

Millie's a sweetheart. Always ready to help out. Help out with a bake sale, a school outing or community park clean-up.

She even helped out her employer who called to ask for her Social Security number.

Well, it turned out the "nice" IRS scammed Millie out of her money when they claimed her SSN was actually a "Taxpayer Identification Number"--and then used a "Notice of Federal Tax Lien" in place of an actual Federal Tax Lien to fool county recorder officers and steal her property. It's too bad Millie didn't understand the U.S. "1040" Individual Income Tax is a tax on the National Government. Worse, its too bad employers contribute via ignorance to this problem.
