considered as earned income.

The key "word of art" above is the term "personal services" which 26 C.F.R. §1.469-9 says means "work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business". Therefore, "U.S. citizens" abroad who are not involved in a "trade or business" do not earn "taxable income" because they are not engaged in an excise taxable activity. Notice also that the term "abroad" is never defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code AND that the 50 states of the Union are NOT “domestic” as domestic is used in the Code. They instead are “foreign” for the purposes of legislative jurisdiction, as we emphasize throughout this chapter. Also notice that there is no mention anywhere within the entire I.R.C. of the status of taxability of earnings of statutory “U.S. citizens” situated outside the statutory “United States” (federal territory) within the code but NOT abroad. That is because they ARE NOT subject to the Internal Revenue Code, and can’t even volunteer to be subject to a prima facie statute that they are not even within the territorial jurisdiction of.

5. Earnings from labor rendered by a “nonresident alien”, even if within the “United States” (federal zone), to a foreign corporation or foreign partnership that is not involved in a “trade or business” in the United States (public office) is not includable as “gross income”. Ditto for earnings from a “foreign country”, which includes states of the Union, as we pointed out earlier in section 5.2.14. Here is the proof:

   TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART I > §864
   §864. Definitions and special rules

   (b) Trade or business within the United States

   For purposes of this part, part II, and chapter 3, the term “trade or business within the United States” includes the performance of personal services within the United States at any time within the taxable year, but does not include—

   (1) Performance of personal services for foreign employer

   The performance of personal services—
   (A) for a nonresident alien individual, foreign partnership, or foreign corporation, not engaged in trade or business within the United States, or
   (B) for an office or place of business maintained in a foreign country or in a possession of the United States by an individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States or by a domestic partnership or a domestic corporation,

6. Whether a legal “person” is considered “resident” or “nonresident” has nothing to do with where it was organized, incorporated or where it has a physical presence. Instead, it is determined by whether the organization is engaged in a “trade or business”. Therefore, if you aren't engaged in a “trade or business”, even if you are domiciled on federal territory within the statutory but not constitutional “United States”, then you are a “nonresident”. Here is the proof:

   26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

   A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does not own or operate any property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

   [Amended by T.D. 8813, Federal Register: February 2, 1999 (Volume 64, Number 21), Page 4967-4975]

   If you examine the above list, there are only four statuses or conditions throughout the I.R.C. that don’t specifically mention that they must be connected to a “trade or business” in order to qualify as “gross income”, which are:

3. Domestic International Sales Corporations (DISC) involved in foreign commerce.
4. Foreign Sales Corporations (FSC) involved in foreign commerce.

   We know that the first two are ALSO involved in a “trade or business” because in the only place they are mentioned in the I.R.C., which is 26 U.S.C. §1(a) and 1(f), a graduated rate of tax appears there. There is no way to elect a flat 30% tax rate as a “Married individual” or “Head of household” without declaring oneself as a “nonresident alien” and coming under the provisions of 26 U.S.C. §871(a) INSTEAD of these two provisions. Furthermore, the requirement for “equal protection of the laws”, found in Section 1 of the Fourteenth Amendment and in 42 U.S.C. §1981(a), mandates that “Heads of Household” and “Married individuals” shall be subjected to the same burdens, taxes, and penalties as “Married individuals filing separately” or “Unmarried individuals” or they would be discriminated against. Therefore, they too must be engaged in a “trade or business” in order to earn “taxable income” as well. We also know that the graduated rate of tax cannot be implemented in states of the Union, because they are not “uniform”, meaning that everyone doesn't pay the same percentage, as required by the U.S. Constitution, Article 1, Section 8, Clause 1, which says:

U.S. Constitution
Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3

The Congress shall have Power To lay and collect Taxes, Duties, Imposts and Excises, to pay the Debts and provide for the common Defence and general Welfare of the United States; but all Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform [same percentage] throughout the United States [and upon all “persons”].

The reason all excise taxes within states of the Union must be uniform throughout the states and have the same percentage on all persons is that if they weren't, then the federal government would be depriving sovereign American Nationals in the states of "equal protection of the laws". However, the Constitutional requirement for "equal protection" does not apply within areas under exclusive federal jurisdiction, such as the District of Columbia, under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17, and under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution. There have been at least two state supreme Court rulings consistent with this conclusion, which declared that graduated rate income taxes are unconstitutional within states of the Union. See Culliton v. Chase, 25 P.2d. 81 (1933) and Jensen v. Henneford, 53 P.2d. 607 (1936). You will learn later in this section that those who elect for a graduated rate of tax are “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States” under 26 U.S.C. §871(b).

We’ll now provide a table summarizing our findings to show the excise taxable activity for each type of entity to make the results of this survey of the I.R.C. crystal clear. Note that all the taxable activities must occur within exclusive federal jurisdiction under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 17 of the Constitution, or else they become “extortion under the color of law”. The federal government cannot collect or assess taxes in areas where it has no legislative jurisdiction. If you aren’t listed in the table below, then you are a “nontaxpayer”:

5.6.12.8 What kind of tax is it?: Direct or Indirect, Constitutional or Unconstitutional?

We already proved in section 5.1.2 that the I.R.C., Subtitles A and C income tax is an excise or franchise tax upon public offices within the national but not state government. The next important questions we must answer are the following, which we frequently hear from our readers:

1. Is it DIRECT or INDIRECT as described in the U.S. Constitution?
2. Is it a CONSTITUTIONAL or UNCONSTITUTIONAL tax?

Of I.R.C., Subtitle A income taxes, the U.S. Supreme Court has said:

“...the requirement to pay [excise] taxes involves the exercise of privilege.”
[Flint v. Stone Tracy Co., 220 U.S. 107 (1911)]

“We are of opinion, however, that the confusion is not inherent, but rather arises from the conclusion that the 16th Amendment provides for a hitherto unknown power of taxation; that is, a power to levy an income tax which, although direct, should not be subject to the regulation of apportionment applicable to all other direct taxes. And the far-reaching effect of this erroneous assumption will be made clear by generalizing the many contentions advanced in argument to support it...”
[Brushaber v. Union Pacific R. Co., 240 U.S. 1 (1916)]

“The provisions of the Sixteenth Amendment conferred no new power of taxation...”
[Stanton v. Baltic Mining Co., 240 U.S. 103 (1916)]

“The Sixteenth Amendment, although referred to in argument, has no real bearing and may be put out of view. As pointed out in recent decisions, it does not extend the taxing power to new or excepted subjects...”
[Peck v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 165 (1918)]

“We must reject... ...the broad contention submitted in behalf of the government that all receipts-- everything that comes in-- are income...”
[So. Pacific v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330 (1918)]

Therefore, I.R.C., Subtitle A describes an excise tax upon “privileges”. If it ain’t a privilege, then they can’t tax it. Neither can the government lawfully tax the exercise of a right, such as the right to work and support yourself, unless that right is exercised coincident with a “privilege” of federal employment, agency, or benefits.

“PRIVILEGE: A particular benefit or advantage enjoyed by a person, company, or class beyond the common advantages of others citizens. An exceptional or extraordinary power of exemption. A particular right, advantage, exemption, power, franchise, or immunity held by a person or class, not generally possessed by others.”

“It has been well said that ‘the property which every man has in his own labor, as it is the original foundation of all other property, so it is the most sacred and inviolable. The patrimony of the poor man lies in the strength and dexterity of his own hands, and to hinder his employing this strength and dexterity in what manner he thinks proper, without injury to his neighbor, is a plain violation of this most sacred property.’”
[Butchers’ Union Co. v. Crescent City Co., 111 U.S. 746 (1884)]
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

"Included in the right of personal liberty and the right of private property—partaking of the nature of each—is the right to make contracts for the acquisition of property. Chief among such contracts is that of personal employment, by which labor and other services are exchanged for money or other forms of property."

[Coppage v. Kansas, 236 U.S. 1 (1915)]

"Every man has a natural right to the fruits of his own labor, is generally admitted; and no other person can rightfully deprive him of those fruits, and appropriate them against his will..."

[The Antelope, 23 U.S. 66; 10 Wheat 66; 6 L.Ed. 268 (1825)]

Now that we have thoroughly analyzed why Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A describes an “excise” tax on a taxable activity called a “trade or business”, we are now ready to address how this tax functions. We have prepared a table to clarify these mechanisms:

<td>1. Filing a W-4 with your private employer. When you file a W-4, you signed an “agreement”/contract (see 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3). This agreement made you into a recipient, “transferee”, and “fiduciary” over payments to the federal government under 26 U.S.C. §6901. It also constituted an agreement under 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1 to include all of your earnings from the employer receiving the W-4 on a tax “return” as “gross income”. Your private employer is no longer paying you directly and you effectively become a “subcontractor” to the U.S. government, who is your intermediary and real “employer”. Instead, your private employer is paying a “straw man” or artificial entity named a federal “employee” acting on behalf of the government as a “transferee” and “fiduciary”. The all caps name on the W-4 and the SSN associated with the all caps name is the “res” or artificial entity that describes the federal subcontractor that you are representing. The SSN or TIN and the all caps “straw man” name on the pay stub that your private employer gives you is evidence that the payment is a payment to the federal government which is federal property because this number can only be used for keeping track of federal payments and “receipts”. The money your private employer pays you are “earnings” of a U.S. government subcontractor. Recall that “income”, within the meaning of the Constitution is “corporate profit”. The U.S. government is described as a “federal corporation” in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). The “profit” of this federal corporation is the “tax” deducted from the payment and “returned” to the corporation using a tax “return”. The SSN is a vehicle the government uses to keep track of federal payments and federal subcontractors called “employees” who are managing these payments and returning “taxes”, which are “corporate profit” payments, to their rightful owner.</td>

Under 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3), all earnings within the statutory “United States” (federal territory) are “effectively connected with a trade or business”; so you must be engaged in a “trade or business”, so you must be engaged in a “trade or business” whether you realize it or not if you file form 1040 instead of the proper form 1040NR.</td>

NOTES ON ABOVE DIAGRAM:
6. The I.R.C., Subtitle A income tax is NOT implemented through public law or positive law, but primarily through private law. Private law always supersedes enacted positive law because no court or government can interfere with your right to contract. See Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution for the proof. The IRS Form W-4 is a contract or agreement, and the United States has jurisdiction over its own property and employees under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2, wherever they may reside, including in places where it has no legislative jurisdiction. The IRS Form W-4 you signed is a private contract that makes you into a federal employee, and neither the state nor the federal government may interfere with the private right to contract. 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1 identifies the W-4 as an “agreement”, which is a contract. It doesn’t say that on the form, because your covetous government doesn’t want you to know you are signing a contract by submitting an IRS Form W-4.

7. The “tax” is not paid by you, but by your “straw man”, who is a federal “public officer” engaged in a “trade or business” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). His workplace is the “District of Columbia” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d). That “public officer” you have volunteered to represent is working as a federal “employee” who is part of the United States government, which is defined as a federal corporation in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). In that sense, the “tax” is indirect, because you don’t pay it, but your straw man, who is a “public officer”, pays it to your “employer”, the federal government, which is a federal corporation.

8. Because you are presumed by the IRS to be a federal “employee” and you work for an unspecified and unidentified federal corporation, then you are acting as an “officer or employee of a federal corporation” and you:

8.1. Are the proper subject of the penalty statutes, as defined under 26 U.S.C. §6671(b).
8.3. May have the code enforced against you without implementing regulations as required by 44 U.S.C. §1505(a)(1) and 5 U.S.C. §553(a)(2).

9. The “activity” of performing a “trade or business” is only “taxable” when executed on federal territory, which is what the statutory “United States” is defined as in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d). See 26 U.S.C. §864 and this section for evidence.

10. Those who file form 1040 instead of the proper form 1040NR provide evidence under penalty of perjury that they are “U.S. persons” (see 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30)) who are domiciled in the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory). The IRS Published Products Catalog, Document 7130 (2003) says the form can only be used for “citizens or residents” of the “United States”, which is defined as federal territory in the I.R.C.

The words you use to describe this tax can get you into trouble in court and attract insincere and covetous judges and prosecutors to call you frivolous and try to penalize you to evade addressing the issues raised in this memorandum. We would now like to clarify the following important facts about the nature of the I.R.C., Subtitles A and C income tax to ensure that our readers stay out of harm’s way:

1. Is NOT an Article 1, Section 8 tax. The states are not expressly included within the definition of “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) and therefore are purposefully excluded per the rules of statutory construction.

“Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98, was an action of trespass or, as appears by the original record, replevin, brought in the circuit court for the District of Columbia to try the right of Congress to impose a direct tax for general purposes on that District. 3 Stat. at L. 216, chap. 60. It was insisted that Congress could not infringe upon the right of a state legislature to tax its own citizens for state purposes, yet that the Congress might not legislate for the District under art. 1, 8, giving to Congress the power to lay and collect taxes, imposts, and excises, which shall be uniform throughout the United States, inasmuch as the District was no part of the United States [described in the Constitution]. It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States. The fact that art. 1, 2, declares that 'representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states . . . according to their respective numbers' furnished a standard by which taxes were apportioned, but not to exempt any part of the country from their operation. The words used do not mean that direct taxes shall be imposed on states only which are represented, or shall be apportioned to representatives; but that direct taxation, in its application to states, shall be apportioned to numbers.' That art. 1, 9, 4, declaring that direct taxes shall be laid in proportion to the census, was applicable to the District of Columbia, 'and will enable Congress to apportion on it its just and equal share of the burden, with the same accuracy as on the respective states. If the tax be laid in this proportion, it is within the very words of the restriction. It is a tax in proportion to the census or enumeration referred to.' It was further held that the words of the 9th section did not 'in terms require that the system of direct taxation, when resorted to, shall be extended to the territories, as the words of the 2d section require that it shall be extended to all the states. They therefore may, without violence, be understood to give a rule when the territories shall be taxed, without imposing the necessity of taxing them.'"

[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]
2. It is only applicable to those consensually and contractually engaging in business WITH the U.S. Inc. as public officers.

3. Extends ONLY where the GOVERNMENT extends.

   "It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States."

   [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

Sources WITHIN the government, in fact, are defined in the at 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3) as "sources within the United States".

4. It functions as what we call a "public officer kickback program" disguised to LOOK like a lawful national tax. That perspective is thoroughly explained in:

   4.2. Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.6.10

   http://famguardian.org/Publications/GreatIRSHoax/GreatIRSHoax.htm

5. It is neither CONSTITUTIONAL nor UNCONSTITUTIONAL, but rather EXTRA-CONSTITUTIONAL. It is an EXTRA-constitutional tax because the Constitution doesn’t protect what happens by consent to PUBLIC officers within the government. All those serving in public offices do so by consent and it is a maxim of law that you cannot complain of an injury for things you consent to.

6. While it is NOT a constitutional but an EXTRA-constitutional tax, if tax terms such as "direct, indirect, excise" used within the constitution WERE used to describe it, then it would have to be described as follows:

   6.1. It is a direct, unapportioned tax on INCOME as property. All direct taxes are on property. Note also that the ONLY place it can be administered as a "DIRECT TAX" is the District of Columbia, which is why the terms "United States" and "State" are both defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) as the District of Columbia and no part of any state of the Union. This is also why the ONLY remaining "internal revenue district" within which the I.R.S. can lawfully enforce pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7601 is the District of Columbia.

   "Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98, was an action of trespass or, as appears by the original record, replevin, brought in the circuit court for the District of Columbia to try the right of Congress to impose a direct tax for general purposes on that District. 3 Stat. at L. 216, chap. 60. It was insisted that Congress could act in a double capacity: in one as legislating [182 U.S. 244, 260] for the states; in the other as a local legislature for the District of Columbia. In the latter character, it was admitted that the power of levying direct taxes might be exercised, but for District purposes only, as a state legislature might tax for state purposes; but that it could not legislate for the District under art. 1, 8, giving to Congress the power 'to lay and collect taxes, importes, and excises,' which 'shall be uniform throughout the United States,' inasmuch as the District was no part of the United States described in the Constitution. It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States. The fact that art. 1, 2, declares that 'representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states . . . according to their respective numbers' furnished a standard by which taxes were apportioned, but not to exempt any part of the country from their operation. 'The words used do not mean that direct taxes shall be imposed on states only which are represented, or shall be apportioned to representatives: but that direct taxation, in its application to states, shall be apportioned to numbers.' That art. 1, 9, 4, declaring that direct taxes shall be laid in proportion to the census, was applicable to the District of Columbia, 'and will enable Congress to apportion on it its just and equal share of the burden, with the same accuracy as on the respective states. If the tax be laid in this proportion, it is within the very words of the restriction. It is a tax in proportion to the census or enumeration referred to.' It was further held that the words of the 9th section did not 'in terms require that the system of direct taxation, when resorted to, shall be extended to the territories, as the words of the 2d section require that it shall be extended to all the states. They therefore may, without violence, be understood to give a rule when the territories shall be taxed, without imposing the necessity of taxing them.'"

   [Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]

6.2. It is a DIRECT TAX because it involves both real estate and personal property or the "benefits" of such property. This definition of "direct" derives from Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429 (1894).

6.3. It is a direct tax upon PROPERTY owned BY THE GOVERNMENT because in POSSESSION of the government at the time of payment.

6.4. The earnings of public offices are property of the government, because the OFFICE is owned by the government and was created by the government. The creator of a thing is always the owner.

6.5. The "income" subject to the tax is payments FROM the government.

6.6. It is an excise on the SOURCE of income.

6.7. The SOURCE is the specific place the activity was accomplished, which is ALWAYS the government or a "U.S. source". A "U.S. source" means an activity WITHIN the government. Hence "INTERNAL revenue code". See:

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Source of Earned Income

The source of your earned income is the place where you perform the services for which you received the income. Foreign earned income is income you receive for performing personal services in a foreign country. Where or how you are paid has no effect on the source of the income. For example, income you receive for work done in France is income from a foreign source even if the income is paid directly to your bank account in the United States and your employer is located in New York City.

If you receive a specific amount for work done in the United States, you must report that amount as U.S. source income. If you cannot determine how much is for work done in the United States, or for work done partly in the United States and partly in a foreign country, determine the amount of U.S. source income using the method that most correctly shows the proper source of your income.

In most cases you can make this determination on a time basis. U.S. source income is the amount that results from multiplying your total pay (including allowances, re-imbursements other than for foreign moves, and noncash fringe benefits) by a fraction. The numerator (top number) is the number of days you worked within the United States. The denominator is the total number of days of work for which you were paid.

6.8. It is INDIRECT in the sense that all indirect taxes are excise taxes upon activities that can be avoided by avoiding the activity. However, it becomes DIRECT, a THEFT, and slavery/involuntary servitude if the government:

6.8.1. Refuses to recognize or protect your right to NOT volunteer and not become a public officer.
6.8.2. Refuses to acknowledge the nature of the activity being taxed, or PREMISES that it is NOT a public office.
6.8.3. Refuses to correct false information returns against those NOT engaging in the activity, and thereby through omission causes EVERYONE who is the subject of such false reports to essentially be elected into a public office through a criminally false and fraudulent information return.
6.8.4. Enforces it outside of the exclusive jurisdiction of Congress or against those who are not public officers and officers of a corporation as required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b).

6.9. The reason that direct and indirect can BOTH describe it, is that the constitution doesn't apply in the only place the activity can lawfully be exercised (per 4 U.S.C. §72), which is federal territory. It doesn't fit the constitution because it doesn't apply to the PRIVATE people who are the only proper subject of the constitution.

7. Civil choice of law rules found in Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17 and 28 U.S.C. §1652 dictate that the LOCAL state law governs the activity by default and that foreign law (under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 44.1) only becomes applicable if the party is acting as an officer of a foreign corporation. Hence, only by being lawfully engaged in a public office within the U.S. Government, which is a federal corporation and legislatively foreign corporation in respect to constitutional states of the Union, can the municipal laws of the District of Columbia be made applicable to the activity. Otherwise, there is no federal jurisdiction over the activity subject to tax.

"A foreign corporation is one that derives its existence solely from the laws of another state, government, or country, and the term is used indiscriminately, sometimes in statutes, to designate either a corporation created by or under the laws of another state or a corporation created by or under the laws of a foreign country."

[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §883 (2003)]

8. It is PRIVATE law and SPECIAL law, rather than PUBLIC law, that only applies to specific persons and things CONSENSUALLY engaged in activities on federal territory as AGENTS of the government ONLY. That is why the entire Title 26 of the U.S. Code is identified as NOT being “positive law” in 1 U.S.C. §204: Because it doesn’t acquire the “force of law” or become legal evidence of an obligation until AFTER you consent to it. It is a maxim of law that anything done to you with your consent cannot form the basis for an injury or a remedy in a court of law. On the OTHER hand, if everyone fills out IRS Form W-4’s and ACTS like a government statutory “employee”, then for all intents and purposes it applies to EVERYONE and at least LOOKS like it is public law, even though it isn’t.

9. Because it is PRIVATE and SPECIAL LAW, it is what the United States Supreme Court called “class legislation” in Pollock v. Farmers’ Loan & Trust Co., 157 U.S. 429 (1894). The specific “class” to which is applies is that SUBSET of all “citizens” who are lawfully serving in an elected or appointed public office.

10. The activities SUBJECT to the tax must also occur on federal territory in order to be the lawful subject of any congressional civil enactment.
10.1. All civil law is prima facie territorial.

10.3. If territory is divorced from the activity and the tax is enforced outside of federal territory, then the activity subject to tax becomes an act of private contract governed by the local CIVIL laws of the jurisdiction in which the activity occurred. And because it is private business activity, then there is a waiver of sovereign immunity AND it must be heard in a LOCAL state court having jurisdiction over the domicile of the public officer and NOT in a federal court. These facts are plainly stated in 40 U.S.C. §3112.

11. If it is enforced or offered in a constitutional state, then:

11.1. An "invasion" has occurred under Article 4, Section 4. By "enforced", we mean that the ACTIVITY subject to the tax occurs within a constitutional state of the Union. Hence, "INTERNAL" in the phrase "INTERNAL Revenue Service", meaning INTERNAL to the government and INTERNAL to federal territory.

11.2. The franchise is being illegally enforced:

"Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee."

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects.

Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.

[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

We would therefore strongly suggest that in describing this tax in court pleadings or to juries and in front of malicious judges, you:

1. Never describe it as either direct or indirect. It’s irrelevant and could truthfully be described as either. The U.S. Supreme Court, for instance, calls it a “direct unapportioned tax” applicable only to the District of Columbia, while the Congressional Research Service calls it an INDIRECT tax. They are BOTH right! This is a red herring.

2. NOT argue about whether the Internal Revenue Code is constitutional or unconstitutional. It is entirely constitutional. What is unconstitutional is how it is willfully and maliciously MISREPRESENTED and illegally enforced by both the Department of Justice and the Internal Revenue Service. 18 U.S.C. §912.

3. Demand written proof of your consent to occupy or be held accountable for the duties associated with the illegally created public office that is the subject of the tax.

4. Pay SPECIAL focus on the CONTEXT for terms: STATUTORY v. CONSTITUTIONAL. These two contexts are mutually exclusive and non-overlapping for the purpose of the income tax. They will attempt many different “fallacies by equivocation” in order to mislead the jury and undermine your defense. We talk about this at length in:

Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen. Form #05.006
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

5. Instead focus on:

5.1. The activity that is the subject of the tax and how you, as a private nonresident in a legislatively foreign state can lawfully engage in the activity.

5.2. How the choice of law rules documented herein do not permit the enforcement of the tax under federal law, and therefore, that there is no jurisdiction to enforce or collect the tax.

5.3. WHERE the activity may be lawfully exercised and that you are NOT located in that place, which is the District of Columbia and no part of any state of the Union.

5.4. The fact that it is a crime to impersonate a public office, even with your consent.

5.5. The fact that compelled withholding causes the crime of bribery to solicit you to be treated illegally as a public officer. 18 U.S.C. §211.
5.6.12.9  Who’s “trade or business”: The PAYER, the PAYEE, or BOTH?

Every transaction must involve the de facto government (Form #05.043) and therefore public rights and franchises in order to qualify as an excise taxable event. The income tax under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, as we all well know, is a franchise/excise tax. The only context in which the statutory definition of "United States" makes any sense at all is in fact to treat it as an excise/franchise tax. The "United States" in the I.R.C. then becomes the franchisor in a virtual and not a physical or geographical sense. The ability to regulate, tax, or burden private conduct is beyond the reach of the Constitution, and therefore the activity must involve publici juris and public rights to be taxable.

"The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966), their treatment of Congress' §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned.”

[City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

Every transaction involving the government has two parties: The payer and the payee. That is why the tax is upon both "trade or business" earnings and "U.S. source" earnings: The payer is always a public office in the government and the recipient is either a "resident alien individual" or a "nonresident alien individual" receiving payments from this "U.S. source" if the transaction is taxable to EITHER party. This is made clear by 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), which says that the transaction is not "gross income" and is "foreign" and beyond the jurisdiction of the I.R.C. if it does not involve one of these two aspects, meaning if it does not involve a public officer payer OR an "individual" recipient:

```
TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > § 7701
§ 7701. Definitions
(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(31) Foreign estate or trust
(A) Foreign estate The term "foreign estate" means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.
(B) Foreign trust The term "foreign trust" means any trust other than a trust described in subparagraph (E) of paragraph (30).
```

Whenever a taxable payment occurs, an information return is filed usually by the payer, who in law must always be treated as a public officer in the government, meaning a "source within the United States" (government, not geographical USA). 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) says that the information return can only be filed in connection with a "trade or business", meaning that at least one end of the transaction must involve a public officer in the government.

```
TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 61 > Subchapter A > PART III > Subpart B > § 6041
§ 6041. Information at source
(a) Payments of $600 or more

All persons engaged in a trade or business and making payment in the course of such trade or business to another person, of rent, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments, or other fixed or determinable gains, profits, and income (other than payments to which section 6042 (a)(1), 6044 (a)(1), 6047 (e), 6049 (a), or 6050N (a) applies, and other than payments with respect to which a statement is required under the authority of section 6042 (a)(2), 6044 (a)(2), or 6045), of $600 or more in any taxable year, or, in the case of such payments made by the United States, the officers or employees of the United States having information as to such payments and required to make returns in regard thereto by the regulations hereinafter provided for, shall render a true and accurate return to the Secretary, under such regulations and in such form and manner and to such extent as may be prescribed by the Secretary, setting forth the amount of such gains, profits, and income, and the name and address of the recipient of such payment.

Our job is to figure out WHICH end of the transaction is a public officer, because that is the only one subject to the code and therefore a "taxpayer". The PAYOR can be a public officer and therefore a "taxpayer" as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) while the PAYEE can be a nonresident and a "nontaxpayer". It makes no sense to report a transaction or withhold, in fact, if the PAYEE is not a "taxpayer".

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

26 U.S.C. §6041 gives us a clue to the puzzle: it says the PAYER must file the information return and is engaged in a "trade or business", but it doesn't say that the PAYEE ALSO is involved in a "trade or business" as a public officer. Therefore, as a bare minimum every transaction involves a PAYER who is a public officer and therefore a "taxpayer" engaged in a "trade or business". We still don't yet know how the PAYEE would be treated in such a transaction, but as a bare minimum, we know that it is in receipt of "U.S. source" income from a public office within the "United States" government. Some clues, though:

1. Congress only has jurisdiction over PUBLIC activity. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate private conduct is "repugnant to the Constitution". The constitution exists, in fact, to keep private conduct beyond the reach of the government. Consequently, BOTH parties to the transaction must be acting in a public capacity as public officers and therefore "taxpayers".

2. If the PAYER was a public office and a "taxpayer" but the PAYEE was not, then the I.R.C. would be injuring private parties and interfering with the right to contract of both parties by imposing duties above and beyond the contract between them. The Constitution was created to protect your right to contract, and therefore they can't tax or withhold within such a transaction. Frank Kowalik in his wonderful book IRS Humbug: Weapons of Enslavement, Frank Kowalik, ISBN 0-9626552-0-1, 1991, analyzes this aspect of all such payments and agrees with us on this point.

3. 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) uses the phrase "another person" to refer to the payee, so the PAYEE obviously must also be a "taxpayer" and a "person" subject to the code in order for the reporting to occur. Furthermore, if the recipient were NOT such a "person", they would have no liability and therefore would also not be subject to withholding. Withholding is only required for "taxpayers".

An example of payment that would not be taxable or reportable is one made to a non-resident non-person. This would be the case with those in the military who file non-resident non-person withholding paperwork such as the IRS Form W-8BEN, who modify block 3 of the form to indicate that they are "non-resident non-person", and who are enlisted rather than commissioned officers. When the transaction involves only one "taxpayer", the code does NOT create a liability to report against the withholding agent because the recipient is not a "person" (or "another person" as referred to in 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) and 26 U.S.C. §1461) as a nonresident. 26 U.S.C. §6041A(d)(1) and 26 U.S.C. §6049(d)(1) both establish that BOTH the PAYEE AND THE PAYOR must be STATUTORY “persons” and therefore public officers in order for a payment to be reportable as “gross income” on an information return (e.g. W-2, 1099, etc):

(d) Definitions and special rules

For purposes of this section—

(1) Person

The term “person” includes any governmental unit and any agency or instrumentality thereof and any international organization and any agency or instrumentality thereof.

Note that:

1. As we frequently emphasize throughout our writings, Title 26 is called the “INTERNAL Revenue Code”, which means INTERNAL to the U.S. government, not INTERNAL to the CONSTITUTIONAL or even the GEOGRAPHICAL “United States”.

2. NOWHERE is the STATUTORY term “person” as used in the above two statutes defined to include anything OTHER than a GOVERNMENT or a PRIVILEGED FEDERAL CORPORATION. The “international organization” they are talking about above is, in fact a federal corporation involved in foreign commerce. That is how 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(18) defines an “international organization".

26 U.S. Code § 7701 - Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(18) International organization

The term “international organization” means a public international organization entitled to enjoy privileges [FRANCHISES], exemptions, and immunities as an international organization under the International Organizations Immunities Act (22 U.S.C. 288-288f).

3. The definition of “person” above is the ONLY type of “person” to which information return reporting applies, because the definition SUPERSEDES that found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) for the purposes of reporting only and this section.

3.2. 26 U.S.C. §6041A(d) says “(d) Applications to governmental units” but this heading does not betray ANY meaning according to 26 U.S.C. §7806(b) or Railroad Trainmen v. B. & O.R. Co., 331 U.S. 519 (1947). That heading or subsection also does NOT indicate an ADDITION to the definition of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1), and therefore does not imply such an addition.

4. When a definition is provided, it SUPERSEDES the common meaning and by implication EXCLUDES both the common meaning or ALL OTHER meanings provided elsewhere in the code:

“Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 436, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”

“When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term’s ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) (“It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term”); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 (“As a rule, a definition which declares what a term "means" . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated”); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.: see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S.}

The code is civil law that is not enforceable against nonresidents per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). All civil law attaches to the choice of domicile of the parties and cannot operate beyond the territory of the law making power unless:

1. A contract or franchise extends its reach beyond the territory of the sovereign. That franchise or contract, if it is a GOVERNMENT contract, however, CANNOT operate within a state of the Union protected by the Constitution because the rights of those domiciled there are "unalienable", which means that they can't be sold, transferred, or bargained away through any commercial process. Franchises such as a "trade or business" are commercial processes and contracts.

   "We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are Life, Liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. --That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed, "
   [Declaration of Independence]

   "Unalienable. Inalienable; incapable of being aliened, that is, sold and transferred."

2. It operates on a domiciliary temporarily abroad but not within a state of the Union under 26 U.S.C. §911.

   26 U.S.C. §1461 makes the PAYER liable to deduct and withhold payment to another "person" but a nonresident cannot be a "person" within the meaning of this civil provision because all civil law attaches to one's choice of domicile:

   TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 3 > Subchapter B > § 1461
   § 1461. Liability for withheld tax

   Every person required to deduct and withhold any tax under this chapter is hereby made liable for such tax and is hereby indemnified against the claims and demands of any person for the amount of any payments made in accordance with the provisions of this chapter.

   The foregoing considerations would lead, in case of doubt, to a construction of any statute as intended to be confined in its operation and effect to the territorial limits over which the lawmaker has general and legitimate power. 'All legislation is prima facie territorial.' Ex parte Blain, L. R. 12 Ch. Div. 522, 528; State v. Carter, 27 N.J.L. 499; People v. Merrill, 2 Park. Crim. Rep. 590, 596, Words having universal scope, such as 'every contract in restraint of trade,' 'every person who shall monopolize,' etc., will be taken, as a matter of course, to mean only everyone subject to such legislation, not all that the legislator subsequently may be able to catch.

   In the case of the present statute, the improbability of the United States attempting to make acts done in Panama or Costa Rica criminal is obvious, yet the law begins by making criminal the acts for which it gives a right to sue. We think it entirely plain that what the defendant did in Panama or Costa Rica is not within the scope of the statute so far as the present suit is concerned. Other objections of a serious nature are urged, but need not be discussed.

   The phrase "general or legitimate power" imply "general and exclusive jurisdiction", not subject matter jurisdiction. The feds only have general jurisdiction within federal territory. In a state, they have limited and subject matter jurisdiction ONLY and NOT general jurisdiction. That is not to say that they don't have jurisdiction over ALL PEOPLE within a state. They always have jurisdiction over those domiciled on federal territory, regardless of where they are situated, including in a state, but they don't have such jurisdiction within a state of those domiciled outside of federal territory and who therefore are not statutory "U.S. citizens", "U.S. residents", and "U.S. persons". The following article emphasizes this point, but is FLAT OUT WRONG in concluding that District Courts in the States of the Union are Article III courts. They have NEVER been given this power.

   The only thing they can or do is officiate over are Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 franchises such as income taxes, Social Security, etc. and crimes committed on federal territory where they enjoy general jurisdiction. The What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012 proves this with thousands of pages of evidence.

Conflicts in a Nutshell

§22 Federal Subject Matter Jurisdiction

Because of our federal system, in which more than 50 sovereigns function within the framework of a national sovereign, the federal court structure is unique in that its principal trial court, the U.S. District Court, is a court of limited rather than general jurisdiction. The state is left to supply the “general” court. The federal constitution permits Congress to confer on federal courts of its creation only such jurisdiction as is outlined in section 2 of Article III. Hence the source of these federal limitations is the constitution itself.

Even within the federal system, however, one can find courts of general jurisdiction. Areas within the jurisdiction of the United States that lack their own sovereignty, and thus a court system of their own, must depend on the federal legislature for a complete court system: the District of Columbia and the few remaining territories of the United States are in this category. For them, Congress has the power (from Article I of the constitution for the District and from Article IV of the constitution for the territories) to create courts of general jurisdiction. But Congress has no such power with respect to the states, for which reason all of the federal courts sitting within the states, including the district courts, must trace their powers to those within the limits of Article III and are hence courts of “limited” jurisdiction.

This is one reason why issues of subject matter jurisdiction arise more frequently in the federal system than in state courts. Another is that for a variety of reasons, federal jurisdiction is often preferred by a plaintiff who has a choice of forums. Taken together, this means that more cases near the subject matter jurisdiction borderline appear in the federal than in the state courts.

One of the major sources of federal subject matter jurisdiction is the diversity of citizenship of the parties. It authorizes federal suit even though the dispute involves no issues of federal law. The statute that authorizes this jurisdiction, however (28 U.S.C.A. 1332), requires that there be more than $75,000 in controversy. A plaintiff near that figure and who wants federal jurisdiction will try for it, while a defendant who prefers the state courts may try to get it dismissed from federal court on the ground that it can’t support a judgment for more than $75,000.

A major source of federal jurisdiction is that the case “arises under” federal law, the phrase the constitution itself uses (Article III, §2). Unless it so arises, there is no subject matter jurisdiction under this caption, and whether it does or does not is often the subject of a dispute between the parties to a federal action.

For these and other reasons, the study of “subject matter” jurisdiction is a more extensive one in federal than in state practice. Indeed, a law school course on federal courts is likely to be devoted in the main to subject matter jurisdiction, with a correspondingly similar time allotment left for mere procedure, rather the reverse of what usually occurs in a course studying the state courts.

So there are two criteria: The PAYER and the PAYEE must BOTH be “persons” and therefore “taxpayers” within the I.R.C., which is civil law that attaches to their mutual domiciles, in order for either reporting or withholding to lawfully occur. If only the PAYER is a “person” but the payee is NOT, then the transaction is not “gross income” TO THE PAYEE. The term “person” is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(1) to include “individuals”, but “individual” in turn does not include statutory or constitutional “citizens” per 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3). The only time “individual” includes STATUTORY “U.S. citizens” is when they are abroad under 26 U.S.C. §911(d). Therefore, both the PAYER and the PAYEE MUST be aliens and not citizens engaged in privileged activities if they are not abroad. See:

Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Online, Form #10.004, Cites by Topic: Individual http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/individual.htm

All of these games with “words of art” relating to Effectively Connected Income (ECI) are designed to disguise and confuse WHICH end of the transaction is a "taxpayer": the PAYER, the PAYEE, or BOTH. Statutes such as 26 U.S.C. §881(a), for instance, refer to the "recipient", meaning the PAYEE:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART II > Subpart B > § 881
§ 881. Tax on income of foreign corporations not connected with United States business

(a) Imposition of tax

TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Except as provided in subsection (c), there is hereby imposed for each taxable year a tax of 30 percent of the amount received from sources within the United States by a foreign corporation as—

(1) interest (other than original issue discount as defined in section 1273), dividends, rents, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, emoluments, and other fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits, and income,

(2) gains described in section 631 (b) or (c),

(3) in the case of—

(A) a sale or exchange of an original issue discount obligation, the amount of the original issue discount accruing while such obligation was held by the foreign corporation (to the extent such discount was not theretofore taken into account under subparagraph (B)), and

(B) a payment on an original issue discount obligation, an amount equal to the original issue discount accruing while such obligation was held by the foreign corporation (except that such original issue discount shall be taken into account under this subparagraph only to the extent such discount was not theretofore taken into account under this subparagraph and only to the extent that the tax thereon does not exceed the payment less the tax imposed by paragraph (1) thereon), and

(4) gains from the sale or exchange after October 4, 1966, of patents, copyrights, secret processes and formulas, good will, trademarks, trade brands, franchises, and other like property, or of any interest in any such property, to the extent such gains are from payments which are contingent on the productivity, use, or disposition of the property or interest sold or exchanged, but only to the extent the amount so received is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

An amount can only be "received" by a PAYEE.

1. We already know the PAYER is a public officer and a "taxpayer" and therefore a "person" under the I.R.C. because 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) admitted he/she/it had to be engaged in a "trade or business" in order to report the transaction.

2. 26 U.S.C. §1461 also said that the PAYER is only liable if BOTH ends of the transaction are "persons" and therefore "taxpayers". A "nonresident" would NOT be subject to the code and therefore NOT a "person", "individual", or "taxpayer". See:

   Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) also says that when NEITHER the PAYER nor the PAYEE are engaged in public office ("trade or business") and the payment does not originate from "sources within the United States", meaning the de facto government, then the transaction isn't taxable.

26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3) at first glance might appear to confuse this explanation, but in fact it doesn’t. It implies that “sources within the United States” and “trade or business” are synonymous when in fact they aren’t the same for BOTH parties to the transaction:

   TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART I > § 864
   § 864. Definitions and special rules
   (c ) Effectively connected income, etc.

   (3) Other income from sources within United States

   All income, gain, or loss from sources within the United States (other than income, gain, or loss to which paragraph (2) applies) shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

There is no contradiction because the PAYER is ALWAYS a public officer and therefore a "U.S. source" and a "taxpayer" on one side of the coin while the PAYEE can be a nonresident and yet also not a "taxpayer", "individual", or "person" on the other side of the same coin. Everyone serving in a public office within the U.S. government is, by definition, a “source within the United States” if they are making a payment to someone else in their official capacity. Once again: EVERY TRANSACTION has two ends, and it depends which end you are looking at. You need to be VERY clear from the language which end it is and what you are looking for, because the language will try to confuse the ends to make it look like EVERYONE is a "taxpayer", "individual", and therefore "person". Clues to which end of the transaction they are talking about:

1. PAYER: Words used would be "paid", "making payment".
2. PAYEE: Words used would be "received", "amount received".

Another fact is also important that people like Pete Hendrickson chronically overlook. Yes, an information return always involves a "trade or business" because 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) says so. However, does it ALSO imply or require or impute that the PAYEE is engaged in a "trade or business"? A worthy exercise would be to go through all the instruction forms for information returns and the IRS publications to see what they say about WHICH ends of the transaction must be engaged in a "trade or business". We did a cursory look and they almost always talk to the FILER of the information return and use the phrase "YOUR trade or business", as though they are implying that the PAYER is the ONLY one engaged in the public office.

How then, does the PAYEE become involved in a "trade or business" if the information return doesn’t imply it? Below are the MAIN techniques:

1. Taking deductions under 26 U.S.C. §162, all of which require those taking them to be engaged in a "trade or business".
   See section 5.6.12.11.1 later
2. Using a RESIDENT tax form, the 1040. The "United States" that a person is a "resident" (alien) in relation to is the GOVERNMENT, and not the geographical USA. The "United States" one is a "resident" of is the government, and the "person" who is the resident is the public office within the government, and not the human being filling the office. See section 5.6.12.11.4 later
3. Using government de facto license numbers such as SSNs and TINs. 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) says that these numbers are only required by those engaged in a "trade or business" and who are "U.S. persons", meaning people domiciled on federal territory that is no part of any state of the Union. See section 5.6.12.11.3 later and also the following:

   About SSNs and TINs on Government Forms and Correspondence. Form #04.104
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

To summarize the findings of this section:

1. The language within the I.R.C. surrounding the use of the word “trade or business” is very deliberately and cunningly trying to confuse you about which end of the transaction is the public officer and therefore the "taxpayer" because they want you to assume EVERYONE is a "taxpayer", "person", and "individual". If they were more honest, they would have referred directly to the words "PAYER" and "PAYEE".
2. Every transaction has TWO parties, a PAYER, and a PAYEE.
   2.1. The PAYER is always a public officer and a "taxpayer", and therefore a "person" and "U.S. person" (26 U.S.C.
       §7701(a)(30) ) subject to federal law. A "public office" making payments to a nonresident, for instance, is a "U.S.
       source" and the PAYER is a "trade or business" but the payee is NOT. Some PAYERS unlawfully compel the nonresident to "elect" themself into public office by compelling them to procure and use an identifying numbers before they will make the payment. This is a criminal violation of 42 U.S.C. §408(a)(8) and 18 U.S.C. §912 and causes perjury on the Forms SS-5, W-7, and W-9 in the case of a nonresident domiciled in a state of the union who does not ALREADY occupy a public office BEFORE they made application for the number.
   2.2. The PAYEE most often is, in reality, a nonresident who is neither a "person", "individual", nor "taxpayer" but who wrongfully thinks they are because of the deliberate and calculated confusion in the code you point out.
3. Everything the PAYEE receives from the PAYER is, by definition, "U.S. source income" because the "U.S." means the government, and not the geographical sense. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) is a red herring, because it uses the phrase "geographical sense", but nowhere is the "geographical sense" of the word ever expressly invoked throughout the entire 9500 page Internal Revenue Code.
   3.1. The payment is ECI IN RELATION TO THE PAYER while also being. . .
   3.2. "U.S. source" and NOT ECI in relation to a PAYEE who is NOT engaged in a "trade or business" or who is nonresident.
3.3. It is only taxable, reportable, or subject to withholding if BOTH the PAYER and the PAYEE are "persons", "U.S. persons", and "taxpayers" domiciled on federal territory. It isn't taxable if either end of the transaction is a nonresident and therefore not a "person", "individual", or "taxpayer". Domicile is the origin of the liability for

5.6.12.10 Public office generally

5.6.12.10.1 Legal requirements for holding a “public office”?

The subject of exactly what constitutes a “public office” within the meaning described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) is not defined in any IRS publication we could find. The reason is quite clear: the “trade or business” scam is the Achilles heel of the IRS fraud and both the IRS and the Courts are loath to even talk about it because there is nothing they can defend themselves with other than unsubstantiated presumption created by the abuse of the word “includes” and certain key “words of art”. In the face of such overwhelming evidence of their own illegal and criminal mis-enforcement of the tax codes, silence or omission in either admitting it or prosecuting it can only be characterized as FRAUD on a massive scale, in fact:

“Silence can only be equated with fraud where there is a legal or moral duty to speak or where an inquiry left unanswered would be intentionally misleading.”
[U.S. v. Prudden, 424 F.2d. 1021 (5th Cir. 1970)]

“Silence can be equated with fraud where there is a legal or moral duty to speak, or where an inquiry left unanswered would be intentionally misleading. . . We cannot condone this shocking behavior by the IRS. Our revenue system is based on the good faith of the taxpayer and the taxpayers should be able to expect the same from the government in its enforcement and collection activities.”
[U.S. v. Tweed, 550 F.2d. 297, 299 (5th Cir. 1977)]

“Silence is a species of conduct, and constitutes an implied representation of the existence of the state of facts in question, and the estoppel is accordingly a species of estoppel by misrepresentation. When silence is of such a character and under such circumstances that it would become a fraud upon the other party to permit the party who has kept silent to deny what his silence has induced the other to believe and act upon, it will operate as an estoppel.”
[Carmine v. Bowen, 64 A. 932 (1906)]

The “duty” the courts are talking about above is the fiduciary duty of all those serving in public offices in the government, and that fiduciary duty was created by the oath of office they took before they entered the office. Therefore, those who want to know how they could lawfully be classified as a “public office” will have to answer that question completely on their own, which is what we will attempt to do in this section.

We begin our search with a definition of “public office” from Black’s Dictionary:

“Public office. The right, authority, and duty created and conferred by law, by which for a given period, either fixed by law or enduring at the pleasure of the creating power, an individual is invested with some portion of the sovereign functions of government for the benefit of the public. Walker v. Rich, 79 Cal.App. 139, 249 P. 56, 58. An agency for the state, the duties of which involve in their performance the exercise of some portion of the sovereign power, either great or small. Yaselli v. Giff; C.C.A., 12 F.2d. 396, 403, 56 A.L.R. 1239; Lacey v. State, 13 Ala.App. 212, 68 So. 706, 710; Currit v. State, 61 Cal.App. 377, 214 P. 1030, 1035; Shelmadine v. City of Elkhart, 75 Ind.App. 493, 129 N.E. 878, State ex rel. Colorado River Commission v. Frohmiller, 46 Ariz. 413, 52 P.2d. 483, 486. Where, by virtue of law, a person is clothed, not as an incidental or transient authority, but for such time as denotes duration and continuance, with independent power to control the property of the public, or with public functions to be exercised in the supposed interest of the people, the service to be compensated by a stated yearly salary, and the occupant having a designation or title, the position so created is a public office. State v. Brennan, 49 Ohio.St. 33, 29 N.E. 593.”

Black’s Law Dictionary Sixth Edition further clarifies the meaning of a “public office” below:

“Essential characteristics of a ‘public office’ are:
(1) Authority conferred by law,
(2) Fixed tenure of office, and
(3) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.”
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Key element of such test is that “officer is carrying out a sovereign function. Spring v. Constantino, 168 Conn. 563, 362 A.2d. 871, 875. Essential elements to establish public position as ‘public office’ are:

- Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.
- Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position,
- Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.
- Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and
- Position must have some permanency.”

American Jurisprudence Legal Encyclopedia further clarifies what a “public office” is as follows:

“As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trust. That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves, and owes a fiduciary duty to the public. It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual. Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy. [63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]

Ordinary or common-law employees of the government also do not qualify as "public officers":

Treatise on the Law of Public Offices and Officers
Book 1: Of the Office and the Officer: How Officer Chosen and Qualified Chapter I: Definitions and Divisions
§2 How Office Differs from Employment. A public office differs in material particulars from a public employment, for, as was said by Chief Justice MARSHALL, “although an office is an employment, it does not follow that every employment is an office. A man may certainly be employed under a contract, express or implied, to perform a service without becoming an officer.”

“We apprehend that the term ‘office,’ said the judges of the supreme court of Maine, “implies a delegation of a portion of the sovereign power to, and the possession of it by, the person filling the office; and the exercise of such power within legal limits constitutes the correct discharge of the duties of such office. The power thus delegated and possessed may be a portion belonging sometimes to one of the three great departments and sometimes to another; still it is a legal power which may be rightfully exercised, and in its effects it will bind the rights of others and be subject to revision and correction only according to the standing laws of the state. An employment merely has none of these distinguishing features. A public agent acts on only behalf of his principal, the public, whose sanction is generally considered as necessary to give the acts performed the authority and power of a public act or law. And if the act be such as not to require subsequent sanction, still it is only a species of service performed under the public authority and for the public good, but not in the exercise of any standing laws which are considered as roles of action and guardians of rights.”

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Based on the foregoing, one cannot be a “public officer” if:

1. There is not a statute or constitutional authority that specifically creates the office. All “public offices” can only be created through legislative authority.
2. Their duties are not specifically and exactly enumerated in some Act of Congress.
3. They have a boss or immediate supervisor. All duties must be performed INDEPENDENTLY.
4. They have anyone but the law and the courts to immediately supervise their activities.
5. They are serving as a “public officer” in a location NOT specifically authorized by the law. The law must create the office and specify exactly where it is to be exercised. 4 U.S.C. §72 says ALL public offices of the federal and national government MUST be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere, except as expressly provided by law.
6. Their position does not carry with it some kind of fiduciary duty to the “public” which in turn is documented in and enforced by enacted law itself.
7. The beneficiary of their fiduciary duty is other than the “public”. Public service is a public trust, and the beneficiary of the trust is the public at large and not any one specific individual or group of individuals. See 5 C.F.R. §2635.101(b) and Executive Order 12731.

All public officers must take an oath. The oath, in fact, is what creates the fiduciary duty that attaches to the office. This is confirmed by the definition of “public official” in Black’s Law Dictionary:

“Public official. A person who, upon being issued a commission, taking required oath, enters upon, for a fixed tenure, a position called an office where he or she exercises in his or her own right some of the attributes of sovereign he or she serves for benefit of public. Macy v. Heverin, 44 Md.App. 358, 408 A.2d. 1067, 1069. The holder of a public office though not all persons in public employment are public officials, because public official’s position requires the exercise of some portion of the sovereign power, whether great or small. Town of Arlington v. Bds. of Conciliation and Arbitration, Mass., 352 N.E.2d. 914.

The oath for United States federal and state officials was prescribed in the very first enactment of Congress on March 4, 1789 as follows:

Statutes at Large, March 4, 1789
I Stat. 23-24

SEC. 1. Be it enacted by the Senate and [Home of] Representatives of the United States of America in Congress assembled, That the oath or affirmation required by the sixth article of the Constitution of the United States, shall be administered in the form following, to wit: “I, A, B. do solemnly swear or affirm (as the case may be) that I will support the Constitution of the United States.” The said oath or affirmation shall be administered within three days after the passing of this act, by any one member of the Senate, to the President of the Senate, and by him to all the members and to the secretary; and by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, to all the members who have not taken a similar oath, by virtue of a particular resolution of the said House, and to the clerk: and in case of the absence of any member from the service of either House, at the time prescribed for taking the said oath or affirmation, the same shall be administered to such member, when he shall appear to take his seat.

SEC. 2. And it be further enacted, That at the first session of Congress after every general election of Representatives, the oath or affirmation aforesaid, shall be administered by any one member of the House of Representatives to the Speaker; and by him to all the members present, and to the clerk, previous to entering on any other business; and to the members who shall afterwards appear, previous to taking their seats. The President of the Senate for the time being, shall also administer the said oath or affirmation to each Senator who shall hereafter be elected, previous to his taking his seat: and in any future case of a President of the Senate, who shall not have taken the said oath or affirmation, the same shall be administered to him by any one of the members of the Senate.

-- Throop v. Langdon, 40 Mich. 678, 682; “An office is a public position created by the constitution or law, continuing during the pleasure of the appointing power or for a fixed term with a successor elected or appointed. An employment is an agency for a temporary purpose which ceases when that purpose is accomplished.” Cons. Ill., 1870, Art. 5, §24.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

SEC. 3. And be it further enacted. That the members of the several State legislatures, at the next sessions of the said legislatures, respectively, and all executive and judicial officers of the several States, who have been heretofore chosen or appointed, or who shall be chosen or appointed before the first day of August next, and who shall then be in office, shall, within one month thereafter, take the same oath or affirmation, except where they shall have taken it before; which may be administered by any person authorized by the law of the State, in which such office shall be held, to administer oaths. And the members of the several State legislatures, and all executive and judicial officers of the several States, who shall be chosen or appointed after the said first day of August, shall, before they proceed to execute the duties of their respective offices, take the foregoing oath or affirmation, which shall be administered by the person or persons, who by the law of the State shall be authorized to administer the oath of office; and the person or persons so administering the oath hereby required to be taken, shall cause a re- cord or certificate thereof to be made, in the same manner, as, by the law of the State, he or they shall be directed to record or certify the oath of office.

SEC. 4. And be it further enacted. That all officers appointed, or hereafter to be appointed under the authority of the United States, shall, before they act in their respective offices, take the same oath or affirmation, which shall be administered by the person or persons who shall be authorized by law to administer to such officers their respective oaths of office; and such officers shall incur the same penalties in case of failure, as shall be imposed by law in case of failure in taking their respective oaths of office.

SEC. 5. And be it further enacted. That the secretary of the Senate, and the clerk of the House of Representatives, for the time being, shall, at the time of taking the oath or affirmation aforesaid, each take an oath or affirmation in the words following, to wit: “I, A. B. secretary of the Senate, or clerk of the House of Representatives (as the case may be) of the United States of America, do solemnly swear or affirm, that I will truly and faithfully discharge the duties of my said office, to the best of my knowledge and abilities.”

Based on the above, the following persons within the government are “public officers”:

1. Federal Officers:
   1.1. The President of the United States.
   1.2. Members of the House of Representatives.
   1.3. Members of the Senate.
   1.4. All appointed by the President of the United States.
   1.5. The secretary of the Senate.
   1.6. The clerk of the House of Representatives.
   1.7. All district, circuit, and supreme court justices.

2. State Officers:
   2.1. The governor of the state.
   2.2. Members of the House of Representatives.
   2.3. Members of the Senate.
   2.4. All district, circuit, and supreme court justices of the state.

At the federal level, all those engaged in the above “public offices” are statutorily identified in 5 U.S.C. §2105. Consistent with this section, what most people would regard as ordinary common law employees are not included in the definition. Note the phrase “an officer AND an individual”:

(a) For the purpose of this title, “employee”, except as otherwise provided by this section or when specifically modified, means an officer and an individual who is—

(1) appointed in the civil service by one of the following acting in an official capacity—

(A) the President;
(B) a Member or Members of Congress, or the Congress;
(C) a member of a uniformed service;
(D) an individual who is an employee under this section;
(E) the head of a Government controlled corporation; or
(F) an adjutant general designated by the Secretary concerned under section 709 (c) of title 32;

(2) engaged in the performance of a Federal function under authority of law or an Executive act; and
(3) subject to the supervision of an individual named by paragraph (1) of this subsection while engaged in the performance of the duties of his position.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Within the military, only commissioned officers are “public officers”. Enlisted or NCOs (Non-Commissioned Officers) are not.

Those holding Federal or State public office, county or municipal office, under the Legislative, Executive or Judicial branch, including Court Officials, Judges, Prosecutors, Law Enforcement Department employees, Officers of the Court, and etc., before entering into these public offices, are required by the U.S. Constitution and statutory law to comply with 5 U.S.C. §3331, “Oath of office.” State Officials are also required to meet this same obligation, according to State Constitutions and State statutory law.

Under Title 22 U.S.C., Foreign Relations and Intercourse, Section §611, a Public Official is considered a foreign agent. In order to hold public office, the candidate must file a true and complete registration statement with the State Attorney General as a foreign principle.

The Oath of Office requires the public officials in his/her foreign state capacity to uphold the constitutional form of government or face consequences, according to 10 U.S.C. §333, “Interference with State and Federal law”

Willful refusal action while serving in official capacity violates 18 U.S.C. §1918, “Disloyalty and asserting the right to strike against the Government”

AND violates 18 U.S.C. §1346:

TITLe 18 > PART I > CHAPTER 63 § 1346. Definition of “scheme or artifice to defraud

"For the purposes of this chapter, the term “scheme or artifice to defraud” includes a scheme or artifice to deprive another of the intangible right of honest services.

The “public offices” described in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) within the definition of “trade or business” are ONLY public offices located in the District of Columbia and not elsewhere. To wit:

TITLe 4 > CHAPTER 3 > § 72
§ 72. Public offices; at seat of Government
All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

[SOURCE: http://www4.law.cornell.edu/uscode/html/uscode04/usc_sec_04_00000072----000-.html]

The only provision of any act of Congress that we have been able to find which authorizes “public offices” outside the District of Columbia as expressly required by law above, is 48 U.S.C. §1612, which authorizes enforcement of the Internal Revenue Code within the U.S. Virgin Islands. To wit:

TITLE 48 > CHAPTER 12 > SUBCHAPTER V > § 1612
§ 1612. Jurisdiction of District Court

(a) Jurisdiction

The District Court of the Virgin Islands shall have the jurisdiction of a District Court of the United States, including, but not limited to, the diversity jurisdiction provided for in section 1332 of title 28 and that of a bankruptcy court of the United States. The District Court of the Virgin Islands shall have exclusive jurisdiction over all criminal and civil proceedings in the Virgin Islands with respect to the income tax laws applicable to the Virgin Islands, regardless of the degree of the offense or of the amount involved, except the ancillary laws relating to the income tax enacted by the legislature of the Virgin Islands. Any act or failure to act with respect to the income tax laws applicable to the Virgin Islands which would constitute a criminal offense described in chapter 75 of subtitle E of title 26 shall constitute an offense against the government of the Virgin Islands and may be prosecuted in the name of the government of the Virgin Islands by the appropriate officers thereof in the District Court of the Virgin Islands without the request or the consent of the United States attorney for the Virgin Islands, notwithstanding the provisions of section 1617 of this title.

There is NO PROVISION OF LAW which would similarly extend public offices or jurisdiction to enforce any provision of the Internal Revenue Code to any place within the exclusive jurisdiction of any state of the Union, because Congress enjoys NO LEGISLATIVE JURISDICTION THERE.

“It is no longer open to question that the general government, unlike the states, Hammer v. Dagenhart, 247 U.S. 293, 28 S.Ct. 529, 5 A.L.R. 649, Ann. Cas. 1918E 724, possesses no inherent power in respect of the internal affairs of the states; and emphatically not with regard to legislation.”

[Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238, 56 S.Ct. 855 (1936)]

“The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra.”

[Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement District No. 1, 298 U.S. 513, 56 S.Ct. 892 (1936)]

By law then, no “public office” may therefore be exercised OUTSIDE the District of Columbia except as “expressly provided by law”, including privileged or licensed activities such as a “trade or business”. This was also confirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court in the License Tax Cases, when they said:

“Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications: Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects.

Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]
Since I.R.C., Subtitle A is a franchise or excise tax on “public offices”, which is called a “trade or business”, then the tax can only apply to those domiciled within the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory), wherever they are physically located to include states of the Union, but only if they are serving under oath in their official capacity as “public officers”.

Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the reality is located.”

[Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

Another important point needs to be emphasized, which is that those working for the federal government, while on official duty, are representing a federal corporation called the “United States”, which is domiciled in the District of Columbia.

Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b) says that the capacity to sue and be sued civilly is based on one’s domicile:

IV. PARTIES > Rule 17.
Rule 17. Parties Plaintiff and Defendant; Capacity

(b) Capacity to Sue or be Sued.

Capacity to sue or be sued is determined as follows:

(1) for an individual who is not acting in a representative capacity, by the law of the individual’s domicile;

(2) for a corporation[the “United States”, in this case, or its officers on official duty representing the corporation], by the law under which it was organized; and

(3) for all other parties, by the law of the state where the court is located, except that:

(A) a partnership or other unincorporated association with no such capacity under that state’s law may sue or be sued in its common name to enforce a substantive right existing under the United States Constitution or laws; and

(B) 28 U.S.C. §§ 754 and 959(a) govern the capacity of a receiver appointed by a United States court to sue or be sued in a United States court.

Government employees, including “public officers”, while on official duty representing the federal corporation called the “United States”, maintain the character of the entity they represent and therefore have a legal domicile in the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory) within the context of their official duties. The Internal Revenue Code also reflects this fact in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d):

TITLE 26 > Subtitle E > CHAPTER 79 > § 7701
§ 7701. Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(39) Persons residing outside United States

If any citizen or resident of the United States does not reside in (and is not found in) any United States judicial district, such citizen or resident shall be treated as residing in the District of Columbia for purposes of any provision of this title relating to—
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Kidnapping and transporting the legal identity of a person domiciled outside the District of Columbia in a foreign state, which includes states of the Union, is illegal pursuant to 18 U.S.C. §1201. Therefore, the only people who can be legally and involuntarily “kidnapped” by the courts based on the above two provisions of statutory law are those who individually consent through private contract to act as “public officers” in the execution of their official duties. The fiduciary duty of these “public officers” is further defined in the I.R.C. as follows, and it is only by an oath of “public office” that this fiduciary duty can lawfully be created:

The existence of fiduciary duty of “public officers” is therefore the ONLY lawful method by which anyone can be prosecuted for an “omission”, which is a thing they didn’t do that the law required them to do. It is otherwise illegal and unlawful to prosecute anyone under either common law or statutory law for a FAILURE to do something, such as a FAILURE TO FILE a tax return pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7203. Below is an example of where the government gets its authority to prosecute “taxpayers” for failure to file a tax return, in fact:

“I: DUTY TO ACCOUNT FOR PUBLIC FUNDS

§ 909. In general. It is the duty of the public officer, like any other agent or trustee, although not declared by express statute, to faithfully account for and pay over to the proper authorities all moneys which may come into his hands upon the public account, and the performance of this duty may be enforced by proper actions against the officer himself, or against those who have become sureties for the faithful discharge of his duties.”

In addition to the above, every attorney admitted to practice law in any state or federal court is described as an “officer of the court”, and therefore ALSO is a “public officer”:

In English law, a public officer belonging to the superior courts of common law at Westminster, who conducted legal proceedings on behalf of others, called his clients, by whom he was retained; he answered to the solicitor in the courts of chancery, and the proctor of the admiralty, ecclesiastical, probate, and divorce courts. An attorney was almost invariably also a solicitor. It is now provided by the judicature act. 1873, 8 87, that solicitors, attorneys, or proctors of, or by law empowered to practice in, any court the jurisdiction of which is by that act transferred to the high court of justice or the court of appeal, shall be called “solicitors of the supreme court.”

ATTORNEY AND CLIENT, Corpus Juris Secundum Legal Encyclopedia Volume 7, Section 4

His [the attorney’s] first duty is to the courts and the public, not to the client, and wherever the duties to his client conflict with those he owes as an officer of the court in the administration of justice, the former must yield to the latter.

[7 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Attorney and Client, §4 (2003)]

Executive Order 12731 and 5 C.F.R. §2635.101(a) furthermore both indicate that “public service is a public trust”:

Executive Order 12731

“Part 1 -- PRINCIPLES OF ETHICAL CONDUCT

“Section 101. Principles of Ethical Conduct. To ensure that every citizen can have complete confidence in the integrity of the Federal Government, each Federal employee shall respect and adhere to the fundamental principles of ethical service as implemented in regulations promulgated under sections 201 and 301 of this order:

“(a) Public service is a public trust, requiring employees to place loyalty to the Constitution, the laws, and ethical principles above private gain.

TITLE 5--ADMINISTRATIVE PERSONNEL
CHAPTER XVI--OFFICE OF GOVERNMENT ETHICS
PART 2635--STANDARDS OF ETHICAL CONDUCT FOR EMPLOYEES OF THE EXECUTIVE BRANCH--Table of Contents
Subpart A--General Provisions
Sec. 2635.101 Basic obligation of public service.

(a) Public service is a public trust. Each employee has a responsibility to the United States Government and its citizens to place loyalty to the Constitution, laws and ethical principles above private gain. To ensure that every citizen can have complete confidence in the integrity of the Federal Government, each employee shall respect and adhere to the principles of ethical conduct set forth in this section, as well as the implementing standards contained in this part and in supplemental agency regulations.

The above provisions of law imply that everyone who works for the government is a “trustee” of “We the People”, who are the sovereigns they serve in the public. In law, EVERY “trustee” is a “fiduciary” of the Beneficiary of the trust within which he serves:

“TRUSTEE. The person appointed, or required by law, to execute a trust; one in whom an estate, interest, or power is vested, under an express or implied agreement [e.g. PRIVATE LAW or CONTRACT] to administer or exercise it for the benefit or to the use of another called the cestui que trust. Pioneer Mining Co. v. Ty berg, C.C.A.Alaska, 215 F. 501, 506, L.R.A.1915B, 442; Kaehn v. St. Paul Co-op. Ass’n, 156 Minn. 113, 194 N.W. 112; Catlett v. Hawthorne, 157 Va. 372, 161 S.E. 47, 48. Person who holds title to res and administers it for others’ benefit. Reinecke v. Smith, Ill., 53 S.Ct. 570, 289 U.S. 172, 77 L.Ed. 1109. In a strict sense, a “trustee” is one who holds the legal title to property for the benefit of another while, in a broad sense, the term is sometimes applied to anyone standing in a fiduciary or confidential relation to another, such as agent, attorney, bailee, etc. State ex rel. Lee v. Sartorius, 344 Mo. 912, 130 S.W.2d. 547, 549, 550. “Trustee” is also used in a wide and perhaps inaccurate sense, to denote that a person has the duty of carrying out a transaction, in which he and another person are interested, in such manner as will be most for the benefit of the latter, and not in such a way that he himself might be tempted, for the sake of his personal advantage, to neglect the interests of the other. In this sense, directors of companies are said to be “trustees for the shareholders.” Sweet.

The fact that public service is a “public trust” was also confirmed by the U.S. Supreme Court, when it said:

"Whatever these Constitutions and laws validly determine to be property, it is the duty of the Federal Government, through the domain of jurisdiction merely Federal, to recognize to be property.

"And this principle follows from the structure of the respective Governments, State and Federal, and their reciprocal relations. They are different agents and trustees of the people of the several States, appointed with different powers and with distinct purposes, but whose acts, within the scope of their respective jurisdictions, are mutually obligatory.

[Dred Scott v. Sanford, 60 U.S. 393 (1856)]

An example of someone who is NOT a “public officer” is a federal worker on duty and who is not required to take an oath. These people may think of themselves as employees in an ordinary and not statutory sense and even be called employees by their supervisor or employer, but in fact NOT be the statutory “employee” defined in 5 U.S.C. §2105(a). Remember that 5 U.S.C. §2105(a) defines a STATUTORY “employee” as "an officer and an individual" and you don’t become an “officer” in a statutory sense unless and until you take a Constitutional oath. Almost invariably, such workers also have some kind of immediate supervisor who manages and oversees and evaluates his activities pursuant to the position description drafted for the position he fills. He may be a “trustee” and he may have a “fiduciary duty” to the public as a “public servant”, but he isn’t an “officer” or “public officer” unless and until he takes an oath of office prescribed by law. A federal worker, however, can become a “public office” by virtue of any one or more of the following purposes that we are aware of so far:

1. Be elected to political office.
2. Being appointed to political office by the President or the governor of a state of the Union.

A “public office” is not limited to a human being. It can also extend to an entire entity such as a corporation. An example of an entity that is a “public office” in its entirety is a federally chartered bank, such as the original Bank of the United States described in Osborn v. United States, in which the U.S. Supreme Court identified the original and first Bank of the United States, a federally chartered bank corporation created by Congress, as a “public office”:

> All the powers of the government must be carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made with individuals. Can any public office be created, or does one exist, the performance of which may, with propriety, be assigned to this association [or trust], when incorporated? If such office exist, or can be created, then the company may be incorporated, that they may be appointed to execute such office. Is there any portion of the public business performed by individuals upon contracts, that this association could be employed to perform, with greater advantage and more safety to the public, than an individual contractor? If there be an employment of this nature, then may this company be incorporated to undertake it.

> There is an employment of this nature. Nothing can be more essential to the fiscal concerns of the nation, than an agent of undoubted integrity and established credit, with whom the public moneys can, at all times, be safely deposited. Nothing can be of more importance to a government, than that there should be some capitalist in the country, who possesses the means of making advances of money to the government upon any exigency, and who is under a legal obligation to make such advances. For these purposes the association would be an agent peculiarly suitable and appropriate. [. . .]

> The mere creation of a corporation, does not confer political power or political character. So this Court decided in Dartmouth College v. Woodward, already referred to. If I may be allowed to paraphrase the language of the Chief Justice, I would say, a bank incorporated, is no more a State instrument, than a natural person performing the same business would be. If, then, a natural person, engaged in the trade of banking, should contract with the government to receive the public money upon deposit, to transmit it from place to place, without charging for commission or difference of exchange, and to perform, when called upon, the duties of commissioner of loans, would not thereby become a public officer, how is it that this artificial being, created by law for the purpose of being employed by the government for the same purposes, should become a part of the civil government of the country? Is it because its existence, its capacities, its powers, are given by law? because the government has given it power to take and hold property in a particular form, and to employ that property for particular purposes, and in the disposition of it to use a particular name? because the government has sold it a privilege [22 U.S. 738, 774] for a large sum of money, and has bargained with it to do certain things; is it, therefore, a part of the very government with which the contract is made?

> If the Bank be constituted a public office, by the connexion between it and the government, it cannot be the mere legal franchise in which the office is vested; the individual stockholders must be the officers. Their character is not merged in the charter. This is the strong point of the Mayor and Commonalty v. Wood, upon which this Court ground their decision in the Bank v. Deveaux, and from which they say, that cause could not be distinguished. Thus, aliens may become public officers, and public duties are confined to those who owe no allegiance to the government, and who are even beyond its territorial limits.
With the privileges and perquisites of office, all individuals holding offices, ought to be subject to the disabilities of office. But if the Bank be a public office, and the individual stockholders public officers, this principle does not have a fair and just operation. The disabilities of office do not attach to the stockholders; for we find them every where holding public offices, even in the national Legislature, from which, if they be public officers, they are excluded by the constitution in express terms.

If the Bank be a public institution of such character as to be justly assimilated to the mint and the post office, then its charter may be amended, altered, or even abolished, at the discretion of the National Legislature. All public offices are created [22 U.S. 738, 775] purely for public purposes, and may, at any time, be modified in such manner as the public interest may require. Public corporations partake of the same character. So it is distinctly adjudged in Dartmouth College v. Woodward. In this point, each Judge who delivered an opinion concerned. By one of the Judges it is said, that 'public corporations are generally esteemed such as exist for public political purposes only, such as towns, cities, parishes and counties; and in many respects they are so, although they possess some private interests; but, strictly speaking, public corporations are such only as are founded by the government for public purposes, where the whole interest belongs also to the government. If, therefore, the foundation be private, though under the charter of the government, the corporation is private, however extensive the uses may be to which it is devoted, either by the bounty of the founder, or the nature and objects of the institution. For instance, a bank, created by the government for its own uses, whose stock is exclusively owned by the government, is, in the strictest sense, a public corporation. So, a hospital created and endowed by the government for general charity. But a bank, whose stock is owned by private persons, is a private corporation, although it is erected by the government, and its objects and operations partake of a public nature. The same doctrine may be affirmed of insurance, canal, bridge, and turnpike companies. In all these cases, the uses may, in a certain sense, be called public, but the corporations are private; as much [22 U.S. 738, 776] so, indeed, as if the franchises were vested in a single person,

In what sense is it an instrument of the government? and in what character is it employed as such? Do the government employ the faculty, the legal franchise, or do they employ the individuals upon whom it is conferred?
and what is the nature of that employment? does it resemble the post office, or the mint, or the custom house, or the process of the federal Courts?

The post office is established by the general government. It is a public institution. The persons who perform its duties are public officers. No individual has, or can acquire, any property in it. For all the services performed, a compensation is paid out of the national treasury; and all the money received upon account of its operations, is public property. Surely there is no similitude between this institution, and an association who trade upon their own capital, for their own profit, and who have paid the government a million and a half of dollars for a legal character and name, in which to conduct their trade.

Again: the business conducted through the agency of the post office, is not in its nature a private business. It is of a public character, and the [22 U.S. 738, 786] charge of it is expressly conferred upon Congress by the constitution. The business is created by law, and is annihilated when the law is repealed. But the trade of banking is strictly a private concern. It exists and can be carried on without the aid of the national Legislature. Nay, it is only under very special circumstances, that the national Legislature can so far interfere with it, as to facilitate its operations.

The post office executes the various duties assigned to it, by means of subordinate agents. The mails are opened and closed by persons invested with the character of public officers. But they are transported by individuals employed for that purpose, in their individual character, which employment is created by and founded in contract.

To such contractors no official character is attached. These contractors supply horses, carriages, and whatever else is necessary for the transportation of the mails, upon their own account. The whole is engaged in the public service. The contractor, his horses, his carriage, his driver, are all in public employ. But this does not change their character. All that was private property, before the contract was made, and before they were engaged in public employ, remain private property still. The horses and the carriages are liable to be taxed as other property, for every purpose for which property of the same character is taxed in the place where they are employed. The reason is plain: the contractor is employing his own means to promote his own private profit, and the tax collected is from the individual, though assessed upon the [22 U.S. 738, 787] means he uses to perform the public service.
To tax the transportation of the mails, as such, would be taxing the operations of the government, which could not be allowed. But to tax the means by which this transportation is effected, so far as those means are private property, is allowable; because it abstracts nothing from the government; and because, the fact that an individual employs his private means in the service of the government, attaches to them no immunity whatever."

The record of the House of Representatives after the enactment of the first income tax during the Civil War in 1862, confirmed that the income tax was upon a “public office” and that even IRS agents, who are not “public officers” and who are not required to take an oath, are therefore exempt from the requirements of the revenue acts in place at the time. Read the amazing truth for yourself:
Below is an excerpt from that report proving our point. The Secretary of the Treasury at the time is comparing the federal tax liabilities of postal clerks to those of internal revenue clerks. At that time, the IRS was called the Bureau of Internal Revenue. The office of Commissioner of Internal Revenue was established in 1862 as an emergency measure to fund the Civil War, which ended shortly thereafter, but the illegal enforcement of the revenue laws continued and expanded into the states over succeeding years:

House of Representatives, Ex. Doc. 99, 1867, pp. 1-2

39th Congress, 2d Session

Salary Tax Upon Clerks to Postmasters

Letter from the Secretary of the Treasury in answer to A resolution of the House of the 13th of February, relative to salary tax upon clerks to postmasters, with the regulations of the department

Postmasters’ clerks are appointed by postmasters, and take the oaths of office prescribed in the 2d section of the act of July 2, 1862, and in the 2d section of the act of March 3, 1863.

Their salaries are not fixed in amount by law, but from time to time the Post master General fixes the amount, allotted to each postmaster for clerk hire, under the authority conferred upon him by the ninth section of the act of June 5, 1836, and then the postmaster, as an agent for and in behalf of the United States, determines the salary to be paid to each of his clerks. These salaries are paid by the postmasters, acting as disbursing agents, from United States moneys advanced to them for this purpose, either directly from the Post Office Department in pursuance of appropriations made by law, or from the accruing revenues of their offices, under the instructions of the Postmaster General. The receipt of such clerks constitute vouchers in the accounts of the postmasters acting as disbursing agents in the settlements made with them by the Sixth Auditor. In the foregoing transactions the postmaster acts not as a principal, but as an agent of the United States, and the clerks are not in his private employment, but in the public employment of the United States. Such being the facts, these clerks are subjected to and required to account for and pay the salary tax; imposed by the one hundred and twenty-third section of the internal revenue act of June 30, 1864, as amended by the ninth section of the internal revenue act of July 13, 1866, upon payments for services to persons in the civil employment or service of the United States.

Copies of the regulations under which such salary taxes are withheld and paid into the treasury to the credit of internal revenue collection account are herewith transmitted, marked A, b, and C. Clerks to assessors of internal revenue [IRS agents] are appointed by the assessors. Neither law nor regulations require them to take an oath of office, because, as the law at present stands, they are not in the public service of the United States, through the agency of the assessor, but are in the private service of the assessor, as a principal, who employs them.

The salaries of such clerks are neither fixed in amount by law, nor are they regulated by any officer of the Treasury Department over the clerk hire of assessors to prescribe a necessary and reasonable amount which shall not be exceeded in reimbursing the assessors for this item of their expenses.

No money is advanced by the United States for the payment of such salaries, nor do the assessors perform the duties of disbursing agents of the United States in paying their clerks. The entire amount allowed is paid directly to the assessor, and he is not accountable to the United States for its payment to his clerks, for the reason that he has paid them in advance, out of his own funds, and this is a reimbursement to him of such amount as the department decides to be reasonable. No salary tax is therefore collected, or required by the Treasury Department to be accounted for, or paid, on account of payments to the assessors’ clerks, as the United States pays no such clerks nor has them in its employ or service, and they do not come within the provisions of existing laws imposing such a tax.

Perhaps no better illustration of the difference between the status of postmasters’ clerks and that of assessors’ clerks can be given than the following: A postmaster became a defaulter, without paying his clerks; his successor received from the Postmaster General a new remittance for paying them; and if at any time, the clerks in a post office do not receive their salaries, by reason of the death, resignation or removal of a postmaster, the new appointee is authorized by the regulations of the Post Office Department to pay them out of the proceeds of the office; and should there be no funds in his hands belonging to the department, a draft is issued to place money in his hands for that purpose.

If an assessor had not paid his clerks, they would have no legal claim upon the treasury for their salaries. A discrimination is made between postmasters’ clerks and assessor’s clerks to the extent and for the reasons hereinbefore set forth.

I have the honor to be, very respectfully, your obedient servant.

H. McCulloch, Secretary of the Treasury

[House of Representatives, Ex. Doc. 99, 1867, pp. 1-2]
Notice based on the above that revenue officers don’t take an oath, so they don’t have to pay the tax, while postal clerks take an oath, so they do. Therefore, the oath that creates the “public office” is the method by which the government manufactures “public officers”, “taxpayers”, and “sponsors” for its wasteful use or abuse of public monies. If you would like a whole BOOK full of reasons why the only "taxpayers" under the I.R.C., Subtitle A are "public officers", please see the following exhaustive analysis:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

5.6.12.10.2 De Facto Public Officers

Based on the previous section, we are now thoroughly familiar with all the legal requirements for:

1. How public offices are lawfully created.
2. The only places where they can lawfully be exercised.
3. The duties that attach to the public office.
4. The type of agency exercised by the public officer.
5. The relationship between the public office and the public officer.

What we didn’t cover in the previous section is what are all the legal consequences when someone performs the duties of a public office without satisfying all the legal requirements for lawfully occupying the office? In law, such a person is called a “de facto officer” and books have been written about the subject of the “de facto officer doctrine”. Below is what the U.S. Supreme Court held on the subject of “de facto officers”:

“None of the cases cited militates against the doctrine that, for the existence of a de facto officer, there must be an office de jure, although there may be loose expressions in some of the opinions, not called for by the facts, seemingly against this view. Where no office legally exists, the pretended officer is merely a usurper, to whose acts no validity can be attached; and such, in our judgment, was the position of the commissioners of Shelby county, who undertook to act as the county court, which could be constitutionally held only by justices of the peace. Their right to discharge the duties of justices of the peace was never recognized by the justices, but from the outset was resisted by legal proceedings, which terminated in an adjudication that they were usurpers, clothed with no authority or official function. ”

As we have already established, all statutory “taxpayers” are public officers in the U.S. and not state government. This is exhaustively proven with evidence in:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

A person who fulfills the DUTIES of a statutory “taxpayer” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) without lawfully occupying a public office in the U.S. government BEFORE becoming a “taxpayer” would be a good example of a de facto public officer. Those who exercise the duties of a public officer without meeting all the requirements, from a legal perspective, are in fact committing the crime of impersonating a public officer.

What are some examples where a person would be impersonating a public officer unlawfully? Here are a few:

1. You elect or appoint yourself into public office by filling out a tax form without occupying said office BEFORE being a statutory “taxpayer”.
2. You serve in the office in a geographic place NOT expressly authorized by law. For instance, 4 U.S.C. §72 requires that ALL federal public offices MUST be exercised ONLY in the District of Columbia and NOT ELSEWHERE, unless expressly authorized by law.
3. A third party unilaterally ELECTS you into a public office by submitting an information return linking you to such a BOGUS office under the alleged but not actual authority of 26 U.S.C. §6041(a).

4. You occupy the public office without either expressly consenting to it IN WRITING or without even knowing you occupy such an office.

If a so-called “GOVERNMENT” is established in which:

1. The only kind of “citizens” or “residents” allowed are STATUTORY citizens and residents. CONSTITUTIONAL citizens or residents are either not recognized or allowed as a matter of policy and not law. . . OR
2. All “citizens” and “residents” are compelled under duress to accept the duties of a public office or ANY kind of duties imposed by the government upon them. Remember, the Thirteenth Amendment forbids “involuntary servitude”, so if the government imposes any kind of duty or requires you to surrender private property of any kind by law, then they can only do so through the medium of a public office. . . OR
3. Everyone is compelled to obey government statutory law. Remember, nearly all laws passed by government can and do regulate ONLY the government and not private people. See:

   Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

. . . then you end up not only with a LOT of public officers, but a de facto GOVERNMENT as well. That government is thoroughly described in:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Even at the state level, it is a crime in every state of the Union to pretend to be a public officer of the state government who does not satisfy ALL of the legal requirements for occupying the public office. Below is an itemized list by jurisdiction of constitutional and statutory requirements that are violated by those who either impersonate a state public officer OR who serve simultaneously serve in BOTH a FEDERAL public office and a STATE public office AT THE SAME TIME. That’s right: When you either impersonate a state public officer OR serve in BOTH a FEDERAL public office and STATE public office AT THE SAME TIME, then you are committing a crime and have a financial conflict of interest and conflict of allegiance that can and should disqualify you from exercising or accepting the duties of the office:

5.6.12.10.3 How do ordinary government workers not holding “public office” become “taxpayers”?
A question we are asked frequently is whether ordinary government workers not otherwise engaged in a “public office” are “taxpayers” and how they become “taxpayers”.

Chapter XVIII: Public Agents and Officers
§ 488. Definitions and classifications.

Public agents are those persons who are chosen to perform the duties of the public, that is, the government or municipality. They may be divided into two principal classes; namely, employees and officers. It is true the term "employee," in a sense, applies also to officers, for it may be said that every officer is an employee; but, on the other hand, a public employee is not necessarily a public officer; thus, a mere janitor of county or state buildings, a county physician, and other employees who do not take an official oath nor file an official bond, are not officers but employees. An employee of the government usually owes his position to some officer whose duty it is to make the employment, and it is based entirely upon contract. On the other hand, an officer owes his selection to a source fixed by the constitution or statute, and not by contract. Moreover, the term “public office” embraces the idea of tenure and duration, while a mere public employment may involve only transient or incidental duties. An office is an entity which may continue even after the death or withdrawal of the incumbent. A public office involves the delegation to the incumbent of a portion of the sovereign power of the state, either to make, administer, or execute the laws; and it signifies that the incumbent is to exercise some functions of that nature, and take the fees and emoluments belonging to the position.\textsuperscript{215} On the other hand, there may be and are many employments by the national, state, city or town government which do not constitute the employee a public officer. "The work of the commonwealth," said the supreme judicial court of Massachusetts, "and of the cities and towns must be done by agents or servants, and much of it is of the nature of an employment. It is sometimes difficult to make the distinction between a public office and an employment, yet the title of 'public officer' is one well known to the law, and it is often necessary to determine what constitutes a public office. Every copying-clerk or janitor of a building is not necessarily a public officer.\textsuperscript{216} A mere employee may, of course, be engaged by the appointing power for a definite time, or to accomplish a definite purpose, and in that sense his position may involve the nature of duration also; while, on the other hand, his employment may be altogether for an indefinite period, and he be subject to removal at any time. An employee under contract may be discharged without cause, unless the statute or constitution directs otherwise, but a public officer cannot generally be removed without cause, although the power of removal is inherent in the appointing power: the reason being that the power of removal is generally restricted by constitutional or statutory provisions.\textsuperscript{217} The English notion that an office is hereditary does not obtain in this country, though it is true that the rights and privileges of an officer are the rights and privileges of the incumbent; in this country both the power of appointment and that of removal inhere in the people and are subject to their control by constitutions and statutes.\textsuperscript{218} An office not being the creature of a contract, but simply a delegation of a portion of the sovereign power, it follows, according to the weight of authority, that the incumbent has no right of property in the office.\textsuperscript{219} [A Treatise on the Law of Agency in Contract and Tort, George L. Rienhard, The Bowen-Merrill Company, 1902, pp. 538-539]

The answer is they aren’t. The reason is that the above treatise explains that the office CANNOT be a product of contract. They may file a false and fraudulent IRS Form W-4 AGREEMENT and therefore CONTRACT to be TREATED as if they are public officers, but it constitutes the crime of impersonating a public officer per 18 U.S.C. §912 to do so. The remainder of this section will explain why this is.

The previous section discussed the differences between a “public office” and “public employment” and clearly proved that they are NOT equivalent. Consequently, ordinary government workers or civil service employees are NOT “public officers” nor are they therefore engaged in the “trade or business” franchise and contract by default.

So how did sneaky Congress get around the road block that “public offices” and “public employments” are NOT equivalent in law? Here is how they did it:

1. They defined all STATUTORY “employees” as “officers” in 5 U.S.C. §2105.

\textsuperscript{215} See the opinion of Marshall, C. J., in United States v. Maurice, 2 Brock. 96, 102; State v. Jennings, 57 Ohio.St. 415.

\textsuperscript{217} Trainor v. Board of County Auditors, 89 Mich. 162, 16 L.R.A. 95; State v. Hewitt, 3 S.D. 187, 16 L.R.A. 413; Jacques v. Little, 51 Kan. 300; Board of Com’rs v. Johnson, 124 Ind. 145, 19 Am.St. 88; State v. Walbridge, 119 Mo. 383, 41 Am.St. 788; State v. Johnson, 57 Ohio.St. 429.

\textsuperscript{218} State v. Dalis, 44 Mo. 129.

\textsuperscript{219} State v. Hawkins, 44 Ohio.St. 98.
2. They PRESUMED that since this “OFFICER” works for the public, he is a statutory “PUBLIC OFFICER”, even though this is not strictly true. One can be an AGENT or OFFICER of the government WITHOUT also being a PUBLIC OFFICER.

3. They falsely told both the public and all government workers that:

3.1. “employee” in the ORDINARY sense and “employee” in the STATUTORY sense were equivalent.

3.2. Everyone in the public who works for a living is an “employee” subject to federal law. In fact, only PUBLIC OFFICERS are subject to federal law.

3.3. “employee” under the Internal Revenue Code Section 3401 and “employee” under 5 U.S.C. §2105 are equivalent. In fact, “employee” under the I.R.C. includes only public officers or officials, but not “employees” under 5 U.S.C. §2105.

The above deception is called a “fallacy by equivocation”. It appeals to the legal ignorance of the public to STEAL from them. It does so by confusing contexts for key “words of art”. In this case, the ORDINARY context was deliberately confused with the STATUTORY context in order to STEAL PRIVATE property from people the government was supposed to be protecting from such theft.

Earnings not connected to the “trade or business” and public office franchise are described in 26 U.S.C. §871(a) in the case of “nonresident aliens”. The following article proves that nonresident aliens not engaged in the “trade or business” franchise cannot earn “wages” unless they consent to do so by signing a contract called IRS Form W-4:

I.R.C., Subtitle A is a franchise tax on public offices, which the I.R.C. calls a “trade or business”. “Public office” and “public employment” are NOT equivalent in law. Even for government workers, they don’t earn “wages” as legally defined in 26 U.S.C. §3401 unless they are ALREADY public officers in the government BEFORE they sign the IRS Form W-4. This is because:

1. If a government worker not engaged in a public office refuses to sign the IRS Form W-4 and is not otherwise engaged in a “public office”, then they can’t lawfully become the subject of W-2 information returns and if they are filed with nonzero “wages”, they are FALSE in violation of 26 U.S.C. §7207 and 26 U.S.C. §7434.

2. It is “wages” which appear on IRS Form W-2 in block 1. This form connects the term “wages” to the “trade or business” franchise pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041(a).

3. 26 U.S.C. §871(a)(1) mentions “wages” as being taxable when not connected to the “trade or business” franchise and one can only earn “wages” if they consent under the IRS Form W-4 contract/agreement.

5. The income tax is upon “wages” but not even “public officers” earn “wages”.

For purposes of this chapter, the term “wages” means all remuneration (other than fees paid to a public official) for services performed by an employee for his employer, including the cash value of all remuneration (including benefits) paid in any medium other than cash; except that such term shall not include remuneration paid—

6. It is “wages” which are the subject of I.R.C., Subtitle C withholding and constitute I.R.C., Subtitle A “gross income” because “wages” is the code word for earnings of those who elect to become “public officers” and thereby donate their private property earnings to a “public office”, a “public use”, and a “public purpose” and thereby subject them to taxation by signing the IRS Form W-4 “public officer” job application and contract.

7. It is “wages” that 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(p)-1 says become “gross income” and therefore “trade or business” income ONLY AFTER one signs the IRS Form W-4.

8. It is for claiming that “wages” are not taxable that many tax protesters are properly sanctioned. See:

Flawed Tax Arguments to Avoid, Form #08.004, Section 9.2
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

The IRS Form W-4 is being used to connect private earnings to “wages” as legally defined and the “trade or business”/”public office” franchise by all of the following mechanisms:

1. As a federal “election” form where you can elect yourself into public office within the government. You are the only voter in this “election”. Now do you know why the IRS calls it an “election” whenever you consent to something in the I.R.C. They aren’t lying!

2. As a permission form authorizing the filing of information returns connecting otherwise private persons to a public office and a “trade or business” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6011(a). If the IRS Form W-2 is filed against a person who did NOT make such an election, then election fraud is occurring and the employer is committing the crime of impersonating a public officer in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912. Any withholdings against a person who did not submit the IRS Form W-4 is a bribe to procure a public office in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §211.

3. To CREATE public offices in the U.S. government unlawfully rather than tax those already in existence.

4. As a way to create a franchise that turns private labor into public property by donating it to a public use and a public office.

"Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights, ‘life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness,’ and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property or income which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor’s injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor’s benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.”

[Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]
5. As a way to make private workers into a Kelly Girls and contractors for the government engaged in a “public office”.

6. As a way to make you party to the franchise agreement codified in I.R.C., Subtitles A and C.

7. The SSN or TIN on the IRS Form W-4 is being used as a de facto “license” to act as a “public officer” in the U.S. government called a “taxpayer”. The IRS Form 1042-S Instructions say the SSN is only required for those engaged in a “trade or business”, which means a public office. The tax is on the office, not on the private person. The office is the “res” that is the subject of the tax and the use of the number is prima facie evidence of the existence of the “res”. All tax proceedings are “in rem” against the office, which is the only real “citizen”, “resident”, and “taxpayer”. The human being filling the office is not the “taxpayer”, but he is surety for the “taxpayer”. They don’t call the SSN or TIN a “license number” even though it is for all intents and purposes, because they don’t want to admit that they have no authority to license ANYTHING within a state of the Union:

“But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize [e.g. LICENSE] a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

Please show us a case where the License Tax cases was overruled? It’s still in force. The feds can’t license ANYTHING within a state, including “public offices” and the “trade or business” franchise that is being ILLEGALLY enforced within states of the Union at this time. To admit otherwise is to sanction a destruction of the separation of powers between the states and the federal government. There is NO PLACE within the I.R.C. that authorizes the CREATION of public offices using any tax form, and yet that is what the IRS is unlawfully using IRS Forms W-2, W-4, and 1040 for. 4 U.S.C. §72 says there MUST be a statute that authorizes the creation and exercise of such offices within a state in order for such public offices to be valid. Essentially what is happening is that the forms constitute an election to make you into a “resident agent” for an office that exists in the District of Columbia.

The existence of 26 U.S.C. §871(a) is a deception, because 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) says the property of those not engaged in the “trade or business” franchise is a foreign estate not subject to the I.R.C. One's earnings are part of that “foreign estate”.

26 U.S.C. §3401(a)(6) excludes earnings of “nonresident aliens” from statutory “wages”, if regulations exist. Government workers who aren't public officers therefore have the same protections as ordinary private industry workers who are nonresident aliens not engaged in the “trade or business” franchise. The only way a nonresident alien not otherwise engaged in the “trade or business” franchise can become subject is to sign the IRS Form W-4 contract to:

1. Become engaged in the franchise and be eligible for “benefits” under the franchise agreement.
3. Make an election to become a “resident alien”.

Remember: Information returns are the only way the IRS could find out about the earnings of a government employee, and these returns can ONLY be filed against those engaged in the “trade or business” franchise or who elect to be using the IRS Form W-4 agreement/contract. 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a), 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1. How would the IRS find out about 871(a) income that is NOT connected with the “trade or business”? There is no information return that is NOT connected to a “trade or business” and it is a CRIME for a person not ALREADY engaged in a public office in the government BEFORE they signed the IRS Form W-4 to impersonate a public officer or engage in the activities of a public office. 18 U.S.C. §912.

The income tax is upon the COINCIDENCE of DOMICILE within the jurisdiction AND being engaged in the “trade or business” franchise. The VOLUNTARY use of an identifying number connects you to BOTH of these prerequisites:

1. SSNs and TINs can only be issued to “U.S. persons”. 26 U.S.C. §6109(g), 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(g), and 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d).
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

2. The number is only MANDATORY for persons engaged in franchises. See IRS form 1042-s instructions AND section 10 of the following:

http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

You can STILL be a government worker as a “non-resident non-person” not engaged in a “trade or business”, not have a domicile on federal territory, and therefore STILL be a “foreigner” who is free and sovereign. The domicile and the protection it pays for is where the government’s authority comes from to collect the tax in the first place. It is a CIVIL liability and you aren’t subject to their CIVIL statutory law without a domicile on federal territory, unless you contract with them to procure an identity or “res”, and thereby become a “res-ident”. When you contract with them, you create a “public office” in the government and become surety for the office you created using your signature. Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), 26 U.S.C. §7408(d), and 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) then changes the choice of law to the District of Columbia for all functions of the “public office” because now you are acting in a representative capacity on behalf of the federal corporation as such public officer.

On the subject of contracting with the government, the Bible forbids Christians from nominating a King or Protector above them, or from contracting with the pagan government:

“Do not walk in the [civil] statutes of your fathers [the heathens, by selecting a domicile or “residence” in their jurisdiction], nor observe their judgments, nor defile yourselves with their idols. I am the LORD your God: Walk in My statutes, keep My judgments, and do them; hallow My Sabbaths, and they will be a sign between Me and you, that you may know that I am the LORD your God.”

[Ezekial 20:10-20, Bible, NKJV]

[Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

“Therefore, my brethren, you also have become dead to the law [man’s law] through the body of Christ [by shifting your legal domicile to the God’s Kingdom], that you may be married to another—to Him who was raised from the dead, that we should bear fruit [as agents, fiduciaries, and trustees] to God. For when we were in the flesh, the sinful passions which were aroused by the law were at work in our members to bear fruit to death. But now we have been delivered from the law, having died to what we were held by, so that we should serve in the newness of the Spirit [and newness of the law, God’s law] and not in the oldness of the letter.”

[Rom. 7:4-6, Bible, NKJV]

“The wicked shall be turned into (censored). And all the nations [and peoples] that forget [or disobey] God [or His commandments].”

[Psalm 9:17, Bible, NKJV]

[James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

“Above all, you must live as citizens of heaven [INSTEAD of citizens of earth. You can only be a citizen of ONE place at a time because you can only have a domicile in one place at a time] and conduct yourselves in a manner worthy of the Good News about Christ. Then, whether I come and see you again or only hear about you, I will know that you are standing together with one spirit and one purpose, fighting together for the faith, which is the Good News.”

[Philippians 1:27, Bible, NLT]

The government can’t lawfully force you to choose a domicile in their jurisdiction or to nominate a protector or become a “resident” if you are a “national” who was born in this country. They can force an alien born in another country to become a privileged “resident”, but they can’t force a “national” who is born here to become a “resident”, because they can’t lawfully compel a “citizen” under the constitution to suffer any of the disabilities of alienage without engaging in involuntary servitude and violation of constitutional rights. This is also confirmed by the definition of “residence” at 26 C.F.R. §1.871-2, which only includes aliens and not “nonresident aliens” or even “non-resident non-persons”. If they did force you to choose a domicile or residence and thereby become a “taxpayer”, it would be a violation of the First Amendment prohibition against compelled association and the Thirteenth Amendment prohibition against involuntary servitude. It has always been lawful to refuse protection and refuse to be a domiciliary called a statutory “U.S. citizen”, “U.S. person”, or statutory “U.S. resident”, and to refuse to contract with them or accept any “benefits” that might give rise to a “quasi-contractual” obligation to pay for “social insurance”. See:

As Frank Kowalik points out in his wonderful book, IRS Humbug: Weapons of Enslavement, Frank Kowalik, the income tax is a public officer kickback program disguised to “look” like a legitimate income tax. It’s smoke and mirrors. To make it look like an income tax, they had to throw the “domicile” stuff into it, but the public officer status is still the foundation. That is why 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) says everything in the code is “foreign” that is not connected to the public office (“trade or business”) franchise. To be “foreign” means it is outside the jurisdiction of the franchise agreement because not consensually connected to it.

5.6.12.11 Methods for Connecting You to the Franchise

The following subsections describe the main methods by which entities and persons are connected to the “trade or business” franchise agreement codified in I.R.C., Subtitle A.

5.6.12.11.1 Reductions in Liability: Graduated Rate of Tax, Deductions, and Earned Income Credits

All attempts to reduce one’s assumed tax liability require the person filing the tax return to be engaged in the “trade or business” excise taxable franchise. This includes:

1. Applying the graduated rate of tax found in 26 U.S.C. §1. Without the graduated rate of tax, the flat 30% tax applies to “nonresident alien individuals” found in 26 U.S.C. §871(a). The Section 1 rate usually starts lower than 30%.
3. Taking “trade or business” deductions found in 26 U.S.C. §162:

   TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter B
   Part VI-Itemized deductions for Individuals and Corporations
   Sec. 162, - Trade or business expenses

   (a) In general

   There shall be allowed as a deduction all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year in carrying on any trade or business, including –

   (1) a reasonable allowance for salaries or other compensation for personal services actually rendered;

Why must you be engaged in a “trade or business” in order to reduce your liability as a “taxpayer”? Because this is a commercial “benefit” and only those who work for the government can receive any commercial benefit from the government. Otherwise, the government is abusing its taxing power to transfer wealth among private individuals:

To lay, with one hand, the power of the government on the property of the citizen, and with the other to bestow it upon favored individuals to aid private enterprises and build up private fortunes, is none the less a robbery because it is done under the forms of law and is called taxation. This is not legislation. It is a decree under legislative forms.

Nor is it taxation. ‘A tax,’ says Webster’s Dictionary, ‘is a rate or sum of money assessed on the person or property of a citizen by government for the use of the nation or State.’ ‘Taxes are burdens or charges imposed by the Legislature upon persons or property to raise money for public purposes.’ Cooley, Const. Lim., 479.

Coulter, J., in Northern Liberties v. St. John’s Church, 13 Pa.St., 104 says, very forcibly, ‘I think the common mind has everywhere taken in the understanding that taxes are a public imposition, levied by authority of the government for the purposes of carrying on the government in all its machinery and operations—that they are imposed for a public purpose.’ See, also Pray v. Northern Liberties, 31 Pa.St., 69; Matter of Mayor of N.Y., 11 Johns., 77; Camden v. Allen, 2 Dutch., 398; Sharpless v. Mayor, supra; Hanson v. Vernon, 27 Ia., 47; Whiting v. Fond du Lac, supra.”

[Loan Association v. Topeka, 20 Wall. 655 (1874)]
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

IRS Publication 519 confirms the above by saying the following:

Nonresident Aliens

You can claim deductions to figure your effectively connected taxable income. You generally cannot claim deductions related to income that is not connected with your U.S. business activities. Except for personal exemptions, and certain itemized deductions, discussed later, you can claim deductions only to the extent they are connected with your effectively connected income.

[IRS Publication 519 (2005), p. 24]

5.6.12.11.2 Information Returns

Information returns include but are not limited to IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, 1099, and 8300. Receipt of “trade or business” earnings is the basis for nearly all Information Returns processed by the IRS, which are reports documenting financial payments made to government entities or officers. The requirement to file these reports is found at 26 U.S.C. §6041. The “person” they are referring to in the article is none other than a “public officer” in the government:

The IRS structures the ILLEGAL handling of these reports in order to encourage the filing of false reports so as to maximize their revenues from unlawful activities. That section also appears on our website below:

The Information Return Scam, Family Guardian Fellowship

This “trade or business” scam is found in other titles of the U.S. Code as well. For instance, in Title 31, which is the Money and Finance title, we did a search for the word “trade or business” and were very surprised by what we found there. You may know that when you try to withdraw $10,000 or more from a bank account, banks will insist on preparing what is called a “Currency Transaction Report”, or “CTR” documenting the withdrawal. This report is sent to the United States Treasury and inputted into the FINCEN computers at the Treasury. The report is used to catch money launderers and tax evaders who are handling large amounts of cash. Well, the only circumstance under which this report can lawfully be prepared is when the subject is engaged in a “trade or business”! Here is the section:

31 C.F.R. 103.30(d)(2) General

(d) Exceptions to the reporting requirements of 31 U.S.C. 5331:

(2) Receipt of currency not in the course of the recipient’s trade or business. The receipt of currency in excess of $10,000 by a person other than in the course of the person’s trade or business is not reportable under 31 U.S.C. 5331.

The “trade or business” they are talking about is exactly the same one that appears in the Internal Revenue Code, folks!
$ 103.30 Reports relating to currency in excess of $10,000 received in a trade or business.

(c) Meaning of terms. The following definitions apply for purposes of this section:

(11) Trade or business. The term trade or business has the same meaning as under section 162 of title 26, United States Code.

Quite a scam, huh? The following memorandum of law describes this scam in detail:

The Money Laundering Enforcement SCAM, Form #05.044
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

The "trade or business" scam in Title 31 in the context of CTR's explains why financial institutions can demand federal ID numbers from depositors, why the federal government needs to be able to track these deposits, and many other considerations. Banks and financial institutions are simply volunteering to help the federal government keep track of its "employees" and "subcontractors". The Slave Surveillance Numbers (SSN) is the license number used to track federal subcontractors and is used by the federal government to track their "corporate" assets. If you think Microsoft as a corporation is too big for its britches, then what about the mother corporation for all other corporations, the United States government? All of the assets owned by a person engaged in a "trade or business" become "effectively connected" with the U.S. government by virtue of the fact that if a federal employee fails to deduct and withhold the proper "kickback" for which they are liable under 26 U.S.C. §1461, then their assets must be tracked so the kickback can be recovered through administrative process without the need to litigate. Being "effectively connected" means they are administratively attachable without the need for litigation by using an automated "Notice of Levy" form that isn't even signed. If you are going to engage in "commerce" or business with the government, then you have to help them make it "efficient", right? Doesn't that come with the territory: Never look a gift horse in the mouth? Well, "Uncle" is your new "gift horse", your Master, and you are the slave. The assets of a federal subcontractor only cease to be administratively attachable at the point when the subcontractor fulfills their fiduciary duty as a "transferee" under 26 U.S.C. §§6901 and 6903 and deducts the correct amount of "tax", or "kickback" to send to their new "employer", the federal government. In effect, they are "Kelly Girls" for the federal government who handle their own payroll and send payments back to the mother corporation. The compensation they receive for doing their own payroll comes in the form of a reduced tax liability, procured by taking itemized deductions, earned income credit, and applying a graduated rate of tax. Those not engaged in a "trade or business" are not allowed to avail themselves of any such "privileges". If you don't want to continue to be treated inhumanely like a "taxpayer", then quit acting like one, quit sucking on the government tit, and quit asking for "Uncle" to take care of you by volunteering to engage in privileged activities in order to procure special incentives and favors you don't need anyway.

The "trade or business" requirement also extends to nearly all other types of payment reporting within the I.R.C. Here are just a few examples:

1. IRS Publication 334 entitled Tax Guide for Small Businesses, Year 2002, p. 12 says:

"Form 8300. You must file form 8300, Report of Cash Payments Over $10,000 Received in a Trade or Business, if you receive more than $10,000 in cash in one transaction, or two or more related business transactions. Cash includes U.S. and foreign coin and currency. It also includes certain monetary instruments such as cashier's and traveler's checks and money orders. Cash does not include a check drawn on an individual's personal account (personal check). For more information, see Publication 1544, Reporting Cash Payments of Over $10,000 (Received in a Trade or Business)

2. IRS Publication 583 entitled Starting a Business and Keeping Records, Rev. May 2002, p. 8 says:

"Form 1099-MISC. Use Form 1099-MISC, Miscellaneous Income, to report certain payments you make in your trade or business. These payments include the following..."

3. IRS Form 1099-MISC Instructions (2005), p. 1 says:

"Trade or business reporting only. Report on Form 1099-MISC only when payments are made in the course of your trade or business. Personal payments are not reportable. You are engaged in a trade or business if you..."
operate for gain or profit. However, nonprofit organizations are considered to be engaged in a trade or business and are subject to these reporting requirements. Nonprofit organizations subject to these reporting requirements include trusts of qualified pension or profit-sharing plans of employers, certain organizations exempt from tax under section 501(c) or (d), and farmers' cooperatives that are exempt from tax under section 521. Payments by federal, state, or local government agencies are also reportable.”

4. Treasury Regulation 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)(11)-1(a) says that those who are not engaged in a “trade or business” can earn no reportable income on a W-2:

Title 26: Internal Revenue
PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE
Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source
§ 31.3401(a)(11)-1 Remuneration other than in cash for service not in the course of employer's trade or business.

(a) Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business is excepted from wages and hence is not subject to withholding.

Cash remuneration includes checks and other monetary media of exchange. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash, such as lodging, food, or other goods or commodities, for services not in the course of the employer's trade or business does not constitute wages. Remuneration paid in any medium other than cash for other types of services does not come within this exception from wages. For provisions relating to cash remuneration for service not in the course of employer's trade or business, see §31.3401(a)(4)-1.

5. Treasury Regulation 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)(6)-1(b) says that remuneration earned outside the statutory “United States” (federal territory) is exempted from wages and not subject to withholding.

Title 26: Internal Revenue
PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE
Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source
§ 31.3401(a)(6)-1 Remuneration for services performed outside the United States.

(b) Remuneration for services performed outside the United States.

Remuneration paid to a nonresident alien individual (other than a resident of Puerto Rico) for services performed outside the United States is excepted from wages and hence is not subject to withholding.

How does the IRS trap “nontaxpayers” who are “non-resident non-persons” or “nonresident aliens” who refuse to get identifying numbers or fill out an IRS Form W-4? IRS Publication 515 shows how they do it, which is entitled Withholding of Tax on Nonresident Aliens and Foreign Entities. That publication capitalizes on the confusion of private employers about the meaning of “United States” and “trade or business” by saying the following:

Income Not Effectively Connected

This section discusses the specific types of income that are subject to NRA withholding. The income codes contained in this section correspond to the income codes used on Form 1042-S (discussed later), and in most cases on Tables 1 and 2 found at the end of this publication.

You must withhold tax at the statutory rates shown in Chart C unless a reduced rate of exemption under a tax treaty applies. For U.S. source gross income that is not effectively connected with a U.S. trade or business, the rate is usually 30%. Generally, you must withhold the tax at the time you pay the income to the foreign person. See "When to withhold under Withholding Agent, earlier."

Three “words of art” are used above that we must pay particular attention to:

1. U.S. source: Originating from within the “United States” federal corporation or federal territory.
2. gross income: Payment qualifies as “gross income” within the meaning of 26 U.S.C. §61. The only payment not connected with a “trade or business” that are explicitly identified in the code as “gross income” is Social Security payments, under 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(8).
So what they are really saying is that if you are a “nonresident alien” not engaged in the “trade or business” franchise who is receiving payments from the U.S. government in the form of Social Security, then these payments are subject to withholding of 30%, but ONLY if the party doing the withholding has explicitly been designated as a “withholding agent” by the Secretary as required under 26 U.S.C. §3501. We also know that private employers are NOT required to act as withholding agents, by the admission of the IRS’ own Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.):

Payroll Deduction Agreements
2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction [withholding] agreements. Taxpayers should determine whether their employers will accept and process executed agreements before agreements are submitted for approval or finalized.
```

5.6.12.11.3 Government Identifying Numbers: SSN and TIN

Whenever you put a government issued identifying number on any document, you are implicitly establishing that you are engaged in the “trade or business” franchise. This fact is easily discerned by examining the following:

1. 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b) indicates that in the case of a foreign person, identifying numbers are only required if that person is engaged in a “trade or business” or if they made an election to be a “U.S. person”, meaning public officer in the government.

```
TITLE 26--INTERNAL REVENUE
CHAPTER I--INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
PART 301_PROCEDURE AND ADMINISTRATION--Table of Contents
Information and Returns
Sec. 301.6109-1 Identifying numbers.

(b) Requirement to furnish one's own number—

(1) U.S. [GOVERNMENT] persons.

Every U.S. [federal government public officer] person who makes under this title a return, statement, or other document must furnish its own taxpayer identifying number as required by the forms and the accompanying instructions. A U.S. person whose number must be included on a document filed by another person must give the taxpayer identifying number so required to the other person on request.

For penalties for failure to supply taxpayer identifying numbers, see sections 6721 through 6724. For provisions dealing specifically with the duty of employers with respect to their social security numbers, see Sec. 31.6011(b)-2 (a) and (b) of this chapter (Employment Tax Regulations). For provisions dealing specifically with the duty of employers with respect to employer identification numbers, see Sec. 31.6011(b)-1 of this chapter (Employment Tax Regulations).

(2) Foreign persons.

The provisions of paragraph (b)(1) of this section regarding the furnishing of one's own number shall apply to the following foreign persons--

(i) A foreign person that has income effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business at any time during the taxable year;

(ii) A foreign person that has a U.S. office or place of business or a U.S. fiscal or paying agent at any time during the taxable year;

(iii) A nonresident alien treated as a resident under section 6013(g) or (h);

(iv) A foreign person that makes a return of tax (including income, estate, and gift tax returns), an amended return, or a refund claim under this title but excluding information returns, statements, or documents;

(v) A foreign person that makes an election under Sec. 301.7701-3(c);
```
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

(vi) A foreign person that furnishes a withholding certificate described in Sec. 1.1441-1(e)(2) or (3) of this chapter or Sec. 1.1441-5(c)(2)(iv) or (3)(iii) of this chapter to the extent required under Sec. 1.1441-1(e)(4)(vii) of this chapter;

(vii) A foreign person whose taxpayer identifying number is required to be furnished on any return, statement, or other document as required by the income tax regulations under section 897 or 1445. This paragraph (b)(2)(vii) applies as of November 3, 2003; and

(viii) A foreign person that furnishes a withholding certificate described in Sec. 1.1446-1(c)(2) or (3) of this chapter or whose taxpayer identification number is required to be furnished on any return, statement, or other document as required by the income tax regulations under section 1446. This paragraph (b)(2)(viii) shall apply to partnership taxable years beginning after May 18, 2005, or such earlier time as the regulations under Sec. 1.1446-1 through 1.1446-5 of this chapter apply by reason of an election under Sec. 1.1446-7 of this chapter.

1.1. The “U.S. person” they are describing in above is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30) and it means a person in the “U.S.” defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10), which means a government public officer. Everything that public officer makes that originates from the government is “trade or business” earnings. This is also confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3), which says that everything originating from the “U.S.” described is “trade or business” earnings.

1.2. Notice also that the “foreign person” described above is only required to provide the number if they are engaged in the “trade or business” franchise or if they made an election under 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) or (h) to be treated as a resident alien. Such an election would be ILLEGAL for those who are nationals but not aliens, such as those domiciled in a state of the Union. Only foreign nationals can make such an election.

2. IRS Form 1042-S Instructions (2006), p. 14. What all of the circumstances below have in common is that they involve a “benefit” that is usually financial or tangible to the recipient, and therefore require a franchisee license number called a Taxpayer Identification Number:

Box 14, Recipient’s U.S. Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN)

You must obtain a U.S. taxpayer identification number (TIN) for:

- Any recipient whose income is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States.
- Any foreign person claiming a reduced rate of, or exemption from, tax under a tax treaty between a foreign country and the United States, unless the income is an unexpected payment (as described in Regulations section 1.1441-6(g)) or consists of dividends and interest from stocks and debt obligations that are actively traded; dividends from any redeemable security issued by an investment company registered under the Investment Company Act of 1940 (mutual fund); dividends, interest, or royalties from units of beneficial interest in a unit investment trust that are (or were, upon issuance) publicly offered and are registered with the Securities and Exchange Commission under the Securities Act of 1933; and amounts paid with respect to loans of any of the above securities.
- Any nonresident alien individual claiming exemption from tax under section 871(f) for certain annuities received under qualified plans.
- A foreign organization claiming an exemption from tax solely because of its status as a tax-exempt organization under section 501(c) or a private foundation.
- Any QT.
- Any WP or WT.
- Any nonresident alien individual claiming exemption from withholding on compensation for independent personal services [services connected with a “trade or business”].
- Any foreign grantor trust with five or fewer grantors.
- Any branch of a foreign bank or foreign insurance company that is treated as a U.S. person.

If a foreign person provides a TIN on a Form W-8, but is not required to do so, the withholding agent must include the TIN on Form 1042-S.

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

5.6.12.11.4 Domicile, residence, and Resident Tax Returns such as IRS Form 1040

The requirement to pay an income tax originates from the coincidence of one’s domicile along with the excise taxable activities they engage in within the place of domicile:

"domicile. A person’s legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one’s home are the requisites of establishing a “domicile” therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges."

The above requirement of domicile is then found in 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a) and is hidden within the words “citizen” and “resident”:

TITLE 26--INTERNAL REVENUE
CHAPTER I--INTERNAL REVENUE SERVICE, DEPARTMENT OF THE TREASURY
PART 1_INCOME TAXES--Table of Contents
Sec. 1.1-1 Income tax on individuals.

(a) General rule.

(1) Section 1 of the Code imposes an income tax on the income of every individual who is a citizen or resident of the United States and, to the extent provided by section 871(b) or 877(b), on the income of a nonresident alien individual. For optional tax in the case of taxpayers with adjusted gross income of less than $10,000 (less than $5,000 for taxable years beginning before January 1, 1970) see section 3. The tax imposed is upon taxable income (determined by subtracting the allowable deductions from gross income). The tax is determined in accordance with the table contained in section 1. See subparagraph (2) of this paragraph for reference guides to the appropriate table for taxable years beginning on or after January 1, 1964, and before January 1, 1965, taxable years beginning after December 31, 1964, and before January 1, 1971, and taxable years beginning after December 31, 1970. In certain cases credits are allowed against the amount of the tax. See part IV (section 31 and following), subchapter A, chapter 1 of the Code. In general, the tax is payable upon the basis of returns rendered by persons liable therefor (subchapter A (sections 6001 and following), chapter 61 of the Code) or at the source of the income by withholding. For the computation of tax in the case of a joint return of a husband and wife, or a return of a surviving spouse, for taxable years beginning after January 1, 1971, see section 2. The computation of tax in such a case for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1970, is determined in accordance with the table contained in section 1(a) as amended by the Tax Reform Act of 1969. For other rates of tax on individuals, see section 51(a). For the imposition of an additional tax for the calendar years 1968, 1969, and 1970, see section 51(a).

What “citizens” and “residents” have in common is a legal domicile in the “United States”. Collectively, persons with a legal domicile within a jurisdiction are called “inhabitants” and “U.S. persons”:

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

4. Temporary domicile in the middle column on the right must meet the requirements of the “Presence test” documented in IRS publications.

5. “FEDERAL ZONE”=District of Columbia and territories of the United States in the above table

6. The term “individual” as used on the IRS Form 1040 means an “alien” engaged in a “trade or business”. All “taxpayers” are “aliens” engaged in a “trade or business”. This is confirmed by 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3), 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii), and 5 U.S.C. §552(a)(2). Statutory “U.S. citizens” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401 are not “individuals” unless temporarily abroad pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911 and subject to an income tax treaty with a foreign country. In that capacity, statutory “U.S. citizens” interface to the I.R.C. as “aliens” rather than “U.S. citizens” through the tax treaty.

The term “United States” is then defined as federal territory in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) and nowhere expressly extended to include states of the Union. This is the same “United States” within which EVERYTHING is presumed to be “trade or business” earnings, which implies that what they are really referring to is the “United States” federal corporation or government, and not the geographical United States:

Title 26 > Subtitle A > Chapter 1, > Subchapter N > Part I > § 864
§864. Definitions and special rules

(c) Effectively connected income, etc.
(3) Other income from sources within United States

All income, gain, or loss from sources within the United States (other than income, gain, or loss to which paragraph (2) applies) shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

A person who therefore is a “citizen” or “resident” within the I.R.C. and who therefore has a legal domicile in the “United States” is equivalent to either the government or a public officer representing the government. This is established in the memorandum of law below:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Therefor, whenever you file a “resident” tax form, such as form 1040, then you are indirectly admitting a legal domicile within the “United States” and all of your earnings are therefore presumed to be connected with the “trade or business” franchise pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3).

[IRS Published Products Catalog, Year 2003, p. F-15;

This is also confirmed by the IRS Form 1040 itself, because everything on the form is subject to “trade or business” deductions under 26 U.S.C. §162. Those not engaged in the “trade or business” franchise cannot lawfully take such deductions. Everything listed in the deduction against which a deduction is taken therefore effectively becomes “private property donated to a public use to procure the benefits of the trade or business franchise”. The deductions are the “benefit” or “privilege” of participating in the franchise and act essentially as employment compensation associated with the “public office”.

The only way you can avoid participating in the “trade or business” franchise is to file a nonresident tax return, such as IRS Form 1040NR. Of this form, IRS Publication 519 says the following:

Income

All income for your period of residence and all income that is effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States for your period of nonresidence, after allowable deductions, is added and taxed at the rates that apply to U.S. citizens and residents. Income that is not connected with a trade or business in the United States for your period of nonresidence is subject to the flat 30% rate or lower treaty rate. You cannot take any deductions against this income.
In fact, it is participation in the franchise that effectively makes you a “resident” under the I.R.C. Whether a "person" is a "resident" or "nonresident" has NOTHING to do with the nationality or residence, but with whether it is engaged in a "trade or business":

26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the period when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

The legal mechanism for becoming a “resident” by engaging in a commercial franchise with the government originates from the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2), which makes the person into a “resident” when they consensually engage in “commerce” within the exclusive jurisdiction of the sovereign within its own territory:

TITLE 28 > PART IV > CHAPTER 97 > § 1605
§ 1605. General exceptions to the jurisdictional immunity of a foreign state

(a) A foreign state shall not be immune from the jurisdiction of courts of the United States or of the States in any case—

(b) in which the action is based upon a commercial activity carried on in the United States by the foreign state; or upon an act performed in the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere; or upon an act outside the territory of the United States in connection with a commercial activity of the foreign state elsewhere and that act causes a direct effect in the United States;

Once you engage in commerce within the jurisdiction of the sovereign and consent to the franchise agreement:

1. You are deemed “resident” and “present” within the jurisdiction of the sovereign.

In International Shoe Co. v. Washington, 326 U.S. 310 (1945), the Supreme Court held that a court may exercise personal jurisdiction over a defendant consistent with due process only if he or she has “certain minimum contacts” with the relevant forum “such that the maintenance of the suit does not offend ‘traditional notions of fair play and substantial justice.’” Id. at 316 (quoting Milliken v. Meyer, 311 U.S. 457, 463 (1940)). Unless a defendant's contacts with a forum are so substantial, continuous, and systematic that the defendant can be deemed to be “present” in that forum for all purposes, a forum may exercise only “specific” jurisdiction - that is, jurisdiction based on the relationship between the defendant’s forum contacts and the plaintiff’s claim.

In this circuit, we analyze specific jurisdiction according to a three-prong test:

(1) The non-resident defendant must purposefully direct his activities or consummate some transaction with the forum or resident thereof; or perform some act by which he purposefully avails himself of the privilege of conducting activities in the forum, thereby invoking the benefits and protections of its laws;

(2) the claim must be one which arises out of or relates to the defendant’s forum-related activities; and

(3) the exercise of jurisdiction must comport with fair play and substantial justice, i.e. it must be reasonable.

Schwarzenegger v. Fred Martin Motor Co., 374 F.3d. 797, 802 (9th Cir. 2004) (quoting Lake v. Lake, 817 F.2d. 1416, 1421 (9th Cir. 1987)). The first prong is determinative in this case. We have sometimes referred to it, in shorthand fashion, as the "purposeful availment" prong. Schwarzenegger, 374 F.3d. at 802. Despite its label, this prong includes both purposeful availment and purposeful direction. It may be satisfied by purposeful availment of the privilege of doing business in the forum; by purposeful direction of activities at the forum; or by some combination thereof.

Title 26: Internal Revenue
PART 31—EMPLOYMENT TAXES AND COLLECTION OF INCOME TAX AT SOURCE
Subpart E—Collection of Income Tax at Source
Sec. 31.3402(p)-1 Voluntary withholding agreements.

(a) In general.

An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of §31.3401(a)-3, made after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder. See §31.3405(c)-1, Q&A-3 concerning agreements to have more than 20-percent Federal income tax withheld from eligible rollover distributions within the meaning of section 402.

(b) Form and duration of agreement

(2) An agreement under section 3402 (p) shall be effective for such period as the employer and employee mutually agree upon. However, either the employer or the employee may terminate the agreement prior to the end of such period by furnishing a signed written notice to the other. Unless the employer and employee agree to an earlier termination date, the notice shall be effective with respect to the first payment of an amount in respect of which the agreement is in effect which is made on or after the first “status determination date” (January 1, May 1, July 1, and October 1 of each year) that occurs at least 30 days after the date on which the notice is furnished. If the employee executes a new Form W-4, the request upon which an agreement under section 3402 (p) is based shall be attached to, and constitute a part of, such new Form W-4.

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements.

(a) In general.

Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the regulations thereunder, the term “wages” includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (§31.3401(a)-3).

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The laws of the United States make it a crime to use an IRS Form W-4 to in effect “elect” yourself into the public office that is the subject of the I.R.C., Subtitle A income tax:

1. 18 U.S.C. §912: Impersonating a public officer. Assuming the rights or obligations of a public officer such as a “taxpayer”.
2. 18 U.S.C. §1512: Tampering with a witness. Workers are criminally threatened by ignorant payroll clerks to sign the IRS Form W-4 under penalty of perjury that is knowingly false and fraudulent and criminal.
3. 18 U.S.C. §210: Offer to procure appointive public office. The withholdings paid in under the IRS Form W-4 are the BRIBE to procure and to be treated illegally “as if” one is a public officer engaged in the trade or business franchise.

If the person submitting the form is NOT a public officer but a private human, then by signing and submitting the form, they are identifying themselves as THE statutory “employee” identified in the upper left corner of the form AND legally defined in 5 U.S.C. §2105(a) as a public officer and indirectly, electing themselves into office AND bribing the person receiving the form to TREAT them AS IF they are public officers. Earlier versions of the IRS Internal Revenue Manual recognized the difference between a PRIVATE worker and a PUBLIC statutory “employee” with the following language in order to PREVENT the commission of the above crimes by uninformed withholding agents:

Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.), Section 5.14.10.2 (09-30-2004)
Payroll Deduction Agreements

2. Private employers, states, and political subdivisions are not required to enter into payroll deduction agreements. Taxpayers should determine whether their employers will accept and process executed agreements before agreements are submitted for approval or finalized.

After we pointed out the above IRM section, the IRS mysteriously deleted the above section from their website, even though technically it is still true and absolutely necessary in order to prevent the crimes indicated above.

Absent public notice in IRS publications and the IRM above, ignorant private companies hiring those who are NOT statutory public “employees” frequently coerce their workers to commit the above crimes. The IRS Form W-4 is frequently and illegally abused by private employers to recruit otherwise PRIVATE people into appointive public office. The following treatise on public officers says that all attempts to procure such appointments are immoral and illegal:

§ 28. Services in procuring Appointment to Office.

Contracts [such as IRS W-4’s] to procure the appointment of a person to public office fall within the same principles. These offices are trusts, held solely for the public good, and should be conferred from considerations of the ability, integrity, fidelity and fitness for the position of the appointee. No other considerations can properly be regarded by the appointing power. Whatever introduces other elements to control this power must necessarily lower the character of the appointments to the great detriment of the public good. Agreements for compensation to procure these appointments tend directly and necessarily to introduce such elements. The law, therefore, from this tendency alone, adjudges these agreements inconsistent with sound morals and public policy.”

5.6.12.12.1 Wilful government deception in connection with a “trade or business”

It’s pretty obvious that your public servants don’t want you to know about this “trade or business” scam, because then the gravy train of plunder and their welfare check would have to stop and they would have to get a REAL job. What steps have they taken to obfuscate the truth about this very important issue? Here is a brief summary of their dishonest techniques:

1. They made it “appear” in 26 U.S.C. §871(a) that income not connected with a “trade or business” from within the “United States” was subject to mandatory 30% tax. However:

   1.1. 26 C.F.R. §1.871-7(d)(2)(ii) says that the nonresident alien must be present in the United States for 183 days out of the year or more in order to be subject to the taxes on sale or exchange of capital assets, in which case he isn’t a nonresident alien anymore by the "presence test". Quite a scam, huh?

   1.2. 26 C.F.R. §1.871-7(b)(1) says that the following types of income from within the District of Columbia are taxable to “nonresident alien individuals” not engaged in a "trade or business": "interest, dividends, rents, salaries, wages, premiums, annuities, compensations, remunerations, and emoluments, but other items of fixed or determinable annual or periodical gains, profits, or income are also subject to the tax, as, for instance, royalties, including royalties for the use of patents, copyrights, secret processes and formulas, and other like property". The Classification Act of 1923, 42 Stat. 1988, then defines all these types of income as being from the federal government only. See our article on this fraud: The Classification Act of 1923, section 6.5.16 later.

2. They never explicitly state the simple truth anywhere in any IRS publication that we could find that if you aren’t involved in a "trade or business" within the “United States” as a “person” who has a domicile there (such as a statutory "U.S. citizen" or "resident alien"), then you don’t earn “gross income” and are a “nontaxpayer” not subject to the I.R.C. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii), and 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1)(iv) are the only places that make this fact very clear, but it isn’t simply and explicitly explained anywhere else in the code or regulations, and these sections are something that could easily be overlooked by the average American.

3. They did not directly state the excise taxable activities subject to tax in a single, simple list anywhere within the Internal Revenue Code. Instead, they left that statement to be made by the Secretary of the Treasury, which he did in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1). This section of regulations is one that few people read or refer to, and therefore they have kept the truth out of plain view of most tax professionals.

4. Those who have read and understand 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) and who raise it in litigation have been persecuted and slandered by the IRS and corrupted federal judges and falsely called “frivolous” without justifying why it is frivolous. However, they are the frivolous ones because no federal judge that we know of has ever or would ever deal in their ruling directly with the issue of the “excise taxable activities” identified in 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) because they would have to admit that:

   4.1. Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A is an indirect excise tax.

   4.2. People and property within states of the Union are not the proper subject of Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A.

   4.3. The only "taxable activities" under the I.R.C. are either public offices in the United States government or "foreign commerce" of federally registered corporations.

   4.4. Natural persons can only be involved in a “taxable activity” if they hold a public office in the United States government or a federal territory or possession, or are acting in the capacity as an officer of a federally chartered corporation that is involved in foreign commerce licensed under 26 U.S.C. §7001. Remember: The way an activity becomes excise taxable is the issuance of a “license”. Requesting a “license” or accepting a government “privilege” is the essence of how a person volunteers to pay an excise tax.

Now, let’s look at some of the devious ways that the IRS creates false presumptions to deceive people domiciled in the states of the Union into admitting under penalty of perjury on the wrong tax return, the 1040, that they are involved in a “trade or business” and that they are subject to exclusive federal jurisdiction, even though we know that neither is true. We refer you to IRS Publication 519 (2000) version, which says starting on p. 17:

The 30% Tax

Tax at a 30% (or lower treaty) rate applies to certain items of income or gains from U.S. sources but only if the items are not effectively connected with your U.S. trade or business.

Fixed or Determinable Income

The 30% (or lower treaty) rate applies to the gross amount of U.S. source fixed or determinable annual or periodic gains, profits, or income.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Social Security Benefits

A nonresident alien must include 85% of any U.S. social security benefit (and the social security equivalent part of a tier 1 railroad retirement benefit) in U.S. source fixed or determinable annual or periodic income. This income is exempt under some tax treaties. See Table 1 in Publication 901, U.S. Tax Treaties, for a list of tax treaties that exempt U.S. social security benefits from U.S. tax.

Well, first of all, the above statement is misleading, because they never defined the word “income” and the Supreme Court said in Eisner v. Macomber that the Congress can’t define it and that ONLY the Constitution can define it, so they can’t write any law authorizing the IRS to define it either! So what “income” are they talking about here? The only thing the Supreme Court has ever defined “income” to mean was profit from a corporation involved in foreign commerce, as we pointed out earlier in section 5.6.5. Why didn’t they mention this? Because they don’t want you to know!

Secondly, the only thing that it can be talking about is earnings not connected with a “trade or business” described in 26 U.S.C. §871(a), which is the only place the 30% tax rate appears. Those earnings can only relate to payments originating from “sources within the United States*” earned by “nonresident alien individuals”, because that is what 26 U.S.C. §871 says. What are the items of income” that is subject to this 30% tax? These “items of income” are listed in 26 U.S.C. §§862(a) and 863(a). Most of these “items of income” are then elsewhere excluded, as we showed earlier in this section. We showed, for instance that:

1. Those who are “non-resident non-persons” and not “nonresident aliens” or “nonresident individual aliens” are nowhere mentioned as having any liability at all. This includes those domiciled in states of the Union who are not “aliens” and therefore not “individuals”. The liability to file a tax return described in 26 C.F.R. §1.6012-1(b) only applies to “nonresident alien individuals”, not “non-resident non-persons”. For further details, see the following:

   Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31)(A) says that earnings not connected with a “trade or business” and not originating from the “United States” are a “foreign estate” not includible in “gross income”. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) defines this “United States” to mean the District of Columbia or federal statutory “State” (4 U.S.C. §110(d)) but not a state of the Union. Such an estate, including the earnings of people who are part of such an estate, would be “not subject” to the tax but at the same time not “exempt”.

The term “foreign estate” means an estate the income of which, from sources without the United States which is not effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States, is not includible in gross income under subtitle A.

3. 26 U.S.C. §864(b)(1)(A) excludes earnings of “nonresident alien individuals” who are working for nonresident aliens, even though 26 U.S.C. §862(a)(3) would appear to create the false impression that such earnings are includible in “gross income”.

4. Self-employment income is not counted as “gross income” under 26 U.S.C. §1402 if it does not involve a “trade or business”.

5. Under 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(ii) and 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1)(iv), only income “effectively connected with a trade or business” is includible in gross income for biological people.

So what is left after one excludes the earnings indicated in the above requirements because the party being taxed is a “national” and a “non-resident non-person” who is not a “nonresident alien”, “nonresident alien individual”, or an alien and all of whose earnings are not “effectively connected with a trade or business” and originate outside the statutory “United States*” (federal ***)
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

 CORPORATIVE PROFIT OF A FEDERAL AND NOT STATE CORPORATION INVOLVED IN FOREIGN COMMERCE! That’s what we already showed the Supreme Court said constituted “income” within the meaning of the Sixteenth Amendment:

“Income [corporate profit from foreign commerce, in the context of taxes upon states of the Union] has been taken to mean the same thing as used in the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909 (36 Stat. 112) in the 16th Amendment, and in the various revenue acts subsequently passed.”

[Bowers v. Kerbaugh-Empire Co., 271 U.S. 170 (1926)]

The grant of the power to lay and collect taxes [on foreign commerce within the states ONLY] is, like the power to regulate commerce, made in general terms, and has never been understood to interfere with the exercise of the same power by the State; and hence has been drawn an argument which has been applied to the question under consideration. But the two grants are not, it is conceived, similar in their terms or their nature. Although many of the powers formerly [22 U.S. 1, 199] exercised by the States, are transferred to the government of the Union, yet the State governments remain, and constitute a most important part of our system. The power of taxation is indispensable to their existence, and is a power which, in its own nature, is capable of residing in, and being exercised by, different authorities at the same time. We are accustomed to see it placed, for different purposes, in different hands. Taxation is the simple operation of taking small portions from a perpetually accumulating mass, susceptible of almost infinite division; and a power in one to take what is necessary for certain purposes, is not, in its nature, incompatible with a power in another to take what is necessary for other purposes. Congress is authorized to lay and collect taxes [on foreign commerce ONLY within the states], and to pay the debts, and provide for the common defence and general welfare of the United States. This does not interfere with the power of the States to tax [internally] for the support of their own governments; nor is the exercise of that power by the States [to tax INTERNALLY], an exercise of any portion of the power that is granted to the United States [to tax EXTERNALLY]. In imposing taxes for State purposes, they are not doing what Congress is empowered to do. Congress is not empowered to tax for those purposes which are within the exclusive province of the States. When, then, each government exercises the power of taxation, neither is exercising the power of the other.

[26 U.S.C. §1861-8(f)(1) lists all these taxable activities involving foreign commerce, and they all come under treaties or are connected with what is called a Domestic International Sales Corporation (DISC) or a Foreign Sales Corporation (FSC): These weasels are slippery, aren’t they? What they are trying to do is make an exclusively municipal excise tax that only applies to federal territory “look” like it applies to everyone in the country by encrypting and hiding the truth using “words of art”. They contradict themselves in their own publication, because elsewhere, they admit that those who have income from outside the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory) that is not connected with “trade or business” don’t earn “gross income”:

Income Subject to Tax

Income from sources outside the United States that is not effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States is not taxable if you receive it while you are a nonresident alien. The income is not taxable even if you earned it while you were a resident alien or if you became a resident alien or a U.S. citizen after receiving it and before the end of the year.

The above claim within IRS Publication 519 originates from 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), which we cited at the beginning of this article. What they are saying is that only earnings from within the statutory “United States” (federal territory) and which are not connected with a “trade or business” are subject to the 30% tax rate, and that the income must be earned by nonresident alien individuals who are aliens and not “nationals”, because citizens can’t be taxed at home and aliens and nonresident aliens are excluded. The only thing left is foreign “persons”, such as foreign corporations. If they simply commute daily to work there, they are “nonresident aliens” and therefore don’t earn “gross income”. Anything not connected with a “trade or business” that is earned outside of the statutory “United States” (federal territory) is therefore not includable as “gross income” at all. Anything earned inside the statutory “United States” (federal territory) in connection with a public office is includable in “gross income” at the graduated, instead of 30% rate. Even then, one must consent voluntarily to be a “taxpayer” because there is no statute making anyone liable in either the D.C. Code or the I.R.C. That process is done by submitting a form and assessing oneself with a liability even though there is none. Once they “volunteer” by filling out...
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax and submitting the WRONG form, the 1040 form, and become “subject to” the I.R.C., they become virtual inhabitants of the District of Columbia under the provisions of 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d):

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 79 > Sec. 7701.
Sec. 7701. – Definitions

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(39) Persons residing outside [the federal] United States

If any citizen or resident of the United States does not reside in (and is not found in) any United States judicial district, such citizen or resident shall be treated as residing in the District of Columbia for purposes of any provision of this title relating to—

(A) jurisdiction of courts, or
(B) enforcement of summons.

TITLE 26 > Subtitle F > CHAPTER 76 > Subchapter A > § 7408
§7408. Action to enjoin promoters of abusive tax shelters, etc.

(d) Citizens and residents outside the United States If any citizen or resident of the United States does not reside in, and does not have his principal place of business in, any United States judicial district, such citizen or resident shall be treated for purposes of this section as residing in the District of Columbia.

If they REALLY had jurisdiction in a state of the Union to tax, do you think they would need provisions like those above?

Note also that what statutory “citizens and residents” have in common is a legal “domicile” in the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory) pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911(d)(3). When a human domiciled in a state of the Union who is rightfully a “non-resident non-person” fills out and sends in a 1040 form, rather than the correct 1040NR form, they are assumed to be a “citizen or resident of the United States” and an “individual”, meaning a “resident alien” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). The “United States” in the context of I.R.C., Subtitle A means federal territory that is not part of the exclusive jurisdiction of any constitutional state of the Union. It is redefined in other titles to include the 50 states, but in Subtitle A, it’s definition is limited to that found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d). Therefore, they are claiming that they are domiciled on federal territory within the statutory but not constitutional “United States”. Did you know that by submitting an IRS Form 1040, you were making a “voluntary election” to be treated as a domiciliary of the federal zone? They didn’t tell you THAT in the IRS publications, now did they? Why not? Because they want to manufacture your legal ignorance in the public schools and then use their incomplete and deceptive publications to “harvest” the fruits of your ignorance. The Soviets called these people “Useful Idiots”. A fool and his money are soon parted.

The public schools are the fool factory and the 1040 is the indenture that makes you into their willing, voluntary indentured slave. Below is what the IRS Published Products Catalog (2003) says about the purpose of the form 1040:

1040A 11327A Each
U.S. Individual Income Tax Return

Annual income tax return filed by citizens and residents of the United States. There are separate instructions available for this item. The catalog number for the instructions is 12088U.

W:CAR:MP:FP:F:1 Tax Form or Instructions

Under I.R.C. §7701(a)(39) above, they then become the equivalent of “virtual inhabitants” of the District of Columbia. If we then look in the District of Columbia Code, we find that there isn’t a liability statute in that code either so the IRS still requires our consent to call us a “taxpayer” no matter which way you look at it. This is covered in much more detail in the Tax Fraud Prevention Manual, Form #06.008, Chapter 3, section 3.5.3 if you want to investigate further. We also know that kidnapping is highly illegal under 18 U.S.C. §1201, and that making us into a “virtual inhabitant” of anything is the equivalent of kidnapping if done without our consent. Therefore, indirectly we must conclude that anyone who does not have a domicile on federal territory in the statutory but not constitutional “United States” must volunteer or consent to be a “taxpayer” before their “res” or legal identity can be transported to the federal zone. That process of volunteering is done using the IRS Form 1040 and is done under the authority of 26 U.S.C. 86013(g) for those who file as “nonresident aliens”.

It gets worse, folks. Let’s look at some of the deceit in IRS Publication 519 that tries to convince people falsely that they are involved in a “trade or business”, or tricks them into admitting they are in the process of pursuing the “privilege” of having additional deductions. Below is what they say about how you can increase your deductions by claiming you are engaged in a “trade or business”, from p. 23 of the Year 2000 edition of IRS Publication 519:

Itemized Deductions

Nonresident aliens can claim some of the same itemized deductions that resident aliens can claim. However, nonresident aliens can claim itemized deductions only if they have income effectively connected with their U.S. trade or business.

Nonresident Aliens

You can deduct certain itemized deductions if you receive income effectively connected with your U.S. trade or business. These deductions include state and local income taxes, charitable contributions to U.S. organizations, casualty and theft losses, and miscellaneous deductions. Use Schedule A of Form 1040NR to claim itemized deductions.

If you are filing Form 1040NR–EZ, you can only claim a deduction for state or local income taxes. If you are claiming any other deduction, you must file Form 1040NR.

[IRS Publication 519 (2000), p. 23]

Why do they do the above? Well, those who know they have no effectively connected income and therefore have a zero tax liability don’t need deductions because they don’t owe anything! The only reason to pursue a deduction is because one has “gross income”, and few Americans we have ever met domiciled in the states even have “gross income”.

Later on, in this same IRS Publication 519, we see that the IRS tries to create a false “presumption” in their favor by trying to convince people they are usually involved in a “trade or business”. Notice that they never explicitly define what it means from the I.R.C, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”. As a matter of fact, if they DID explain this definition in their publication, boy would they ever have a LOT of explaining to do on their phone support line, so they conveniently leave it out. They don’t mention its real definition because that would render everything listed below as basically irrelevant and moot. The reader would simply throw Pub 519 in the trash at that point and conclude he is a “nontaxpayer”, so they instead tip toe around the definition and give examples without relating them to the legal definition in the I.R.C. Below is the IRS Publication 519 (2000) definition of “trade or Business in the United States” from pp. 15-16:

Trade or Business in the United States

Generally, you must be engaged in a trade or business during the tax year to be able to treat income received in that year as effectively connected with that trade or business. Whether you are engaged in a trade or business in the United States depends on the nature of your activities. The discussions that follow will help you determine whether you are engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

Personal Services

If you perform personal services in the United States [federal territory] at any time during the tax year, you usually are considered engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

TIP: Certain compensation paid to a nonresident alien by a foreign employer is not included in gross income. For more information, see Services Performed for Foreign Employer in chapter 3.

Other Trade or Business Activities

Other examples of being engaged in a trade or business in the United States follow.

Students and trainees. You are considered engaged in a trade or business in the United States if you are temporarily present in the United States as a nonimmigrant under a “F,” “J,” “M,” or “Q” visa. A nonresident alien temporarily present in the United States under a “J” visa includes a nonresident alien individual admitted to the United States as an exchange visitor under the Mutual Educational and Cultural Exchange Act of 1961. The taxable part of any scholarship or fellowship grant that is U.S. source income is treated as effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Business operations. If you own and operate a business in the United States selling services, products, or merchandise, you are, with certain exceptions [not mentioned], engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

Partnerships. If you are a member of a partnership that at any time during the tax year is engaged in a trade or business in the United States, you are considered to be engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

Beneficiary of an estate or trust. If you are the beneficiary of an estate or trust that is engaged in a trade or business in the United States, you are treated as being engaged in the same trade or business.

Trading in stocks, securities, and commodities.

If your only U.S. business activity is trading in stocks, securities, or commodities (including hedging transactions) through a U.S. resident [alien] broker or other agent, you are not engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

For transactions in stocks or securities, this applies to any nonresident alien, including a dealer or broker in stocks and securities.

For transactions in commodities, this applies to commodities that are usually traded on an organized commodity exchange and to transactions that are usually carried out at such an exchange.

U.S. office or other fixed place of business at any time during the tax year through which, or by the direction of which, you carry out your transactions in stocks, securities, or commodities.

Trading for a nonresident alien’s own account. You are not engaged in a trade or business in the United States if trading for your own account in stocks, securities, or commodities is your only U.S. business activity.

This applies even if the trading takes place while you are present in the United States or is done by your employee or your broker or other agent.

This does not apply to trading for your own account if you are a dealer in stocks, securities, or commodities. This does not necessarily mean, however, that as a dealer you are considered to be engaged in a trade or business in the United States. Determine that based on the facts and circumstances in each case or under the rules given above in Trading in stocks, securities, and commodities.

Effectively Connected Income

If you are engaged in a U.S. trade or business, all income, gain, or loss for the tax year that you get from sources within the United States (other than certain investment income) is treated as effectively connected income. This applies whether or not there is any connection between the income and the trade or business being carried on in the United States during the tax year.

Two tests, described under Investment Income, determine whether certain items of investment income (such as interest, dividends, and royalties) are treated as effectively connected with that business.

In limited circumstances, some kinds of foreign source income may be treated as effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States. For a discussion of these rules, see Foreign Income, later.

[IRS Publication 519 (2000), pp. 15-16]

The first thing you notice is the statement: “Whether you are engaged in a trade or business in the United States depends on the nature of your activities”. That statement is a tacit admission that the income tax is in fact an indirect excise tax on activities. They also said:

“If you perform personal services in the United States [federal territory] at any time during the tax year, you usually are considered engaged in a trade or business in the United States.”

Well, let’s look at the definition of “personal services” used above to see what these weasels are up to:

26 C.F.R. Sec. 1.469-9 Rules for certain rental real estate activities.

(b)(4) PERSONAL SERVICES.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Personal services means any work performed by an individual in connection with a trade or business. However, personal services do not include any work performed by an individual in the individual’s capacity as an investor as described in section 1.469-7T(f)(2)(ii).

Notice that they used the word "means" instead of "includes" in the above definition and DID NOT confine the definition by stating "for the purposes of this section" or "for the purposes of this chapter". Instead, they provided an unambiguous universal definition of "personal services" which applies throughout the ENTIRE Internal Revenue Code and they indicated effectively that you aren't performing "personal services" UNLESS you are engaged in a "trade or business". So what they are doing when they say "If you perform personal services in the United States [federal territory] at any time during the tax year, you usually are considered engaged in a trade or business in the United States." is effectively making a circular statement that confirms itself. This is called a "tautology", which is a word that is defined using itself. It's only purpose is self-serving deception. Can you see how insidious this deception and double-speak is? It's all designed to take attention away from the nature of the taxed activity so that people will think the tax is on the money instead of the activity, isn’t it? If they admitted that the income tax was an indirect excise tax on activities, they would dig a DEEP hole for themselves that would start an avalanche of people leaving the tax rolls. That is why they never come out and say EXACTLY what a “trade or business” is or how their explanation relates to the definition of a “trade or business” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26), which describes it as a “public office”. Since when do people holding "public office" have time to do any of the above things in addition to fulfilling their office? Furthermore, under federal law, it is a conflict of interest to maintain any private business activities outside the workplace that might jeopardize one's objectivity. But then later on p. 26 of the same publication, under “Dual Status Tax Year”, they finally admit the truth:

Income Subject to Tax

Income from sources outside the United States [federal territory] that is not effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States is not taxable if you receive it while you are a nonresident alien. The income is not taxable even if you earned it while you were a resident alien or if you became a resident alien or a U.S. citizen after receiving it and before the end of the year.

An excellent way to confirm the conclusions of this section is to read the publications of the Joint Committee on Taxation. We would like to quote from JCT document 85-199 entitled “Explanation of Proposed Income Tax Treaty Between The United States and the United Kingdom”. You can get this publication at:

http://famguardian.org/PublishedAuthors/Govt/JointComteeOnTax/85199-US-GB-TreatyExplan.pdf

Now the excerpt, from pp. 4-5 is VERY revealing. We boldface and underline the important portions to bring attention to them. We have also added bracketed material to amplify exactly what they mean based on discussion earlier in this chapter and based on the definitions of terms found in the Internal Revenue Code:

A. U.S. Tax Rules

The United States taxes U.S. citizens [people born anywhere in the country but domiciled on federal territory in the District of Columbia or territories but excluding those domiciled in constitutional states of the Union], residents [who are all “aliens"], and corporations [registered ONLY in the District of Columbia and EXCLUDING state-only corporations] on their worldwide income [connected with a “trade or business"], whether derived in the United States [federal territory] or abroad [outside the states of the Union]. The United States generally taxes nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations on all their income that is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States (sometimes referred to as "effectively connected income"). The United States also taxes nonresident alien individuals and foreign corporations on certain U.S.-source income that is not effectively connected with a U.S. trade or business.

Income of a nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation that is effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business in the United States generally is subject to U.S. tax in the same manner and at the same rates as income of a U.S. person. Deductions are allowed to the extent that they are related to effectively connected income. A foreign corporation also is subject to a flat 30-percent branch-level excess interest tax on the excess of the amount of interest that is deducted by the foreign corporation in computing its effectively connected income over the amount of interest that is paid by its U.S. trade or business. U.S.-source fixed or determinable annual or periodical income of a nonresident alien individual or foreign corporation (including, for example, interest, dividends, rents, royalties, salaries, and annuities) that is not effectively connected with the conduct of a U.S. trade or business is subject to U.S. tax at a rate of 30 percent of the gross amount paid. Certain insurance premiums earned by a nonresident alien individual or foreign... corporation are subject to U.S. tax at a rate of 1 or 4 percent of the premiums. These taxes generally are collected by means of withholding.

Specific statutory exemptions from the 30-percent withholding tax are provided. For example, certain original issue discount and certain interest on deposits with banks or savings institutions is exempt from the 30-percent withholding tax. An exemption also is provided for certain interest paid on portfolio debt obligations. In addition, income of a foreign government or international organization from investments in U.S. securities is exempt from U.S. tax.

U.S.-source capital gains of a nonresident alien individual or a foreign corporation that are not effectively connected with a U.S. trade or business generally are exempt from U.S. tax, with two exceptions: (1) gains realized by a nonresident alien individual who is present in the United States [federal territory] for at least 183 days during the taxable year, and (2) certain gains from the disposition of interests in U.S. real property.

Rules are provided for the determination of the source of income. For example, interest and dividends paid by a U.S. citizen or resident or by a U.S. corporation generally are considered U.S.-source income. Conversely, dividends and interest paid by a foreign corporation generally are treated as foreign-source income. Special rules apply to treat as foreign-source income (in whole or in part) interest paid by certain U.S. corporations with foreign businesses and to treat as U.S.-source income (in whole or in part) dividends paid by certain foreign corporations with U.S. businesses. Rents and royalties paid for the use of property in the United States are considered U.S.-source income.

They basically hid everything we just got through saying throughout the preceding discussion, folks! They are very cleverly hiding the taxable activity by referring to it as a “trade or business”, which is a “word of art”, and not defining which “U.S.” they are talking about or the fact that it only includes the District of Columbia. They also admitted the circumstances under which the 30% tax in 26 U.S.C. §871(a) applies. Recall that this section identified a 30% tax on nonresident alien income from sources inside the District of Columbia which is not connected with a “trade or business”/public office. Well, they just explained that the tax is only paid by foreign corporations as an indirect tax upon income derived from a “trade or business”. Therefore, ALL income that is taxable under the I.R.C., Subtitle A derives exclusively from a “trade or business” and a “public office” in one way or another.

The first sentence of the above also tries to deceive the reader by saying that "U.S. citizens", "residents", and "corporations" are taxed on their "worldwide income" WITHOUT mentioning the requirement for being engaged in a "trade or business". We know based on our earlier analysis, however, that under I.R.C., Subtitle A, all natural persons who are "taxpayers" under the code, whether married, unmarried, heads of Household, etc. MUST be engaged in a "trade or business" in order to earn "taxable income". The taxable activity for international corporations is "foreign commerce" rather than the "trade or business" under other subtitles of the code, and the above tries to lump all of them together and thereby create an absolutely false presumption in the mind of the reader. Therefore, such a claim can ONLY apply to artificial entities engaged in foreign commerce under Subtitle D of the I.R.C. The only thing we didn't cover earlier was the difference in treatment between corporations and natural persons. In that scenario, under I.R.C., Subtitle D, these corporations are taxed on their worldwide income that derives from imports, which counts as "foreign commerce" under the constitution. These conclusions are supported by the Supreme Court, which said:

"The difficulties arising out of our dual form of government and the opportunities for differing opinions concerning the relative rights of state and national governments are many; but for a very long time this court has steadfastly adhered to the doctrine that the taxing power of Congress does not extend to the states or their political subdivisions. The same basic reasoning which leads to that conclusion, we think, requires like limitation upon the power which springs from the bankruptcy clause. United States v. Butler, supra."

[Ashton v. Cameron County Water Improvement District No. 1, 298 U.S. 513, 56 S.Ct. 892 (1936)]

"Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee.

But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and 5.6.12.2 Proving the government deception yourself

Another way to confirm the conclusions of this section is to look at older versions of the U.S. Code or Statutes at Large that show the definition of "gross income". Politicians of old were much more honest and direct than the weasels and thieves and traitors we have in office today, so their laws told the truth plainly. It wasn't until the socialists began to take over starting in 1913 and peaking with Franklin Roosevelt in 1930’s that the I.R.C. really started to show signs of willful deceit. Below are two very old definitions of "gross income" that show the truth plainly to prove our point. These versions did not use the "trade or business" trick so they had to state the truth plainly:

You can also look at our resource on “gross income”, which includes the above, at:

http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom/CitesByTopic/GrossIncome.htm

5.6.12.3 False IRS presumptions that must be rebutted

How can we know if the IRS “thinks” or “presumes” we are involved in a “trade or business”? Here is how within the context of I.R.C., Subtitle A:

1. Only people who are engaged in a “trade or business” are subject to the graduated rate of tax of tax. See 26 U.S.C. §871(b).
2. All income from within federal territory, which is the “United States” under the I.R.C. section 7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d), must be treated as “effectively connected with a trade or business in the United States”, according to 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3). That’s right: it is a “privilege” under 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3) to simply “live” and earn “income” on federal territory. Here is what it says:

   TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter N > PART I > § 864
6. Definitions and special rules
(c) Effectively connected income, etc.
(3) Other income from sources within United States

   All income, gain, or loss from sources within the United States (other than income, gain, or loss to which paragraph (2) applies) shall be treated as effectively connected with the conduct of a trade or business within the United States.

3. Only people who are engaged in a “trade or business” can claim deductions on their “return”. Otherwise, they can't. See 26 U.S.C. §162 for proof.
4. Only people who are engaged in a “trade or business” can owe a tax and therefore be the target of a Substitute For Return (SFR), which is an assessment that in most cases is illegally executed by the IRS.
5. Only “Citizens” or “residents” who file a 1040 and put a nonzero amount for income can be connected to a "trade or business within the United States".
6. Only "Nonresident aliens" who file a 1040NR form and put a nonzero amount for “trade or business" income can be connected to a "trade or business within the United States".
7. Only people who complete, voluntarily sign, and submit a W-4 and thereby identify themselves as federal "employees" can be connected to a "trade or business". 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(c)-1 identifies all federal "employees" as "public officers". All "public officers" are by definition engaged in a "trade or business".
8. Those who receive Social Security Benefits. 26 U.S.C. §861(a)(8) says that Social Security benefits received must be included in “gross income” from “sources within the United States”. Indirectly, they must also be saying that such earnings are to be treated as “effectively connected with a trade or business”, because 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31) says that if these earnings were not connected with a “trade or business”, then they cannot be reported as “gross income” and are part of a “foreign estate” not subject to the code. 26 U.S.C. §871(a)(3), on the other hand, associates Social Security benefits received by "nonresident aliens" with OTHER than a "trade or business" and also makes them reportable and taxable as "gross income".

Those who avail themselves of any of the above government “privileges” are presumed to be “taxpayers” in the context of the activities above as far as the IRS is concerned. This doesn’t mean they are “taxpayers” for ALL their earnings, but only for those in which the above activities are undertaken. It’s a “privilege” to have deductions and pay a usually lower graduated rate of tax on earnings that are otherwise “taxable”. In effect, the government is exploiting people’s ignorance and greed in the pursuit of exemptions or tax reductions they don’t need in order to transform “nontaxpayers” into “taxpayers”. Here is how one Congressman described this kind of very devious exploitation:

“Objections to its [the income tax] renewal are long, loud, and general throughout the country. Those who pay are the exception, those who do not pay are millions; the whole moral force of the law is a dead letter. The honest man makes a true return; the dishonest hides and covers all he can to avoid this obnoxious tax. It has no moral force. This tax is unequal, perjury-provoking and crime encouraging, because it is a war with the right of a person to keep private and regulate his business affairs and financial matters. Deception, fraud, and falsehood mark its progress everywhere in the process of collection. It creates curiosity, jealousy, and prejudice among the people. It makes the tax-gatherer a spy...The people demand that it shall not be renewed, but left to die a natural death and pass away into the future as pass away all the evils growing out of the Civil War.”

[Congressional Globe, 41st Congress, 2d Session, 3993 (1870)]

Those “taxpayers” in receipt of taxable privileges or “nontaxpayers” who are too stupid to know that they don’t need to become a “taxpayer” in order to receive a “privilege” they don’t need should definitely pay for the “privilege” they are taking advantage of. Therefore, if you are a “non-resident non-person” not engaged in a “trade or business” and any one of the above conditions applies to you, then the IRS is ASSUMING, usually wrongfully, that you are engaged in a “trade or business” or have income under 26 U.S.C. §871(a) originating from the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory) that is not connected with a “trade or business”. The great irony of this whole fraudulent federal “scheme” is that those who were otherwise “nontaxpayers” and never had any “gross income” to begin with, in effect were fooled by deceptive IRS publications and phone advice into:

1. Falsely believing that their income was “taxable” and that they were “taxpayers”.
2. Falsely believing that because they were “taxpayers” with “taxable income”, then they needed deductions to reduce their liability.
3. Volunteering to make themselves into “taxpayers” to procure federal “privileges” called “deductions” that they never needed to begin with, but which the IRS was too dishonest to remind them that they didn’t need. Once they took these deductions, they became “taxpayers” even if they weren’t before.

The Bible describes this GREAT deception and fraud as follows:

For thus says the LORD:
"You have sold yourselves for nothing,
And you shall be redeemed without money."

[Isaiah 52:3, Bible, NKJV]

We call the above “government instituted slavery using privileges” or simply “privilege-induced slavery” earlier in section 4.3.12. Those with liberal arts degrees in business from prestigious but amoral or immoral universities might euphemistically refer to this devious brand of exploitation simply as “clever marketing”, but in the end, it amounts to deceit in commerce, which the Bible says is the gravest of sins which God hates most of all sins:

"As religion towards God is a branch of universal righteousness (he is not an honest man that is not devout), so righteousness towards men is a branch of true religion, for he is not a godly man that is not honest, nor can he expect that his devotion should be accepted; for,

1. Nothing is more offensive to God than deceit in commerce. A false balance is here put for all manner of unjust and fraudulent practices [of our public dis-servants] in dealing with any person [within the public], which are all an abomination to the Lord, and render those abominable [hated] to him that allow themselves in the use of such accursed arts of thriving. It is an affront to justice, which God is the patron of, as well as to a wrong to our neighbour, whom God is the protector of. Men [in the IRS and the Congress] make light of such frauds, and think there is no sin in that which there is money to be got by, and, while it passes undiscovered,
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

they cannot blame themselves for it; a blot is no blot till it is hit, Hos. 12:7, 8. But they are not the less an abomination to God, who will be the avenger of those that are defrauded by their brethren.

2. Nothing is more pleasing to God than fair and honest dealing, nor more necessary to make us and our devotions acceptable to him: A just weight is his delight. He himself goes by a just weight, and holds the scale of judgment with an even hand, and therefore is pleased with those that are herein followers of him.

A [false] balance, [whether it be in the federal courtroom or at the IRS or in the marketplace,] cheats, under pretence of doing right most exactly, and therefore is the greater abomination to God.”
[Matthew Henry’s Commentary on the Whole Bible; Henry, M., 1996, c1991, under Prov. 11:1]

5.6.12.12.4 Why the IRS and the Courts WON’T Talk About what a “trade or business” or “Public office” is and Collude to Cover Up the Scam

“The 'Truth' about income taxes is so precious to the U.S. government that it must be surrounded by a bodyguard of lies.”
[Family Guardian Fellowship]

The government perpetuates the “trade or business” FRAUD and scam by the following means:

1. Refusing to discuss the meaning of a “trade or business” in their publications or their phone support.
2. Refusing to discuss the meaning of a “public office” in their publications or their phone support.
3. Calling those who raise the issues documented here as “frivolous” or “preposterous” without citing any relevant legal authority justifying such a conclusion that is consistent with the following pamphlet:

Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

4. Trying to cover up their fraud using the word “includes” scam documented below:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

There are many very good reasons why they try to deflect attention away from the scam. Some of the reasons are as follows:

1. The IRS would have to admit that they aren’t part of the government and are a private corporation, which in fact they are. Remember: A “public officer” is someone who has no supervisor other than the law and the courts and who exercises a sovereign functions of the government INDEPENDENTLY of oversight other than the law and the courts:

“Essential characteristics of a 'public office' are:
(1) Authority conferred by law,
(2) Fixed tenure of office, and
(3) Power to exercise some of the sovereign functions of government.

Key element of such test is that “officer is carrying out a sovereign function. Spring v. Constantino, 168 Conn.
563, 362 A.2d. 871, 875. Essential elements to establish public position as 'public office' are:
Position must be created by Constitution, legislature, or through authority conferred by legislature.
Portion of sovereign power of government must be delegated to position,
Duties and powers must be defined, directly or implied, by legislature or through legislative authority.
Duties must be performed independently without control of superior power other than law, and Position must have some permanency.”

If the IRS was an administrative part of the government and ESPECIALLY if it were in the Executive Branch as they want to deceive you into believing, then they couldn’t have any enforcement authority at all without admitting that the people they are enforcing against in fact ARE NOT “public officers” as legally defined because they are being supervised by other than ONLY the courts and the law alone. These considerations explain why:

1.1. No statute authorizes or ever has authorized the creation of the IRS. See:
Letter from Congressman Pat Danner, Sept. 12, 1996

1.2. Historical Treasury Organization Charts do not show the IRS as being in the Dept. of the Treasury. See:

1.3. Title 31 of the U.S. Code does not list the Internal Revenue Service as being within the Dept. of the Treasury, even though their letterhead FRAUDULENTLY says they are. See:

SEDMD Exhibit #08.001
http://sedm.org/Exhibits/ExhibitIndex.htm

1.4. The Dept. of Justice has admitted under oath during legal discovery that the IRS is not an agency of the Federal Government. See:

2. All “public officers” have a fiduciary duty to the people they serve, which means they have a fiduciary duty to YOU to act in YOUR best interest as a human being protected by the Constitution. If you can prove your oppressors are “taxpayers” and therefore “public officers”, then their omissions that injure you would become actionable and a tort in court.

“As expressed otherwise, the powers delegated to a public officer are held in trust for the people and are to be exercised in behalf of the government or of all citizens who may need the intervention of the officer. Furthermore, the view has been expressed that all public officers, within whatever branch and whatever level of government, and whatever be their private vocations, are trustees of the people, and accordingly labor under every disability and prohibition imposed by law upon trustees relative to the making of personal financial gain from a discharge of their trust. That is, a public officer occupies a fiduciary relationship to the political entity on whose behalf he or she serves. It has been said that the fiduciary responsibilities of a public officer cannot be less than those of a private individual. Furthermore, it has been stated that any enterprise undertaken by the public official which tends to weaken public confidence and undermine the sense of security for individual rights is against public policy. [63C American Jurisprudence 2d, Public Officers and Employees, §247 (1999)]

3. Any officer of the state government, including a state judge, who is also a federal “taxpayer” would have to admit that he is violating the Constitution of his state by simultaneously being a “public officer” in the federal government and a public officer in the state government at the same time. Most state constitutions and/or state statutes forbid public officers within the state government from also being public officers in the federal government. This is done to prevent a violation of the separation of powers doctrine between the state and federal governments as well as to prevent conflicts of interest and allegiance by public servants. Why, then, do state courts have federal Employer Identification Numbers (EINs)? Shouldn’t they be exempt from such requirement to preserve the separation of powers? Here is an example within the California Constitution:

CALIFORNIA CONSTITUTION
ARTICLE 7 PUBLIC OFFICERS AND EMPLOYEES

SEC. 7. A person holding a lucrative office under the United States or other power may not hold a civil office of profit [within the state government]. A local officer or postmaster whose compensation does not exceed $500 dollars per year or an officer in the militia or a member of a reserve component of the armed forces of the United States except where on active federal duty for more than 30 days in any year is not a holder of a lucrative office, nor is the holding of a civil office of profit affected by this military service.

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

4. “Taxpayer” attorneys representing clients in state court would have to recuse themselves from the practice of law for violating the state constitutional prohibition against serving simultaneously in both a public office in the federal government and a public office in the state government. All attorneys are officers of the court they are licensed to practice in. If that court is a state court, they are public officers of the state government and therefore cannot also serve as public officers of the federal government called “taxpayers”:

Attorneys at Law
§3 Nature of Attorneys Office

An attorney is more than a mere agent or servant of his or her client; within the attorney’s sphere, he or she is as independent as a judge, has duties and obligations to the court as well as to his or her client, and has powers entirely different from and superior to those of an ordinary agent. 227 In a limited sense an attorney is a public officer, 228 although an attorney is not generally considered a “public officer,” “civil officer,” or the like, as used in statutory or constitutional provisions. 229 The attorney occupies what may be termed a “quasi-judicial office” 230 and is, in fact, an officer of the court. 231

[American Jurisprudence 2d, Attorneys At Law, §3 Nature of Office (1999)]

5. You as a “taxpayer” and a “public officer” could assert sovereign immunity against other agencies of the government on the basis that it violates the separation of powers doctrine for any agency of the federal government to interfere with the activities of any other agency or office. Taxation is a “legislative” and not a judicial function.232 This situation is precisely the reason, for instance, why:

5.1. The Anti-Injunction Act, 26 U.S.C. §7421, prohibits courts from interfering with the LAWFUL assessment or collection of income taxes from “public officers” in the Legislative Branch who consent.

5.2. The Declaratory Judgments Act, 28 U.S.C. §2201(a) prohibits courts from making declaratory judgments in the case of federal “taxes”. This prohibition also precludes the courts from identifying anyone as a “taxpayer” who says under penalty of perjury that they aren’t.

Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023

6. It is ILLEGAL for an “alien” to be a “public officer” and you aren’t an alien if you were born in this country. The I.R.C., Subtitle A is an excise tax upon a “trade or business”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”. All “taxpayers” in the I.R.C. are aliens engaged in a public office if not abroad under 26 U.S.C.

The North Dakota Constitution specifically provides that the office of attorney-at-law is a public office. Menz v Coyle (ND) 117 N.W.2d. 290 (criticized on other grounds by Gange v Clerk of Burleigh County Dist. Court (ND) 429 N.W.2d. 429).

§911(d) and it is ILLEGAL for aliens to hold public office! See 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(a)(2)(i) for proof that all “individuals” and “taxpayers” are aliens engaged in a “trade or business”/public office.

4. Lack of Citizenship

§74. Aliens can not hold Office -- It is a general principle that an alien can not hold a public office. In all independent popular governments, as is said by Chief Justice Dixon of Wisconsin, “it is an acknowledged principle, which lies at the very foundation, and the enforcement of which needs neither the aid of statutory nor constitutional enactments or restrictions, that the government is instituted by the citizens for their liberty and protection, and that it is to be administered, and its powers and functions exercised only by them and through their agency.”

In accordance with this principle it is held that an alien can not hold the office of sheriff.233

7. Courts would have to admit your evidence just as readily as that of any other government officer or employee involved in the action, or else they would be guilty of denying you equal protection of the law and all the “benefits” of the very office that they MUST impute to you in order to treat you as a “taxpayer”. This would make them look hypocritical and juries would throw the book at the government for doing this. The Federal Rules of Evidence permit those engaged in a “public office” to receive preferential treatment in getting their evidence admitted in federal court, including evidence without signature and without foundational testimony. The government doesn’t want to confer this advantage upon pro per litigants or those opposing the government tax scam. Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8) permits a “public records” exception to the Hearsay Rule, which means that any tax record, any evidence you gathered in the course of complying with your alleged “duties” as a “public officer” would not be excludable by the judges of federal district courts, which would severely undermine the government’s civil or criminal tax case against you. The IRS and DOJ win in federal court primarily by getting federal judges to unlawfully exclude evidence of persons who are litigating against them in order to prejudice the case in favor of the government. Below is what the appropriate section of the Hearsay Exceptions Rule, Federal Rule of Evidence 803 says on this subject, noting that “activities of the office or agency”, such as a “public office” fall within the protections of this rule:

Rule 803. Hearsay Exceptions; Availability of Declarant Immaterial

The following are not excluded by the hearsay rule, even though the declarant is available as a witness:

(8) Public records and reports. Records, reports, statements, or data compilations, in any form, of public offices or agencies, setting forth (A) the activities of the office or agency, or (B) matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law as to which matters there was a duty to report, excluding, however, in criminal cases matters observed by police officers and other law enforcement personnel, or (C) in civil actions and proceedings and against the Government in criminal cases, factual findings resulting from an investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law, unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness.

8. Once the government truthfully admits that the income tax is an “excise tax” upon “public offices” within the United States government, those facing IRS enforcement actions would naturally introduce some very compromising questions that would put the IRS into a very tight spot that they could never get out of:

8.1. How can you force me to act as a “public officer” without my consent? Where is the evidence that I consented to act in this capacity?

8.2. Where is the constitutionally required oath of office for me to act as a “public officer”? This requirement is described earlier in section 5.6.12.10.

8.3. Where is the act of Congress that authorizes the specific “public office” that you allege that I am engaged in as required by 4 U.S.C. §72?

8.4. Where is the compensation to act as a “public officer”, because I don’t work for free and the Thirteenth Amendment prohibits involuntary servitude?

8.5. What if I don’t think the compensation to act as a “public office” offered by I.R.C. Sections 1, 32, and 162 is adequate? How can I quit this form of federal agency and/or employment? Show me the forms to do this permanently.

8.6. How can people who submit false information returns that connect me to a “public office” have any lawful authority at all to donate or convert my private labor and property to a “public use” and a “public office” without my express written consent? If disinterested third parties can do that, it never was my property to begin with, now was it?

“That property which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation.” [Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

8.7. Shouldn't my word as a “public officer” be taken over that of the private third parties who submit the false information returns that connect me to the alleged “office” to begin with, based on the Hearsay Exceptions Rule, Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8)? Why are you not granting to an alleged fellow “public officer” such as yourself this privilege or benefit of the office?

8.8. Are information returns filed against those not lawfully engaged in public offices being used as “federal election forms” to in effect “vote” people into public office, and is this a lawful use for such a form? Does withholding connected with these information returns then become bribery to procure an appointed or elected public office in the case of a person who was not otherwise lawfully engaged in such an office, in criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §201?

On the subject of the Hearsay Exceptions Rule, Federal Rule of Evidence 803(8) above, below is what the Federal Civil Trials and Evidence, Rutter Group says on the Public Records exception to the Hearsay Rule:

7. [8:2780] Public Records and Reports (FRE 803(8)): The following are not inadmissible under the hearsay rule:

“Records, reports, statements, or data compilations, in any form, of public offices or agencies, setting forth:

“(A) the activities of the office or agency, or

“(B) matters observed pursuant to duty to report, excluding, however, in criminal cases matters observed by police officers and other law enforcement personnel, or

“(C) in civil actions and proceedings and against the Government in criminal cases, factual findings resulting from an investigation made pursuant to authority granted by law,

“unless the sources of information or other circumstances indicate lack of trustworthiness.” [FRE 803(8) (emphasis added)]

a. [8:2781] Compare—business records exception: The public records exception is much easier to invoke than the Rule 803(6) business records exception; the public records exception does not require the testimony of a custodian and often requires no foundation witness because the self-authentication provisions of FRE 902 will suffice (see §8.2905 ff.).

b. [8:2782] Rationale: This hearsay exception is justified both by considerations of trustworthiness and necessity: Trustworthiness rests on the assumption that public officials perform their duties properly; necessity, on the assumption that they are unlikely to remember details independently of the record. [See Rule 803(8), Adv. Comm. Notes; Coleman v. Home Depot, Inc. (3rd Cir. 2002) 306 F.3d. 1333, 1341; Espinoza v. INS (9th Cir. 1995) 45 F.3d. 308, 310].

The special provision for self-authentication of public records (FRE 902, see §8.2907 ff.) also eliminates the disruptive effect of bringing public officials to court. [Williams v. Tri-County Growers, Inc. (3rd Cir. 1984) 747 F.2d. 121, 133 (disapproved on another ground in Martin v. Cooper Elec. Supply Co. (3rd Cir. 1991) 940 F.2d. 896, 908, fn. 11)].

c. [8:2783] Any form of record: The hearsay exception covers “[r]ecords, reports, statements or data compilations, in any form . . .” [FRE 803(8) (emphasis added)] d. [8:2784] Any government: The Rule applies to the records or reports of any “public office or agency” (FRE 803(8)). No distinction is made between federal and nonfederal offices and agencies.

Thus, records of state or local government agencies may be admissible under this exception; likewise as to records of foreign governments. [See Hill v. Marshall (6th Cir. 1992) 962 F.2d. 1209, 1212—report by committee of state legislature; Matter of Oil Spill by Amoco Cadiz Off Coast of France on March 16, 1978 (7th Cir. 1992) 954 F.2d. 1279, 1308—records of French Commune]

e. [8:2785] Types of records admissible: Rule 803(8) creates a hearsay exception for three separate categories of public record:

- Records of a public agency’s own activities (FRE 803(8)(A), see §8:2786 ff.;
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren't Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

- Records of matters observed pursuant to duty imposed by law (FRE 803(8)(B); see §8:2810 ff.; and
- Factual findings based on authorized investigatory reports (FRE 803(8)(C); See §8:2835 ff.).

5.6.12.13 Defenses

5.6.12.13.1 How nonresidents in states of the Union are deceived and coerced to enlist in the scam

What about those who are smart enough to avoid the “trade or business” scam by properly declaring their status as:

1. “non-resident non-persons”
2. No income “effectively connected with a trade or business”
3. No sources of income inside the “United States” (federal government as a legal person)?

How does the IRS trap them? The IRS tricks them into volunteering into their jurisdiction using the IRS Form W-4. The regulations say that those who submit an IRS Form W-4:

1. MUST include all earnings listed on the W-2 as “gross income” on their tax return under 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1.
2. Are consenting to be bound by a private legal “contract” between you and the government under 26 C.F.R. §31.3402(p)-1. It doesn’t say that on the form, but the regulations tell the truth plainly. The form itself simply identifies itself as an “Employee Withholding Allowance Certificate” and nowhere uses the word “agreement” or “contract”. The reason it doesn’t is because the government doesn’t want you to know that you are signing a binding contract or that you have the choice NOT to sign or consent to it. This is obviously entrapment and does not constitute informed consent, but fraud.

Here is the regulation that proves this:

(a) In general. An employee and his employer may enter into an agreement under section 3402(b) to provide for the withholding of income tax upon payments of amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of Sec. 31.3401(a)-3, made after December 31, 1970. An agreement may be entered into under this section only with respect to amounts which are includible in the gross income of the employee under section 61, and must be applicable to all such amounts paid by the employer to the employee. The amount to be withheld pursuant to an agreement under section 3402(p) shall be determined under the rules contained in section 3402 and the regulations thereunder. (b) Form and duration of agreement. (1)(i) Except as provided in subdivision (ii) of this subparagraph, an employee who desires to enter into an agreement under section 3402(p) shall furnish his employer with Form W-4 (withholding exemption certificate) executed in accordance with the provisions of section 3402(f) and the regulations thereunder. The furnishing of such Form W-4 shall constitute a request for withholding.

Remember, however, that no law or court or government has the power to interfere with your right to contract. Here is what the U.S. Supreme Court says on this subject:

"Independent of these views, there are many considerations which lead to the conclusion that the power to impair contracts [either the Constitution or the Holy Bible], by direct action to that end, does not exist with the general [federal] government. In the first place, one of the objects of the Constitution, expressed in its preamble, was the establishment of justice, and what that meant in its relations to contracts is not left, as was justly said by the late Chief Justice, in Hepburn v. Griswold, to inference or conjecture. As he observes, at the time the Constitution was undergoing discussion in the convention, the Congress of the Confederation was engaged in framing the ordinance for the government of the Northwestern Territory, in which certain articles of compact were established between the people of the original States and the people of the Territory, for the purpose, as expressed in the instrument, of extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, upon which the States, their laws and constitutions, were erected. By that ordinance it was declared, that, in the just preservation of rights and property, 'no law ought ever to be made, or have force in the said Territory, that shall, in any manner, interfere with or affect private contracts or engagements bona fide and without fraud previously formed.' The same provision, adds the Chief Justice, found more condensed expression in the prohibition upon the States [in Article I, Section 10 of the Constitution] against impairing the obligation of contracts, which has ever been recognized as an efficient safeguard against injustice; and though the prohibition is not applied in terms to the government of the United States, he expressed the opinion, speaking for himself and the majority of the court at the time, that it was clear that those who framed and those who adopted the Constitution intended that the spirit of this prohibition should pervade the entire body of legislation, and that the justice which the Constitution was ordained to establish was not thought by them to be compatible with legislation [or judicial precedent] of an opposite tendency, 8 Wall. 623. [99 U.S. 700, 765] Similar views are found expressed in the opinions of other judges of this court.”
[Sinking Fund Cases, 99 U.S. 700 (1878)]

“A state can no more impair the obligation of a contract by her organic law [constitution] than by legislative enactment; for her constitution is a law within the meaning of the contract clause of the national constitution.
Railroad Co. v. [115 U.S. 659, 673] McClure, 10 Wall. 511; Ohio Life Ins. & T. Co. v. Debolt, 16 How. 429; Sedg. St. & Const. Law, 637 And the obligation of her contracts is as fully protected by that instrument against impairment by legislation as are contracts between individuals exclusively. State v. Wilson, 7 Cranch. 166;
Providence Bank v. Billings, 4 Pet. 514; Green v. Biddle, 8 Wheat. 1; Woodruff v. Trapnall, 10 How. 190;
Woff v. New Orleans, 103 U.S. 358.”
[New Orleans Gas Company v. Louisiana Light Company, 115 U.S. 650 (1885)]

Neither states of the Union nor the federal government can therefore use their jurisdiction to protect you if you abuse your power to contract by signing a W-4 that gives away all your rights or sovereignty. Under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution, the federal government has jurisdiction over its own employees and property wherever they may be found, including in places where it otherwise has no legislative jurisdiction. Consequently, it has exclusive jurisdiction over all those who sign a W-4 wherever they may be found. The jurisdiction is “in rem” over all such “property”.

In law, all rights are property. Anything that conveys rights is also property. Contracts convey rights and therefore are property. All franchises are contracts and therefore also are “property”. A “trade or business”/”public office” is a franchise and therefore is also “property” within the meaning of Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution. These facts are the ONLY reason why the United States District Courts, which were established pursuant to Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution are even able to hear income tax cases: because they relate to federal franchises.

Sneaky, huh? That is why we repeatedly say DO NOT file form W-4’s to stop withholding with your private employer:
because you are signing a contract to elect yourself into a public office ILLEGALLY. God also warned us not to submit the W-4 agreement or contract when He said:

“You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by becoming a “resident” or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me [God]: For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a snare to you.”
[Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

Instead of submitting the form W-4, use ONLY the modified form W-8BEN, or you are asking for BIG trouble and walking right into their trap, folks! Below is a link that will show you how to fill out the W-8BEN properly, if you choose to use it.

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Additional information beyond that above about how to handle tax withholding paperwork is also available in the following free book:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

A human domiciled in a state of the Union who has identified him or herself properly with their private employer as a “non-resident non-person” by filing the amended W-8BEN as we suggest, and who has had his earnings involuntarily withheld by his private employer is put into the unfortunate position of having to file a return to get the wrongfully withheld earnings back. Usually, they will incorrectly file the wrong form, the 1040, instead of the proper form 1040NR, and thereby make themselves effectively into a “resident alien”. This gives the IRS jurisdiction over them because they are then treated as maintaining a domicile in the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory). The IRS will then drag their feet refunding the wrongfully withheld earnings, forcing the NRA to take deductions and apply a graduated rate to reduce the withholding, which effectively forces them into perjuring themselves on a tax form just to get back the earnings that always were theirs to begin with.

5.6.12.13.2 How to prevent being involuntarily or fraudulently connected to the “trade or business” franchise

Based on all the foregoing, if you are a “non-resident non-person” or even a “nonresident alien” not engaged in the “trade or business”/public office franchise under 26 U.S.C. §871(b) with no income from the U.S. Government or federal territory under 26 U.S.C. §871(a), then you aren’t even mentioned in the I.R.C. as a subject for any Internal Revenue tax and your estate is a “foreign estate” pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31). Section 4.11 proves that nearly all Americans living in states of the Union are “non-resident non-persons”, and so the above provision must apply to you, folks. Therefore, you are a “non-resident non-person” with no “sources of income” connected with a public office in the District of Columbia. If you want to prevent being involuntarily connected with the “trade or business” franchise, then you:

12. Must refuse to sign IRS Form W-4 and instead use one of the following two forms:
   12.1. Amended version of IRS Form W-8BEN. See:
       About IRS Form W-8BEN. Form #04.202
       http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
   12.2. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status. Form #02.001
       http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
13. Must claim that you are not engaged in an excise taxable activity under the I.R.C., Subtitle A.
14. Must claim that you don’t earn any “gross income”.
15. Must claim that you have no taxable “sources of income” identified in 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(4)(A).
16. Must claim that you are a “nontaxpayer” not subject to the I.R.C. All portions within the I.R.C., IRS publications, and the Internal Revenue Manual that refer to “taxpayers” don’t refer to you and can safely be disregarded and disobeyed.
17. Must claim that you are not subject to withholding on any payments you receive if you earn no statutory “income” from federal territory in the statutory “United States” or are not engaged in a “trade or business”.
18. If any money was withheld from your pay by either a business or a financial institution, then you are due for a refund of all withholding and can lawfully ask for it back using the following form WITHOUT becoming a “taxpayer”:
       Federal Nonresident Nonstatutory Claim for Return of Funds Unlawfully Paid to the Government, Form #15.001
       http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
19. Cannot lawfully file an IRS Form 1040, because EVERYTHING that goes on that form is treated as “effectively connected with a trade or business”. All entries on the form are subject to deductions and exemptions under 26 U.S.C. §162, which means EVERYTHING on the form is “trade or business” income. If you sign and submit this form, you are committing perjury under penalty of perjury. This is confirmed by examining §26 U.S.C. §871(b)(1), which says that all taxes imposed in I.R.C. Section 1 are connected with a ”trade or business”, and IRS Form 1040 is intended for those subject to this tax. The 1040 form is also for “aliens”, and not “nonresident aliens”, as was shown in section 5.5.3 of the Great IRS Hoax.
20. Cannot lawfully have Currency Transaction Reports (CTR’s), IRS Form 8300 filed against you by financial institutions, such as IRS Form 8300. If anyone mistakenly attempts to file these fraudulent reports against you, then use the remedy below. See IRS Publication 334: Tax Guide for Small Businesses (2002), p. 12 above:
       Demand for Verified Evidence of “Trade or Business” Activity: Currency Transaction Report (CTR), Form #04.008
       http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
21. Cannot lawfully allow IRS Form 1042-S to be filed against you because this form is ONLY for persons engaged in a “trade or business”. If a company does erroneously file this form, you can lawfully correct it using the article below:
       Correcting Erroneous IRS Form 1042’S, Form #04.003
       http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
22. Cannot lawfully allow IRS Form 1098 to be filed against you because this form is ONLY for persons engaged in a “trade or business”. If a company does erroneously file this form, you can lawfully correct it using the article below:
       Correcting Erroneous IRS Form 1098’S, Form #04.004
       http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
23. Cannot lawfully allow IRS Form 1099 to be filed against you because this form is ONLY for persons engaged in a “trade or business”. See IRS Publication 583: Starting a Business and Keeping Records, p. 8 above. If a company does erroneously file this form, you can lawfully correct it using the article below:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

24. Cannot lawfully allow having any earnings reported on a W-2. 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)(11)-1(a) says that those not engaged in a "trade or business" cannot earn reportable "wages". If wages are incorrectly reported by an ignorant private employer, you can and should correct them using the IRS Form 4852, as shown in the article at:

Correcting Erroneous IRS Form W-2’s, Form #04.006
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Keep all of the above fresh in your mind at all times as you decide how you are going to file in order to get all your ILLEGALLY STOLEN, I mean "withheld", money back from an ignorant employer or financial institution who refuses to read and obey the "code" (not "law", but "code"). Also keep in mind that most of this section is entirely "academic masturbation", as tax attorney Donald MacPherson colorfully calls it, because the Internal Revenue Code isn’t law for “nontaxpayers” anyway and can’t become law unless and until it is enacted into positive law. Therefore, the only people it pertains to are those who volunteer, and all these people are "nontaxpayers" anyway and can’t become law unless and until it is enacted into positive law. Therefore, the only people it pertains to are those who volunteer, and all these people are directly associated with the government as a federal “instrumentality” in some way.

5.6.12.13.3 Administrative Remedies to Prevent Identity Theft on Government Forms

We have prepared an entire short presentation showing you all the “traps” on government forms and how to avoid them:

Avoiding Traps in Government Forms, Form #12.023
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

All of the so-called “traps” described in the above presentation center around the following abuses and FRAUDS:

1. The perjury statement at the end of the form betrays where they PRESUME you geographically are. 28 U.S.C. 1746 identifies TWO possible jurisdictions, and if they don’t use the one in 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), they are PRESUMING, usually falsely, that you are located on federal territory and come under territorial law.

28 U.S. Code § 1746 - Unsworn declarations under penalty of perjury

Wherever, under any law of the United States or under any rule, regulation, order, or requirement made pursuant to law, any matter is required or permitted to be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the sworn declaration, verification, certificate, statement, oath, or affidavit, in writing of the person making the same (other than a deposition, or an oath of office, or an oath required to be taken before a specified official other than a notary public), such matter may, with like force and effect, be supported, evidenced, established, or proved by the unsworn declaration, certificate, verification, or statement, in writing of such person which is subscribed by him, as true under penalty of perjury, and dated, in substantially the following form:

(1) If executed without the United States [federal territory or the government]: “I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date).

(Signature) “.

(2) If executed within the United States [federal territory or the government], its territories, possessions, or commonwealths: “I declare (or certify, verify, or state) under penalty of perjury that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed on (date).

(Signature) “.

2. Telling you when you submit the form that the terms on the form have their ordinary, PRIVATE, non-statutory meaning but after they RECEIVE the form, INTERPRETING all terms in their PUBLIC and STATUTORY context. This is bait and switch, deception, and FRAUD.

3. Confusing the CONSTITUTIONAL context with the STATUTORY context for geographical words of art such as “United States” and “State”.

5. Confusing CONSTITUTIONAL “persons” or “people” with STATUTORY “persons” or “individuals”.

CONSTITUTIONAL “persons” are all MEN OR WOMEN AND NOT ARTIFICIAL entities or offices, while civil STATUTORY persons are all PUBLIC offices and fictions of law created by Congress.

6. Connecting you with a civil status found in civil statutory law, which is a public office. The form itself does this:
   6.1. In the “status” block. It either doesn’t offer a STATUTORY “non-resident non-person” status in the form or they don’t offer ANY form for STATUTORY “non-resident non-persons”.
   6.2. The Title of the form. The upper left corner of the 1040 identifies the applicant as a “U.S. individual”, meaning a public office domiciled on federal territory.
   6.3. Underneath the signature, which usually identifies the civil status of the applicant, such as “taxpayer”.

The remedy for the above types of deception and fraud is the following:

5. Avoid filling out any and every government form.
6. If FORCED to fill out a government form, ALWAYS attach a MANDATORY attachment that defines all geographical, citizenship, and status terms the form with precise definitions and betray whether the meaning is
   STATUTORY or CONSTITUTION. It CANNOT be both. If you think it is both, you are practicing a logical fallacy called “equivocation”. State on the form you are attaching to that the form is “Not valid, false, and fraudulent if not accompanied by the following attachment: ___________________”. The attachments on our site are good for this.
7. Tell the recipient that if they don’t rebut the definitions you provide within a specified time limit, then they agree and are estopped from later challenging it.
8. Specify that none of the terms on the form submitted have the meaning found in any state or federal statutory code.
   Instead they imply only the common meaning.

There are many forms on our site you can attach to standard forms provided by the IRS, state revenue agencies, financial institutions, and employers that satisfy the above to ensure that your correct status is reflected in their records. Below are the most important ones.

6. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001
   http://sedm.org/forms/FormIndex.htm
7. Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
   http://sedm.org/forms/FormIndex.htm
8. USA Passport Application Attachment, Form #06.007
   http://sedm.org/forms/FormIndex.htm
9. Voter Registration Attachment, Form #06.003
   http://sedm.org/forms/FormIndex.htm
10. Affidavit of Domicile: Probate, Form #04.223
    http://sedm.org/forms/FormIndex.htm

The language after the line below is language derived from Form #04.223 above. The language included is very instructive and helpful to our readers in identifying HOW the identity theft happens. We strongly suggest reusing this language in the administrative record of any entity who claims you are a statutory “taxpayer”, “person”, or “individual” under the Internal Revenue Code or state revenue code.

AFFIDAVIT REGARDING ESTATE OF DECEDeNT: ______________________________

I certify that the following facts are true under penalty of perjury under the criminal perjury laws of the state I am in but NOT under any OTHER of the civil statutory codes. I am not under any other civil codes as a civil non-resident non-person. The content of this form defines all geographical, citizenship, and domicile terms used on any and all forms to which this estate settlement relates for all parties concerned.

1. Civil status and domicile of decedent: Decedent at the time of his death was:
   1.1. A CONSTITUTIONAL “Citizen” or “citizen of the United States” as defined in the Fourteenth Amendment.
   1.2. NOT a STATUTORY “U.S. citizen” or “national and citizen of the United States at birth” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 C.F.R.
   §1.1-1(c), or 26 U.S.C. §3121(e). 26 C.F.R. §1.1-1(c) identifies an 8 U.S.C. §1401 “U.S. citizen” as the ONLY type of “citizen” subject to the Internal Revenue Code. All such “U.S. citizens” are territorial citizens born within and domiciled within federal territory and NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL “State”.

1.3. Domiciled in the CONSTITUTIONAL “United States” and CONSTITUTIONAL State at the time of his death.

... the Supreme Court in the Insular Cases 224 provides authoritative guidance on the territorial scope of the term “the United States” in the Fourteenth Amendment. The Insular Cases were a series of Supreme Court decisions that addressed challenges to duties on goods transported from Puerto Rico to the continental United States. Puerto Rico, like the Philippines, had been recently ceded to the United States. The Court considered the territorial scope of the term “the United States” in the Constitution and held that this term as used in the uniformity clause of the Constitution was territorially limited to the states of the Union. U.S. Const. art. I, § 8
(“[A]ll Duties, Imposts and Excises shall be uniform throughout the United States,” (emphasis added); see Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244, 251, 21 S.Ct. 770, 773, 45 L.Ed. 1088 (1901) (“[I]t can nowhere be inferred that the territories were considered a part of the United States. The Constitution was created by the people of the United States, as a union of States, to be governed solely by representatives of the States; ... In short, the Constitution deals with States, their people, and their representatives.”)); Rabong, 35 F.3d at 1452. Puerto Rico was merely a territory “appurtenant and belonging to the United States, but not a part of the United States within the revenue clauses of the Constitution.” Downes, 182 U.S. at 287, 21 S.Ct. at 787.

The Court’s conclusion in Downes was derived in part by analyzing the territorial scope of the Thirteenth and Fourteenth Amendments. The Thirteenth Amendment prohibits slavery and involuntary servitude “within the United States, or any place subject to their jurisdiction.” U.S. Const. amend. XIII, § 1 (emphasis added). The Fourteenth Amendment states that persons “born or naturalized in the United States, and subject to the jurisdiction thereof, are citizens of the United States and of the State wherein they reside.” U.S. Const. amend XIV, § 1 (emphasis added). The distinctive “or” in the Thirteenth Amendment demonstrates that “there may be places within the jurisdiction of the United States that are not[ ] part of the Union” to which the Thirteenth Amendment would apply. Downes, 182 U.S. at 251, 21 S.Ct. at 773. Citizenship under the Fourteenth Amendment, however, “is not extended to persons born in any place ‘subject to [the United States ]’ jurisdiction,” 225 but is limited to persons born or naturalized in the State of the Union. Downes, 182 U.S. at 251, 21 S.Ct. at 773 (emphasis added); see also id. at 263, 21 S.Ct. at 777 (“[I]n dealing with foreign sovereignties, the term ‘United States’ has a broader meaning than when used in the Constitution, and includes all territories subject to the jurisdiction of the Federal government, wherever located.”). 226

[Valmonte v. I.R.S., 136 F.3d. 914 (C.A.2, 1998)]

1.4. NOT domiciled in the STATUTORY “United States” or “State” as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes. These areas are federal territory not within the exclusive jurisdiction of a state of the Union.

1.5. NOT a STATUTORY “U.S. person” as that term is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30), because it relies on the definition of “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes.

1.6. An “individual” in an ordinary or CONSTITUTIONAL sense. By this we mean he was a PRIVATE man or woman protected by the CONSTITUTION and the COMMON LAW and subject to the jurisdiction of the STATUTORY civil law.

1.7. NOT an “individual” in a STATUTORY sense or as used in any revenue code. 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) indicates that the ONLY types of “individuals” found anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code are both “foreign persons” and “aliens” or “nonresident aliens”. Therefore the decedent could not possibly be an “individual” as that term is used in the Internal Revenue Code.

26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.
(c) Definitions
(3) Individual.
(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

2. Warning NOT to confuse STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts for geographical or citizenship terms:
2.1. Recipient of this form is cautioned NOT to PRESUME that the STATUTORY and CONSTITUTIONAL contexts of governmental, citizenship, or domicile terms are equivalent. They are NOT and are mutually exclusive.
2.2. One CANNOT lawfully have a domicile in two different places that are legislatively “foreign” and a “foreign estate” in relation to each other. This is what George Orwell called DOUBLETHINK and the result is CRIMINAL IDENTITY THEFT.

225 Congress, under the Act of February 21, 1871, ch. 62, § 34, 16 Stat. 419, 426, expressly extended the Constitution and federal laws to the District of Columbia. See Downes, 182 U.S. at 261, 21 S.Ct. at 777 (stating that the “mere cession of the District of Columbia” from portions of Virginia and Maryland did not “take [the District of Columbia] out of the United States or from under the aegis of the Constitution.”).

TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

2.3. The U.S. Supreme Court held in Rogers v. Bellei, 401 U.S. 814 (1971) that an 8 U.S.C. §1401 STATUTORY “U.S. citizen” is NOT a CONSTITUTIONAL “citizen of the United States” under the Fourteenth Amendment. See also Valmonte v. I.N.S., 136 F.3d. 914 (C.A.2, 1998) earlier. Therefore, it is my firm understanding that the decedent:

2.3.1. Was NOT domiciled in the STATUTORY “United States” or “State” defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) or 4 U.S.C. §110(d) or the state revenue codes. These areas are federal territory under the exclusive jurisdiction of the national government.

2.3.2. Was NOT a STATUTORY “U.S. citizen” under 8 U.S.C. §1401, which is the ONLY type of “citizen” mentioned anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code. These are territorial citizens domiciled on federal territory, and the decedent was NOT so domiciled.

3. “Intention” of the Decedent:
The transaction to which this submission relates requires the affiant to provide legal evidence of the “domicile” of the decedent for the purposes of settling the estate. This requires that he/she make a “legal determination” about someone who he/she had a blood relationship with. “Domicile” is a legal term which includes both PHYSICAL presence in a place COMBINED with consent AND intent to dwell there permanently.

“domicile. A person’s legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one’s home are the requisites of establishing a “domicile” therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges.”

3.1. Two types of domicile are involved in the estate of the decedent:

3.1.1. The domicile of the PRIVATE PHYSICAL MAN OR WOMAN under the common law and the constitution.

3.1.2. The domicile of any PUBLIC OFFICES he/she fills as part of any civil statutory franchises, such as the revenue codes, family codes, traffic codes, etc. These “offices” are represented by the civil statutory “person”, “individual”, “taxpayer”, “driver”, “spouse”, etc.

3.2. Legal recognitions of the TWO components of a MAN OR WOMAN, meaning the PUBLIC and the PRIVATE components as follows:

“A private person cannot make constitutions or laws, nor can he with authority construe them, nor can he administer or execute them.”
[United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 1 S.Ct. 601, 27 L.Ed. 290 (1883)]

“All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made with [private] individuals.

3.3. Man or woman can simultaneously be in possession of BOTH PUBLIC and PRIVATE rights. This gives rise to TWO legal “persons”: PUBLIC and PRIVATE.

3.3.1. The CIVIL STATUTORY law attaches to the PUBLIC person. It can do so ONLY by EXPRESS CONSENT, because the Declaration of Independence, which is organic law, declares that all JUST powers derive from the CONSENT of the party. The implication is that anything NOT expressly and in writing consented to is UNJUST and a tort.

3.3.2. The COMMON law and the Constitution attach to and protect the PRIVATE person. This is the person most people think of when they refer to someone as a “person”. They are not referring to the PUBLIC civil statutory “person”. This is consistent with the following maxim of law.

Quando duo juro concurrunt in und personà, aequam est ac si essent in diversis.
When two rights [public right v. private right] concur in one person, it is the same as if they were two separate persons, 4 Co. 118.
[Bouvier’s Maxims of Law, 1856; SOURCE: http://famguardian.org/Publications/BouvierMaximsOfLaw/BouviersMaxims.htm]

3.4. The affiant would be remiss and malefiant NOT to:

3.4.1. Distinguish between the PRIVATE man or woman and the PUBLIC office that are both represented by the decedent.

3.4.2. Condone or allow the recipient of the form to PRESUME that they are both equivalent. They are simply NOT.

3.4.3. Require all those enforcing PUBLIC rights associated with a PUBLIC office in the government (such as “person”, “individual”, “taxpayer”, etc.) to satisfy the burden of proving that the decedent lawfully CONSENTED to the office by making an application, taking an oath, and serving where the office (also called a statutory “trade or business” in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26)) was EXPRESSLY authorized to be executed.
3.5. Regarding the “intent” of the decedent, affiant is certain that the decedent had NO DESIRE to occupy, accept the benefits of, or accept the obligations of any offices he/she was compelled to fill, and therefore:

3.5.1. These offices DO NOT lawfully exist . . .and
3.5.2. It would be UNJUST to enforce the obligations of said offices WITHOUT written evidence of consent being presented by those doing the enforcing.
3.5.3. It would be criminal THEFT and IDENTITY THEFT to presume that the decent did hold any such PUBLIC offices or to enforce the obligations of such offices upon the decedent. These offices include any and all civil statuses he might have under the Internal Revenue Code (e.g. “taxpayer”, “person”, or “individual”) or the state revenue codes. Detailed documentation on the nature of this identity theft is included in:

Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046

4. Location of decedent, estate, and property of the estate:

4.1. All property of the estate is WITHIN the CONSTITUTIONAL “United States” and the CONSTITUTIONAL State of domicile of the decedent.
4.2. All property is WITHOUT the STATUTORY “United States” defined in 26 U.S.C. 7701(a)(9) and (a)(10), and 4 U.S.C. §110(d).
4.3. The CONSTITUTIONAL and the STATUTORY “United States” and “State” are mutually exclusive and non-overlapping.
4. The estate and all affiants are a STATUTORY “foreign estate” per 26 U.S.C. 7701(a)(31) because:

5. (a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

5.1. WITHOUT the STATUTORY “United States”.

5.2. WITHIN the CONSTITUTIONAL “United States”, meaning states of the CONSTITUTIONAL union of states.
5.3. NOT WITHIN the STATUTORY “State” or STATUTORY “United States” under the state revenue codes. It may be within these things in OTHER titles of the state codes, because other titles use different definitions for “State” and “United States”.

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

5.4. Not connected with a STATUTORY “trade or business” within the STATUTORY “United States” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26). Decedent was NOT engaged in a public office within the national but not state government.

26 U.S.C. §7701

(a) When used in this title, where not otherwise distinctly expressed or manifestly incompatible with the intent thereof—

(26) trade or business

“The term 'trade or business' includes the performance of the functions of a public office.”

NOTE: The U.S. Supreme Court held in the License Tax Cases that Congress CANNOT establish the above “trade or business” in a state in order to tax it.

“Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

[License Tax Cases, 72 U.S. 462, 18 L.Ed. 497, 5 Wall. 462, 2 A.F.T.R. 2224 (1866)]

Keep in mind that the “license” they are talking about is the constructive license represented by the Social Security Number and Taxpayer Identification Number, which are only required for those ENGAGING in a STATUTORY “trade or business” per 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1. The number therefore behaves as the equivalent of what the Federal Trade Commission (FTC) calls a “franchise mark”.

“A franchise entails the right to operate a business that is "identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark, or to offer, sell, or distribute goods, services, or commodities that are identified or associated with the franchisor's trademark. The term "trademark" is intended to be read broadly to cover not only trademarks, but any service mark, trade name, or other advertising or commercial symbol. This is generally referred to as the "trademark" or "mark" element.

The franchisor [the government] need not own the mark itself, but at the very least must have the right to license the use of the mark to others. Indeed, the right to use the franchisor's mark in the operation of the business - either by selling goods or performing services identified with the mark or by using the mark, in whole or in part, in the business' name - is an integral part of franchising. In fact, a supplier can avoid Rule coverage of a particular distribution arrangement by expressly prohibiting the distributor from using its mark."

Decedent, if he or she used any government issued identifying number, did so under compulsion, in violation of 42 U.S.C. §408(a)(8), and he/she hereby defines such use as NOT creating any presumption that he was engaged in any franchise or office, but rather evidence of unlawful duress against a non-resident non-person.

6. The above definitions of geographical and citizenship terms are NOT definitions as legally defined if they do not include all things or classes of things which are EXPRESSLY included. Furthermore, the rules of statutory construction require that anything and everything that is NOT EXPRESSLY INCLUDED in the above definitions is PURPOSEFULLY EXCLUDED:

"Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 170 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded.”

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

NOTE: Judges and even government administrators are NOT legislators and cannot by fiat or presumption add ANYTHING they want to the definition of statutory terms. If they do, they are violating the separation of powers and conducting a commercial invasion of the states in violation of Article 4, Section 4 of the United States Constitution.

“When the legislative and executive powers are united in the same person, or in the same body of magistrates, there can be no liberty; because apprehensions may arise, lest the same monarch or senate should enact tyrannical laws, to execute them in a tyrannical manner.”

Again, there is no liberty, if the judiciary power be not separated from the legislative and executive. Were it joined with the legislative, the life and liberty of the subject would be exposed to arbitrary control; for the judge would be then the legislator. Were it joined to the executive power, the judge might behave with violence and oppression [sound familiar?].

There would be an end of every thing, were the same man or the same body, whether of the nobles or of the people, to exercise those three powers, that of enacting laws, that of executing the public resolutions, and of trying the causes of individuals.”

In what a situation must the poor subject be in those republics? The same body of magistrates are possessed, as executors of the laws, of the whole power they have given themselves in quality of legislators. They may plunder the state by their general determinations; and as they have likewise the judiciary power in their hands, every private citizen may be ruined by their particular decisions.

It is FRAUD to presume that the use of the word “includes” in any definition gives unlimited license to anyone to add whatever they want to a statutory definition. This is covered in:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
http://sedm.org/Forms/05_MemLaws/LegalDecPropFraud.pdf

7. The recipient of this form is NOT AUTHORIZED to add anything to the above definitions or PRESUME anything is included that does not EXPRESSLY APPEAR in said definitions of the STATUTORY “United States” or “State”. Even the U.S. Supreme Court admits that it CANNOT lawfully do that.

“It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term, Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. 379, 392, and n. 10 (1979), Congress’ use of the term “propaganda” in this statute, as indeed in other legislation, has no pejorative connotation. As judges, it is our duty to [481 U.S. 485] construe legislation as it is written, not as it might be read by a layman, or as it might be understood by someone who has not even read it.”

[Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484 (1987)]

“When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term’s ordinary meaning. Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) ("It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term"); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 ("As a rule, a definition which declares what a term "means"...excludes any meaning that is not stated"); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945) ; Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read "as a whole," post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General's restriction -- "the child up to the head." Its words, "substantial portion," indicate the contrary."[Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

8. How NOT to respond to this submission: In responding to this submission, please DO NOT:

8.1. Tell the affiant what to put or NOT to put in his/her paperwork. That would be practicing law on affiant’s behalf, which I do not consent to.

8.2. Try to censor this addition or submission. That would be criminal subornation of perjury. This affidavit and the attached paperwork are signed under penalty of perjury and therefore constitute “testimony of a witness”. Any attempt to influence that witness or restrict his or her testimony is criminal subornation of perjury.

8.3. Threaten to withhold service or in some way punish the affiant for submitting or insisting on including this mandatory affidavit. All such efforts constitute criminal witness tampering.

9. Invitation and time limit to rebut by recipient of this form: If the recipient disagrees about the civil status, domicile, or location of the estate of the decedent, you are required to provide court admissible evidence proving EXACTLY where the term “U.S. citizen”, “United States”, and “State” as you used it in your communication includes CONSTITUTIONAL states of the Union or CONSTITUTIONAL “citizens” under the Fourteenth Amendment before the transaction that is related to this submission is completed. If you do not rebut the definitions appearing in this affidavit with court admissible evidence, then:
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

9.1. You constructively consent and stipulate to the definitions provided here both between us and between you and other parties who might be involved in this transaction.

9.2. You are equitably estopped and subject to laches in all future proceedings from contradicting the definitions herein provided.

10. Franchise agreement protecting commercial uses or abuses of this submission or any attachments: Any attempt to do any of the following shall constitute constructive irrevocable consent to the following franchise agreement by those accepting this submission or any of the attached forms or those third parties who use such information as legal evidence in any legal proceeding:

   - Sovereignty Franchise and Agreement, Form #06.027: http://sedm.org/Forms/06-AvoidingFranch/SovereigntyFranchise.pdf

   10.1. Commercially or financially benefit anyone OTHER than the affiant and his/her immediate blood relatives.

   10.2. PRESUME any thing or class of thing is included in the STATUTORY definitions of “State”, “United States”, “U.S. citizen”, or “national and citizen of the United States at birth” in 8 U.S.C. §1401.

   10.3. Enforce any portion of the Internal Revenue Code or state revenue code against this FOREIGN estate. This includes any type of withholding, reporting, or compliance to these revenue codes using any information about or provided by the affiant or anyone associated with this transaction. Any attempt to do otherwise shall be treated as a criminal offense.

11. Violations of this affidavit and agreement: Any attempt to enforce any civil status of the decedent or affiant against the affiant is a criminal offense described in the following:

5.6.12.14 Rebutted Arguments Against this Memorandum

5.6.12.14.1 Argument is “frivolous”

ARGUMENT:

The argument is “frivolous”.

REBUTTAL:

Stating that our arguments are “frivolous” without justifying such a determination with:

1. Legally admissible evidence signed under penalty of perjury or verified with an oath (as required by 26 U.S.C. §6065).

2. Deriving the evidence ONLY from the civil domicile of the accused party as required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). This means state law and NOT federal law.

...amounts to little more than accusing us of being “heretics” because we refuse to participate in the state-sponsored civil religion being run out of churches called “courts”. Similar arguments apply to any other pejorative adjective label the courts might attempt to use that do not deal directly and completely with ALL the facts and arguments made herein on any given subject, such as:

1. “Ridiculous”.

2. “Preposterous”.

3. “Soundly rejected”.

4. “Malicious”.

5. “Irresponsible”.

6. “Makes him/her a leech because he/she refuses to pay their ‘fair share’”.

7. “Manifestly erroneous”.

All such adjectives do is prove that the judge is not acting in a judicial capacity as a neutral finder of facts and who reveals only facts, but who rather is:

1. Acting in a political rather than judicial capacity as a member of the Executive rather than Judicial branch. Article 1, Section 8, Clauses 1 and 3 of the United States Constitution empower Congress and ONLY Congress to lay AND collect taxes. By undermining and interfering with attempts to stop unlawful collection enforcement, the judge is:
1.1. Acting as a tax collector in the Executive Branch. Congress CANNOT lawfully delegate any function, including the tax collection function, to any other branch of the government, including the Judicial Branch.

1.2. Violating the separation of powers doctrine by exercising Executive Branch functions.

"...a power definitely assigned by the Constitution to one department can neither be surrendered nor delegated by that department, nor vested by statute in another department or agency, Compare Springer v. Philippine Islands, 277 U.S. 189, 201, 202, 48 S.Ct. 480, 72 L.Ed. 845."

"It may be stated then, as a general rule inherent in the American constitutional system, that, unless otherwise expressly provided or incidental to the powers conferred, the Legislature cannot exercise either executive or judicial power; the executive cannot exercise either legislative or [277 U.S. 189, 202] judicial power; the judiciary cannot exercise either executive or legislative power. The existence in the various Constitutions of occasional provisions expressly giving to one of the departments powers which by their nature otherwise would fall within the general scope of the authority of another department emphasizes, rather than casts doubt upon, the generally inviolate character of this basic rule."

[Springer v. Government of the Philippines, 277 U.S. 189 (1928)]

1.3. Acting as a federal employment recruiter by illegally compelling private parties protected by the Constitution to become “public officers” within the government without compensation and often without their consent or even knowledge.

1.4. Engaging in conversion in violation of 18 U.S.C. §654, whereby he is converting private property to a public use, a public purpose, and a public office without the consent of the owner and in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause.

"Men are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable rights;-'life, liberty, and the pursuit of happiness;' and to 'secure,' not grant or create, these rights, governments are instituted. That property [or income] which a man has honestly acquired he retains full control of, subject to these limitations: First, that he shall not use it to his neighbor's injury, and that does not mean that he must use it for his neighbor's benefit [e.g. SOCIAL SECURITY, Medicare, and every other public "benefit"]; second, that if he devotes it to a public use, he gives to the public a right to control that use; and third, that whenever the public needs require, the public may take it upon payment of due compensation."

[Budd v. People of State of New York, 143 U.S. 517 (1892)]

2. Entertaining “political questions” in violation of the separation of powers doctrine.
3. Abusing legal process to terrorize, discredit, and enslave the litigant in violation of 18 U.S.C. §1589(3).

TITLE 18 > PART I > CHAPTER 77 > § 1589
§ 1589. Forced labor

Whoever knowingly provides or obtains the labor or [litigation] services of a person—

(1) by threats of serious harm to, or physical restraint against, that person or another person;

(2) by means of any scheme, plan, or pattern intended to cause the person to believe that, if the person did not perform such labor or services, that person or another person would suffer serious harm or physical restraint; or

(3) by means of the abuse or threatened abuse of law or the legal process [against an innocent “nontaxpayer”], shall be fined under this title or imprisoned not more than 20 years, or both. If death results from the violation of this section, or if the violation includes kidnapping or an attempt to kidnap, aggravated sexual abuse or the attempt to commit aggravated sexual abuse, or an attempt to kill, the defendant shall be fined under this title or imprisoned for any term of years or life, or both.

4. Obstructing justice due to people under the court’s care and protection.
5. Not dealing directly with the issues at hand because doing so would jeopardize the CRIMINAL flow of plunder into his checking account.

Thank you for telling us that our arguments are truthful, accurate, and consistent with prevailing law and that we are right.
3. The entire Internal Revenue Code is identified in 1 U.S.C. §204 as nothing more than simply a statutory “presumption”. “prima facie evidence” means presumption. Presumptions are NOT evidence, nor may they lawfully be used as a SUBSTITUTE for evidence in a court of law:

   (1) [8:4993] Conclusive presumptions affecting protected interests:

   A conclusive presumption may be defeated where its application would impair a party's constitutionally-protected liberty or property interests. In such cases, conclusive presumptions have been held to violate a party's due process and equal protection rights. [Vlandis v. Kline (1973) 412 U.S. 444, 93 S.Ct. 2230, 2235; Cleveland Bed. of Ed. v. LaFleur (1974) 414 US 632, 639-640, 94 S.Ct. 1208, 1215-presumption under Illinois law that unmarried fathers are unfit violates process] [Federal Civil Trials and Evidence, Rutter Group, paragraph 8:4993, p. 8K-34]

   “If any question of fact or liability be conclusively presumed [rather than proven] against him, this is not due process of law.” [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 500]

4. The Internal Revenue Code at 26 U.S.C. §6065 requires everything prepared under the authority of the code to be signed under penalty of perjury. Nothing coming from the IRS ever is, and therefore it is UNTRUSTWORTHY.

5. The Bible forbids Christians to presume anything and by implication, to treat presumptions as a basis for any kind of belief or inference.

   “But the person who does anything presumptuously, whether he is native-born or a stranger, that one brings reproach on the LORD, and he shall be cut off from among his people.” [Numbers 15:30, Bible, NKJV]

   For more information on what DOES constitute a reasonable belief about one’s tax liabilities, see:

   Reasonable Belief About Income Tax Liability, Form #05.007
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

   Even if the government tried to define what the word “frivolous” means, we aren’t allowed by their own statements and publications to trust their definition. Consequently, we are compelled to provide a definition for everything we hear from the government in order to avoid the Christian sin of presumption, and our definition is that the word “frivolous” means truthful, accurate, and consistent with prevailing law. Our definition is required to appear in all of the following forms of communication with the government as a mandatory part of the SEDM Member Agreement, Form #01.001:

   1. All pleadings filed in federal court. See Section Federal Pleading/Motion/Petition Attachment, Litigation Tool #01.002
   http://sedm.org/Litigation/LitIndex.htm

   2. All discovery in court: Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status Options, Form #10.003
   http://sedm.org/litigation/LitIndex.htm

   3. All tax forms filed with the IRS. See Section 4 of the following: Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

   The very purpose of law is to give reasonable notice to all parties concerned the conduct expected of them. Simply calling something “frivolous” without defining why it is defective using civil law deriving ONLY from the domicile of the accused party per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b):

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. Fails to give reasonable notice of the conduct expected and therefore falls short of the purpose of law and causes a violation of due process of law. See: Requirement for Reasonable Notice, Form #05.022
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. Unconstitutionally involves the courts in political matters. The abuse of the word by courts by refusing to identify reasons simply amounts to little more than a political statement and labels the speaker as a “heretic” who refuses to join the state-sponsored religion of socialism described below:
   Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. Proves that if a federal court makes this assertion, that it is not a true Article III constitutional court, but a franchise court established under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the United States Constitution. They are administering the “trade or business” franchise and do not fulfill the main purpose for the establishment of government, which is the protection of private rights. Instead, they have made a lucrative PRIVATE business out of DESTROYING your PRIVATE rights, and protecting and expanding federal property by converting private property into public property by illegally abusing presumption and word games. This is exhaustively proven with thousands of pages of evidence in the following document:
   What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

5.6.12.14.2 “trade or business” includes lots of activities other than simply a public office

ARGUMENT:

In the Tax Reform Act of 1969, Pub.L. 91-172, 83 Stat. 487, Congress defined a “trade or business” as “any activity which is carried on for the production of income from the sale of goods or the performance of services,” § 513(c). The Secretary of the Treasury has provided further clarification of that definition in Treas.Reg. § 1.513-1(b) (1985), which provides: “in general, any activity of an exempt organization which is carried on for the production of income and which otherwise possesses the characteristics required to constitute ‘trade or business’ within the meaning of section 162” is a trade or business for purposes of 26 U.S.C. §§ 511-513 FN1

FN1 Section 162 permits a taxpayer to deduct “all the ordinary and necessary expenses paid or incurred during the taxable year in carrying on any trade or business.” Undoubtedly due to the desirability of tax deductions, § 162 has spawned a rich and voluminous jurisprudence. The standard test for the existence of a trade or business purposes of § 162 is whether the activity “was entered into with the dominant hope and intent of realizing a profit.” Brannen v. Commissioner, 722 F.2d. 695, 704 (CA11 1984) (citation omitted). Thus several Courts of Appeals have adopted the “profit motive” test to determine whether an activity constitutes a trade or business for purposes of the unrelated business income tax. See Professional Insurance Agents of Michigan v. Commissioner, 726 F.2d. 1097 (CA6 1984); Carolinas Farm & Power Equipment Dealers v. United States, 699 F.2d. 167 (CA4 1983); Louisiana Credit Union League v. United States, 693 F.2d. 525 (CA5 1982).

2430 ABE’s insurance program falls within the literal language of these definitions. ABE’s activity is both “the sale of goods” and “the performance of services,” and possesses the *111 general characteristics of a trade or business. Certainly the assembling of a group of better-than-average insurance risks, negotiating on their behalf with insurance companies, and administering a group policy are activities that can be-and-are-provided by private commercial entities in order to make a profit. ABE itself earns considerable income from its program. Nevertheless, the Claims Court and Court of Appeals concluded that ABE does not carry out its insurance program in order to make a profit. The Claims Court relied on the former Court of Claims holding, in Disabled American Veterans v. United States, 650 F.2d. 1178, 1187 (1981), that an activity is a trade or business only if “operated in a competitive, commercial manner.” See 4 C.C., at 409. Because ABE does not operate its insurance program in a competitive, commercial manner, the Claims Court decided, that program is not a trade or business. The Court of Appeals adopted this reasoning, 761 F.2d. at 1577.

REBUTTAL:

There is no limit to the NUMBER of activities or actions that a lawfully serving “public officer” can execute ON BEHALF of the government as an AGENT or INSTRUMENTALITY of the government, and the actions described above are certainly
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. The actions are executed by a public officer lawfully elected or appointed into public office.
2. There is evidence on the record of a lawful appointment or election of the officer INTO office.
3. The public officer EXPRESSLY CONSENTED to lawfully occupy said office. Third party false information returns cannot unilaterally “elect” anyone to a public office.
4. There is proof of the record that the public officer is serving in the only place they are EXPRESSLY authorized by statute to serve per 4 U.S.C. §72.
5. There is evidence on the record of the proceeding that the owner of the property subject to tax CONSENTED to convert his otherwise PRIVATE property into a public use, public purpose, and/or public office BEFORE it can be taxed or regulated by the government. Otherwise, it is CONCLUSIVELY PRESUMED to be private property not subject to government since it was not used to injure anyone with.

6. There is evidence on the record that the rules of statutory construction have been EXPRESSLY waived in the case of the definition of “trade or business” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

The American Bar Endowment consented to be a public officer and therefore “taxpayer” by invoking the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A through C franchise and availing themselves of its “benefits”, or by being a federal and not state corporation and creation and instrumentality of the national government.

To simply PRESUME that otherwise PRIVATE property and PRIVATE rights are connected with a PUBLIC OFFICE without the consent of the owner and without just compensation is an unconstitutional taking in violation of the Fifth Amendment.

5.6.12.15 Other important implications of the scam

Now that we completely understand how Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A works as an excise tax upon a voluntary and avoidable taxable activity called a "trade or business" within the statutory but not constitutional “United States” (federal territory), this explains the reason why proponents of the 861 Position described in section 5.7.5 later have been so vehemently hated and attacked by the government and the IRS. What they are doing, in most cases without even realizing it, is using the regulation at 26 C.F.R. §1.861-8(f)(1) to draw attention to the fact that the federal income tax is in fact an excise tax, and that the "taxable activities" are all enumerated individually in this regulation and nowhere else in either the I.R.C. or the Treasury Code, Subtitles A through C.

Expressio unius est exclusio alterius. A maxim of statutory interpretation meaning that the expression of one thing is the exclusion of another. Burgin v. Forbes, 293 Ky. 456, 169 S.W.2d. 321, 325; Newblock v. Bowles, 770 Okl. 487, 40 P.2d. 1097, 1100. Mention of one thing implies exclusion of another. When certain persons or things are specified in a law, contract, or will, an intention to exclude all others from its operation may be inferred. Under this maxim, if statute specifies one exception to a general rule or assumes to specify the effects of a certain provision, other exceptions or effects are excluded."

Regulations. This regulation also happens to be the only regulation that describes exactly how to apply earnings from each enumerated excise "taxable activity" to the process of computing one's tax liability. Is it any surprise that the government doesn't want evidence like this in the hands of people? This interferes with their "voluntary compliance" efforts and exposes their willful and malicious fraud for what it is, and this is why they don't like it. This observation is the reason why most of the helpful examples contained within this regulation have been systematically removed over the years: to prevent people from correctly concluding that they aren't engaged in foreign commerce or public office and therefore don't owe the government any money.

Unfortunately, proponents of the 861 Position such as Larken Rose and those before him such as Thurston Bell fail to fully comprehend how they fit into this carefully crafted legal deception, fail to understand the nature of federal jurisdiction, and fail to fully understand that a "code" which only applies to those who volunteer to become engaged in a "trade or business" doesn't apply to them if they choose not to volunteer. They have spent so much time looking at the trees that they forgot about the forest and are being maliciously persecuted by the IRS mainly because of this monumental oversight. They don't understand that the I.R.C. was not enacted into positive law and in fact constitutes essentially a voluntary contract. This is not intended as a personal criticism by any means, but simply a realistic observation intended to help keep you out of trouble. Those who choose not to "sign" or consent to the contract by submitting the W-4 or filing a 1040 form with a nonzero "income" can have no legal liabilities under the code and cannot be described as "taxpayers" who are subject to it. Larken Rose thinks the "code" is "law" or "public law" because, in fact it is "private law" that is only "law" for "taxpayers", all of whom have consented to it in one way or another at some point in time. See the following free memorandum of law which proves this point:

Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003

5.6.12.16 Conclusions and summary

This section summarizes everything we learned in this article and also ties this information in with everything else found on this website:

1. Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A describes an excise tax upon a privileged activity called a "trade or business". All excise taxes involve franchises of one form or another and all franchises make those who participate into officers, agents, and instrumentality of the government that granted the franchise. See:

```
Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. A "trade or business" is statutorily defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as "the functions of a public office". A "public office" consists of employment or agency of the federal government in carrying out the sovereign and lawfully authorized functions of the government.

3. Those engaged in a "trade or business" are acting in a representative capacity as "public officers", and as such, take on the legal character of the U.S. government, who they represent in accordance with Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). All corporations are "citizens" under the laws they were created. The U.S. government is statutorily defined as a "federal corporation" in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). Therefore, those engaged in a "trade or business", while on official duty, become statutory "U.S. citizens", regardless of what they started out as.

4. 4 U.S.C. §72 requires that all public offices shall be exercised in the District of Columbia and NOT elsewhere except as expressly provided by law.

```
TITLE 4 > CHAPTER 3 > § 72
§72. Public offices; at seat of Government

All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law.
```

5. All income taxes are based on domicile. Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954). Therefore, Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A may only lawfully be imposed or enforced against persons domiciled in the District of Columbia. See:

6. Since Congress has not created and cannot lawfully create “public offices” within any state of the Union, then it cannot impose or enforce Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A there.

   “Thus, Congress having power to regulate commerce with foreign nations, and among the several States, and with the Indian tribes, may, without doubt, provide for granting coasting licenses, licenses to pilots, licenses to trade with the Indians, and any other licenses necessary or proper for the exercise of that great and extensive power; and the same observation is applicable to every other power of Congress, to the exercise of which the granting of licenses may be incident. All such licenses confer authority, and give rights to the licensee. But very different considerations apply to the internal commerce or domestic trade of the States. Over this commerce and trade Congress has no power of regulation nor any direct control. This power belongs exclusively to the States. No interference by Congress with the business of citizens transacted within a State is warranted by the Constitution, except such as is strictly incidental to the exercise of powers clearly granted to the legislature. The power to authorize a business within a State is plainly repugnant to the exclusive power of the State over the same subject. It is true that the power of Congress to tax is a very extensive power. It is given in the Constitution, with only one exception and only two qualifications. Congress cannot tax exports, and it must impose direct taxes by the rule of apportionment, and indirect taxes by the rule of uniformity. Thus limited, and thus only, it reaches every subject, and may be exercised at discretion. But, it reaches only existing subjects. Congress cannot authorize a trade or business within a State in order to tax it.”

7. All federal identifying numbers, such as SSN’s, TINs, and EINs, are government property. 20 C.F.R. §422.103(d). As such, anything you connect them with, including your labor, becomes “private property donated to a public use to procure the benefits of a federal franchise” and connects said property to a “trade or business”. If you don’t want to connect your labor or your property to a “public use” and a “public office”, then you must rescind and remove all federal identifying numbers from it in accordance with:

   7.1. Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

   7.2. Following the withholding procedures in the following book:
   Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Form #09.001
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

8. No one can lawfully connect your private property, such as your labor or financial assets, to a “public office” or a “public use” without your consent. The very nature of the word “property” implies exclusive use and control, which implies the right to exclude control over it by anyone but you. Therefore, any third party who files a false information return that connects your earnings or your labor to a “public office” or a “public use” without your explicit consent is violating the following laws and others not mentioned:

   8.1. 26 U.S.C. §7434: Civil damages for fraudulent filing of information returns

   8.2. 26 U.S.C. §7206: Fraud and false statements

   8.3. 26 U.S.C. §7207: Fraudulent returns, statements, or other documents

   8.5. 18 U.S.C. §4: Misprision of felony in connection with all the above.

   8.6. 18 U.S.C. §654: Officer or employee of the United States converting property of another.

9. Everything that goes on an IRS Form 1040 represents government revenue in connection with a “trade or business” because:

   9.1. The IRS Form 1040 is for the tax imposed in 26 U.S.C. §1.

   9.2. Everything on the IRS Form 1040 is subject to deductions authorized under 26 U.S.C. §162 and the only income subject to such deductions, according to 26 U.S.C. §162 is “trade or business” income.

   9.3. 26 U.S.C. §871(b)(2) says that all taxes imposed in section 1 are connected with a “trade or business”.

10. Those not engaged in a “trade or business” cannot truthfully file an IRS Form 1040. The only proper form for them to file is the IRS Form 1040NR, because this is the only form that includes a block for earnings not connected with a “trade or business”.

11. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041, all information returns, such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, 1099, K-1, etc have the effect of connecting the revenue in question to a taxable activity and creating a “prima facie presumption” that the target of the information return is engaged in a “trade or business”. Those who are not engaged in a “trade or business” need to rebut this false information return by filing corrected information returns so that they are not incorrectly compelled to associate with federal employment, agency, and contracts in violation of the First Amendment prohibition of compelled association.

12. A “public office” can only be created through the operation of private/special/contract law and your voluntary consent. If you don’t consent to act as a public officer and do all the following, then you can’t earn “gross income”. The process of refusing to consent to engage in contacts and “public office” with the government is effected by:
12.1. Not taking any deductions or credits on a tax return. Only those engaged in a "trade or business" may take deductions and credits, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §§1, 32, and 162.

12.2. Not signing and submitting an IRS Form W-4 to your private employer. Since the W-4 causes a W-2 to be filed and the W-2 is an information return, only those engaged in a "trade or business" can fill out and sign the W-2. Private employers cannot lawfully compel signing or submitting of a W-4 for a person who is not engaged in a "trade or business" and if they do, they are engaged in theft and extortion. See:

Federal and State Tax Withholding Options for Private Employers, Family Guardian Fellowship

12.3. Challenging and rebutting all false information returns that connect you to a "trade or business". See:

12.5. Opening your financial accounts as a "non-resident non-person" instead of a "U.S. Person", and do so without a Social Security Number or TIN. See:

About IRS Form W-8BEN, Form #04.202, Section 8
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

12.6. Terminating Social Security participation. The Social Security Act of 1935, Title 8, section 801 says that you agree to participate in payroll withholding for the income tax if you also participate in Social Security. See the following for the process of doing this:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Family Guardian Fellowship

12.7. Properly declaring your citizenship status on government forms as a constitutional citizen but not a statutory citizen. This will ensure that your domicile is not presumed to be in the "United States" federal government. See:

12.7.1. Why You are a “national”, “state national”, and Constitutional but not Statutory Citizen, Form #05.006
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

12.7.2. Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States, Form #10.001
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

13. Even people who are domiciled in the District of Columbia, unless they work or have contracts with the national government and thereby are engaged in a "public office", do not earn "gross income" under I.R.C., Subtitle A. The only exception to this is found in 26 U.S.C. §871(a).

14. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3), all earnings from within the "United States", which means "sources within the United States" are presumed to be connected with a "trade or business". Consequently, the term "United States" within the Internal Revenue Code, Section 7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) really implies employment, agency, or contracts within the United States national government, and does not mean or imply a geographical area.

15. The use of a Taxpayer Identification Number creates a prima facie presumption that the person using it is engaged in a "trade or business". You can't use a TIN unless you are engaged in a "trade or business".

16. Pursuant to 31 C.F.R. §103.30(d)(2), Currency Transaction Reports (CTRs), such as IRS Form 8300, Treasury form 8300, may only be filled out against persons engaged in a "trade or business". It is unlawful to fill out these forms against persons who are not engaged in a "trade or business". If you are not engaged in a "trade or business" and someone tries to incorrectly fill out this form against you, present the following form:

Demand for Verified Evidence of “Trade or Business” Activity: Information Return, Form #04.007
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
17. Nonresident aliens not engaged in a "trade or business" as defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(i) cannot earn:

17.3. "wages" in connection with any work performed outside the "United States" (government), in accordance with 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)(6)-1
17.4. "gross income" in connection with all compensation not paid in cash, in accordance with 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)(11)-1. In other words, if you are paid in goods and not cash, such paying in gold or silver, you can't earn "gross income" even if you are engaged in a "trade or business".

18. The IRS wants to deceive you into thinking that I.R.C., Subtitle A describes a direct, unapportioned tax instead of an indirect excise tax upon avoidable privileges connected with a "public office". They willfully perpetuate this illusion in order to keep you from searching for ways to avoid the activity and the taxes associated with the privileged activity. That is why:

18.1. None of their publications precisely define what a "trade or business" is. The one that comes closest is Publication 54, but even it doesn't do the subject justice.
18.2. When you ask them about what a "trade or business" is, they won't tell you.
18.3. When you show them the definition of "trade or business" from 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26), they will try to argue that the word doesn't mean what it says there and that the use of the word "includes" causes the word to mean not what the law says, but whatever they WANT it to mean. This IS NOT how law works, folks! See:

Legal Deception, Propaganda, and Fraud, Form #05.014
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

19. The federal courts are helping the IRS in the above cover-up. We have been unable to locate a single court case that discusses the information contained in this article. The federal courts are making cases that bring it up "unpublished" so that slaves living on the federal plantation will not be able to remove their chains and go free. They are "accessories after the fact" to Racketeer Influenced Corrupt Organization crimes against humanity, in violation of Title 18, Part 1, Chapter 5 and 18 U.S.C. §3. See: http://nonpublication.com. In this regard, the courts have become "predators" rather than "protectors".

20. Most IRS Forms illegally create false presumptions about your status that compel you to associate with the “trade or business” activity and become a “taxpayer”. See the following article about this SCAM:

Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

IRS very deliberately DOES NOT provide any forms or instructions that help “nontaxpayers” protect their status or prevent becoming the target of unlawful enforcement actions. The best way to avoid these false presumptions is to do the following, in descending order of preference:

20.1. Use standard IRS Forms and attach the following form to the IRS Form according to the instructions included with the form:

Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

20.2. Use AMENDED IRS Forms found on the following page.
http://famguardian.org/TaxFreedom_Forms/IRS/IRSFormsPubs.htm

20.3. Modify existing IRS Forms yourself either electronically or using a pen before you sign it, according to the instruction in the link above, section 1.

21. Anyone who presumes or assumes you are a "taxpayer" under I.R.C., Subtitle A absent authenticated, court-admissible evidence is:

21.1. Assuming you work for the government as an agent, officer, contractor, or employee engaged in a "public office".
21.2. Asserting "eminent domain" over your private labor and property, which is illegal unless you receive "just compensation" pursuant to the requirements of the Fifth Amendment to the United States Constitution.
21.4. Depriving you of life, liberty, and property in the process of making the presumption, which is unconstitutional.

(1) [8:4993] Conclusive presumptions affecting protected interests: A conclusive presumption may be defeated where its application would impair a party's constitutionally-protected liberty or property interests. 5.6.12.17 Further study

Understanding the “trade or business” scam fits together all the pieces of the puzzle scattered throughout this chapter and explains them in such a cohesive way that it is impossible to argue with. It is far more than simply a “theory”, but a fact you can verify yourself by reading the IRS Publications, the code, the Constitution, and the Treasury Regulations. All of them agree with the content of this section. If you would like to learn more about the “trade of business” scam, a whole very interesting and well-researched book has been written on this subject that we highly recommend. It’s a short book being only 232 pages, so it is sure to keep your attention:

5.6.13 The Non-Resident Non-Person Position

The following subsections merely introduce the main approach towards taxation and jurisdiction taken by members of this ministry. If you would like a full, comprehensive treatment, we refer you to the following excellent memorandum on how to implement and defend this position in detail:

Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

5.6.13.1 Introduction

The following subsections describe the foundation of the approach towards sovereignty, jurisdiction, and taxation which is taken by Members of this ministry called the Non-Resident Non-Person Position.

The concepts we will teach in the document do apply to other CIVIL contexts, such as franchises and driver’s licensing. When used in those contexts, one must instead refer to themselves simply as a “non-resident non-person” and legislatively foreign but not a statutory or constitutional “alien” in relation to the government because not an officer or public officer within the government. All instances of “alien” we have found refer to foreign nationals, not those born or naturalized in either the United States of America (states of the Union) or federal territory.

5.6.13.1.1 Definition

The Non-Resident Non-Person Position describes the approach towards political and legal relations between a specific government and those who:

1. Consent to no civil domicile within that government.
2. Consent to no government franchises and therefore do not waive their sovereignty or sovereign immunity.
   2.1. All those who participate in such franchises are treated as agents or officers of the government. They are sometimes called “public officers”.
   2.2. The First Commandment of the Ten Commandments forbids Christians from “serving” other gods. This prohibition also includes serving a government as a public officer IF AND ONLY IF it has superior or supernatural rights in relation to the government because not an officer or public officer within the government. Such a superior relationship is called “idolatry” in religious jargon and it is the worst sin in the Bible.
3. Insist on perfect equality under the law between the PEOPLE and the government tasked with protecting them.
4. Insist that any attempt by a government to impose any kind of civil duty or obligation or penalty against them under the authority of the civil statutory (franchise) codes is slavery and a tort.
   4.1. The ONLY type of government force or enforcement that is just or righteous is that which restores the damage that they have done to another equal sovereign AFTER said injury has been proven to exist with evidence.
   4.2. Law can only operate justly when it is constrained to providing remedies for demonstrated injuries AFTER they occur. It cannot operate in a PREVENTIVE mode BEFORE the injury occurs because there is no injury. In other words, those who seek to prevent future conduct rather than remedy past conduct lack “standing” in a court of common law, and therefore, legislation cannot establish such standing without at least the consent of those it might affect, because it requires a surrender of constitutional rights without compensation and therefore is a violation of due process.

236 Source: Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020, Section 1; http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm.

5. Insist on the protections of ONLY the Bill of Rights and the common law and NOT the civil statutory franchise codes.

6. Insist on perfect separation between what is PUBLIC and what is PRIVATE. Control or ownership of PRIVATE property should not be allowed to be shared with any government. This means that:

6.1. The government cannot lawfully acquire control over exclusively private property.

6.2. All property is PRESUMED to be PRIVATE until the government satisfies the burden of proving WITH EVIDENCE that the owner CONSENSUALLY, VOLUNTARILY, and IN WRITING consented to convert the property to a public use, public purpose, or public office.

6.3. All PUBLIC uses of otherwise PRIVATE property should be allowed to be unilaterally converted back to exclusively PRIVATE without the consent of the government. Otherwise, governments will simply refuse their consent and make the original owners into perpetual slaves.

7. Insist that anything not expressly appearing in a the civil statutory definitions of terms is PURPOSEFULLY excluded and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of the government per the rules of statutory construction. This requirement is the FOUNDATION of limited government of delegated powers itself described in the Ninth and Tenth Amendments:

“\textit{When a statute includes an explicit definition, we must follow that definition, even if it varies from that term’s ordinary meaning.} Meese v. Keene, 481 U.S. 465, 484-485 (1987) (“It is axiomatic that the statutory definition of the term excludes unstated meanings of that term”); Colautti v. Franklin, 439 U.S. at 392-393, n. 10 (“As a rule, ‘a definition which declares what a term “means” . . . excludes any meaning that is not stated’”); Western Union Telegraph Co. v. Lenroot, 323 U.S. 490, 502 (1945); Fox v. Standard Oil Co. of N.J., 294 U.S. 87, 95-96 (1935) (Cardozo, J.); see also 2A N. Singer, Sutherland on Statutes and Statutory Construction § 47.07, p. 152, and n. 10 (5th ed. 1992) (collecting cases). That is to say, the statute, read “as a whole,” post at 998 [530 U.S. 943] (THOMAS, J., dissenting), leads the reader to a definition. That definition does not include the Attorney General’s restriction -- “the child up to the head.” Its words, “substantial portion,” indicate the contrary.”

[Stenberg v. Carhart, 530 U.S. 914 (2000)]

8. Insist on the right to be left alone by government, which is the legal definition of “justice” itself:

\textit{Justice, as a moral habit, is that tendency of the will and mode of conduct which refrains from disturbing the lives and interests of others, and, as far as possible, hinders such interference on the part of others. This virtue springs from the individual’s respect for his fellows as ends in themselves and as his co equals. The different spheres of interests may be roughly classified as follows: body and life; the family, or the extended individual life; property, or the totality of the instruments of action; honor, or the ideal existence; and finally freedom, or the possibility of fashioning one’s life as an end in itself. The law defends these different spheres, thus giving rise to a corresponding number of spheres of rights, each being protected by a prohibition. . . . To violate the rights, to interfere with the interests of others, is injustice. All injustice is ultimately directed against the life of the neighbor; it is an open avowal that the latter is not an end in itself, having the same value as the individual’s own life. The general formula of the duty of justice may therefore be stated as follows: Do no wrong yourself, and permit no wrong to be done, so far as lies in your power; or, expressed positively: Respect and protect the right.}

9. Insist that any attempt to offer or enforce civil franchises within a constitutional state of the Union is a tort and an invasion within the meaning of Article 4, Section 4 of the United States constitution. Franchises can only be offered on federal territory or a constitutional violation, an injustice, and a commercial invasion has occurred.

10. Insist on the separation of powers between the states and federal government that is the foundation of the United States Constitution and the foundation of the protection of our PRIVATE rights and liberties.

“We start with first principles. The Constitution creates a Federal Government of enumerated powers. See U.S. Const., Art. I, 8. As James Madison wrote, “[t]he powers delegated by the proposed Constitution to the federal government are few and defined. Those which are to remain in the State governments are numerous and indefinite.” The Federalist No. 45, pp. 292-293 (C. Rossiter ed. 1961). This constitutionally mandated division of authority “was adopted by the Framers to ensure protection of our fundamental liberties.” Gregory v. Ashcroft, 539 U.S. 454, 458 (2003) (internal quotation marks omitted). “Just as the separation and independence of the coordinate branches of the Federal Government serves to prevent the accumulation of excessive power in any one branch, a healthy balance of power between the States and the Federal Government will reduce the risk of tyranny and abuse from either front.” Ibid.

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The term “Non-Resident Non-Person Position” is a term we developed. We have not seen it mentioned anywhere else, but we wanted to give it a name so that people can refer to it. The position does NOT advocate that people should have any civil status under the statutory codes of any government and therefore does not advocate that people be either “nonresident aliens” or “nonresident alien individuals”.

5.6.13.1.2 Domicile or residence and not nationality is the basis for civil statutory jurisdiction and tax liability, and nonresidents have no domicile and therefore are not subject

The Non-Resident Non-Person Position is easier and simpler to defend in court than most other arguments about civil jurisdiction and taxation. It revolves around the following simple concepts:

1. Civil statutory jurisdiction and tax liability originate from one’s choice of legal domicile and the obligation to pay for “protection” that attaches to that domicile:

   "domicile. A person's legal home. That place where a man has his true, fixed, and permanent home and principal establishment, and to which whenever he is absent he has the intention of returning. Smith v. Smith, 206 Pa.Super. 310, 213 A.2d. 94. Generally, physical presence within a state and the intention to make it one’s home are the requisites of establishing a “domicile” therein. The permanent residence of a person or the place to which he intends to return even though he may actually reside elsewhere. A person may have more than one residence but only one domicile. The legal domicile of a person is important since it, rather than the actual residence, often controls the jurisdiction of the taxing authorities and determines where a person may exercise the privilege of voting and other legal rights and privileges."

   "Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure are largely a political matter. Of course, the status of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located."
   [Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

2. Domicile is not just where you PHYSICALLY LIVE, but where you WANT TO LIVE and where you CONSENT TO LIVE AND BE CIVILLY PROTECTED. No one can dictate what you consent to and therefore no one can lawfully choose your domicile and therefore the place where you are a STATUTORY “taxpayer” EXCEPT you. See:

   Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. In America, there are TWO separate and distinct jurisdictions one may have a domicile within, and only one of the two is subject to federal income taxation:

   3.2. States of the Union. Legislatively foreign states not subject to federal jurisdiction.

   "It is clear that Congress, as a legislative body, exercise two species of legislative power: the one, limited as to its objects, but extending all over the Union: the other, an absolute, exclusive legislative power over the District of Columbia. The preliminary inquiry in the case now before the Court, is, by virtue of which of these authorities was the law in question passed?"
   [Cohens v. Virginia, 19 U.S. 264, 6 Wheat. 265, 5 L.Ed. 257 (1821)]

4. Whether one is “foreign” or “alien” from a legislative perspective is determined by their civil DOMICILE, and NOT their NATIONALITY. One can be a national of the country United States by being born in a state of the Union, and yet be the following relative to the jurisdiction of the national government if domiciled outside of federal territory:

   4.1. A statutory “non-resident non-person” if not engaged in a public office.

   4.2. A statutory “nonresident alien” (per 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B)) if engaged in a public office. In this case, the OFFICE is the legal “person” that has a domicile on federal territory while the OFFICER filling said office has legislatively foreign domicile.

5. Those who are neither domiciled on federal territory nor representing an entity domiciled there are not subject to federal statutory civil law or income taxation as confirmed by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). These people are called any of the following in relation to the federal/national government:

   5.1. Statutory “non-resident non-persons”

   5.2. “nonresidents”.

5.3. “transient foreigners”.
5.4. “sojourners”.
5.5. “stateless” in relation to national jurisdiction.

6. The U.S. Supreme Court has, in fact, held that those WITHOUT a domicile within a jurisdiction and who are therefore nonresidents and who become the target of tax enforcement by a legislatively “foreign” jurisdiction that they are not domiciled within are the victims of EXTORTION, and possibly even crime:

“The power of taxation, indispensable to the existence of every civilized government, is exercised upon the assumption of an equivalent rendered to the taxpayer in the protection of his person and property, in adding to the value of such property, or in the creation and maintenance of public conveniences in which he shares—such, for instance, as roads, bridges, sidewalks, pavements, and schools for the education of his children. If the taxing power be in no position to render these services, or otherwise to benefit the person or property taxed, and such property be wholly within the taxing power of another state, to which it may be said to owe an allegiance, and to which it looks for protection, the taxation of such property within the domicil of the owner-partakes rather of the nature of an extortion than a tax, and has been repeatedly held by this Court to be beyond the power of the legislature, and a taking of property without due process of law. Railroad Company v. Jackson, 7 Wall. 262; State Tax on Foreign-Held Bonds, 15 Wall. 300; Toppan v. Merchants’ National Bank, 19 Wall. 490, 499; Delaware &c. R. Co. v. Pennsylvania, 198 U.S. 341, 358. In Chicago &c. R. Co. v. Chicago, 166 U.S. 226, it was held, after full consideration, that the taking of private property [199 U.S. 203] without compensation was a denial of due process within the Fourteenth Amendment. See also Davidson v. New Orleans, 96 U.S. 97, 102; Missouri Pacific Railway v. Nebraska, 164 U.S. 403, 417; Mt. Hope Cemetery v. Boston, 158 Mass. 509, 519.”

[Union Refrigerator Transit Company v. Kentucky, 199 U.S. 194 (1905)]

7. The term “United States” as used both in the IRS Publications and the Internal Revenue Code:

7.1. Is used in TWO contexts:

7.1.1. The GOVERNMENT corporation; OR
7.1.2. Geographical sense, meaning federal territories and possessions and EXCLUDING states of the Union.

7.2. Is geographically defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) to mean federal territory that is no part of the exclusive jurisdiction of any constitutional state of the Union. We call this area the “federal United States” or the “federal zone” throughout this book.

7.3. Is typically NOT used in its geographic sense when referring to “sources within the United States”, but rather in the GOVERNMENT sense, where “United States” means the government corporation rather than a geographic place. In that sense, the geographical definitions 26 U.S.C. §7701 are a red herring to distract attention away from the REAL meaning of the term.

Consequently, the term “internal” as used within the phrase “INTERNAL revenue code” or “INTERNAL revenue service” refers to THE U.S. GOVERNMENT PUBLIC CORPORATION and does not and cannot include sources internal to any state of the Union or government of any state of the Union.

8. States of the Union are legislatively but not constitutionally “foreign” and “alien” with respect to federal legislative jurisdiction for the vast majority of subject matters, including income taxation. Federal jurisdiction within states of the Union is limited to the following, meaning that for every other subject matter, people domiciled in states of the Union are legislatively “foreign” and “alien”:

8.1. Postal fraud. See Article 1, Section 8, Clause 7 of the U.S. Constitution.
8.2. Counterfeiting under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 6 of the U.S. Constitution.
8.3. Treason under Article 4, Section 2, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.
8.4. Interstate commercial crimes under Article 1, Section 8, Clause 3 of the U.S. Constitution.
8.5. Jurisdiction over CONSTITUTIONAL aliens everywhere within the Union, to include states of the Union, for the purposes of immigration ONLY. See Chae Chan Ping v. U.S., 130 U.S. 581 (1889), Kleindienst v. Mandel, 408 U.S. 753 (1972). This source of jurisdiction is the reason that all “taxpayers” are aliens and not “citizens”. See 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).

“Other authorities to the same effect might be cited. It is not open to doubt that Congress may enforce the Thirteenth Amendment by direct legislation, punishing the holding of a person in slavery or in involuntary servitude except as a punishment for a crime. In the exercise of that power Congress has enacted these sections denouncing peonage, and punishing one who holds another in that condition of involuntary servitude. This legislation is not limited to the territories or other parts of the strictly national domain, but is operative in the states and wherever the sovereignty of the United States extends. We entertain no doubt of the validity of this legislation, or of its applicability to the case of any person holding another in a state of peonage, and this whether there be municipal ordinance or state law sanctioning such holding. It operates directly on every citizen of the Republic, wherever his residence may be.”
9. The Internal Revenue Code describes actually two separate excise taxes for two mutually exclusive legislative jurisdictions:

9.1. A municipal tax upon public offices domiciled on federal territory (the statutory but not constitutional “United States”) under Subtitles A, B, and C per Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17.

9.2. An income tax upon foreign commerce within states of the Union under Subtitle D.

10. Anyone who is neither a statutory “U.S. citizen” (domiciled in the District of Columbia or a U.S. territory and born in any state of the Union or federal territory) pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 or a resident (alien) domiciled in the federal zone pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A) is a “nonresident alien” under the I.R.C.

11. Those who are “nonresident aliens” are “nonresident” and therefore not within the civil legislative jurisdiction of almost all federal statutory law and are “nontaxpayers” under the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A in most cases. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §871, the only thing they have to pay income taxes on are earnings from “within the U.S. government”. The term “sources within the United States” as used throughout the I.R.C. really means WITHIN THE U.S. GOVERNMENT, and not the geographical United States mentioned in the United States constitution. These “sources within the United States” include:

11.2. Distributions from Foreign Sales Corporations (FSCs) registered within the District of Columbia.

11.3. Earnings from investments and real property on federal territory.

12. Important facts about “nonresidents”:

12.1. Those born within and domiciled within a state of the Union are:

12.1.3. “non-resident non-persons” because not domiciled on federal territory and not legally connected to the national government.

12.1.4. Not statutory “individuals”, “persons”, or “nonresident alien individuals” unless they are filling a public office in the national government. 237

12.2. Statutory “nonresident aliens” are a NOT a subset of statutory “aliens”, but an entirely separate class.

12.3. Only by exercising your right to contract with a foreign jurisdiction can you acquire a civil status under the laws of that jurisdiction. When one exercise this right to contract, the office or agency they acquire under the contract becomes “domestic” and they become surety for the office or “person” they are representing under said contract. An example of such agency is a public office in the national government created by a lawful election or appointment. That agency is the ONLY lawful subject of any and all I.R.C. Subtitles A and C income taxation.

237 The U.S. Supreme Court confirmed this when they held:

“Loughborough v. Blake, 5 Wheat. 317, 5 L.Ed. 98, was an action of trespass or, as appears by the original record, replevin, brought in the circuit court for the District of Columbia to try the right of Congress to impose a direct tax for general purposes on that District. 3 Stat. at L. 216, chap. 60. It was insisted that Congress could act in a double capacity: in one as legislating [182 U.S. 244, 260] for the states; in the other as a local legislature for the District of Columbia. In the latter character, it was admitted that the power of levying direct taxes might be exercised, but for District purposes only, as a state legislature might tax for state purposes; but that it could not legislate for the District under art. 1, 8, giving to Congress the power ‘to lay and collect taxes, impost, and excises,’ which shall be uniform throughout the United States;’ inasmuch as the District was not of the United States [described in the Constitution]. It was held that the grant of this power was a general one without limitation as to place, and consequently extended to all places over which the government extends; and that it extended to the District of Columbia as a constituent part of the United States. The fact that art. 1, 2, declares that ‘representatives and direct taxes shall be apportioned among the several states . . . according to their respective numbers’ furnished a standard by which taxes were apportioned, but not to exempt any part of the country from their operation. The words used do not mean that direct taxes shall be imposed on states only which are represented, or shall be apportioned to representatives; but that direct taxation, in its application to states, shall be apportioned to numbers.’ That art. 1, 9, 4, declaring that direct taxes shall be laid in proportion to the census, was applicable to the District of Columbia, ‘and will enable Congress to apportion on it its just and equal share of the burden, with the same accuracy as on the respective states. If the tax be laid in this proportion, it is within the very words of the restriction. It is a tax in proportion to the census or enumeration referred to.’ It was further held that the words of the 9th section did not ‘in terms require that the system of direct taxation, when resorted to, shall be extended to the territories, as the words of the 2d section require that it shall be extended to all the states. They therefore may, without violence, be understood to give a rule when the territories shall be taxed, without imposing the necessity of taxing them.’”

[Downes v. Bidwell, 182 U.S. 244 (1901)]
13. All “taxpayers” within the I.R.C. Subtitles A and C are STATUTORY “aliens” lawfully engaged in a “trade or business”, meaning a “public office” in the U.S. government pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

13.1. The term “individual” does not include statutory “citizens” or “nationals” pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).

13.2. Statutory “U.S. citizens” can be statutory “taxpayers” only in the case where they are abroad pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §911(d)(3) and avail themselves of the “benefits” of a tax treaty with the foreign country they are in. In that capacity, they interface to the foreign country as an “alien” and therefore a “taxpayer” and an “individual”. That is why both “citizens” and “residents” are grouped together under 26 U.S.C. §911: Because they are both aliens when abroad in relation to the country they are in.

13.3. It is unlawful for CONSTITUTIONAL aliens to engage in public offices in the government. Therefore, it is technically an impossibility for a constitutional alien to be a statutory “taxpayer”. This is an unavoidable consequence of the fact that the income tax is a public officer kickback program disguised to look like a legitimate income tax to fool everyone.

4. Lack of Citizenship

§74. Aliens cannot hold Office. - - It is a general principle that an alien can not hold a public office. In all independent popular governments, as is said by Chief Justice Dixon of Wisconsin, “it is an acknowledged principle, which lies at the very foundation, and the enforcement of which needs neither the aid of statutory nor constitutional enactments or restrictions, that the government is instituted by the citizens for their liberty and protection, and that it is to be administered, and its powers and functions exercised only by them and through their agency.”

In accordance with this principle it is held that an alien can not hold the office of sheriff.[ii][ii] [A Treatise on the Law of Public Offices and Officers, Floyd Russell Mechem, 1890, p. 27, §74; SOURCE: http://books.google.com/books?id=g-f9AAAIAAAJ&printsec=titlepage]

See: Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

14. Those who file “resident” tax forms such as IRS Form 1040 and who are domiciled within a constitutional but not statutory state of the Union are:

14.1. Indirectly making a voluntary “election” to be treated as a “resident” (alien) by the national government effectively domiciled on federal territory because representing an office so domiciled.

14.2. Indirectly and unilaterally “electing” themselves into a public office in the U.S. government in criminal violation of the following, because all statutory “taxpayers” are public offices in the U.S. government:

14.2.3. 18 U.S.C. §211.

14.3. Availing themselves of the “benefits and protections” of the laws of the United States. The courts call this process “purposeful availment”.

14.4. Engaging in the equivalent of “contracting” under a franchise agreement. In law, all franchises are contracts.

14.5. Waiving sovereign immunity under the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2) , and agreeing to be treated as a “resident”.

14.7. Violating the I.R.C. Subtitle A franchise agreement/contact if they are not human beings married to statutory “U.S. citizens”. The only provision within the I.R.C. that expressly authorizes nonresidents to “elect” to be treated as “residents” is 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B) and 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) and (h).

5.6.13.1.3 What the Non-Resident Non-Person Position is NOT

“For this is the will of God, that by doing good you may put to silence the ignorance of foolish men— as free, yet not using liberty as a cloak for vice, but as bondservants of God. Honor all people. Love the brotherhood.”

[1 Peter 2:13-17, Bible, NKJV]

Note that we DO NOT advocate any of the following flawed arguments or cognitive dissonance surrounding the term “nonresident non-person”. Don’t try to sabotage this pamphlet by making any of the following arguments without at LEAST providing court admissible evidence proving that any of the following are TRUE before you spout off your foolish mouth with idiotic, malicious, and unconstitutional presumptions founded upon your own legal ignorance:

1. That there is anything wrong, illegal, or criminal about the sovereignty possessed by those who advocate the Non-Resident Non-Person Position. See:

   Policy Document: Rebutted False Arguments About Sovereignty, Form #08.018
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. That those who advocate the position in this memorandum are lawless or anarchists. They are still subject to the common law and criminal but not penal laws. Sovereignty only affects civil obligations, not criminal obligations. Furthermore, the present government claims sovereignty and also claims that its powers are delegated by the people. You can’t delegate what you don’t personally have, so the people must be sovereign as well. The U.S. Supreme Court agrees with us on this subject. The following presentation proves that we are NOT anarchists under all law and expresses disapproval of those who take such a position:

   Policy Document: Problems with Atheistic Anarchism, Form #08.020
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. That those who advocate the position in this memorandum are elitists who are better than everyone else. The foundation of the common law is equality of rights of all under the law. Privileges and franchises such as the income tax destroy equality and replace it with inequality and privilege. We favor equality of treatment and rights (not privileges, but rights) as we prove in the following:

   Requirement for Equal Protection and Equal Treatment, Form #05.033
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

4. That there is no such thing as a statutory “non-person”. All law is prima facie territorial. People present in China and domiciled there would, for instance, be civil “non-persons” because domicile IN THE UNITED STATES RATHER THAN CHINA is how they would acquire the civil status of “person” to begin with. The states of the Union are on equal footing from a civil statutory perspective to foreign countries in relation to jurisdiction of the national government and therefore the people in them, just like those in China, are “non-persons” under civil statutory law. We prove this in the following memorandum:

   Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

5. That the PLACE one is “non-resident” to is the same both in the CONSTITUTION and the STATUTES of Congress. They are not. “United States” in the Constitution is mutually exclusive to and non-overlapping to the geographical term “United States” when used in ordinary acts of the national legislature. The specific place they are “non-resident” to is the federal zone and federal territory not within the exclusive jurisdiction of any CONSTITUTIONAL state of the Union.

6. That a “non-resident” is non-resident to BOTH the Constitution and the Bill of Rights AND “non-resident” to the civil statutory codes.

   6.1. There are TWO contexts for every legal term: CONSTITUTIONAL and STATUTORY. Both of these contexts are mutually exclusive and non-overlapping geographically.

   6.2. In fact, one can be a CONSTITUTIONAL “Person” or “people” WITHOUT also being a statutory “person” or “individual”.

   6.3. Domicile and residence are IRRELEVANT when one speaks of the protections of the CONSTITUTION. The Bill of Rights protects EVERYONE on land within constitutional states of the Union, not just “residents” or those who consent to become statutory “citizens” or “residents” in states of the Union. These protections, however, DO NOT constrain the government when dealing with those who are abroad, because they are not on said land. That is why it is called “the law of the land” in the Constitution.

   “It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure, and not the status of the people who live in it.”
   [Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)]

7. That those who are “non-residents” under the laws of the national government are “non-residents” under state law as well. They are not, and this is a product of the separation of powers doctrine. See:

   Government Conspiracy to Destroy the Separation of Powers, Form #05.023
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

5.6.13.1.4 Biblical Basis for the Non-Resident Non-Person Position (NRNPP)

The Non-Resident Non-Person Position has extensive biblical foundations and qualifies as a “religious practice”. The Bible identifies “non-residents” as “strangers”, “pilgrims”, or “foreigners”. Most major figures in the Bible who were in fact following God’s holy calling and acting out of obedience to His commands were asked by God to abandon a comfortable and complacent life to enter a foreign country and be strangers and foreigners there. These include:

1. Believers. In Eph. 2:19-22, Paul emphasizes that when we profess faith in God, we transition from being “foreign” to “domestic” in relation to Him and the Kingdom of Heaven. This implies that everyone who does NOT believe in God or obey his Commandments REMAINS a “foreigner”, “stranger”, and/or “alien”:

   "Now, therefore, you are no longer strangers and foreigners, but fellow citizens with the saints and members of the household of God, having been built on the foundation of the apostles and prophets, Jesus Christ Himself being the chief cornerstone, in whom the whole building, being fitted together, grows into a holy temple in the Lord, in whom you also are being built together for a dwelling place of God in the Spirit."

   [Eph. 2:19-22, Bible, NKJV]

2. Abraham. Hebrews 11:9. Abraham was called by God to pursue His promise by leaving a comfortable and rich life in Ur (now Iraq) and enter

   "By faith he dwelt in the land of promise as in a foreign country, dwelling in tents with Isaac and Jacob, the heirs with him of the same promise;"

   [Hebrews 11:9, Bible, NKJV]

3. Jesus.
   3.1. Matt. 8:16-22. When one of Christ’s followers offered to become a disciple and follow Jesus, he was warned that the cost of discipleship was that he would “have no place to lay his head”, meaning that he would have no domicile or home anywhere and therefore would be a “foreigner”, “stranger”, or “stateless person” everywhere with no political or legal bonds to any ruler or government. This, in fact, was the only way to ensure that the disciples could in fact speak truthfully and objectively and fearlessly to everyone about God: If they had nothing to lose.

   The Cost of Discipleship

   And when Jesus saw great multitudes about Him, He gave a command to depart to the other side. Then a certain scribe came and said to Him, “Teacher, I will follow You wherever You go.”

   And Jesus said to him, "Foxes have holes and birds of the air have nests, but the Son of Man has nowhere to lay His head."

   Then another of His disciples said to Him, “Lord, let me first go and bury my father.”

   But Jesus said to him, “Follow Me, and let the dead bury their own dead.”

   [Matt. 8:16-22, Bible, NKJV]

   3.2. Matt. 10:34-39. Christ said he came to bring division between believers and unbelievers, even within families. Those who are divided against each other are “foreign” or “alien” in relation to each other. To “take up the cross” is to become alien and foreign to all other causes, to profess exclusive allegiance to God even to the point of considering love and allegiance to family members subordinate and even unnecessary.

   Christ Brings Division

   “Do not think that I came to bring peace on earth. I did not come to bring peace but a sword. For I have come to ‘set a man against his father, a daughter against her mother, and a daughter-in-law against her mother-in-law’; and ‘a man’s enemies will be those of his own household.’ He who loves father or mother more than Me is not worthy of Me. And he who loves son or daughter more than Me is not worthy of Me. And he who does not take his cross and follow after Me is not worthy of Me. He who finds his life will lose it, and he who loses his life for My sake will find it.”

   [Matt. 10:34-39, Bible, NKJV]

   3.3. Mark 3:35. Jesus said that the only members of His family are those who DO His commandments and not just talk about them. Hence, all those who aren’t Christians and who don’t regard the Bible as a law book automatically become “foreigners” and “aliens”.

4. Moses. When God called Moses to rescue the Israelites from bondage to Pharaoh, He led them to a foreign land where they were and remained strangers and nomads to wander in the desert 40 years before not they but their progeny would eventually find a home. He proclaimed that their exile was a punishment for their disobedience and rebellion, and that they wouldn’t have a home or a new land they could call a domicile until all the old guard socialists died off and the next generation was taught obedience to God’s laws.

Death Sentence on the Rebels

And the LORD spoke to Moses and Aaron, saying, “How long shall I bear with this evil congregation who complain against Me? I have heard the complaints which the children of Israel make against Me. Say to them, ‘As I live,’ says the LORD, ‘just as you have spoken in My hearing, so I will do to you: The carcasses of you who have complained against Me shall fall in this wilderness, all of you who were numbered, according to your entire number, from twenty years old and above. Except for Caleb the son of Jephunneh and Joshua the son of Nun, you shall by no means enter the land which I swore I would make you dwell in. But your little ones, whom you said would be victims, I will bring in, and they shall know the land which you have despised. But as for you, your carcasses shall fall in this wilderness. And your sons shall be shepherds in the wilderness forty years, and bear the brunt of your infidelity, until your carcasses are consumed in the wilderness. According to the number of the days in which you spied out the land, forty days, for each day you shall bear your guilt one year, namely forty years, and you shall know My rejection. I the LORD have spoken this. I will surely do so to all this evil congregation who are gathered together against Me. In this wilderness they shall be consumed, and there they shall die.’”

Now the men whom Moses sent to spy out the land, who returned and made all the congregation complain against him by bringing a bad report of the land, those very men who brought the evil report about the land, died by the plague before the LORD. But Joshua the son of Nun and Caleb the son of Jephunneh remained alive, of the men who went to spy out the land.

[Numbers 14:26-38, Bible, NKJV]

5. The Israelites who built the wall in the book of Nehemiah. When they felt convicted because of their sin in marrying foreigners and foreign wives, they repented, built their own city, and formed their own foreign government because the one ruling where they were was not obedient to God’s laws. Separating oneself from foreigners means, literally becoming a “foreigner”, “stranger”, or “transient foreigner” from a legal perspective.

“Then those of Israelite lineage separated themselves from all foreigners; and they stood and confessed their sins and the iniquities of their fathers.” And they stood up in their place and read from the Book of the Law of the LORD their God for one-fourth of the day; and for another fourth they confessed and worshiped the LORD their God.

[Nehemiah 9:2-3, Bible, NKJV]

6. The Prophets. This includes Daniel, Ezekial, Elijah, etc. All of them were scorned and without honor in their own households and therefore “alien” and “foreign” in relation to their own relatives:

“So they were offended at Him. But Jesus said to them, ‘A prophet is not without honor except in his own country and in his own house.’”

[Matt. 13:57, Bible, NKJV]

7. King David.

7.1. 1 Sam. 9-19. After King Saul was elected as Israel’s first King in violation of God’s desires and wishes, the Israelites offended God by electing a King who did not obey the Lord. David did not agree with Saul’s actions and made Saul look bad and made Saul jealous of him. Eventually, David had to flee from the king, hide in caves to avoid the pagan King Saul’s wrath. David therefore became a “foreigner” and a “stranger” in relation to the pagan government of his time so that he could avoid offending God and be obedient to God. 1 Sam. 19.

7.2. Psalm 69:8-9. David in the Psalm revealed his basis for fleeing Saul by saying the following:

I have become a stranger to my brothers, And an alien to my mother’s children; Because zeal for Your house has eaten me up, And the reproaches of those who reproach You have fallen on me.

[Psalm 69:8-9, Bible, NKJV]
The Bible also commands followers and Christians to remain separate and sanctified in relation to the sinful governments and entanglements of the world. From a legal perspective, that means we must become “foreigners”, “strangers”, “transient foreigners”, and statutory “non-resident non-persons”. Here are just a few examples, and there are many more where these came from:

"Come out from among them [the unbelievers and government idolaters] And be separate, says the Lord.
Do not touch what is unclean,
And I will receive you.
I will be a Father to you,
And you shall be my sons and daughters,
Says the Lord Almighty.”
[2 Corinthians 6:17-18, Bible, NKJV]

" Pure and undefiled religion before God and the Father is this: to visit orphans and widows in their trouble, and to keep oneself unspotted [foreign] from the world [the obligations and concerns of the world].”
[James 1:27, Bible, NKJV]

"You shall have no other gods [including political rulers, governments, or Earthly laws] before Me [or My commandments].”
[Exodus 20:3, Bible, NKJV]

"Then all the elders of Israel gathered together and came to Samuel [the priest in a Theocracy] at Ramah, and said to him, ‘Look, you [the priest within a theocracy] are old, and your sons do not walk in your ways. Now make us a king [or political ruler] to judge us like all the nations [and be OVER them].’

"But the thing displeased Samuel when they said, 'Give us a king [or political ruler] to judge us.' So Samuel prayed to the Lord. And the Lord said to Samuel, 'Heed the voice of the people in all that they say to you; for they have rejected Me [God], that I should not reign over them. According to all the works which they have done since the day that I brought them up out of Egypt, even to this day— with which they have forsaken Me [God as their ONLY King, Lawgiver, and Judge] and served other gods— so they are doing to you also [government or political rulers becoming the object of idolatry].”
[1 Sam. 8:4-8, Bible, NKJV]

[Ezekial 20:10-20, Bible, NKJV]

[Rom. 7:4-6, Bible, NKJV]

Those who are believers and who are obedient to God’s calling are kings and priests and princes of the only sovereign, who is God and are therefore exempt from Caesar’s taxes.

"You [Jesus] are worthy to take the scroll, And to open its seals; For You were slain,
And have redeemed us to God by Your blood

And have made us kings and priests to our God;
And we shall reign on the earth.”
[Rev. 5:9-10, Bible, NKJV]

And when he had come into the house, Jesus anticipated him, saying, “What do you think, Simon? From whom do the kings [governments] of the earth [lawfully] take customs or taxes, from their sons [citizens and subjects] or from strangers [statutory "aliens"], which are synonymous with "residents" in the tax code, and exclude "citizens"?"

Peter said to Him, "From strangers [statutory "aliens"]!"’residents’ ONLY. See 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(a)(2)(ii) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(e)(3)."

Jesus said to him, “Then the sons [of the King, Constitutional but not statutory “citizens”] of the Republic, who are all sovereign “nationals” and “non-resident non-persons”) are free [sovereign over their own person and labor, e.g. SOVEREIGN IMMUNITY].”
[Matt. 17:24-27, Bible, NKJV]

Christians are PROHIBITED by the Bible to contract away their sovereignty to a pagan secular government, or to indirectly become Caesar’s rather than God’s property in the process.

“You [believers] shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by becoming a “resident” or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise, it will surely be a snare to you.”
[Exodus 23:32-33, Bible, NKJV]

“You were bought at a price; do not become slaves of men [and remember that governments are made up exclusively of men].”
[1 Cor. 7:23, Bible, NKJV]

“Stand fast therefore in the liberty wherewith Christ hath made us free, and be not entangled again with the yoke of bondage [to the government or the income tax or the IRS or federal statutes that are not “positive law,” and do not have jurisdiction over us].”
[Galatians 5:1, Bible, NKJV]

Those believers who decide to violate the above Biblical requirements to be separate and not fornicate with, contract with, or do business with the corrupted government or civil rulers become “aliens” in relation to God and the Kingdom of Heaven:

“Do you not know that friendship with the world is enmity with God? Whoever therefore wants to be a friend ["citizen", “resident”, “taxpayer”, “inhabitant”, or “subject” under a king or political ruler] of the world [or any man-made kingdom other than God’s Kingdom] makes himself an enemy of God.”
[James 4:4, Bible, NKJV]

[Eph. 4:17-19, Bible, NKJV]

God treats your BODY as His property and His Church. A “temple” is a church, and neither the temple nor the fruit of the temple can be taxed or regulated by any government in a truly free society. Any attempt to do so is the crime of damaging religious property at 18 U.S.C. §247, in fact:

“Do you not know that you are the temple of God and that the Spirit of God dwells in you? If anyone defiles the temple of God, God will destroy him. For the temple of God is holy, which temple you are.”
[1 Cor. 3:16-17, Bible, NKJV]

“A state-created orthodoxy [imposed through illegal enforcement or even involuntary enforcement of the revenue “codes” against religious institutions and “temples”] puts at grave risk that freedom of belief and conscience which are the sole assurance that religious faith is real, not imposed.”
Based on the content of this section:

1. The NRA Position is a religious practice within the meaning of the Bible and the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. Chapter 21B.
2. The First Amendment prohibits interference with religious practices of those protected by the Constitution.
3. Those who are nonresidents in relation to the federal United States but who are physically present on land protected by the Constitution cannot be compelled to declare or accept the obligations of any status other than that of a nonresident.
4. Any attempt to enforce any other status, obligation, or “public right” against nonresident aliens who have no authority to contract with the Beast and therefore to participate in government franchises constitutes:
   4.4. Interference in the affairs of a temple and a church. The Bible identifies our body as God’s temple. John 2:21, 1 Cor. 6:19.
   4.5. A breach of the Holy Bible trust indenture, which makes all Christians into God’s fiduciaries, trustees, and agents 24 hours a day, 7 days a week. Governments are created to protect your right to contract and interfering with this trust contract undermines the purpose of their creation. 5.6.13.1.5 Application to your circumstances

Americans domiciled in nonfederal areas of the 50 Union states are non-resident non-persons with respect to the Internal Revenue Code and the [federal] “United States”. By “Americans”, we mean people born anywhere in the American Union in either a state of the Union or federal territory or people from foreign countries who are naturalized to become Americans. These Americans have no “U.S.” (government) source income unless they work for the U.S. government or are engaged in a “public office” or have investments within federal territory called the “United States”. Whether you are a “nonresident” is determined by your place of domicile, not your place of birth. One becomes a “resident” under the I.R.C. by having a domicile on federal territory that is no part of the exclusive jurisdiction of any state of the Union.

QUESTION FOR DOUBTERS: If you disagree and think that “United States” includes places other than federal territory, then please explain why 26 C.F.R. §1.932-1(a)(1) says the following, which contradicts such a conclusion. Why would people who live in a “U.S. possession” be treated as nonresident aliens instead of residents, if they lived in the “United States”? Why would this section even be necessary because if you were right, they would be “residents” instead of “nonresident aliens”?:

[Code of Federal Regulations]
[Title 26, Volume 10]
[Revised as of April 1, 2004]
[From the U.S. Government Printing Office via GPO Access]
[CITE: 26CFR1.932-1]

Status of citizens of U.S. possessions

“(a)1. A citizen of a possession of the United States (except Puerto Rico and, for taxable years beginning after December 31, 1972, Guam), who is not otherwise a citizen or resident of the United States, including only the States and the District of Columbia, is treated for the purpose of the taxes imposed by Subtitle A of the Code (relating to income taxes) as if he were a nonresident alien individual.”

Also explain why after the above was posted on the Family Guardian Website in 2005, this regulation mysteriously disappeared from the Government Printing Office website and was replaced with a temporary regulation that didn’t tell the truth so plainly. The current version of the above regulation does not contain this language because the government wants to hide the truth from you about your true status.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

The author of the Law of Nations upon which the writing of the Constitution was based, Vattel, admitted that those who are deprived of a right to earn a living have a right not to participate in and therefore not be statutory “citizens” or “residents” of any society that deprives them of the ability to earn a living and feed their own face:

Law of Nations, Book 1: Of Nations Considered In Themselves
§ 202. Their right when they are abandoned.

The state is obliged to defend and preserve all its members (§ 17); and the prince owes the same assistance to his subjects. If, therefore, the state or the prince refuses or neglects to succour a body of people who are exposed to imminent danger, the latter, being thus abandoned, become perfectly free to provide for their own safety and preservation in whatever manner they find most convenient, without paying the least regard to those who, by abandoning them, have been the first to fail in their duty. The country of Zug, being attacked by the Swiss in 1352, sent for succour to the duke of Austria, its sovereign, but that prince, being engaged in discourse concerning his hawks, at the time when the deputies appeared before him, would scarcely condescend to hear them. Thus abandoned, the people of Zug entered into the Helvetic confederacy.¹ The city of Zurich had been in the same situation the year before. Being attacked by a band of rebellious citizens who were supported by the neighbouring nobility, and the house of Austria, it made application to the head of the empire: but Charles IV., who was then emperor, declared to its deputies that he could not defend it; — upon which Zurich secured its safety by an alliance with the Swiss.² The same reason has authorized the Swiss, in general, to separate themselves entirely from the empire, which never protected them in any emergency; they had not owned its authority for a long time before their independence was acknowledged by the emperor and the whole Germanic body, at the treaty of Westphalia.

§ 223. Cases in which a citizen has a right to quit his country.

There are cases in which a citizen has an absolute right to renounce his country, and abandon it entirely — a right founded on reasons derived from the very nature of the social compact. 1. If the citizen cannot procure subsistence in his own country, it is undoubtedly lawful for him to seek it elsewhere. For, political or civil society being entered into only with a view of facilitating to each of its members the means of supporting himself, and of living in happiness and safety, it would be absurd to pretend that a member, whom it cannot furnish with such things as are most necessary, has not a right to leave it.

2. If the body of the society, or he who represents it, absolutely fail to discharge their obligations under the law towards a citizen, the latter may withdraw himself. For, if one of the contracting parties does not observe his engagements, the other is no longer bound to fulfil his; as the contract is reciprocal between the society and its members. It is on the same principle, also, that no society may expel a member who violates its laws.

3. If the major part of the nation, or the sovereign who represents it, attempt to enact laws relative to matters in which the social compact cannot oblige every citizen to submission, those who are averse to these laws have a right to quit the society, and go settle elsewhere. For instance, if the sovereign, or the greater part of the nation, will allow but one religion in the state, those who believe and profess another religion have a right to withdraw, and take with them their families and effects. For, they cannot be supposed to have subjected themselves to the authority of men, in affairs of conscience;³ and if the society suffers and is weakened by their departure, the blame must be imputed to the intolerant party; for it is they who fail in their observance of the social compact — it is they who violate it, and force the others to a separation. We have elsewhere touched upon some other instances of this third case, — that of a popular state wishing to have a sovereign (§ 33), and that of an independent nation taking the resolution to submit to a foreign power (§ 195).

[Law of Nations, Vattel, Book 1, Sections 202 and 223; Source: http://famguardian.org/Publications/LawOfNations/vattel_01.htm#§ 202. Their right when they are abandoned.]

Hence, it is indisputable that if you are either the object of criminal or illegal activity by the government and if you are deprived under any circumstance of the right to earn a living and support yourself, you have an absolute right to:

1. Abandon your country or municipal domicile either physically or legally or both.
2. Expatriate yourself from the country which you are a member and thereby abandon your “nationality”.
3. Change your domicile to be outside that country and thereby become a “nonresident”, “non-citizen” who is not protected by its civil laws and not a “person” or “individual” under said laws.

The Declaration of Independence states the same thing above, and actually calls it a “right” which you cannot be denied:

“Prudence, indeed, will dictate that governments long established, should not be changed for light and transient causes; and, accordingly, all experience [has] shown that mankind are more disposed to suffer while evils areufferable than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But, when a long train

5.6.13.2 “Non-resident non-persons” Described

The following subsections will deal with the legal constraints surrounding the civil status of “non-resident non-person”. The purpose of establishing government is solely to provide “protection”. Those who wish to be protected by a specific government under the civil law must expressly consent to be protected by choosing a domicile within the civil jurisdiction of that specific government.

1. Those who have made such a choice and thereby become “customers” of the protection afforded by government are called by any of the following names under the civil laws of the jurisdiction they have nominated to protect them:
   1.1. “citizens”, if they were born somewhere within the country which the jurisdiction is a part.
   1.2. “residents” (aliens) if they were born within the country in which the jurisdiction is a part 1.3. “inhabitants”, which encompasses both “citizens”, and “residents” but excludes foreigners
   1.4. “persons”.
   1.5. “individuals”.

2. Those who have not become “customers” or “protected persons” of a specific government are called by any of the following names within the civil laws of the jurisdiction they have refused to nominate as their protector and may NOT be called by any of the names in item 1 above:
   2.1. “nonresidents”
   2.2. “transient foreigners”
   2.3. “stateless persons”
   2.4. “in transit”
   2.5. “transient”
   2.6. “sojourner”

In law, the process of choosing a domicile within the jurisdiction of a specific government is called “animus manendi”. That choice makes you a consenting party to the “civil contract”, “social compact”, and “private law” that attaches to and therefore protects all “inhabitants” and things physically situated on or within that specific territory, venue, and jurisdiction. In a sense, your consent to a specific jurisdiction by your choice of domicile within that jurisdiction is what creates the “person”, “individual”, “citizen”, “resident”, or “inhabitant” which is the only proper subject of the civil laws passed by that government. In other words, choosing a domicile within a specific jurisdiction causes an implied waiver of sovereign immunity, because the courts admit that the term "person" does not refer to the "sovereign":

"Since in common usage, the term person does not include the sovereign, statutes not employing the phrase are ordinarily construed to exclude it."
[United States v. Cooper Corporation, 312 U.S. 600 (1941)]

"Sovereignty itself is, of course, not subject to law for it is the author and source of law;"
[Yick Wo v. Hopkins, 118 U.S. 356 (1886)]

"There is no such thing as a power of inherent Sovereignty in the government of the United States. In this country sovereignty resides in the People, and Congress can exercise no power which they have not, by their Constitution entrusted to it. All else is withheld."
[Juilliard v. Greenman, 110 U.S. 421 (1884)]

A “non-resident non-person” is simply someone who:

1. Has not waived sovereign immunity. This is the SAME “sovereign immunity” delegated by We the People to the government itself, and you can’t delegate what you don’t have.
2. Is equal in dignity, immunity, and sovereignty to any and every government.
3. Has not chosen a civil statutory domicile within the government they are a non-resident in respect to. They thereby refuse to be civilly governed by the civil statutory law.
4. Is but are still protected civilly by the common law and the Constitution.

Source: Non-Resident Non-Person Position, Form #05.020, Section 2; http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm.
5. Is still protected by the criminal laws.
6. Is unenfranchised, and therefore legislatively “foreign” rather than “domestic” for civil purposes.

Even President Obama has admitted that Christians are “foreigners” in society, and that is what a “non-resident non-person” is from a CIVIL LEGISLATIVE perspective.

5.6.13.2.1 Civil status of “non-resident non-persons”

We don’t mean to imply that those who are non-resident non-persons are, in fact, CONSTITUTIONAL “aliens” in relation to the federal government at all. Instead, they are:

1. Statutory status under federal law:
   1.3. NOT “nationals but not citizens of the United States at birth” under 8 U.S.C. §1408 if not born in a federal possession.
   1.4. If they were born in a federal possession, they are:
       1.4.1. “national, but not a citizen, of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1452 if they are domiciled in a federal possession.
   1.5. Statutory “non-resident non-persons” relative to the legislative/statutory jurisdiction of the national and not federal government under Titles 4, 5, 26, 42, and 50 of the United States Code, but only if legally or physically present on federal territory. Statutory “non-resident non-person” status is a result of the separation of powers between the state and federal governments. One is “legally present” if they are either consensually conducting commerce within the United States Government, have the statutory status of “citizen” or “resident, or are filling a public office within said government.

2. Constitutional status:
   2.1. “citizens of the United States” per the Fourteenth Amendment AT BIRTH and non-residents AFTER birth.
   2.2. Not “aliens” in either a statutory or constitutional context.

3. Biblical status:
   3.1. “strangers”
   3.2. “foreigners”

Why do you want to ensure your status in government records correctly reflects your civil status as a “non-resident non-person”? Below are some very good reasons:

1. Nonresidents ONLY become a statutory “person” or “individual” by either engaging in a public office or having a contract with the United States Government. This is reflected in the following:
   1.1. The statutory definition of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343. The “partnership” they are referring to is a contract between the “United States” as a legal person and an otherwise PRIVATE human being. That contract creates PUBLIC AGENCY of the otherwise PRIVATE human being.
   1.2. The following U.S. Supreme Court ruling:

   “All the powers of the government [including ALL of its civil enforcement powers against the public] must be carried into operation by individual agency, either through the medium of public officers, or contracts made with [private] individuals.”

2. Non-resident non-persons do not have to have or use a Taxpayer Identification Number (TIN) to open a financial account if they are not engaged in a “trade or business”, meaning a public office in the U.S. government.

3. “Non-resident non-persons” are not required to participate in Social Security withholding.

4. “Non-resident non-persons” are expressly exempted from the Healthcare Bill and just about every other federal law. See the Patient Protection and Affordable Care Act, H.R. 3590, Section 9022(a).

5. Non-resident non-persons do not have to pay tax on their worldwide earnings like statutory “U.S. persons”, “U.S. citizens”, and “U.S. residents” do.
Federal District Courts cannot entertain anything other than a common law or constitutional tort action in the case of a non-resident non-person. NRAs are not present within or domiciled within any United States judicial district and therefore beyond the jurisdiction of federal courts.

Nonresident aliens pay a flat 30% tax on their earnings originating ONLY from the United States government under I.R.C. Section 871 rather than a graduated rate of tax under I.R.C. Section 1.

The IRS cannot lawfully file liens against Non-resident non-persons, because they are not within an Internal Revenue District and all liens must be filed in the district they are domiciled within. The Federal Lien Registration Act requires that the lien must be filed in the domicile of the “taxpayer”, which is ALWAYS in the District of Columbia, because all statutory “taxpayers” are public offices that have a domicile in the District of Columbia.

Non-resident non-persons are protected from the jurisdiction of federal district courts by the Minimum Contacts Doctrine, U.S. Supreme Court and the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. Part 4, Chapter 97. They instead have to go either to the U.S. Supreme Court or the Court of International Trade if they are prosecuted or wish to prosecute the national government.

Non-resident non-persons do not need to use the IRS Forms W-4 or W-4 Exempt.

There are no withholding forms that a non-resident non-person can use. The closest would be the IRS Form W-8BEN, but even that form would not apply because they are not public officials and therefore “individuals” or “persons” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343. There is therefore no status they could check in Block 3 of the form that would be accurate because the only option they give is “individual”.

Non-resident non-persons are not eligible for any kind of state license or franchise, such as a driver’s license.

For additional reasons and more details on some of the above reasons, see section 5.6.13.3.4.5 later.

All franchises relate to and regulate only public office within the government. “Domestic” is a synonym for government, in fact. Everyone outside the government in that context is “alien” or “foreign”. Those who don’t volunteer for a public office by signing up for a franchise therefore are “alien” and “foreign” in relation to the government granting the franchise. Those who start out as nonresident and alien and subsequently sign up for a franchise become “resident aliens” in relation to the government grantor of the franchise. That is why we refer to “citizens”, “residents”, “individuals”, and “resident aliens” simply as government contractors and public officers within a de facto government. Declaring oneself to be “resident” is equivalent to identifying oneself as a government contractor and public officer. If you would like to learn more about this fascinating concept, please read:

5.6.13.2.2 “non-resident non-persons” are civilly dead, but are still protected by the Constitution and common law

We define the term “civilly dead” as a human being who has no domicile within the civil statutory jurisdiction of a specific government, but who is still protected by the Bill of Rights, the Constitution, and the common law. In effect, they are immune from the civil statutory jurisdiction of the government with whom they are “civilly dead”.

Because the civil statutory law is a civil protection franchise, we describe such people as “unenfranchised” rather than “disenfranchised”. Being “disenfranchised” occurs without the consent of the party because of a felony conviction, whereas being “unenfranchised” occurs by a withdrawal of consent to be a civil statutory “person”.

The “straw man” or fictional statutory “person” to whom franchises rights attach is the thing that is “dead” in the phrase “civilly dead”. In other words, there are no “fictions of law” applicable to those who are “civilly dead”.

"Fiction of law. An assumption or supposition of law that something which is or may be false is true, or that a state of facts exists which has never really taken place. An assumption [PRESUMPTION], for purposes of justice, of a fact that does not or may not exist. A rule of law which assumes as true, and will not allow to be disproved, something which is false, but not impossible. Rian’s Motor Credit Co., 30 N.J.Eq. 531, 23 A.2d. 607, 621. These assumptions are of an innocent or even beneficial character, and are made for the advancement of the ends of justice. They secure this end chiefly by the extension of procedure from cases to which it is applicable to other cases to which it is not strictly applicable, the ground of inapplicability being some difference of an immaterial character. See also Legal fiction.” (Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 623)
Terms related to “civil death” include the following:

1. “Civil law”

   “Civil death (Latin: civiliter mortuus) is the loss of all or almost all civil rights by a person due to a conviction for a felony or due to an act by the government of a country that results in the loss of civil rights. It is usually inflicted on persons convicted of crimes against the state or adults determined by a court to be legally incompetent because of mental disability.”

   In medieval Europe, felons lost all civil rights upon their conviction. This civil death often led to actual death, since anyone could kill and injure a felon with impunity. Under the Holy Roman Empire, a person declared civil death was referred to as vogelfrei, ‘free as a bird’, and could even be killed since they were completely outside the law.

   Historically outlawry, that is, declaring a person as an outlaw, was a common form of civil death.

2. “Civil death”

   “Under the Holy Roman Empire, a person declared civil death was referred to as vogelfrei, ‘free as a bird’, and could even be killed since they were completely outside the law.”

3. “Vogelfrei”

   “the original meaning of the term referred to independence, being “free as a bird”; the current negative meaning developed only in the 16th century.”

4. “Mortmain”

   “A further explanation is that the property of religious corporations could be said to be “in dead hands”, as the members of such corporations were considered civilly dead after taking religious oaths.”

5. “Outlaw”

   Civil

   There was also civil outlawry. Civil outlawry did not carry capital punishment with it, and it was imposed on defendants who fled or evaded justice when sued for civil actions like debts or torts. The punishments for civil outlawry were nevertheless harsh, including confiscation of chattels (movable property) left behind by the outlaw.[11]

   In the civil context, outlawry became obsolete in civil procedure by reforms that no longer required summoned defendants to appear and plead. Still, the possibility of being declared an outlaw for derelictions of civil duty continued to exist in English law until 1879 and in Scots law until the late 1940s. Since then, failure to find the

6. Felony disenfranchisement. Those convicted of felonies are considered “civily dead”.

https://en.wikipedia.org/wiki/Felony_disenfranchisement

An example of how “civil death” is created through either policy or law can be found on the California Franchise Tax Board Website. Tax Exempt Entities that fail to pay their taxes or fail to file annually with the Secretary of State are referred to as “FTB OR SOS SUSPENDED”, which simply means that their contracts and status cannot be defended in any court of law:

“Contract voidability

Contract voidability is defined as when a suspended or forfeited business entity loses the right to enforce its legal contracts. If a business enters into a contract while suspended or forfeited and then revives its active legal status, the business cannot enforce that contract unless it gets relief from contract voidability (RCV).

For more information regarding RCV, see “Why would I need relief from contract voidability (RCV)?”

[Suspended Exempt Entities, California FTB, Downloaded 10/29/2015;
SOURCE: https://www.ftb.ca.gov/businesses/Exempt_organizations/Suspended.shtml]

The “suspension” they are talking about above is unilateral and involuntary suspension of all rights of the entity described by the GOVERNMENT. Clearly, the above type of suspension is a direct interference with the right and power to contract, and governments are CREATED to protect and enforce your right to contract. See Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution. Hence, the above entity must not be protected by the Constitution and therefore, must be on federal territory not within the limits of a constitutional state. Otherwise, “civil death” for nonpayment of taxes would be unconstitutional because it “impairs private contracts”. The “law” that is used to defend the contracts in this case would have to be statute law rather than contract law, which is voluntary and avoidable. If the above suspension also impaired the right to defend contracts under the COMMON LAW rather than statute law for a PRIVATE, non-corporate or non-public entity, then it would clearly be unconstitutional.

If the government can implement “civil death” as a way to enforce public policy or tax enforcement, then certainly we can and should be able to do it as well against them. This is a requirement of equal protection and equal treatment that is the foundation of the United States Constitution.

In most cases, courts will simply refer to “non-resident non-persons” as “nonresidents”. An entire book below has been written about legal remedies available to “nonresidents”.

5.6.13.2.3 Simplified summary of taxation as a franchise/excise tax

“The essence of genius is simplicity.”
[Albert Einstein]

A simple but accurate way to view the Non-Resident Non-Person Position is as follows:

1. One can only have a “status” under the civil statutory laws of a specific jurisdiction by having a domicile within that jurisdiction as required by Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). See:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. Those without a domicile on federal territory have no civil status under the Internal Revenue Code Subtitles A through C, and therefore are incapable of acquiring any of the following statutory statuses under the Internal Revenue Code Subtitles A through C except possibly through their express consent:

2.1. “individual”.
2.2. “person”.
2.3. “alien”.

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
2.4. “nonresident alien”.

2.5. “taxpayer”,

For further details on this subject, see:

Your Exclusive Right to Declare or Establish Your Civil Status, Form #13.008
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate, tax, or burden PRIVATE rights and PRIVATE property is repugnant to the Constitution. Therefore, all of the above “statuses” are:

3.1. Public property.

3.2. Public offices.

3.3. Public juris.

3.4. Instrumentalities of the government and not private, non-consenting human beings.

3.5. Property of the national government under Article 4, Section 3, Clause 2 of the Constitution.

For proof of the above, see:

Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

4. The Internal Revenue Code, Subtitles A through C is a franchise and excise tax. That franchise is called a statutory “trade or business”, which is legally defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as “the functions of a public office”.

4.1. All franchises are legally defined as contracts or agreements that acquire the “force of law” only by consent of BOTH parties to the contract or agreement. Those who have not manifested consent to the compact or contract are “non-residents” and “non-persons” not subject to its provisions.

4.2. Still protected by the Constitution while at the same time NOT protected by any act of Congress.

5. Within the I.R.C. franchise agreement, the statutory “taxpayer” is the PUBLIC OFFICE and NOT the PRIVATE human being or artificial entity CONSENSUALLY FILLING said office. CONSENSUALLY applying for identifying numbers (TIN/SSN) AND CONSENSUALLY USING them in connection with specific otherwise PRIVATE activities is the method of:

5.1. Consenting to receive the “benefits” of a government franchise.

5.2. Waiving sovereign immunity.

5.3. Connecting a PRIVATE PERSON to a specific PUBLIC OFFICE.

5.4. Donating otherwise PRIVATE property to a public use, public purpose, and public office in the national and not state government.

5.5. Exercising your right to contract, because all franchises are contracts or agreements.

The partnership between the otherwise PRIVATE human being and the PUBLIC OFFICE which is established by the above method is THE ONLY “partnership” meant in the legal definition of “person” found in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343.

6. Only earnings of otherwise PRIVATE parties VOLUNTARILY connected with the franchise and thereby “donated to a public use” are called “income” and “gross income” and are reportable and taxable. Earnings must be “reportable” before they can be taxable, and 26 U.S.C. §6041(a) says that only earnings connected with the “trade or business” franchise are reportable. Earnings are “trade or business” earnings either DIRECTLY or INDIRECTLY, but both classes are reportable using information returns such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, and 1099:

239 The term “income” is defined as in the Internal Revenue Code as follows:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter J > PART I > Subpart A > § 643
§ 643. Definitions applicable to subparts A, B, C, and D
(b) Income

For purposes of this subpart and subparts B, C, and D, the term “income”, when not preceded by the words “taxable”, “distributable net”, “undistributed net”, or “gross”, means the amount of income of the estate or trust for the taxable year determined under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law. Items of gross income constituting extraordinary dividends or taxable stock dividends which the fiduciary, acting in good faith, determines to be allocable to corpus under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law shall not be considered income.

Do you see a natural being mentioned above? Only trusts and executors for dead people, both of whom are transferees or fiduciaries for “taxpayers”, meaning the government, pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6901 and 26 U.S.C. §6903 respectively. These transferees and fiduciaries are all “public officers” of the government. The office is the “straw man” and you are surety for the office if you fill out tax forms connecting your name to the office or allow others to do so and don’t rebut them.
6.2. Indirectly connected: Earnings originating from the statutory "United States", meaning the GOVERNMENT and not a geographic place as described in 26 U.S.C. §871(a). These earnings are called "effectively connected income" and also qualify as "trade or business" earnings as described in 26 U.S.C. §864(c)(3).

7. The franchise agreement has two classes of participants, all of whom are public offices and are collectively called statutory "persons" or "individuals":

7.1. Full Time Participants: Called statutory "U.S. persons" per 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30), all of whom are instrumentalities and offices within the government and who represent a federal corporation as public officers all the time and in every context. Includes "residents" defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B) and "U.S. citizens" mentioned in 26 U.S.C. §911. A resident is an "alien" representing the United States government full time as a public officer. The "United States" is a corporation per 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A), and those representing said corporation as public officers are "persons" per 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343. Note that statutory "U.S. citizens" (per 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 U.S.C. §3121(e), and 26 C.F.R. §1.11-1(c) are NOT statutory "residents" unless they are abroad and come under a tax treaty with a foreign country per 26 U.S.C. §911.

7.2. Part Time Participants: Participants called “Nonresident alien INDIVIDUALS”. These parties only exercise agency of a public office through certain specific transactions and situations. Only earnings connected with identifying numbers and reported on IRS Information Returns, such as IRS Forms W-2, 1042-S, 1098, and 1099 are taxable. Use of the identifying number is prima facie evidence of participation in the activity per 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(b). Every place in the I.R.C. where obligations are associated with nonresident aliens is always associated with statutory but not common law "individuals". Hence, those who are NOT statutory "individuals" or statutory "persons" are NOT SUBJECT but also not statutorily "EXEMPT". An "exempt" person is someone who is a "person" or "individual" but who has a statutory exclusion for certain purposes. Those NOT SUBJECT are neither "persons" nor "individuals".

8. Those not subject at all to the "trade or business" franchise are called:

8.1. Non-resident NON-persons or NON-individuals.

8.2. Transient foreigners.

8.3. Transients.

8.4. Foreigners.

8.5. Strangers (in the Holy Bible).

8.6. PRIVATE human beings or PRIVATE persons.

An example of a human who is NOT SUBJECT but also not statutorily "EXEMPT" is a human domiciled in a foreign country or state of the Union who is not lawfully engaged in a public office in the U.S. government AND who has no earnings from the U.S. government that could be treated as indirectly connected or "effectively connected" with the "trade or business" franchise within the U.S. government.

9. Why are EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE human beings and artificial entities not subject but also not statutorily "EXEMPT" from the I.R.C. Subtitles A and C franchise? Because:

9.1. The ability to regulate PRIVATE conduct is repugnant to the CONSTITUTION, as held by the U.S. Supreme Court:

"The power to "legislate generally upon" life, liberty, and property, as opposed to the "power to provide modes of redress" against offensive state action, was "repugnant" to the Constitution. Id., at 15. See also United States v. Reese, 92 U.S. 214, 218 (1876); United States v. Harris, 106 U.S. 629, 639 (1883); James v. Bowman, 190 U.S. 127, 139 (1903). Although the specific holdings of these early cases might have been superseded or modified, see, e.g., Heart of Atlanta Motel, Inc. v. United States, 379 U.S. 241 (1964); United States v. Guest, 383 U.S. 745 (1966); their treatment of Congress' §5 power as corrective or preventive, not definitional, has not been questioned." [City of Boerne v. Flores, Archbishop of San Antonio, 521 U.S. 507 (1997)]

9.2. A "citizen" is someone who exercises their First Amendment Constitutional right to associate by

VOLUNTARILY consenting to join a political community. That consent is manifested by:

9.2.1. PHYSICALLY taking up a presence there AND 9.2.2. Expressly consenting to become a LEGAL member of that society by choosing a DOMICILE or RESIDENCE there.

The act of choice manifested as described above makes the otherwise EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE human being into a consenting party to the social compact and associates them with the statutory status of “citizen” or “resident” under the CIVIL statutory laws of the place they associate with.

9.3. The statutory status of “citizen” or “resident” is associated with certain PUBLIC RIGHTS or PRIVILEGES, that cause the associating party to lose SOME of their otherwise EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE character. This conversion of PRIVATE RIGHTS into PUBLIC RIGHTS is described as follows:

> When one becomes a member of society [by choosing a legal DOMICILE within it], he necessarily parts with some rights or privileges which, as an individual not affected by his relations to others, he might retain: "A body politic," as aptly defined in the preamble of the Constitution of Massachusetts, "is a social compact by which the whole people covenants with each citizen, and each citizen with the whole people, that all shall be governed by certain laws for the common good." This does not confer power upon the whole people to control rights which are purely and exclusively private, Thorpe v. R. & B. Railroad Co., 27 Vt. 143; but it does authorize the establishment of laws requiring each citizen to so conduct himself, and so use his own property, as not unnecessarily to injure another. This is the very essence of government, and 125*125 has found expression in the maxim sic utere tuo ut alienum non licias. From this source come the police powers, which, as was said by Mr. Justice T. v. License Cases, 5 How. 583, "are nothing more or less than the powers of government inherent in every sovereignty, ... that is to say, ... the power to govern men and things."
> [Munn v. Illinois, 94 U.S. 113 (1876)]

9.4. The First Amendment protects your right NOT to associate, even in the case of those who are NOT statutory “citizens” or “residents”. Hence, no one can force you to become a “citizen” or “resident” of a specific place within the country of your birth. Only in the case of those born in another country can they force anyone. Those who are in a foreign country other than that of their birth are constitutional aliens, and they can be deported if they don’t get naturalized and do not have permission from the government to be there. Those who are STATUTORY aliens but CONSTITUTIONAL citizens CANNOT be deported or lawfully denied the right to work as EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE human beings.

10. Any so-called “government” that refuses to recognize one’s constitutional right to remain EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE and beyond the CIVIL statutory jurisdiction of a specific government is:

10.1. Accomplishing a purpose OPPOSITE that for which governments are established. All governments, according to the Declaration of Independence, are instituted to protect PRIVATE rights. The FIRST step in protecting PRIVATE rights is for the government so established to PREVENT such PRIVATE rights from being converted to PUBLIC rights/franchises WITHOUT the EXPRESS and CONTINUING consent of the owner of the right. A so-called “government” that refuses to satisfy the MAIN purpose of its creation, the ONLY purpose in fact, is not a government but a terrorist mafia and private corporation that explicitly waives official, judicial, and sovereign immunity and consents to suit as a private party.

> The rights of individuals and the justice due to them, are as dear and precious as those of states. Indeed the latter are founded upon the former; and the great end and object of them must be to secure and support the rights of individuals, or else vain is government."
> [Chisholm v. Georgia, 2 U.S. (2 Dall.) 419, 4 L.Ed. 440 (1793)]

10.2. A de facto government. See:

De Facto Government Scam, Form #05.043
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

10.3. Violating your right to contract. The “social compact” as well as all franchises are contracts. Anyone who forces you to be subject to the civil aspects of either is compelling you to contract and thereby violating your right to contract or NOT contract.

10.4. A “mafia protection racket” and organized crime syndicate, in which illegally enforced franchises imposed against non-consenting parties by corrupt judges are the method of “organizing” the syndicate. A government established mainly to provide “protection” that refuses to protect you from its OWN abuses and criminal acts certainly doesn’t deserve to be hired or to have the authority to protect you against ANYONE ELSE. Why? Because the main purpose of the Constitution is to protect the right to be LEFT ALONE, and a government that refuses to leave you alone unless you pay them bribes and go to work for them for free, is NO GOVERNMENT AT ALL, but a haven for financial terrorists:

Consistent with the above, earlier versions of the Treasury Regulations told the truth plainly on this subject. So plainly, in fact, that they had to be repealed and replaced with something that hid the truth because it was too difficult for the IRS to avoid. Notice that they try to deceptively qualify the parties they are talking about to include foreign corporations or partnerships, but in fact, these are the ONLY “persons” within the I.R.C., as revealed by the definition of “person” in 26 U.S.C. §6671(b) and 26 U.S.C. §7343:

26 C.F.R. §301.7701-5 Domestic, foreign, resident, and nonresident persons.

A domestic corporation is one organized or created in the United States, including only the States (and during the periods when not States, the Territories of Alaska and Hawaii), and the District of Columbia, or under the law of the United States or of any State or Territory. A foreign corporation is one which is not domestic. A domestic corporation is a resident corporation even though it does no business and owns no property in the United States. A foreign corporation engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident foreign corporation, and a foreign corporation not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident foreign corporation. A partnership engaged in trade or business within the United States is referred to in the regulations in this chapter as a resident partnership, and a partnership not engaged in trade or business within the United States, as a nonresident partnership. Whether a partnership is to be regarded as resident or nonresident is not determined by the nationality or residence of its members or by the place in which it was created or organized.

5.6.13.2.4 Who is the “taxpayer” and therefore “nonresident”?

Throughout this document, we proceed upon the following proven facts as the basis for discussion:

1. The statutory “taxpayer” is:
   1.1. A creation of Congress OWNED by Congress. Congress can only tax or regulate what it creates and owns whatever it creates.
   1.2. Not a human being or physical thing.
   1.3. An artificial entity, juristic person, and legal fiction.
   1.4. Defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(14) is a public office in the government and NOT a human being. This office is what is called a “straw man.” See: Why Your Government is Either a Thief or You are a “Public Officer” for Income Tax Purposes, Form #05.008 [http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm]

1.5. Not a “citizen” or “resident” or “person” within the meaning of the Constitution.

"Citizens of the United States within the meaning of this Amendment must be natural and not artificial persons; a corporate body is not a citizen of the United States." 14

14 Insurance Co. v. New Orleans, 13 Fed.Cas. 67 (C.C.D.La. 1870). Not being citizens of the United States, corporations accordingly have been declared unable “to claim the protection of that clause of the Fourteenth Amendment which secures the privileges and immunities of citizens of the United States against abridgment or impairment by the law of a State.” Orient Ins. Co. v. Daggs, 172 U.S. 557, 561 (1899). This conclusion was in harmony with the earlier holding in Paul v. Virginia, 75 U.S. (8 Wall.) 168 (1869), to the effect that corporations were not within the scope of the privileges and immunities clause of state citizenship set out in Article IV, Sec. 2, See also Selover, Bates & Co. v. Walsh, 226 U.S. 112, 126 (1912); Berea College v. Kentucky, 211 U.S. 45 (1908); Liberty Warehouse Co. v. Tobacco Growers, 276 U.S. 71, 89 (1928); Grosjean v. American Press Co., 297 U.S. 233, 244 (1936).

2. The statutory “taxpayer” becomes connected to a specific human being through an act of consent by that human being. That consent is culminated in a LAWFUL election or appointment to public office. At the point of consent and subsequent election or appointment, they become a public officer and surety for the acts of the office they consent to represent.

3. You cannot unilaterally “elect” or “appoint” yourself in to public office by filling out any government form.

4. The statutory “taxpayer” public office and the PUBLIC OFFICER can have two separate and completely different domiciles or residences.

5. A nonresident PUBLIC OFFICER can represent a RESIDENT OFFICE and “taxpayer”. If collection notices are mailed to humans, then these humans are presumed to act essentially as a “resident agent” for the public office they represent.

6. A “nonresident alien individual” and statutory “taxpayer” is described in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(1)(i).

(1) In general. For purposes of the income tax, nonresident alien individuals are divided into the following three classes:

(i) Nonresident alien individuals who at no time during the taxable year are engaged in a trade or business in the United States.

(ii) Nonresident alien individuals who at any time during the taxable year are, or are deemed under §1.871–9 to be, engaged in a trade or business in the United States, and

(iii) Nonresident alien individuals who are bona fide residents of Puerto Rico during the entire taxable year.

7. If a human has not expressly consented to the “taxpayer” status or to represent said “taxpayer” public office, then they are:

7.2. NOT a statutory “person” per 26 U.S.C. §7701(c), and 26 U.S.C. §§6671(b) and 7343.

7.3. NOT a statutory “individual” per 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).

7.4. NOT a statutory “nonresident alien individual” per 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(1).

7.5. Not subject to the jurisdiction of the Internal Revenue Code.

7.6. Not subject to the legislative jurisdiction of Congress if within a Constitutional state of the Union.

7.7. Protected ONLY by the U.S. Constitution, the Bill of Rights, and the common law, all of which may be enforced WITHOUT supporting legislation because they are “self-executing”.

7.8. Criminally impersonating a public office in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912 if they either exercise the functions of a “taxpayer” or have any part of the civil statutory law enforced by the government against them.

8. If a PRIVATE human is compelled to do any of the following, then they are a victim of involuntary servitude, theft, and slavery in violation of the Thirteenth Amendment and are criminally impersonating a public office in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912.

8.1. Compelled to fulfill the duties of a public office, including being compelled to file a tax return.

8.2. Becomes surety for the public office and/or tax collection directed at the office.

8.3. Does not receive compensation that they and not the government determine for fulfilling the duties of the office.

8.4. Is prevented from quitting the office or invalidating evidence that they occupy the office.

8.5. Is compelled to use government PUBLIC property in connection with an otherwise PRIVATE business transaction, such as a Social Security Number, a Taxpayer Identification Number, etc. These numbers function as de facto license numbers to represent a public office. All uses of such property connect PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property and therefore result in a CONVERSION of PRIVATE property to PUBLIC property WITHOUT the consent of the owner.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

9. If the human abandons the public office, the “taxpayer” fiction is legally dead and must go through probate. That is why when the IRS collects the tax, they call it a “1040 tax” on their collection notices, meaning it is described NOT on IRS FORM 1040, but in SECTION 1040 of the Internal Revenue Code. See: How the IRS Traps You Into Liability by Making You a Fiduciary for a Dead “Straw Man”, Family Guardian Fellowship

5.6.13.2.5 Divorcing the “state”: Persons with no domicile, who create their own “state”, or a domicile in the Kingdom of Heaven

If we divorce the society where we were born, do not abandon our nationality and allegiance to the state of our birth, but then choose a domicile in a place other than where we physically live and which is outside of any government that might have jurisdiction in the place where we live, then we become “transient foreigners” and “de facto stateless persons” in relation to the government of the place we occupy.

“Transient foreigner. One who visits the country, without the intention of remaining.”

A “de facto stateless person” is anyone who is not entitled to claim the protection or aid of the government in the place where they live:

Social Security Program Operations Manual System (POMS)
RS 02640.040 Stateless Persons

DE FACTO—Persons who have left the country of which they were nationals and no longer enjoy its protection and assistance. They are usually political refugees. They are legally citizens of a country because its laws do not permit denaturalization or only permit it with the country’s approval.

[...]

2. De Facto Status

Assume an individual is de facto stateless if he/she:

a. says he/she is stateless but cannot establish he/she is de jure stateless; and

b. establishes that:

• he/she has taken up residence [chosen a legal domicile] outside of the country of his/her nationality;

• there has been an event which is hostile to him/her, such as a sudden or radical change in the government, in the country of nationality; and
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

NOTE: In determining whether an event was hostile to the individual, it is sufficient to show the individual had reason to believe it would be hostile to him/her.

• he/she renounces, in a sworn statement, the protection and assistance of the government of the country of which he/she is a national and declares he/she is stateless. The statement must be sworn to before an individual legally authorized to administer oaths and the original statement must be submitted to SSA.

De facto [stateless] status stays in effect only as long as the conditions in b. continue to exist. If, for example, the individual returns [changes their domicile back] to his/her country of nationality, de facto statelessness ends.

Notice the key attribute of a “de facto stateless person” is that they have abandoned the protection of their government because they believe it is hostile to him or her and is not only not protective, but is even injurious. Below is how the Supreme Court describes such persons:

The writers upon the law of nations distinguish between a temporary residence in a foreign country for a special purpose and a residence accompanied with an intention to make it a permanent place of abode. The latter is styled by Vattel [in his book The Law of Nations as] “domicile,” which he defines to be “a habitation fixed in any place, with an intention of always staying there.” Such a person, says this author, becomes a member of the new society at least as a permanent inhabitant, and is a kind of citizen of the inferior order from the native citizens, but is, nevertheless, united and subject to the society, without participating in all its advantages. This right of domicile, he continues, is not established unless the person makes sufficiently known his intention of fixing there, either tacitly or by an express declaration. Vatt. Law Nat, pp. 92, 93. Grotius nowhere uses the word “domicile,” but he also distinguishes between those who stay in a foreign country by the necessity of their affairs, or from any other temporary cause, and those who reside there from a permanent cause. The former he denominates “strangers,” and the latter, “subjects.” The rule is thus laid down by Sir Robert Phillimore:

There is a class of persons which cannot be, strictly speaking, included in either of these denominations of naturalized or native citizens, namely, the class of those who have ceased to reside [maintain a domicile] in their native country, and have taken up a permanent abode in another. These are domiciled inhabitants. They have not put on a new citizenship through some formal mode enjoined by the law or the new country. They are de facto, though not de jure, citizens of the country of their [new chosen] domicile.

[Fong Yue Ting v. United States, 149 U.S. 698 (1893)]

We must remember that in America, the People, and not our public servants, are the Sovereigns. We The People, who are the Sovereigns, choose our associations and govern ourselves through our elected representatives.

‘The words 'people of the United States' and 'citizens,' are synonymous terms, and mean the same thing. They both describe the political body who, according to our republican institutions, form the sovereignty, and who hold the power and conduct the government through their representatives. They are what we familiarly call the 'sovereign people,' and every citizen is one of this people, and a constituent member of this sovereignty, ...”

[Boyd v. State of Nebraska, 143 U.S. 235 (1892)]

When those representatives cease to have our best interests or protection in mind, then we have not only a moral right, but a duty, according to our Declaration of Independence, 1776, to alter our form of self-government by whatever means necessary to guarantee our future security.

“But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object evinces a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security.”

[Declaration of Independence]

The lawful and most peaceful means of altering that form of government is simply to do one of the following:

1. Form our own self-government based on the de jure constitution and change our domicile to it. See:

   Self Government Federation: Articles of Confederation, Form #13.002
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. Choose an existing government or country that is already available elsewhere on the planet as our protector.

3. Choose a domicile in a place that doesn’t have a government. For instance, choose a domicile somewhere you have been in the past that doesn’t have a government. For example, if you have legal evidence that you took a cruise, then choose your domicile in the middle of the ocean somewhere where the ship went.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax 5-1050

4. Use God’s laws as the basis for your own self-government and protection, as suggested in this book.

By doing one of the above, we are “firing” our local servants in government because they are not doing their job of protection adequately, and when we do this, we cease to have any obligation to pay for their services through taxation and they cease to have any obligation to provide any services. If we choose God and His laws as our form of government, then we choose Heaven as our domicile and our place of primary allegiance and protection. We then become:

1. “citizens of Heaven”.
2. “nationals but not citizens” of the country in which we live.
3. Transient foreigners.
4. Ambassadors and ministers of a foreign state called Heaven.

Below is how one early state court described the absolute right to “divorce the state” by choosing a domicile in a place other than where we physically are at the time:

“When a change of government takes place, from a monarchical to a republican government, the old form is dissolved. Those who lived under it, and did not choose to become members of the new, had a right to refuse their allegiance to it, and to retire elsewhere. By being a part of the society subject to the old government, they had not entered into any engagement to become subject to any new form the majority might think proper to adopt. That the majority shall prevail is a rule posterior to the formation of government, and results from it. It is not a rule upon mankind in their natural state. There, every man is independent of all laws, except those prescribed by nature. He is not bound by any institutions formed by his fellowmen without his consent”

[Cruden v. Neale, 2 N.C., 2 S.E. 70 (1796)]

How do we officially and formally notify the “state” that we have made a conscious decision to legally divorce it by moving our domicile outside its jurisdiction? That process is documented in the references below:

2. Sovereignty Forms and Instructions Manual, Form #10.005, Section 4.5.3.13. Same as the above item. Available free at: [http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm]
3. By sending in the Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States. See: Legal Notice of Change in Domicile/Citizenship Records and Divorce from the United States, Form #10.001 [http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm]
4. After accomplishing either of the above items, which are the same, making sure that all future government forms we fill out properly and accurately describe both our domicile and our citizenship status.
5. By making sure that at all times, we use the proper words to describe our status so that we don’t create false presumptions that might cause the government to believe we are “residents” with a domicile in the “United States” (federal territory):

5.1. Do not describe ourselves with the following words:
5.1.1. “individual” as defined in 5 U.S.C. §552(a)(2) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3).
5.1.5. “alien”
5.2. Describe ourselves with the following words and phrases:
5.2.1. “nontaxpayer” not subject to the Internal Revenue Code. See:
5.2.1.2. Your Rights as a “nontaxpayer”, item 5.8 [http://sedm.org/LibertyU/LibertyU.htm]
5.2.2. “nonresident alien” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) IF AND ONLY IF you are engaged in a public office. Otherwise you are a “non-resident non-person” or “transient foreigner”.
5.2.3. The type of “nonresident alien” defined in 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(b)(1)(i) ONLY IF YOU ARE ENGAGED IN A PUBLIC OFFICE. Otherwise, there is no regulation that describes your status.
5.2.4. “national” under 8 U.S.C. §1101(a)(21), but not “citizen” as defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401. This person is also described in 8 U.S.C. §1452, but only in the case of those born within U.S. possessions.
5.2.5. Not engaged in a “trade or business” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).
5.2.6. Have not made any “elections” under 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B), 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) or (h), or 26 C.F.R. §1.871-1(a).

“In order to be a citizen of a State within the meaning of the diversity statute, a natural person must both be a citizen of the United States and be domiciled within the State. See Robertson v. Cease, 97 U.S. 646, 648-649 (1878); Brown v. Keene, 8 Pet. 112, 115 (1834). The problem in this case is that Bettison, although a United States citizen, has no domicile in any State. He is therefore “stateless” for purposes of §1332(a)(3). Subsection 1332(a)(2), which confers jurisdiction in the District Court when a citizen of a State sues aliens only, also could not be satisfied because Bettison is a United States citizen. [490 U.S. 829]”

We emphasize that it isn’t one’s citizenship but one’s choice of legal “domicile” that makes one sovereign and a “nontaxpayer”. The way we describe our citizenship status is affected by and a result of our choice of legal “domicile”, but changing one’s citizenship status is not the nexus for becoming either a “sovereign” or a “nontaxpayer”.

The only legal requirement for changing our domicile is that we must reside on the territory of the sovereign to whom we claim allegiance, and must intend to make membership in the community established by the sovereign permanent. In this context, the Bible reminds us that the Earth was created by and owned by our Sovereign, who is God, and that those vain politicians who claim to “own” or control it are simply “stewards” over what actually belongs to God alone. To wit:

The heavens are Yours [God’s], the earth also is Yours;
The world and all its fulness, You have founded them.
The north and the south, You have created them;
Tabor and Hermon rejoice in Your name.
You have a mighty arm;
Strong is Your hand, and high is Your right hand.”
[Psalm 89:11-13, Bible, NKJV]

“I have made the earth,
And created man on it.
I—My hands—stretched out the heavens,
And all their host I have commanded.”
[Isaiah 45:12, Bible, NKJV]

[Deuteronomy 10:14, Bible, NKJV]

Some misguided Christians will try to quote Jesus, when He said of taxes the following in relation to “domicile”:

“Render therefore to Caesar the things that are Caesar’s, and to God the things that are God’s.”
[Matt. 22:15-22, Bible, NKJV]

However, based on the scriptures above, which identify God as the owner of the Earth and the Heavens, we must ask ourself:

“What is left that belongs to Caesar if EVERYTHING belongs to God?”

The answer is NOTHING, except that which he STEALS from the Sovereign People and which they don’t force him to return. Jesus knew this, but he gave a very indirect answer to keep Himself out of trouble when asked about taxes in the passage above. Therefore, when we elect or consent to change our domicile to the Kingdom of Heaven, we are acknowledging the Truth and the Authority of the Scripture and Holy Law above and the sovereignty of the Lord in the practical affairs of our daily lives. We are acknowledging our stewardship over what ultimately and permanently belongs ONLY to Him, and not to any man. Governments and civilizations come and go, but God’s immutable laws are eternal. To NOT do this as a Christian amounts to mutiny against God. Either we honor the first four commandments of the Ten Commandments by doing this, or we will be dethroned as His Sovereigns and Stewards on earth.

“Because you [Solomon, the wisest man who ever lived] have done this, and have not kept My covenant and My statutes [violated God’s laws], which I have commanded you, I will surely tear the kingdom [and all your sovereigns] away from you and give it to your [public] servant.”
By legally and civilly divorcing the “state” in changing our domicile to the Kingdom of Heaven or to someplace on earth where there is not man-made government, we must consent to be governed exclusively by God’s laws and express our unfailing allegiance to Him as the source of everything we have and everything that we are. In doing so we:

1. Are following God’s mandate not to serve foreign gods, laws, or civil rulers.

“You shall make no covenant [contract or franchise] with them [foreigners, pagans], nor with their [pagan government] gods [laws or judges]. They shall not dwell in your land [and you shall not dwell in theirs by becoming a “resident” or domiciliary in the process of contracting with them], lest they make you sin against Me [God]. For if you serve their [government] gods [under contract or agreement or franchise], it will surely be a snare to you.”

[Exodus 23:32-33; Bible, NKJV]

2. Escape the constraints of earthly civil statutory law. This type of law is law exclusively for government and public officers, so in a sense we are abandoning civil government, any duties under it, and any privileges, public rights, or “benefits” that it conveys based on our civil “status” under it. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

3. Cease to be a statutory “citizen”, “resident”, or “inhabitant”. Instead we become transient foreigners and nonresidents under the civil statutory law.

4. Retain the protections of the Constitution and the common law for our natural rights.

5. Retain the protections of the criminal law. These laws are enforced whether we consent or not.

6. Are not “lawless” or an anarchist in a legal sense, because we are still subject to God’s law, the common law, and the criminal law.

7. Protect and retain our equality, sovereignty, and dignity in relation to every other person under the civil law. The Declaration of Independence calls this our “separate and equal station”.

The above is the nirvana described by the Apostle Paul when he very insightfully said of this process of submission to God the following:

“But if you are led by the Spirit, you are not under the law [man’s law].”

[Gal. 5:18, Bible, NKJV]

The tendency of early Christians to do the above was precisely the reason why the Romans persecuted the Christians when Christianity was in its infancy: It lead to anarchy because Christians, like the Israelites, refused to be governed by anything but God’s laws:

“Then Haman said to King Ahasuerus, “There is a certain people [the Jews, who today are the equivalent of Christians] scattered and dispersed among the people in all the provinces of your kingdom: their laws are different from all other people’s [because they are God’s laws!], and they do not keep the king’s [judicial] laws. Therefore it is not fitting for the king to let them remain. If it pleases the king, let a decree be written that they be destroyed, and I will pay ten thousand talents of silver into the hands of those who do the work, to bring it into the king’s treasuries.”

[Esther 3:8-9; Bible, NKJV]

Christians who are doing and following the will of God are “anarchists”. An anarchist is simply anyone who refuses to have an earthly ruler and who instead insists on either self-government or a theocracy in which God, whichever God you believe in, is our only King, Ruler, Lawgiver and Judge:

Main Entry: anarchy
Function: noun
Etymology: Medieval Latin anarchia, from Greek, from anarchos having no [earthly] ruler.
from an- + archos ruler — more at ARCH
[Source: Merriam Webster Dictionary]

“For the Lord is our Judge, the Lord is our Lawgiver, The Lord is our King; He will save us.”

[Isaiah 33:22, Bible, NKJV]

Christians who are doing the will of God by changing their domicile to Heaven and divorcing the “state” are likely to be persecuted by the government and privileged I.R.C. 501(c)(3) corporate churches just as Jesus was because of their anarchistic tendencies because they render organized government irrelevant and unnecessary:

“If the world hates you, you know that it hated Me before it hated you. If you were of the world, the world would love its own. Yet because you are not of the world, but I chose you out of the world, therefore the world hates you. Remember the word that I said to you, ‘A servant is not greater than his master.’ If they persecuted Me, they will also persecute you, If they kept My word, they will keep yours also. But all these things they will do to you for My name’s sake, because they do not know Him who sent Me. If I had not come and spoken to them, they would have no sin, but now they have no excuse for their sin. He who hates me hates My Father also. If I had not done among them the works which no one else did, they would have no sin; but now they have seen and also hated both Me and My Father. But this happened that the word might be fulfilled which is written in their law, ‘They hated Me without a cause.’”

[John 15:18-25, Bible, NKJV]

Being “chosen out of the world” simply means, in legal terms, that we do not have a domicile here and are “transient foreigners”.

Those who do choose God as their sole source of law and civil (not criminal) government:

1. Become a “foreign government” in respect to the United States government and all other governments.
2. Are committing themselves to the ultimate First Amendment protected religious practice, which is that of adopting God and His sovereign laws as their only form of self-government.
3. Are taking the ultimate step in personal responsibility, by assuming responsibility for every aspect of their lives by divorcing the state and abandoning all government franchises:

   [Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030]

   [http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm]

4. Effectively become their own self-government and fire the government where they live in the context of all civil matters.
6. Are protected by the Minimum Contacts Doctrine and therefore exempt from the jurisdiction of federal and state courts except as they satisfy the provisions of the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act or the “Longarm Statute” passed by the state where they temporarily inhabit.
8. Are on an equal footing with any other nation and may therefore assert sovereign immunity in any proceeding against the government. This implies that:
   8.1. Any attempt to drag you into court by a government must be accompanied by proof that you consented in writing to the jurisdiction of the government attempting to sue you. Such consent becomes the basis for satisfying the criteria within the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act (F.S.I.A.), 28 U.S.C. Part IV, Chapter 97.
   8.2. You may use the same defense as the government in proving a valid contractual obligation, by showing the government the delegation of authority order constraining your delegated authority as God’s “public officer”. Anything another government alleges you consented in writing to must be consistent with the delegation of authority order or else none of the rights accrued to them are defensible in court. In this sense, you are using the same lame excuse they use for getting out of any obligations that you consented to, but were not authorized to engage in by the Holy Bible. This is explained in the document below:

   [Delegation of Authority Order from God to Christians, Form #13.007]

   [http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm]
10. May not simultaneously act as “public officers” for any other foreign government, which would represent a conflict of interest.

   “No one can serve two masters [two employers, for instance]; for either he will hate the one and love the other, or else he will be loyal to the one and despise the other. You cannot serve God and mammon [government].”

   [Matt 6:24, Bible, NKJV. Written by a tax collector]
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

12. May file IRS Form W-EXP as a nonresident alien and exempt all of their earnings from federal and state income taxation.

13. May use IRS Publication 515 to control their withholding as nonresident aliens if engaged in a public office, or must modify all existing forms if not engaged in a public office.

The other very interesting consequences of the above status which makes it especially appealing are the following:

1. Nowhere in the Internal Revenue Code are any of the following terms defined: “foreign”, “foreign government”, “government”. Therefore, it would be impossible for the IRS to prove that you aren’t a “foreign government”.

2. The most important goal of the Constitutional Convention, and the reasons for the adoption of the Ninth and Tenth Amendment to the United States Constitution was to preserve as much self-government to the people and the states as possible. Any attempt to compel anyone to become a “subject” or accept more government than they need therefore violates the legislative intent of the United States Constitution.

   The determination of the Framers Convention and the ratifying conventions to preserve complete and unimpair state self-government in all matters not committed to the general government is one of the plainest facts which emerges from the history of their deliberations. And adherence to that determination is incumbent equally upon the federal government and the states. State powers can neither be appropriated on the one hand nor abdicated on the other. As this court said in Texas v. White, 7 Wall. 700, 725, ‘The preservation of the States, and the maintenance of their governments, are as much within the design and care of the Constitution as the preservation of the Union and the maintenance of the National government. The Constitution, in all its provisions, looks to an indestructible Union, composed of indestructible States.’ Every journey to a forbidden end begins with the first step; and the danger of such a step by the federal government in the direction of taking over the powers of the states is that the end of the journey may find the states so despoiled of their powers, or-what may amount to the same thing-so [298 U.S. 238, 296] relieved of the responsibilities which possession of the powers necessarily entails, as to reduce them to little more than geographical subdivisions of the national domain. It is safe to say that if, when the Constitution was under consideration, it had been thought that any such danger lurked behind its plain words, it would never have been ratified.

   And the Constitution itself is in every real sense a law-the lawmakers being the people themselves, in whom under our system all political power and sovereignty primarily resides, and through whom such power and sovereignty primarily speaks. It is by that law, and not otherwise, that the legislative, executive, and judicial agencies which it created exercise such political authority as they have been permitted to possess. The Constitution speaks for itself in terms so plain that to misinterpret its import is not rationally possible. ‘We the People of the United States,’ it says, ‘do ordain and establish this Constitution.’ Ordain and establish! These are definite words of enactment, and without more would stamp what follows with the dignity and character of law. The framers of the Constitution, however, were not content to let the matter rest here, but provided explicitly: ‘This Constitution, and the Laws of the United States which shall be made in Pursuance thereof; ... shall be the supreme Law of the Land.’ (Const. art. 6, cl. 2.) The supremacy of the Constitution as law is thus declared without qualification. That supremacy is absolute; the supremacy of a statute enacted by Congress is not absolute but conditioned upon its being made in pursuance of the Constitution. And a judicial tribunal, clothed by that instrument with complete judicial power, and, therefore, by the very nature of the power, required to ascertain and apply the law to the fact in every case or proceeding properly brought for adjudication, must apply the supreme law and reject the inferior stat-[298 U.S. 238, 297] ute whenever the two conflict. In the discharge of that duty, the opinion of the lawmakers that a statute passed by them is valid must be given great weight, Adkins v. Children’s Hospital, 261 U.S. 525, 544, 43 S.Ct. 394, 24 A.L.R. 1238; but their opinion, or the court’s opinion, that the statute will prove greatly or generally beneficial is wholly irrelevant to the inquiry. Schechter Poultry Corp. v. United States, 295 U.S. 495, 549, 55 S.Ct. 837, 97 A.L.R. 947. [Carter v. Carter Coal Co., 298 U.S. 238 (1936)]

3. If another government attempts to interfere with the affairs of your own foreign self-government, then they:

   3.1. Are violating your First Amendment right to practice your religion by living under the laws of your God. This tort is cognizable under the Religious Freedom Restoration Act, 42 U.S.C. Chapter 21B and constitutes a tort against the foreign invader.

   3.2. Are hypocrites, because they are depriving others equal right to the same authority that they themselves have. No legitimate government can claim to be operating lawfully which interferes with the equal right of others to self-government.

   3.3. Are in a sense attempting to outlaw the ultimate form of personal responsibility, which is entirely governing your own life and supporting yourself. The outlawing of personal responsibility and replacing or displacing it with collective responsibility of the “state” can never be in the public interest, especially considering how badly our present government mismanages and bankrupts nearly everything it puts its hands on.

5.6.13.2.6 How do “transient foreigners” and “nonresidents” protect themselves in state court?
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

Now that we understand the differences between those who have contracted to be protected, called “citizens”, “residents”, and “inhabitants”, and those who have not, called “transient foreigners” or “nonresidents”, the next issue we must deal with is to determine how those who are “nonresidents” or “transient foreigners” in relation to a specific state government can achieve a remedy for the protection of their rights in state court. It will interest the reader to learn that “transient foreigners” have the same constitutional protections for their rights as citizens or residents. Here is what the U.S. Supreme Court said on this subject. Those who are “transient foreigners” are STATUTORY “non-resident non-persons” in respect to the governments identified in the cite below. The “aliens” they are talking about are foreign nationals born in foreign countries.

“There are literally millions of aliens within the jurisdiction of the United States[*]. The Fifth Amendment, as well as the Fourteenth Amendment, protects every one of these persons from deprivation of life, liberty, or property without due process of law. [Wong Yang Sung v. McGrath, 339 U.S. 33, 48-51, 70 S.Ct. 445, 451-455, 94 L.Ed. 616, 627-629; Wong Wing v. United States, 163 U.S. 228, 238, 16 S.Ct. 977, 981, 41 L.Ed. 140, 143; see Russian Fleet v. United States, 282 U.S. 481, 489, 51 S.Ct. 229, 231, 75 L.Ed. 473, 476, Even one whose presence in this country is unlawful, involuntary, or transitory is entitled to that constitutional protection. Wong Yang Sung, supra; Wong Wing, supra.]

The fact that all persons, aliens and citizens alike, are protected by the Due Process Clause does not lead to the further conclusion that all aliens are entitled to enjoy all the advantages of citizenship or, indeed, to the conclusion that all aliens must be placed in a single homogeneous legal classification. For a host of constitutional and statutory provisions rest on the premise that a legitimate distinction between citizens and aliens may justify attributes and benefits for one class not accorded to the other; 12 and the class of aliens is itself a heterogeneous multitude of persons with a wide-ranging variety of ties to this country.13” [Mathews v. Diaz, 426 U.S. 67 (1975)]

SOURCE:

In order to get to the point where we can identify how remedies for constitutional rights violations are achieved, we must first describe the TWO types of jurisdictions that the state courts exercise, because it is mainly state courts where such rights violations would be vindicated. We don’t have space here to cover all the nuances of this subject, but we will summarize these differences and point you to more information if you want to look into it. There are two types of jurisdictions within each state government:

1. The de jure republic under the Articles of Confederation called the “Republic of ____”. This jurisdiction controls everything that happens on land protected by the Constitution. It protects EXCLUSIVELY PRIVATE property using ONLY the common law and NOT civil law.

2. The federal corporation under the United States Constitution called the “State of ____”. This jurisdiction handles everything that deals with government agency, office, employment, “benefits”, “public rights”, and territory and it’s legislation is limited to those domiciled on federal territory or contracting with either the state or federal governments. Collectively, the subject of legislation aimed at this jurisdiction is the “public domain” or what the courts call “publici juris”.

The differences between the two jurisdictions above are exhaustively described in the following fascinating document:

Corporatization and Privatization of the Government, Form #05.024
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

In the above document, a table is provided comparing the two types of jurisdictions which we repeat here, extracted from section 14.7. Understanding this table is important in determining how we achieve a remedy in a state court for an injury to our constitutional PRIVATE rights.

When we say that we are a “transient foreigner” or “nonresident” within a court pleading or within this document, we must be careful to define WHICH of the two jurisdictions above that status relates to in order to avoid ambiguity and avoid being called “frivolous” by the courts. Within this document and elsewhere, the term “transient foreigner” or “nonresident” relates to the jurisdiction in the right column above but NOT to the column on the left. You can be a “nonresident” of the Corporate state on the right and yet at the same time ALSO be a “citizen” or “resident” of the Republic/De Jure State on the left above. This distinction is critical. If you are at all confused by this distinction, we strongly suggest reading the Corporatization and Privatization of the Government. Form #05.024 document referenced above so that the distinctions are clear.

The Corporate state on the right above enacts statutes that can and do only relate to those who are public entities (called “publici juris”) that are government instrumentalities, employees, officers, and franchisees of the government called “corporations”, all of whom are consensually associated with the government by virtue of exercising their right to contract with the government. Technically speaking, all such statutes are franchises implemented using the civil law. This is explained further in the following:

Government Instituted Slavery Using Franchises, Form #05.030
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

The U.S. Supreme Court has held that the ability to regulate private conduct is repugnant to the Constitution. Consequently, the government cannot enact statutes or law of any kind that would regulate the conduct of private parties. Therefore, nearly all civil statutes passed by any state or municipal government, and especially those relating to licensed activities, can and do only relate to public and not private parties that are all officers of the government and not human beings. This is exhaustively analyzed and proven in the following:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

We will now spend the rest of this section applying these concepts to how one might pursue a remedy for an injury to so-called “right” within a state court by invoking the jurisdiction of the Republic/De Jure state on the left and avoiding the jurisdiction of the Corporate state on the right.

Civil law attaches to one’s voluntary choice of domicile/residence. Criminal law does not. De jure criminal law depends only on physical presence on the territory of the sovereign and the commission of an injurious act against a fellow sovereign on that territory. Laws like the vehicle code do have criminal provisions, but they are not de jure criminal law, but rather civil law that attaches to the domicile/residence of the party within a franchise agreement, which is the “driver license” and all the rights it confers to the government to regulate your actions as a “driver” domiciled in the Corporate state.

Within the forms and publications on this website there are two possible statuses that one may declare as a sovereign:

1. You are a transient foreigner and a citizen of ONLY the Kingdom of Heaven on earth. "My state" in this context means the Holy Bible.
2. You are a state national with a domicile in the Republic/De Jure state but not the Corporate state. "My state" in this context means the de jure state and excludes just about everything passed by the corporate state government, including all franchises such as marriage licenses, income taxes, etc. Franchises cannot lawfully be implemented in the De Jure State but can only occur in the Corporate State. The reason why franchises cannot lawfully be implemented in the De Jure State is because rights are “unalienable” in the De Jure State, which means you aren’t allowed to contract them away to a real, de jure government.

Both of the above statuses have in common that those who declare themselves to be either cannot invoke the statutory law of the Corporate State, but must invoke only the common law and the Constitution in their defense. There is tons of reference material on the common law in the following:

Sovereignty and Freedom: Section 7, Self Government, Family Guardian Fellowship
http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Freedom/Freedom.htm

The following book even has sample pleadings for the main common law actions:
Transient foreigners may not have a domicile or be subject to the civil laws in relation only to the place they have that status, but they don’t need the civil laws to be protected. The Constitution attaches to the land, and not the status of the persons on that land.

“It is locality that is determinative of the application of the Constitution, in such matters as judicial procedure, and not the status of the people who live in it.”

[Balzac v. Porto Rico, 258 U.S. 298 (1922)]

The Constitution and the common law are the only thing one needs to protect oneself as a PRIVATE and not PUBLIC entity.

Those who are believers AND transient foreigners but not “citizens”, “residents” or “inhabitants” of either the Republic/De Jure State or the Corporate State DO in fact STILL have a state, which is the Kingdom of Heaven on Earth. That state has all the elements necessary to be legitimate: territory, people, and laws. The territory is the Earth, which the Bible says belongs to the Lord and not Caesar. It has people, which are your fellow believers. The laws are itemized in the Holy Bible and enumerated below:

Laws of the Bible, Form #13.001
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

In conclusion, those who are “transient foreigners” or “Nonresidents” in relation to the Corporate state can use the state court for protection, but they must:

1. Be careful to define which of the two possible jurisdictions they are operating within using the documents referenced in this section.
2. Avoid federal court. All federal circuit and district courts are Article IV territorial courts in the executive and not judicial branch of the government that may only officiate over franchises. They are not Article III constitutional courts that may deal with rights protected by the constitution. This is exhaustively proven with thousands of pages of evidence in:
   - What Happened to Justice?, Form #06.012
3. Properly declare their status consistent with this document in their complaint. See the following forms as an example how to do this:
   3.1. Affidavit of Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status, Form #02.001

   - Citizenship, Domicile, and Tax Status Options, Form #10.003
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
5. Invoke the common law and not statutory law to be protected.
6. Be careful to educate the judge and the jury to prevent common injurious presumptions that would undermine their status. See:
   - Presumption: Chief Weapon for Unlawfully Enlarging Federal Jurisdiction, Form #05.017
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
7. Follow the rules of pleading and practice for the common law.
8. Ensure that those who sit on the jury have the same status as them by ensuring that those who are statutory “U.S. citizens” or franchise participants are excluded as having a financial conflict of interest.
5.6.13.2.7 Serving civil legal process on nonresidents is the crime of “simulating legal process”

Some freedom lovers try to form their own private courts or grand juries to try or indict offenses against their rights by actors within the de facto government. Such private courts are sometimes called:

2. Ecclesiastical courts in the case of churches.
3. Franchise courts for the regulation of specific activities such as “driving”. This would include family courts, traffic courts, and social security administrative courts.

Those who convene such courts must be careful how they describe their activities to those outside the group, or the ecclesiastical courts may not use the words “complaint”, “judgment”, “summons” when issuing documents to parties OUTSIDE the group of people who expressly consented to their jurisdiction. In other words, those who are not in the group or who are not “citizens” within whatever community they have formed, may not receive documents that are connected with any existing state or municipal court or which could be confused with such courts.

Below is a definition of “simulating legal process”:

“A person commits the offense of simulating legal process if he or she “recklessly causes to be delivered to another any document that simulates a summons, complaint, judgment, or other court process with the intent to...”

[Texas Penal Code Annotated, § 32.48(a)(2)]

Therefore, those forming common law courts or ecclesiastical courts may not use the words “complaint”, “judgment”, “summons” when issuing documents to parties OUTSIDE the group of people who expressly consented to their jurisdiction.

In other words, those who are not in the group or who are not “citizens” within whatever community they have formed, may not receive documents that are connected with any existing state or municipal court or which could be confused with such courts.

Below is one ruling by a Texas court relating to a “simulating legal process” charge against an ecclesiastical court:

Free Exercise of Religion

Government action may burden the free exercise of religion, in violation of the First Amendment, in two quite different ways: by interfering with a believer’s ability to observe the commands or practices of his faith and by encroaching on the ability of a church to manage its internal affairs. Westbrook v. Penley, 231 S.W.3d 389, 395 (Tex. 2007). In appellant’s pro se motions, he refers to the “exercise of one’s faith.” More specifically, he raised the issue of ecclesiastical abstention in the trial court and cites to cases concerning this doctrine on appeal.

His arguments are directed at the trial court’s jurisdiction over this matter, not the constitutionality of section 32.48. So, it appears the judiciary’s exercise of jurisdiction over the matter, rather than the Legislature’s enactment of section 32.48, is the target of his challenge. We, then, will address that aspect of the constitutional issue he now presents on appeal; we will determine whether the trial court’s exercise of jurisdiction violated appellant’s right to free exercise of religion by encroaching on the ability of his church to manage its internal affairs.

The record shows that Coleman, to whom the “Abatement” was delivered, was not a member of appellant’s church. That being so, the church’s position on the custody matter is not a purely ecclesiastical matter over which the trial court should have abstained from exercising its jurisdiction. This is not an internal affairs issue because the record conclusively establishes that the recipient is not a member of the church. The ecclesiastical abstention doctrine does not operate to prevent the trial court from exercising its jurisdiction over this matter. We overrule appellant’s final issue.
Therefore, if you form a common law or ecclesiastical court you should be careful to:

1. Draft a good membership or citizenship agreement.
2. Require all members to sign the membership or citizenship agreement.
3. Keep careful records that are safe from tampering.
4. NOT serve “legal process” of any kind against those who are NOT consenting members or citizens.

We take the same position in protecting OUR members from secular courts as the secular courts take toward private courts.

The First Amendment requires that you have a right to either NOT associate or to associate with any group you choose INCLUDING, but not limited to the “state” having general jurisdiction where you live. That means you have a RIGHT to NOT be:

1. A “citizen” or “resident” in the area where you physically are.
2. A “driver” under the vehicle code.
3. A “spouse” under the family code.
4. A “taxpayer” under the tax code.

The dividing line between who are “members” and who are NOT members is who has a domicile in that specific jurisdiction.

We allege that secular franchise courts such as tax court, traffic court, family court, social security administrative court, and even civil court in your area are equally culpable for the SAME crime of “simulating legal process” if they serve legal process upon anyone who is NOT a “member” of their “state” and who has notified them of that fact. As such, any at least CIVIL process served upon them by secular courts of the de facto government is ALSO a criminal simulation of legal process because instituted against non-consenting parties who are non-residents and “non-members”, just as in the above case.

Membership has to be consensual.

The record shows that Coleman, to whom the “Abatement” was delivered, was not a member of appellant’s church. That being so, the church’s position on the custody matter is not a purely ecclesiastical matter over which the trial court should have abstained from exercising its jurisdiction. This is not an internal affairs issue because the record conclusively establishes that the recipient is not a member of the church. The ecclesiastical abstention doctrine does not operate to prevent the trial court from exercising its jurisdiction over this matter. We overrule appellant’s final issue.

We also argue that just like the above ruling, the secular government in fact and in deed is ALSO a church, as described in the following exhaustive proof of that fact:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

In support of the above, Black’s Law Dictionary defines “franchise courts” such as traffic court and family court as PRIVATE courts:

“franchise court. Hist. A privately held court that (usu.) exists by virtue of a royal grant [privilege], with jurisdiction over a variety of matters, depending on the grant and whatever powers the court acquires over time. In 1274, Edward I abolished many of these feudal courts by forcing the nobility to demonstrate by what authority (quo warranto) they held court. If a lord could not produce a charter reflecting the franchise, the court was abolished. - Also termed courts of the franchise.

Dispensing justice was profitable. Much revenue could come from the fees and dues, fines and amencements. This explains the growth of the second class of feudal courts, the Franchise Courts. They too were private courts held by feudal lords. Sometimes their claim to jurisdiction was based on old pre-Conquest grants ... But many of them were, in reality, only wrongful usurpations of private jurisdiction by powerful lords. These were put down after the famous Quo Warranto enquiry in the reign of Edward I.,” W.J.V. Windeyer, Lectures on Legal History 56-57 (2d ed. 1949).

As a BARE minimum, we think that if you get summoned into any franchise court for violations of the franchise, such as tax court, traffic court, and family court, then the government as moving party who summoned you should at LEAST have the burden of proving that you EXPRESSLY CONSENTED in writing to become a “member” of the group that created the court, such as “taxpayer”, “driver”, “spouse”, etc. and that if they CANNOT satisfy that burden of proof, then:

1. All charges should be dismissed.
2. The franchise judge and government prosecutor should BOTH be indicted and civilly sued for simulating legal process under the common law and not statutory civil law.

5.6.13.2.8 Expatriation unnecessary (AND HARMFUL!) in the case of state nationals in order to be a “non-resident non-person”

A number of freedom advocates endorse or promote expatriation in order to allegedly regain their sovereignty. We think expatriation to restore sovereignty is a BAD idea that actually accomplishes the OPPOSITE effect. We don’t recommend expatriation because:

1. You can only do it at a Department of State facility abroad and not in states of the Union.
2. If you do it, you have no right to return to the United States THE COUNTRY and can arbitrarily be denied access to see relatives and friends.
3. If you don’t have citizenship in ANOTHER country BEFORE you expatriate, you will be “stateless” and without civil status, rights, or privileges in ANY COUNTRY. The ultimate form of homelessness!
4. You won’t be eligible for a USA passport AFTER you do it.
5. You will need to take on an even more prejudicial status in order to return to the USA and stay there. That status is “permanent resident”, and they are privileged and NOT free.

“Residents, as distinguished from citizens, are aliens who are permitted to take up a permanent abode in the country. Being bound to the society by reason of their [intention of] dwelling in it, they are subject to its laws so long as they remain there, and, being protected by it, they must defend it, although they do not enjoy all the rights of citizenship. They have only certain privileges which the law, or custom, gives them. Permanent residents are those who have been given the right of perpetual residence. They are a sort of citizen of a less privileged character, and are subject to the society without enjoying all its advantages. Their children succeed to their status; for the right of perpetual residence given them by the State passes to their children.”

BAD IDEA!

The non-resident non-person position documented in the memorandum of law does not require expatriation in the case of those born within and located in a constitutional state of the Union. As we will point out repeatedly, DOMICILE on federal territory is the method of acquiring a civil status under the laws of the national Congress. Those domiciled in a state of the Union do not have such a domicile and therefore, cannot be anything but statutory “non-resident non-persons”. We cover this subject extensively in our memorandum on domicile:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Note that changing your domicile from federal territory to a constitutional state of the Union:

1. Is NOT an act of “expatriation” as legally defined.
2. Does NOT change your “nationality”.
3. Is an act of political and legal DISASSOCIATION protected by the First Amendment.
4. If interfered with, accomplishes the equivalent of eminent domain and an unconstitutional taking of property without the consent of the owner in violation of the Fifth Amendment takings clause.

To introduce the subject, below is the statutory definition of “expatriation”:

TITLE 8 > CHAPTER 12 > SUBCHAPTER III > Part III > § 1481
§ 1481, Loss of nationality by native-born or naturalized citizen; voluntary action; burden of proof; presumptions
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

(a) A person who is a national of the United States[*] whether by birth or naturalization, shall lose his nationality by voluntarily performing any of the following acts with the intention of relinquishing United States nationality—

You can’t abandon your “nationality” unless you had it in the first place. If the Department of State will allow you to expatriate as a state national, then you must be a “national” or a “state national” to begin with! They don’t like talking about this, but you can be a “national” in an ordinary or constitutional sense WITHOUT being a “citizen” in the statutory sense under the laws of Congress.

Those who are born in a constitutional state of the Union and present in a constitutional state are what we call “state nationals”.

Below is at STATUTORY definition of “national”:

8 U.S.C. §1101: Definitions

(a)(21) The term “national” means a person owing permanent allegiance to a state.

Note based on the above definition of “national”:

1. Since there are THREE geographical definitions of “United States” according to the U.S. Supreme Court, then there are THREE types of “nationals” and “citizens” within each geography. Hooven and Allison v. Evatt, 324 U.S. 652 (1945).
2. The term “state” above can mean a state of the Union or it can mean a confederation of states called the “United States” or “United States OF AMERICA” in the case of what we call a “state national”. Either of these two groups would be “non-resident non-persons” as described in this memorandum of law.
3. You can be a “national of the United States OF AMERICA” or “national of the United States” without being a statutory “national” under any act of Congress.

The reason “state” is in lower case in the above statutory definition is because it refers in most cases to a legislatively foreign state, and all states of the Union are foreign with respect to the federal government for the purposes of legislative (but not CONSTITUTIONAL) jurisdiction for nearly all subject matters. All upper case “States” in federal law refer to territories or possessions owned by the federal government under 4 U.S.C. §110(d):

“Foreign States: Nations outside of the United States...Term may also refer to another state; i.e. a sister state. The term ‘foreign nations’, ...should be construed to mean all nations and states other than that in which the action is brought; and hence, one state of the Union is foreign to another, in that sense.” [Black’s Law Dictionary, Sixth Edition, p. 648]

Sneaky, huh? You’ll never hear especially a federal lawyer agree with you on this because it destroys their jurisdiction to impose an income tax on you, but it’s true!

WARNING: We are NOT suggesting that you SHOULD expatriate, but using the process to illustrate that it is completely consistent with our research. In order to move oneself outside of federal legislative jurisdiction, a human being born in a state of the Union and outside the federal United States (a “national” of the USA) would want to ONLY move his domicile outside of the federal zone (assuming that they were domiciled in the federal zone to begin with) AND NOT expatriate his nationality. Likewise, a “National and citizen of the United States at birth” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401 would also want to move their domicile outside of the federal zone.

The nuances of citizenship are beyond the scope of this already too long document. If you would like to study the subject further, we recommend the following:

5.6.13.3 Criminal Identity Theft: How “Non-resident Non-Person Nontaxpayers” are deceived or compelled into becoming “Taxpayers” or “Residents” of federal territory

5.6.13.3.1 Introduction

In order to reach nonresident parties or enforce civil law against them, any government must satisfy the criteria documented in the following:

2. The Longarm Statutes of a specific state, in the case of state governments. These statutes may be found in: SEDM Jurisdictions Database Online, Litigation Tool #09.004
4. Requirement for Consent, Form #05.003, Section 8.3
   FORMS PAGE: http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

The only way the above criteria can be satisfied is by one of the following means:

1. Describing themselves as a statutory “individual”, “person”, “resident”, or “taxpayer” on a government form. Such forms are usually required by the business associates of people doing business with the nonresident, such as tax withholding documents.
2. Having a usually false information return filed against them connecting them to “trade or business” franchise earnings.

The following subsections will show how the above two criteria are satisfied in order that the federal or state governments can reach nonresident parties such as nonresident aliens. Most of the methods documents involve some kind of fraud or crime, and you must understand these mechanisms before you can successfully prevent and prosecute them as injuries in a court of law.

All of the techniques documented in this section effect the crime of identity theft. If you want an extremely detailed coverage of all the ways the corrupt government accomplishes identity theft in order to compel you into a commercial or contractual relationship with them, see: Government Identity Theft, Form #05.046

5.6.13.3.2 Rigging Government Forms

5.6.13.3.2.1 Rigging forms generally go kidnap your legal identity and transport it to the “District of Criminals”

The government’s main tool for compelling you to surrender your non-resident non-person status is through rigging their forms. Below are general resources for identifying how they rig their maliciously deceptive forms and how to prevent being victimized by it:

1. Avoiding Traps in Government Forms, Form #12.023

2. SEDM Forms Page, Section 1.6: Avoiding Government Franchises-Forms you can attach to various types of government forms to prevent becoming enfranchised
   http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
3. Your Rights as a “Nontaxpayer”, IRS Publication 1a, Form #08.008- demonstrates how the term “taxpayers” is habitually and maliciously misused so as to appear to apply to EVERYONE, when in fact it only applies to public officers or agents of the government

5.6.13.2.2 Jurat/Perjury statement on IRS Forms

Signing a perjury statement not only constitutes the taking of an oath, but also constitutes the conveying of consent to be held accountable for the accuracy of what appears on the form. It therefore constitutes an act of contracting that conveys consent and rights to the government to hold you accountable for the accuracy of what is on the form. Governments are created to protect your right to contract and the Constitution forbids them from interfering with or impairing the exercise of that inalienable right. Governments are created to ensure that every occasion you give consent or contract is not coerced.

"Independent of these views, there are many considerations which lead to the conclusion that the power to impair contracts, by direct action to that end, does not exist with the general [federal] government. In the first place, one of the objects of the Constitution, expressed in its preamble, was the establishment of justice, and what that meant in its relations to contracts is not left, as was justly said by the late Chief Justice, in Hepburn v. Griswold, to inference or conjecture. As he observes, at the time the Constitution was undergoing discussion in the convention, the Congress of the Confederation was engaged in framing the ordinance for the government of the Northwestern Territory, in which certain articles of compact were established between the people of the original States and the people of the Territory, for the purpose, as expressed in the instrument, of extending the fundamental principles of civil and religious liberty, upon which the States, their laws and constitutions, were erected. By that ordinance it was declared, that, in the just preservation of rights and property, 'no law ought ever to be made, or have force in the said Territory, that shall, in any manner, interfere with or affect private contracts or engagements bona fide and without fraud formerly presented.' The same provision, adds the Chief Justice, found more condensed expression in the prohibition upon the States [in Article I, Section 10 of the Constitution] against impairing the obligation of contracts, which has ever been recognized as an efficient safeguard against injustice; and though the prohibition is not applied in terms to the government of the United States, he expressed the opinion, speaking for himself and the majority of the court at the time, that it was clear that those who framed and those who adopted the Constitution intended that the spirit of this prohibition should pervade the entire body of legislation, and that the justice which the Constitution was ordained to establish was not thought by them to be compatible with legislation [or judicial precedent] of an opposite tendency," 8 Wall. 623. [99 U.S. 700, 765] Similar views are found expressed in the opinions of other judges of this court.

[Sinking Fund Cases, 99 U.S. 700 (1878)]

The presence of coercion, penalties, or duress of any kind in the process of giving consent renders the contract unenforceable and void.

"An agreement [consensual contract] obtained by duress, coercion, or intimidation is invalid, since the party coerced is not exercising his free will, and the test is not so much the means by which the party is compelled to execute the agreement as the state of mind induced. 242 Duress, like fraud, rarely becomes material, except where a contract or conveyance has been made which the maker wishes to avoid. As a general rule, duress renders the contract or conveyance voidable, not void, at the option of the person coerced. 243 and it is susceptible of ratification where it is valid until it is avoided by the person entitled to avoid it. 244 However, duress in the form of physical compulsion, in which a party is caused to appear to assent when he has no intention of doing so, is generally deemed to render the resulting purported contract void. 245"

[American Jurisprudence 2d, Duress, §21 (1999)]

Any instance where you are required to give consent cannot be coerced or subject to penalty and must therefore be voluntary. Any penalty or threat of penalty in specifying the terms under which you provide your consent is an interference or impairment with your right to contract. This sort of unlawful interference with your right to contract happens all the time when the IRS illegally penalizes people for specifying the terms under which they consent to be held accountable on a tax form.

The perjury statement found at the end of nearly every IRS Form is based on the content of 28 U.S.C. §1746:

242 Brown v. Pierce, 74 U.S. 205, 7 Wall. 205, 19 L.Ed. 134
243 Barnette v. Wells Fargo Nevada Nat’l Bank, 270 U.S. 438, 70 L.Ed. 669, 46 S.Ct. 326 (holding that acts induced by duress which operate solely on the mind, and fall short of actual physical compulsion, are not void, but are voidable only, at the election of him whose acts were induced by it); Fiske v. Gershman, 30 Misc.2d. 442, 215 N.Y.S.2d 144; Glenney v. Crane (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)), 352 S.W.2d. 773, writ ref n r e (May 16, 1962); Carroll v. Fettv, 121 W Va. 215, 2 S.E.2d. 521, cert den 308 U.S. 571, 84 L.Ed. 479, 60 S.Ct. 85.
244 Fiske v. Gershman, 30 Misc. 2d. 442, 215 N.Y.S.2d 144; Heider v. Unicume, 142 Or. 416, 20 P.2d. 384; Glenney v. Crane (Tex Civ App Houston (1st Dist)), 352 S.W.2d. 773, writ ref n r e (May 16, 1962).
245 Restatement 2d, Contracts § 174, stating that if conduct that appears to be a manifestation of assent by a party who does not intend to engage in that conduct is physically compelled by duress, the conduct is not effective as a manifestation of assent.

TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. You are a “taxpayer”. Notice it uses the words “(other than taxpayer)”. The implication is that you can’t use any standard IRS Form WITHOUT being a “nontaxpayer”. As a consequence, signing any standard IRS Form makes you a “taxpayer” and a “resident alien”. See: Who are “Taxpayers” and Who Needs a “Taxpayer Identification Number”? Form #05.013 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. The perjury statement indicated in 28 U.S.C. §1746(2) is assumed and established, which means that you are creating a presumption that you maintain a domicile on federal territory.

Those who want to avoid committing perjury under penalty of perjury by correcting the IRS form to reflect the fact that they are not a “taxpayer” and are not within the “United States” face an even bigger hurdle. If they try to modify the perjury statement to conform with 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), frequently the IRS or government entity receiving the form will try to penalize them for modifying the form. The penalty is usually $500 for modifying the jurat. This leaves them with the unpleasant prospect of choosing the lesser of the following two evils:

1. Committing perjury under penalty of perjury by misrepresenting themselves as a resident of the federal zone and destroying their sovereignty immunity in the process pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1603(b).
2. Changing the jurat statement, being the object of a $500 penalty, and then risking having them reject the form.

How do we work around the above perjury statement at the end of most IRS Forms in order to avoid either becoming a “resident” of the federal “United States” or a presumed “taxpayer”? Below are a few examples of how to do this:

1. You can write a statement above the signature stating “signature not valid without the attached signed STATEMENT and all enclosures” and then on the attachment, redefine the ENTIRE perjury statement:

“The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

"Under penalties of perjury from without the “United States” pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1746(1), I declare that I have examined this return and accompanying schedules and statements, and to the best of my knowledge and belief, they are true, correct, and complete. I declare that I am a ‘nontaxpayer’ not subject to the Internal Revenue Code, not domiciled in the ‘United States’, and not participating in a ‘trade or business’ and that it is a Constitutional tort to enforce the I.R.C. against me. I also declare that any attempt to use the content of this form to enforce any provision of the I.R.C. against me shall render everything on this form as religious and political statements and beliefs rather than facts which are not admissible as evidence pursuant to Fed.Rul.Ev. 610.

If you attempt to penalize me, you will be penalizing a person for refusing to commit perjury and will become an accessory to a conspiracy to commit perjury."

2. You can write a statement above the signature stating “signature not valid without the attached signed STATEMENT and all enclosures” and then attach the following form:

Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201

3. You can make your own form or tax return and use whatever you want on the form. They can only penalize persons who use THEIR forms. If you make your own form, you can penalize THEM for misusing YOUR forms or the information on those forms. This is the approach taken by the following form. Pay particular attention to section 1 of the form:

Federal Nonresident Nonstatutory Claim for Return of Funds Unlawfully Paid to the Government-Long, Form #15.001
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

5.6.13.2.3 Not offering an option on the W-8BEN form to accurately describe the status of state nationals who are “nonresidents” but not “individuals”

“The foregoing considerations would lead, in case of doubt, to a construction of any statute as intended to be confined in its operation and effect to the territorial limits over which the lawmaker has general and legitimate power. ‘All legislation is prima facie territorial.’ Ex parte Blain, L. R. 12 Ch.Div. 522, 528; State v. Carter, 27 N.J.L. 499; People v. Merrill, 2 Park.Crim.Rep. 590, 596. Words having universal scope, such as ‘every contract in restraint of trade,’ ‘every person who shall monopolize,’ etc., will be taken, as a matter of course, to mean only everyone subject to such legislation [e.g. “individuals” with a domicile on federal territory who are therefore subject to the civil laws of Congress], not all that the legislature subsequently may be able to catch. In the case of the present statute, the improbability of the United States attempting to make acts done in Panama or Costa Rica criminal is obvious, yet the law begins by making criminal the acts for which it gives a right to sue. We think it entirely plain that what the defendant did in Panama or Costa Rica is not within the scope of the statute so far as the present suit is concerned. Other objections of a serious nature are urged, but need not be discussed.” [American Banana Co. v. U.S. Fruit, 213 U.S. 347 at 357-358]

The term "individual" is provided in Block 3 of the Standard IRS Form W-8BEN. Like the "beneficial owner" scam above, it too has a malicious intent/aspect:

1. Like the term "beneficial owner", it is associated with statutory creations of Congress engaged in federal privileges, "public rights", and "public offices." The only way you can be subject to the code is to engage in a franchise. Those who are not privileged cannot refer to themselves as anything described in any government statute, which is reserved only for government officers, agencies, and instrumentalities and not private persons. See:

Why Statutory Civil Law is Law for Government and Not Private Persons, Form #05.037
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

2. The term "individual" appears in 26 C.F.R. §1.6012-1(b), where "nonresident alien individuals" are made liable to file tax returns. However, those who are NOT STATUTORY "individuals" are neither "nonresident aliens" nor "persons" under the Internal Revenue Code and are nowhere mentioned as having any duty to do anything. We call these people "non-resident non-persons". You can be an “individual” in an ORDINARY sense WITHOUT being a STATUTORY "individual" because all STATUTORY individuals are public officers or agents of the government as we prove in Form #05.037. Consequently, YOU DON'T WANT TO DESCRIBE YOURSELF AS AN "INDIVIDUAL" BECAUSE THEN THEY CAN PROSECUTE YOU FOR FAILURE TO FILE A RETURN! Some ways you can create a usually false presumption that you are an "individual" include:

2.1. Filing IRS Form 1040, which says "U.S. INDIVIDUAL Income Tax Return" in the upper left corner.

2.2. Applying for a "INDIVIDUAL Taxpayer Identification Number" (ITIN) using IRS Forms W-7 or W-9. Only "aliens" can lawfully apply for such a number pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §301.6109-1(d)(3). If you were born in a state of the Union or on federal territory, you AREN'T an "alien". See:

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO)
Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship
http://famguardian.org/
2.3. Filling out the IRS Form W-8BEN and checking the box for "individual" in block 3.

2.4. Filling out any other government form and identifying yourself as an "Individual". If they don't have "Union state Citizen" or "transient foreigner" as an option, then ADD IT and CHECK IT!

Our Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201, prevents the presumption from being created that you are an "individual" with any form you submit, even using standard IRS forms, by redefining the word "individual" so that it doesn't refer to the same word as used in any federal law, but instead refers ONLY to the common and NOT the legal definition. This, in effect, prevents what the courts call "compelled association". That is why our Member Agreement, Form #01.001 specifies that you MUST attach the Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201 to any standard tax form you are compelled to submit: To protect you from being prosecuted for tax crimes under the I.R.C. by preventing you from being connected to any federal franchise or obligation.

3. The term "individual", like that of "beneficial owner", is nowhere defined anywhere in the Internal Revenue Code and it is EXTREMELY dangerous to describe yourself as anything that isn't defined statutorily, because you just invite people to make prejudicial presumptions about your status. The term "individual" is only defined in the treasury regulations. The definition in the regulations is found at 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1 (c)(3)(i):

26 C.F.R. 1.1441-1 Requirement for the deduction and withholding of tax on payments to foreign persons.

(c) Definitions

(3) Individual.

(i) Alien individual.

The term alien individual means an individual who is not a citizen or a national of the United States. See Sec. 1.1-1(c).

(ii) [Reserved]

Do you see statutory "U.S. citizens" (which are defined under 8 U.S.C. §1401) mentioned above under the definition of "individual" in 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3)? They aren't there, which means the only way they can become "taxpayers" is to visit a foreign country and become an "alien" under the terms of a tax treaty with a foreign country under the provisions of 26 U.S.C. §911. When they do this, they attach IRS Form 2555 to the IRS Form 1040 that they file. Remember: The 1040 form is for "U.S. persons", which includes statutory "U.S. citizens" and "residents", both of whom have a domicile on federal territory, which is what the term "United States" is defines as in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d).

In fact, the only place that the term "individual" is statutorily defined that we have found is in 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(2), which means:

TITLE 5 - GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATION AND EMPLOYEES
PART 1 > CHAPTER 5 > SUBCHAPTER II > § 552a

§ 552a. Records maintained on individuals

(a) Definitions.—For purposes of this section—

(2) the term "individual" means a citizen of the United States or an alien lawfully admitted for permanent residence;

The above statute is the Privacy Act, which regulates IRS use and protection of your tax information. Notice that:

1. "nonresident aliens" don't appear there and therefore are implicitly excluded. This is a result of a legal maxim called “Expressio unius est exclusio alterius”.

2. The "individual" they are referring to must meet the definitions found in BOTH 5 U.S.C. §552a(a)(2) and 26 C.F.R. §1.1441-1(c)(3) because the Privacy Act is also the authority for protecting tax records, which means he or she or it can ONLY be a "resident", meaning an alien with a domicile on federal territory called the “United States”. Therefore, those who claim to be "individuals" indirectly are making a usually invisible election to be treated as a "resident", which is an alien with a domicile in “United States” federal territory. Nonresident aliens are nowhere mentioned in the Privacy Act.
3. The code section is under Title 5 of the U.S. Code, which is called "GOVERNMENT ORGANIZATION AND EMPLOYEES". They are treating you as part of the government, even though you aren't. The reason is that unless you have a domicile on federal territory (which is what United States is defined as under I.R.C. Subtitle A in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d)) or have income connected with a "trade or business", which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as "the functions of a public office", you can't be a "taxpayer" without at least volunteering by submitting an IRS form W-4, which effectively amounts to an "election" to become a "public officer" and a "Kelly Girl" on loan to your private employer from Uncle Sam.

What the IRS Form W-8BEN is doing is fooling you into admitting that you are an "individual" as defined above, which means that you just made an election or choice to become a "resident alien" instead of a "nonresident alien". They don't have any lawful authority to maintain records on "nonresident aliens" under the Privacy Act, so you have to become a "resident" by filling out one of their forms and lying about your status by calling yourself a statutory "individual" and therefore public officer. This effectively conveys your consent and permission to become and be treated as a public officer in the national government, even if you are not aware you are doing so. We call this devious process "invisible consent". Instead, what you really are is a "transient foreigner"

"Transient foreigner. One who visits the country, without the intention of remaining."

Our Amended IRS Form W-8BEN solves this problem by adding an additional option indicating "Union State Citizen" under Block 3 of the form and by putting the phrase ")public officer" after the word "individual". As an alternative, you could make your own Substitute form as authorized by IRS Form W-8 Instructions for Requester of Forms W-8BEN, W-8ECI, W-8EXP and W-8IMF, Catalog 26698G and add an option for Block 3 called "transient foreigner". Either way, you have deprived the IRS of the ability to keep records about you because you do not fit the definition of "individual", as required by the Privacy Act above. If you don't want to be subject to the code, you can't be submitting government paperwork and signing it under penalty of perjury that indicates that you fit the description of anyone or anything that they have jurisdiction over.

5.6.13.3.2.4 Excluding “Not subject” from Government Forms and offering only “Exempt”

Another devious technique frequently used on government forms to trick “nonresident aliens” into making an unwitting election to become “resident aliens” is:

1. Omit the “not subject” option.
2. Present the “exempt” option as the only method for avoiding the liability described.
3. Do one of the following:
   3.1. Statutorily define the term “exempt” to exclude persons who are “not subject”.
   3.2. PRESUME that the word “exempt” excludes persons who are “not subject” and hope you don’t challenge the presumption.

This form of abuse exploits the common false presumption among most Americans, which is the following:

1. That the ONLY options available are STATUTORY. The CONSTITUTION does not provide a way to make one’s earnings CONSTITUTIONALLY exempt but not STATUTORILY exempt.

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
2. Government form presents ALL of the lawful options available to avoid the liability described. In fact, government is famous for limiting options in order to advantage or benefit them. In fact, they only present the STATUTORY options, but deliberately omit CONSTITUTIONAL options and argue that there are not CONSTITUTIONAL options.

In effect, they are constraining your options to compel you to select the lesser of evils and remove the ability to avoid all evil. This devious technique is also called an “adhesion contract”. In summary, they are violating the First Amendment by instituting compelled association in which you are coerced to engage in commercial activity with them and become subject to their pagan laws.

On the subject of “exempt”, the U.S. Supreme Court has held the following:

In imposing a tax, says Mr. Chief Justice Marshall, the legislature acts upon its constituents. "All subjects," he adds, "over which the power of a State extends are objects of taxation, but those over which it does not extend are, upon the soundest principles, exempt from taxation. This proposition may almost be pronounced self-evident." McCulloch v. Maryland 4 Wheat. 316, 428.

[United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882)]

From the above, we can see that:

1. The civil laws enacted by the legislature act ONLY upon “constituents” and “subjects”. They DO NOT act upon “all people”, but only on “constituents” and “subjects”.
2. You have to VOLUNTEER to become a “constituent” or “subject”. See: Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002 http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm
3. “Constituents” and “subjects” include STATUTORY “citizens” pursuant to 8 U.S.C. §1401, 26 U.S.C. §3121(e) and 26 C.F.R. §1.11-1(c) and exclude CONSTITUTIONAL citizens, who are “non-residents” under federal statutory law. If you are not a STATUTORY citizen, which the court calls a “SUBJECT” or “constituent”, then you can’t be taxed. The court refers to those who can’t be taxed as “aliens”, and they can only mean STATUTORY aliens, not CONSTITUTIONAL aliens.
4. Federal tax liability is a CIVIL liability, and therefore, those who are not STATUTORY citizens domiciled on federal territory cannot have such a CIVIL liability.
5. Like most other legal “words of art”, there are TWO contexts in which the word “exempt” can be used:
   5.1. Statutory law. This includes people who are “subjects” or “constituents”, but who otherwise are granted a privilege or exemption by virtue of their circumstances. An example would be the “exempt individual” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(5).
   5.2. Common law. This implies people who never consented to be and therefore are NOT “subjects” or “constituents”. Those who are NOT “subjects”, are “not subject”.

1.1.1.1 Earnings “not taxable by the Federal Government under the Constitution”

The present treasury regulations RECOGNIZE that earnings can be “not taxable by the Federal Government under the Constitution” WITHOUT being “exempt” under the Internal Revenue Code. Earlier versions of the Internal Revenue Code and Treasury Regulations refer to this type of exemption as “fundamental law. Earnings “Not taxable by the Federal Government under the Constitution” are recognized in 26 C.F.R. §1.312-6:

Title 21
Part I- Income Taxes
§ 1.312-6 Earnings and profits.

(b) Among the items entering into the computation of corporate earnings and profits for a particular period are all income exempted by statute, income not taxable by the Federal Government under the Constitution, as well as all items includible in gross income under section 61 or corresponding provisions of prior revenue acts. Gains and losses within the purview of section 1002 or corresponding provisions of prior revenue acts are brought into the earnings and profits at the time and to the extent such gains and losses are recognized under that section. Interest on State bonds and certain other obligations, although not taxable when received by a corporation, is taxable to the same extent as other dividends when distributed to shareholders in the form of dividends.
This omission is designed to make you believe that the ONLY way to avoid a tax liability is to find a STATUTORY “exemption” or to be a statutory “exempt individual” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(5). This is clearly a ruse designed to DEceive and ENslave YOU.

The early U.S. Supreme Court recognized CONSTITUTIONAL but not statutory exemptions when it held:

“All subjects,” he adds, “over which the power of a State extends are objects of taxation, but those over which it does not extend are, upon the soundest principles, exempt from taxation. This proposition may almost be pronounced self-evident.” McCulloch v. Maryland, 4 Wheat. 316, 428.

There are limitations upon the powers of all governments, without any express designation of them in their organic law; limitations which inhere in their very nature and structure, and this is one of them,—that no rightful authority can be exercised by them over alien subjects, or citizens resident abroad or over their property there situated. This doctrine may be said to be axiomatic . . .”

[United States v. Erie R. Co., 106 U.S. 327 (1882)]

The Internal Revenue Code very deliberately does NOT define what is “not taxable by the Federal Government under the Constitution”. If they did, they probably would lose MOST of their income tax revenues! The U.S. Supreme Court calls the Constitution “fundamental law” in Marbury v. Madison.

“Certainly all those who have framed written constitutions contemplate them as forming the fundamental and paramount law of the nation, and, consequently, the theory of every such government must be, that an act of the legislature, repugnant to the constitution, is void.”

[Marbury v. Madison, 5 U.S. 137 (1803)]

The Founding Fathers in the Federalist Papers also recognized the U.S.A. Constitution as fundamental law:

“No legislative act [including a statutory presumption] contrary to the Constitution can be valid. To deny this would be to affirm that the deputy (agent) is greater than his principal; that the servant is above the master; that the representatives of the people are superior to the people; that men, acting by virtue of powers may do not only what their powers do not authorize, but what they forbid...[text omitted] It is not otherwise to be supposed that the Constitution could intend to enable the representatives of the people to substitute their will to that of their constituents. It is far more rational to suppose, that the courts were designed to be an intermediate body between the people and the legislature, in order, among other things, to keep the latter within the limits assigned to their authority. The interpretation of the laws is the proper and peculiar province of the courts. A Constitution is, in fact, and must be regarded by judges, as fundamental law. If there should happen to be an irreconcilable variance between the two, the Constitution is to be preferred to the statute.”

[Alexander Hamilton, Federalist Paper # 78]

Earlier versions of the Internal Revenue Code and Treasury Regulations recognized in the statutes themselves exemptions under “fundamental law”:

Treasury Regulations of (1939)

“Sec. 29.21-I. Meaning of net income. The tax imposed by chapter 1 is upon income. Neither income exempted by statute or fundamental law... enter into the computation of net income as defined by section 21.”

Internal Revenue Code (1939)

“Sec 22(b). No other items are exempt from gross income except

(1) those items of income which are, under the Constitution, not taxable by the Federal Government;

(2) those items of income which are exempt from tax on income under the provisions of any Act of Congress still in effect; and

(3) the income exempted under the provisions of section 116.”

Not surprisingly, the IRS also does NOT provide a line or box on any tax form we have seen to deduct “income exempt by fundamental law”. They do this in order to create the false PREsumption that everything you earn is taxable. The U.S. Supreme Court, however, recognized that not EVERYTHING you earn is “income” or falls into the category of “gross income”.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

“What we must reject in this case, as we have rejected in cases arising under the Corporation Excise Tax Act of 1909 (Doyle, Collector, v. Mitchell Brothers Co., 247 U.S. 179, 38 Sup.Ct. 467, 62 L.Ed.--), the broad contention submitted on behalf of the government that all receipts—everything that comes in—are income within the proper definition of the term ‘gross income,’ and that the entire proceeds of a conversion of capital assets, in whatever form and under whatever circumstances accomplished, should be treated as gross income. Certainly the term ‘income’ has no broader meaning in the 1913 act than in that of 1909 (see Stratton’s Independence v. Howbert, 231 U.S. 399, 416, 417 S., 34 Sup.Ct. 136), and for the present purpose we assume there is no difference in its meaning as used in the two acts.” [Southern Pacific Co. v. Lowe, 247 U.S. 330, 335, 38 S.Ct. 540 (1918)]

What the U.S. Supreme Court is recognizing indirectly above is that the income tax is an excise tax on the “trade or business” (public office) activity, and that only earnings connected to that activity constitute “income” or “gross income”. Such earnings, in turn, are the only earnings reportable on an information return under 26 U.S.C. §6041(a). The statutory definition of “income” itself in the I.R.C. also recognizes that not everything one makes is “income”:

TITLE 26 > Subtitle A > CHAPTER 1 > Subchapter J > PART I > Subpart A > § 643
§ 643. Definitions applicable to subparts A, B, C, and D

(b) Income

For purposes of this subpart and subparts B, C, and D, the term “income”, when not preceded by the words “taxable”, “distributable net”, “undistributed net”, or “gross”, means the amount of income of the estate or trust for the taxable year determined under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law.

Items of gross income constituting extraordinary dividends or taxable stock dividends which the fiduciary, acting in good faith, determines to be allocable to corpus under the terms of the governing instrument and applicable local law shall not be considered income.

The “trust” they are talking about above is the PUBLIC trust, meaning the national government. PRIVATE trusts are not engaged in the “trade or business” excise taxable activity because the ability to regulate or tax PRIVATE activity or PRIVATE rights is repugnant to the constitution. The “estate” they are talking about is that of a deceased public officer and not private human being.

1.1.1.2 Avoiding deception on government tax forms

There are two ways that one can use to describe oneself on government forms:

1. “Exempt”. This is a person who is otherwise subject to the provision of law administering the form because they are an “individual” or “person” and yet who is expressly made exempt by a particular provision of the statutes forming the franchise agreement. This option appears on most government forms.

2. “Not subject”. This would be equivalent to a nonresident “nontaxpayer” who is not a “person” or franchisee within the meaning of the statute in question. You almost never see this option on government forms.

There is a world of difference between these two statuses and we MUST understand the difference before we can know whether or how to fill out a specific government form describing our status. In this section we will show you how to choose the correct status above and all the affects that this status has on how we fill out government forms.

We will begin our explanation with an illustration. If you are domiciled in California, you would describe yourself as “subject” to the laws in California. However, in relation to the laws of every other civil jurisdiction outside of California, you would describe yourself as:

1. “Not subject” to the civil laws of that place unless you are physically visiting that place.

2. Not ANYTHING described in the civil law that the government has jurisdiction over or may impose a “duty” upon, such as a “person”, “individual”, “taxpayer”, etc.

3. Not a “foreign person” because not a “person” under the civil law.

4. “foreign”.

5. A “nonresident”.

6. A “transient foreigner”.

A human being who is domiciled in California, for instance, would not be subject to the civil laws of China unless he was either visiting China or engaged in commerce within the legislative jurisdiction of China with people who were domiciled...
there and therefore protected by the civil laws there. He would not describe himself as being “exempt” from the laws of China, because one cannot be “exempt” without FIRST also being “subject” by having a domicile or residence within that foreign jurisdiction. Another way of stating this is that he would not be a “person” under the civil laws of China and would be “foreign” unless and until he either physically moved there or changed his domicile or residence to that place and thereby became a “protected person” subject to the civil jurisdiction of the Chinese government.

All income taxation within the United States of America takes the form of an excise tax upon an “activity” implemented by the civil law. In the case of the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A, that activity is called a “trade or business”. This fact exhaustively proven in the following amazing article:

The “Trade or Business” Scam. Form #05.001
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

A “trade or business” is then defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) as follows:

Those who therefore lawfully engage in a public office in the U.S. government BEFORE they sign or submit any tax form are then described as a “franchisee” called a “taxpayer” under the terms of the excise tax or franchise agreement codified in Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A. Those who are not “public officers” also cannot lawfully “elect” themselves into “public office” by signing or submitting a tax form either, because this would constitute impersonating an officer or employee of the government in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912. This is confirmed by 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(31), which describes all those who are nonresident within the “United States” (federal territory not within any state of the Union) and not engaged in the “trade or business’”/”public office” activity as being a “foreign estate”, which simply means “not subject”, to the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A franchise or excise tax:

The entity or “person” described above would NOT be “exempt”, but rather simply “not subject”. The reason is that the term “exempt” has a specific legal definition that does not include the situation above. Notice that the term “exempt” is used along with the word “individual”, meaning that you must be a “person” and an “individual” BEFORE you can call yourself “exempt”:

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don't Owe Income Tax, version 4.54
TOP SECRET: For Official Treasury/IRS Use Only (FOUO) Copyright Family Guardian Fellowship http://famguardian.org/
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

An individual is an exempt individual for any day if, for such day, such individual is:

(i) a foreign government-related individual,

(ii) a teacher or trainee,

(iii) a student, or

(iv) a professional athlete who is temporarily in the United States to compete in a charitable sports event described in section 274(f)(1)(B).

(B) Foreign government-related individual

The term “foreign government-related individual” means any individual temporarily present in the United States by reason of:

(i) diplomatic status, or a visa which the Secretary (after consultation with the Secretary of State) determines represents full-time diplomatic or consular status for purposes of this subsection,

(ii) being a full-time employee of an international organization, or

(iii) being a member of the immediate family of an individual described in clause (i) or (ii).

(C) Teacher or trainee

The term “teacher or trainee” means any individual:

(i) who is temporarily present in the United States under subparagraph (J) or (Q) of section 101(15) of the Immigration and Nationality Act (other than as a student), and

(ii) who substantially complies with the requirements for being so present.

(D) Student

The term “student” means any individual:

(i) who is temporarily present in the United States -

(II) as a student under subparagraph (J) or (Q) of such section 101(15), and (ii) who substantially complies with the requirements for being so present.

(E) Special rules for teachers, trainees, and students

(i) Limitation on teachers and trainees

An individual shall not be treated as an exempt individual by reason of clause (ii) of subparagraph (A) for the current year if, for any 2 calendar years during the preceding 6 calendar years, such person was an exempt person under clause (ii) or (iii) of subparagraph (A). In the case of an individual all of whose compensation is described in section 872(b)(3), the preceding sentence shall be applied by substituting “4 calendar years” for “2 calendar years”.

(ii) Limitation on students

For any calendar year after the 5th calendar year for which an individual was an exempt individual under clause (ii) or (iii) of subparagraph (A), such individual shall not be treated as an exempt individual by reason of clause (iii) of subparagraph (A), unless such individual establishes to the satisfaction of the Secretary that such individual does not intend to permanently reside in the United States and that such individual meets the requirements of subparagraph (D)(ii).

The Internal Revenue Code itself does not and cannot regulate the conduct of those who are not “taxpayers”.
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax 5-1074

“Revenue Laws relate to taxpayers [officers, employees, and elected officials of the Federal Government] and not to non-taxpayers [American Citizens/American Nationals not subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Government]. The latter are without their scope. No procedures are prescribed for non-taxpayers and no attempt is made to annul any of their Rights or Remedies in due course of law.” [Economy Plumbing & Heating v. U.S., 470 F.2d. 585 (1972)]

Consequently, all tax forms you (a human being) fill out PRESUPPOSE that the applicant filling it out is a franchisee called a “taxpayer” who occupies a public office within the U.S. government and who is therefore a statutory “person”, “individual”, “employee”, and public officer under 5 U.S.C. §2105(a). Since the Internal Revenue Code is civil law, it also must presuppose that all “persons” or “individuals” described within it are domiciled on federal territory that is no part of a state of the Union. This is confirmed by the definition of “United States” found in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d), which is defined as federal territory and not part of any state of the Union. If you do not lawfully occupy such a public office, it would therefore constitute fraud and impersonating a public officer in violation of 18 U.S.C. §912 to even fill such a form out. If a company hands a “nontaxpayer” a tax form to fill out, the only proper response is ALL of the following, and any other response will result in the commission of a crime:

1. To not complete or sign any provision of the form.
2. To line out the entire form.
3. To write above the line “Not Applicable”.
4. To NOT select the “exempt” option within the form or select any status at all on the form. If you aren’t subject to the Internal Revenue Code because you don’t have a domicile on federal territory and don’t engage in taxable activities, then you can’t be described as a “person”, “individual”, “taxpayer”, or anything else who might be subject to the I.R.C.

“The foregoing considerations would lead, in case of doubt, to a construction of any statute as intended to be confined in its operation and effect to the territorial limits over which the lawmaker has general and legitimate power. ‘All legislation is prima facie territorial.’ Ex parte Blain, L. R. 12 Ch.Div. 522, 528; State v. Carter, 27 N.J.L. 499; People v. Merrill, 2 Park.Crim.Rep. 590, 596. Words having universal scope, such as ‘every contract in restraint of trade,’ ‘every person who shall monopolize,’ etc., will be taken, as a matter of course, to mean only everyone subject to such legislation, not all that the legislator subsequently may be able to catch.

In the case of the present statute, the improbability of the United States attempting to make acts done in Panama or Costa Rica criminal is obvious, yet the law begins by making criminal the acts for which it gives a right to sue. We think it entirely plain that what the defendant did in Panama or Costa Rica is not within the scope of the statute so far as the present suit is concerned. Other objections of a serious nature are urged, but need not be discussed.” [American Banana Co. v. U.S. Fruit, 213 U.S. 347 at 357-358]

5. To either not return the form to the person who asked for it or to return it with the modifications above.
6. If you return the form to the person who asked for it, to clarify on the form why you are not “exempt”, but rather “not subject”.
7. To attach the following form to the tax form:

Tax Form Attachment, Form #04.201
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

Another alternative to all the above would be to simply add a “Not subject by fundamental law” option or to select “Exempt” and then redefine the word to add the “not subject by fundamental law” option to the definition. Then you could attach the Tax Form Attachment mentioned above, which also redefines words on the government form to immunize yourself from government jurisdiction.

If we had an honorable government that loved the people under its care and protection more than it loved deceiving you out of and stealing your money, then they would indicate at the top of the form in big bold letters EXACTLY what laws are being enforced and who the intended audience is so that those who are not required to fill it out would not do so. However, if they did that, hardly anyone would ever pay taxes again. Of this SCAM, the Bible and a famous bible commentary says the following:

“Getting treasures by a lying tongue [or by deliberate omission intended to deceive] is the fleeting fantasy of those who seek death.” [Prov. 21:6; Bible, NKJV]

“As religion towards God is a branch of universal righteousness (he is not an honest man that is not devout), so righteousness towards men is a branch of true religion, for he is not a godly man that is not honest, nor can he expect that his devotion should be accepted; for, 1. Nothing is more offensive to God than deceit in commerce. A false balance is here put for all manner of unjust and fraudulent practices [of our public dis-servants] in

1. This form is only intended for those who satisfy all the following conditions:

“Revenue Laws relate to taxpayers [officers, employees, and elected officials of the Federal Government] and not to non-taxpayers [American Citizens/American Nationals not subject to the exclusive jurisdiction of the Federal Government]. The latter are without their scope. No procedures are prescribed for non-taxpayers and no attempt is made to annul any of their Rights or Remedies in due course of law. With them [non-taxpayers] Congress does not assume to deal and they are neither of the subject nor of the object of federal revenue laws.”

[Economy Plumbing & Heating v. U.S., 470 F.2d. 585 (1972)]

1.2. Lawfully engaged in a “public office” in the U.S. government, which is called a “trade or business” in the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A at 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26).

1.3. Exercising the public office ONLY within the District of Columbia as required by 4 U.S.C. §72, which is within the only remaining internal revenue district, as confirmed by Treasury Order 150-02.

4. If you do not satisfy all the requirements indicated above, then you DO NOT need to fill out this form, nor can you claim the status of “ exempt”.

5. This form is ONLY for use by “taxpayers”. If you are a “nontaxpayer”, then we don’t have a form you can use to document your status. This is because our mission statement only allows us to help “taxpayers”. It is self-defeating to help “nontaxpayers” because it only undermines our revenue and importance. We are a business and we only focus our energies on things that make money for us, such as deceiving “nontaxpayers” into thinking they are “taxpayers”. That is why we don’t put a “nontaxpayer” or “not subject” option on our forms: Because we want to self-servingly and prejudicially presume that EVERYONE is engaged in our franchise and subject to our plunder and control.

Internal Revenue Manual (I.R.M.) 1.1.1.1 (02-26-1999)
IRS Mission and Basic Organization

The IRS Mission: Provide America’s taxpayers top quality service by helping them understand and meet their tax responsibilities and by applying the tax law with integrity and fairness to all.

We hope that you have learned from this section that:

1. He who makes the rules or the forms always wins the game. The power to create includes the power to define.

2. All government forms are snares or traps designed to trap the innocent and ignorant into servitude to the whims of corrupted politicians and lawyers.

“The Lord is well pleased for His righteousness’ sake; He will exalt the law and make it honorable. But this is a people robbed and plundered! [by the IRS] All of them are snared in [legal] holes [by the sophistry of greedy IRS lawyers], and they are hidden in prison houses; they are for prey, and no one delivers; for plunder, and no one says, “Restore”.

Who among you will give ear to this? Who will listen and hear for the time to come? Who gave Jacob for plunder, and Israel to the robbers? [IRS! Was it not the Lord, He against whom we have sinned? For they would not walk in His ways, nor were they obedient to His law, therefore He has poured on him the fury of His anger and the strength of battle; it has set him on fire all around, yet he did not know; and it burned him, yet he did not take it to heart.”

[Isaiah 42:21-25, Bible, NKJV]

3. The snare is the presumptions which they deliberately do not disclose on the forms and which are buried in the “words
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

4. The main reason for reading and learning the law is to reveal all the presumptions and deceptive “words of art” that are hidden on government forms so that you can avoid them.

"My [God’s] people are destroyed [and enslaved] for lack of knowledge [of God’s Laws and the lack of education that produces it].”
[Hosea 4:6, Bible, NKJV]

"And thou shalt teach them ordinances and laws [of both God and man], and shalt shew them the way wherein they must walk, and the work [of obedience to God] that they must do."
[Exodus 18:20, Bible, NKJV]

"This Book of the Law shall not depart from your mouth, but you shall meditate in it day and night, that you may observe to do according to all that is written in it. For then you will make your way prosperous, and then you will have good success. Have I not commanded you? Be strong and of good courage; do not be afraid, nor be dismayed, for the Lord your God is with you wherever you go."
[Joshua 1:8-9, Bible, NKJV]

5. Government forms deliberately do not disclose the presumptions that are being made about the proper audience for the form in order to maximize the possibility that they can exploit your legal ignorance to induce you to make a “tithe” to their state-sponsored civil religion and church of socialism. That religion is exhaustively described below:

Socialism: The New American Civil Religion, Form #05.016
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

6. All government forms are designed to encourage you to waive sovereign immunity and engage in commerce with the government. Government does not make forms for those who refuse to do business with them such as “nontaxpayers”, “nonresidents”, or “transient foreigners”. If you want a form that accurately describes your status as a “nontaxpayer” and which preserves your sovereignty and sovereign immunity, you will have to design your own. Government is never going to make it easy to reduce their own revenues, importance, power, or control over you. Everyone in the government is there because they want the largest possible audience of “customers” for their services. Another way of saying this is that they are going to do everything within their power to rig things so that it is impossible to avoid contracting with or doing business with them. This approach has the effect of compelling you to contract with them in violation of Article 1, Section 10 of the Constitution, which is supposed to protect your right to NOT contract with the government.

7. The Thirteenth Amendment prohibits involuntary servitude. Consequently, the government cannot lawfully impose any duty, including the duty to fill out or submit a government form. Therefore, you should view every opportunity that presents itself to fill out a government form as an act of contracting away your rights.

8. In the case of government tax forms, the purpose of all government tax forms is to ask the following presumptuous and prejudicial question:

“What kind of ‘taxpayer’ are you?”

. . .rather than the question:

“Are you a ‘taxpayer’?”

The above approach results in what the legal profession refers to as a “leading question”, which is a question contaminated by a prejudicial presumption and therefore inadmissible as evidence. Federal Rule of Evidence 611(c) expressly forbids such leading questions to be used as evidence, which is also why no IRS form can really qualify as evidence that can be used against anyone: It doesn’t offer a “nontaxpayer” or a “foreigner” option. An example of such a question is the following:

“Have you always beat your wife?”

The presumption hidden within the above leading question is that you are a “wife beater”. Replace the word “wife beater” with “taxpayer” and you know the main method by which the IRS stays in business.

9. If none of the above traps, or “springes” as the U.S. Supreme Court calls them, work against you, the last line of defense the IRS uses is to FORCE you to admit you are a “taxpayer” by:

9.1. Telling you that you MUST have a “Taxpayer Identification Number”.

9.2. Telling you that BECAUSE you have such a number, you MUST be a “taxpayer”.

9.3. Refusing to talk on the phone until you disclose a “Taxpayer Identification Number” to them. We tell them that it is a NONTAXPAYER Identification Number (NIN), and make them promise to treat us as a NONTAXPAYER before it will be disclosed. We also send them an update to the original TIN application making it a NONTAXPAYER number and establishing an anti-franchise franchise that makes THEM liable if they use the number for any commercial purpose that benefits them. 5.6.13.2.5 Illegally and FRAUDULENTLY Filing the WRONG return, the IRS 1040

Only persons with a domicile in the statutory “United States”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) as federal territory not within any constitutional State of the Union, may lawfully file IRS Form 1040. This is confirmed by IRS Published Products Catalog (2003), Document 7130, the IRS Published Products Catalog, which says the following:

1040A  11327A  Each
U.S. Individual Income Tax Return

Annual income tax return filed by citizens and residents of the United States. There are separate instructions available for this item. The catalog number for the instructions is 12088U.

W:CAR:MP:FP:F:1 Tax Form or Instructions
[IRS Published Products Catalog, Year 2003, p. F-15]

The above is also confirmed by the IRS 1040 Instruction Booklet itself, which says at the top of the page describing the filing requirement the following:

Filing Requirements

These rules apply to all U.S. citizens, regardless of where they live, and resident aliens.

[IRS 1040 Instruction Booklet (2001), p. 15;

What the above deceptive publication very conveniently and deliberately doesn’t tell you are the following very important facts:

1. The “U.S. citizen” they are referring to above is a statutory “U.S. citizen” defined in 8 U.S.C. §1401.
2. You cannot be either a statutory “U.S. citizen” or a “resident” (alien) unless you have a domicile on federal territory within the “United States”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) as the District of Columbia and territories and possessions of the United States and nowhere “expressly extended” to include any other place.
3. Persons born within and domiciled within states of the Union do not have a domicile in the “United States” and therefore cannot lawfully be statutory “U.S. citizens” or “residents” (aliens), but rather are non-residents. They are also “nonresident aliens” per 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) but only if they are engaged in a public office. If they claim to be a “U.S. citizen” on a federal form, they are committing a crime in violation of 18 U.S.C. §911.
4. The only way that the place where you physically live is irrelevant as mentioned above is under Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17, which says that if you are acting in a representative capacity as a “public officer” within the federal corporation called the “United States”, the laws of the place of incorporation of the corporation apply, regardless of where you physically are. THE OFFICE has a domicile in the District of Columbia and while you fill it, your effective domicile is also there, regardless of where you live. ONLY in this condition is the place you live irrelevant. It is furthermore a criminal violation of 18 U.S.C. §912 for a private person not lawfully elected into public office consistent with federal law to serve in a public office or “pretend” to be a public officer engaged in the “trade or business” franchise.

The group of persons that includes statutory “U.S. citizens” and “residents” (aliens) who collectively are the only ones who can lawfully file IRS Form 1040 above are called “U.S. persons”, and they are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30). A nonresident alien is NOT a “U.S. person” and may NOT lawfully elect to be treated as one if he is NOT married to one. The only authority for making an election as a nonresident alien to be treated as a “resident alien” is if he is married to one and...
Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

1. wants to file jointly pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6013(g) and (h) and 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4)(B). This option is discussed in the next section.

People born with and/or domiciled within states of the Union are statutory “non-resident non-persons”, and most of them are ILLEGALLY filing IRS Form 1040 and thereby:

1. Making an ILLEGAL election to be treated as “resident aliens” when no statute authorizes it.
4. Needlessly subjecting themselves to the jurisdiction of federal district courts that would otherwise be “foreign” in relation to them if they had properly described their status as nonresident aliens.

The above is a HUGE mistake on their part and a FRAUD on the IRS’ part. The IRS looks the other way and permits this, because this is how they ILLEGALLY manufacture nearly all of the “taxpayers” who they illegally terrorize, uhhhh, I mean “service”. Any refunds paid out to nonresident aliens who filed IRS Form 1040 and who have not made a lawful election as a person married to a “U.S. person” are unauthorized and unlawful, and would be cognizable under the following I.R.C. provisions:

2. 26 U.S.C. §7206: Fraud and false statements

Those who would argue otherwise are asked to produce the statute AND implementing regulation specifically authorizing nonresident aliens who are NOT married to “U.S. persons” to make an election to be treated as “resident aliens”. It doesn’t exist!

5.6.13.2.6 Making a lawful election on a government form to become a “resident”

The government has a vested interest to maximize the number of “taxpayers”. Their authority to impose an income tax has as a prerequisite a “domicile” within the “United States”, which is defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(9) and (a)(10) and 4 U.S.C. §110(d) to include only federal territory not within any Constitutional state of the Union and is not expanded elsewhere under Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A to include states of the Union:

“Thus, the Court has frequently held that domicile or residence, more substantial than mere presence in transit or sojourn, is an adequate basis for taxation, including income, property, and death taxes. Since the Fourteenth Amendment makes one a citizen of the state wherein he resides, the fact of residence creates universally reciprocal duties of protection by the state and of allegiance and support by the citizen. The latter obviously includes a duty to pay taxes, and their nature and measure is largely a political matter. Of course, the situs of property may tax it regardless of the citizenship, domicile, or residence of the owner, the most obvious illustration being a tax on realty laid by the state in which the realty is located.”

[Miller Brothers Co. v. Maryland, 347 U.S. 340 (1954)]

If you would like to learn more about the relationship of domicile to income taxation, please read the following free article:

Why Domicile and Becoming a “Taxpayer” Require Your Consent, Form #05.002
http://sedm.org/Forms/FormIndex.htm

As we have repeatedly pointed out throughout this document, people born in and domiciled within states of the Union are “nationals” or “state nationals” and not statutory “U.S. citizens”. They are “Citizens” under the Fourteenth Amendment but NOT statutory “citizens of the United States” under 8 U.S.C. §1401. The only real “taxpayers” on an IRS Form 1040 are “aliens” of one kind or another. IRS Published Products Catalog (2003), Document 7130, in fact, says that the only people who can use IRS Form 1040 are “citizens and residents of the United States”, both of whom have in common a domicile within the statutory “United States”, meaning federal territory. Collectively, “citizens and residents of the United States” having a domicile on federal territory within the statutory “United States” are called “U.S. persons” and are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(30). Therefore, the government has a vested interest in making “nonresident aliens” in states of the Union into “resident aliens”. They do this primarily by encouraging nonresident aliens to volunteer to engage in privileged, excise taxable activities. Under subtitle A of the Internal Revenue Code, the only such taxable activity is a “trade or business” or a public office.

Chapter 5: The Evidence: Why We Aren’t Liable to File Returns or Pay Income Tax

In order to learn how the federal government manufactures “taxpayers” out of “nontaxpayers”, we therefore should be looking for ways in which “nonresident aliens” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(B) and domiciled in the states of the Union are turned into “resident aliens” as defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). From a high level view, it would appear simple, because the only way nonresident alien can become a resident is by changing his domicile and declaring that change on government forms. As our research reveals, this process is a lot more devious and indirect than that. It is so subtle that most people miss it. Once we found out how it was accomplished and identified it in our publications, they immediately hid the evidence!

This ingenious process our corrupted politicians invented to manufacture more “taxpayers” out of people in the states of the Union who started out as nonresident alien “nontaxpayers” is essentially the mechanism by which our public dis-servants destroy the separation of powers that is at the heart of the United States Constitution and thereby assault and destroy our rights and liberties. That separation of powers is insightfully described in the article below:

http://famguardian.org/Subjects/LawAndGovt/Articles/SeparationOfPowersDoctrine.htm

A breakdown of the separation of taxing authority can only occur by the voluntary consent of the people themselves. The states cannot facilitate that breakdown of the separation of powers:

“State officials thus cannot consent to the enlargement of the powers of Congress beyond those enumerated in the Constitution.”

[New York v. United States, 505 U.S. 142: 112 S.Ct. 2408; 120 L.Ed.2d. 120 (1992)]

That consent to allow federal income taxation within states of the Union requires a voluntary personal exercise of our private right to contract. Our right to contract is the most dangerous right we have, because the exercise of that right can destroy ALL of our other rights, folks! The most dangerous thing about this right is that if we use it unwisely, the government cannot come to our aid. The purpose of the United States Constitution, in fact, is to protect its exercise and it forbids any state, in Article 1, Section 10, to pass any law that would impair the obligation of any contract we sign. The abuse of your right to contract is as dangerous as the abuse of your pecker can be to your marriage, your family, and the lives of generations of people yet unborn!

A person domiciled in a state of the Union, who starts out as a “nonresident alien”, can become a “resident”, a “taxpayer”, and an “individual” under the Internal Revenue Code by making the necessary “elections” in order to be treated as a “resident” engaged in “a trade or business” instead of a “nonresident alien” not engaged in a “trade or business”. That election is made as follows:

1. If the “nonresident alien” voluntarily signs and submits Social Security Administration Form SS-5, he becomes a “resident alien”. 20 C.F.R. §422.104 says that only “citizens and permanent residents” are eligible to join the program. “nonresident aliens are NOT eligible, so they must voluntarily consent or “elect” to become a “resident” by private law/agreement in order to join.

Note also that the “nonresident alien” must ALSO become a federal “employee” or “public officer” in order to join, because the above regulation appears in Title 20, which is entitled “Employee benefits”. Congress cannot legislate for private employees, but only its own “public employees” or “public officers”, and those officers must be engaged in a taxable “trade or business” in order to pay for the employment privileges that they are availing themselves of:

The Great IRS Hoax: Why We Don’t Owe Income Tax, version 4.54

By becoming a "public officer", you agree to act as a trustee and officer of the "U.S. Inc." corporation defined in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A), which has a domicile in the District of Columbia. Therefore, your domicile assumes that of the corporation you represent pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b). The exact mechanisms for how the Social Security System transforms a "nonresident alien" into a "resident alien federal employee" are described in detail in the following informative pamphlet:

Resignation of Compelled Social Security Trustee, Form #06.002

http://sedm.org/Forms/FormINDEX.htm

2. Pursuant to 26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3(a), a "nonresident alien" may submit an IRS Form W-4 to his private employer and thereby elect to call his earnings "wages", which makes him "effectively connected with a trade or business". This means, according to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) that he is engaged in a "public office".

26 C.F.R. §31.3401(a)-3 Amounts deemed wages under voluntary withholding agreements

(a) In general.

Notwithstanding the exceptions to the definition of wages specified in section 3401(a) and the regulations thereunder, the term "wages" includes the amounts described in paragraph (b)(1) of this section with respect to which there is a voluntary withholding agreement in effect under section 3402(p). References in this chapter to the definition of wages contained in section 3401(a) shall be deemed to refer also to this section (§31.3401(a)-3).

Once you begin earning "wages", your compensation is documented and reported on a W-2 pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §6041, which says that only "trade or business" earnings can be reported on a W-2. This means, according to 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(26) that the worker is engaged in a "public office". 4 U.S.C. §72 says that all public offices exist ONLY in the District of Columbia, and therefore, you consented to be treated as a "resident" of the District of Columbia for the purposes of the income tax, because you are representing a federal corporation in the District of Columbia as a "public officer" and your effective domicile is the domicile of the corporation pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b):

TITLE 4 > CHAPTER 3 > § 72
§ 72. Public offices; at seat of Government

All offices attached to the seat of government shall be exercised in the District of Columbia, and not elsewhere, except as otherwise expressly provided by law.

3. Pursuant to 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(4) and 26 U.S.C. §6013(g), he can decide to file an IRS Form 1040, and thereby become a "resident alien". IRS Published Products Catalog (2003), Document 7130 identifies the IRS Form 1040 as being only suitable for use by "citizens and residents of the United States". The "individual" in the title "U.S. Individual Income Tax Return" means a "resident alien" in that scenario. This is explained in the following sources:

- Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.5.3: You’re Not a U.S. citizen if you file a 1040 form, You’re an alien
- Great IRS Hoax, Form #11.302, Section 5.5.4 entitled: “You’re not the U.S. citizen mentioned at the top of the 1040 form if you are a U.S. citizen domiciled in the federal United States”

4. After making the above elections, if the IRS then writes us some friendly “dear taxpayer” letters, and we respond and don’t deny that we are “taxpayers” or provide exculpatory proof that we are not, then we are admitting that:

- 4.1. We are subject to the IRC.
- 4.2. We are “taxpayers”.

The bottom line is that if you act like a duck and quack like one, then the IRS is going to think you are one! That deception usually occurs because we deceived the government about our true status by either filling out the wrong form, or filing the right form out incorrectly and in a way that does not represent our true status. This is covered in our article below:

"Taxpayer" v. "Nontaxpayer": Which one are You?, Family Guardian Fellowship

http://famguardian.org/Subjects/Taxes/Articles/TaxpayerVNontaxpayer.htm
Through the elections made by the nonresident alien above, it contractually agreed to become a representative of a legal fiction that is a “resident” or “resident alien” or “permanent resident”, all of which are equivalent and are defined in 26 U.S.C. §7701(b)(1)(A). A “resident” is within the legislative jurisdiction of the of “United States”. A “domicile” or “residence” is what puts them within the legislative jurisdiction of the “United States”. The “nonresident alien” therefore became a “resident alien” not because they have a physical presence there, but because the SS-5 federal employment contract they signed made them into “representatives” and “public officers” for the federal corporation called the “United States”. Pursuant to Federal Rule of Civil Procedure 17(b), their effective domicile or residence is that of the federal corporation they represent, which is the “United States”, as indicated in 28 U.S.C. §3002(15)(A). That corporation, like all corporations, is a “citizen” of the place of its incorporation, which in this case is the District of Columbia:

“[A corporation is a citizen, resident, or inhabitant of the state or country by or under the laws of which it was created, and of that state or country only.”

[19 Corpus Juris Secundum (C.J.S.), Corporations, §§86 (2003)]

The above mechanisms for DESTROYING the sovereignty of We the People and breaking down the separation of Powers between the state and federal governments are consistent with the Foreign Sovereign Immunities Act, 28 U.S.C. §1602 to 1611. 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2) says that a foreign sovereign, such as a “nonresident alien”, surrenders their sovereign immunity by conducting “commerce” within the legislative jurisdiction of the “United States”. A nonresident alien who has accomplished one or more of the above steps meets the criteria for the surrender of sovereign immunity because:

1. He is conducting “commerce” within the legislative jurisdiction of the United States pursuant to 28 U.S.C. §1605(a)(2) as a public officer or a representative of a Social Security Trust that is a “public officer”.

Through the SS-5 federal job or contract application, the nonresident alien contractually agreed to become a federal “employee” or “public officer” engaged in a “trade or business” who is conducting “commerce” with the government. The Social Security Act and the Internal Revenue Code, Subtitle A are the “employment contract” or “franchise agreement” that they must observe while acting in a representative capacity as a “public officer”. That “franchise agreement” governs choice of law should any of the terms of the contract need to be litigated. 26 U.S.C. §7701(a)(39) and 26 U.S.C. §7408(d) say that all litigation over the terms of the contract must occur in a federal court under the laws of the District of Columbia.

Another way of saying this is that you can’t become a federal “employee” or contractor unless you agree to obey what your new boss tells you to do, and the only way that boss, the government, can direct your activities is through “law”. This is what we call a “roach trap statute”, which is a statute whose benefits entice you into a trap that causes you to acquire the equivalent of a new land-lord. Since kidnapping and identity theft are illegal, then they need your consent or permission to kidnap your legal identity or “res” and move it to the District of Columbia so that it can be “identified”
